Safety Council Programs Joint Action in Area

A program for furthering air safety among all aviation organizations of the South Plains was being worked out this week by the local Joint Civilian-Military Aviation Safety Council.

The council, composed of civilian aviation officials of Lubbock and military officials of Reese Air Force Base, has a four-fold objective: to foster and promote air safety among all aviation agencies of the area; to promote closer understanding between aviation agencies; to establish an appreciation of mutual problems, and to exchange viewpoints and information on operating procedures.

Maj. Frederick F. Shriner, flying safety officer, was elected temporary secretary at the organizational meeting Monday here at Reese. Permanent officers will be elected at the next meeting, set for June 15.

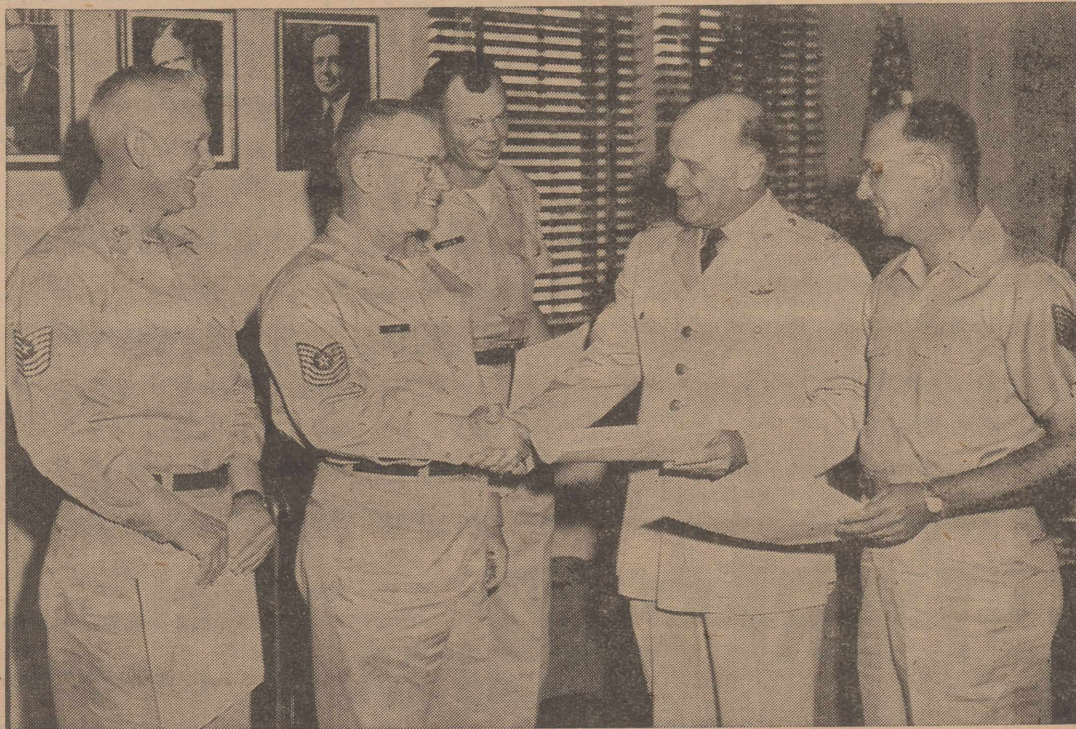

"Reese has joined with a group of safety-minded civilian agencies in this major activity," Major Shriner said. "We believe in the future of this expanding area. As Lubbock grows, the air traffic and air safety problem will become knotty. We'd like to get ahead of it before it outgrows us."

Cadets Critically Injured in Crash

Two Reese aviation cadets, Gerald W. Hempel and Kurt H. Olsen, were reported in critical condition, following a highway accident near Carlsbad, N. M.

New Mexico highway police reported their automobile overturned while they were attempting to pass another car, their auto turning over six times and rolling 768 feet. The accident occurred Saturday night.

THANK YOU!—Col. Dross Ellis, base commander, thanks MSgt. Walter O. Shaw and presents a letter of appreciation for 35 years of service. The four sergeants shown all are retiring Monday after more than 20 years service. Left to right are MSgt. Paul O. Robison, Sergeant Shaw, MSgt. Woodrow Mason, Colonel Ellis, and MSgt. Cletus Fitzgerald. Letters were presented all four retirees.

Four Master Sergeants Honored By Base Commander For Services

Combining 100 years service, four master sergeants of Reese, will retire Monday, three to remain on the South Plains. Their total time on active duty is 99 years, 8 months, 22 days; on inactive duty 1 year, 6 months, 27 days.

They are MSgts. Walter O. Shaw, assigned to quality control in the Maintenance and Supply group, 35 years; Woodrow Mason, assigned as reparable inspector in M&S, 22 years; Cletus Fitzgerald, dock chief in aircraft maintenance, 22 years, and Paul O. Robison, NCOIC of communications, 21 years.

Letters of appreciation were presented to the retiring non-commissioned officers Tuesday by Col. Dross Ellis, base commander, who thanked them for their contributions to the Air Force.

Sergeant Shaw is the dean of Reese personnel. He came to the base when it was re-activated in October, 1949, and is the oldest military assignee, in point of service. He served 26 months overseas. He will continue to live at 4610 Canton, Lubbock.

Sergeant Mason came to Reese in October, 1956. He will live in Shallowater.

Sergeant Fitzgerald is dock chief of the organization selected as Dock of the Month for March. He plans to go into business at Ralls.

Sergeant Robison has been at Reese a year and served four overseas tours. He came to Reese from Elmendorf AFB, Alaska. Mrs. Robison is the former Mildred Barney, a WAC sergeant in Japan when she met (See RETIREMENT, Page 3)

Review Pictures Retired Aircraft

Acres of aging aircraft, including the B-25s formerly assigned to Reese, are shown in the June Air Force Review movie.

The planes, which have outlived their usefulness to the Air Force, are helping the service reclaim millions of dollars in the Air Material Command Weapons Phase Out Procedure.

The film also shows presentation of the top safety award to TAC, movement of 100 tank cars of fuel at the largest airlift terminal, helicopters serving Texas Towers on stilts along the coast, and classroom work on the Atlas ground guidance system.

Also shown are scenes in Bangkok and the new visual landing aid called Narrow Gauge.

Base Competitors In Pistol Match

Three competitors will represent Reese at the Air Training Command pistol tournament this week-end at Sheppard AFB.

Leaving Thursday for the four day event were TSgt. Glenn L. Wuff, SSgt. Jesse F. Kitchens, and A/1C Gerald Cahill.

Seventy-two competitors from 15 bases are scheduled to shoot.

Reese Choir Wins Command Honors; Competes in USAF

The Reese chapel choir has been awarded second place in ATC as the result of judging of tape recordings from various bases.

The choir from Bartow Air Base, for the third consecutive year, won first place. Plaques are being awarded both bases and their recordings will be entered in the USAF contest.

The 25 voice Reese choir is directed by Doyle Gammill, Texas Tech student. For the ATC contest it recorded "Open Our Eyes," by MacFarlane, and "Sanctus Art Thou (Holy is the Lord)" by Schubert.

The Air Force plans to level-off its fleet of C-133 turboprop cargo planes at 50, rather than the 109 originally planned.

Reese Cadet Honor Student of ATC

Aviation Cadet Byron W. Evans, former missileman, has been selected as the honor student of Class 59-H in Air Training command and will be given special honors at the class graduation June 10.

He will receive a letter of recognition and other honors from Lt. Gen. Frederic H. Smith, Jr., ATC commander.

Evans, who is serving as adjutant of the cadet squadron, with the rank of cadet captain, was an auto-track specialist with a squadron working with the MATADOR missile from March, 1956, until February, 1958.

He began missile work after completing the guidance systems technical school at Lowry AFB, Denver. His selection being based on high scores in the AQE tests.

Class 59-H includes 17 student officers and 17 aviation cadets.

One cadet is a national guardsman.

Burned Woman Flown from Base

The Air Force made a mercy flight Wednesday in efforts to save the life of a badly burned Lubbock woman, Mrs. Homer Phelps.

A MATS C-131 hospital ship flew in from Brooke Hospital, accompanied by a burn team which specializes in treating burned patients. The ship hurried Mrs. Phelps to the burn center of a Galveston hospital.

Capt. E. T. Mitchell, burn team head, said the woman, whose clothes caught fire in her home late Tuesday night, was in a critical condition.

Accident Elimination Sought in 'Operation Summersafe'

Elimination of accidents is the primary aim of "Operation Summersafe," starting this week at Reese and other Air Training Command bases.

An all-out effort in accident prevention has been directed by Col. Dross Ellis, base commander.

"The program will be aimed toward reducing the hazards encountered while on summer outings and vacation," the colonel stated in a letter to all units. "Particular emphasis will be placed on prevention of traffic and recreational accidents.

"Memorial Day, Independence

Day, and Labor Day are all included in this campaign and will be subjects of special attention."

"Project officers have been named for all groups and squadrons.

"Commanders will support this campaign by personally counseling individuals going on leave or pass and by emphasizing safe driving at Commanders call prior to each holiday.

"At the end of April we were tied for fourth place in the ATC Ground Safety contest. I am certain our position can be improved through timely accident prevention effort and I expect full cooperation of each member of my command in achieving this improvement."

All base personnel have been urged to use special care this week-end, as highway traffic increases because of Memorial Day.

We Honor the Dead

How many of our present day teenagers would give you a blank stare if you mentioned Souribachi, Pelleu, Anzio, Tarawa, or Guadalcanal? How many of today's oldsters might give you that same stare if you mentioned Marne, Ypres, Belleau Wood and Chateau Thierry?

If some of these names sound a bit unfamiliar, you know why Memorial Day comes around once a year. It's all too easy and natural to forget. Life goes on. But men died frightful and bloody deaths in those almost forgotten places. They were young men, many of them in their late teens and early twenties.

At Flanders, they lie today where they fell over 40 years ago. In Arlington Cemetery there are men who gave more than their lives for their country. They gave even their names, for they lie in the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

In justice we pause once a year on Memorial Day to honor our war dead. Had they not died, we would not be enjoying the liberty we have today.

They Came and They Stayed

The military academies are preparing for graduation ceremonies and statisticians are watching the number of graduates who choose services other than that conducting their schooling. The Air Force fared very well.

The Air Force Academy is graduating 206, and only one is going elsewhere. He is going to the Marines.

We aren't inclined to brag, but there are merits about this record. Any school builds its prestige by being a champion in sports, through alumni organizations or its achievements in arts and sciences on a nationwide basis or through sheer tradition. The Air Force Academy did not have these in their inventory.

The fact that 205 are choosing to remain in the Air Force blue is commendable; also, the possibility that the Marine probably will end in the Marine air wing as a flier is proof of the pudding, that when it comes to flying we're the experts. And it proves that the Air Force sells itself as the best service.

Incidentally, 43 West Pointers and 84 Annapolis graduates this spring picked the Air Force as the service of choice.

From the Commander's Desk

By Col. Dross Ellis, Base Commander

Beginning with this issue of "THE ROUNDUP," I propose to elaborate on the mission and function of Reese Air Force Base and the various groups which assist in accomplishing the mission.

The mission of Reese, as all should know, is basic pilot training. We train student officers, Air Force aviation cadets and foreign nationals as directed by higher headquarters. To carry out this mission, certain functions are necessary, such as a course in basic pilot instruction, instructor upgrading, on the job training, disaster relief, security and defense plans and a host of others.

Moreover, daily operation requires the coordinated assistance of the various groups and staff members.

I am supported in this operation by the inspector, surgeon, judge advocate, material control officer, chaplain and information service officer. Also on my staff are the personnel officer, operations officer, adjutant, comptroller, the group commanders and other key personnel such as the resident auditor, flying safety officer, manpower officer and the provost marshal.

Everyone should be aware of the basic mission and organization of Reese. This will give each person an idea of where he fits into the big picture and how his individual efforts aid in the performing of our vital mission. At a later date I shall discuss the mission and responsibility of the various groups.

Workers Needed, Chaplain Asserts

By Chaplain Willis L. Stowers

Paul gave some wonderful directions to the Christians at Corinth. They were quibbling about their place and part in the Church life, and in the Christian way of life. Paul's Words were "I planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase. We are God's fellow workers."

How many of us need to achieve in these days the happy combination of dependence on God with energetic work in His spirit.

This is a sound principle of the New Testament, eternally true of our religious and our total practical work-a-day life. Too many of us never realize that God works in our world according to absolute physical, social, and moral laws. We wait too much of the time for God to do for us what he will do only through us.

God could stop wars. God could end the spread of cancer, all diseases. But God has made you and me rational men and women, and He expects us to use our freedom for good and for ill. He could, but He will not violate this freedom.

Are we prepared, whatever task and duties we face to let ourselves be used as instruments of God's good will.

This will not be any drab, dull dependence on God, but the most thrilling life in the world, because in this kind of life, we shall share in the vital triumphant joyous life of our Creator. Such dependence upon God will not mean sitting around and doing nothing. It will mean making our lives prayerful in attitude, so that our work and motives of everyday, will express God's will. Then we will know that we are cooperating with God's eternal purpose, that in truth we are God's fellow workers in life, and in this there is nothing more challenging.

Warning Issued On Stimulants

Warning against use of stimulants while driving was issued Thursday by Dr. Edward Pallette, Reese physician.

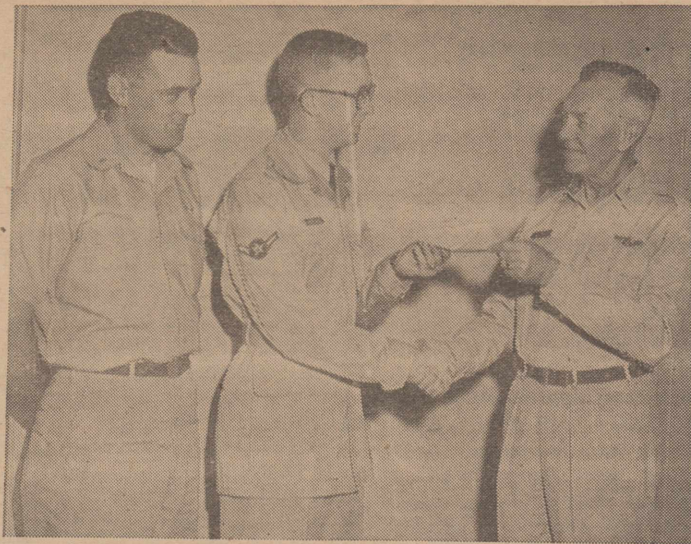

"Most doctors do not recommend stimulants while driving, any more than they advocate the use of depressants such as alcohol or narcotics," he said.

"These drugs tend to have a generally detrimental influence on judgment and may give a false sense of security to a fatigued driver. Acute minute to minute reaction time while traveling at high speeds is no less necessary for driving than it is for flying.

"The careful avoidance of drugs which change reaction time or judgment is well known to pilots, as is the avoidance of flying fatigue.

"Anti-doing pills are no substitute for an hour of sleep on the roadside. A day of break-neck, non-stop driving may be a lifetime."

Air Policeman Airman of the Month

For the second consecutive time and the first time on Reese records, an Air Policeman has been selected as Airman of the month at Reese. Named for May is A/3C John D. Lorentz.

The selection was based on the fact Airman Lorentz is versatile and able to fill any policeman assignment. He has served as desk sergeant lately, participates in squadron athletic endeavors, and is enrolled in ECI and Texas Tech courses.

Also nominated were A/3C Roland W. Spencer of wing personnel, A/1C Weldon Petty of M&S, A/1C Antonio Sullivan of Installations, and A/2C Roger Young of Pilot Training group.

Spencer, on duty in the airman reassignment section, was recommended for performing exact, monotonous work well, for his tact in dealing with airmen and officers, for acceptance of responsibility, and other factors.

Petty, organizational supply specialist, was lauded for improvements in the card systems, for completion of an ECI course and other accomplishments.

Young, personal equipment specialist, was recommended for constant work toward knowledge improvement and for cooperation.

Sullivan was his unit's nominee because of ability to perform many functions in Installations and for ECI study.

Squadron Sponsors Officers' Party

By 1st Lt. Charles R. Penola
The big news around the 3500th Pilot Training squadron this week is the Beatnik party scheduled for Saturday night in the Officers club. The squadron is sponsoring the shin-dig for all officer personnel of the base.

* * * *

Since Beatnik originated in California, it might be proper to feature an instructor pilot from Arkansas. So we'll tell about 1st Lt. Jimmie L. Wood, born Nov. 23, 1932, in Yellville, Ark.

He graduated from high school in Bishop, Ark., and attended Arkansas Tech. He became an aviation cadet in March 1953, and received his commission at Webb AFB in June, 1954.

As navigator of the 44th bomb wing at Lake Charles AFB, he was on TDY at Goose Bay, Thule and Ben Gueir AB, French Morocco. At the latter place he became a KC-97 crew member.

Lieutenant Wood lives in the Reese housing area with his wife Frances, and two children.

"The books that help you the most are the books that make you think the most"
Theodore Baker

By Helen K. Fuller

AMERICAN FOREIGN AFFAIRS by William L. Schurz is a book that everyone interested in our foreign policy should read. Getting on with other nations is the subject of this thorough and lucid survey. As the author points out, the American people are now spending more than a seventh of their gross income for the maintenance of their country's foreign policies, and his book is designed to advance an informed public opinion on the subject.

FRIENDS AND ENEMIES by Adlai E. Stevenson. For everyone who is looking for a concise run-down on the Soviet empire today, the real threat it presents, and the sound way to meet it, here is an astute and privileged observer's lively, authoritative, and notably shrewd report of what he learned during his recent 7,000 mile journey.

In it, Stevenson comments acutely on the strains of dissent in the Communist camp and the uneasiness of its leaders about Red China — Russia's greatest anxiety—while warning us not to underestimate the solidarity of the Moscow-Peiping axis.

Stevenson came away with some disturbing and some hopeful conclusions, convinced that the battle for the future is economic and political and that the major battleground is in Asia and Africa.

A GUIDE TO ANTI-COMMUNIST ACTION by Anthony T. Bouscaren is a practical handbook for individuals and organizations to use in the struggle between freedom and enslavement. It outlines in plain terms the development of Communism and its basic doctrines, describes the techniques by which it comes to power and fearlessly names persons, groups, and publications that are its tools..

According to the author, Communism is everybody's business. Plotted behind the walls of the Kremlin, directed by a handful of trained organizers, and innocently furthered by well-meaning liberals, the Soviet plan for world domination threatens the very existence of the average citizen and his children.

Match Will Decide Badminton Finalists

TSgt. R. L. Walker and SSgt. Richard W. Pearson, both of the 3502nd Flight Line Maintenance squadron, this week awaited opponents in the base badminton finals. They won their way into final competition, but a match remained to select opponents.

A/1C Glenn Whitsett and A/3C Jack Young of Air Base group were to meet 1st Lt. Richard B. Corbin, Jr. and Cadet James A. Dewey, to determine finalists.

Sports Report

By A/3C Roger J. Gillard

Time for an apology. In last week's paper there was a slight error on the wording of the ABG-PTW game played last week. It stated, "SSgt. Bob White, PTW pitcher, threw wild, letting the ABG runner on third score, ending the game." That did not end the game. ABG did tally because of a wild pitch by White, but that score tied the game 4-4, and left a man on third for ABG. On White's next pitch the ABG batter finally got a good enough hit for his man on third to come in to win over PTW, 5-4. And that's the way ABG overtook PTW in the bottom of the last inning, last week.

Byron Gillory, Reese pilot training graduate has moved from an assistant coaching job at Lubbock Monterey high school to the head job at Denton high school. He is a former football and track letterman at Texas University and flew Air Force jets after graduating from Reese in 1952. He coached the Air Force academy backfield and was track coach three years before coming to Lubbock for one year. At Denton high, Gillory will take over a football team which won one and lost nine games last season.

Sox Hold Tight To League Lead

The Red Sox, defeating the Braves and Dodgers this week, retained a firm grip on the Reese Little league lead with a 4-0 record. The Braves and Dodgers have one win and three losses, each.

Rudi Rushing and Arthur Sands are the Sox pitchers, and Sands connected with a homer. The Braves upset the Dodgers 15-6, this week.

Monday the Sox take on the Braves, Tuesday pits the Dodgers against the Red Sox, and Thursday the Braves and Dodgers clash again.

Editor Outlines Views on Berlin, Cuba in Commander's Call Talk

Charles A. Guy, editor and publisher of the Lubbock Avlanche Journal, was special speaker at Air Base Group commander's call last Saturday, discussing the Berlin Crisis and the Cuban situation.

Guy was in Washington recently attending a conference on the Berlin crisis. He also had opportunity to see the background of the crisis first hand as a member of a federal commission studying the European occupation after World War II. Also while in Washington, he listened to a talk by Fidel Castro given at a meeting of the American Association of Newspaper Editors.

Guy said of the Berlin crisis: "I don't see how we made such a deal in the first place."

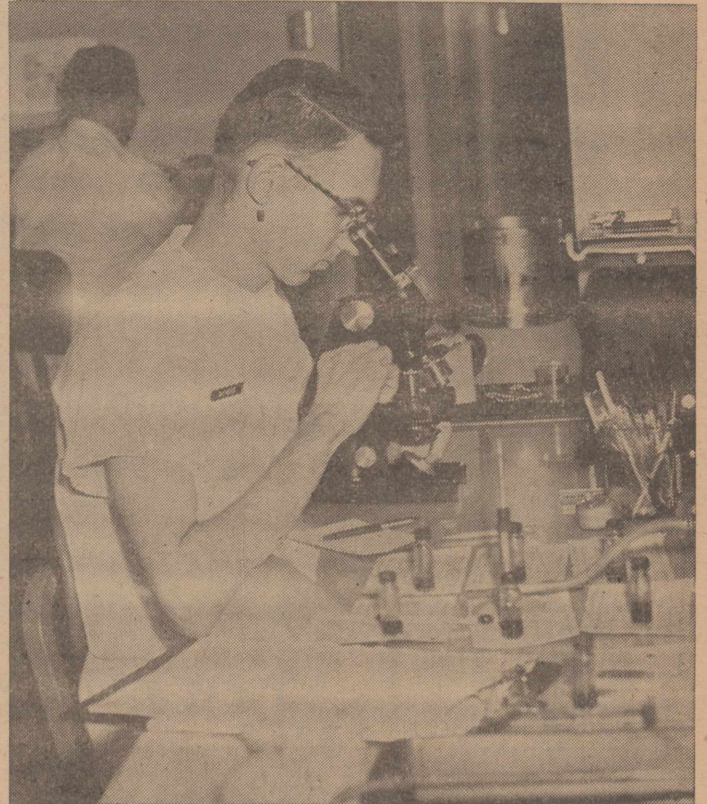

"The Russians," he continued, "won't start a snooting war until they are ready to do so. When they think they can take us, they will blow the whistle, no matter what we do or say."

"If we stand fast, we will come out of the crisis with no shooting and with free access to Berlin. We should stand fast for access as a matter of principle."

Of Fidel Castro, Guy had this to say: "Castro had more the appearance of an asthetic than a soldier. He has a fine sense of mass psychology and is a good salesman. But I am increasingly afraid that the commies may be moving in on him."

A ten-year look at Air Training Command is nearing completion. The study is expected to determine the kinds and quantity of training likely to be conducted between 1961 and 1970.

FURTHERS HEALTH—Blood samples from about 20 patients a day, plus those from all pilots taking physical examination, are tested daily in the base hospital laboratory. From the tests and blood count, the physical condition of each person is determined and treatment may start quickly, when necessary. Here A/2C Robert Allen Wymer runs a microscopic test.
