Tour Shows Drive Money Spent Well

A close view of four welfare activities in Lubbock was taken Wednesday by key workers in the Community Chest campaign at Reese as substantial progress was reported on the base.

A busload of workers visited the ABC Lubbock Boy's Club, Salvation Army, Lubbock Day Nursery and the Children's Training Center.

"What we saw makes it much clearer that every penny provided by people of Reese for Lubbock welfare work is going to one of the best uses it can," said Lt. Col. Wayne Wills, campaign chairman. "It is amazing what is being accomplished by putting our money to good use."

At the Boy's Club the key workers saw basketball equipment, the year-round swimming pool, library, game rooms, workshops and other areas where boys are led into wholesome and productive lives. Much of the equipment formerly belonged to Lubbock Army Air Field, predecessor to Reese AFB.

In the new Salvation Army building the new chapel, garment department, dining area, and living quarters for unfortunates were viewed. A long line of needy people stood in line at the door awaiting assistance. More than 100,000 garments were distributed by the Salvation Army last year.

The Day Nursery provides care, play and training for children of poor parents who work. Some of the parents pay a little and some have no funds for caring for their small children. Community Chest funds finance the project.

At the Training Center, the Reese key workers witnessed training of mentally and physically retarded children. All senses are trained and body coordination is taught to children below 10 years of age. By slow and patient training, the workers teach discipline and proper actions to the youngsters.

"What was most astonishing was the number of volunteer workers in all four places we visited," said Col. Wills. "It was made sharply apparent that welfare work succeeds because of volunteers. But these people need facilities with which to work. Our volunteer contributions help provide these facilities."

Jeff D. Chaison, instrument instructor in the T-33 Mobile Training Detachment, has been promoted to airman first class.

Attention Centers On Base, National Newspaper Activity

Reese people this week joined in observance of Base Newspaper and National Newspaper Week with special attention to contributions made to national life by daily and weekly publications.

The display of processes used in producing The Roundup drew attention in the BX cafeteria and attention to Base Newspaper Week was brought out during Commander's Calls.

The BX display showed some of the printing and reproduction methods used in producing the base newspaper.

The Roundup in 1959 was winner of the Air Training Command trophy as best in its class in command. Judges found its appearance was outstanding. The award-winning issues were forwarded to USAF for Air Force-wide competition, along with ATC winners in other categories.

The Roundup also received recognition from USAF last June for its treatment of The Airman Magazine and its use in Commander's Calls.

Special attention to newspapers was given at all Air Force bases this week, while civilians paid tribute to commercial newspapers in observing National Newspaper Week.

LESSONS PLANNED

WOMEN'S GOLF LESSONS — Free group golf lessons will be given at 10 a.m. Tuesdays for female military personnel and dependents. Kenneth McGuire will instruct on the golf course.

General's Son Guides Cadets

Aviation Cadet Edward R. Collins of Rockingham, N. C., former airman with six years of service, has been appointed commander of the Reese cadet group, with the rank of Cadet Colonel. He is a former college student and high school athlete. Cadet Collins will direct operation of the group until graduation of Class 61-D late in November.

Assisting him as group executive officer is Cadet Gary Winn of Salt Lake City, who has the rank of Cadet Lieutenant Colonel. Cadet Winn is a former student of the University of Utah and is the son of Brig. Gen. Alma G. Winn, of the National Guard at Salt Lake City.

Four cadets have been given the rank of Cadet Major. They are Ivan Nash, III, of Riverside, Calif., Mark H. Ashton of Salt Lake City, Theodore J. Conrad of Nazareth, Texas, and Malcom G. Simpler, Jr., of Charlotte, N. C.

Cadet Simpler is a squadron commander. He is a mechanical engineering graduate of North Carolina State College. Cadet Conrad, also a squadron commander, is a former student of Texas Tech.

Cadet Ashton, group adjutant, also is a former student of the University of Utah. In East High School, Salt Lake City, he was chairman of the student council.

Cadet Nash, group operations and training officer, is a former football player.

Swimming Pool, Hobby Shop Additions Included In Grants

Approval of 10 recreational facility improvements at Reese was given this week by Air Training Command. Funds were made available for six of the projects and money for others is expected later.

Money was made available for purchase of chairs, tables, umbrellas and other equipment at both swimming pools; for rehabilitation and improvement of the woodworking hobby shop; modification of the airman's swimming pool by addition of a patio for chairs and other equipment, construction of a wading pool at the Officers' Club pool; and fencing of three children's playgrounds in the government housing area.

Funds are expected to be made available later for erection of a new bowling alley building; installation of four new stalls, a washrack and other equipment at the auto hobby shop; erection of a squash court in the base gymnasium, and a dayroom at Buffalo Lakes for use of Reese people using the lake and area.

Projects approved are among 32 requests for special grants in the recreational, welfare and morale areas submitted from Sept. 1, 1959, to Sept. 1, 1960. Nine grants were approved previously and fourteen are still pending.

Base Active In Arranging Of UN Week

Reese people will take an active part in United Nations Week, starting Sunday and highlighted in Lubbock by a 6 p.m. dinner Monday in Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church.

Several base people will attend the dinner to hear Dr. Harold C. Case, president of Boston University, who returned recently from an extensive trip to Africa under auspices of the United Nations and the Ford Foundation. Dr. Case will discuss "Africa — Emerging Nation."

Plans for the week are being directed by the Mayor's Committee for United Nations Week of which Col. L. C. Hess, base commander, is a member.

Guests at the Monday dinner will be six foreign students assigned to Reese. At 4:30 p.m. next Thursday other foreign students will be guests on the KCBT-TV "Hospitality Time."

President Eisenhower has asked all citizens to "demonstrate their faith and support of the United Nations and contribute to a better understanding of its aims, problems and achievements" through the observance.

"Establishment of a just and enduring peace throughout the world is essential to the survival of civilization," said the President.

"The United Nations is a powerful instrument for guarding mankind against the calamity of war and for establishing the rule of law among nations.

"The United Nations has demonstrated its ability to assist in the orderly progress of dependent people toward self-government; to help those who live in underdeveloped areas to become self-sustaining; and to drive back the forces of disease and poverty wherever found.

"The United States supports the United Nations with unswerving loyalty as it works to advance the economic, social and spiritual well-being of all peoples."

SECRETARY SHARP

Air Secretary Plans Speech At Texas Tech

Dudley C. Sharp, Secretary of the Air Force, will be guest speaker at Texas Tech's all-college convocation next Wednesday in the municipal coliseum. Numerous Reese people are expected to attend. The convocation will start at 10 a.m.

Secretary Sharp is to discuss air defense and foreign relations. He is a native of Houston and has been secretary since last December. Previously he was undersecretary since August, 1959.

He was vice chairman of the Mission Manufacturing Co., in Houston prior to entering government service.

During World War II, Secretary Sharp was commanding officer on various anti-submarine warfare vessels. He is a 1928 graduate of Princeton University.

Base Linked To New System

A program to link Reese and about 500 other bases in a wider logistic data and message communications system capable of handling an equivalent of 100 million words daily, has been announced. The system will be installed by Western Union for the USAF.

The $11.5 million project calls for installation of five electronic communications message and circuit switching centers which will handle IBM and other data automatically.

The first of the five centers, located at Norton AFB, will go into operation in early 1961. The complete domestic network is due for operation in early 1962. Other centers will be at Gentile AFB, Ohio, McClellan AFB, Calif., Tinker AFB, Okla., and Andrews AFB, Md.

The completely automatic system will handle narrative, data, digitalized voice and graphic information, linking Reese with the 500 air bases, air stations, depots and civilian suppliers.

COMLOGNET (Combat Logistics Network) will be able to interchange data with other networks in the Department of Defense as well as other USAF message communications systems. The new net will have built-in error detection and correction devices to insure less than one erroneous character in ten million.

Safety Officer Dinner Speaker

Maj. Gen. Perry B. Griffith, deputy inspector for safety, USAF, will be speaker for the Pilot Training Group dinner at 7 p.m. today in the Officers' Club. He is stationed at Norton AFB, Calif.

Gen. Griffith, expert on nuclear weapons and tactical flying, is responsible for world-wide direction of the Air Force program of ground, flight, nuclear, and missile safety, with headquarters at Norton AFB, Calif. His organization, known within the military as the 1003rd Inspector General Group, includes the Directorate of Flight and Missile Safety Research, Assistants for Ground Safety Research, Education and Training and Records and Statistics at Norton; and the Directorate of Nuclear Safety Research at Kirtland AFB, N. M.

The General, a native of Wichita, Kansas, holds a distinguished record as Commander of Tactical 836th Air Division at Langley AFB, Va., before his current assignment beginning last Aug. 1. It was there that he earned his second star last May 17.

He is rated command pilot with more than 6,000 flying hours. He was commissioned in 1934, on graduation from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

His decorations include two Legions of Merit, Soldiers Medal, Air Medal, three foreign decorations, and two Commendation Medals.

He was born May 26, 1911, the son of a minister.

Lt. Col. Charles W. Sawyer, PTG commander, will be master-of-ceremonies for the dinner. Guests will be Col. L. C. Hess, base commander, Col. James D. C. Robinson, deputy commander, all group commanders and members of the wing staff. About 200 officers will attend.

From The COMMANDER'S DESK

By Colonel L. C. Hess, Base Commander

The new Officer Effectiveness Reports system as prescribed by Air Force Manual 36-10 becomes effective Nov. 1. This new system of evaluating will have an impact on every officer's career.

The need for a new system has been clearly stated by General White. "The critical evaluation of our officers is most important if we are to maintain qualitative superiority of the Air Force. We must identify those who do very well and those who do not. There is no place in the Air Force for weak officers of any grade. The topnotch officer deserves special attention; planned career progression and rapid advancement, commensurate with his talent".

The new rating system has been developed to provide a means to this end. The rater himself ultimately determines the success of the system since the responsibility for good, fair, complete and otherwise adequate reports rests squarely on his shoulders.

I urge each officer at Reese to become thoroughly familiar with this new directive since it will have such a vital effect on the career of every officer in the Air Force.

Base Furthers UN Aims

Every country celebrates anniversaries of persons and deeds which highlight its national history; however, on next Monday an international anniversary will be acclaimed throughout the world—United Nations Day.

This event commemorates signing into force the United Nations Charter of 15 years ago.

In proclaiming United Nations Day in the United States, President Eisenhower urged Americans to observe the occasion with community programs which demonstrate faith in and support of the U. N. and contribute to a better understanding of its goals, problems and achievements.

Although the past 15 years have not been easy ones, a sober appraisal of the past and present shows that the world needs the U. N. more now than ever before.

Reese people can take pride in their part in furthering international relations through training students from 29 different countries. Student pilots have been trained for 27 foreign nations and maintenance and supply training has been given officers and airmen of 5 friendly countries. Everyone here may take pride in his contribution to world peace and to aims of the United Nations.

Fighting Man Determined

If I am captured I will continue to resist by all means available. I will make every effort to escape and aid others to escape. I will accept neither parole nor special favors from the enemy.

Determination in continued resistance is a necessary attribute of the fighting man who finds himself a captive. This is proclaimed by the third article of the Code of Conduct of the U. S. Fighting Man. The struggle against the enemy doesn't have to end merely because the fighter has been deprived of weapons and mobility — thousands escaped prisoners of war camps during recent wars.

Tenacity in his efforts to escape will not only strengthen the prisoner of war's will to resist — and his will to live even in seemingly hopeless circumstances — it may also hasten the day of his liberation. He will not be alone in spirit. Continued resistance from within will contribute to the pressures brought on the enemy by fighting comrades from without.

The time to acquire this virtue of stubborn resistance is during training. Of course, such traits of character must have had their genesis long before in such unmilitary milieus as family, school, and church. Training will further develop these strong moral fibres. Strong convictions based on background and training will bring dividends should you suffer the misfortune of falling into enemy hands.

Freedom is like the air we breathe. You only realize it is the essence of life when you are deprived of it.

It took disaster to unite the Allies against Fascism. World War III would grant no such reprieve.

RARE CO-INCIDENCE?—Four babies born in the Reese hospital offered a rare weight problem at birth. Two girls born one day, a short time apart, weighed the identical 7 pounds, 10 ounces; the next day two boys arrived during the morning, weighing the same 7 pounds, 4 ounces. Mothers and babies gathered for the camera. Left to right, seated, are Mrs. Dario Corsi and Tina Louise and Mrs. Don Powell and Patti Ann. Standing are Mrs. Smiley Smith and Leney Douglas and Mrs. Maurice Wachtel and Charles Scott.

Growth Of Church Presently 'Highest In Our History'

By Chaplain Jerry L. Rice

Someone once said, "Everyone complains about the weather, but no one does anything about it." This is true in every walk of life, even Christianity. Why doesn't the church do this or that? The minister is always preaching about money. Why don't we have as many new members as First Church down on the corner? Everyone complains about the church, but no one does anything about it.

Never before in the history of this country have we had such a resurgence in church organization and church building. And never before have we had such a lack of understanding as to what we believe. People accept Christianity because the minister says it is good to have and it will make the world a better place in which to live. This is true, but unless you make an effort to understand it, you will not get the full benefit from it.

For Christians to believe is not enough in our modern world. We must understand what we believe in order to combat the evil influence of this world. We must, as Jesus told us, build our houses on a firm foundation, or else they will be washed away in the storms of life.

Snackbars Offer

Enlarged Service

Expanded hours and service for the golf clubhouse and Mathis Service Club snackbars were announced Thursday by Capt. Joseph Enright, BX officer.

The Clubhouse snackbar is open from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Tuesday through Friday, and an hour earlier on Saturday and Sunday. Rolls and coffee are available during the morning and many short orders throughout the day. A soup kitchen also has been set up. Refreshments also are available during the evening.

The service club snackbar will have lengthened hours soon, providing a variety of sandwiches, short orders, fountain food and drink, and other service, said the captain.

Greater service to base people is a major aim of the increased service, it was said.

Mathis Scrapbook

Wins ATC Rating

Reese has been awarded third place in the Air Training Command Service Club Program Contest, finishing behind Randolph and Stead AFB's, Keesler and Craig AFB's received honorable mention. The Reese standing carried with it $300 in cash which may be used by Mathis Service Club.

The contest was judged on scrapbooks submitted by each base in ATC, the books showing activities carried on throughout each year. The winning entries will be forwarded to all ATC bases during coming months.

The Mathis Service Club scrapbook depicted the western theme, with hand-tooled and hand-laced leather cover. The work was put together by the Service Club staff, airmen visiting the club, and volunteers from the city of Lubbock. Each activity of the Reese club was covered on pages inside the leather cover.

The Mathis Service Club entry for the last fiscal year was the first entered by the club.

Major Appointed Safety Director

Appointment of Maj. Richard J. Condrick as director of safety for the base was announced this week. The major will continue as flying officer and also will supervise and direct ground safety activities.

Capt. Marshall Norris has been named ground safety officer. The ground safety office will be moved from its location in the civilian personnel building to Building T-61 in rooms adjacent to the flying safety office.

'Alas, Babylon,' Readable Volume

If you want to spend an evening or two with a good book, go over to the Base Library and draw out "Alas, Babylon" by Pat Frank. The unusual title is taken from two words in a telegram sent by a colonel at SAC Headquarters to his brother in Florida. It is a family code meaning that the lid is about to blow off. It does. America becomes the victim of a saturation bombing that wipes out most of the centers of population.

Meanwhile, as they used to say in the old movies, back at Fort Repose, Fla., Randy Bragg, a decent, amiable, unaggressive sort of fellow finds himself thrust into a position of leadership in a community that has been missed by bombing and fallout. The people suddenly find themselves back where their ancestors had been — dependent completely upon their own hands, courage and ingenuity.

Their first shock is to find the electricity cut off — which means no TV's, radios, refrigerators, water pumps, lights and just about every other convenience that we take for granted in our everyday lives. Gasoline quickly disappears and the people are literally back on their feet — walking, that is.

The book is not a dirge but rather a story of high adventure as Randy Bragg goes about the business of taking care of his brother's family, his girl, Lib, and the people of the town. Courage, ideals, friendship, loyalty and love — the characteristics that have made America great — prove that it is possible to do more than merely "survive" after a disaster.

VOLUNTEERS—Assistance to Reese families is the primary aim of the base Family Service Center. Here Mrs. Raymond Augur, office chairman, answers a telephone query on housing as Mrs. John W. Arnette helps by checking the card files for available quarters for a large family. Mrs. Richard Conn is checking a folder on Italy to provide information for a family going to that country.

Volunteers Find Satisfaction

The "Roundup" this week will begin a series of articles on Family Service volunteers on active duty. The articles are intended to recognize those workers who are giving their time each week in service to the Family Service Center. Publication will be made as space permits and volunteers will be recognized in alphabetical order.

Praise for activities of the Reese Family Service Center has come periodically since the center began operation in May, 1957. The program is intended to provide assistance to all families, especially on arrival and departure.

Volunteer workers, wives of military men, operate the center, assisting families just arrived to find housing and supplying adequate equipment in their homes until their furniture arrives.

Families leaving for new stations are given information about the base to which they are assigned, about the new community they will join, and are loaned kitchen and other articles which can be used for a few days after household goods leave for the new station.

"I serve as a volunteer and give freely of my time to the Reese Family Service Center because it gives me a feeling of satisfaction to be of assistance to others," sums up the general feeling of the volunteers.

Active as volunteers are Mmes. John W. Arnette, Raymond Augur, Joseph Bloomer and Richard Conn.

Mrs. Arnette has been a volunteer since her arrival here in August, 1958. She came here from Maxwell AFB, Ala., and states she has gained much personal satisfaction by meeting newcomers and assisting them at the center.

Mrs. Augur, office worker since January and now office chairman, came from Lackland AFB and has been available as needed since her arrival. She states opportunity to work as a volunteer "has brought much pleasure and satisfaction."

"The nine months I have worked in the Family Service Center has shown me how I can be a good member of the Reese family," states Mrs. Bloomer. "It is enjoyable and worthwhile to be able to assist people a little, especially when they come to a strange community." She came here from Chanute AFB.

Mrs. Conn, publicity chairman, has been a volunteer for a year in the Center office. She says working at the center has been one of her most enjoyable and satisfying experiences.

Toughmindedness Necessary, Says General

Toughmindedness in protecting the national interest, even at the cost sometimes of international popularity, should be one of the major considerations in how we chart our Nation's course now and in the years ahead.

This was the theme hammered home by Gen. Nathan F. Twining, who retired Sept. 30 as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in an address to delegates at the National Security Industrial Association in New York.

His talk embraced four topics—the threat to our security, the need for being toughminded in "matters that count", the responsibility of business leaders in the world struggle, and the condition of our Armed Forces.

The threat posed by world communism represents the most serious challenge yet to be directed at us in all our history, said Gen. Twining.

It is widening into a race for dominance in outer space, for superiority in science, and for the resources and markets of the world.

To meet this threat requires a protective shield of decisive military power, for the struggle is too big, too deadly for compromise, declared Gen. Twining. Because the stakes are so vast it is possible that the U. S. might have to follow courses that are momentarily or superficially unpopular, both at home and abroad. It is here that we must be toughminded in the national interest.

Noting that it sometimes takes more courage to be firm with an ally than with an enemy, General Twining asked: "What is so awful about being unpopular" when the protection of the Nation's interest is reasonable and moral.

In determining what measures must be employed in furthering the destiny of this Nation, Gen. Twining appealed to the business leaders to support policies, if necessary, that may be financially costly or contain elements of danger.

"The best of leadership will be left hamstrung if its decisions fail to arouse the support of a public opinion that has neglected to keep itself informed," said the general.

Commenting on the clamor in some circles for disarmament without proper controls Gen. Twining noted that the minority who make these demands makes more noise than the great majority who do not.

"All of you, as responsible citizens, might make more noise — and let the press and your government know that you understand that world tensions are the cause of armaments — not the reverse — and that any meaningful disarmament can only follow, not precede, political reconciliation," said the general.

The state of the Armed Forces is good, the general declared, pointing out that its powerful "mix" of deterrent forces possesses readiness, flexibility, and staying power capable of engaging in general or limited war. We can now destroy Russia and China if we are attacked, and the Communist leaders know it, the general said.

"They know that even if they launched a surprise attack, they would bring down certain destruction on their own heads. A nuclear world is not a comfortable world, but it is preferable, in my thinking, to a Communist world. The American capability for decisive, war-winning response to any attack must be kept sure, whatever the costs. Forces that cannot win will not deter," said Gen. Twining.

Aero Club Safety Aim Of Directive

Increased safety in flight operations is the chief aim of a re-written AFR 34-14, foundation document governing Aero Clubs.

Appearing for the first time is authority for commanders to use military personnel on a voluntary additional duty basis to supervise those phases of club operations which correspond to their military assignments.

Supervision will insure that a senior, rated officer will be assigned to the Aero Club Board of Governors as club adviser. Reese has always used this system.

The Flying Safety Officer, on an additional duty basis, will conduct an aircraft accident prevention survey of the club at least once a year. The re-written regulation contains many other safety features.

Woman's Chatter

By Mrs. Patrick Durning
With the Officers Wives Club bazaar closer, members are reminded to get their contributions and donations to the chairmen of various booths. This week attention is drawn to the Bakery booth which will feature all sorts of delectable goods. Persons desiring holiday foods may stockup and freeze cakes, pies and cookies. Mrs. Jerome Goebel is in charge. The Protestant Women of the Chapel will hold their regular circle meeting at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Donald Boren. Chaplain George Worner is to give an introduction to "Religions of the World," discussing the Hindu religion.

A coffee will be held at the Officers' Club at 10 a.m. on Nov. 16 for members of the OWC. A new constitution will be voted on. Attendance of 78 constitutes the required forum.

The Base Operations section attended the Texas Tech-Baylor football game as a group last Saturday and then had dinner and dancing at the Officers' Club. The M&S Group wives held their monthly luncheon today at the Officers' Club, with a Halloween theme in decorations.

Weekend guests at the home of Maj. and Mrs. Elwin G. Kirby were Mrs. Kirby's brother, Hugh Cochran and family of Odessa, and a sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bird and family of Amarillo.

Flight 9 wives and husbands will have a Chili Feed Saturday, hosted by Capt. and Mrs. Richard Bono at their home.

Mmes. Robert Dinwiddie and John Erdmann hosted a neighborhood farewell coffee for Mrs. Jess Schmidt.

Maj. and Mrs. Joseph Burdick and family flew to Virginia last week because of the serious illness of the major's father. They returned Tuesday.

The Teen Club will have a Halloween party from 7 to 11 p.m. Saturday. Members are requested to come in costume.
