

Collateral Training Schedule Quoted; Given Saturdays

Establishment of a Master Collateral Training schedule for the first half of 1956 has been announced in a directive given all unit commanders recently. Training will be conducted on duty Saturdays.

The directive, signed by Col. James F. Mears for the base commander, sets the second Saturday of each month for Commander's Hour presentation of films in the base theater. It directs that the third Saturday of each month is the time for Character Guidance, followed by the officer's Commander's Hour. Other Collateral Training subjects are fitted into the schedule. Under the plan, the base theater may not be used on Saturdays by the various units conducting training.

Squadron commanders are directed to plan their programs on Saturdays around the master schedule so that all requirements are met. Aircraft Recognition and Flying Safety meetings for rated officers are set for 1030 and 1300 hours on the first Wednesday of each month, with behind-the-line pilots attending.

The master schedule and letter also call attention to the various subjects in Collateral Training and point out responsibilities. Subjects listed include aircraft recognition, military justice, chemical warfare, flying safety, character guidance, ground safety, passive defense, personal hygiene, psychological warfare, small arms familiarization and qualification, base level supervisory management training, and censorship training.

Judge Advocate Issues Brochure On Present Laws

The Staff Judge Advocate, seeking to aid all base personnel in meeting situations involving laws of the vicinity, has issued a brochure on recurring problems of military personnel in this area. Divided into two parts, it treats of the laws of Lubbock county and vicinity, and of miscellaneous recurring problems.

In the first part, the brochure deals with income tax payments, taxes on real estate, personal property taxes, and sales taxes, including advantages and disadvantages military personnel have in taking certain courses of action.

In Part 2, the brochure deals with automobile license plates, drunken driving, curfew hours, Texas safety stickers, the Veterans Administration, the base credit union, legal interest, and the legal assistance program.

The primary purpose of the brochure is to give base personnel an insight into their rights and to guide them in operating under current laws.

MARS Radio Facilities Available For Use By Reese AFB Personnel

It was an unexpected Christmas for S/Sgt. Gerald D. Reeley of the Air Police squadron to talk by telephone with his daughter, Glenda, in Perris, Cal. And it cost the sergeant nothing.

A couple of days before Christmas Sergeant Reeley took advantage of the Military Amateur Radio System, commonly called MARS, to make his call.

"It certainly was a thrill to sit in my office and talk with my 16-year-old daughter out there in California," Reeley said.

The Reese MARS unit is located in Building T-100 and it is designed to operate as a system to supplement regular communications channels. It also provides an additional source of trained radio communications personnel in event of a local disaster.

Sergeant Reeley benefited from use of the system, "but, actually, the full benefits to be derived have been neglected by the persons on this base," Capt. Richard J. Shawd, base MARS director, said. "Few of the personnel here are aware of the facilities placed at their disposal by the Reese MARS station."

The captain pointed out that the majority of messages and telephone traffic by the unit are basically military and administrative, but the station is equipped to handle messages and telephone conversations of a personal nature, such as the Reeley call, sometimes within five minutes.

Captain Shawd said any Reese personnel or dependents may call the MARS unit to give the name of the person and base or town who the caller wishes to talk with. Some areas can be called only at certain hours of the day, and it may take up to three days to complete a call. Other calls go through quickly, within minutes. Sometimes priority of military functions sets back completion somewhat.

Under the system the Reese MARS unit calls another unit or ham operator by radio telephone and when the person wanted is on the phone, then the person who placed the call is linked on, as if it were a long distance call.

Captain Shawd pointed out that daily calls are made to points up to 800 miles and regular messages are sent to California, Nebraska, Illinois, and other areas.

"The base station boasts three qualified operators, duly licensed by the Federal Communications commission," the captain said. "These men are basically ham operators who have made all phases of radio operation their primary hobby. In utilizing their abilities these men are not only enjoying leisure hours with their chosen hobby, but they are preparing themselves for technical positions both with the Air Force and in civilian life.

"The facilities of the MARS station and the technical know-how of experienced operators are placed at the disposal of all personnel. This is true for all persons interested in studying or using radio communications, in calling home, or in observing how a well-equipped radio station works. We'll be happy to cooperate with anyone calling 313, the MARS station."

Management Course Has 1000th Graduate

The base level personnel management course at Reese AFB has graduated its 1,000th person and has contributed greatly toward savings on the base, Charles Galbraith, course instructor, said this week.

With graduation of Class 55-F just before Christmas the course had been attended by 1,015 persons. S/Sgt. Lynn D. Clement of Air Police was designated the 1,000th graduate when he became valedictorian of the class, Galbraith said.

The management course has been in operation for about five years, with relatively little change in procedures. The primary aim has been to provide fundamentals of good supervision and to help supervisors to meet requirements of their positions. Management procedures and techniques which permit scientific, rather than haphazard, operation are taught, it was said. Each student of the school is required to apply knowledge through initiation and execution of two management improvements before he is graduated.

Galbraith pointed out that suggestions for management improvements on the base have been on the increase and numerous suggestions annually have resulted from application of thinking and techniques offered in the course.

Major Moore Promoted To Lt. Colonel

Maj. James G. Moore, fixed communications officer at Reese Air Force Base, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel.

The new colonel came to Reese AFB in July, 1954, from duty as commander of an air communications service at Elmendorf AFB, Alaska, where he had been stationed two and a half years. Resident of Prague, Okla., he was in service from March, 1937, to January, 1943, as an enlisted man and then until June, 1946, as an officer. He returned to active duty in February, 1951. Colonel Moore served in Africa and the Middle East in 1945-46.

Lt. Col. James G. Moore

He is a 1934 graduate of Prague high school. His wife is the former Kathryn A. McQuistan of Waltham, Neb. They have two sons and a daughter. The Moores live at 333 Harmon drive, Reese Village.

Two former officers of Reese AFB also were notified of promotions to lieutenant colonel. They were Clyde W. Bradley, Jr., and Clyde W. Owen, both captains when at Reese. Bradley was commandant of students from the time the base opened in October, 1949, until he was re-assigned to FTAF in November, 1951. He became a major just before his departure. Owen was a flight instructor, inspector, and commander of the wing headquarters squadron while at Reese AFB from the fall of 1949 until his departure for Harlingen AB as flying safety officer in the summer of 1952.

Base Maintains Place In Safety Competition

Reese Air Force Base is maintaining its position in ground safety competition among the 43 bases of Air Training Command.

Reese AFB has held fifth place for three months. Keesler AFB, Miss., is leading competitors, trailed by Lackland, Webb, Mather, and Reese AFBs, the notification said.

All 43 ATC bases are in competition for the $25,000 Commanders Award, which will go to the base with the lowest ground accident cost and incident. A second prize of $15,000 and a third prize of $10,000 also are to be given. Last year Reese AFB was second, but received no cash award.

The Hall Of Fame

Figures don't lie. The pre-eminence of a Ted Williams or a Willie Mays shows through clearly in a season-long box score. A box score also can be used to evaluate the amount of liberty in one country as compared to another.

Discipline, religion, civics, education, social order and economic order replace hits, runs, home runs and RBI's in our box score. Liberty's batting average gives an idea how this country compares with a totalitarian state.

Be your own score keeper! As for a rule book, here are some ideas. In filling in the six columns use the following guides:

Discipline: are the rights of the individual protected by a police force or does the police force exist to subjugate the individual? Religion: is there freedom of worship? Civics: does the man vote secretly; does he have a choice of candidates? Education: is the student allowed to pick his way freely through the education system or does the system impress on him one rigid set of ideas? Social order: is there much distinction between social classes? Economic order: how high are the living standards and is there much opportunity for the individual?

We're willing to bet you'll find Uncle Sam more than definitely a Hall of Famer. As for those guys in the red uniforms — is there anything below Class D? (AFPS)

Honor Cadets Selected At Exercises

Seven members of Class 56-F, graduating the past Wednesday morning from Reese Air Force Base training, have been named Distinguished Cadets on the basis of high achievement in flying, military, and academic training.

The seven are Cadets Frank Angelone of Alliance, O., James W. Bergstrom of Bock, Minn., William W. Baxter of Pensacola, Fla., William G. S. Lodge of Arlington, Va., Lionel F. Martioccia, Daytona Beach, Fla., Paul P. Nixon of Norfolk, Va., and Richard J. Stanziano of East Durham, N. Y.

Angelone served four years with the Navy prior to enlisting in the United States Air Force in August, 1954. He was on Guam and in Korea, making three amphibious landings in Korea. He is a former student of Ohio State university.

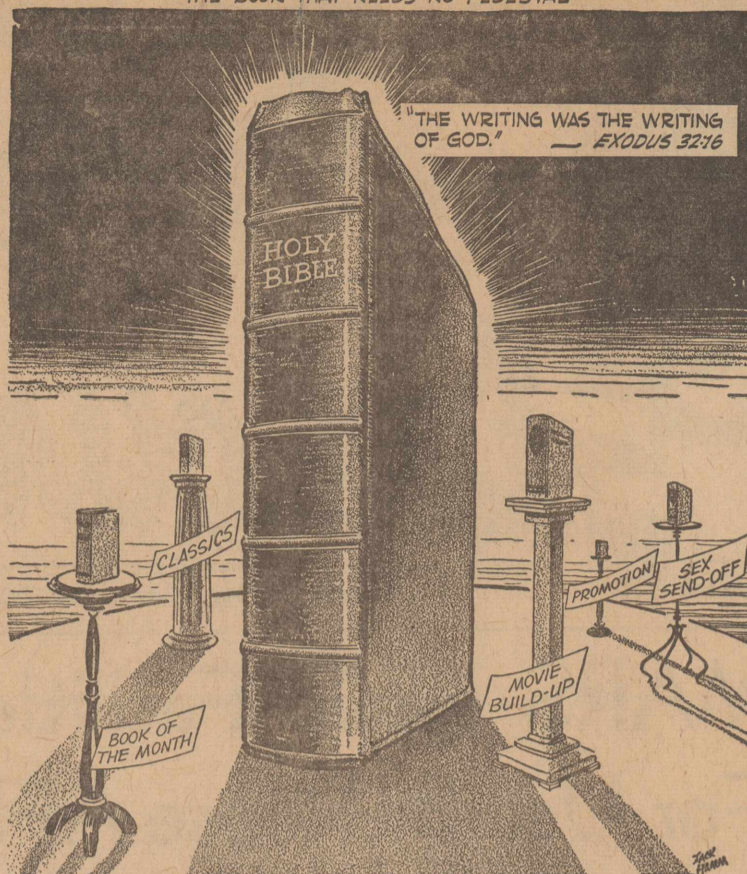

Bergstrom served three years in the Army prior to enlisting in the Air Force in September, 1954. He is a high school graduate. Baxter also enlisted in September, 1954. He is a graduate of Birmingham Southern college.

Lodge also enlisted in September, 1954, following two years work toward a degree at Ohio Wesleyan university, where he majored in secondary education. Martioccia is a former student of the University of Florida. He is another September, 1954, enlistee.

Nixon is a former bandsman of the Great Bridge, Va., high school, from which he was graduated in 1953. He has been in service a year. Stanziano served in the Air Force from 1949 to 1952 and re-enlisted in September, 1954. He was stationed in Germany 18 months. He is a former student of New York University.

New Vice-President Is Elected By PTA

A new first vice president of the Reese Parent-Teachers association will be elected at the January meeting of the group, Col. James C. Watkins, PTA president, announced this week.

The association also has a new budget and finance committee composed of M/Sgt. William E. Hicks, Maj. Homer L. Parsons, Mrs. D. R. Bunn, Mrs. Richard C. Roswurm, and Mrs. J. C. DeArmand.

A Christmas program was presented to the PTA the night of December 14, in the school following a meeting of the executive committee. The Reese Elementary band, directed by Mrs. Betty Mowery, played several Yule numbers. Pupils presented skits showing Christmas in different lands. First graders portrayed Christmas in America; third graders showed "A Dutch Christmas"; and fourth graders offered "A Mexican Posada." Students of the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades united to present "The First Christmas."

Yule Edition Gets Special Recognition

Special recognition on THE ROUNDUP's Christmas edition has been given by the information officer of FTAF.

"Just a note of congratulation on the excellent three-section (it's the first in the Command) Christmas edition of THE ROUNDUP," Capt. Arthur H. Clinchy, FTAF information officer, wrote Capt. Byrne P. Whalen, Reese information officer. "It's one of the finest pieces of service journalism I've seen.

"One of the many good points is the way in which the worldwide Christmas scene is told with the localizing angle. The way in which both enlisted and officer personnel are covered in the Christmas stories is also good.

You, and especially Airman Ziegler, are to be congratulated on this issue."

THE ROUNDUP in its Christmas edition sought to bring a view of Christmas around the world through interviews with Reese personnel who were raised in lands distant from the United States.

Maj. Stutts Assigned As Magazine Editor

Maj. Vernon R. Stutts, commander of the 3502nd Flight Line Maintenance squadron at Reese Air Force Base, has been re-assigned to Norton AFB, Cal., as editor of the Flying Safety magazine of the United States Air Force.

Major Stutts came to Reese AFB in the fall of 1953 from duty with the Directorate of Flying Safety in Tokyo. He was maintenance control officer until about six months ago.

The major, resident of Rockingham, N. C., has been in service since February, 1942, serving almost as much time overseas as in the States. He was a cadet in 1942, then was assigned to Harlingen Air field nearly three years, went to Japan for two and a half years, returned to Wright Patterson AFB in Ohio for Air Material duty a couple of years, and then went to the Far East in 1951. In Korea and Japan he won many decorations, including the Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal with three clusters.

Village Decorating Contest Winners

A Nativity scene made of life-size cardboard cut-outs, won first prize of $50 for Capt. and Mrs. John G. Conklin, of 111 Harmon Dr. in the Annual Reese Village Christmas decoration contest.

Second prize of $25 in the outdoor division went to M/Sgt. and Mrs. Sam Thompson, 118 Arnold Dr., who displayed a brightly lit model church with a Bible opened to the Christmas passages.

A $15 first prize for the best window was won by Lt. and Mrs. Robert R. Harris, 333 Arnold Dr. Their window was painted to resemble a greeting card.

Capt. and Mrs. Elijah N. Gallaway, 329 Mitchell Blvd., were awarded a prize of $10 for the best door decoration.

The winners were announced by S. H. Price, manager of Reese Village, Inc. The annual contest, is sponsored by the corporation to encourage the holiday spirit.

Base Civilian Workers Enrolled In ECI Courses

The Extension Course Institute, USAF, at Gunter AFB recently enrolled 30 civilians employed at Reese AFB.

These new ECI students enrolled in Metal Working, Aircraft Jet Engine Mechanic, Aircraft Radio Repairman, and Supply Officer courses.

There are 58 courses now available at the Institute. These courses are designed for both civilian and military students.

Enrollments from Reese Air Force Base this year have amounted to 184. During 1954 Reese sent in 139, compared to 83 enrollments in 1953. Total ECI enrollments now top 160,000.

Instructor Pilots Receive Promotion

Three officers of the 3501st Pilot Training squadron at Reese Air Force base have been promoted to first lieutenant. They are Robert J. Bullington, Robert E. Fromm, and Duane H. Erickson, all flight instructors.

The three officers have been together in everything since they were graduated from West Point in June, 1954. They entered pilot training at Bainbridge Air Base, Ga., and came to Reese AFB for basic pilot training in Class 55-T in March, 1955. They were graduated and received their wings in August, 1955, and a short time later completed Basic Instructor School before becoming instructors.

Two Hospitalized In Driving Mishaps

Nine accidents, one serious and another which may be serious, were reported to the ground safety office last week Joe Lopez, safety technician, said Thursday. A pre-cadet was hospitalized in Minnesota, following an accident, but the extent of his injuries or nature of the accident were not known at Reese AFB, Lopez said. An airman was hurt in an auto accident in Massachusetts and was hospitalized.

Seven first aid cases were reported, two involving civilians and five, airmen.

An airman and his two passengers escaped serious injury when an automobile overturned following a collision. An airman received a broken eardrum in a fight in Lubbock.

A civilian received a bruised finger when he slammed the door of a pickup on his finger, while another civilian hurt his hip when he fell against a building when the handle of a tarpot he was pulling broke.

An airman on KP cut his finger on a can; another airman sprained his ankle stepping from a maintenance stand; and a third airman cut his finger when the safety wire on an aircraft bomb-bay broke.

NCO Wives Entertain At Dinner-Dance

By Mrs. Jack Rash

Members of the NCO Wives club entertained their husbands at the annual Christmas dinner-dance last Monday night in the ballroom of the NCO Open Mess.

The tables were laid with white cloths and centered with an arrangement of evergreens with glitter balls set in styrofoam, with candles. Turkey and dressing with all the trimmings was served, and each couple received favors.

Music for dancing was furnished by the Kaye Carter orchestra.

The door prize was won by M/Sgt. and Mrs. Dallas Tourtellat. Hostesses for the evening were Mmes. Grady Williams, Marvin Wright, Fred Strickland and Dallas Tourtellat.

Base Drive Brings Cash Present To A. P. Olivers

A spontaneous drive by a few employees of Reese Air Force Base brought a cash Christmas present to the sick A. P. Olivers Friday. About 10 employees raised $200 in a short time and deposited it to the Oliver account in the American State Bank Friday morning. At the Reese AFB hospital an additional $76 was raised in a few minutes, and this will be presented to the Olivers.

Mr. Oliver is a victim of muscular dystrophy, a disease which is moving to muscles around his heart. Mrs. Oliver was a dental assistant at the Base hospital, but she has been unable to work for 10 weeks because of thrombophlebitis.

Numerous contributions have been made to the Olivers since they became ill.
