

Blood-Mobile Here 19-20 November; Urge Base to ...

GIVE BLOOD!

Reese Donations Will Go To Wounded Troops In Korea

Every drop of blood collected at Reese Air Force Base during the Armed Forces Blood Donor program here will be forwarded as plasma where it is most needed . . . Korea!

That was the guarantee this week of Col.

I. Louis Hoffman, wing surgeon and project officer, William Reaves, field representative of the North Texas Defense Blood Donor center at Fort Worth, and Leland J. R. Williams, Reese field director of the American Red Cross, as they urged base personnel to list their names as blood donors for the arrival of the mobile blood unit at Reese 19 and 20 November. The RAFB quota is 400 pints.

Names of volunteers are being taken in the various squadrons and a complete list will be given Colonel Hoffman 7 November.

"The need for blood is desperate," said Reaves, under whose supervision the collection is being taken. "Any outbreak in the fighting in Korea at this time would mean that men would die." He pointed out that an adequate supply of plasma and whole blood is the only way to assure that wounded men will survive.

Nurses Take Blood

Highly skilled professional nurses will handle the actual blood-giving procedures and they will be assisted by Red Cross volunteers from the Lubbock area, it was learned. The blood will be taken at ward four in the base hospital during the two days the North Texas Blood Center unit is on the base.

Forty persons will be processed an hour; the process will begin each day at 0800 hours stopping at 1500 hours. Coffee and doughnuts will be served to each donor after he has contributed his blood. Plans are being made to provide each donor with the new blood donor emblem, officials said.

Compete by Squadrons

"The present campaign, which will continue through July, 1952, has met with great success at all the military installations so far," Reaves said. He expressed the opinion that pre-campaign enthusiasm at Reese has indicated a favorable return.

Names of donors will be published in THE ROUNDUP, listed by squadrons, with the units furnishing the most donors by percentages heading the list. Capt. A. P. Mankin, public information officer, has urged all squadron commanders to promote interest in the campaign and help boost their outfit into a top slot on the completed blood donor list.

Officials reminded personnel this week that the giving of blood is a painless process, performed with a high degree of efficiency by specially trained personnel. Everyone is asked to consider this small contribution that can mean so much to a wounded fighting man.

Base to Give Away '51 Ford in Red Feather Drive

A brand-new 1951 Ford tudor sedan will go to some lucky ticket-holder 19 November, Maj. Ramon R. Melton, Reese chairman of the Lubbock Community Chest drive, said this week as RAFB kicked off the annual Red Feather drive Wednesday with an automobile lottery.

The base will participate in the drive, which will run from 13 to 19 November in Lubbock, in an effort to help the Hub City's goal of $152,250.00.

Tickets for the car raffle went on sale this week in the various squadrons at a dollar each. All military personnel of this station and their dependents are eligible to participate; civilian employees of the base and their dependents may also compete, and can obtain the tickets through the civilian Minute Man committee.

A similar program was conducted on the base last year, with a profit of $1,801.78 turned over to the Lubbock Red Feather officials. Of the 2,985 tickets sold, a profit of $1,008.00 was realized, with $336.00 deposited to the credit of the base Carnival Fund committee for recreational and welfare use here. The remainder, coupled with donations totaling $1,129.78, accounted for the final sum forwarded to the Lubbock drive committee.

It should be emphasized, Major Melton said, that much more than Reese contributes will be returned to the base through the various agencies benefitting from the Community Chest. Foremost of importance among these is the Lubbock Service Organization, which is specifically devoted to the local servicemen. Other groups which receive Red Feather aid are, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts of America, Boys Club, Campfire Girls, the Milam Home, Salvation Army, Lone Star Junior Optimist Club and the Carver Heights Nursery.

The Ford, purchased from the Lubbock Auto Co., will be presented to the winner at the Service Club, 2000 hours, 19 November.

"Ah Got Texas in Mah Blood, Suh!"

"SAND! HOW LONG HAVE YOU BEEN STATIONED AT REESE?" asks Col. I. Louis Hoffman, wing surgeon, as he taps T-Sgt. Wayne L. Betts, Wing Headquarters squadron section first sergeant, for a pint of blood, but gets a pile of South Plains sand instead. Nonetheless, Reese airmen have been asked to donate 400 pints of blood in the current Armed Forces Blood Donor program which will hit a peak here 19 and 20 November with the arrival of a mobile blood unit. Your Chapel

We should not be too anxious to discover whether we are pleasing to God but rather whether God is pleasing to us. This probably seems to you a strange teaching. But if you think upon what you have just learned, you will see how true it is. It simply means that you should worry about fundamental things. If you are strong in faith, hope and charity, everything else will follow. If your faith is strong, God will be most desirable; and you will then prefer Him above all creatures, you will confidently desire to be united with Him, and, as a consequence, you will really work at increasing your virtue and accomplishing meritorious acts. Your soul is like a mirror; it reflects the things toward which it is turned. If God is not pleasing to you, there is something the matter. You are weak in faith, hope and charity. And that is a fundamental trouble.

These three supernatural virtues are a flame in your soul. Faith gives light; hope ascends ever upward; charity gives warmth. Sin puts out this flame in your soul as water extinguishes fire. It may not be easy for you to rekindle it.

God values a work not because of its greatness, but because of the faith, hope, and charity that are behind it. By these virtues you may make very small acts truly great. Before you go to bed tonight, try this experiment. Perform some act—even if it only some little act of kindness for someone in your home, even if it is only a kind word. But, most deliberately and carefully, perform it with the right intention, that is, for no earthly reason except that you believe in God and because you hope to get a reward for doing it, and because you prefer to do something for the love of God.

If you make absolutely sure that you have no other reason for the act, you will know in your heart that what you did was both right and good. Much more, you will know that it is important.

It will probably startle you somewhat to discover how easily you have elevated a simple act by faith, hope and charity. Once a day repeat this with the fidelity of your daily prayers, making sure to perform the act with full deliberation and care. This simple practice will be a tremendous forward step in your religious life. Try it.

AF Launches Reservists' Active Duty Pay Training

Washington (AFPS)—The Air Force has launched a program of additional training for Volunteer Reserve officers and airmen designed to fit them for immediate assignment in case of emergency.

Under the program 15-day tours of active duty will be provided for approximately 7,500 Reserve members during the next eight months, with active duty pay for the training time served.

Col. Tom Says

Somewhere in Lubbock there is one who needs your help. Perhaps it is a crippled boy or girl, or a child who must have a place to stay because the mother works away from home all day. Perhaps it is an old person without food or lodging.

No doubt, you are willing to help these people—but you don't know just how to go about it. You have no way of learning who they are or where they are; nor do you know who is deserving.

This problem is solved for you. The majority of the deserving charitable and philanthropic organizations in Lubbock are banded together in one group and its members are known as "Red Feather" agencies. An annual Community Chest drive gathers funds which are distributed to member groups according to their needs.

One of these Red Feather member groups is your LSO (Lubbock Service Organization). The LSO gives you and all the other men in the Armed Forces a conveniently located central meeting place in the city. It gives you recreation and entertainment and a chance to meet nice girls. Since these entertainments and other services are free to you, funds for the upkeep of the organization must be obtained from other sources. Your contribution to the Community Chest will help.

The Red Feather has, since early ages, been a symbol of valour. It is that today—a decoration you will be proud to receive as an indication of your desire to help others.

 Colonel, USAF.

KADET KORRAL

The heartiest welcome ever is extended to Charlie class as it arrives at Reese. After gathering a few opinions from them concerning their new abode it may be surmised that the class is favorably impressed with our way of doing things here. Well, we think we have something here too, as this is the place, "where good pilots are made." Charlie, we don't mean to imply that you aren't already good pilots, so we might alter the foregoing and say that this is the place where good pilots are made better.

Some of the members of Baker class have been taking some day-night cross countries. They have enjoyed immensely their trips to various bases, especially their visit with their "multi-brothers" at Vance. It is interesting to note that upon asking one of these men his comparison of the two bases, the almost universal answer is, "Are you kiddin, those guys haven't got it made!"

It has been noted that some of the former "possessors of power" are now void of their stripe laden epaulets and some new faces now reflect the strain imposed by the responsibility of command. We are certain that "Able" will be able when it comes to executing their new officer capacities and know that the ultimate in efficiency will be attained.

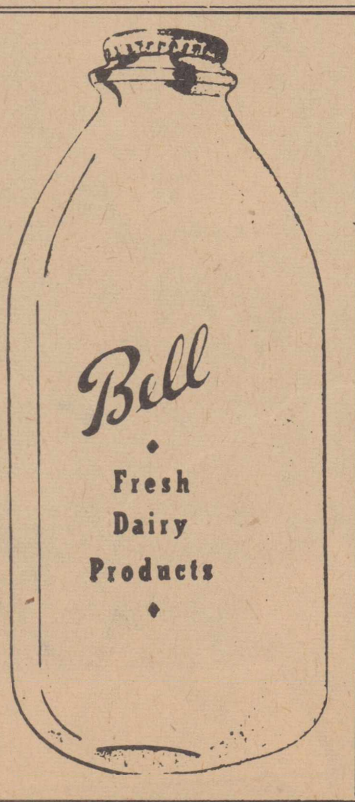

George left us last week, and behind them lies an enviable record inasmuch as they completed their advanced training without a single accident of any kind. That is proof to us all that accidents are caused, and leaves a perfect safety record to strive toward.

Marine Kibitzer Kills Movie Queen's Punch

With the 1st Marine Division, Korea (AFPS)—At a motion picture shown to the First Marine Regiment, within sight of enemy lines, seriousness was the plot but humor rolled from its audience.

During a melodramatic scene, a blonde had slain her lover with a forty-five. She turned her tear-streaked face toward the audience and pleaded, "Oh what shall I do?"

A Marine in the rear, making his exit, yelled back: "Get up off the firing line and pick up your brass!"

Four hundred pints of blood may seem like a lot. Especially to a wounded GI who is told that the supply of whole blood in the aid station where he is lying has been depleted. But it really isn't much when you consider that there are at least six times that many available pints walking around here at Reese Air Force Base. For every officer, airman and civilian here is a potential source of whole blood in the Armed Forces Blood Donor program.

Reese's quota has been set at 400 pints, a mark calculated according to normal service donations.

But we like to think that Reese isn't just an ordinary Air Force base. We'd rather believe that the spirit of the younger personnel for this cause is adequate; that the old-timers from World War II would be knowing in regard to the value of human blood.

And we hope that when the mobile blood unit arrives here 19 November, the line stretches from the main gate to the firing range.

If you're thankful that you're not being shot at now, how 'bout donating a pint of blood (it really isn't much) to the boys who are stopping Red bullets in Korea?

Raise Civil Service Pay Ten Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—President Truman recently signed legislation increasing the pay of more than a million classified civil service employees by $300 to $800 a year. Another law signed by the President boosts the pay of most postal workers about $400 a year.

For most classified employees the increase is 10 per cent. However, those making less than $3,000 a year will get $300 more, and those paid more than $8,000 will get a raise of $800. Rank and file postal employees get an increase of at least $400. Postmasters, supervisors and inspectors will get an $800 increase. All raises are retroactive to last July 1.

FlyTAF Insignia Contest...

Four Designs Considered from 150; Reese Emblem Entries Number 34

HQ., FTAF, Waco, Tex.—More than 150 suggestions for an official Flying Training Air Force emblem were submitted to the FTAF public information office in the command-wide contest which began Sept. 14 and closed at midnight Oct. 15.

A committee of four judges narrowed the entries to four drawings which will be presented to Maj. Gen. Warren R. Carter, FTAF commanding general, for final decision.

Suggestions came from officers and airmen of almost every base in the FTAF command.

Thirty-four of the entries were forwarded from Reese, Capt. A. P. Mankin, public information officer, said. Although a large number of suggested insignias were submitted by RAFB airmen, it is not known at this time whether or not a local entry is among the four drawings under consideration.

Winner will be entertained at one of five fabulous hotels on the famous strip at Las Vegas, Nev. The Thunderbird, Desert Inn, El Rancho Vegas, Flamingo and Last Frontier are all luxurious resorts with their swimming pools, plush golf courses and swank game rooms, lounges and dance floors.

Dates for the winner's three-day trip, previously announced as Nov. 6-8 may be changed to Nov. 13-15 because of circumstances beyond control of this headquarters. Further details will be announced later.

Which of the tourist hotels will be used also will be decided later by the Las Vegas Resort Hotel Committee.

Expenses incurred in mailing prevent the return of any entries. Sketches will only be returned at the specific request of the entrant.

General Carter's decision, to be made in the very near future, will be forwarded to USAF headquarters in Washington for official approval.

RECEIVING THE KEYS from an official of the Ford Motor Company, is Second Lt. William J. Gillsepie. The car will be given to the holder of the winning ticket on the 19th of this month at the Service Club. It will not be necessary to be present at the drawing but the Service Club says that there will be plenty of entertainment and no one will go away unhappy, even if they don't win the car. Deadline 16 Nov. on 'Loot' Contest; Win $20, $10, $5

Less than two weeks remain for Reese enlisted airmen to get the proper inspiration and submit their entries in the I&E-sponsored "Loot for Logic" contest which closes its November tilt the 16th of this month. Two more contests are slated for the next two months with prizes of $20, $10 and $5 for each month's winners. The question posed this month follows:

You are a member of the NCO Club, the rules of which bar non-member military personnel from participation. A Pfc whom you know, viewing the large bingo prizes, offers to pay all your expenses for a night at the club if you will play two bingo cards for him. If the cards pay off you are to split the loot with him. What would you do?

The base I&E office wants your answer to this question in not less than 100 words and not more than 250 words. Entries will be judged on moral reasoning and logical conclusions. Deadline for this month's contest is 1500 hours, 16 November.

The "Loot for Logic" contests are open to all enlisted airmen. As many entries as desired may be submitted for each of the three separate contests.

Air Base Group has been doing a little face lifting lately, the most outstanding job being done in our new supply barracks. Under the direction of M/Sgt. Maddox, the supply crew reconverted number 455 into a combination transient quarters and supply room. Upstairs is just like a regular barracks and it is being used to house all airmen who come on the base while waiting to be assigned. This eliminates the turmoil of checking out bunks, etc., late at night, which seems to be a popular time for the incoming troops to arrive. Downstairs there is plenty of room for the usual supply set up.

Our orderly room has also been redone. Sergeant Swift, our chief carpenter, has given the place that new look, however, it still needs paint. One of the wheels was overheard last week trying to get a hold of some grey and white paint. Mmmmm, sounds good.

Wing photo has been redone in a very cool shade of green, which should blend in very well with the current cold spell. Every department has been given that "pro look" and even the dark rooms look good . . . when the lights are on.

M/Sgt. Maddox, of supply, was reverted to civilian status last week . . . S/Sgt. Bill Wright, whom you knew as master of ceremonies at the service club, has left for the Far East Air Forces . . . "Willie Hoppe" Pfc. Charlie Heiner has left to burn up the felt in Fort Smith, Ark.

Pfc. Victor Boll, the only parachute-rigging photographer in the Air Force, has returned from another tech school. Due to return from teletype school is Pfc. William Horn, Pfc. Glen Harvey will also return soon from Keesler where he is currently studying base ops procedures and night life in New Orleans.

Many of our men awaiting cadet training have left for the class which begins the 19th of this month and many other pilot-hopefuls are still sweating it out.

Note to the squadron: Let's go all-out on the blood donor program and put our outfit at the top of the list.

Re-enlistment Cash Pass Bonus Bill; Money Out After President Signs

Washington (AFPS)—The long awaited Kilday bill authorizing payment of enlistment bonuses to more than 20,000 career enlisted men is now on the President's desk for signature.

Once the bill has been signed, a communication will be transmitted to all Army and Air Force installations authorizing payment.

After this has been done, eligible enlisted men should notify their personnel officer of their eligibility and verify their status.

Under the new law, those who re-enlist within three months from date of discharge would receive a lump sum of $40, $90, $160, $250 or $360 for re-enlistments of two, three, four, five or six years.

For those who re-enlist for an indefinite period of more than six years the bonus would be $360, paid them when they sign up. After six years they would receive an annual bonus for each additional year, up to a total of $1,440.

Those who re-enlisted indefinitely prior to 1 October, 1949, would receive $110 with an additional $60 each year up to the $1,440 limit.

Anyone failing to complete his term of enlistment for which a bonus had been paid would be required to repay to the government a portion of the bonus.

MARS Radio Handles Official, Personal Calls

You can never tell exactly what you're going to learn while twisting the knobs on a ham radio.

That's the opinion of S/Sgt. Raymond L. Brady, operator in the Reese Military Amateur Radio Service office, who was tuned to Rapid City AFB, S. D., recently. While talking to a woman operator there, Sergeant Brady had to interrupt the conversation to speak to a visitor in the control room.

Picking up his mike again, Brady explained to the party at Rapid City that Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Maurice R. Holt was the person he was talking to in the room.

"Chaplain Holt!" the woman rejoined. "Why, he performed my marriage ceremony in Japan two years ago."

And that's the way it goes all the time says Brady, who is backed up in this by Capt. C. W. Tripp MARS director, and WOJG Albert S. Williams, chief operator.

Use Mobile Units

"Just the other day," Captain Tripp adds, "we were fooling around on the ham band, and picked up 1st Lt. Richard C. Burgess, recently stationed here, and now in New Jersey." Lieutenant Burgess, like Captain Tripp and hundreds of other "radio bugs" has a mobile radio unit built into his automobile. Captain Tripp explains that while driving over the countryside he can call home or wherever he pleases through the Reese station with his mobile unit.

But interesting incidents are only a part of the routine at the MARS shack where non-classified official and personal calls are handled every day.

Linked With Command

Part of the ATRC network, monitored by Scott AFB, Ill., the Reese MARSmen are constantly sending and receiving radio messages with other command bases. "It really makes all the ATRC base seem much closer," Sergeant Brady asserts.

During duty hours the unit operates as AF5 FBA, the official MARS monicker. But other times, the civilian ham bands get a big play from Reese's radio enthusiasts. And anyone who holds a "ham ticket" is invited to drop around to the MARS shack. Or, says Captain Tripp, if enough persons are interested in obtaining licenses, classes might be started in the evenings.

Relay Ham Calls

You might get an idea of the versatility and usefulness of ham radio from this tale told by the Reese radiomen.

Sergeant Brady received a call over the ATRC network from Ellington AFB, Tex., stating that they had a ham call from Youngstown, O., and advising that the Reese operators tune in a certain channel on the civilian amateur set-up later that day. (The Ellington radio had picked up a call from a ham there who asked that the message be forwarded to this radio.)

Reese was tuning and waiting that night, and the call from Ohio was picked up. Waiting here to do the talking was Pfc. Raymond Grazier, whose dad was the ham operator who had called him in the unorthodox method. So for over an hour, free of charge, Pfc. Grazier talked to his folks and his fiancée over a thousand miles distant.

Just like Sergeant Brady says. "You never can tell what's next."

"Why, Lt., what beautiful hair! And everybody told me you were bald!"

"My wife says if I don't give up drinking she'll leave me."
"Gosh, that'll be pretty bad, won't it?"
"Yeah. I'll miss her."

"THIS IS AF5 FBA, GO AHEAD," MARS operator S/Sgt. Raymond L. Brady says as he operates the control board in the radio shack. The MARSmen invite all interested hams on the base to drop around to building T-64 and have a chat around the world on their 10-meter amateur set.

MARS Grows, FTAF Ok's Civilian Hams

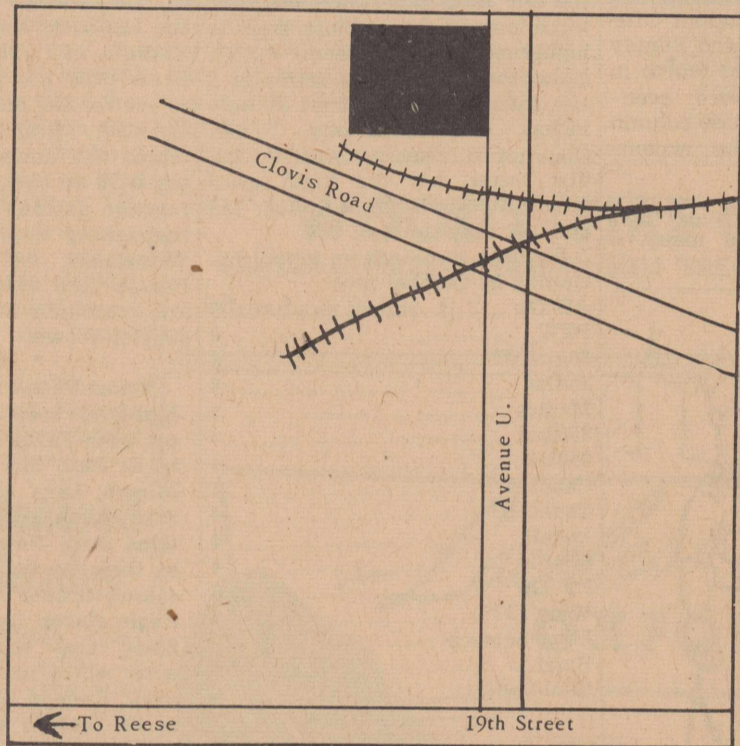

Bases in Flying Training Air Force have been authorized to accept certain civilians in the Military Amateur Radio System.

U. S. Air Force headquarters recently granted the authority and word is being sent from FTAF headquarters in Waco to all bases.

Bases will be advised that novice and technician class radio amateurs, as defined by Federal Communications Commission rules and regulations, may be accepted under certain circumstances.

The system to accept civilian amateurs in the military network was worked out between the Air Force director of communications and the Army chief signal officer. Disclosure of the plan was made at the annual convention of the central division of the American Radio Relay League in Indiana.

3501st Tops Cadets to Take Honors In Intramural Touch Football Tilt

Tuesday night under rain-soaked skies and on similar grounds, 01st Maintenance managed to pull a 13-12 victory from the Cadet "A" football club. Both teams, which were evenly matched from the beginning of the season right up until the very last few minutes of play, fought hard and bitterly until the scheduled game was over. At that time, the score stood at 12-12. According to league rules, each team was given four downs, the club gaining the greater yardage being the victor. When football games are measured in yards and feet one club must emerge triumphant, and in this case it was the team submitted by the 3501st Maintenance squadron. Meet the winners, boys! And better luck to the rest of you next year.

Other teams which certainly deserve honorable mention for plenty of fight throughout the past season are the Student Officers and Maintenance and Supply which ranked third and fourth in that order. All clubs were evenly spaced in the won-lost column as may be seen by the accompanying roster.

Giving blood has never hurt anyone, and has done many a world of good.

Maj. Bradley Leaves For FlyTAF Duties

Maj. Clyde W. Bradley, former commandant of students here, left Reese this week for his new assignment with Flying Training Air Force headquarters at Waco, Tex.

A highly popular officer among students, officers and airmen here, Major Bradley had been with the 3500th Pilot Training Wing since August, 1946. He left the following message to the personnel of this base:

"A lack of time prevented me from contacting all of the people I have served with during the past four-and-a-half year assignment to the Wing, both at Barksdale and here at Reese.

"Although I am anxious to begin my new duty assignment at FTAF, I leave Reese with many regrets and enjoyable memories. The cooperation, enthusiasm and friendliness that has been evidenced cannot be surpassed.

"I trust I may have the great privilege of serving with this fine wing again in the future.

"Best wishes for continued success."

A dummy basketball league will begin around 12 November in order to help the intramural teams prepare for the regular season, personnel services announces this week. The games will be scheduled regularly with officials and proper rules and will end around the middle of December. No trophies or prizes will be awarded for competition in the dummy league.

Busy preparing for the coming Inter - Service basketball conference are Lt. Don Sunderlage's Rattlers. From all reports, Coach Sunderlage, most valuable player in the Big Ten last year, is doing a terrific job. With three weeks of afternoon practice behind them, the Rattlers already look in great shape. Fans may expect an outstanding record from the base cagers this season.

One of the top Texas schoolboy football tilts comes off tonight as the Pampa Harvesters meet the Lubbock Westerners in Jones stadium in Lubbock. Associated Press bills the game as the one to see for the outcome of District 1-AAAA. Both teams are undefeated and untied. The Harvesters will be seeking the blood of revenge as they remember the shellacking they took from the Westerners last year. If the Pampa club tops the locals they are a cinch for their third straight district crown.

Texas Tech's Red Raiders are highly favored to mob the Miners from Texas Western College in El Paso this weekend. The Miners have lost four games this season and have only two wins over New Mexico teams to their credit. They lost the season opener to a powerful Eagle eleven from North Texas State and will probably fare even worse under the Raider's heel. Fans in El Paso will have to be content with hoping for an upset.

It was learned at presstime Thursday that a $7,000 grant has been given Reese for improving the golf course and service club. Whether you get your sports kick on the turf or over a hot game of dominoes, the facilities should show quite an improvement. Further details on the grant will be published in a full-length story in THE ROUNDUP next week.

More late poop: An Air Force - wide model airplane contest will be held at Pinecastle AFB, Fla., 28 December. It was learned this week. Open to all AF personnel, the contest will feature four brackets of competition: outdoor unlimited rubber powered craft, free flight for all classes, flying scales and radio-controlled models. Further information regarding entries will be furnished in later issues of this sheet.

Four Teams Vie...

Saughnessy Play-Off Will Determine League Champs

By Pfc. Sid Pool

It has been announced that there will be a Shaughnessy play-off of this season's football league. The top four base grid clubs will be given a chance to show each other just how they really stand and that during the rest of the season they were "just coasting along and saving all their strength for the play-offs."

The 3501st Maintenance club expects to show the Maintenance and Supply boys exactly how it is done; and their title is questioned to the extent where Maintenance & Supply are giving odds on the game, which is scheduled for 1900 hours Monday evening.

The other game on the roster will compete Cadets "A" versus the Student Officers. The Cadets believe they can prove that the officers are not what they're cracked up to be, whereas the officers feel that it is high time the Cadets were given a lesson in respect to their superiors. This tilt will follow the above-mentioned game.

From the point of view of the sports desk, it looks as though 1900 hours Monday will begin a very strenuous evening.

On the other hand, Tuesday night will prove to be just as interesting. For the winners of Monday's games will pair off and the outcome should be as exciting a game as the base will ever have the privilege of seeing.

The Captivair, a jet plant mounted on concrete blocks, is used by the Air Training Command's Flying Training Air Force during jet pilot instruction.

"Strengthen Family Life," Educator Tells Graduates

"If we are going to build a strong world, we must strengthen the family life of the entire world," said Dr. Edgar Dale, Ohio State University, speaking to the 93 graduates of Class 51-G at the base theater Saturday morning.

Dr. Dale went on to tell the large audience "Overwhelming military strength is our first choice to maintain world peace. The second choice is what everyone in the world wants . . . a good home and a good family." He went on to say, "a good home, I believe, is the bedrock of the moral foundation of the world."

"We are already working on this second choice," the noted educator pointed out.

Following the introduction of the staff, Col. Thomas J. Barrett, base commander, pinned silver pilot's wings on the graduates.

During the wing review on the flight line in honor of the departing class, Mrs. Barbara T. Laney, wife of Capt. Guy F. Laney, Happy, Texas, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for her husband. Capt. Laney was cited for heroic action while flying a B-26 medium bomber in Korea.

Will Rogers Honored At Museum Sunday

A Will Rogers Birthday celebration is the feature event of the Museum at Texas Tech Sunday when Brownie McNeil, famous ballad singer from San Antonio, makes an appearance at 1600 hours in the museum auditorium singing songs that Will Rogers used to sing.

The Lubbock County Sheriff's Posse will start the celebration with a parade from the Fair Grounds starting at 1500 hours and winding up at the Tech campus where the group will place a wreath of flowers on the Will Rogers statue.

A Will Rogers movie, "David Harum," will be shown in the auditorium at 1300 and 1700 hours. An exhibit of the famous humorist is also on display at the Museum.

All base personnel are invited to attend.

The Air Training Command's huge indoctrination center, Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, has a teen-age population greater than an average American city of two and one-half million people.

Northern Radar Net Near Ready...USAF

WASHINGTON, (AFPS) — The vast and complex radar warning system designed to guard the United States and the Northern Hemisphere against a sneak air attack is nearly complete and should be in full operation soon, General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Chief of Staff, said recently.

The Air Force began work on the $295 million detection-warning system a little over two years ago.

Most of the equipment for the remaining stations in the network is ready, but some installation work is yet to be done, Gen. Vandenberg said.

U. S. warning and interceptor forces will work in close liason with those of Canada to guard against surprise air attack over an area 30 times larger than England.

The first American jet pilot to shoot down an enemy jet plane, Lt. Russell J. Brown of Los Angeles, is now an instructor at Nellis Air Force Base, Nevada, a Flying Training Air Force base of the Air Training Command.
