United Way Benefit Concert

By TYLER SCHELLIE

Staff Writer

The Train Car is set to host the first ever United Way Benefit Concert on, in partner with United Way of Big Spring and Howard County Saturday, October 13, as a way to help with United Ways 2019 campaign.

"Our Campaign takes place from the end of August through the end of December. Each year we have a campaign, and this year we are shooting for $250,000 as our campaign goal. We are raising this money to support our partnering agencies," Executive Director of United Way of Big Spring Christian Fair said. The Benefit Concert was rained out at the last attempt so all weather permitting the event will take place the October 13, at 7 p.m. The whole point of the United Way in Big Spring and Howard County is to raise money for 14 Health and Human Service partner agencies. In hopes of really having a good time, the event will take place at the Train Car and will feature a contest during the scheduled concert, along with food and refreshments, to which all of the proceeds will be benefitting the 2019 campaign.

There is no cover charge for the event, so we will be raising all of the money through the food and contest sales, along with a few donation buckets," Fair said.

With past events being a little more formal, United Way members have talked about making this a more fun and casual event to kick off the 2019 year.

Come out, listen to some really good music, get some great information about what we do at United Way, and hopefully you can win a cool prize.

October is National Bullying Prevention Month

Special to the Herald

The Odessa Police Department would like to remind the public that October is National Bullying Prevention Month. When adults quickly respond and to bullying behavior they send a message that it is not acceptable. Research shows this can stop bullying over time.

Bullying Prevention Tips:

1) Help kids understand bullying. Talk about what bullying is and how to stand up to it safely. Tell kids bullying is unacceptable. Make sure kids know how to get help.

2) Keep the lines of communication open. Check with kids often and listen to them. Know their friends, ask about school, and understand their concerns.

3) Encourage kids to do what they love. Special activities, interests, and hobbies can boost confidence, help kids make friends, and protect them from bullying behavior.

4) Consider hosting anti-bullying events or programs at scouting events, church, or sporting activities.

5) Model how to treat others with kindness and respect.

Banksy artwork self-destructs moment after $1.4 million sale

LONDON (AP) — Art prankster Banksy has struck again.

A work by the elusive street artist apparently self-destructed in front of startled auction-goers on Friday, moments after being sold for 1.04 million pounds ($1.4 million).

The spray-painted canvas "Girl With Balloon" went under the hammer at Sotheby's in London, fetching more than three times its pre-sale estimate and equaling a record price for the artist.

Then, as an alarm sounded, it ran through a shredder embedded in the frame, leaving half the canvas hanging from the bottom in strips.

A post on Banksy's official Instagram account showed the moment — and the shocked reaction of those in the room — with the words "Going, going, gone..."

Sotheby's — which had noted before the sale that the work's ornate gilded frame was "an integral element of the artwork chosen by Banksy himself" — expressed surprise at the incident.

"It appears we just got Banksy-ed," said Alex Branczik, head of contemporary European art at the auction house.

The auction house said it was "in discussion about next steps" with the buyer. Some art-market watchers say the work could be worth even more in its shredded state.

"We have not experienced this situation in the past . where a painting spontaneously shredded, upon achieving a record for the artist," Branczik said. "We are busily figuring out what this means in an auction context."

Terror Trails in the Northeast Texas Woods

Gary Hughes has a scary place near Yantis in Northeast Texas. It's called Terror Trails and gets lots of visitors on weekends in October.

"On our busiest weekends we'll have more than a thousand people on a Saturday night," says Gary, who runs it with a staff of more than fifty people. "There's at least an hour and a half wait on our busiest nights, but no one seems to mind. They're with their friends; they're having fun cuttin' up. While they're waiting we show scary movies on a big screen. We also serve pizzas. We've had people who come out just to eat pizza and watch a movie. They don't even go through the trails. Every once in a while we'll have someone run through who acts like a crazy person with a chainsaw. That keeps them entertained."

The place has been scaring people for twenty years.

"You really can't tell who you can scare. Our toughest customers is a thirteen-year-old male, you know, the type that says 'nothing scares me.' Then you'll see fully grown cowboys running like little girls to get away from the scary stuff."

A lot of the same people show up every year.

"We're more like a family tradition now. Every year, the same families come out and have fun together. That's what I've always wanted to do, just give families a nice place to come and enjoy themselves for the evening."

A highway splits the venue in half. On one side of the highway is a haunted half-mile trail through the woods, which features a ghost train, clowns, a bat cave and mazes. On the other side is a haunted house that is full of mummies, coffins, skeletons, eerie laughter, creaks and groans, all controlled by sophisticated electronics.

"We're using more projectors now," says Gary. "We have a witch in the window stirring her

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

First I would like to thank the LORD for the opportunity to write this letter to you concerning an event that has left a grateful heart. About 3 weeks ago I was invited by Mr. Mike Tarpley of the DAV to be an honoree of the Dove Hunt done every year for 4 veterans. During that weekend, myself with other 3 honorees were catered with lodging, meals and gifts that we were not expecting, therefore making us feel like children at Christmas. What touched me the most was the sincere fellowship.

These families of the community that volunteered to make this happen for us were one of the most kind, humble and hardworking people I have met. These families could have easily put us somewhere but instead they invited us to their homes and family businesses to dine with them and their families, which really touched me and made me realize Big Spring, Texas truly has a heart for Veterans. I would like to thank:

The Tarpley family
The Surlles family
The Bagwell family
The Hills family
The Price family
The Holcomb family
The Theverot family
The Blankovist family

Dear Editor,

As one sits overlooking thousands of traffic on interstate 35 in Austin, it's obvious they plod along at an expensive pace, as if drugged, or as if every bumper is welded to the other. They do get to their destinations, eventually, and mostly unaware of the tremendous economic burden of costs associated with their purposes. What if each got to their destinations hours earlier? The savings in gasoline and diesel alone would probably equal in the millions. That, Big Spring friends, is one of what an Interstate 27 could do for Texas, particularly if routed through Big Spring - the cost efficient, shortest route.

We all consume transportation. Let's make it efficient. Write your State Legislatures and Department of Transportation. Let them hear your written voice. Big Spring might not have a river for commerce, but it does have a highway, rail and aviation - a terrific combination for transportation when combined with location.

Uncle Mort and Biases

You can look it up." Late sports writing giant Blackie Sherrod was fond of using this quote. He repeated it often in a half-century of columns, attempting to keep sports in the context of a larger world.

He died years before the "Google Age," but if he were still clacking out journalistic brilliance on his old upright typewriter, he'd take his observations--and bluffs--even further.

Yep, old Blackie would have enjoyed field days of "fun-poking" at today's "holier than thou" assertions, his tongue rubbed raw from repeated wallowing in his cheek.

Sherrod kept sports in perspective--even for most heralded games--loosening us up with observations that tickled our funny bones.

He delighted in calling baseball's end-of-season finale "The World Serious," and he often lampooned the magazine Sports Illustrated as Sports Elevated.

Countless times he quoted Dallas Cowboy Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson's great line poking holes in the worldwide "ballyhoo" amassed for the Super Bowl. He mused, "If the Super Bowl is really the ultimate game, why do they play it again next year?"

Blackie would have taken a "bulldog bite" out of a new study about biases. Biases are "circling the bases" these days, with some in Washington, DC, running totally amuck.

He'd probably wonder why the Gallup people decided to study biases. How many of them really warrant "hot button" status? One point studied is whether we're plagued more by biased consumers of the news, or by the agencies that produce it.

My 106-year-old uncle thinks that when Gallup's surveyors pry into the "why's" of our biases, they've "done gone too far." "Expression of biases is one of the few rights we have left," he fumed.

Uncle Mort, during a serious moment, said, "Biases allow us to express opinions, factual or otherwise." He believes they provide release valves on topics that may explode if we don't spout some steam occasionally.

Mort, sounding like a Sherrod clone, reminds us that we can "Google it." "Course, Blackie's line would have been, "You can look it up."

Either way, one who takes time to delve into the Gallup findings about biases may want to skip down to a single paragraph near the end of the New York Times piece.

It reads, "In contrast with political views, demographic characteristics of the reader--including gender, age, education and race/ethnicity--provided little explanatory power in explaining bias." You may now uncross your eyes.

I'm pretty sure biases can be held in check--at least, those that need to be--if some "small talk" is included with all the serious stuff. Time was, folks engaged in pleasant conversations, quick to smile and slow to judge and/or offer correction. Memories of such civility grow faint.

DR. DON NEWBURY

Coming to mind is a recent visit with Everett "Bunny" Martin, a friend of some 65 years. We covered "bottom-feeder" items far removed from today's grave topics. He recalled a long-ago time when his primary church staff duty was to visit the sick. About the same time, he was learning sleight-of-hand card and coin tricks. During one hospital visit, a 94-year-old patient asked Bunny to perform a few tricks. Bunny, long proclaimed the "yo-yo champion of the world," quickly produced cards and coins. His performance was shaky.

Upon leaving, Bunny said, "I hope you are better soon." The old man responded, "I hope you are, too."

I countered, telling about my visit to a hospice facility that was brightened by an "incurable optimist."

An old fellow--86 and pretty much used up--drew me close, whispering, "I've been sent here as an undercover agent to see if the food is any good."

He died three days later. I will long remember his optimism, and his determination to complete a life marked by good cheer. Bunny's friend 60+ years ago--and mine the other day--were "load-lighteners." Would that all of us try more often to make others smile.

Sepsis Awareness - It's all about T.I.M.E.

By AMANDA DUFORAT

SMMC Marketing Mgr.

When it comes to a medical emergency, time is of the essence. Scenic Mountain Medical Center's focus on Sepsis Awareness Week, highlighted the importance of time, when it comes to battling sepsis.

"Sepsis is a medical emergency and we can't stress enough, how much time matters," Laurie Burks, SMMC Quality Analyst and Core Measures Abstractor, said. "In life we are always saying we don't have enough time to get things done or we don't have enough time for the important things. That type of thinking is the perfect perspective to carry over and explain the effects of Sepsis."

Having enough time when it comes to dealing with sepsis, depends on how quickly signs and symptoms are recognized. According to Burks, there is a short window of opportunity to stop sepsis before it turns into a life or death situation.

"The best way to describe sepsis is the body's extreme response to an infection. Being proactive is the way to get ahead of sepsis because sometimes being reactive can have a detrimental outcome," Burks said.

Sepsis Alliance Organization pushed out the "It's About Time" campaign this year, in hopes of educating hospital staff and the general population to recognize when sepsis has set in. The T. I. M. E. acronym points out four key components to look for: Temperature - which can be extremely high or extremely low; Infection - this can be the result of a cut or abrasion that has developed redness, tenderness, odor or drainage. The most common infections associated with sepsis are pneumonia and urinary tract infections.

"Howard County has a high rate of diabetics, which means our population is at a higher risk when it comes to developing sepsis. Anyone who has an immune system that is compromised is also at a higher risk," Burks said. "There is no age group that is eliminated when it comes to this, but the very young and very old are at a higher risk."

Mental decline is another important symptom to key in on. If a person is becoming septic, they may appear to be confused, sleepy or difficult to wake. Someone who has started sleeping excessively or acting strangely could be in the later stages of sepsis. The final piece of the sepsis symptoms is the feeling of being extremely ill.

"The one common thing we hear from sepsis patients is that they describe it as feeling like they are going to die," Burks said. "By the time a patient reaches this point, the window of opportunity is small and treatment needs to happen quickly."

With flu season and the winter months upon us, it's important that preventative measures are taken. Consulting your primary care provider is a good way to find out proper prevention steps for you. Hand washing and staying up to date on vaccinations is another good line of defense.

"Every person is going to be different, which is why we suggest speaking with your primary care provider, when it comes to proper prevention methods," Burks said. "What may work well for an older adult may not be the only line of defense needed for a toddler. It's important to have routine checks with a provider, as a proactive measure for a variety of health concerns."

Burks also suggests knowing the symptoms; keeping top of mind awareness when it comes to the things to watch out for can make all the difference. Lastly, if you believe sepsis is a possibility, act fast. Medical care should be sought immediately for those suspecting sepsis or have an infection that's getting worse and refusing to heal.

Judge appoints attorney for Texas girl, 9, on life support

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A judge has appointed an attorney for a 9-year-old North Texas girl whose parents are fighting to keep a hospital from disconnecting her life support.

State District Judge Melody Wilkinson says she wants the attorney to represent 9-year-old Payton Summons in any negotiations between her parents and Cook Children's Medical Center. Another hearing has been set for Wednesday.

The girl has cancer and her tumor has grown to block her circulation and pressure her lungs and heart. Last week, she suffered a cardiac arrest and it took an hour to restart her heart. By that time, however, her doctors said the lack of blood to her brain left her brain dead and beyond hope of recovery.

Earlier this week, the child's family obtained a temporary court order blocking a hospital from disconnecting their daughter from life support.

Nation's largest mattress retailer files for bankruptcy

HOUSTON (AP) — Mattress Firm, Inc., the nation's largest mattress retailer, filed for bankruptcy protection on Friday, saying its rapid expansion of stores in recent years — with locations often very close to each other — resulted in "cannibalization" of sales.

The Houston-based company filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in federal court in Delaware, saying it plans to close up to 700 stores around the country as part of its reorganization plan to continue operating.

The company has more than 3,200 stores and more than 9,800 employees in the U.S. and in recent years had aggressively expanded its retail footprint.

In court documents, Mattress Firm said the company's previous management team had made several miscalculations as it rebranded more than 1,300 stores it had bought from competitors in the last two years.

"While these acquisitions allowed (Mattress Firm) to achieve ... presence in markets where they previously had little to no presence, they also led to 'cannibalization' of sales amongst stores in close proximity to each other," the company said. "As a result, many Mattress Firm stores are in direct competition with other Mattress Firm stores, resulting in disappointing sales."

According to court documents, Mattress Firm has more than $1 billion in liabilities and has more than 50,000 creditors. It owes its largest creditor, Atlanta-based mattress maker Simmons Manufacturing Co., nearly $65 million.

In a statement, CEO and president Steve Stagner says the bankruptcy filing will allow the company to "strengthen our balance sheet."

Stagner said the reorganization plan will let the company "provide greater value to our customers, open new stores in new markets and strategically expand in existing markets where we see the greatest opportunities to serve our customers."

The company, founded in 1986, has sales of more than $3 billion. But in court documents, the company said in fiscal year 2018, it is projected to lose about $150 million.

In 2016, Mattress Firm was acquired by South Africa-based retailer Steinhoff International Holdings for $3.8 billion.

Mattress Firm's parent company has been dealing with its own problems as its stock price has drastically tumbled after it reported accounting irregularities that are being investigated.

"The past few years have been tough for Mattress Firm. It had too many stores, faced competitive industry pressures and also had a corporate parent that was rocked by an accounting scandal," said Daniel Lowenthal, a New York attorney with Patterson Belknap Webb & Tyler who specializes in bankruptcy law. "But now its goal is to get in and out of bankruptcy fast and regroup with new financing."

Mattress Firm said it hopes to complete its restructuring within two months.

Arrington on Senate's Procedural Motion for Kavanaugh Vote

WASHINGTON — Today Congressman Jodey Arrington (TX-19) released the following statement after the Senate's procedural motion to advance Judge Brett Kavanaugh's nomination to a final vote.

"Judge Kavanaugh has been more thoroughly vetted than any Supreme Court Justice nominee in recent history, and I am pleased that the Senate is moving forward with his confirmation. While the nature of the allegations were serious, they all remain completely unsubstantiated and uncorroborated. I am relieved that we still have a majority of Senators who believe in due process and the presumption of innocence.

"The personal attacks by some have reached an all-time low and, unfortunately, Judge Kavanaugh and Dr. Ford were both victims of this process. Judge Kavanaugh is eminently qualified, has unimpeachable character, and will appropriately render decisions based on the Constitution and Rule of Law - not on a political or policy agenda."

Congressman Jodey Arrington is a member of the U.S. House of Representatives serving the Nineteenth Congressional District of Texas. He serves as a member of the House Agriculture Committee, House Budget Committee, Joint Select Committee on Budget and Appropriations Process Reform, and Chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Subcommittee on Economic Opportunity.

Officer convicted of murder in slaying of Laquan McDonald

By DON BABWIN and MICHAEL TARM

Associated Press

CHICAGO — A white Chicago police officer was convicted of second-degree murder Friday in the 2014 shooting of a black teenager that was captured on shocking dashcam video that showed him crumpling to the ground in a hail of 16 bullets as he walked away from officers.

The video, some of the most graphic police footage to emerge in years, stoked outrage nationwide, and the high-stakes case gripped the nation's third-largest city for nearly three years. The shooting also led to a federal government inquiry and calls to reform the Chicago Police Department.

Jason Van Dyke, 40, was the first Chicago officer to be charged with murder for an on-duty shooting in about 50 years. He was taken into custody moments after the verdict was read.

The second-degree verdict reflected the jury's finding that Van Dyke believed his life was in danger but that the belief was unreasonable. The jury also had the option of first degree-murder, a charge that required a finding that the shooting was unnecessary and unreasonable.

Second-degree murder usually carries a sentence of less than 20 years in prison, especially for someone with no criminal history. Probation is also an option.

Van Dyke was also convicted of 16 counts of aggravated battery — one for each bullet — and acquitted of official misconduct.

The teen, Laquan McDonald, was carrying a knife when Van Dyke fired at him on a dimly lit street where he was surrounded by other officers.

One of Chicago's leading civil rights attorneys said the conviction sends a message to minority communities that the police reforms that began after the video became public were not just for show.

Andrew Stroth said an acquittal would have sent the opposite message, dashing hopes for change.

"I think Chicago would have erupted," he said.

Defense attorney Dan Herbert called Van Dyke "a sacrificial lamb" offered by political and community leaders "to save themselves." He said it was a "sad day for law enforcement" because the verdict tells officers they cannot do their jobs.

"Police officers are going to become security guards," he said.

The verdict was the latest chapter in a story that accelerated soon after a judge ordered the release of the video in November 2015. The case put the city at the center of the national conversation about police misconduct and excessive force.

The 12-person jury included just one African-American member, although blacks make up one-third of Chicago's population. The jury also had seven whites, three Hispanics and one Asian-American.

Some jurors said they spent much of their deliberations discussing whether to convict on first-degree or second-degree murder, not an acquittal.

They said Van Dyke's testimony did not help him. One woman said he "messed up" and should not have testified.

Jurors' names were not made public during the trial, and they were not disclosed Friday during interviews with reporters at the courthouse.

One juror said Van Dyke needed to "contain the situation, not escalate it." He said the jury settled on second-degree murder because Van Dyke believed he was experiencing a real threat.

On the night of the shooting, officers were waiting for someone with a stun gun to use on the teenager when Van Dyke arrived, according to testimony and video. The video, played repeatedly at trial, showed him firing even after the 17-year-old lay motionless on the pavement.

Prosecutors and defense attorneys argued over what the footage actually proved.

During closing arguments, prosecutor Jody Gleason noted that Van Dyke told detectives that McDonald raised the knife, that Van Dyke backpedaled and that McDonald tried to get up off the ground after being shot.

"None of that happened," she said. "You've seen it on video. He made it up."

But Van Dyke and his attorneys maintained that the video didn't tell the whole story.

Steers outmatched against Eagles in 38-0 loss

By JORDAN PARR
Sports Editor

The Steers hosted the Canyon Eagles this Friday for homecoming looking to get back on track as they move closer to district play. The Eagles, who came into the game 5-0, were just too much for Big Spring on both sides of the ball. Canyon put up 38 points on offense while shutting out the Steers on defense. Big Spring had multiple players starting at new positions this week and that definitely came into play in the game. The Steers had trouble getting the snap all night with multiple back up centers making appearances in the game and with other players having to step in on defense there was some confusion on that side of the ball as well. Canyon really dominated the contest from the first kickoff and continued to keep the Steers out of balance for the rest of the game.

In the first quarter Big Spring received the opening kickoff and were forced into a quick three and out.

Big Spring defender Roger Eddington brings down the Eagle ball carrier during the Steer's homecoming loss to Canyon on Friday, October 5, 2018.

The first five combined possessions of the game were all three and outs, with Big Spring punting three times while forcing Canyon into two three and outs of their own. Both defenses looked like they had the perfect game plan for their opponent until the Eagles third possession after a really short punt gave them great field position on the Big Spring 32 yard line. Eight plays later, after converting on a fourth and one, the Eagles capped off the drive with a six yard touchdown run by #5 Seth Nickell off right tackle. The score came on a second down play and put Canyon up 7-0 after converting the extra point with 3:17 left in the first quarter.

On the third play of the ensuing Big Spring drive, Nickell made a great play on defense for the Eagles as well. Nickell picked off Steers' quarterback Ethan Cortez with a diving interception on an out route on the Big Spring 42.

Bufs' freshman running-back Chris Mendez scores on the opening drive this Friday October 5, 2018 in a big win over the Wink Wildcats.

By JORDAN PARR

After running the gauntlet of tough games the Bufs have played this pre-district, Forsan put those tough lessons to good use this Friday as they stunned the previously 4-1 Wink Wildcats 25-24. The Bufs have been making big strides every week to gel and to get to where they know they need to be as a team headed into district play and this week they finally put all the pieces together and played great as a unit on both sides of the ball for all four quarters.

In the first quarter the Bufs jumped out to an early lead scoring on their opening drive. Forsan drove the ball 56 yards on 4 plays and capped off the drive with a one yard touchdown pass from Bufs' quarterback Kobe Richardson to running-back #21 Chris Mendez to take a 7-0 lead after Richardson converted on the extra point. After forcing the Wildcats into a quick three and out on their first possession of the game, the Bufs went right back to work and put together another great scoring drive. This time it was an impressive 10 play 80 yard drive that ended with Richardson taking it in himself from five yards out that gave the Bufs an early 13-0 lead after a failed two-point-conversion.

Wink responded on their next possession, as the Wildcats answered with a 5 play 64 yard touchdown drive of their own. Wink finished off the drive with a 22 yard touchdown pass from quarterback #10 Nick Gray to his favorite target #7 Wade Halterman to cut the lead to 13-8 after Gray carried the ball in himself for the two-point-conversion. The Bufs turned the ball over on downs following the Wildcat score and then held Wink to a three and out to close out the first quarter with a narrow five point lead.

In the second quarter, after being forced into a quick three and out, the Bufs made a huge play on defense.

Springer, Astros hit 4 HRs, down Indians 7-2 in ALDS opener

Houston Astros' George Springer scores on teammate Alex Bregman's hit during the seventh inning in Game 1 of an American League Division Series baseball game against the Cleveland Indians, Friday, Oct. 5, 2018, in Houston.

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — It's October and George Springer, Jose Altuve and Alex Bregman are all hitting home runs once again, helping the Houston Astros to a postseason win.

A year after launching a World Series-record 15 homers in winning their first championship, the Astros picked up right where they left off, hitting four home runs to power past the Cleveland Indians 7-2 Friday in Game 1 of the AL Division Series.

Martin Maldonado also connected for the Astros, who didn't waste any time displaying the same power that carried them to last year's title.

Much was made about the pitching prowess these teams possess in the days leading up to this game. But it was a bunch of longballs to put the Astros ahead in this best-of-five series.

"As much as I've heard different opinions about our offense, it's pretty long, it's pretty good, it's pretty potent," manager AJ Hinch said. "Case in point today."

STEERS

On Canyon's first play after the interception #6 Cade Olson got around the edge of the Steers' defense on a wide-receiver reverse that picked up 27 yards and took the Eagles down to the Big Spring 15 yard line. On the next play from scrimmage Canyon punched it in again on a read option give to #12 Jake Gilley for a 15 yard touchdown run. With a successful extra point the Eagles extended their lead to 14-0 with just 1:51 remaining in the quarter.

The Steers had control of the ball at the start of the second quarter and finally put together a sustained offensive drive. Big Spring picked up four first downs on the drive and marched the ball from their own 19 all the way down to the Eagles' 22. The impressive 13 play 59 yard drive looked like exactly the kind of answer the Steers needed, but the drive stalled and Big Spring turned the ball over on downs on an incomplete pass thrown out of the back of the end zone on a fourth and 14 play from the Canyon' 28. The very next play, after the Eagles took over possession, Canyon ran a fake bootleg right with a throw back screen from the Eagles' quarterback #10 Lawton Rikel to their wide-receiver #8 Joe Shaw. Shaw caught the ball with a wall of blockers in front of him and took the ball 72 yards to the house against an out of position Steers' defense to swell the lead to 21-0 after another successful extra point with 8:33 left in the half.

Canyon force yet another three and out on the Steers on their next possession and took over on their own 25. Four plays later Big Spring recovered the ball on their own 41 after a fumble on the quarterback/running-back exchange by the Eagles. Three plays later the Steers gave the ball right back on a bad snap that Canyon recovered on their own 39. Luckily Big Springs defense stiffened up and forced the quick three and out to get the ball back to their offense. Not to be outmatched, the Eagles responded by forcing yet another three and out of their own and took over on their 20 yard line after a punt for a touchback by Jeremiah Cooley. With only minutes remaining in the half the Eagle put together a 10 play 80 yard game sealing drive finished off by a 29 yard touchdown scramble by the Eagles'

#7 Major Stockton picked off Winks' Gray on the Wildcats 28 yard line to give Forsan great field position and a chance to increase their lead. Four plays later the Buffs did just that on a 28 yard touchdown pass from Richardson to his running-back #44 Jonathon Gabehart to increase the lead to 19-8 after a failed two-point-conversion by Richardson.

On the first play of the ensuing Wildcat drive Wink quarterback Nick Gray fumbled the ball and Forsan's Jake Patterson recovered to give the Buffs the ball back on the Wildcat 43 yard line. Six plays later the Buffs put the ball across the goal line again on a 2 yard touchdown run by #32 Trey Brockman to put Forsan up 25-8 with 3:29 remaining in the half after Richardson failed to convert the two-point-conversion. Wink really showed why they have had such great success this year on their next possession as they took the ball 66 yards on 11 plays and scored with only 27 seconds remaining in the half on a 20 yard touchdown pass from Gray to Halterman. The Wildcats cut the lead to 25-16 after Wink' running-back #34 Kaneon Baker converted the two-point-conversion. The Buffs went into the half with a 9 point lead after playing what was probably their best complete half of football up to that point in the season.

In the second half both team made some tire third quarter. With both teams forcing turn-overs and three and diverse battle. That type of game played right into the hands of the battle hardened Buffs team who has as much heart as any team that lines up on Friday nights. With their defense playing solid and limiting the high powered Wildcats throughout the quarter, Forsan was able to maintain their lead into the fourth quarter.

In the fourth it was more of the same, with both defenses dominating the line of scrimmage and forcing the opposing offenses to struggle for every first down. After a turnover on downs by the Buffs, Wink finally broke through the Forsan defense and scored on a 38 yard touchdown run by Kaneon Baker with 9:59 left in the game. #13 Brock Gibson ran in the two-point-conversion for the Wildcats to cut the lead to just one at 25-24. The Buffs defense responded in a big way and forced Wink to turn the ball over on downs on their next two possessions before running out the clock and putting the finishing touches on an impressive and well deserved first win of the season. A win that came against a team that many thought would run away with the game early. This Buff team has payed their dues and their commitment to the process and to each other is paying off in a big way. Congratulations to this Buffs' team, they exemplify what hard work and heart look like on the football field.

Houston's pop backed up a solid start by Justin Verlander, who bested Corey Kluber in a matchup of Cy Young Award-winning aces in the first post-season meeting between these teams.

Verlander took a no-hitter into the sixth inning and got his 12th playoff win. He allowed two hits and two runs in 5 1/3 innings — the Indians finished with only three hits, all singles.

Kluber, a two-time Cy Young winner who was coming off his first 20-win season, was tagged for three home runs in 4 2/3 innings. It was a repeat performance from last October's ALDS, when he made two starts against the Yankees and left with a 12.79 ERA.

Game 2 is Saturday in Houston. Gerrit Cole starts for the Astros against Carlos Carrasco.

The Astros hit 27 homers last postseason — Springer hit five in the World Series and set a record by hitting in four straight games on his way to winning the MVP award.

Bregman, coming off a breakout year, got Houston's first hit with his drive to the Crawford Boxes in left field to start a two-run fourth inning.

"The only thing I can say about him is without him we wouldn't be here," Altuve said.

The 103-win Astros were still up 2-0 when Springer led off the fifth with a full-count homer to left. That made him just the third player in major league history to homer in five straight postseason games.

"I'm happy that I was able to help us win in all of those games and be a sparkplug," Springer said.

Two pitches later Altuve, last year's AL MVP, connected for his eighth career postseason homer when he also sent one to left field. He began last year's playoffs with three home runs in the ALDS opener against Boston.

Kluber watched stone-faced as Altuve headed for first and shook his head slightly as he rounded the bases and the crowd roared with scattered chants of "MVP."

Kluber followed up his splendid regular season with another playoff dud. A year after giving up four homers in two starts against the Yankees, the longball again proved to be a problem for him. He left with two outs in the fifth inning after allowing six hits and four runs while walking three.

"Last year has nothing to do with today," Cleveland manager Terry Francona said. "They're a good team. He made a couple mistakes. They made him pay for it."

Verlander was masterful through the first five innings, with Cleveland's only baserunner in that span coming on a walk to Jose Ramirez with two outs in the first. The Houston right-hander set down 13 in a row after that, fanning seven, including striking out the side in the third.

Yan Gomes broke up the no-hitter with his single to shallow right field to start the sixth and Francisco Lindor singled with one out in the inning. When Verlander walked Michael Brantley to load the bases after that, Hinch had seen enough and replaced him with Ryan Pressly.

The Indians cut the lead to 4-1 on a wild pitch by Pressly, who came to Houston in a July trade, and got within two when Lindor scored on a groundout by Ramirez.

Maldonado, making his playoff debut, connected off Cody Allen for a two-out homer in the seventh. Bregman made it 6-2 with an RBI single later in the inning.

UNHAPPY HECTOR

Houston reliever Hector Rondon, who Hinch said was "very upset" about not making the ALDS roster, did not come onto the field when he was introduced with the team's reserves before the game. He also was not on the field during the national anthem, but did join the team in the dugout for the game.

Rondon, signed by the Astros to a two-year deal in the offseason, was left off the roster in favor of hard-throwing rookie Josh James because of his ability to throw multiple innings.

Hinch said Rondon could be used in the ALCS if the Astros advance. Rondon was 2-5 with 15 saves and a 3.20 ERA in 63 games.

FOR STARTERS

In a season where openers and using multiple relievers instead of defined starters has become popular, Verlander believes that true starters like him remain very important to the game.

"I think you need it," he said. "I think the more relievers get used every single day, it has an effect ... I don't have the answers. But I do believe in innings. I believe in protecting the bullpen. And I believe in a starting pitcher."

UP NEXT

Cole (15-5, 2.88 ERA) ranked second in the AL with 276 strikeouts this season, only trailing Verlander's 290, and was fifth with 200 1/3 innings pitched. He will be making his fourth playoff start and first since 2015 with the Pirates. He is 1-2 with a 3.94 ERA in those games.

It will be just the second career postseason start for Carrasco (17-10, 3.38), who is 4-2 with a 3.45 ERA in eight appearances, with seven starts against Houston.

Kershaw allows 2 hits, Dodgers blank Braves 3-0 for 2-0 lead

By BETH HARRIS
 AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES — With Sandy Koufax sitting in the front row, Clayton Kershaw pitched the best post-season game of his career, motivated partly by being passed over as the Dodgers' Game 1 starter.

He responded with a postseason career-high eight innings of two-hit ball in his team's second straight playoff shutout, and Manny Machado slugged a two-run homer as Los Angeles beat the Atlanta Braves 3-0 on Friday night for a 2-0 lead in their NL Division Series.

"I think that it was one of the best outings that I've seen," Dodgers manager Dave Roberts said. "He was in complete control."

The Dodgers used a nearly identical formula to win 6-0 in Game 1 behind Hyun-Jin Ryu, who allowed only four two-out singles over seven innings, and home runs by Joc Pederson, Max Muncy and Enrique Hernandez.

Kershaw was even better. The left-hander struck out three and walked none in the longest scoreless playoff outing for a Dodgers pitcher since Jose Lima tossed a complete-game shutout in Game 3 of the 2004 NLDS against St. Louis.

"Maybe a tick, for sure," Kershaw said of earning some extra satisfaction. "But Ryu threw so unbelievable last night that you just want to match him. That's all I was trying to do."

Ryu and Kershaw became the second pair of Dodgers starters to have consecutive postseason games with seven-plus scoreless innings. Jerry Reuss and Burt Hooton did it in 1981, against Houston and Montreal.

The Dodgers joined the 1921 New York Yankees as the only teams to open a postseason series with back-to-back shutouts, according to STATS. They recorded their first consecutive shutouts since Games 2 and 3 of the 2016 NL Championship Series against the Cubs.

Los Angeles can sweep the best-of-five series in Game 3 on Sunday in Atlanta, where the Baby Braves will be looking to score for the first time this postseason.

"I see the frustration those guys have against this guy," Braves starter Anibal Sanchez said of his teammates facing Kershaw.

Kershaw got bypassed as the Game 1 starter in favor of Ryu after the three-time Cy Young Award winner had started eight of the Dodgers' past 10 postseason openers. Roberts said it was done to give both Ryu and Kershaw five days of rest between starts.

"This guy is a potential Hall of Fame player," Roberts said. "So to have the noise around him, but when it comes to his day to start and to help his club win a game, I had no concern that anything was going to affect him."

One more victory would put Los Angeles in the NLCS for the third straight year. The Dodgers beat the Cubs last season and lost to them in 2016.

Kershaw ran out to the mound as though he was going to pitch the ninth, bringing cheers from the sellout crowd of 54,452. But when Roberts went out to pull his ace after 85 pitches, fans booed.

Roberts deked to force the hand of Atlanta manager Brian Snitker, who ended up wasting Tyler Flowers before sending up Lucas Duda as the pinch-hitter.

"I felt that that was a way that you can use their two best hitters off the bench and get our guy in there," Roberts said.

Kershaw was fine with it, too.

"The plan all along was if they burned their bench, which is what we wanted to do and Flowers came out, that Kenley had the ninth," he said.

Kenley Jansen gave up a one-out single to Ronald Acuna Jr. before earning the save.

Machado hit a two-run shot on a 3-0 pitch from Sanchez with two outs in the first. Joc Pederson doubled leading off.

Yasmani Grandal homered on an 0-2 pitch from Sanchez leading off the fifth to make it 3-0.

Acuna doubled to deep left-center on Kershaw's first pitch. He became the first Braves runner to reach third base in the series when Johan Camargo grounded out to Kershaw.

After Acuna's double, Kershaw retired 14 consecutive batters until Ender Inciarte reached on an infield single with two outs in the fifth. Ex-Dodger Charlie Culberson grounded into a fielder's choice to shortstop, with Inciarte out at second.

"He has a feel for everything and when his curveball's on, it's going to be a good night for him," Culberson said. "He's one of the best, and he showed it."

Kershaw was sharp on defense, too.

He chased around to grab a ball hit by Ca-margo and fired to first in time for the initial out of the fourth.

One inning later, Kershaw did a 180-degree spin after a comebacker by Ozzie Albies struck him in the hamstring, slipped on the grass and made the throw to first for the second out of the fifth. A trainer briefly came out to check on Kershaw, who threw one warmup pitch to prove he was fine.

"It just got me in a good spot, kind of in the belly of the leg right there," Kershaw said, "so maybe a little sore tomorrow, but I should be good."

The Dodgers backed Kershaw with a double play to end the sixth after he plunked pinch-hitter Lane Adams leading off and Acuna Jr. grounded into a fielder's choice.

"A lot of great plays all the way around," Kershaw said.

The Braves' offense was anemic again.

Other than Acuna's double and his single in the ninth, they were limited to a two-out single by Inciarte in the fifth. Freddie Freeman was hitless with a strikeout in four at-bats. Nick Markakis went 0 for 3 with a strikeout, and Albies was 0 for 3.

"You can't blame any one person," Snitker said. "I mean, it's just our whole lineup is having a hard time."

Kershaw struck out three and walked none in remaining unbeat against Atlanta throughout his illustrious career.

Los Angeles can sweep the best-of-five series in Game 3 on Sunday in Atlanta, where the Baby Braves will be looking to score for the first time this postseason.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jhoulys Chacin and the Milwaukee bullpen kept in control, Mike Moustakas contributed two more big hits and the Brewers beat the Colorado Rockies 4-0 on Friday for a commanding 2-0 lead in their NL Division Series.

The Brewers won their 10th straight game going back to their impressive finish to the regular season. Erik Kratz had two hits and drove in two runs, Hernan Perez hit two ground-rule doubles and Milwaukee's bullpen closed the door after Chacin delivered in his playoff debut.

Game 3 is Sunday at Coors Field. Another win, and Milwaukee is into the NL Championship Series for the first time since its previous postseason appearance in 2011.

BOSTON (AP) — Chris Sale struck out eight for his first postseason win, J.D. Martinez hit a three-run homer and the Boston Red Sox sweated out their shaky bullpen to hold off the New York Yankees 5-4 on Friday night in Game 1 of the AL Division Series.

Sale took a four-hit shutout into the sixth inning. The Yankees loaded the bases in the sixth and seventh, cutting the deficit to 5-3. Aaron Judge homered off Craig Kimbrel leading off the ninth before the Red Sox closer retired the next three batters, striking out Giancarlo Stanton and Luke Voit for the save.

Game 2 in the best-of-five series is Saturday night, with Boston starting another pitcher trying to overcome a history of postseason struggles: left-hander David Price is 0-8 as a starter in the playoffs. He'll face Yankees righty Masahiro Tanaka.

HOUSTON (AP) — George Springer and the Houston Astros picked up right where they left off last postseason, hitting four home runs to power past the Cleveland Indians 7-2 Friday in Game 1 of the AL Division Series.

Alex Bregman, Jose Altuve and Martin Maldonado also connected for the Astros, who hit a World Series-record 15 homers last year in winning their first championship.

Game 2 is Saturday in Houston.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Athletics plan to discuss a contract extension with manager Bob Melvin this offseason as well as possible new deals with home run leader Khris Davis and All-Star second baseman Jed Lowrie.

Two days after the A's lost to the New York Yankees in a wild-card game, team officials began mapping out the framework for 2019 with hopes of capitalizing on the team's first playoff appearance in four years.

Signing Melvin, Oakland's manager since 2011, to an extension is high on the list of things to do. He's currently signed through the 2019 season.

Davis isn't scheduled to be a free agent until after the 2019 season but the A's are hopeful of getting the slugger inked to a long-term deal before then.

Davis led the majors with 48 home runs this year, his third consecutive season with 40-plus homers.

Lowrie's situation is more uncertain despite his first All-Star appearance. The veteran infielder hit .267 with a career-high 23 home runs and 99 RBIs and was a key influence inside Oakland's mostly young clubhouse.

FOOTBALL
FLORHAM PARK, N.J. (AP) — The New York Jets will have to stop the Denver Broncos' offense without their No. 1 cornerback.

Trumaine Johnson was ruled out for Sunday's game because of a strained quadriceps. He was hurt during practice Thursday and sat out Friday.

"He'll be out this week," coach Todd Bowles said. "So we're just going to monitor it after that and see how he's feeling."

Bowles would not give any details but did not think it was a season-ending injury.

Johnson was the Jets' top free-agent signing in March, giving him a five-year, $72.5 million deal. He has had a mostly inconsistent first four games with New York after spending his first six seasons with the Rams.

FLORHAM PARK, N.J. (AP) — New York Jets defensive coordinator Kacy Rodgers is dealing with what coach Todd Bowles calls a "serious" illness and it's uncertain if he'll be on the sideline for the game against Denver.

Bowles made the announcement Friday to end his news conference after the Jets' final full practice before facing the Broncos at MetLife Stadium on Sunday.

"He's a tough guy," Bowles said. "It's a serious thing."

Rodgers and the Jets' other coordinators usually meet with reporters every Thursday. But the team said Rodgers had an appointment with doctors and would speak Friday.

However, a visibly concerned Bowles announced Rodgers was sick and wasn't at the facility.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The family of the late NFL star Junior Seau has settled its wrongful death lawsuit against the NFL over the popular San Diego linebacker's 2012 suicide.

The confidential settlement comes after the family opted out of the NFL concussion settlement covering more than 20,000 retired players. That plan pays up to $4 million to families of men like Seau, who were found after their deaths to have the brain deterioration chronic traumatic encephalopathy, known as CTE.

BASKETBALL
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A doctor has found the jailed ex-wife of slain former NBA player Lorenzen Wright mentally competent to stand trial.

Shelby County Criminal Court judge Lee Coffee said Friday that he's been informed by Dr. Wyatt Nichols that Sherra Wright can advise her lawyers and help with her defense against charges of first-degree murder and attempted first-degree murder in her ex-husband's slaying.

Coffee had ordered a mental evaluation of Sherra Wright.

Lorenzen Wright's body was found riddled with bullet wounds in a swampy field in Memphis in July 2010. He was missing for 10 days before his body was found.

Sherra Wright and co-defendant Billy Ray Turner were indicted in December. Turner also is charged with first-degree murder. Both have pleaded not guilty.

80 Years of Love

By AMBER MANSFIELD
Staff Writer

People who show love, kindness, a will to work hard, and a huge heart impact people everyday of their life by simply being themselves with their heart of gold. It sticks with those who are impacted by certain individuals' kindness, leaving an impression of a life time.

One Big Spring native was thrown a surprise birthday party in honor of her 80th birthday, and she was shocked to see that more than 100 people from all over Texas and even out of state came to celebrate her life and show her the love she has shown to so many.

Sept. 14 was Sally Rodriguez 80th birthday and she had no clue what was in store for her.

"She thought it was her son-in-law's birthday and we had to celebrate it early since this was the only time everyone could get together," said Sally's daughter Debbie Rodriguez. "She was so surprised! She had no idea, and I swear the high from the happiness it brought her still hasn't wore off. We had such an amazing time. Family and friends came from all over to celebrate this special day with her, and those who couldn't sent messages and gifts that were given and read to her during the party."

late husband here in Big Spring before she retired handing it over to her grandsons.

Having owned Alberto's for years and years, she had built up quite a reputation for her hard work and love to others, which was shown as proof at how many that came to celebrate.

"We had cake, presents, and the best time," said Debbie. "She is wonderful person and has so much love around her, and she created that love."

Sally's surprise birthday party was held at Dora Roberts on Sept. 29.

"I was so shocked and couldn't stop smiling. I still am smiling about it," said Sally. "Thank you to everyone who came, to everyone who didn't but still sent their love and wishes. I'm beyond grateful and truly blessed."

Denzel Washington looks back fondly on some crucial advice

NEW YORK (AP) — Denzel Washington joined the Boys & Girls Club of America when he was 5. He's never really left.

The 63-year old Oscar-winning actor says the lessons he learned from the youth organization became the foundation of his success. One valuable lesson came after a track and field event where Washington found he wasn't as fast as one other child.

"I was real nervous about that, and I was thrown off by it," Washington recalled. A counselor noticed that something was wrong and came over. "I remember him telling me that, 'You know, yes, that other kid is fast, but he doesn't know how to run. He doesn't know how to run the turns or pass the baton.' And he said: 'Your natural ability will only take you so far.'"

That advice paid off when learning his craft as an actor. He started performing as a junior in college and had instant success. But he remembered that his natural ability would only take him so far. "So I decided to continue my studies and go on to work on my master's, and that was directly related to an experience I had as a child in the Boys & Girls Club," Washington said.

Washington was in the nation's capital for the annual Boys & Girls Club National Youth of the Year award ceremony. This year's Southwest Youth of the Year recipient was Malachi Haynes, who accepted the honor before an audience that included members of Congress and Boys & Girls Clubs of America supporters, including Washington, who is the national spokesman. Haynes, seated next to Washington, called it surreal. "Probably 30 emotions all at once," he said of the honor.

When Washington was young, he spent so much time at the Boys & Girls Club of Mount Vernon, New York, that "literally, they had to send me home." He remembers at one club talent show he played a member of the Beatles.

"I think I was John, if not Paul. I think I was John. I definitely wasn't Ringo. Not that I'm knocking Ringo, but I was I wasn't playing the drums, I was playing guitar," he said.

While his children were not as active with the Boys and Girls Club of America, Washington applied the lessons he learned to their upbringing.

"The things I learned in the club I applied to them. All my children played sports like I did in the club, and that was my way because that's what I learned. I was like, 'OK, I'll get them involved in sports' and my oldest boy made it all the way to the NFL." (Washington's son, John, played for the St. Louis Rams and recently starred in "Blackkklansman.")

The organization began in 1860, offering a positive alternative to children than roaming the street. The clubs try to foster character development, citizenship and living a healthy lifestyle. Washington also recalls another element.

"Tough, tough love and keeping them busy. We didn't realize it but we were going from one thing to another. And they kept you engaged, involved and busy. But you just thought you were just having fun."

ROGER'S REVIEW: VENOM

Remember 2007's "Spider-Man 3?" Tobey "Spider-Man" Maguire is doing great at balancing his web-slinging, love life, and financial situation when he discovers a ball of black goo that turns into a black-and-white version of his familiar red-and-blue Spider-suit. After wearing it a bit, he starts to get a bit...irritable, let's say.

Jump forward 11 years, and now that little ball of black goo is all grown up and starring in a movie of it's own.

"Venom," the latest super-heroic (or villainous) movie from Sony based on the Marvel Comics character of the same name, a spaceship is returning to Earth when it's bombarded by a meteor shower, causing it to crash in...Malaysia, if I recall correctly? It's not that important...this is a minor storyline. Science teams rush to the scene and collect a couple of "biological samples" still safely ensconced in their sealed tubes, but one tube is broken and the blobby creature within infects an astronaut, returning him to seeming life. An ambulance rushes him away, but the creature causes it to crash, and the creature heads off to town.

Back in the San Francisco, Eddie Brock (Tom Hardy) is an investigative journalist who seeks to expose the corruption of the powerful people in his community. One such person, Eddie believes, is Carlton Drake (Riz Ahmed), head of the Life Foundation, whose rocket it was that crashed. Eddie also has heard rumors that the Life Foundation is responsible for some irresponsible medical testing.

Eddie's boss, played by "Luke Cage" co-star Ron Cephas Jones, assigns him to do a puff piece on Drake, but Eddie is far too good at following his nose and not so good at following instructions. He dips into the laptop belonging to his fiancée, attorney Ann Weying (Michelle Williams), whose law firm is representing Drake, to get some dirt on the CEO. At the interview, Eddie ambushes Drake with the information, and Drake predictably clams up and has Eddie thrown out of the building. Eddie's actions get Ann fired, and she breaks up with him.

Meanwhile, we see that the other blobs from space have been delivered to the Life Foundation complex, and Drake and his scientists – including Dr. Dora Skirth (Jenny Slate) – start experimenting on them. Drake orders Skirth and the other scientists to begin human testing on them, despite her protests.

Eddie goes into a deep depression. Life Foundation begins feeding people to the space blobs (ok, they're called "symbiotes." I'll stop saying "space blobs" now), and their bodies are devoured from the inside by the creatures. Apparently it takes just the right genetic makeup to host one of these symbiotes long-term.

Skirth is disturbed by all the deaths, so she contacts Eddie to investigate. He initially refuses, but upon seeing Ann with another guy – Dr. Dan Lewis (Reid Scott) – he agrees. She sneaks him inside, and all mayhem begins.

Other characters include Roland Treece (Scott Haze) as Drake's head of security; Maria (Melora Walters), a homeless woman; and of course, watch out for a pop-in by that master of the cameo, Stan Lee. Excelsior!

I'll go ahead and note here, as well – don't forget to stay for the credits. There's one scene near the beginning of the credits involving one Woody Harrelson as a Venom-related character; and another toward the end of the credits. I won't spoil the awesomeness of that one.

I had a lot of fun with "Venom." The best part to me is the interplay between the Venom symbiote and Hardy's Eddie Brock. Venom talks in Eddie's head like a deep-voiced case of schizophrenia, often fueled by a hunger for human organs.

Eddie's emotional state in the movie is all over the place, from a cocky investigative reporter, to a loving fiancée, to a depressed slob, to a fear-cowering mess, to something akin to a school teacher trying to run herd on the biggest, meanest, sharp-toothed junior high student in the universe. Hardy pulls it off admirably.

I thought at first that Ahmad was a bit too – metro? – to be a good villain. He starts off as a reasonable-sounding visionary company head... but he's got an edge to him that develops through the movie, and soon he's explaining to Test Subject Isaac how, like the Isaac of the Bible, he's a hero for making the ultimate sacrifice for the "God" of science. Right before releasing the symbiote and letting Isaac get devoured.

The biggest weakness, to me, was, just as you'd expect in a fight scene between two blobby symbiotes toward the end of the movie (oops, spoiler), there are blobby bits shooting all over the screen, and it's hard to keep up with just what's happening at points. It's not a big deal, and, like I said, about what you'd expect.

Although the movie was downgraded to a PG-13 rating from an R, it's still pretty adult-oriented, just with a bit less of the gore one might expect to see from aliens eating people's heads off. Parents, be warned.

I'm giving "Venom" eight stars out of 10. The critics on Rotten Tomatoes don't agree with me, but the audience seems to.

Swedish girl Saga pulls out pre-Viking era sword from lake

AP photo

This photo (left) taken in July 2018 and released by the Jonkopings lans Museum on Friday, Oct. 5 2018 shows a pre-Viking era sword in Jonkopings, Sweden. Mikael Nordstrom of the local Jonkoping County museum says 8-year-old Saga Vanecek was helping her father with his boat in the Vidostern lake when she stepped on an 85-centimeter (34-inch) sword in a holster made of wood and leather, believed to be about 1,500 years old.

said Friday that the little girl's find prompted others to seek out long-lost treasures in a lake that had been diminished by drought.

A broach from between 300 to 400 A.D. was eventually found.

Nordstrom said archaeologists are trying to understand why the items were there. For sacrificial purposes is one suggestion.

Wrapping 'Avengers 4,' Chris Evans hangs up Cap's shield

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Evans has wrapped his final performance as Captain America. Evans on Thursday tweeted that his last shooting day on "Avengers 4" was an "emotional day." The 37-year-old actor thanked his colleagues and fans for his eight years as Captain American, saying it "has been an honor."

Evans first joined the Marvel cast in 2010. He has starred in three "Captain America" films, including 2016's "Captain America: Civil War," as well as numerous team-up films.

The actor previously suggested he would soon depart the role. Earlier this year, Evans told The New York Times that wanted to "get off the train before they push you off."

Stocks sink again as job gains send bond yields even higher

In this May 10, 2018, file photo, the opening bell hangs above the trading floor at the New York Stock Exchange. The U.S. stock market opens at 9:30 a.m. EDT on Friday, Oct. 5.

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. stocks are falling again Friday as investors continue to worry about rising bond yields and interest rates. The Labor Department said the economy continues to add jobs at a strong pace, which makes it more likely rates will keep rising.

The yield on the 10-year Treasury note has soared over the last three days and hasn't been this high since mid-2011. Bond prices are falling as investors sell them, but Wall Street is also concerned that spiking interest rates could eventually slow the economy.

KEEPING SCORE: The S&P 500 index lost 14 points, or 0.5 percent, to 2,887 as of 3:25 p.m. Eastern time. The Dow Jones Industrial Average inched slid 177 points, or 0.7 percent, to 26,450.

Technology and internet companies and smaller, more U.S.-focused companies continued to suffer steep losses. The Nasdaq composite skidded 78 points, or 1 percent, to 7,798 as technology and internet companies continued to struggle. The Russell 2000 index lost 11 points, or 0.7 percent, to 1,634.

The Nasdaq has dropped 3 percent this week and the Russell has tumbled 3.6 percent. Those are their biggest weekly losses in more than six months. The Russell is on pace for its lowest close since late May.

IT'S A LIVING: The Department of Labor said employers added significantly more jobs in July and August that it previously thought, which made up for a slightly disappointing gain in September. The September total was probably reduced by the damage Hurricane Florence did to the Carolinas.

Friday's data suggest the economy should keep growing at a strong clip, which means corporate profits should continue to grow. That's a good sign for stocks.

BONDS: Bond prices kept falling. The yield on the 10-year Treasury note rose to 3.23 percent from 3.19 percent. The yield on the 10-year Treasury is an important benchmark for longer-term interest rates, and hasn't been this high since May 2011.

US unemployment falls to 3.7 percent – lowest since 1969

Another healthy picture of hiring is expected when the U.S. government issues its September jobs report Friday, Oct. 5.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. unemployment rate fell in September to 3.7 percent, the lowest since 1969, when young men were being drafted to fight in Vietnam and the American auto industry and the space program were going full blast.

The Labor Department reported Friday that the rate edged down from 3.9 percent the month before as employers added 134,000 jobs — a figure that was probably depressed by the effects of Hurricane Florence in the South. Still, it extended an extraordinary 8½-year streak of monthly job growth, the longest on record.

That run has added nearly 20 million people to the nation's payrolls since the Great Recession, which cost nearly 9 million their jobs.

The ultra-low jobless rate — the best in nearly 49 years — reflects a healthy economy driven by strong consumer and business spending. In fact, hiring is so strong that employers are having trouble filling openings and some are being forced to offer higher pay.

Despite the similar unemployment rates, today's economy is vastly different from that of 1969. Back then, one-third of Americans worked in manufacturing; now it is barely 9 percent. Strong economic growth back then was propelled by huge government spending on the Vietnam War and newly created Great Society social programs. And women were much less likely to work.

In reporting September's employment figures, the government revised sharply upward its estimate of hiring for July and August. So far this year, monthly job growth has averaged 208,000, compared with 182,000 last year.

"The acceleration in job gains this year is extraordinary in an environment where firms are having great difficulty finding qualified candidates," said Stephen Stanley, chief economist at Amherst Pierpont Securities.

Most analysts blamed the slower pace of hiring last month on Florence, which struck North and South Carolina and closed thousands of businesses.

The category that includes restaurants, hotels and casinos lost jobs for the first time since September 2017, when Hurricane Harvey hit the Houston area, and retailers last month shed 20,000 jobs. Many of those jobs are likely to bounce back in the coming months.

Pay gains remain modest but are showing signs of accelerating. Average hourly pay in September rose 2.8 percent from a year earlier.

With unemployment so low, companies are facing intense pressure to raise pay to land workers. Amazon this week raised its minimum wage to $15 an hour.

Paul Millman, chief executive of Chroma Technology, has struggled to find enough machine operators and engineers for his 135-person company, based in Bellows Falls, Vermont. It makes filters for handheld medical equipment, food safety test systems, and virtual reality headsets.

The company is doubling the size of one of its plants and increasingly automating its

"It's so unusual to see these kinds of dramatic moves in the U.S. Treasury market without there being some kind of Big Bang event," said Katie Nixon, chief investment officer for Northern Trust Wealth Management. "We haven't seen anything like it since the (2016 presidential) election."

THE QUOTE: Nixon said the decline in stock and bond prices started with comments by Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell on Wednesday.

In a moderated discussion, Powell expressed confidence in the economy and said rising interest rates are a "long way" from holding back growth. Nixon said that means the Fed is intent on raising rates further, and investors aren't sure when it intends to stop.

"The Fed is clearly no longer in the business of being accommodative and now the burden of proof is on the data to prove them wrong," she said.

SWITCHEROO: The sell-off in technology and internet companies continued. Nvidia lost 2.8 percent to $271.50 and Apple slipped 1.4 percent to $224.65 while Netflix slumped 2.9 percent to $353.10. Among retailers, Amazon gave up 0.6 percent to $1,897.

Those sectors have been the biggest gainers on the S&P this year, but have taken sharp losses this week. Banks and industrial and energy companies, which have struggled in 2018, have changed place and performed better than the broader market.

Several major banks will report their third-quarter results late next week as the next round of company earnings begins.

UNFOLLOWED: Tesla stock fell Friday. CEO Elon Musk taunted the Securities and Exchange Commission just a few days after he agreed to settle an SEC lawsuit triggered by a tweet he sent in August. CNBC reported that financier David Einhorn criticized Tesla, comparing it to Lehman Brothers, which went bankrupt during the financial crisis.

As part of that settlement, Musk agreed to step down as chairman and submit to oversight when he's communicating company news. His criticisms of the SEC don't appear to be company news, but they may have worried investors who hoped his feed would be a little more boring from now on.

Musk and Tesla are also paying $20 million each to end the lawsuit. The stock lost 6.9 percent to $262.22 Friday.

COSTLY: Wholesale club operator Costco gave up 5.8 percent to $218.23 after it said it discovered technology problems related to its financial reporting processes. Costco said it is investigating, but hasn't found any problems with its past earnings reports so far.

OVERSEAS: European stocks fell for the second day in a row. Germany's DAX lost 1.1 percent and the CAC 40 in France dropped 1 percent. Britain's FTSE 100 fell 1.3 percent. Bond prices in all three countries fell again sending yields higher.

Japan's benchmark Nikkei 225 fell 0.8 percent and the Kospi in South Korea dropped 0.3 percent. Hong Kong's Hang Seng fell 0.2 percent.

ENERGY: Benchmark U.S. crude was little changed at $74.34 a barrel in New York and Brent crude, the standard for international oil futures, fell 0.5 percent to $84.16 a barrel in London.

Wholesale gasoline slipped 0.7 percent to $2.09 a gallon. Heating oil dipped 0.3 percent to $2.39 a gallon. Natural gas fell 0.7 percent to $3.14 per 1,000 cubic feet.

METALS: Gold rose 0.3 percent to $1,205.60 an ounce. Silver added 0.4 percent to $14.65 an ounce. Copper fell 0.5 percent to $2.76 a pound.

CURRENCIES: The dollar slipped to 113.73 yen from 113.86 yen. The euro rose to $1.1525 from $1.1515.

assembly process because it is so hard-pressed to find employees. It has also started calling back people who previously applied for jobs but weren't hired. That has resulted in two new hires.

Financial markets were down sharply in afternoon trading, with the Dow Jones average falling 202 points in afternoon trading. Investors have grown concerned about higher interest rates and the effect they might have on the economy and the stock market.

Friday's jobs report will probably keep the Federal Reserve on track to raise short-term interest rates, economists said, with another increase expected in December.

The economy does show some weak spots. Sales of existing homes have fallen over the past year, held back in part by higher mortgage rates. Auto sales have also slumped.

Manufacturers, which are more dependent on foreign markets than other industries, added 18,000 jobs last month, a sign that President Donald Trump's trade fight with China and other countries is having little effect on hiring.

Still, should the tariffs remain fully in effect a year from now, roughly 300,000 jobs could be lost by then, according to Mark Zandi, chief economist at Moody's Analytics.

India signs $5 billion deal for Russian air defense systems

Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi, right, hugs Russian President Vladimir Putin before their meeting in New Delhi, India, Friday, Oct. 5, 2018. Putin arrived in India on Thursday for a two-day visit during which India is expected to sign a $5 billion deal to buy Russian S-400 air defense systems despite a new U.S. law ordering sanctions on any country trading with Russia's defense and intelligence sectors.

By ASHOK SHARMA and EMILY SCHMALL

Associated Press

NEW DELHI (AP) — India signed a $5 billion deal to buy five Russian S-400 air defense systems on Friday despite a looming threat of U.S. sanctions on countries that trade with Russia's defense and intelligence sectors.

The deal was signed in New Delhi during a visit by Russian President Vladimir Putin, who met with Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi to discuss nuclear energy, space exploration and trade.

India has requested that the U.S. grant it a waiver for the deal from sanctions prescribed by the Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act, a U.S. law passed in August 2017 that is intended to punish Russia for its annexation of Crimea and alleged interference in the 2016 U.S. elections.

The U.S. did not spare China from sanctions last month for purchasing its own Russian S-400 surface-to-air missile systems and fighter jets.

If the U.S. does impose sanctions on India, it is unclear how India could pay Russia for the military equipment, since the law bars dollar-denominated financial transactions.

Vladimir Sotnikov, a foreign affairs expert at an independent research institute in Moscow, believes India could make the payment in a mixture of rupees and dollars to try to circumvent the sanctions.

"I do not think that India would succumb to U.S. pressure over the purchasing of the armaments from Russia," he said. "India has a very sophisticated policy of separating the relationship between India and the U.S. and India and the Russian Federation. And India is in a good negotiating position right now."

The National Security Council at the White House said in a statement that the Trump administration urges all "of our allies and partners to forgo transactions with Russia that would trigger sanctions" under the act, known as CAATSA.

"The administration has indicated that a focus area for the implementation of CAATSA Section 231 is new or qualitative upgrades in capability - including the S-400 air and missile defense system. Our recent action to sanction a Chinese government entity for an S-400 delivery underscores the seriousness of our resolve on this issue."

Officials with India's external affairs and defense ministries confirmed the deal was signed after Putin and Modi made no reference to it during a news conference following their talks.

An 11-page joint statement made only passing mention, saying that "the two sides welcomed the conclusion of the contract."

The deal will likely bolster the close relationship between India and Russia that dates back to the Cold War, when the U.S. tilted toward Pakistan, India's neighbor and archrival. But it is also likely to strain ties with Washington.

India is the world's largest importer of military hardware, according to Mumbai-based think tank Gateway House, and has depended on Russia for political support as well as billions of dollars in military hardware. Nearly 70 percent of India's present-day defense equipment was procured from Russia, according to India's Defense Ministry.

India's acquisition of the S-400 long-range missile systems has been considered critical to countering a perceived threat from China, which is increasingly making economic inroads throughout South Asia, India's traditional sphere of influence, according to military experts.

"It gives the capability to destroy targets inside another country. It's a very important capability," said retired Indian air force Air Marshal Nirdosh Tyagi.

India has also developed closer defense ties to the U.S. in recent years with joint military drills and defense sales.

India has signed more than $15 billion in U.S. defense contracts since 2008, including for C-130J and C-17 transport aircraft, P-8I maritime patrol aircraft, Harpoon missiles and Apache and Chinook helicopters.

By LINDA A. JOHNSON

AP Medical Writer

U.S. regulators have expanded the use of Merck's cervical cancer vaccine to adults up to age 45.

The vaccine was previously only for pre-teens and young adults through 26. The Food and Drug Administration on Friday approved use of Gardasil 9 (GARR'-duh-sill) for women and men through 45.

The vaccine protects against the human papilloma virus — or HPV — which can cause cervical cancer, certain other cancers and genital warts. The virus is very common and is spread through sex.

The shots are particularly recommended for boys and girls before they first have sex and could get infected. Research shows that the vaccine also protects older adults, too.

Merck said the list price for Gardasil 9 is $205 per dose. Two or three doses are needed.

Here's How it Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

The bidding:

Pass Pass 4♠

Opening lead — king of clubs.

It's not easy to find the winning line of play on this deal, even with all four hands exposed. What makes the deal especially interesting is that the winning play is also the right play.

When declarer first sees dummy, his primary concern should be that he might lose a heart and three diamonds. This could occur if, after ruffing the club lead and drawing trumps, he attempts a heart finesse that loses. If East then makes the normal diamond return and West holds the ace of diamonds, South is likely to finish down one.

Since it is usually best for declarer to adopt a pessimistic attitude when planning the play, he should ask himself at the start whether there is any way to overcome an unlucky placement of both the king of hearts and ace of diamonds. If he asks that question, the winning solution may then occur to him.

The best play by far is to decline to ruff the king of clubs at trick one, discarding the heart four instead. This renders the contract foolproof, as it no longer matters where the heart king or diamond ace are located.

Assume West continues with the ace of clubs. Declarer ruffs, cashes the ace of trumps and then leads the queen of hearts to the ace. Next comes the jack of hearts from dummy.

If East has the king and plays it on the Jack, South ruffs, re-enters dummy with a trump and discards two diamonds on the 10-9 of hearts to make five. If East has the king and doesn't play it, declarer discards a diamond and leads another heart to produce the same result.

If West has the king of hearts, he wins the jack (his second trick) and can do no better than cash the diamond ace. In fact, if he doesn't take the ace, he loses it.

By deliberately conceding the first trick to West, declarer does more than minimize the possibility of defeat. He totally eliminates it.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Moments by the Moon

Happiness can be found only in moments, not in years. That's because though we live over weeks and seasons, we never live in them. We only live in moments. The efficient Virgo moon focuses on protecting the early moments of this day from the ravages of waste. The later lunar shift to Libra relaxes us into togetherness moments.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Maybe spirituality isn't something you were born with but instead is like your style -- a thing you make up as you go by experimenting to find out what works for you and what doesn't.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Everything is evolving. You are getting wiser and more connected to others. There's nothing profound in how this occurs. It happens over morning pleasantries, over a table or a text. It feels as natural as breathing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Coincidences are worth exploring. For instance, when you keep running into the same stranger, strike up a conversation. There's most likely something interesting that brings you to the same places.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Some things can be safely delegated, and some just won't be the same without you. Knowing the difference will be the key to your success. You'll see progress; how deeply satisfying.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Born under the constellation that rules the heart, you really thrive on a day like today, when love is the only game in town. And whatever form it comes in will be OK by you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). It can be a huge help to have a teacher. And the best teachers are often obstacles, enemies and mistakes. Therefore, though it may not feel like it while it's happening, adversity is highly beneficial. It's the stuff of greatness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Everyone has their own idea about what an experience will be like. Enjoyment will be enhanced or diminished by these projections, so there's a real benefit to getting ahead of this and figuring out what people expect going in.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You won't get caught up in the rush to join a particular quest, if for the simple reason that it defies your instinct. As a water sign, you are distinctively poised for the realization that you can't miss the boat you're already on.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). People who say "no judgment" are usually judging, just as people who say "you can trust me" are typically the ones you can't. Today will represent rules, not exceptions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). A friendly feeling fills the day. You can help people, and they can help you, so circulate and make your business known. You'll create all sorts of opportunity for you and yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Your role as an advocate and protector will be emphasized. You'll jump to the rescue of a loved one's feelings or interests, or you'll proactively help a loved one show up strong in the world.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You may encounter a nice storm of doubt, but it will pass like fast-moving weather. In the meantime, give as little voice to your fear as possible. Write it in a diary at most. You'll be back to full confidence by evening.

Nation's largest mattress retailer files for bankruptcy

By JUAN A. LOZANO

Associated Press

HOUSTON (AP) — Mattress Firm, Inc., the nation's largest mattress retailer, filed for bankruptcy protection on Friday, saying its and has more than 50,000 creditors. It owes its largest creditor, Atlanta-based mattress maker Simmons Manufacturing Co., nearly $65 million.

In a statement, CEO and president Steve Stagner says the bankruptcy filing will allow the company to "strengthen our balance sheet."

Stagner said the reorganization plan will let the company "provide greater value to our customers, open new stores in new markets and strategically expand in existing markets where we see the greatest opportunities to serve our customers."

The company, founded in 1986, has sales of more than $3 billion. But in court documents, the company said in fiscal year 2018, it is projected to lose about $150 million.

In 2016, Mattress Firm was acquired by South Africa-based retailer Steinhoff International Holdings for $3.8 billion.

Mattress Firm's parent company has been dealing with its own problems as its stock price has drastically tumbled after it reported accounting irregularities that are being investigated.

"The past few years have been tough for Mattress Firm. It had too many stores, faced competitive industry pressures and also had a corporate parent that was rocked by an accounting scandal," said Daniel Lowenthal a New York attorney with Patterson Belknap Webb & Tyler who specializes in bankruptcy law. "But now its goal is to get in and out of bankruptcy fast and regroup with new financing."

Mattress Firm said it hopes to complete its restructuring within two months.

rapid expansion of stores in recent years — with locations often very close to each other — resulted in "cannibalization" of sales.

The Houston-based company filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in federal court in Delaware, saying it plans to close up to 700 stores around the country as part of its reorganization plan to continue operating.

The company has more than 3,200 stores and more than 9,800 employees in the U.S. and in recent years had aggressively expanded its retail footprint.

In court documents, Mattress Firm said the company's previous management team had made several miscalculations as it rebranded more than 1,300 stores it had bought from competitors in the last two years.

"While these acquisitions allowed (Mattress Firm) to achieve ... presence in markets where they previously had little to no presence, they also led to 'cannibalization' of sales amongst stores in close proximity to each other," the company said. "As a result, many Mattress Firm stores are in direct competition with other Mattress Firm stores, resulting in disappointing sales."

According to court documents, Mattress Firm has more than $1 billion in liabilities

A rift at Facebook after exec attends Kavanaugh hearing

NEW YORK (AP) — The appearance of a Facebook executive behind Supreme Court nominee Brett Kavanaugh during his contentious confirmation hearings has created some rifts at the company.

Joel Kaplan, Facebook's vice president for global public policy, is a friend of Kavanaugh and worked with him during the George W. Bush administration. Kaplan was seated in a section reserved for Kavanaugh's friends and family during the hearing. Kavanaugh is facing allegations of at least one sexual assault decades ago.

Kaplan wrote Facebook staff in a memo last week that he is aware that this is a "deeply painful" moment, according to several media outlets. Those reports say that some employees took his appearance as an endorsement of Kavanaugh.

According to the reports, CEO Mark Zuckerberg told staff at a regularly scheduled meeting last week that Kaplan didn't break company rules. The issue is expected to come up again at a meeting Friday.

In a statement Friday, Facebook said its leadership "made mistakes handling the events of the last week and we're grateful for all the feedback from our employees."

NHL, NBC hoping to make Wednesday must-see TV for hockey

By JOE REEDY

AP Sports Writer

Hockey fans have often criticized NBC's coverage for not showing more of the NHL's young stars and the up-and-coming teams.

That changes when the season opens Wednesday as the network goes with a new approach.

NBCSN's "Wednesday Night Rivalries" has been replaced by "Wednesday Night Hockey." As part of the repackaging, the network's studio crew will occasionally report on site, starting on Wednesday from Washington when the Capitals begin defense of their title against Boston.

"We're now showcasing the brightest team and stars. We think it's a great way to add new teams and stars to a big night," NBC Sports Executive Producer Sam Flood said. "The intent on Wednesday nights has always been to make it the destination night for hockey. Now we can really take advantage of that."

Much like the NBA does on Thursdays, the NHL has tried to make Wednesday its night for must-see TV.

Steve Mayer, the NHL's chief content officer, said "Wednesday Night Rivalries" proved how special that night can be for the league.

"We're going to make Wednesday night feel special and we want our players to once we get into this to say, 'Wow, we're playing on Wednesday night.' We know that in football, for example, playing on 'Monday Night Football' is a big deal," Mayer said. "Well, why can't playing on Wednesday night hockey be a big deal? And that's what we're striving for."

The biggest beneficiaries of the change are the Western Conference teams. NBCSN will air 18 double-headers on Wednesday nights — up from five last season — and 67 of the scheduled 110 games on NBC and NBCSN will have a team from the conference.

Winnipeg, which has not made a regular-season national appearance since 2014, will make five this season, including an Oct. 24 game against Toronto that will see NBCSN's studio show going on the road.

throughout, that we start to develop other teams," Mayer said. "If suddenly the Nashvilles and the Tampas and some teams that haven't had the grand exposure get exposure, what's to say that they're not going to be the higher-rated teams? ... We really believe that our audience is into great hockey played by the best teams and the way we present the games and the stars will lead to great ratings."

The traditional teams will still get plenty of exposure. Chicago will have the most appearances with 19 despite not making the playoffs last season. One of those games will be the Winter Classic at Notre Dame Stadium on Jan. 1 against Boston. Washington will make the first of its 18 appearances followed by Philadelphia (17) and Pittsburgh (15).

The only teams not scheduled to appear on NBCSN are Ottawa and Vancouver.

"Certainly from a kind of talent standpoint, a competitive standpoint, showing more clubs is better," NHL Deputy Commissioner Bill Daly said. "The fact that NBC is prepared to engage on that basis where we don't necessarily have to have major U.S. markets for their national games says a lot about how far we've come as a sport."

The All-Star Game, which will be held in San Jose on Jan. 26, will be broadcast in prime time on NBC, which is the first time that has happened on a major broadcast network since 1997.

Flood thinks the three-on-three format could draw even more fans. It also will be the week before the Super Bowl, which should allow the league to reap increased exposure.

The league is also focusing on improving its digital offerings through its deal with BAMTech, which began as a spinoff of Major League Baseball Advanced Media before becoming its own entity. The Walt Disney Co. took a controlling stake in BAMTech in 2017.

The NHL.TV offering will include more pregame and postgame coverage, as well as being able to view programming during intermission, after deals were made with team broadcasting partners.

ESPN hasn't aired the NHL since 2004 on any of its channels but will have nine games a week on its ESPN+ streaming service starting this season. ESPN+, which launched in April and just crossed over a million subscribers, had at least one baseball game a day.

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Netflix's 'Salt, Fat, Acid, Heat' espouses a revolutionary approach to cooking

Anyone who's had their fill of standard cookbooks and run-of-the-mill cooking shows may find a documentary series dropping this week on Netflix of interest.

Based on chef Samin Nosrat's revolutionary cookbook of the same title, "Salt, Fat, Acid, Heat," a four-part series that begins streaming Friday, Oct. 11, explores cooking through what she contends are its four basic elements: salt, which makes foods taste more like themselves; fat, which amplifies tastes; acid, which balances flavors, brightens food and offers contrast; and heat, which provides transformation.

Master these, she maintains, and you will be a master in the kitchen. Also, the show (and the book) encourages the home chef to think for themselves and trust their own senses and instincts, as opposed to blindly following a recipe. And the impressive photography of the sumptuous meals prepared at the end of each episode drives home the points. Just don't watch them on an empty stomach.

"The book is great - I like to say it's radically simple," says Caroline Suh, the series' director. "... I'm just an amateur cook but I'm very into food, and I have to say some of the lessons that Samin teaches just will completely change the way that you cook, and for the better."

The series follows Nosrat as she visits four different countries to explain how a given element figures into its cuisine. In the first episode, Nosrat heads to the Tuscany region of Italy to illustrate the role of fat in Italian cooking. Here, she goes into the kitchens of Liguria to talk to the chefs and walk viewers through the easy steps of making such staples as focaccia and that all-American favorite, pasta.

"In order to show cooking and really not make it be intimidating," Suh explains, "we wanted to show as much of it in real time as possible. So we let the cooking scenes play out so you can see that it's really not that hard to make focaccia. It just takes time and the right ingredients. And the same with making pasta. We wanted to kind of demystify the making of these meals so it didn't seem like they were too difficult or complicated to make at home."

Other episodes take Nosrat to Japan to talk about salt's role in the food there; Mexico, to show how acid works in that cuisine; and Nosrat's old stomping grounds of Berkeley, Calif. - where she went to college and worked under the tutelage of Alice Waters at Chez Panisse - to discuss heat.

The idea, Suh says, is to get people to think more creatively when it comes to food and cooking, as it did for her.

"You see how people in the (Italy) episode really don't cook with a recipe and that's really kind of changed the way I cook," she says. "I used to follow everything to the T and if I didn't have the exact right ingredient I would feel defeated. But now it's really opened up how I look at food in a different way."
