Salvation Army, Clark issue Red Kettle Challenge

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer

Big Spring businesses and organizations, you've been challenged. The Salvation Army of Big Spring needs volunteers to ring bells next to their familiar Red Kettles to help raise money for the charitable organization's expense budget for the year. Seeing that the Salvation Army is faced with the prospect of having to pay money to hire bellringers, Star Dodge's Public Relations Manager Tabitha Clark came up with the idea of issuing a challenge to local businesses and groups to get out there and ring some bells. She coordinated the idea with Salvation Army Unit Commander Capt. Josh McKain, and now the Red Kettle Challenge is a real thing. "Star works really closely with the Salvation Army," Clark said. "My GM called me and told me, 'I need you to call and set up the day for the bell ringing, because every year all of our employees take an hour and go ring the bell. We cover both doors at Wal-Mart. So I called Josh and said, 'Okay, what day do you have open?' He said, 'Tabitha, I have everything open, because I just don't have any volunteers.' Being PR manager, that got my wheels turning, so I came up with this. You know, everybody does the 'ice bucket challenge,' the 'Kiki challenge,' the whatever challenge. So I came up with 'Star's Red Kettle Challenge.' Basically I challenged every group, business, or organization, every club, to the Red Kettle Challenge. To get out there...all the businesses, everybody in Big Spring to get out there and volunteer. I don't care if it's an hour or two hours, or if you have a bigger business, you can do a whole day." Clark said there won't be a big prize for the winning business, just a little bit of bragging rights.

Josh McKain of Big Spring's Salvation Army displays the Golden Kettle Award that will be presented to the winner of the Red Kettle Challenge – the business, organization, family, or other group who volunteers to ring bells for the Salvation Army's Red Kettle program and raises the most money through their efforts. The winner will get to display the Golden Kettle until next year's Red Kettle Campaign starts up.

Those in town December 2 will have the opportunity to see the artwork of a local artist in a very special historic setting. "I'm doing an event, it's called 'Celebrating Christmas With Art,'" said Terri Chaney of the local Windblown Art studio. "It's going to be on the second of December, which is a Sunday afternoon, and it's going to be from 1:30 to 5, just a

Hangar 25 to host holiday painting party

By AMBER MANSFIELD
 Staff Writer

The Hangar 25 Air Museum wants to help Big Spring residents get into the Christmas spirit and is hosting an adult ornament painting party put on by local shop, County Road Creations, on Friday, Nov. 30 from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. You will pick your own colors and designs, and with a little instruction, you can make something memorable to represent this year's Holiday season. The ornaments painted in this party will not be your typical, small tree-ornaments, but will be a door sign in the shape of a tree ornament to add some extra Holiday curb appeal to your home, or to be used as indoor Christmas decoration. "This party is going to be run by a local artist here in Big Spring," said Hangar 25 Museum Administrator,

"I really didn't want to do anything like, 'you win something,' because it kind of defeats the purpose," she said. "On the other hand, I know that, Josh, if he doesn't get enough volunteers he has to hire somebody, and that also kind of defeats the purpose."

The solution, said Clark, is to purchase a Salvation Army-themed trophy. The winner gets to keep it at their place of business until "Kettle season" the next year.

McKain said the challenge started out in previous years as a friendly rivalry between Big Spring's two Rotary Clubs: The Big Spring Rotary Club, which meets each Tuesday at Howard College's Cactus Room; and the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club, which meets Fridays at the Settles Hotel. Both McKains and Clark are each members of one of the two clubs.

Chaney said the show is free to attend, and will feature both art that is specifically Christmas-themed and art that is more general in scope.

"It's both. There's going to be some Christmas," she said. "I'm making some ornaments for it, I'm making some paintings that are Christmas-themed, and I'll have some of my regular art there as well. So it's just a little bit of everything. It's a way for them to see the Potton House, see some art and have something to do on a Sunday afternoon."

Chaney's art typically features natural subjects such as flowers and trees rendered in bright contrasting colors and mixed media. Some pieces incorporate text or people and animals as well. Visit www.terrichaney.com for more information and to see examples of her work.

Hawks split holiday home games over break

Tony Claxton (www.claxtonphotography.com)

Howard College's Garrick Green is fouled on a shot attempt during the Hawk's loss to Grayson College at home on Wednesday, November 21, 2018.

By JORDAN PARR
Sports Editor

On Wednesday of last week the Hawks played Grayson College in a 74-87 loss at home. The Hawks lead the entire first half but turnovers and poor rebounding really cost the Hawks in the second half and they couldn't ever get back the lead. The Hawks' one bright spot in the game was Garrick Green who put up 40 points on 8 for 14 from the field and 6 for 8 from deep. Green added another six points from the charity stripe going 6 for 7 from the line. There were some really strong offensive possession for the Hawks to build on moving forward but they will have to play better on the ball defense and rebound much better moving forward.

The Lady Hawks found more success over the holidays winning back-to-back games on Friday and Saturday. On Friday the Lady Hawks pounded Lamar 74-33 with three players scoring in double digits. Corbyn Cunningham led Howard College with 15 points on 7-12 shooting with Addyson Moseley and Quanasia McDaniel each adding 13 points as well to round out the Lady Hawks offensive leaders. Cunningham added 13 rebounds in the game for an impressive double double.

Tony Claxton (www.claxtonphotography.com)

Howard College's Kaylee Foote goes inside for two points during the Lady Hawk's 77-36 win over Coastal Bend College on Saturday, November 24, 2018.

On Saturday against Coastal Bend the Lady Hawks found their rhythm again winning in another blow out 77-36. Cunningham led all scorers again with 16 points on an impressive 6-8 shooting. Cunningham added nine rebounds as well missing her second straight double-double by just one board. Addyson Moseley added 14 points with Kaki Simpson adding another 14 points and Makayla Thomas putting up 13 big points off the bench. With back-to-back dominant games over the holidays it looks like the Lady Hawks are well on their way to another successful season. The Hawks and Lady Hawks will play this Wednesday on the road in Hobbs.

Howard County Predators named Champions!

The Howard County Predators (above) beat the Pecos Eagles for the 2018 4/5 year old Flag Football Championship. The kids won the Superbowl and earned themselves a well deserved trophy and rings for their efforts. Congratulations to the Predators, their coaches and their families for representing our community with distinction, playing their hearts out and bringing home a championship.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tense Times for Mercury and Mars

The square of Mercury and Mars carries the emotions associated with unfamiliar faces, the startled discovery of having knocked on the wrong door, the wiry tension of walking through a party of strangers in search of a place to settle in. Of course, this could also be interpreted as an exciting social moment, rich in possibility.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You've had your moments of being entirely too busy, so you don't take it personally when someone close to you gets caught up in the bustle. You'll be an invaluable asset to a busy person today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The first rule is to love yourself. It may seem noble to love someone else more than you love yourself, but because this violates the first rule, it leads to problems. You'll be able to do more for others when you follow the first rule.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). One version of mistaken identity is when you mentally imbue others with powers they do not possess. To accurately recognize the strengths and limits of others is a form of love.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It's a comfort to know where you belong, but it's also important to realize that you're the one who made it so. You created a place for yourself, and you could do the same in any number of places should you choose to make a move.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). While others complain about what's wrong, you home in on the problem, learn all you can about the surrounding circumstances and fix it in a way that satisfies both the small and the big picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Much depends on where the information is coming from. Credible sources get listened to. So do attractive or unexpected sources. Unfortunately, familiar sources are most commonly disregarded.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Shape interactions with an eye toward the abilities and needs of those around you. Granted, you're looking at a wide range of strengths and weaknesses, but there's a way to guide all to the fullness of their capacity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). People often overestimate the strength of their boundaries. If even a small part of the fence is down, that's where intruders will enter. Make sure that enforcements are fully in place, and then you can relax.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You will enjoy your own personal space and time. Solitude will nurture and restore you. Those who "get" you know when to leave you alone. The others will need a hint. Where gentle reminders fail, be assertive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Though it can be disappointing to learn just how self-centered people can really be, it also takes some of the pressure off to learn that they care more about how they feel when they're around you than anything else.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Luck will play a role, but it's not the part you expect. It's still important to set up your plan and follow up with your contingency plan. The more prepared you are the more confident you'll be.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Ironically, the foresight it takes to avoid a bad situation often comes in hindsight. That is to say, people who've already had the experience of being in a bad situation are the best at avoiding getting stuck in the future.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2♥	3♦	4NT	Pass
5♥	Pass	6♠	Pass
Pass	Dble	6NT

Opening lead — eight of diamonds.

This deal occurred in the match between Iceland and Australia at the 1984 World Team Olympiad.

With an Icelandic pair North-South, the opening two-heart bid showed a hand containing specifically five hearts, four spades and 11 to 15 high-card points — and North had exactly what he said he had. South's four-notrump bid was Blackwood, and after North indicated two aces, South (Bjorn Eysteinnsson) bid six spades.

When East doubled, Eysteinnsson correctly interpreted the double as showing a heart void and asked for an opening heart lead. Since he was missing an ace, Eysteinnsson could not afford to lose a ruff also, so he retreated to six notrump.

A club lead would have resulted in an immediate five-trick set, but West decided to lead a diamond, his partner's suit. Even after this, declarer could count only 11 sure tricks — four hearts, five spades and two diamonds — but he made the contract nevertheless.

He took the diamond lead with the ace, cashed five spade tricks, discarding a diamond from dummy, played the K-J of hearts and then overtook the nine with dummy's ten to produce this position:

North	West	South	East
♥ A 8	♥ Q 6	♦ K 6	♦ Q J
♦ 9	♠ 10 7	♣ J 8	♣ A Q
♣ K

When Eysteinnsson next cashed the heart ace, East found himself in dire straits. He could not spare a diamond, so he discarded the club queen. This allowed declarer to part with a diamond and return the club king from dummy, and South's diamond king and club jack took the last two tricks to make the slam.

Annie's Mailbox

Strong Feelings for Husband's Ex

Dear Annie: I have a tricky problem going on right now. I am married and have been for a while -- 20-plus years. It's been a typical marriage, with its ups and downs, but I'd say I've been fairly content and things have been pretty good. Right now, I would say I am in the middle of my life, so this issue could very well be a midlife crisis. I have a great relationship with my husband's ex-wife. We have always gotten along famously. Lately, I have been having strong feelings for her that I shouldn't be having. I have four stepchildren, and there is always some function or get-together with all of us. We typically have a wonderful time together. I find myself thinking about her all the time when I'm not around her. I know that nothing can come of these feelings, and it seems ridiculous to me, but I can't seem to stop them. I never felt this way in the early days of my marriage. It started a few years ago. I'm not sure what brought it on, but she is a great person, and maybe I've just started to realize that.

I'm even dreaming about her at night. I have had same-sex feelings off and on my whole life and was in a brief relationship with a woman before I met my husband. It was quick but intense. When I met my husband, I only had eyes for him, so I didn't think anything more about women until now. I am sure I should probably talk to a therapist because this can't be normal. I've tried everything to stop the thoughts, but they just seem to be getting stronger. I don't want to be consumed with this any longer. My husband and stepchildren would be shocked to know about this, but I am very good at hiding my feelings and would never say a word to them. I wonder, though, whether any of my feelings show when I am around the family. I'm open to any suggestions you might have. -- Pining Away Day After Day own marriage. If that's the case, then the next person you should talk to is your husband. The type of uncontrollable thoughts you have could also be a sign of obsessive-compulsive disorder. The way around them is through them. The more you resist intrusive thoughts the more they come. That which we resist persists. You sound pretty calm, considering the catastrophic potential of your acting on your feelings, and you will know so much more and be ready to act -- one way or the other -- after you have talked this through with a professional.

Dear Annie: A while ago, the issue of noisy children in restaurants was discussed in your column. You have yet to discuss the more ubiquitous problem of noisy adults in restaurants. -- David B.

Dear David: I have no solution to your problem, unfortunately, but thank you for the chuckle. Here's to remembering to use our indoor voices more often, no matter how excited we are to be out to lunch with friends.

Dear Pining Away:

Before deciding whether to act on your feelings, you should talk to a therapist, as you acknowledged in your letter. Developing strong feelings for another person could be a sign that there is a lack of intimacy in your

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Today's Highlight in History:
On Nov. 26, 1941, U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull delivered a note to Japan's ambassador to the United States, Kichisaburo Nomura (kee-chee-sah-boor-oh noh-moo-rah), setting forth U.S. demands for "lasting and extensive peace throughout the Pacific area." The same day, a Japanese naval task force consisting of six aircraft carriers left the Kuril Islands, headed toward Hawaii.

On this date:
In 1789, Americans observed a day of thanksgiving set aside by President George Washington to mark the adoption of the Constitution of the United States.

In 1825, the first college social fraternity, the Kappa Alpha Society, was formed at Union College in Schenectady, N.Y.

In 1883, former slave and abolitionist Sojourner Truth died in Battle Creek, Mich.

In 1917, the National Hockey League was founded in Montreal, succeeding the National Hockey Association.

In 1942, the Warner Bros. motion picture "Casablanca," starring Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman, had its world premiere at the Hollywood Theater in New York.

In 1943, during World War II, the HMT Rohna, a British transport ship carrying American soldiers, was hit by a German missile off Algeria; 1,138 men were killed.

In 1950, China entered the Korean War, launching a counteroffensive against soldiers from the United Nations, the U.S. and South Korea.

In 1973, President Richard Nixon's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, told a federal court that she'd accidentally caused part of the 18-1/2-minute gap in a key Watergate tape.

In 1986, President Ronald Reagan appointed a commission headed by former Senator John Tower to investigate his National Security Council staff in the wake of the Iran-Contra affair.

In 1991, the Stars and Stripes were lowered for the last time at Clark Air Base in the Philippines as the United States abandoned one of its oldest and largest overseas installations, which was damaged by a volcano.

Texas Tech fires former QB Kingsbury after 6 years as coach

Associated Press

LUBBOCK, Texas — Kliff Kingsbury was fired Sunday by Texas Tech after the former record-setting Red Raiders quarterback had a losing overall record in his six seasons as their head coach.

The move came a day after the Red Raiders finished their third consecutive losing season with a 35-24 loss to Baylor when they had a chance to get bowl eligible. That was their fifth straight loss after a 5-2 start this year, though it seems unlikely that a win in the finale would have saved Kingsbury's job.

"It's not based on one game. This type of decision is not based on one season. This decision was made based on a three-year pattern, a three-year pattern of inconsistency," athletic director Kirby Hocutt said during a campus news conference. "We saw progress, but we also saw lapses of progress in key critical areas."

Kingsbury finished with a 35-40 overall record, a .467 winning percentage that is better than only two of the other 14 Texas Tech coaches in the program's history.

Texas Tech was 19-35 in Big 12 games under Kingsbury, including 3-6 in the conference each of the past three seasons even while consistently having one of the nation's top offenses with quality quarterbacks. The Red Raiders have now gone nine consecutive seasons without a winning record in Big 12 play.

"We've had one of the most highly prolific offenses in the nation and we still sit here today with a losing record over the past six years," Hocutt said. "We've got to be a well-rounded football team. We cannot be one-dimensional and have success in this league."

The Red Raiders averaged 520 total yards and 38 points a game under Kingsbury. They gave up 487 yards and 37 points a game, even while showing periods of improvement in defensive coordinator David Gibbs' four seasons.

After starting 7-0 in Kingsbury's debut in 2013, the Red Raiders finished 8-5. They had a five-game losing streak before beating Arizona State in the Holiday Bowl to cap what ended up being his best season.

Hocutt said Kingsbury described Kingsbury as a good man who represented Tech in a first-class manner.

"He epitomizes class and he is truly a Red Raider," Hocutt said.

"For what he achieved and contributed to Texas Tech, as an athlete, a student and our football coach, Kliff Kingsbury has a special place in the hearts of Red Raiders," Texas Tech President Lawrence Schovanec said. "As a coach, he was a model of class and character, and he always put the best interests of his student-athletes first. I admire and appreciate all he has done for Texas Tech."

Kingsbury was only 33 when he took over as head coach of his alma mater following Tommy Tuberville's unexpected resignation after the 2012 season.

At the time, Kingsbury was coming off his only season as offensive coordinator at Texas A&M in 2012, when Aggies quarterback Johnny Manziel became the first freshman to win the Heisman Trophy. Kingsbury had previously coached Case Keenum at Houston.

Kingsbury's specialty is quarterback, the position he played for 43 games at Texas Tech while throwing for 12,429 yards and 95 touchdowns from 1999-2002.

Texas Tech's starting quarterbacks under Kingsbury included Baker Mayfield, Davis Webb and Patrick Mahomes.

"Thank you @TTUKingsbury for everything you have done for me and Texas Tech University! You believed in me when very few people did and helped me become the quarterback and person i am today!," Mahomes tweeted after being at Texas Tech's game Saturday since the Kansas City Chiefs were off this weekend.

In Kingsbury's first game as Tech's coach in 2013, Mayfield was the first walk-on true freshman quarterback to start a season opener for an FBS team. Mayfield later transferred to Oklahoma, where he was Heisman Trophy winner and became the No. 1 overall draft pick earlier this year.

Texas Tech used three quarterbacks this season, and all were hampered by injuries.

When junior McLane Carter suffered an ankle injury in the first half of the season opener, true freshman Alan Bowman took over and was the nation's leading passer before getting sidelined twice this season because of a partially deflated lung. Bowman missed the last three games after throwing for 2,638 yards and 17 touchdowns in eight games.

Bowman tweeted after Saturday's game that Kingsbury was "the best coach I ever had. Even a better human being. Y'all do not understand the work he puts in behind closed doors."

Mond helps Aggies over No. 8 LSU 74-72 in 7 OTs

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — With Texas A&M's game with No. 8 LSU tied at 72-72 in the seventh overtime on Saturday night and the Aggies set to attempt a 2-point conversion, receiver Kendrick Rogers was frantically being tended to on the sideline for severe cramps in his calves.

Rogers was able to get himself together just in time to get back in the game and grab Kellen Mond's 2-point conversion pass that gave A&M at 74-72 victory in a game that tied the NCAA record for most overtimes in an FBS game.

"These are moments you live for, so no matter what's going on with your body you want to be out there," Rogers said. "So, you just have to talk yourself out of it, just mentally fight through it."

Mond connected with Quartney Davis on a 17-yard throw to tie it at 72. Greedy Williams was called for pass interference on the first 2-point conversion try, giving the Aggies (8-4, 5-3, No. 22 CFP), another shot. After a false start by Texas A&M, Mond found Rogers for the conversion to end it.

Throngs of fans rushed the field to celebrate after the grab by Rogers.

"We showed as a team that we're never going to quit, and we did that for four quarters and way more," Mond said.

Joe Burrow had a 10-yard TD run to put LSU (9-3, 5-3, No. 7 CFP) up 72-66 in the seventh OT, but his 2-point conversion throw failed.

"You had two teams out there refusing to lose and we just made one more play," Texas A&M coach Jimbo Fisher said.

The 74 points LSU allowed are the most ever given up by a ranked team, eclipsing the 73 No. 24 Fresno State gave up to Northern Illinois on Oct. 6, 1990, and the first seven overtime game involving a ranked team.

The 146 combined points are the most in an FBS game in NCAA history and the second-most in college football history behind the 161 points Abilene Christian and West Texas A&M scored in Abilene Christian's 93-68 win in 2008.

"I lost track of overtimes ... it is the craziest game ever," Fisher said looking a bit dazed.

Mond threw for 287 yards and six touchdowns, three 2-point conversions and ran for one more TD as Texas A&M snapped a seven-game skid against LSU and got its first win over the Tigers since 1995.

LSU coach Ed Orgeron's clothes might have already dried by the time this one ended after he was prematurely doused with Gatorade after the Tigers appeared to have a clinching interception in the fourth quarter. But the play was reviewed and it was ruled that Mond's knee was down before the throw, keeping the Aggies alive and setting up the wild finish.

"The momentum kept on changing both ways and the guys responded," Orgeron said. "That was one heck of an overtime, we just fell one play short. Our guys have nothing to be ashamed about, they fought, they fought hard."

Burrow threw for three touchdowns and ran for three more as the Tigers were denied their first 10-win regular season since 2012 and likely knocked out of contention for a New Year's Day bowl game.

Mond threw a 25-yard TD pass to Jace Sternberger and a 2-point conversion to Rogers in sextuple overtime before Burrow had a 4-yard touchdown run and Burrow ran for a 4-yard TD and threw for the 2-point conversion to push it to a seventh OT.

Clyde Edwards-Helaire took a pitch from Burrow and launched an 11-yard TD pass to Tory Carter to put the Tigers on top in the fifth overtime, but the 2-point conversion failed. Mond answered with a 6-yard throw to Rogers, but A&M's 2-point try failed, too to send it to the sixth OT.

Mond found Davis on a 19-yard touchdown pass

Nick Brossette followed with a 3-yard run, too.

THE TAKEAWAY

This was a game for the ages and one that both teams will remember for a long time.

POLL IMPLICATIONS

LSU will likely fall a few spots in the poll after that loss.
