Ten Acts Featured In Variety Show at Base Service Club

Tuesday evening marks the first performance of a variety show composed entirely of Reese talent. Ten acts will be featured in this show, which officials plan to put on a monthly or bi-monthly basis, according to the response next week. The program begins at 2000 hours in the service center.

Jimmy Canatell will emcee the show, in place of Pfc. Ralph Walker, who was transferred to duty in Newfoundland. Canatell has had 14 years professional experience in show business as a dancer, and is rated as a top showman and master of ceremonies.

Singing, imitations, musical numbers and novelty acts will be included in the hour-and-a-half program, sponsoring officials of personnel services said. The performers will compete for cash prizes of fifteen and ten dollars for first and second places, respectively. The other contestants will receive two dollar awards for their efforts.

Highlighting the show and playing background music will be the base dance orchestra, directed by Cpl. Gary Garner. Also known to Reese audiences, and appearing on the program, is Pfc. George Mondok, who will bring a harmonica group. Pfc. Mondok and his harmonica band took second place in the Horace Heidt Youth Opportunity show which appeared in Lubbock last year.

Final rehearsal of the show will be held Monday night. Other features which might be incorporated into the variety show have not yet been definitely set, officials said, but the show as it stands now has excellent talent. All personnel are urged to attend the performance.

No Vote for Texans In Service; Some Can Vote Absentee

No member of the Armed Forces is allowed to cast a ballot in Texas, the wing legal officer told THE ROUNDUP this week. This inclusive statement covers military personnel who are residents of the Lone Star state as well as servicemen currently stationed here, it was learned.

Other states, however, have various other laws regarding poll taxes and voting. Many allow service personnel to cast absentee ballots in some or all elections.

Any Reese airmen desiring information on proper voting procedures and absentee ballots in their respective states are advised to consult their squadron voting officer, the legal officer said. Further information may be obtained at the wing legal section.

INSTRUCTOR IN THE LINK trainer section, T/Sgt. Leason Dale, shows Cub scout Dan Cunningham how Air Force pilots learn to fly on instruments. Dan was one of a group of fifty of Cub Pack 28, Overton school in Lubbock, who toured the base Saturday morning.

"Star-Spangled Circus" Brings 18 Acts To Base Gym for Four Gala Performances

The circus is comin' to town . . . Reese AFB, that is! -- The weekend of 1 and 2 February is especially reserved for kids of all ages, six to sixty, when the "Star-Spangled Circus" comes to the base gym for four shows. Matinee will be held each day at 1430 hours and the evening shows will begin at 2000 hours; admission is to be one dollar for adults and sixty cents for children.

Lubbock Cub Scouts Tour Base Saturday

Nearly fifty Cub Scouts of Pack 28, Overton school in Lubbock, swarmed over Reese Air Force Base Saturday as Air Force officials here took the group on a planned tour of the multi-engine pilot training school.

The morning program consisted of a trip through the Link trainer section, the equipment laboratory and a "mock-up" version of the famous TB-25 Billy Mitchell twin-engine bomber, and the mobile control unit on the RAFB flight line. The Cubs were allowed to operate the new Curtiss-Wright P-2 automatic trainers, climbed in and all over the training bombers and watched landings and take-offs of T-6 Texan trainers and two visiting jet fighter aircraft.

Maj. Buford M. Humphries, wing training officer, was project officer for the tour. Capt. James T. McElroy, assistant wing operations officer, Capt. Keiffer E. Parker, wing intelligence officer, and Capt. Miguel A. Pinon, Jr., wing flying safety officer, conducted three separate group tours during the morning.

Thirty-seven performances will be seen in a gala array of 18 different acts. Tumblers, clowns, aerial artists, and all the usual circus attractions, along with dog and bear acts, will be part of the full-length big-top review. The circus troupers are all members of well-known shows and are touring with the group during the winter season while their groups are not on the road. Col. Vernon D. Boyd, project officer, promises a most entertaining performance, with all of the thrills and excitement of the tent show in store.

Tickets will be available at each of the squadrons beginning Monday and may be obtained on credit, payable this payday, 2nd Lt. Don Sunderlage, physical fitness officer, said. Personnel who desire to attend the Friday matinee will be excused from duty by presenting a circus ticket.

Civilians will be admitted to all but the Friday afternoon performance, and since capacity crowds are expected, personnel are urged to purchase their tickets as soon as possible. The circus is being sponsored here by the personnel services section. Any proceeds will be turned over to the Consolidated Non-Appropriated Welfare Fund.

I&E Releases Part-Time Study Information

Evening Course Offerings at Texas Tech Announced

Airmen wishing to undertake part-time study of college courses for credit at Texas Technological college, in Lubbock, may now plan their schedules and begin arrangements, 1st Lt. Garland D. Bridges, education officer, announced this week.

Enrollment for the spring semester at Tech will be held Tuesday through Tuesday, 5 to 12 February, the college informs. All classes will meet according to the schedule on cycle beginning on Wednesday, 6 February. All students should attend the first meeting of the class, the office of the registrar says.

Registration will be conducted from 0800 to 1700 hours, Tuesday through Friday, 5 to 8 February; 0800 to 1200, Saturday, 9 February; 0800 to 1700, Monday and Tuesday, 11 and 12 February, and 1900 to 2100 hours 11 and 12 February. All registration will close at 2100 hours Tuesday, 12 February.

Dons Captain Tracks

Among 41 Air Training Command officers recently promoted to the grade of captain was Seamus P. Nunan, of Reese. All of the officers are assigned to duty with the medical corps.

Students may register for graduate credit, undergraduate credit and non-credit courses. Any student who plans for his work to count toward a degree at the college must meet admission requirements and file a complete transcript with the registrar's office, it was learned. Those students who take courses for transfer to another institution or for "non-credit" will not be required to furnish transcripts.

The registration fee for three semester hours or less is ten dollars per course, for four semester hours, twelve dollars per course.

Lieutenant Bridges reminded that military personnel wishing to attend school under "Operation Bootstrap" may apply through the wing education office, and if qualified, will have three-fourths of the tuition paid by the government. However, AF Regulations require that such persons must have three years of college credit or have taken the college level USAFI GED test for counseling purposes. Those who do not qualify in either respect may apply immediately for the GED test, Lieutenant Bridges added.

A complete schedule of classes offered for the evening program in the spring semester is available at the wing education office, building T-421. The office also welcomes any personnel who have questions in regard to the part-time study program and urges that Reese airmen who wish to continue their education do so by signing for "Operation Bootstrap" at the office.

COFFEE HOUNDS were finally appeased Monday with the re-opening of the base exchange cafeteria. Work on the interior included new linoleum flooring, fluorescent lighting, wainscoting, a refinished ceiling, a complete new paint job, and the final installation of the modern snack bar. New hours of operation were announced this week by exchange officials. They are: Monday through Friday, 0700 to 2230 hours, except for an hour at 1000 and again at 1700 hours, during which the cafeteria will be closed; Saturday, 0700 to 2300 hours, with no closing time in between; Sunday, 1300 to 2300 hours.

A recent inspection of the base revealed considerable damage to road shoulders and grassed areas brought about by carelessness during and immediately following the recent siege of icy weather.

The practice of driving or parking on road shoulders and walking across grassy areas, undesirable at any time, is particularly destructive during icing or thawing conditions. Deeply rutted shoulders cause erosion and interfere with proper drainage, and grass roots suffer damage which will be all too noticeable in the spring.

Among the areas most affected are those near the post office and base exchange. Perhaps we are pressed for time when we visit those places, but we should realize time saved by parking on the shoulder and walking across the grass is far less important than the damage caused.

This is the time of year when grass roots should remain undisturbed if they are to produce a good sod next spring. Residents of the South Plains quickly learn that where there is no grass, dust takes over. And with the first brisk wind, it moves into homes, barracks and automobiles, causing a considerable degree of discomfort.

Each of us has a responsibility in the beautification and maintenance of our base. Just now workmen are planting trees, replacing those which have died, and putting in seedlings where needed. This beautification program is a constant effort to make Reese a more pleasant place in which to live and work.

Your constant cooperation is necessary to the success of this undertaking.

THOMAS J. BARRETT,
 Colonel, USAF.

This week has brought a state of partial panic to a group of cadets. This was brought about by the final physical examinations conducted every afternoon since Monday. Some of these Baker men were required to return to the base hospital for a return bout with the various gadgets used in these tests. Some were heard to say that the return trip was not conducive to a reduction in blood pressure.

We were honored Tuesday by a visit paid Reese, by some well known leaders in the training command. General Harper and party from ATRC were seen around the base and some of the academic classes then in session were visited by the General and his party.

There is some indication that the cadets will soon be flying the T-28. Of course, the fact that a very small number of these aircraft were ferried into Reese, is a weak indication, but does not prohibit wishful thinking. The unofficial word is that some of the cadets will be checked out in this trainer before they graduate. Many of the men expressed a desire to fly this airplane especially after a close-up inspection revealed its sleek lines and convenient cockpit arrangement.

There has been some intramural sports competition played during the physical training period for the past few days. There was an action-filled volleyball game Monday and a fine basketball game Tuesday. At the time of this writing there are more scheduled for the remainder of the week. These games are played with a great deal of enthusiasm and have been symbolic of a fine competitive spirit among the cadet group.

If God created us, we belong to Him, as a book belongs to the author who wrote it, or an invention to its inventor.

Because God is our Beginning, He is also our End, the final goal of our striving. "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and End." (Apoc 1 8).

From nothing God made an empire outside of Himself, an empire so vast that we cannot even estimate its extent and can only guess at its antiquity. In this empire God has given us first place. He has bestowed upon man such dignity and such inherent worth that man is actually lord and master of all visible creation. When we consider the prodigious sweep of gigantic heavenly bodies and the majestically vast expanses of space through which they rush, we are not only filled with a reverent awe, but we are overwhelmed with gratitude for what God has done for us by making the tiny speck of man of more worth and more importance than all of material creation lumped together.

Modern man has come to recognize the enjoyment and the profit to be had from getting close to nature. He realizes that he has to escape from the ugliness that he has created in the cities to the beauty that God has created in the countryside. Witness the present-day popularity of sunbathing, snow - trains, mountain climbing, week - end excursions, and the many similar forms that this back-to-nature trend takes. Although they do not realize it, these very modern people are actually being attracted by the beauty of God. Nature is not God, but God's handiwork, a dim and tiny reflection of Eternal Beauty who created it. Often modern man makes something of a god out of nature. We must be careful not to be tainted with this error. We must learn well the very first lesson taught by the Bible: there is but one God and

Personnel Must Not Use Info For Gain, AF Regulation Says

HQ., ATRC — Air Force personnel, military and civilian, should not use information growing out of their unofficial positions in business transactions involving the government which will result in personal gain.

So says Air Force Regulation 30-30, 9 November, 1951.

And the regulation points out that reserve and National Guard officers, upon termination of active duty tours, are prohibited from dealing with the Air Force in matters of which they gained personal knowledge while in the Air Force.

The regulation cites laws which make it an offense for former Air Force personnel to accept or offer payments or gifts in connection with procurement of equipment or materials for or from the government for two years after ending active duty tours.

Further, the regulation points out that former Air Force personnel, within two years of their separation, cannot act as attorneys for agents for prosecuting claims against the U. S. which involves matters directly connected with the duty of the person while in the service.

all else was made by Him and is not to be worshipped but to be referred to Him. To use the words of Cardinal Newman, all things outside of God are "the poorest and dimmest glimmerings of His glory, and the very refuse of His exuberant riches, and but the dusky smoke which precedes the flame, compared with Him who made them."

Supply Field First . . .

Career Field Tests to Begin in June

HQ., ATRC—Tests to measure career field proficiency for airmen are expected to start in June with the supply field leading off. Supply men at the "5" and "7" AFSC levels will be the first to take the exams. Tests in the various other career fields will follow in rapid succession.

Airmen holding the following AFSC's throughout the Air Force will take the exams, to be known as Airman Proficiency Tests, at a date to be announced: Warehousing Supervisor, AFSC 64171; Senior Warehousing Specialist, AFSC 64150; Supply Inspector Technician, AFSC 64172; Organizational Supply Supervisor, AFSC 64173; Senior Organizational Supply Specialist, AFSC 64151; Supply Records Supervisor, AFSC 64174; Senior Supply Records Specialist, AFSC, 64152; Stock Control Technician, AFSC 64175; Sales Store Supervisor, AFSC 64270.

Lists of recommended study materials are being prepared for each of these tests. These lists will be available at bases in the very near future.

The tests in the supply field were written by master sergeant experts in supply. Each test, which, in structure, will be very similar in all the career fields, is a multiple choice type containing approximately 150 questions.

The tests were all carefully developed to test each airman's practical proficiency in the field. There are no questions with trick language. A man's job proficiency will be tested, not his reading ability.

As a guide to airmen in supply, the tests in the field were constructed in line with the job requirements as outlined in AFR 35-464. In each career field, the applicable AFR 35-400 series is followed closely in writing the questions. In other words, anybody who is wondering just what he will be expected to know can find the complete and detailed answer in this series of Air Force Regulations.

The AFR 35-400's will list the required knowledge. The recommended study material lists will tell interested airmen where to obtain information on the subjects they want to study.

Lack of Courtesy is DWI Accident Factor Ground Safety Says

"An intoxicated driver lacks courtesy—one of the most important factors in the prevention of accidents," 1st Lt. Young E. Douglas, safety officer, stated in a plea for safety by Reese Air Force Base motorists.

"The person who has a few drinks under his belt is in no position to judge his own driving abilities," continued the director. "With some people there's even an irrational sort of pride in their attempts to drive after drinking. They may admit that their speech is blurred and their eyesight fuzzy, but that their driving is dangerous—never! They may even be so far gone that they harbor the erroneous notion that they'd better drive because they know they're in no condition to be walking!"

The good manners instilled in a person that keep him from endangering the safety of others by driving after drinking, are part of a self-training program being encouraged among drivers by the wing ground safety section.

"Remember that highway courtesy is forgotten by the driver who has been drinking, so if you're going to drive, don't drink!" The ground safety director concludes his remarks by stating, "The sober, courteous driver doesn't have to worry about whether he's accepting his own share of the responsibility for traffic safety. By driving safely and courteously, himself, and by keeping on the alert for those who do not, any motorist can assure himself of an accident-free driving record."

CCT Demonstration, Superfort Here Sat.

In answer to the aerial demonstration presented to members of the Pilot Training Squadron by the F-94 jet aircraft, Randolph Air Force Base will send to Reese a B-29 "Superfort" that will give a similar performance to the group and base personnel.

Scheduled to arrive Saturday morning, the plane will land at Reese and offer a program concurrent with the combat crew training given at Randolph.

Also on the agenda is a program, to be held in the base theater, which will deal with the Randolph training phase. Time for the program at the theater is 1000 hours. Its purpose . . . to acquaint graduates of the training squadron who will receive assignments to CCT with types of training and mission of that organization.

It happened in Korea. Lt. Alvin M. Quint, Ness City, Kans., and M/Sgt. Robert C. Ryan of Newburg, Ore., were buddies.

Lt. Quint had enough points to go home on rotation. All he needed was a replacement.

While he waited, he often talked to his sergeant friend about the advantages of being a commissioned officer. Finally Sgt. Ryan submitted an application. It was approved.

As Ryan pinned on his shiny gold bars, Lt. Quint approached. "Congratulations, old buddy," he said, "and goodbye."

"Going some place?" asked Ryan.

"Yep, going home."
 "Your replacement finally arrived, huh?"

"Yep," said Lt. Quint, "my replacement finally arrived."

Lt. Quint stayed around long enough to show Lt. Ryan his new duties.

The Men Who Teach 'Em How

By Capt. William L. Carra

First Lt. Robert Shebat, who instructs in the B-25 with Flight 3, Section I, can claim over 20 years of flying experience despite his youthful years. He was practically raised in an airplane and began flying at the tender age of three. He was logging pilot time at the age of nine and received his civilian pilot's certificate when he was 17 years old. Lieutenant Shebat's father was responsible for his flying education and was then a test pilot for

1st Lt. Robert Shebat

Wright Aeronautical Labs. The elder Shebat presently is in the accident investigation division of the Civil Aeronautics Board in Atlanta, Ga.

After attending grade school in New Jersey, and completing high school in Oak Park, Ill., Lieutenant Shebat now claims Atlanta, Ga., as his home town. With a career of flying for the United States Air Force in mind, he applied and was accepted to the United States Military Academy at West Point where he received his commission as a second lieutenant, and upon graduation from West Point in 1949 he was accepted by the Air Force for pilot training.

Lieutenant Shebat joined the class of 50-D for basic flight training at Goodfellow Field in San Angelo, and then came to Reese where he has remained since receiving his pilot wings. He likes instructing, but like every other pilot whose career is in the Air Force, he wants to fly jets and particularly fighters. Believing that an education is indispensable to progress in the Air Force, Lieutenant Shebat hopes to be able to obtain a degree in Aeronautical Engineering and later work as a developmental test pilot at Wright Field.

Boasting a well-rounded military education and flying experience, 1st Lt. Arthur F. Schultz, single-engine instructor in Section II, is shooting for the top job in the United States Air Force as his ultimate goal.

Lieutenant Schultz started his military experience back in February, 1943 when he enlisted in the Army Air Force. He attended gunnery school on B-17's and flew 26 missions in B-24's while serving in the Fifteenth Air Force in Italy. In the nine months he was overseas he was awarded the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters and has five battle stars on his EAME ribbon. He was discharged in October, 1945 as a staff sergeant.

As a civilian, Lt. Schultz returned to his prewar job at Standard Oil of New Jersey for a short time but his love of flying soon took him to Spartan School of Aeronautics. As a GI Bill student he received his commercial pilot and instructor rating. For two years he instructed in civilian flying, accumulating 1200 hours in schools at Boyertown, Penn., Taft, Calif., and Galveston, Tex.

His military training during this time continued. While in New York he served as a second lieutenant in the Coast Artillery for 11 months and later joined a medium tank outfit in the Texas National Guard, also as a second lieutenant.

In August, 1949, Lieutenant Schultz was back in the Air Force as an aviation cadet. He graduated from Reese in September, 1950, a member of the well-remembered Nellis AFB transferees. Lieutenant Schultz attended Craig AFB Pilot Instructors School and returned to Reese in December, 1950. He has since instructed in Section II and the Refresher Section. He is currently instructing in the F-94 program.

Lieutenant Schultz's immediate goal is to obtain a regular commission and to "get in jets." He lives in Lubbock with his wife, Viola.

Word has reached us that Carswell AFB has been added to our section of the Inter-Service Basketball League. This will bring the conference up to six teams, Reese, Perrin, Goodfellow, Vance, Biggs, and Carswell. Each team will play a 20-game conference schedule, meeting each of the other teams four times with two games on the home court and two on the road.

We would like to extend our heartiest thanks to Joe Kelly, Don Swanson, Don Oliver and all the rest of the sports department of the Lubbock Avalanche - Journal for their fine cooperation and coverage of the sports at Reese.

While we are handing out orchids we feel that Ernest Bruce is surely entitled to one for his fine display of boxing in recent matches. Although unable to compete in Texas Golden Gloves competition, he will put on an exhibition match at Plainview in the near future when they hold their tourney up there.

In missing his second free throw attempt in the first game with Carswell Monday night, Lt. Don Sunderlage broke his string of consecutive free throws at 20. Fourteen of these had been recorded in conference play. The string started with his last six in the Sheppard game and went on when he hit 13 in the two games with Perrin and his first one against Carswell. He currently holds the Big Ten record in that department with 22.

Rattlers Strike Pilots Twice, Break Even on Bombers

Take Twin Openers 53-49, 51-44 From Perrin in Base Gym

Led by Lt. Don Sunderlage, the Reese Rattlers won their opening game in the Inter-Service League from the Perrin AFB Pilots, 53-49, in a game played at the base gym Thursday.

The ball game was hard fought from start to finish with the lead changing hands seven times. The Pilots jumped to an early 5-2 lead, a margin that stood until late in the first quarter when the Rattlers tied it up, 10 - 10. The Rattlers enjoyed the greatest margin in the game at halftime when they held sway, 28-22.

Rattlers Bounce Back

After the intermission the Pilots found the basket again and led at the end of the third stanza, 39-38, a lead which they maintained until the last five minutes of the game when the Rattlers went ahead by four points and the final score of 53-49.

Sunderlage led the Rattler scoring with 19 points and put on a brilliant display of dribbling to stall out the last two minutes of play. Gavin added 16 points to the Reese total and Joe Lopez found the basket for 13. Fortener, a former University of Pennsylvania cager, led the Pilots' scoring with 17 points.

Take Second Tilt, Too

The Rattlers won their second game in two nights from the Perrin Pilots last Friday, 51-44.

The game was not as close as the score might indicate as the Reese contingent jumped off to an early lead of 8-0 before the Pilots could score a free throw.

The Pilots did not score a basket until the game was four minutes old. The main difference in the game was the loss of Fortener, the Perrin leading scorer, who was unable to play because of a leg injury.

Lt. Sunderlage was again the wheel for Reese with 26 points. He also ran his string of consecutive free throws to 19 for the past three ball games. Martin, a star at Texas A. & M. last year, was high point man for the Pilots with 14.

Officials for the two ball games with Perrin were Finis Vaughn and Stubby Hamilton of Lubbock.

Ten Pin Topics

The layoff for the Christmas holidays showed up in last week's averages in the Inter-Squadron Bowling League as no one could post a game over 200 or a series that was anything to tell the boys about in the shops the next morning.

PTGp, S-I- Officers Win Inter-Squadron Games This Week

Last week's Inter - Squadron League was held to four games because of the Rattlers' games.

In the opening game of the week, Hq. Pilot Training Group was a two-point victor over the Hq. Section Pilot Training Wing by a 36-34 count. The wing men lost three of their starting five via the foul route early in the last quarter and this proved to be the difference in the ball game. Hart led the PTG team with 13 points and game honors in that department. Joe Jones and "Taffy" Fox were high for PTW with eight each.

In the other game Section I Officers downed the Air Base Group five in a close one, 32-27. The game was knotted up at the end of the first half, 17-17, but with Major Parker at the helm, the Officers started hitting at the start of the third quarter and slowly pulled away until the final gun. Parker of Section I and McKinney of ABG tied for game scoring honors with 15 each.

Reese Wins, 56-37, Carswell Breaks in For 52 to 49 Victory

The Reese Rattlers, gaining vengeance for their lone conference loss of the year, trimmed the Carswell Bombers last Tuesday night at the base gym, 56-37.

Lt. Don Sunderlage paced the Rattler scoring with 26 points while high man for the visitors was Treder with seven.

Reese jumped to an early lead and was never pressed. The Rattlers dropped their first game with Carswell and came on to win this for a conference record of 3-1.

The Rattlers held a 22-10 lead at the end of the first quarter, a 37-21 margin at the half and a 44-31 edge at the end of the third quarter.

Sunderlage, Gavin and Fletcher controlled the backboards effectively and the entire Rattler team did well at the free throw line, hitting 12 out of 15 shots.

Bombers Heyday

With a last minute surge the Carswell AFB Bombers handed the Rattlers their first defeat in Inter-Service competition, 52-49, last Monday night.

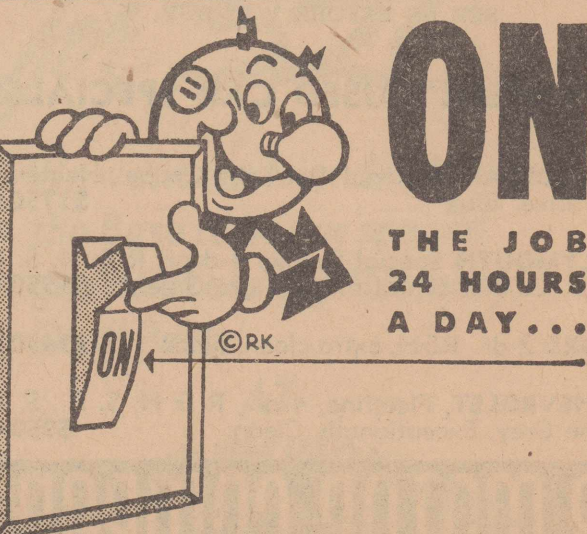

The game was nip and tuck from start to finish and was not decided until the Bombers broke a 47-47 deadlock with a little over a minute left to play. In the closing minutes Pressnell hit a field goal, Jeffery added a free throw and Pressnell hit two more from the floor.

The Rattlers lost two of their starting five, Lopez and Gavin, via the foul route before the end of the third quarter and this proved to be the difference. Lt. Sunderlage took scoring honors for the tilt with 23, while Fossey added 14 to the Reese total. Pressnell was high man for the Bombers with 20.

INSTALLATIONS SQUADRON

Installations Squadron is looking forward to another busy New Year with everybody, especially the orderly room personnel, working like beavers. Yes, things are really "busslin'" around the squadron lately with airmen (flying) back to Reese from the ice and snowy grounds of Illinois, New York and Iowa.

New airmen have been crowding the orderly room from basic training centers awaiting for assignments. Their shining faces at the mail room window indicate they want their mail in a hurry. Don't be in a hurry fellows, cause you've got four enjoyable years to go.

A new adjutant for this squadron has arrived through the wind and sand. Welcome to your new squadron, Captain Kienlen!

The fire department and Air Installation shop section have lost several of their valuable airmen whom are Camp Stoneman bound. Happy landings to T/Sgt. Witt, S/Sgt. Bison, S/Sgt. Pippins and Cpl. Oikawa.

The orderly room misses one of our seven dwarfs. Sgt. Otto

"Happy" Sample, transferred to Food Service squadron with new duties as chief clerk.

For a few days in the orderly room Corporal Gillis was left flummoxed and baffled with his new job, asst. chief clerk. Sgt. Robbins keep this boy on the ball.

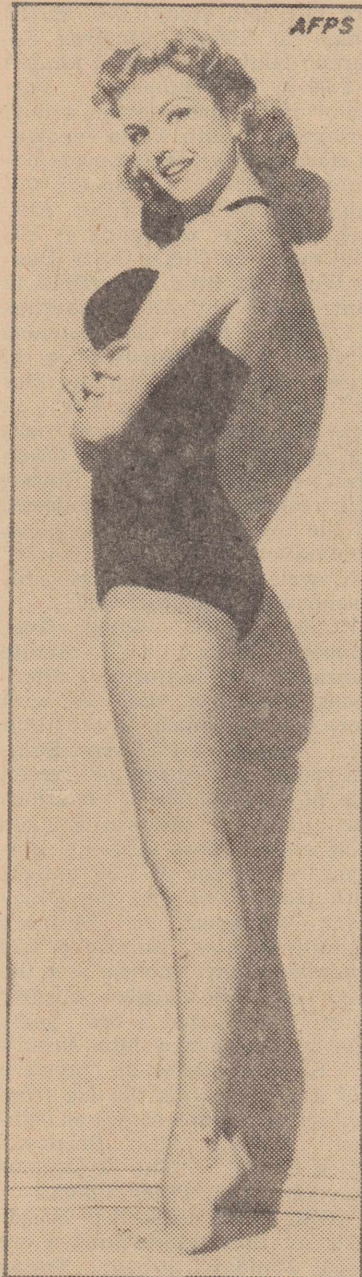

Mail clerk Hamer is getting our three Powells and two Matarazzo airmen mixed up so guess he'll have to go by their size now.

Pfc. O'Conner's motto for the morning report is now, "Perfection."

West Point to Fete 150th Anniversary

SCHNOZZOLA: STORY OF JIMMY DURANTE
By Gene Fowler

In one of the most eagerly awaited books of the year, Gene Fowler tells the story of Jimmy "Schnozzola" Durante, the son of Bartolomeo, the barber of Salerno. The author of GOOD NIGHT, SWEET PRINCE writes of a magnificently talented clown, an unwavering friend, and a great gentleman, from the days when Jimmy was the newsboy with the most penetrating voice in the whole city hall area.

Besides being the story of the most widely respected and beloved figure in the entertainment world of today, SCHNOZZOLA is a brilliant re-creation of the Broadway of prohibition ri-jinks and hi-jacking, fabulous show people, legend-making happiness. Jimmy's Jeanne, living the lonely life of a woman whose husband's profession forced her to share him with the world, is one of many memorable figures.

It would be impossible, of course, to write at any length about Jimmy Durante without telling a great deal about Lou Clayton and Eddie Jackson, for these three men were inseparably bound by a lifetime of mutual companionship and trust. They earned millions of dollars together, with never a written agreement as to the division of the money; they faced their public triumphs and their personal tragedies as men and as friends. So, to the million of Americans who cannot quite account for the hold that this strange, bandy-legged clown, with the big nose and great heart, has on their affections, we give SCHNOZZOLA, the story of Jimmy Durante, Gene Fowler's warmest and funniest book.

Pay Boost Passes House; Senate Next

The House has given the green light to consideration of a bill giving servicemen a 10 per cent pay raise. House majority leader John W. McCormack (D.) of Massachusetts obtained unanimous consent of the House to bypass usual procedural rules in taking up the bill.

The measure under consideration, held over from last year's session of Congress, would give all servicemen a flat 10 per cent increase in pay and living allowances, effective the first day of the month following the signing of the bill by President Truman.

No opposition to the measure is expected and early action is anticipated in the Senate.
