The "Journey" had its beginnings in October of 2004 as a group of ladies were returning from a Women of Faith conference in Dallas, Texas. They had just been a part of 20,000 women that were encouraged and empowered by the messages, testimonies, and music they had heard at the conference.

As they drove home, God impressed them with the desire to share this with the women in this area. They felt like they could present the same thing in Floyd County, just on a smaller scale. And that is what they did. They gathered inspirational speak-

She is now a renowned author, Bible teacher and speaker. She is excited to share with us how we can unpack the baggage in our lives that keep us from living the life that God has in mind for us. Local Pumpkin growers, distributors experience boom

By Jennifer Harbin

Floyd County has a long history of pumpkin growing that dates back to the county's first grower, B.A. "Slim" Robertson, and even the first Indian inhabitants.

Following a rough year of drought, local growers of the orange crop are seeing a boom in crops and business after a season of more moisture.

"Anything is better than last year," said Lindsey Pyle of Pumpkin Pyle in Floydada. "We had some rain but it still wasn't the average rainfall so I don's think the yield is at its potential."

Despite rainfall not being at its average, growers' attitudes are positive and thankful.

"We have a really good crop," said Tim Assister, owner of Assiter Punkin' Ranch. "It may not be a nor-but they didn't produce pumpkins because they pitched their blooms in order to survive the drought.

FLOYDADA SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS

By Margaret Jones

"Shine on, shine on, Harvest Moon, up in the sky...." My favorite time of year brings the Magic of the season to fruition. The quietness and peace in the coolness of the evening breeze calms the business of the days as night falls ever so softly. We fret and worry over cares unfounded to find comfort in the arms of sleep. Blessings abound in the promise of tomorrow secure in the knowledge of the One who holds our future.

Our community is abuzz with numerous activities on the OCTOBER CALEN-DAR. PUMPKIN DAYS is just around the corner with fun and games for all ages. FOOTBALL GAMES are on schedule each Friday night as young athletes meet on the filed and the stands are full of supporters cheering for their favorite team. Different CHURCHES in our town have FALL FESTIVALS planned for families of young children to enjoy. I look forward to seeing you out-andabout enjoying this special time of togetherness.

One of the special joys of living in Floydada is receiving letters from Old Friends who used to live here. I received two this week. One was from Claire Edwards who lives in Llano, Texas. Earl and Claire have been gone from here over 45 years. (where, oh, where has time gone?) She said that the best people in the world live on the South Plains (and I will agree). They still have dear friends here. Thank you for your sweet letter and thoughtfulness to the Center, Claire. When you are up this way, please come by for a good visit. We would love to

The other letter was from Herschell and Patricia Hinson. I shared information with you from a letter I received from Herschell back in July. You may remember that Herschell grew up in Floydada and that his Father was an electrician and knew Guy Ginn. They dropped by the Center to say hello, and to leave a donation. So sorry I was unable to visit with you. Please come again soon. Thank you for your thoughtfulness in remembering the Center with your do-

COMMENT ON HARRY CHRISTAIN AND HIS FAVORITE POP

Floyd County Hesperian March 30, 1972 Letter to the Editor

You will never know how your story on the "soda pop" bottle jogged my memory.

There was a bottling plant in Floydada at one time. It was owned and operated by Fred Bell (Ted's father) and anyone he could hire to help him; usually kids like myself. As I recall this was in the early thirties, probably 1930 through 1933. At least this was the period of my association with Fred. It was located in a red brick building a few hundred yards east of where the City Auto is now located. It was sort of a one or two person operation. A small, but as I recall, a very efficient machine. Fred had the large containers of soda pop mixture up on shelves in large crocks. This gave him a little gravity flow to the bottling machine. He mixed all the popular flavors. I don't recall his handling or bottling anything like "Coke" or "Dr. Pepper." He had one large delivery truck which he himself drove on his appointed rounds. 1 thorough-much better then. He put more syrup, natural colors (when available), natural flavors and not quite só much carbonated water. If a person were to see a modern bottling plant in operation now and saw what the basis content (and how little) and how much water sent into the present day drinks I doubt if the would buy it. However, 5 have always heard that water is either one of the cheapest ingredients known to man or one of the most expensive.

In those days there were no "throw-aways". A person paid the 01 cent per bottle deposit and then returned them for reuse. The consumer price then was only 05 cents. I remember many times of helping Fred Bell bottle ibs pop, then go get my large red wagon, load on several cases and go down to the old ball park. The ball park was located north of the old ice plant and east of the old "Spec "' Cowen home. I would hire other kids and give them buckets with ice and let them peddle the pop through the stands, giving them one cent per bottle commission. We all made money. I had Billy Poole, Scrapy Hodge, Speck Cowan and occasionally Harold Brown (Fred's son). I always thought Harold might have been drinking as much pop as he was selling. If you consider all the factors that went into my vending operation and Fred's bottling plant and put them into a computer using today's costs factors we would have been in the red all the time but in the depression days we were probably making $5.00 to $10.00 per hour, relatively speaking, and didn't even know it. Later on, Fred got one ofHarley Sadler's old tents and operated a skating rink during the day and evening and then on the weekends he would host a dance for the local people. He took this tent and the soda-pop to Silverton, Crosbyton, Rails, and Hank Smiths' Ranch house for the reunions and followed a few carnivals, but not too far. Later on I rented the tent from him and made so much clear money for those days, during the summer, that I almost decided not to go back to school one fail. Being about 10 or 11 years old I had never heard of the Internal Rev. Service. Once I had the rink and the dance floor at Roaring Springs all summer.

Fred was pretty good to work for; he was demanding in the task assigned but he would let you drink all the pop you wanted and if he was selling hamburgers he would let you eat all you

The Middle East and Foreign Aid

Last week-more than two weeks after our Ambassador and three other Americans were murdered in Benghazi, Libya — Secretary Defense Leon Panetta characterized the violence as a terrorist attack. I think it's deplorable that it took the Obama Administration so long to acknowledge the truth about the tragedy in Libya where four Americans lost their lives. In these last few weeks, violence and hatred directed at Americans has been rampant in parts of the Middle East, particularly in Egypt and Libya. The U.S. sends billions of dollars in foreign aid to these countries, and I believe we need to re-evaluate our relationships with them. Is our aid helping achieve strategic goals? Is it improving our security? As we considto ensure all our money is being spent wisely as we try and stop the growth of our

Hispanic Heritage Month

From September 15th to October 15th, the United States celebrates Hispanic Heritage Month. This is a time for us to recognize the contributions that Hispanic and Latin Americans have made to the United States and to celebrate Hispanic heritage and culture. The United States has always been a "melting pot" of different cultures, languages and histories. One of the reasons our country is so great is because it provides an opportunity for immigrants to work hard and provide better lives for their families. Texans are especially aware of Hispanic and Latin American influence and culture. This month, I hope you'll join me in celebrating the diverse perspective Hispanic culture brings to our state and our country.

AUSTIN — The Texas average rig count as of Sept. 21, was 877, representing about 49 percent of all active land rigs in the United States. In the last 12 months, total Texas reported production was 474 million barrels of oil and 7.2 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

for July 2012 is 49,002,732 barrels of crude oil and 524,613,151 Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas well gas. The Commission derives final production numbers by multiplying the preliminary July 2012 production totals of 40,321,511 barrels of crude oil and 441,853,913 Mcf of gas well gas by a production adjustment factor of 1.2153 for crude oil and 1.1873 for gas well gas. (These production totals do not include casinghead gas or condensate.)

Texas natural gas storage reported to the Commission for August 2012 was 391,994,296 Mcf compared to 353,961,061 Mcf in August 2011. The September 2012 gas storage estimate is 404,036,307 Mcf.

The Texas Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division set initial October 2012 natural gas production allowables for prorated fields demand of 9,784,268 Mcf (thousand cubic feet). In setting the initial October 2012 allowables, the Commission used historical production figures from previous months, producers' demand forecasts for the coming month, and adjusted the figures based on well capability. These initial allowables will be adjusted after actual production for October 2012 is reported.

Whirlwind Energy Center

To whom it may concern:

This is public notification, from Whirlwind Energy Center, about the possibility of ice buildup on the Blades and Towers of the Wind Turbines in your area.

Please be advised, under certain conditions there may be a risk of ice falling from the towers and blades.

During freezing temperatures with high humidity, ice is likely to accumulate on Wind Turbine Blades and Towers. The potential for ice to fall off blades or from nacelles exists (whether the turbines are operating or not) during icing conditions, as well as while the ice is melting.

Although the public is restricted from area affected by ice fall, it does present a potential hazard to any personnel in the area affected.

Under freezing conditions, and following snow or rain events under freezing temperatures, it would be advised to stay away from the towers.

For a period of time after the freezing temperatures, thawing conditions may also cause ice and snow to fall or be flung from the towers or blades.

These conditions could be dangerous to humans and animals, and it would be recommended to stay at a safe distance.

I can't believe that we are already in the month of October. This year, October has a special place in my heart as it is known as Breast Cancer Awareness Month. There are not many places that I can go where I'm not greeted with a pink ribbon. That makes my heart smile. It also compels me to want to do my part in making sure that the world is aware of the dangers of breast cancer. On Saturday, October 6, 2012, I, along with many of my colleagues and a few of my students, will participate in this year's Susan G. Komen's Race for the Cure in Lubbock. I'm very excited because not only do I get to give back, I've been able to make others aware of how to get involved and raise money for a great cause. The student council members of FHS, sponsored by Rosemary Finely, are selling "Join the Fight" bracelets in which all proceeds will go to "Team Cynthia" which will be donated to the annual Race for the Cure Series. I am consumed with joy knowing that so many people have joined me in this fight. Such kindness will never be obliterated. I can honestly say that the best part of this journey has been the abundance of love and support flowing from my Floydada community. Thank you all so much!

While speaking with the Texas Joint Interim Committee to Study the Public School Finance System, Wise expressed how technology should be utilized to aid all students in Texas, despite their geography or socioeconomic status. To further stress how digital learning can be an advantage to pupils, he gave examples of Floydada and Klein Independent School District's application of electronic devices. Here in Lockney we have this thing called the "After Game Supper." This event is sponsored by various churches here in Lockney to show their support of the Lockney Longhorns. The after game supper is something we have after every home game, win or lose, where students can go and fellowship with their peers. They serve food and drinks with a little something sweet on the side. This picture includes Colby Verdine, Mackenzie Kemp, and Nathan Caballero having a good time at the after game supper.

Lockney Longhorns fall to Olton in overtime

By Homer Marquez Herald Sports Editor

The Olton boys got their first win of the season Friday night as the Mustangs defeated the now 3-2 Lockney Longhorns in overtime, 19-

"We were long overdue," said Olton head coach Ed Perez. "Everything finally started clicking, we finished our drives and we had a very aggressive defense. Lockney is definitely a power running team, and it was a physical game. I tip my hat to Lockney."

Lockney suffered their second straight loss against the Mustangs, and head coach Malcolm Morebe says there's still some work to be done if the Horns plan to get back to their winning ways in their next game against Tulia.

"We've got some things that we have to fix," Morebe said simply.

Olton linebacker Miguel Hernandez got the game started in the second quarter with a 27-yard interception return for a touchdown.

Hernandez's touchdown was the only one of the first half, but Lockney came back in the third quarter of a 29-yard touchdown from Longhorn quarterback Erik Cortez to Ian Dunbar. Later in the quarter, the pair connected again for a 10-yard touchdown reception to put Lockney up 13-0 going into the fourth.

As the closing minutes fell off the clock, key runs by Olton's J.R. Sullivan and Eric Hernandez marched the Mustangs down the field. Facing a possible fifth straight loss, Olton's Skeet Mandrel finished up a rushing drive with a 1-yard touchdown to send the game into overtime with the scored tied at 13-13.

Lockney took the first possession of the overtime period, but Olton's defense would stuff the Horns at their own 44-yard line with the help of linebacker Jace Raney. Olton's running game went back to work driving the ball into the red zone. Eventually, Mustang Miguel Hernandez punched in a 1-yard winning "touchdown to give Olton their first win of the season.

Olton will have a bye next week, before taking on the Floydada Whirlwinds in their first district match-up.

"We are going to be working very hard to prepare for Floydada," Perez said. "We know they are working hard to prepare for us

One of their biggest customers is the Dallas Arboretum. The Arboretum was published in Country Living Magazine this year for their beautiful and creative pumpkin displays using some of Floydada's pumpkins.

Pumpkin distributor Amado Morales gets his pumpkins from local farmers and ships many varieties to Dallas and Houston, as well as selling locally. Morales Pumpkins, which is run by Morales and his sons, Junior and Matthew, has been in operation for 15 years.

"Assister Punkin' Ranch is a "multi-generation family business" and "pumpkin grower that wholesales pumpkins, as well as has a retail barn with all of the extras of a pumpkin patch, except for a corn maze," according to Assiter. "We have a tour group, train the kids ride on, petting zoo and Border Collie demonstrations."

Come rain or shine, there is no doubt that Floydada will keep living up to its name of "Pumpkin Capital USA" for years to come as the county's farmers and distributors take part in the rich history of pumpkin growing and selling.

October goes Pink for National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

ignated National Breast improved treatment have Cancer Awareness Month to increase awareness of the disease. October also serves as an excellent time to show support to those affected by breast cancer.

Nationally, more than 232,000 will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year; about 15,000 of those patients will be Texans. Of the close to 40,000 women and men who will die from the disease in 2012, more than 2,600 will be friends, family, neighbors and coworkers from our state.

Breast cancer screening refers to testing an otherwise-healthy patient for breast cancer in an attempt to achieve an earlier diagnosis. Early detection is key to successful cancer treatment and positive patient outcomes. The American Cancer Society issues recommendations for breast cancer screening, including annual mammograms for women over the age of Those recommendations, however, are not a "one size fits all" template.

Earlier detection and resulted in decreasing death rates from breast cancer, and better methods of earlier detection – like breast

MRI - may improve those rates even further. Progressive breast cancer centers will employ a combination of imaging modalities to meet the unique needs of each patient. While annual screening mammography alone is enough for some patients, many others need additional breast imaging modalities for effective breast cancer screening.

An organization that is familiar when it comes to breast cancer awareness is Susan G. Komen for the Cure. According to their website, "Susan G. Komen is the boldest community fueling the best science and making the biggest impact in the fight against breast cancer."

Thanks to events like the Komen Race for the Cure, the world's largest and most successful education and fundraising event for breast cancer ever created, this foundation has invested almost $2 billion working to end breast can-fundraisers and events. For information on how to get involved, there cer in the U.S. and throughout the world through ground-breaking research, community health outreach, advocacy and programs in more than 50 countries.

There are many retailers and food chains around the country that are promoting special breast cancer awareness products, are many websites students can go to, including the National Breast Cancer Foundation at nbcf. org and Susan G. Komen for the Cure at komen.org.

In recent years, there has been an explosion of life-saving treatment advances against breast cancer, bringing new hope and excitement. Instead of only one or two options, today there's a wide variety of treatment choices that fight the complex mix of cells in each individual cancer, including surgery, then perhaps radiation, hormonal (anti-estrogen) therapy or chemotherapy. There are too many treatment side effects to list them all, but the most common ones are fatigue, nausea, weight loss and hair loss. Some of the scarier side effects include stroke, neuropathy and heart issues. However, many of the side effects are manageable with help from doctors.

While the physical toll that breast cancer and breast cancer treatment takes on a person can be extreme, the emotional toll is often greater and sometimes hidden. Breast cancer patients can struggle with accepting their illness.

It can be a daily struggle between wanting to give up one day and being excited and confident to get better the next.

Family members often don't know what to say or do for their loved one with breast cancer, so they sometimes shy away or avoid the subject.

However, being open to learning about their illness and treatments, allowing them to talk about their illness and feelings, and even going with them to treatments can be invaluable in the patient's progress and emotional well-being. It can also take away the feeling of helplessness family members often have.

Although there is still no cure or prevention for breast cancer, enormous strides are being made in the medical field, allowing for earlier detection and better treatments. And with continuing awareness and fundraising programs, more and more advancements will be made.

So, for the month of October, Go Pink! And show your support for breast cancer patients and survivors everywhere!
