Improvement Work Ending For Housing

Final exterior painting and yard work was being completed this week to finish improvement to the 418 units of the government housing area, formerly Reese Village.

The project, costing $1,031,199.05, included addition of bedrooms, enlargement of kitchen areas, and other improvements in efforts to better care for base families.

With completion of the project, the housing area now has 38 four-bedroom duplexes and 3 four-bedroom single dwellings; 187 three-bedroom duplexes and 41 three-bedroom single structures; 139 two-bedroom duplexes; and 10 one-bedroom duplexes.

Each home has been equipped with a gas stove, gas clothes drier, and an electric washer. Of the 418 units, 266 had no washers and none had a drier. When the government took over Reese Village on Sept. 1, 1958, there were 419 stoves, and 248 have been replaced. Many of the 419 refrigerators on hand two years ago were too small, and 400 have been replaced with new units.

During the past two years, also, furniture for 167 units has been received and placed in the homes. Plans call for eventual furnishing of all 418 units.

Course Added In Missilry

An increasing Air Force-wide demand for officers trained in missilry has resulted in establishment of a second missile course by Air Training Command.

Sixteen students are scheduled to begin training Feb. 15, 1961, at Sheppard AFB. Graduates normally will be assigned to SAC bases.

Greatest requirement, said USAF officials, will be for lieutenants and captains. Higher ranking officers will be needed, but in fewer numbers. The course will last 12 calendar weeks.

Applications for entry into the course will be made through channels to ATC headquarters. Course prerequisites are that the applicant should have completed at least two years of college and have an aptitude for physical science training.

SCHEDULE RESUMED

Lawns of the government housing area may be watered from 5 to 9 p.m. daily, with even numbered houses on even numbered days and odd numbers on odd numbered days. Strict adherence to the schedule is being stressed.

Academic instructors spend about 24 hours to adequately prepare a 50-minute lesson lecture.

Base To Get New Helicopters

The first of two H-43 helicopters will be assigned to Reese in March, Air Training Command has advised. A second H-43 is scheduled to arrive in April.

The H-43s will be used as a search and rescue aircraft and also as a firefighter, when needed. Reese helicopter pilots have seen the H-43 in action and are high in praise of its work, WIDELY READ — Diana Prindle, who read 74 books in the 1960 Summer Reading Club at Reese receives a certificate and congratulations from Col. Harold T. Babb, Air Base Group commander.

Children Read 1,070 Books In Summer Club Activities

The 61 members of the Summer Reading Club for Reese children read 1,070 books, it was revealed at pinning exercises of the club. Colonel Harold T. Babb presented certificates, aided by 1st Lt. Clarence Doane, who pinned.

Diana Prindle, 12, read 74 books during the summer to surpass all others, while Ronald Watson, 9, read 65 to lead boys.

Center Volunteers Ordering Recently Approved Uniforms

Volunteer workers in the Reese Family Service Center this week began ordering the approved new uniform and all were encouraged to place their orders.

Volunteers are not required to secure the uniform, but are being encouraged to do so. The cost is $7.75 plus postage. Volunteers are asked to call Mrs. Don Parker, phone 3651 in the government housing area, to give their size. The uniform recently was approved by USAF and is standard throughout the Air Force.

Committee chairmen and assistant chairmen of the Family Service Center at a meeting Wednesday urged volunteers to not delay in placing orders.

The housing committee completed plans for issuance of an information bulletin on off-base housing for use of incoming families.

It also was reported that storage bins in the Center have been completed and are in use.

The Center also is preparing a roster which will be kept current, on baby-sitters, housekeepers and women available for emergency cooking or transportation.

Books read by boys and girls over 10 years of age included: Ben Barone 12, Virginia Benjamin 69, Stephanie Burgoon 15, Barbara Chappell 29, Patty Faulkner 47, Theresa Heskett 25, Deborah Malin 34, Pamela Schmidt 33, Susan Watson 20, Paula Wilson 20, and Janet Yaomoto 34.

Books read by children 10 years and younger included: Daniel Benjamin 40, Terry Chandler 12, Joey Correria 12, Madeline Correria 18, Marlon Hammac 19, Ramona Harvey 17, Michelle Heskett 37, Ross Holden 20, Carol Ann Hoover 10.

Stephanie Malin 12, Kenneth Schmidt 27, Foster Shriner 14, Lisa Shriner 12, Betty Vest 18, Billy Vest 18, Zelda Watson 65, Lee Anne Worner 26, and Laura Yaomoto 25.

Plans Perfected For Promotions

The time table in selecting those to be promoted to chief and senior master sergeant has been announced by USAF. Promotions will be effective March 1 of each year. There are about 2,000 E-9 and 4,600 E-8 spaces programmed.

The list of eligibles is due in the Pentagon on Dec. 12 and quotas will go to commands on Dec. 23. A month later nominations are due in Washington and on Feb. 6 the selection board will meet. Selections will be sent to commands on Feb. 20.

ASSIGNED TO SUPPLY

Second Lt. Alfred I. Strentzsch, Jr., graduate in pharmacy from the University of Oklahoma, has begun duty as supply officer of the Hospital.

NON-READING COSTLY

Failure to read the "fine print" in travel orders is costing ATC people. The orders direct the mode of travel, frequently. When travel is made by another means, reimbursement is hard to get.

All Personnel Briefed; Base Aids In State-Wide Campaign

Emphasis this weekend was on safety practices which will eliminate accidents for Reese people over the Labor Day holiday.

All personnel attended Thursday meetings in the base theater as Col. L. C. Hess, base commander, Col. James D. C. Robinson, and Lubbock safety officials urged every precaution to assure that everyone would return to work Tuesday uninjured.

Report Lauds Base Supply Proficiency

High praise for operation of the Reese Base Supply has been given in a report of Field Service Visit by officials of the San Antonio Air Material Area.

"All components of Base Supply appeared to be functioning in a highly efficient and satisfactory manner," the report said. Aggressiveness, good management and thorough planning were stressed.

"Due to this sustained program, you are again commended highly for your outstanding and efficient operating program," the visitors wrote.

The visit was from July 25 to August 5.

The SAAMA officials found that Reese had an average time of 7.8 minutes for expediting a needed item to aircraft maintenance men after receiving an expediting call. The Air Training Command average is 25 minutes.

Other comparisons included overall supply effectiveness 87 per cent for the base, 80 per cent for ATC; work production line items per man month, Reese 157, ATC 145.

The team also found planning permitted Reese to have an average of 4 items on emergency rush order, as against 13 for the command, and 18 rush orders on routine items, as compared with 40 for ATC as a whole.

Major Lewis T. Britain is Base Supply officer in the M&S Group, commanded by Col. William A. Martin.

On-Base Education Classes Scheduled

On-base education classes are scheduled to start the night of September 26 with plans laid for four courses. Immediate registration is asked of interested persons so that teachers may be employed and other arrangements made.

If 15 students register for each of the classes, English grammar will be taught Monday, arithmetic Tuesday, algebra Wednesday, and slide rule Thursday. Each class will meet from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. for 12 weeks.

Classes are open to military and civilian personnel. Registration should be made in the education office, Building T-35.

More NCO Recruiters Sought

Greater opportunities of acceptance for recruiting duties were stressed this week to qualified Reese NCO's. A search for qualified men was on throughout the Air Force.

Brigadier Gen. Henry G. Thorne Jr., commander of the Air Training Command's USAF Recruiting Service, said that increased personnel procurement objectives safety information is being placed today in automobiles on the base, by the Boy Scouts.

Reese also is joining the Texas Jaycees in a highway campaign aimed at reducing accidents. Base people will operate a booth near the intersection of War Highway 5 and Texas Highway 116 to assist motorists.

The booth will dispense free coffee, donuts, soft drinks and milk to drivers and others in cars moving eastward toward Lubbock. Safety signs near the booth will warn of driving too far and too fast.

Volunteer Reese people are to operate the booth from 7 p.m. until 2 a. m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday, providing motorists with safety literature and information on hotels and motels where they may stop for proper rest.

The Texas Jaycees will operate similar booths and provide refreshments throughout the state.

"We have one aim: to prevent accidents," said Maj. Joseph O'Connell, wing inspector. "Actions to extend safety education have been taken. We want everyone on the base and elsewhere to be on the alert to avoid accidents."

Labor Day weekend concludes Operation Summersafe for the Air Force. So far the base record has been good.

Commander Goes To London Exhibit

Col. L. C. Hess, base commander, left today for England to witness the annual Flying Display and Exhibition of British aircraft manufacturers supplying the Royal Air Force.

He is scheduled to fly from Bolling AFB, Washington, D.C., at 2 p.m. Sunday, arriving in London the following day. He will return to the United States on Sept. 9.

The British Aircraft Constructors will show in static displays and aerial demonstrations the many developments in airplanes available for the British share in preserving world peace.

Also going to London for the exhibition is Col. Lester S. Harris, commander of Moody AFB. The colonels are the only officers from Air Training Command who will attend.

REGISTRATION HALTED

Registration in the Extension Course Institute Course 1, Officer Candidate School, has been halted until November 1 because unprecedented enrollment has exhausted available volumes for study. Education officers have been asked to not approve further enrollment in the course.

have created "an immediate and critical need for additional recruiter-salesmen." Former recruiters are especially desired.

Positions are open in all sections of the nation and the recruiter-salesman is generally assigned to the area of his choice. When selected for recruiting duty, an NCO should normally expect to complete a four-year tour in a civilian environment.

From The COMMANDER'S DESK

By Col. L. C. Hess, Base Commander

Today, Class 61-B graduated from Basic Pilot Training. This class contributed 39 more pilots to the Air Force Aerospace inventory. It also added 26 newly commissioned officers to the Air Force.

Graduation day is a day when we can physically see the end product of our efforts. As we watch the candidates march on the stage and receive their Wings and Commissions we should all feel a degree of satisfaction for we have all contributed to this end.

As we review the assignments of this graduating class and see that 19 go to the Strategic Air Command, 9 to TAC, 5 remain in ATC, 4 to MATS, and 2 to ADC, we can readily realize the importance of our job. These young officers will take their place in the many jobs throughout the Air Force. In so doing they will also take part of us with them — the knowledge and skill which we have imparted and helped to develop.

It is gratifying every six weeks to see the finished part of our product — the trained pilot — take his place in the best Air Force in the world.

We at Reese and the Air Training Command can be proud of the vital part we play on this great team.

Citizenship Requires Vote

Participation is the foundation for any government that is "of the people, by the people, and for the people."

Unless you take part you can hardly be considered a full-fledged citizen, in every sense of the world. A citizen has responsibilities to his government — as well as the privileges that free governments promise their citizenry. As a military member your responsibility is even greater than the average citizen's.

It was the fashion before World War II for many military members in the United States to forego their right to vote. Many believed that the military man should be non-political in every way possible. We in the military forces realize now, however, that we have not only the responsibility to be the first line of defense for our country, but have the same duty as all citizens to express their choice of representatives in their government.

The millions of Armed Forces members and their families travelling about the United States and the world make up an especially well-informed segment of the American population. They enrich the quality of our Nation's citizenry. They can contribute significantly to the selection of good leaders for our Government.

As one of these people, you have a special responsibility to participate in government by voting.

If you have not already done so, see your Squadron Voting Officer for information about how you can make arrangements to vote in this very important upcoming election.

Proper Guiding Beam Necessity For All People

By HENRY C. BIELSKI
Chaplain

Today a new class of pilots was commissioned at Reese Air Force Base.

Flying is one of those jobs that cannot be done without training. Not only do you have to be trained WHAT to do, but you must also be shown HOW to do it. The prospective pilot has to know the plane and all its capabilities. A knowledge of the engine, instruments, radio reception and sending, map reading, and astronomy is also part of a pilot's training. But above all, to make a successful pilot, you have to like the job; it has to be part and parcel of your very make-up.

Today, a pilot who crosses and recrosses this country has an added help in the form of the "radio beam." So long as the pilot keeps "on the beam" he knows that he is on the right course and headed for his destination. If he chooses to ignore that beam, and eventually gets lost, once again he has no one to blame but himself.

Not many of you, I think, believe that you have anything in common with these pilots. But, strangely enough, you have. Just as they have a definite destination once they get into the air, so have you. You have an objective in life.

You are not placed upon this earth by Almighty God to wander aimlessly through the years that are allotted to you.

Your task, and mine, is to lead a fine upright, Christian life. And that happens to be a task which cannot be successfully accomplished without training. We have to know the rules and regulations governing life. We have to know what we must do and what we may not do. Just as the pilot must know his plane thoroughly, if he is to get the best out of it, so we have to know ourselves, our capabilities and potentialities, our strength and our weakness. And if we want to make a real success of this job of living, we have to like it, to be in love with it. We should feel that the leading of a thoroughly decent, Christian life is natural to us. It should be part and parcel of our very make-up.

Colonel Reassigned To Iceland Duties

Lieutenant Col. Mansell B. McElroy, director of military training, is being reassigned to Iceland for duty in headquarters of the Iceland Defense Force. He is to report in December.

Colonel McElroy has been at Reese since the fall of 1957 and was M&S Group executive officer prior to assuming present duty two months ago. He came here from a tour in Japan, where he was Air Base Group commander of the 6000th Support Wing.

RECORD SET

A new record for jet aircraft flying time was set at Reese a week ago Monday when T-33's flew 315 hours, the first time they had exceeded the 300-hour total. No special effort to set a new record was made, "it just worked out that way."

OFFICES MOVED

The base education office has moved to Room 3 of Building T-35 and the NCO Academy has taken over its former location in the base library building. The Academy will use all of the library's top floor.

Woman's Chatter

By Mrs. Patrick F. Durning
The new month promises to be an active one for Reesettes, with several coming events. Flight 9 members and wives will be entertained with a pot-luck supper at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Wesley Fowler. Game day for Officers' Wives Club members will be on Sept. 8. Both beginners and more advanced players are invited to attend at a cost of 25 cents per person. A dessert will be served at 1 p.m. at the Officers' Club to begin the afternoon. Prizes will include high, second high, low and travel prize. Plans are being laid for an all-day bridge session in the near future.

A "sew-your-own" fashion show is scheduled for Friday evening, Sept. 9, sponsored by OWC members. Make arrangements for a baby-sitter now and come out for an enjoyable evening.

Visitors continue to arrive and leave the base.

Recent visitors at the home of 1st Lt. and Mrs. David Reiner were the lieutenant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reiner, and brothers, John and Phil, of Hamilton, Ohio. During their visit, Mrs. David Reiner feted her mother-in-law with a coffee.

First Lt. and Mrs. Roger Shaw have returned from a trip to El Paso, Albuquerque and Las Vegas. While in Las Vegas they visited Mrs. Shaw's sister, Mrs. Ove Hedahl.

The wives of Flight 7 hosted a coke party for their student wives of Class 61-B Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Donald Dederick. Flight 6 wives also entertained their student wives with a coffee this morning at the home of Mrs. James Shankles.

Col. and Mrs. Harold Babb hosted a cocktail party Aug. 19 at the Officers' Club in honor of new members and those leaving Air Base Group. Mrs. Babb also hosted a tea for ABG wives on Aug. 17 at the Officers' Club to welcome newcomers. Recently Mrs. Babb left for New York to visit her parents.

Mrs. Kenneth Wadleigh hosted a card day at the Officers' Club on Aug. 25. Guests were ABG wives. Mrs. Quinn Oldaker was bridge winner, Mrs. Harold Barber won at Canasta, and Mrs. W. L. Faulkner took the table decorations prize.

Capt. and Mrs. John Wilhite held a dinner Aug. 22 to honor two Greek officers, Major Pneumatikos and Capt. Vassilakis, who were at Reese to study flying safety for the Greek Air Force. receive Holy Communion at the The Sodality of Our Lady will 9 a.m. Mass on Sunday.
