

Air Observer Program Now Opened to AF Personnel

Increased use of vital electronic equipment in military aircraft has caused a complete re-vamping of training to provide aircraft observers with a depth of special skills, as required by FEAF and all-weather operations, the Air Force revealed last week.

A new observer training plan will be embodied in the aviation cadet flying program, with the first class scheduled to start 15 September, 1951, at Ellington AFB, Tex. Aviation cadets can apply for training leading to an aircraft observer rating in the same manner that they now apply for pilot training.

The complete observer course will take 50 weeks and graduates will be commissioned 2nd Lieutenants, rated as aircraft observers and awarded wings.

Applicants must pass a class 1 or 1A physical examination as prescribed by AF Regulation 160-1. Basic training consuming 27 of the 50 weeks will consist of airmanship, physiology, aviation mathematics, basic electricity, aircraft instruments, aircraft communications, map charts, elementary navigation, radar principles, in-flight radar maintenance, bombarding theory, gunnery technicals and meteorology.

The first nine weeks of the basic course will be a screening stage which will be used to determine the mental and physical fitness of the trainee. Academic and air stages, also nine weeks in duration, follow. The three stages include a total of 100 flying hours and produce a fundamentally trained aircraft observer ready to enter specialization in one of several advanced courses including B-47 and B-36 training. These latter courses vary from ten to 26 weeks. As currently contemplated they will include heavy bombardment, medium bombardment, conventional and jet light bombardment, transport navigator, reconnaissance and interceptor observer and the electronic counter measures and aircraft performance engineer officers.

The program has been initiated after many months of study by the Directorate of Training, USAF headquarters, taking into strong account throughout the study the increasing demand placed on aircraft observers who are key men in the new type aircraft being provided in American factories.

The program is to be conducted with equipment and facilities for which funds have already been made available.

3501st Squadron First to Volunteer As Blood Donors

Sixty-seven airmen of the 3501st maintenance squadron came up with a good answer to the question, "Whatta ya want—blood?"

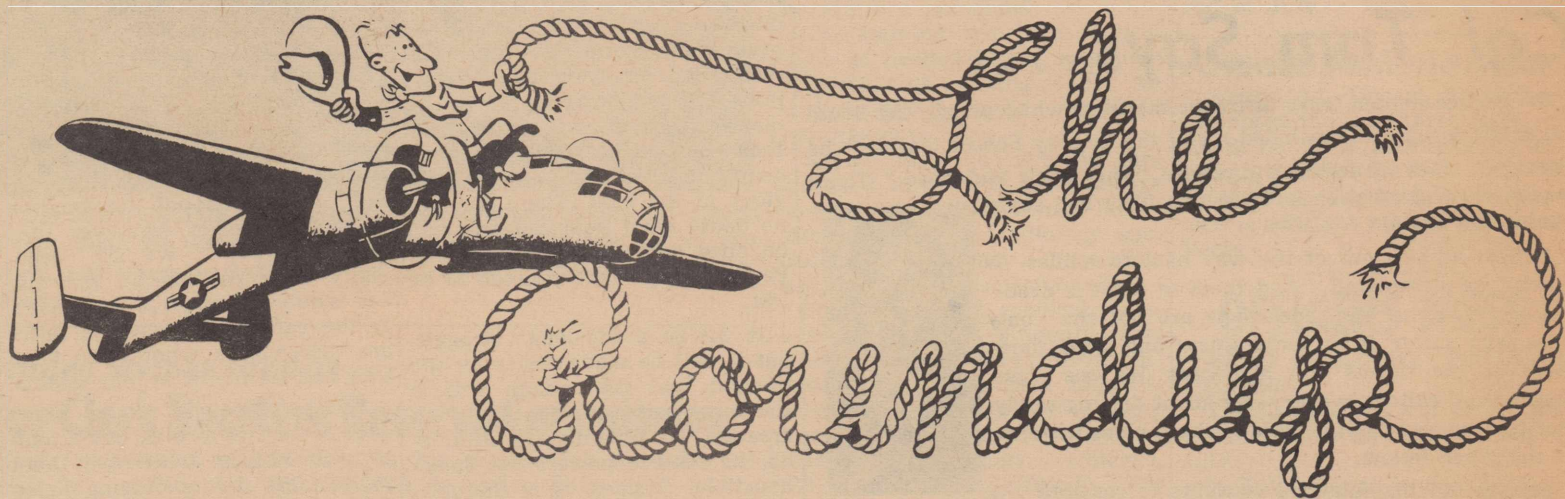

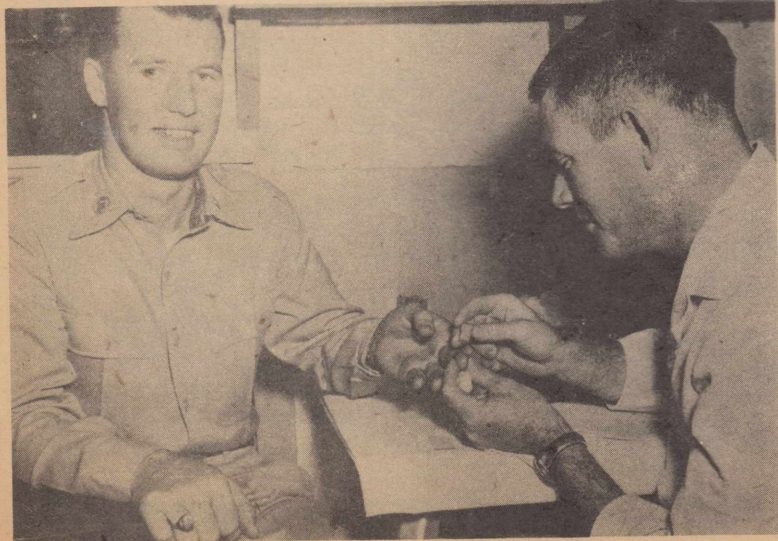

And blood, in small test quantities for listing as to future needs, is exactly what the base hospital does want. The 67 '01st airmen, under squadron CO Maj. Oliver S. McAfee, were the first in a group to respond to the hospital's plea for a list of blood donors.

Wednesday evening, laboratory officials said that 81 airmen of the Motor Vehicle squadron had volunteered this week for blood typing.

Five individuals, besides the '01st, have reported to the laboratory for testing, 1st Lt. John Lindsay, Jr., lab officer reports. "The set-up as it stands (compiling a list of base donors) seems to be working out fairly well," Lieutenant Lindsay said. "However, the supply may still be classified inadequate, and should a need for more than one transfusion

BELOW, A DROP OR TWO OF Blood easily obtained by pricking a finger with a razor-sharp scalpel blade falls on a glass slab where it is tested for blood type and RH factor by hospital lab technicians. This information and the volunteer's name is then recorded so as to be available for future emergency requirements as a blood donor. Pfc. Roy Humphreys smiles as T/Sgt. John R. Wooley operates, showing how easy it is. From the 3501st Maint. Sq. alone 67 men were tested.

Aid Society Drive Begins Monday

FIRST TO CONTRIBUTE to the 1951 Air Force Aid Society's membership campaign which starts 23 July at Reese is Pfc. Alfred C. Davis, of the Food Service Sq. He is shown dropping his spare change into one of the many containers located at cash registers throughout the base.

Base Contributions to Fund Welcomed; Col. Smith Heads Two-weeks Campaign

The Air Force Aid Society's annual membership campaign will be conducted at Reese and throughout the Air Force during the period 23 July through 4 Aug. '51.

"There'll be no quotas or pressure, only voluntary contributions," announced Lt. Col. DeWitt M. Smith, project officer and chairman of the membership committee. Key workers consisting of one officer and one airman for each squadron will do the contact work on payday. In addition, a decorated collection box will be placed in the base theater and contribution jars will be strategically located throughout the base at all cash registers.

The purpose of the Air Force Aid Society is to render financial assistance to all Air Force personnel and their dependents in times of emergency. It supplements and augments the emergency relief work of the American Red Cross.

Last year's membership campaign netted approximately $2,700 at Reese and during the last twelve months the Aid Society at Reese has made 73 loans totaling $6,256.40 and four grants totaling $397.29.

The money expended as grants and loans went to assist hardship cases resulting from:

Non-receipt of pay, non-receipt of family allowance, emergency furloughs, emergency medical, dental and hospital expenses, payment of rent to prevent eviction or to secure housing, purchase of emergency food supplies, assistance to dependents upon the death of AF personnel, assistance for funeral expenses, emergency transportation of dependents for reason of health, and emergency transportation to their permanent homes when they become stranded at or near an Air Force base.

The Aid Society is now an integral part of the recently implemented Personal Affairs program. It's located in Bldg. T-11 in the Personal Affairs section under the direction of T/Sgt. Edward Wilkerson.

Members of the committee appointed to promote, supervise, and monitor the campaign are: 1st Lt. Richard C. Burgess, T/Sgt. Wilkerson, and Miss Mary E. Luckett.

Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, has endorsed the campaign urging all to remember:

"Enthusiastic participation together with the spirit of good will and teamwork in the Aid Society membership campaign will insure the goal of one million dollars and the future welfare of Air Force personnel and their dependents."

Plan Bingo Party Soon...

Civilian Welfare Council Established

By Mrs. Katherine Nagy

Bingo for civilians and their guests! That's the news you have been waiting for!

Some time ago, every civilian at Reese Air Force Base was requested to vote for his representative on the Civilian Welfare Fund council. The council has now been set up as follows:

Col. Thomas J. Barrett, US-AF—Honorary Chairman.
John E. Boltz, Civilian Personnel Officer—Custodian of Funds.
Hue L. Gordon, Supply—President.
Mary C. Clements, Civilian Personnel—Secretary.

The Civilian Welfare Fund council is a national organization established under the provisions of Air Force Regulation 176-5. The purpose of the council is to provide personal assistance and entertainment facilities for each of its members. Every civilian employee at Reese is a member. In agreement with the policy of the National Air Force council, the Reese installation wishes to provide entertainment along with the opportunity of extra curricular association among its civilian members. There is, of course, the added incentive to accumulate enough funds so that the council can be of benefit to members when the need arises.

Your council is in the process of organizing a bingo party for ALL civilians and their guests. It is hoped that arrangements can be completed to have the bingo party early in August. Every civilian will be contacted by his representatives or appointed committeeman. It will take a heap of cooperating to make it a success. It's your council. You voted for your representatives. Help them help you.

The ROUNDUP is a civilian enterprise published every Friday in the interests of military and civilian personnel of Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock, Texas. Local news appearing here may be reprinted without obtaining specific clearance. The unprecedented wave of traffic fatalities which struck the South Plains last week-end reminded me of the Sunday School teacher who asked her class to define the phrase "The quick and dead." There was a moment of silence. Then one little boy shyly raised his hand.

"Them as gets out of the way of automobiles is quick," he stammered. "And them as don't is dead."

Unfortunately, the pedestrians are not the only ones who suffer from recklessness and poor judgment of the streets and highways. We see signs, slogans and editorials every day about driving safely. But the tendency is to think of these pleas in terms of the other fellow.

And so driving fatalities continue to consume the manpower of our nation in ever-increasing numbers. Because we think the warnings are for the other driver, we continue to obey traffic signals at our convenience, drive a little faster than the limit, and too often forget driving courtesies which sometimes mean the difference in life and death.

My favorite of all the National Safety Council slogans is this:

"Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own!"

Let's take it easy behind the wheel and give ourselves and the other fellow a better than even chance.

Flying requirements for graduation have been completed by most student officers and aviation cadets of the first class, 51-E. A few have not completed the 60-4 flying examination and probably will do so within the next three or four days. All of the cadets have finished their on-the-job-training.

The 51-Fox men are soloing the B-25 and except for a minor actual single engine on take-off with one cadet and student officer, no discrepancies have been noted.

Both sections of 5-G are beginning their B-25 checklist indoctrination given by student officers of class 51-E. Each member 51-G will receive five hours instruction on the many checklists that must be memorized before soloing the B-25.

Many comments have been heard concerning the swiftly improving appearance of the Cadet Club. It is hoped by all that the work will be finished for the dance this week-end.

SELF-DENIAL

Undoubtedly you have realized for some time that, like all other children of Adam, you are filled with cowardice, envy, impatience, sensuality, indolence, and instability. Perhaps at times you have been startled to find yourself convulsed with paroxysms of pride or fits of selfishness. You can either decide to do little or nothing about these perverse inclinations, and then you will be headed for moral disorder and damnation; or, you may determine that you are going to be master in your own house, and then you will be headed for self-denial in this life and eternal glory in the next. There can be no doubt what your decision will be once you realize that either you must overcome yourself or be lost.

It will be a life-long struggle, but it will be made easier by the thought that the human will is the most astounding thing in all creation. Its pliability is unlimited, its reserve powers are inexhaustible. Besides, it is unqualifiedly free, so that neither man nor God can force it. Only you yourself can bend it and shape it and release its prodigious strength. And this you must do, or perish in the dismal swamp of moral langour. Your only choice is between self-denial and sin.

Your object must be to let no passion guide your actions, for the passions are bad counsellors although powerful helpers. Mastery of self is an object worthy of your best efforts, worthy of the greatest sacrifice you can make. Once you conquer yourself, the world is an easy conquest.

Do not think that self-denial and mortification will make you a flinty and unlikable character. The gentlest, kindest, the most lovable personalities this world has ever known were the very ones who practiced self-denial most assiduously from their youth. Rather, the dull, disagreeable, and sour characters are those who dissipate their emotional energies in self-love and are enslaved in sinful selfishness. Undoubtedly this is because the yoke of the

Organize Work, Personnel Says Vandenberg

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, in a message sent this week to all Air Force Commands, calls attention to the great expansion program now underway in the Armed Services and stresses the conservation of our resources.

He said in part, "Every effort to use personnel effectively should be made. Methods of organizing work to increase efficiency should be studied, and appropriate action taken. Over-organization, resulting in waste of personnel, should be avoided.

"I cannot overemphasize the responsibility of each of us at all echelons to be alert to every wasteful or thoughtless practice and to take immediate steps for their elimination."

The general points out that, since resources are definitely limited, it is imperative that the military plan and time-phase its demands upon the total economy so as not to weaken the civilian economy on which the services depend for continued development.

Medics, Stenos Go to School ... Colleges Will Train 2,155 Airmen

Nine colleges and universities have been awarded contracts by the USAF to train 2,155 urgently needed technicians and specialists, it was announced last week.

Six schools will train medical technicians and three will conduct courses for stenographic personnel. All the trainees will be military personnel.

The training in private institutions is needed since maximum utilization of existing ATRC facilities cannot meet expanded requirements.

Specifically, the courses are designed to provide preventative medical specialists, dental laboratory specialists, radiology specialists, veterinary specialists and stenographic personnel.

Schools training medical techs, with number of students are: University of Denver, 500; Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences, State University of New York, 180; Century College of Medical Technology, Chicago, 200; University of Toledo, 100; Lawton School of Los Angeles, 100, and Colorado A. & M., 250.

'02nd Airmen Take Elec. Mech. Course

S-Sgt. William E. Andrews of the 3505th Field Maintenance squadron, S-Sgt. Nemesio Gonzales of the 3502nd Maintenance squadron, and Sgt. Edward B. Goodman of the 3501st Maintenance squadron, RAFB airmen, are scheduled to attend the Special Training course for Airplane Electrical Mechanic specialists at Chanute AFB, Ill., and at the end of their course to report to Wichita AFB, Kans., for duty. Andrews and Gonzales will leave this week and Goodman is scheduled for a later class.

The following schools will train 825 airmen, including 700 WAF's as stenographers: University of Alabama, 275; Oklahoma, 275, and Arizona State, 275.

Some of the courses are already in progress at this time, and others will begin around the end of July.

Joe was very proud of his new house and took his friend Jack home with him to show it off.

"My wife isn't in," said he, "so I'll show you her bedroom first." But when the door was opened, Jack was shocked to see that Joe's wife was very much at home and what's more, there was a man with her.

Joe said nothing, but led the way to the kitchen and started rummaging through the pantry. "What—what are you going to do?" stammered Jack, thinking his friend was looking for a gun. "I'm going to make some coffee." "But what about the guy upstairs?" "Oh, to heck with him. Let him make his own coffee."

Supply Sayings

By Pfc. Don Elliott

Benny Murray, son of S-Sgt. John G. Murray, will be sponsored by our squadron in the annual soap box derby to be held next Sunday.

Hopes are that we will get a glimpse of the racer soon. Lt. Earle R. Wolff, squadron adjutant, expressed our feelings when he stated that "we all feel that he will win." These words may not grow in popularity as have other quotes but let's go out Sunday after church and see for ourselves how Benny comes out.

Sgt. Samuel Smith is playing much ping pong at the LSO these days. Among the GIs frequenting the club are Sgt. James Candella, Cpl. R. L. Plotnikiewicz and Pfc.'s Ronald E. Benedetto, Clyde Carlson, Carl Fox, Caleb Jarvis and Clayton Phelps.

Capt. Alva T. Adams is one of the many who are putting the base golf course to good use. Being a golf enthusiast, Captain Adams is more than glad to have a course so conveniently located. M-Sgt. H. L. Norsworthy is back from leave and we have it that T-Sgt. A. V. Simmons, who was acting first sergeant during Sgt. Norsworthy's absence, is most pleased that he has returned.

Capt. Leroy P. Hansen entertained his family this week. They were visiting from Nebraska.

Building T-642 is a quiet place since Pfc. Hugh "Hodie" Means is working nights at the Officers Club as porter. We look for the usual racket to return now that Pfc. James McDonough is back with us after spending 20 days with his folks in up-state New York.

Sgt. Joe Davis is spending re-enlistment leave in Arkansas with his family.

M-Sgt. James Vickers and Sgt. J. A. Ferguson are visiting relatives in Oklahoma and South Carolina, respectively, while on leave.

Assigned Scott AFB

M/Sgt. Harold C. Goins, NCO Club secretary at Reese, is scheduled to report for a new assignment at Headquarters, Air Training Command, Scott Air Force Base, Ill. His duty there will be with the Auto and Armament division.

There's big news this week as final plans for the squadron party are being formulated. Bring your gal and give her a whirl. There'll be smooth dance music by the base band and delicious Southern fried chicken with all the trimmings. And, of course, beer for the men, plus soda for the ladies. There'll be entertainment and door prizes, so come one, come all, next Tuesday night at the NCO Club. Dinner will be served beginning at 1900 hours, followed by dancing till midnight.

Pfc. Loren M. Cockriel returned from a ten-day furlough at his hometown of Garden City, Kans., Monday and was all smiles as he passed out cigars and the good word that he now was a married man. Congratulations!

One of the original settlers at Reese, M-Sgt. "Buddy" Goins, who is NCO Club secretary-treasurer, said goodbye to his friends this week as he prepared to leave for his new duty at the Scott AFB NCO Club. M-Sgt. James E. Bagley from Supply Sq. replaces him.

The Air Inspector section also lost a good man this week as M-Sgt. Julius W. Smith was assigned AROTC duty at Louisiana State university.

Speck, Burnett, Thompson and Fleming "ain't going to take it sitting down" anymore. Seems they need a retreat after a "weak-end" of horseback riding at Buffalo Lakes.

Maj. Estes to D. C. To Instruct ROTC

Major Winston M. Estes, assistant adjutant of the Pilot Training Group at Reese, will leave today to take a new assignment in Washington, D. C. Major Estes and his family have been residing at 2433 24th Street in Lubbock.

By Pfc. Ernest Holfoth, Jr.

We say goodbye and good luck to S-Sgt. Nemesio Gonzales. He went to Chanute AFB for a specialized electrical course on B-47s. He is then to report to Wichita Kan., for duty on the B-47 jet.

Congratulations to M-Sgt. and Mrs. Farmer. They are the proud parents of a baby girl, named Dorothy Lucille, born on 11 July.

We welcome Pfc. Patrick Kelley back home from clerk-typist school. He enjoyed a delay enroute at his home in Hawarden, Iowa, on his return trip from Cheyenne, Wyo.

Recent returnees from summer furloughs were M-Sgt. Early Erwin, T-Sgt. Charles Parsley, T-Sgt. John Portie, T-Sgt. Delbert Goble, T-Sgt. J. R. Wadkins, S-Sgt. Raymond Boyd, S-Sgt. Willie Burris, Sgt. Malcolm Stein, Cpl. Laddie Harp, Pfc. Dwight Smith, and Pvt. Marion Torrance.

We find M-Sgt. Ealy Erwin behind the first sergeant's desk now, while M-Sgt. Marshall Rogers is enjoying a furlough at his home in Stamps, Ark.

Motor Vehicle Squadron

After three and a half years of police work on the Mexican border, six months of which were spent as deputy sheriff at his hometown of El Paso, Capt. John Sorenson joined the Army as a private in April '41 with an infantry replacement center at El Paso.

Then he was transferred to the 1st Cavalry Division at Ft. Bliss, where he served as personal messenger of Maj. Gen. Innis P. Swift. After receiving a high commendation from Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, division CG, he was sent to Army Air Corps OCS at Miami Beach, Fla. He graduated in Aug. '42 and was subsequently sent to Buckley Field, Colo., as provost marshal, prison officer, and CO of the guard squadron.

In Sept. '42 he attended the supply officers course at Sacramento, Calif., and was shipped overseas in that MOS to Italy, where he served as chief of administrative section, air supply division, Hq. Army Air For-and was then later assigned to Camp Lee, Va., as a training company commander.

In April '47 he attended the Food Service course at Ft. Meade, Md., and in June of that year went to the Statler Hotel in Boston and cooked there as a student chef for six months.

Then from Oct. '47 to July '50 he ran officers' clubs at Ft. Sam Houston, Randolph AFB, Las Vegas AFB, and Reese AFB. He's been with the wing since Oct. '49 and has had command of the Motor Vehicle Sq. for the past ten months. The captain is also a familiar figure to the base athletes whom he has instructed in judo and wrestling.

Truly a Big-Time Operator is M-Sgt John G. Andrews, who never had a wreck! He couldn't afford to, for imagine yourself hauling 60 tons of incendiary bombs on one load of a snortin' semi from Lake Charles, La., to Avon Park, Fla. And that was his job back in 1944 when he operated a GI freight line for the 3rd Air Force Hq. at Tampa.

Since that time, Sgt. Andrews has gone places. He is now "the wheel" of the Motor Vehicle Squadron, holding the key job of first sergeant.

His military career began back in Jan. '42 at his hometown of Chase City, Va., where he joined the Army. After the completion of his basic at Camp Lee and Pickett, Va., he was assigned to the 813th Ordnance Gp. at Barksdale Field, La. Then he was transferred as automotive inspector to Columbia Army Air Base, S. C.

Next he was placed in charge of 53 airmen who with him formed a caravan hauling tents and shelter halves from the Carolina mills to Charleston, S. C. Then in Jan. '44 he operated a freight line throughout the state of Florida for the 3rd AF.

After attending the automotive maintenance school at Atlanta, Ga., he was assigned to the Army Advisory Gp. at Peiping, China, as first sergeant of an air division. He returned to the ZI in Feb. '48 and was re-assigned as NCOIC of the motor pool at Barksdale AFB, La. When the wing transferred to Reese, he was made NCOIC of the automotive maintenance and refueling sections. In Feb. '51 he received his present duty.

Three Uninjured in B25 Crash Tuesday

No injuries were reported by the three occupants of a TB-25 which crash-landed at Hobbs auxillary field Tuesday afternoon.

The plane, on a routine training flight, was piloted by 2d Lt. Homer H. Speer, student officer and A/C Will S. Holmes, both of class 51-F. Crew Chief was S/Sgt. Darryl D. Robinson, 3501st Maintenance Sq. The crash occurred on takeoff.

Splinters from the sports desk

There wasn't much shouting or clapping of hands when the Reese Rattlers returned from their three-day jaunt to the state tournament at Greenville, but that doesn't mean there shouldn't have been.

The Rattlers left their mark in the tourney by smashing home to a fourth place spot and gathered in more than their share of honors and trophies.

It's a pat on the back to Lt. Gene Hudman, M-Sgt. Tom E. Toms, and the entire Rattler squad for a job well done.

Here's where we stick our neck out and pick the winners around the baseball circuits . . . Boston will have a long hard go of it, but will finally break the jinx and win the American league pennant. Brooklyn's power-packed Dodgers will waltz into the National league pennant championship and then cop the coveted World Series. Closer to home, in the West Texas-New Mexico league, the current second place Lubbock Hubbers are on the march and should overtake the aging Abilene Blue Sox.

Look for some fine football games at Texas Tech this fall. The Raiders have acquired a new coaching staff, well versed in football tactics, and the new moguls are really beating the bushes for talent.

Pfc. Ernest H. Bruce, Jr., the speedy clouter from Youngstown, O., picked up his boxing skill from watching other fistic performers in action and this we are hoping will come in handy in the CONAC boxing tourney at Mitchell AFB, N. Y., next week.

ATRC Golf Crown Copped by Lackland

For the second straight year, the host team, Lackland AFB, won the team championship in the ATRC golf tournament held there recently. The "Gateway to the Air Force" aggregation was 61 strokes better than their nearest rival, Connally AFB. Keesler AFB, Lowry AFB and Sheppard AFB all followed in that order.

Morris Williams led the field home in the individual trophy chase with cards of 77-76-71-70-

Rattlers Place Fourth In Greenville Tourney

It was a fighting, hustling Reese Rattler that coiled itself tightly and struck for two straight wins before being shooed away by two defeats in the National Baseball Congress divisional championship held at Greenville, Tex., last week.

Although Reese pitching tired in the final games of the tourney the Rattlers nevertheless nailed down the fourth place trophy and many other individual honors. The brilliant pitching of Charles Mays and Walter Sable in the first two games of the tournament as well as the all-around play of the entire team brought praise from all sides. Defeated by decisive margins in the final two games, the Rattlers never gave up and by far turned in their best performances of the season.

Takes 10-Week Course At Chanute School

First Lt. Omer E. Graham, who has been assistant flight test maintenance officer at Reese since April, left this week for Chanute AFB, Ill., where he will spend 10 weeks attending an Aircraft Maintenance Administration course.

Sgts. Marks, Mooney To Contract Schools

S-Sgt. Clarence Marks and S-Sgt. Paul E. Mooney of the Hq. Sq., Air Base Group at Reese, have been transferred to air bases operated under the new plan to use contract schools for flying training. Sergeant Marks will go to Malden AFB, Malden, Mo., and Mooney to Bainbridge AFB, Bainbridge, Ga.

Beak-Bustin' Bruce Battles... Enters ATRC Fistic Tilts

Reese will be represented in the forthcoming CONAC boxing tournament at Mitchell AFB, N. Y., by Pfc. Ernest H. Bruce, Jr., of the Food Service squadron.

Beak-Bustin' Bruce Battles... Enters ATRC Fistic Tilts

Private Bruce, who will compete against fighters from throughout the ATRC, will be fighting in the featherweight class and seeking his second tournament championship.

He has had only five fights in his brief career but these paid off big dividends for the talented clouter. Three fights won for him the Central-Area championship last year at Sheppard AFB. At Lackland AFB last year, he reached the finals of the ATRC tournament before being outpointed by the defending champion in a thriller.

Private Bruce is currently working out in the base gym in preparation for the Mitchell affair, which will be held the 24th and 25th of this month.

Honors Heap On Rattlers Following State Tournament

Trophies and honors continue to pour in following the Rattlers successful trip to the state baseball tournament at Greenville.

A beautiful fourth place trophy was awarded to the Rattlers as well as a trophy for traveling the longest distance to the tourney. Rip Edwards with a batting average of .643 won the tournament batting championship and will be given a trophy at a later date. Edwards has also been nominated for the All-State team.

In the first game of the tournament, the Rattlers, behind the two-hit pitching of Charles Mays, defeated the Red River Tomics who were picked before the tourney started as the team to beat for third place. Mays and Victor Christiano impressed the big-league scouts who were watching the game so much that the bush-beaters left calling cards. The scouts also had a lot of praise for Dale White who played bang-up ball through-out the three-day tournament.

Tom E. Toms, team coach, was a real favorite of fans and officials alike. The general opinion was that Toms would have gotten an award as most popular coach, had

In the first game of the tournament Charles Mays acted as though the Red River Tomics, fourth place winners last year, were long lost brothers, as he limited them to only two hits in a beautiful display of pitching mastery. Reese picked up eight hits off the losing pitcher, Strawn, and eked out the 3-2 victory over the Tomics. Dick Bochte paced the Rattlers at the plate, getting three blows in four trips to the plate. Brown was the only Tomic able to solve Mays as he got both the Red River hits.

Walter Sable stepped to the mound for Reese in the second game and when the dust had cleared emerged with a 10-6 victory. The Rattlers put together seven of their nine hits in the fifth inning to score nine of the 10 runs. Rip Edwards, Dale White and Kenneth Wycoff were the big guns in the scramble, each getting two hits. Tillery was the losing pitcher for the Hunt County All-Stars as the Rattlers posted their second straight tourney victory.

Charles Mays was completely worn out when the third game of the tourney rolled around and that spelled defeat for the Rattlers as they fell before a team of former college greats, Conroe All-Stars, 11-1. Walter Sable came on in the sixth inning but the "Ra-Ra boys" had already scored enough runs to salt the ball game away. Rip Edwards, the tournament's leading hitter, led the Reese men at the plate with three straight hits.

Reesettes to Tangle With Anton Femmes Under Lights Tonite

Here is a warning to all members of the Intra-mural softball league . . . the softball bats and bases will probably have smudges of lipstick following tonight's softball game between the Reesettes women's softball team and a squad of "lovely ladies" from Anton. Starting time is 2030 hours on the lighted softball diamond.

Following an 11-5 victory over Hemphill - Wells recently, the Reesettes moved into second place in the city league. Boasting of a power-packed ball club, their worst defeat of the season came at the hands of the mighty Levelland crew.

Coached by Dub Graham, these are the girls who will take the field tonight seeking a victory for Reese: Peggy Zisa, 2nd base; Ouida Williams, 3rd base; Jean Graham, ss; Yvonne Bosco, lf; Peggy Carson, cf; Pat Haskin, rf; Billy Jean Bloodworth, c; Carla Prewitt, p, and Jo Allen Bohannon, 1st base. Martha Parham is the utility player.

Brooke's Medics from San Antonio, (every man on the club holds or has held a professional contract), took the tournament championship and blasted the Reese Rattlers from the tournament with a smashing 15-2 win. The Rattlers battled hard right up to the final wire but couldn't stem the flow of runs from the bruising bats of the Brooke's baseballers.

HE BAFFLED ALL

Tilden was a most remarkable man from the very beginning of his career. Most tennis players who perform with one eye on the gallery, not only lose, but make fools of themselves . . . but not Bill. He always gave the fans a show. They rarely agreed with 144 Bill, but he could excite them at will. Bill Tilden was an exciting champion, not only because of his endurance and skill, but also because of the way he lived, the things he did and the amount of money he earned and spent. Always busy, always on the go from daylight till late, he was constantly broke but there was "always more where the last came from." His entrance into the field of Tennis was typical of the man. He decended on Boston in a high-powered car, engaged a suite of rooms at the Copley Plaza and lived with a flourish that became the envy of other players. After a hard day of tennis he'd spend evenings at bridge or driving over the countryside at break-neck speed. Six months after leaving the amateur ranks Tilden had netted $100,000.

Five Reese Drivers Will Race in Soap Box Derby This Sunday

Tomorrow is inspection day, but for five Reese youngsters the inspection will mean the thorough checking of their Soap Box Derby racers prior to the big contest at 1400 hours Sunday. The five RAFB-sponsored boys will appear before Derby officials at Kuykendall Chevrolet Co. with other South Plains entrants to have their cars inspected as to construction, weight, height, width and length.

Young Wilbur Shaws from Reese who will compete against approximately 150 drivers are: James E. Guthrie, ward of Mrs. W. T. Milam, sponsored by the Air Police squadron; Wayne Herdridge, ward of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Kermit W. Tate, sponsored by headquarters squadron ABGp; Walter O. Shaw, son of M/Sgt. W. O. Shaw, sponsored by the NCO Mess; Thomas Wayne Wintle, son of Mrs. Ora B. Carson, sponsored by 3501st training squadron, section II, and Bernie Murray, sponsored by Supply squadron.

Sunday, the actual race will be held on a stretch of U. S. Highway 87 in northeast Lubbock.

The stakes in the race are a trip to Akron, O., where the winner will represent Lubbock in competition for national honors with 149 other boys from the U. S., Alaska and Canada. A large gold trophy and a wrist watch will also be given the winner.

All is being readied for the race by sponsors Kuykendall Chevrolet Co., Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and the Lubbock Exchange Club. The starting ramp, from which the cars are given a boost down the 1,000-foot course is also being repaired.

3501st "B" In Nat'l. League; Stu Off Retain 1st In Amer.

A new team graces the National league strong-hold this week as the 3501st "B" team moved in to replace the 514th Band. The 3501st "B" squad, cousins of league leading 3501st "A", played only one game and that was a 10-7 loss to the Install. sq. which also posted an 8-2 victory over PTGp.

The 3501st "A" team had another great week of softball, they took a 7-0 forfeit from the now defunct Band and a 9-5 win from PTWg to stay three steps ahead of the fast-improving Install. crew. In a game which did not count in the league standings, 3501st slipped past the Reese base club in 10 innings 4-3.

M & S and 3502nd made the biggest jump of the week, M & S posted wins over Supply and Food Service to move into third place while 3502nd was disposing of Mtr. Veh. and PTGp to take over the fourth position.

Last week in the American league the Medics threatened to take the number one rating into tow, but such was not the case this week as they lost two big ball games and dropped down to third place with a record of 8-5. The Student Officers strengthened their grip on first place by coasting past Section I and Section II. The Cadets got up off the deck and slapped down the Medics and Reserve Officers to move into a challenging position in number two spot.

Denver Site of New AF Finance Center

Operation of the new Air Force Finance Center in Denver, Colo., will begin on July 10, 1951, when the final Air Force records from the Army Finance Center in St. Louis, Mo., are airlifted to the new location.

Decentralization of Army Finance functions and an expansion of all military branches led to the establishment of this first separate Air Force Finance Center. Armed Forces finance directors felt that a reduction of the high concentration of clerical and administrative oper-actions would help promote efficiency.

Most of the operating divisions of the office of the Director of Finance, Headquarters, USAF, will ultimately be located at the new center, leaving planning and coordinating activities to the Directorate of Finance Office in Washington.

Chief among the new center's responsibilities will be the processing of Air Force allotments, auditing of base disbursing officer's accounts, and machine accounting of all expenditures made by the Air Force.

The center is housed in the former U. S. Army Medical Depot, 3800 York Street, Denver. Fifteen permanent and five temporary type buildings provide 611,000 square feet of floor space. Two of the buildings are a quarter mile in length.

Col. John R. Gilchrist, Director of the Air Force Finance Center and Deputy Director of Finance for the U. S. Air Force, expects the new establishment will be issuing upward to 800,000 allotment checks by Aug. 1 of this year. More than 1,000,000 allotment accounts will be maintained at the center in addition to 600,000 insurance accounts and thousands of other records vital to the payment of airmen and WAFs.

Cost of the modification of the entire 37-acre tract was estimated a one-third that of new construction for similar facilities.

A minute for safety is better than a month for repairs.
