Commander Completes First Combat Operations Course

Colonel L. C. Hess, Reese wing commander, was among a select group of 77 Army and Air Force officers graduated last Friday from a new one-week course in combat operations at the USAF Air-Ground School (TAC) at Keesler AFB.

All graduates, coming from installations throughout the nation, received certificates.

The course was developed at the request of TAC and the Continental Army Command to enable senior and general officers to attend classes which examine problems of limited wars.

Five Army general officers, 27 colonels and 45 lieutenant colonels and majors were on the student roster. AGOS officials said it was one of the largest groups to attend a single course.

The roster of students included the names of Col. Frank K. (Pete) Everest, director of operations, England AFB, La., who set world speed records in the X-2 and F-100 and Col. George I. Ruddell, director of operations, 19th AF, Seymour Johnson, AFB, N.C., Korean double ace credited with 10 aircraft.

The Combat Operations Course offers key tactical officers from all branches of the armed forces a unique opportunity to become better acquainted with the joint policies, doctrine, and concepts of joint tactical combat operations.

Combat operational problems involving the joint use of Army, Air Force, Marine and Naval forces during limited and small wars were examined during the course. Students heard military instructors explain the tactical role of the Air Force's Composite Air Strike Force and the Army's Strategic Army Corps and Special Forces.

T-38 Trainer Sets Marks

Four new time-to-climb records have been claimed for the Air Force's T-38 trainer which is scheduled to come to Reese to replace the T-33 within a year. The records broke those established in 1958 by an F-104 Starfighter.

The new records, subject to confirmation by the Federation Aeronatique Internationale, are: from a standing start to 3,000 meters (9,750 feet), 35.62 seconds; to 6,000 meters (19,500 feet), 52.429 seconds; to 9,000 meters (29,250 feet), 64.76 seconds; and to 12,000 meters (39,000 feet), 95.74 seconds.

Piloting the record-breaking T-38 was Maj. Walter Daniel of Oklahoma City, a test pilot at Edwards AFB. He flew alone.

Director Urges Club Participation

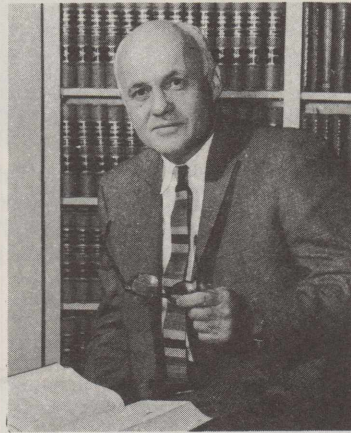

Mrs. Hanford Wright, Mathis Service Club Director, urges all personnel to participate in the many service club activities offered during March.

Mrs. Pat McDaniel, professional dance instructor, Lubbock City Recreation Department, will commence a series of 10 one-hour dancing lessons on Saturday, March 3, from 7 until 8 p.m. She will teach fox trot, rock and roll, ballroom, swing, cha cha, twist, rumba, samba and perhaps others. A small fee will be charged. These classes are open to all military personnel, dependents and civilians. Dress will be coat and tie for men and casual attire for the women.

Mrs. Wright pointed out that many personnel should be interested in the Photo Hobby Workshop which will meet each Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Many people have expressed interest in the Model Builders club which will be formed next Wednesday, March 7, at 7 p.m. Interest was so keen in the Model Rama that personnel desired to have a club organized.

She urged wives of military personnel to attend the one-time Plastic-Plaster Craft demonstration on Wednesday, March 7, at 11 a.m.

SECRETARY ZUCKERT

AF Secretary Will Speak Here May 12

Eugene M. Zuckert, secretary of the Air Force, has accepted an invitation to speak here on Armed Forces Day, May 12.

The secretary, who has been serving since President Kennedy took office 14 months ago, is expected to arrive here the morning of May 12.

Prior to re-entering government service, he was a New York and Washington attorney. He is a former member of the Atomic Energy Commission and was chairman of the Board of Nuclear Science and Engineering Corp.

Air Force Highlights

TINSLEY NAMED

MOODY AFB — First Lt. Ronald E. Tinsley, who went to Moody from Reese AFB, has been named Flight Instructor of the Month. His choice was based on devotion to duty, eagerness, instructional methods, knowledge and other factors.

BOBSLEDDERS THIRD

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AFNS) — Loss of its brakeman failed to keep the USAF four-man bobsled team from capturing third place in the invitational championships here. A1C Bob Hageman, brakeman, smashed a shoulder on an icy wall. Lt. Col. Charles Muniz, USAF veterinarian, substituted and the USAF team finished the final heat in 1:11.08.

RECRUITERS NEEDED

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Recruiting Service is doing some recruiting of its own. There is a shortage of recruiters in many areas. Applicants are sought.

MEETS SLATED

Two western bases will be sites of Air Force sports championships this spring. McChord AFB, Wash., will host the 1962 Air Force judo championship. Apr. 9-11, and the Armed Forces Invitational Skeet tournament will be June 11-17 at Ent AFB, Colo.

USE THAT LEAVE!

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Air Force has cautioned all personnel heading for remote area, 12-month tours with the Alaskan Air Command, to use up excessive leave before reporting. If leave piles up past 60 days — it's lost.

Joint Crusade Here To Assist World's Needy

The 1962 Federal Service Joint Crusade was underway this week with Maj. Thomas O. Batey as project officer, aided by project officers in each unit.

The goal is 100 per cent participation from Reese people in the crusade to aid CARE, Radio Free Europe and the American-Korean Foundation. The crusade is one of four joint campaigns carried out in the Air Force.

"The Federal Service Joint Crusade provides an opportunity for us in the federal service to demonstrate again our belief in the dignity and importance of man as an individual," said President Kennedy in urging generous response.

"Through the three organizations, each of us can voluntarily contribute to our nation's fight against the fear, poverty and hopelessness which are still the daily expectations of much of humanity."

Each person on the base will be given opportunity to assist financially in the program. CARE and the American-Korean Foundation seek to provide material benefits for less fortunates of many lands and to raise morale sorely needed in fighting pressures.

The Hon. Eugene M. Zuckert, Secretary of the Air Force, is national chairman.

"This year the three agencies' needs are as great as ever," he said. "The Federal Service Joint Crusade is our opportunity to help. So much and so many depend upon your generous giving."

Minuteman Makes Successful Flight

Another Air Force Minuteman ICBM has made a trip successfully down the Atlantic Missile Range recently.

Launched from an underground silo at Cape Canaveral, the missile went 3,900 statute miles to land in its planned target area. It was the fifth successful silo test on the solid-propellant missile since November.

The flight was to confirm design and test data on launching the three-stage missile from a silo.

The Minuteman was in position in a steel and concrete tube 85 feet underground when the launch signal was given. It lifted off its metal resting place in the ground and rose skyward, with smoke and flame venting to ground level in its wake. There was no trouble until landing.

Basic Policy Set For Civilian Jobs

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Air Force has set its basic policy on hiring retired military men for USAF civilian jobs, and employment chances boil down to individual cases.

It's emphatically "yes" when the retired military man is the best qualified applicant and when all civil service employment conditions have been met.

It's emphatically "no" when the retiree is receiving special consideration, such as having a job description tailored to his special qualifications.

Protestant Mission Opens Here Sunday

Dr. Harold G. Basden, pastor of the Gaston Avenue Baptist Church of Dallas, will open the annual Protestant Preaching Mission in the Base Chapel with 11 a.m. services Sunday, followed by 7:30 p.m. services nightly through Thursday.

The doctor, seminary classmate of Chaplain James D. Taylor, is a leader in Texas church circles and ranks among the best preachers in the state. He is a director of Baylor University and a member of the Program Coordinating Committee of the General Convention of Texas.

Local TV To Show Academy, Science

Two television shows of interest to Air Force families are scheduled for Lubbock stations within the next week.

The Sunday Sports Spectacular from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Sunday, Mar. 4, on KDUB-TV will detail Air Force Academy life, showing the three-part program for training cadets through physical, military and academic means. The Academy superintendent and commandant of cadets will be interviewed.

New directions in science research in five major fields—the atom, deoxyribonucleic acid, the sea, miniaturization and computer technology—will be explored in "Thresholds of Tomorrow" from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Saturday on KCBF-TV.

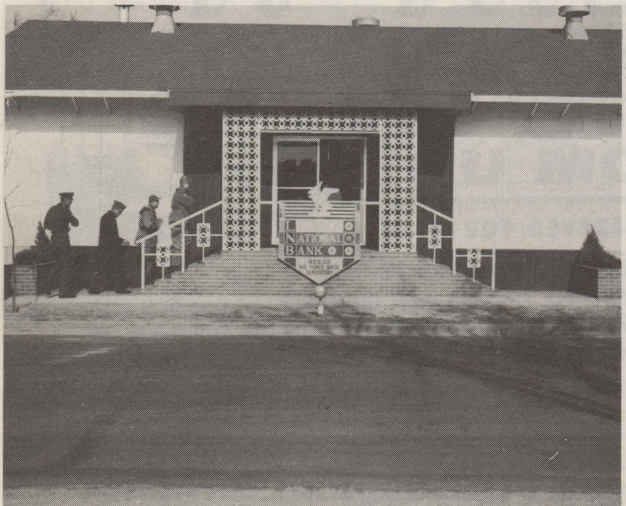

Pilots For C-130 Aircraft Sought

A recent increase in force structure has resulted in unprogrammed company grade shortage of C-130 pilots in the Air Force, personnel officials have been advised.

Captains and lieutenants with pilot rating and flying status Code 1 may apply and eligible officers who have not attended advanced flying training or performed duty in a cockpit position also are encouraged to apply.

Officers selected will be assigned to C-130 flight training at Sewart AFB, Tenn., before going on permanent duty in C-130's. Basic pilot instructor training school is considered advanced flying training.

NEW BANKING FACILITIES — The Lubbock National Bank held open house Tuesday in its enlarged and beautified Reese facilities which have been renovated to provide better services for base people. Hundreds of persons attended the open house to see and express appreciation. In the picture on the left four airmen use the colorful new entrance. The center picture shows Col. L. C. Hess, wing commander, being served at the punch bowl by Rita Davis, bank employee, as Charles Maedgen, Jr., bank president, and Lois Penny

Speak Well Of Your Work

The Air Force constantly is striving to make the general public more aware of its importance and this can be accomplished only through an active public relations program. Each of us plays an important part in letting our friends and neighbors in the civilian community know more about us and our service.

"The Air Training Command program is based on its public relations axiom that the best way to make the Air Force look good is to do well our part in the Air Force job and take credit for it," General Briggs, ATC commander, has stated.

We at Reese should continue to strive for perfection in our work and for around-the-clock telling the Air Force aims and accomplishments. Our record is extremely good, one of which all of us should be proud.

And each of us in telling our story to our friends must remember that, being a member of our great service, we in the public mind represent the Air Force. Every time we speak of our service or our work and actions we are creating an attitude toward the Air Force, we are playing our part in public relations.

Let those relations come from a proud and informed Reese family which speaks good at all times and seeks constantly to stress the important work we are doing in a manner which will extend public trust and pride.

DOD Information Committee Includes Leading Citizens

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's new committee of 13 to study non-military instruction in the armed forces is composed of some of America's leading citizens—among them, Gen. Thomas D. White, USAF (Ret.), former chief of staff.

Other well known military figures on the committee are Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, USA (Ret.), president of the American Red Cross, and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, USN (Ret.), former chief of naval operations.

The who's who aspect of the committee spills over into the civilian side with such representation as former Central Intelligence Agency Director Allan Dulles, Editor Ralph E. McGill of the Atlanta Constitution and Thomas J. Watson Jr. of the International Business Machines Corporation.

The chairman of the committee—Karl R. Bendtsen, president of the Champion Paper Company of Hamilton, Ohio, is a former Under Secretary of the Army (1952).

The top flight nature of the committee membership is rounded out by these talented persons: Dr. James Phinney Baxter III, Council of Foreign Relations and former president of Williams College; Theodore W. Braun, president of Braun & Co. at Los Angeles; Professor Hardy Cross Dillard, professor of law at the University of Virginia; Dr. T. Keith Glennan, president of the Case Institute of Technology and former National Aeronautics and Space Administration; Attorney Morris I. Liebman of Crowell & Liebman at Chicago, Ill.; and the Rev. John Courtney Murray, S. J. of Woodstock College in Maryland.

Defense Secretary McNamara said he wants this group of distinguished citizens to advise him on non-military instruction within the defense establishment.

Specifically, he asked the committee: To consider appropriate objectives and goals of non-military instruction; to consider appropriate subject matter to reach these goals to suggest the mechanics and criteria for measuring the effectiveness of these programs; and to suggest changes, if any, on current responsibilities with the Defense Department for non-military instruction.

According to McNamara's directions, "The committee is not to concern itself with what individual members of the Armed Forces may write or speak about."

Parson-to-Person Individual Should Use Gifts, Talent As God Intended

By Chaplain Jerry L. Rice

A very important question that we all must ask ourselves at sometime or another is this: "Does it really matter what kind of cigarettes we smoke, or what kind of deodorant we use, or what kind of toothpaste we use?"

These are three of the many items used in making ourselves acceptable to our neighbors. A farther and even more realistic question might be, "How far are you willing to go to be an individual?"

God is interested in you as an individual, not as one who must conform to be accepted. God doesn't care what brand you buy or the deodorant you use, but he does care if you become so involved in trying to impress your fellowman, and so taken in by the mass, that you lose your individual gifts and talents which he has given to you to perform your task here on earth. That task of living and spreading the Gospel of Love in Jesus Christ.

Buck Rogers Era Future Of USAF, General Foresees

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—USAF Research and Technology chief, Lt. Gen. James Ferguson, has sketched Air Force space goals before the House Committee on Armed Services that would have strained the credibility of science-fiction comic strips a few years ago.

Coming only one day after Lt. Col. John Glenn orbited FRIENDSHIP VII three times around the earth, the general's testimony telescoped future plans into coming realities.

General Ferguson said we need true spacecraft, not merely orbiting vehicles, to perform military space missions.

Relating this need to the present, he said that "continued effort in applied research upon low-thrust electrical propulsions is expected to culminate this year in the first test of an ion engine in space."

He also foresaw a need for spacecraft that could rendezvous, dock and transfer loads while in space.

The general also talked of better infrared sensors, higher-resolution photographic cameras and improved radar systems as projects under research development now to bring better space surveillance.

"Space systems may provide a breakthrough in the area of defense against ballistic missile attack," he said.

He heavily underscored this point: "Should the survivability of earth-bound systems become marginal, deploying systems in deep space may be the only means of providing dispersal and remote location to insuresurvivability."

General Ferguson also stressed the importance of the coming space pilots by saying, "man has certain qualitative capabilities which machines cannot duplicate."

Explorer Scouts Clean Highways

As a service project for Reese and neighboring communities, the Air Explorer Scouts of Squadron 548 conducted a clean-up of Fourth Street extension and War Highway last Saturday, gathering and hauling away two truck loads of paper, boxes and other debris.

Participating were Norman Westmoreland, Mike Gravor, Jack Slaughter, Sewell Keeter and David Sanders. They cleaned land near roadways on War Highway to 19th Street and on Fourth Street for about four miles. Clean-up is a regular activity of the squadron.

Air Exploring is open to boys from 14 to 18 years of age. Squadron 548 meets at 7:30 p.m. each Monday in the Aero Club lounge. Visitors are welcome.

From The COMMANDER'S DESK

By Colonel L. C. Hess, Wing Commander

I received a letter this week from Mr. Weldon Gibbs, President of the West Texas Museum Association, which read in part, "A big thanks to the folks at Reese AFB for the fine exhibit at the Museum during February. The Reese global exhibit caused many favorable comments throughout our community. Both for the Museum Association and myself, may I express our appreciation . . . for the many hours of work and planning necessary in making it so successful."

Mr. Gibbs' letter also stated, "The efforts of the many who participated are also indicative of your interest and support to Lubbock and the general area is so many of our civic affairs."

It is always a pleasure to receive correspondence such as this, which indicates how much our participation in community events is recognized and appreciated. Close, harmonious relations between any military installation and its neighboring community is of great importance, and I am continually proud of the fact that we at Reese enjoy the finest relationship with our civilian neighbors found anywhere in the Air Force.

I extend my appreciation to all those who helped make the Reese global exhibit such a success and to everyone who by their efforts have assisted in furthering our base community relations program.

Snake Hunting Season On; Reese Airmen Capture Rattlers For Survival Training

Quidado may be a strange word to most people, but to student pilots of Reese Air Force Base it must become a familiar one before graduation. It means "be careful" and is widely used among professional rattlesnake hunters.

In learning to become an Air Force pilot each student must complete an intense survival course. And survival in many areas for any length of time depends on food. Sometimes rattlesnake meat is quite plentiful and most tasty, downed pilots have found.

But to capture the snakes without being bitten is a major problem. How to make the capture, skin the reptile and then cook and eat it is a major lesson in survival training for Reese students.

When the time comes for the lesson, plenty of snakes are available.

Three Reese NCO's, TSgt. John Hughs of the Hospital, TSgt. Clarence E. Sauers of Air Base Group and SSgt. Bob King of M&S Group, make sure of that.

Recently they joined the South Plains Rattlesnake Hunters Club for an all-day hunt about 25 miles south of Post, Tex.

Loaded with equipment, they went to Borden County to meet Sheriff Sid Reeder who escorted them to the O. B. Ranch near Gail. The ranch, covered with gullies and rocky cliffs, is a snake hunter's paradise and in virtually no time the group was at work gassing snake dens with a garden sprayer and grappling the snakes into large wooden cages as they emerged from their hiding places.

At the end of the day there were 35 sizeable rattlers caged and enroute back to an area near Lubbock where they are stored alive.

Other forays into the ranch are planned, for several hundred pilot training students and AFROTC cadets sent to Reese for summer camps this year will need them for survival training.

It's a problem to get the students to show "any enthusiasm" toward capturing the snakes or preparing them for eating, says P. J. McLaughlin, survival training instructor. Then, in the summer after winter hibernation the snakes are harder to catch and become more dangerous to hunt, making snake hunting more productive in winter and early spring months.

"You can't imagine how surprised students are when they taste their first bite of rattlesnake meat reluctantly; it's delicious, unlike anything else that can be eaten," says Sgt. Hughes.

He has completed three Air Force survival schools and has been adviser in jungle survival in the Canal Zone.

The primary purpose of Reese airmen on rattlesnake hunts is to gather specimens for survival training. But members of the South Plains club also have a financial aim.

The club members catch from 700 to 1,000 snakes annually. Snake meat brings up to $1.55 a pound dressed and sold to restaurants and hotels. Live snakes are sold to zoos and other survival units. Snake hides are worth $1.50 each and venom sells for $65 an ounce when properly extracted, says Chuck McBroom, club vice president. It takes about 10 snakes to produce an ounce of venom.

Heads and rattlers are sold to curio shops for souvenirs.

McBroom has captured upward of 350 snakes this year, with the hunting season peak yet to come.

ACCIDENTS REPORTED

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 31 rural accidents in Lubbock County in January, the patrol supervisor has announced. The wrecks brought injury to 25 persons and estimated property damage to $16,915.

Chances Improve For 'Good' Location For Overseas Duty

(AFNS) — Europe, Japan or Thule? No matter where that overseas assignment may be, all Air Force personnel may now have a better chance of drawing one of the "good" assignments.

A new selection order stipulates that an airman returning to the United States from a remote area will not be reassigned to a similar area, unless he has served an intervening tour at a location where the length of the tour exceeds 17 months.

Areas that call for a tour of from 12 to 17 months are regarded by the Air Force as isolated or remote.

But the Air Force points out the above rules apply to non-volunteers. Airmen who volunteer for overseas duty have considerable leeway not only in voicing a preference for some particular area, but also for serving a second or a third tour in an isolated area to their liking.

Where the non-volunteer is concerned, only USAF can approve his reassignment for a second or third tour in isolated areas.

For personnel in the United States who are slated for an overseas tour, the selection is made on the following basis: Airmen who have a mandatory PCS or who would normally be selected for overseas assignment within 12 months; volunteers for overseas with the earliest foreign service selection date; volunteers with no previous foreign service selection date; non-volunteers with no previous foreign service selection date; non-volunteers with the earliest foreign service selection date.

Also important in the new revisions to the regulation is the effort made to select airmen who can complete their overseas tours within their first term enlistments.

Normally, airmen expected to leave the service upon completion of their first term are not considered for overseas assignments, if they have only 18 months remaining before they separate. On the other hand, a skilled airman, even though he is non-career with only 12 months left in his enlistment, can be selected for overseas if there is a shortage of eligible airmen with the same AFSC.

The new order of selection also works in reverse. Personnel returning to the United States have an established priority for assignment according to the areas from which they are returning.

Preferences will be based on the following priority: returnees from 12-month tour areas; returnees from 13-17 month tour areas; all others.

Uniform Combat Boots Approved

(AFNS)—The Department of Defense has announced it will standardize combat boots for all the services to save $846,000 a year.

The new Defense Supply Agency (DSA) will handle two types of boots whose only difference will be eyelets or hooks for lacing.

The Air Force, Army and Navy will receive the "eyelet" variety, while the Marines who sometimes get a dunking will use the "hook" type for easy unfastening in an emergency.

In appearance, the new boots are practically identical to those worn by the Air Police, Para-Rescuemen and rated personnel.

The official DOD description was "black leather, hard toe, without cap, full beveled heel, without heel stay, with non-marking black rubber sole and heel."

Old-Time Minstrel Returns To Reese

The old-time minstrel returned to the Officers' Club last Saturday night as the M&S Group sponsored the evening's entertainment. Producers and directors were 1st Lt. and Mrs. Thomas Tuttle and Dallas Whaley of the Hospital.

Mr. Interlocutor was played by Col. Joseph E. Payne, with the two joke-cracking endmen played by Maj. Alex P. Goodkin and 2nd Lt. Robert Kobberger. Also in the chorus were Maj. and Mrs. Russell Hainline, Maj. Martin Hooper, Maj. Elwin G. Kirby, Mrs. Donald J. Heskett, 1st Lt. Robert L. Guinn, Mrs. Kenneth Pearson and Lt. Tuttle.

Lieutenant Tuttle sang a solo, "Georgia," followed by the Gibson Girl dancers composed of Mmes. Payne, Tuttle, Hooper and Kirby. The dancers did a soft-shoe number as the chorus sang "The Good Old Summer Time."

Mrs. Joseph B. Burdick did her rendition of Al Jolson singing "Rock-a-bye My Baby" and CWO Donald J. Heskett presented the celebrated song success, "Nobody." Mrs. Alex Goodkin performed a soft shoe shuffle to "Tea for Two" and Whaley brought the show to a close with his briefing of a World War I private.

Reese Hosts Tourney

Reese AFB gymnasium will be a hub of activity next week when volleyball teams from ATC bases arrive to square off for the District 1 championship.

Teams from Mather, Stead, Williams, Lowry, Amarillo, Vance, Sheppard, Perrin, and Reese have been invited to participate in the tournament which will begin on March 8 and continue through March 10.

A kick-off banquet for all participating teams will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the NCO Club, where pairing and rule interpretation will be decided. It is expected at least seven bases will be represented.

Reese's entry in the double elimination tournament will be the 3501st Student Squadron, with a 9-0 record in intramural competition which ended this week.

Cagers Fourth In Tourney

Winning two games and losing two, the Reese basketball team finished fourth in the Air Training Command base level tournament last weekend at Perrin AFB.

The Reeseites opened competition with a 76 to 70 win over Stead, lost, 90 to 68, to Perrin, rallied to eke out a 75-74 victory over Amarillo and then concluded their stay at Perrin with a 90-72 loss to Sheppard.

Against Stead, the Rattlers displayed superior rebound ability and led at half-time, 39-25. High point man was Jim Ulm with 20. Personal fouls also played a big part in the final result. Reese had 4, Stead 25.

Reese built up a 23-point lead at one time in the second half, but saw the margin cut as Stead rallied.

Perrin was superior from the start against Reese and led at half-time 40-30. Gerald Myer led the locals with 22 points and Ulm contributed 17. Perrin had 19 personal fouls, Reese 23. Reese scored on 16 free throws to Perrin's 11.

There was plenty of action in the Amarillo encounter which Reese barely won. Reese led at the half, 47-37, but saw Amarillo go ahead early in the second stanza. The winning basket came in closing seconds. Ulm and Richie Mayo each dropped through 20 points as each team made 11 free throws. Reese had 1 1/2 personal fouls, Amarillo 15.

The final game for the Rattlers was never close as Sheppard's power showed from start to finish. Ulm made 27 points, John Eastman 17. Reese made 16 of 18 free throw efforts, Sheppard 12 of 25.

Pistol Team Drops Match

The Reese pistol team contributed its bit last weekend to improving the Air Force Academy pistol shooters who are fast becoming among top competitors in the nation.

The Reese team flew to the Academy for an indoor match with Ent AFB and Academy pistolmen. The Academy had found competition to prepare it for final matches against the nation's top collegiate shooters was scarce. So the Reese men gave a hand.

The Air Force team averaged 278 in the triangular competition, with Ent 268 and Reese 262.6.

"The Academy men said they benefitted greatly from our trip," said Capt. Marshall D. Norris, Reese team captain. "We certainly did benefit, since we have been shooting outdoors and this match was on the ultra-modern indoor range. The Academy shooters said our competition, although we didn't win, was quite helpful to them."

Shooting was with .22-calibre pistols and the margin of victory for the Academy was not considered "too wide."

The Academy has been winning most of its matches and the week before defeated the West Point pistol team, the first match the West Pointers had lost in intercollegiate competition in two years.

Shooting for Reese were Captain Norris, Capt. Edward J. Krick, Capt. Thomas M. Colman, MSgt. Joe C. King and SSgt. Royer A. Manemann.

Base Drivers Win Sports Car Races

Three Reese drivers shared in awards in a Sports Car Club gymnana last Sunday at Slaton. The races consisted of five laps at high speed on a dirt track.

Major DeMay White, driving an Alfa Romeo, won first place for under 1,600 CC sports cars. Finishing second in the same heat was A1C Wally Jones, driving an Austin Healey Sprite.

Second Lt. Harold May, a student officer, drove the fastest race of the day for all cars and won the event for 1,600-3,000 CC sports cars.
