First Moonlight Rave Run of the season to light up State Park Friday

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Lace up your running shoes, grab your neon shirt and some glow sticks, and head to the top of Scenic Mountain for the 8th annual Moonlight Rave Run. For those who haven't registered yet, there is still time to register for the run which takes place this Friday at 11:55 p.m.

"This is a great way to experience the most amazing place and time to run in the great state of Texas. Nothing is quite like West Texas nights and few vistas match our view from Scenic Mountain at night," Cherise Felty, said. "Add the music, blacklights, glow sticks, and neon shirts for a memorable experience."

The race began in 2011, as a way to provide local runners a way to compete locally and highlight the view of Scenic Mountain. The Moonlight

Rave Runs are one of the few times, the view from the top of the mountain is accessible at night. "The Moonlight run/walk began in 2011 to provide a new, fun experience and highlight the view from Scenic Mountain," Felty said. "We are hoping to have another great showing this year."

The next two runs will take place, July 12 and August 16. Register today for this race or sign up for all three, and get a discount, go to www.raceentry.com/races-series/scenic-mojuntain-moonlight-rave-runs-2019/series/register.

Gates to the State Park will close during the race and will not reopen until the race has been completed, for safety reasons.

Howard County Sheriff's Office personnel served an arrest warrant on a former colleague Tuesday morning for animal cruelty.

James Dunlap, 40, a former sheriff's deputy for Howard County, was arrested shortly after 7 a.m. this morning on a charge of cruelty to a non-live-stock animal by failing to provide, a class A misdemeanor. According to the Texas Penal Code, a class A misdemeanor carries a potential sentence of a fine not to exceed $4,000, confinement in the county jail for a term not to exceed one year, or both.

Sheriff's deputies responded May 6 to Dunlap's home in the 5100 block of Sterling Road, where they discovered a dog in a fenced enclosure "...that

Community blood drive scheduled June 14

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Giving the gift of life can happen within an hour, when you choose to donate blood.

The City of Big Spring will be hosting a community blood drive June 14 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the City Council Chambers.

"A blood donation truly is a 'gift of life' that a healthy individual can give to others in their community who are sick or injured. In one hour you can donate one unit of blood that can be separated into four individual components that can help save multiple lives," Stacie King, City of Big Spring Benefits Coordinator, said.

According to information provided by Vitalant - previously United Blood Service - from one unit of blood, multiple lives can be saved. The red blood cells are used to help trauma or surgical patients; plasma - the liquid portion of the blood - can be given to those with clotting problems; platelets are used for those with open wounds and more often for cancer and transplant patients.

"Most people, myself included, give blood with the intention of helping others. Giving blood makes us feel good about ourselves and it supports the community and local hospitals," King said.

She continued, "For some, it is a way to 'pay back' the times when their families or friends have needed blood transfusions."

In addition to helping save a life, donors will receive Hero Points that can be used online and redeemed for different prizes, t-shirts, gift cards, and movie passes.

To schedule an appointment, email sking@mybigspring.com or call 432-264-2347. Walk ins are also welcome, but may have to wait depending on the response.

COUNCIL

McLellan and Councilman for District 4 Howard Stewart, presenting them both with plaques and thanking them for their years of dedicated service, and welcomed newly elected Councilwoman Gloria McDonald and Mayor Shannon Thomason.

More than 50 people crowded into the City Council Chambers for the meeting, during which the council canvassed the results of Saturday night's runoff election in which McDonald defeated Shonda Folsom, and Thomason defeated Debbie Wegman to gain their Council seats.

Following the unanimous acceptance of the election results by the council, City Manager Todd Darden called Stewart and McLellan to the podium and presented them plaques and the city's thanks for their service.

"In appreciation for your outstanding dedication and service to the City of Big Spring, and for your diligent work promoting economic growth and financial stability for the City of Big Spring from 2017 to 2019, thank you, Howard for everything you did," Darden told Stewart.

"This has been an eye-opener for me," Stewart said in response. "This is a big organization. It takes lots of money, lots of people. It doesn't always go smooth, but most of the time it does. For those that are still here, and the new elected, think of Big Spring. Everyone in wants it to grow and improve and get better. Do what's best for Big Spring."

Next Darden thanked McLellan for his service.

"We will miss your leadership and friendship, and your years of service to this community and your great leadership," Darden told McLellan. "You've served on almost every board and committee this community has, and with great gratitude, we as citizens had the opportunity to have you as our leader during that time. I don't think there's any one of us that comes into this job, whether you're elected or appointed, who doesn't want to leave it better than when you found it. I think that's been our goal since you got here, as well as the other leaders."

Darden also read the plaque presented to McLellan.

"A sincere appreciation presented to a true leader," read Darden. "In honor of the deep appreciation of this distinguished and unselfish service given to the citizens of Big Spring while serving with the outstanding leadership, vision, and ability to be our mayor from 2013 to 2019."

After Darden presented the plaques to the outgoing council members, Judge Timothy Green administered the oath of office first to Gloria McDonald, and then to Shannon Thomason. Each of the two raised their right hand and repeated the oath given by Green, after which they signed the written form of the oath before taking their seat on the Council panel.

With the addition of McDonald, and following the general election, of Councilwoman for District 5 Camilla Strande, the council moves from an all-male body to one with two women among its seven members.

At the end of the meeting, both McDonald and Thomason made brief speeches.

"It's a little new," said McDonald. "I've only been up here 10 minutes, but I look forward to serving the community and, Mr. Mayor, I look forward to serving with you and I think we can do some great things and progress along, and fix what needs to be fixed, and push right along with what's been going on. Thank you for your support."

"I guess it's my turn. My first address as your mayor," Thomason said. "First of all, I want to thank everyone of you all for being here this evening. To echo Mr. Marquez's remarks, we definitely need these seats filled every council meeting. We need your input. We need your ideas. We've got a lot of things we need to get done and fix here in Big Spring, and I'm calling on every citizen to do what they can to help us get there. I know during the election there were a lot of emotions running high on both sides. I want to assure everyone, whether you voted for me or not, I am here to represent you. My door is open to everyone. I want to just take a moment and thank everyone again for coming out. I am looking forward to working to better Big Spring. That's all I have for now. Thank you very much."

In other business, the council offered public hearings on three zoning issues first raised at the previous council meeting, but no one from the public spoke during the hearings.

The council also:

- Left tabled an item, tabled at the council's previous meeting, which would amend the tax abatement guidelines and criteria by reducing the administration fees for tax abatement applications.

- Approved unanimously on first reading a resolution authorizing the sale at auction of several lots of County Trustee properties.

- Approved unanimously on first reading an ordinance amending Chapter 20 of the Big Spring Code of Ordinances to adjust building permit fees.

appeared to have been neglected and malnourished," according to a press release issued May 7.

Dunlap voluntarily released the dog, "Patches," to the deputies, who turned it over to Big Spring Animal Control. The animal was taken to a veterinarian for treatment, and was housed at the Big Spring Animal Shelter before being fostered to a local resident. According to the resident, the dog has been transferred to a rescue operation "far from Big Spring," and is beginning to regain weight.

Howard County Sheriff Stan Parker said the results of the department's investigation were turned over to Howard County Attorney Josh Hamby.

"We got the call there, found the dog and processed the case, and turned it over to the County Attorney's Office for prosecution," Parker said. "We got the warrant back yesterday, and arrested him this morning for animal cruelty."

Parker said Dunlap was cooperative during the arrest.

"Oh yeah, no issues there," said Parker. "This morning his bond was set at $5,000, and he bonded out."

Newly announced crude pipelines to connect U.S. Rockies and Cushing to Port of Corpus Christi

Special to the Herald

Corpus Christi, TX, USA – On Monday, June 10, 2019, Phillips 66 announced two separate 50/50 joint ventures to proceed with construction of two new pipelines, the Liberty Pipeline (with Bridger Pipeline LLC) and the Red Oak Pipeline (with Plains All American Pipeline).

“The (Liberty) Pipeline adds to our integrated infrastructure network that serves the key shale oil producing regions with connectivity to major Gulf Coast market centers,” said Greg Garland, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer for Phillips 66. “The (Red Oak) Pipeline provides a competitive outlet for shippers to access the key market centers along the Texas Gulf Coast from Cushing and the Permian.”

The 24-inch Liberty Pipeline will provide crude oil transportation service from the Rockies and Bakken production areas to Cushing, Oklahoma. The 30-inch Red Oak Pipeline system will carry multiple grades of crude oil through Cushing—the main thoroughfare for Central U.S. crude production—and the Permian Basin to Corpus Christi, marking the first non-Texas crude production connecting to the Port of Corpus Christi.

“Red Oak represents a capital-efficient industry solution that will utilize existing assets and provide pull-through benefits to our systems,” said Willie Chiang, Chief Executive Officer for Plains All American.

Pending the permitting process, service on both pipelines could begin as early as the first quarter of 2021.

“These newly announced pipelines are pivotal developments in establishing the Port of Corpus Christi as the preferred gateway for U.S. crude exports. These lines will add new North American crude slates such as Bakken, Niobrara/DJ Basin, SCOOP & STACK to our already high-quality Permian and Eagle Ford barrels,” said Sean Strawbridge, Chief Executive Officer for the Port of Corpus Christi. “The discerning Asian and European crude customer will certainly appreciate the expanded menu of options Corpus Christi provides when buying American crude oil.”

The Port of Corpus Christi is forecasting exports of nearly $15 billion of crude oil in 2019. As the third largest port in the United States in revenue tonnage, the Port is engaged in a 10-year, over $1 billion capital expansion program with the expectation that U.S. energy exports will triple or quadruple as demand for U.S. production continues to increase.

About Port Corpus Christi

As a leader in U.S. Crude Oil export ports and a major economic engine of Texas and the nation, Port Corpus Christi is the 3rd largest port in the United States in total revenue tonnage. Strategically located on the western Gulf of Mexico with a 36-mile, soon to be 54 foot (MLLW) deep channel, Port Corpus Christi is a major gateway to international and domestic maritime commerce. The Port has excellent railroad and highway network connectivity via three North American Class-1 railroads and two major interstate highways. With an outstanding staff overseen by its seven-member commission, Port Corpus Christi is “Moving America’s Energy.” <http://www.portcorpuschristi.com/>

Blanco Middle School students help monarch through Texas USDA NRCS

By Donnie Lunsford

USDA-NRCS Public Affairs Specialist

There aren’t too many eighth graders that can say they were able to research, plan, write, and be awarded a grant from the government. However, Sydney Etzel and Lauren Anderson, two eighth grade students from Blanco Middle School, can add that to their list of achievements. The best part is the grant will go toward a pollinator garden that helps the monarch butterfly. This pollinator garden is an expansion of efforts made through other grants and donations under the guidance of their ecology teacher that has continued to build a multipurpose garden. This garden has been expanded to include pollinator plants due to a grant by the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Texas.

In 2018, the Texas NRCS launched the Urban Conservation Grant to help communities address food deserts by building new gardens for vegetables, building high tunnels to extend the growing season, or planting a pollinator garden to provide pollinator habitat for the monarch butterfly in flyways and to energize community organizations.

“This pollinator garden is actually an extension from an Eagle Scout Project that was a raised bed vegetable garden that was one of my former students and it has just grown from other grants and donations from our surrounding community,” said Pam Meier, Blanco Middle School ecology teacher. “With the help of the NRCS and the Pedernales Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD), we are able to expand this garden and these students are able to get their hands dirty and see exactly what they are taught in class about the Monarchs in action.”

Located in the Hill Country of south-central Texas, Blanco is along the annual monarch migration pattern. These monarchs fill the sky on their journey north and south in the spring and fall. While milkweed plants are essential for them to lay their eggs and the larva to feed on before it builds its cocoon, nectar plants are also needed for food and fuel for the butterflies’ journey across into the northern states or their return trip from Texas into Mexico. “It is not too often that two eighth grade students are able to be awarded a grant pretty much on their own, but I think that shows how effective our teachers can be especially when they empower the students and let them run with a project,” said Ann Holt, Pedernales SWCD chairman.

The two students enjoyed their ecology class so much that they asked Mrs. Meier if they could attend a second semester. About this same time, the clerk for the Pedernales SWCD, Paige Murphree, saw the announcement for the grant opportunity and shared the information with the school and the grant writing process began.

“In our ecology class, we learned about the life cycle and the migration of the monarch butterfly. I was glad that we were able to apply for this grant and develop a plan to build this garden with the proper plants that will help the Monarch so perhaps we can influence the population that has been declining over the years,” said grant co-writer Etzel.

They spent the first semester learning about ecology and the second semester researching, calling businesses for pricing on building materials, and writing a grant to help boost the butterfly’s ecology system at their school.

“We will be planting multiple wildflowers for nectar plants for food but also some milkweed which will help in their reproduction cycle,” said fellow grant writer Anderson. “This has been a very fun experience that will continue at this school for many years to come.”

Mrs. Meier’s students have helped build the raised beds, plant, and water the garden which results in lifelong lessons on building a garden at home for vegetables and pollinators. Plus, the students in the ecology class are now able to expand their classroom to their new pollinator garden. This expanding garden has become the students’ favorite way to learn, especially when they get to eat what they grow and see the pollinators utilizing the plants. “Today was truly an eye-opening experience as I saw two students go to their plant and pull off some snap peas and take a bite. That is why the Texas Urban Garden Grants are going to be successful because these students are educated on how to grow their own food and are enjoying the time spent getting their hands dirty,” explained C.A. Cowser, NRCS district conservationist for Blanco County.

The community and surrounding area businesses assisted in the development of the entire garden with the addition of a second water storage tank, plants, and building materials donated completely or at a reduced price to help the money and resources stretch further. This garden has become a lifelong project for Mrs. Meier and she has seen the successes of her efforts.

“This garden continues to grow, and it has almost become like my child because I have seen it grow and blossom into something I never could have imagined. I’m so thankful for the NRCS Urban Conservation Grant to make this vision a reality and I think this has impacted my students more than can be measured,” Meier said

In its first year in 2018, the NRCS Urban Conservation Grant awarded 26 projects across Texas funding a total of $149,138 of the $150,000 set aside for the project. There were 49 applications for more than $252,000 in funding assistance requests. This has proven to be a success to empower our communities, educate our youth, help with critical areas needed to help the monarch butterfly, and to address food deserts.

Pence hits inside-the-park HR, Rangers beat Red Sox 9-5

By DOUG ALDEN
Associated Press

BOSTON — Hunter Pence sprinted through his 14th homer of the season, although there was probably no need to hurry.

Pence hit a stand-up, inside-the-park home run and the Texas Rangers beat Boston 9-5 Tuesday night, capitalizing when the Red Sox unraveled after their manager and right fielder were ejected.

"Kind of just a weird incident to be a part of," said Pence, whose fly ball to right in the sixth turned into a surprise two-run homer. "I've never done it, so now I have. It's a good feeling."

Texas has won four of five, including Monday night's extra-innings victory at Fenway Park.

The Red Sox lost their third straight loss and fifth in six games.

"Guys are frustrated. We try not to be, but games like tonight, it's embarrassing," said Brock Holt, who misplayed Pence's homer. "We're not playing well. We're not playing up to our capabilities and that's the frustrating part."

Ariane Jurado (4-2) struck out six while pitching six innings of three-run ball, and Pence, Asdrubal Cabrera and Ronald Guzman each had two RBIs for the Rangers.

Xander Bogaerts and Mookie Betts homered for the Red Sox, who dropped to 34-34 on a night filled with frustrations. Andrew Benintendi was ejected in the fifth, and manager Alex Cora was also tossed defending his outfielder.

With Benintendi banished to the clubhouse, Pence took advantage of a realigned outfield.

"I was watching it probably a little too long because I was like awkwardly around first base, so then I just took off running because I saw the ball," Pence said. "I heard someone saying 'slow down, slow down' and I'm like 'I'm not slowing down until I see an umpire say something."

Cabrera followed Pence with a line drive to left and Pence stretch it to a double, sliding in and initially being called safe before second base umpire Jordan Baker quickly reversed his own call. That brought Texas manager Chris Woodward storming out of the dugout. He went straight for plate umpire Angel Hernandez and shouted in his face until he got tossed — the first ejection of his managing career.

Woodward said he was upset because he was considering challenging the call and wasn't told when he had run out of time.

"I just want consistency — that's all — from the umpires," Woodward said. "They have a hard job to do. But most umpires give you the ultimatum when it comes down to the 30 seconds. I don't have a 30-second clock in my head — I'm not that gifted."

Darwinzon Hernandez (0-1) made his first major league start and struck out seven, but he struggled with his control and allowed four runs — three earned — on three hits and five walks. He faced two batters in the fourth, when Texas pulled ahead 4-3.

BEEF NIGHT

Although he was ejected by first base umpire Vic Carapazza, Benintendi appeared to be upset with Hernandez. He turned and shouted toward home plate after grounding out, prompting the ejection.

Cora came out to argue and got into it with Carapazza and Hernandez near first base before being given his third career ejection. While Cora yelled at both umpires, Benintendi continued to bark from the top step of the dugout.

Benintendi said it was odd because his complaint was directed at Hernandez.

"I know that Angel didn't hear me," Benintendi said in the clubhouse. "It stinks. We're out there trying to win a game. I want to be a part of it, but can't do that when I'm in here."

Hernandez issued a statement through a pool reporter following the game, saying little to explain the ejections.

"He violated the rules of the game," Hernandez said. "I'm not at liberty to discuss anything until I submit the report tomorrow."

Rookie Alvarez homers again as Astros beat Brewers 10-8

By KRISTIE RIEKEN
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — Yordan Alvarez's teammates told the slugger they'd fine him if he didn't homer in his first game for the Houston Astros.

After he connected in his debut they warned him that the fine would be double if he didn't knock one out of the park in Game 2.

So far, Alvarez isn't out a dime.

Alvarez hit one of Houston's four home runs to become the first player in franchise history to homer in his first two major league games and lead the Astros to a 10-8 win over the Milwaukee Brewers on Tuesday night.

"It's unbelievable and emotional. I can barely describe it, to be able to hit two home runs in my first two games in the big leagues," Alvarez said through a translator.

Yuli Gurriel, Robinson Chirinos and Tyler White also homered for the Astros, who won for the fourth time in five games.

Houston led by one in the fifth when Michael Brantley hit a run-scoring triple to chase Freddy Peralta (3-3). He was replaced by Matt Albers, who was greeted with a single by Gurriel which pushed the lead to 6-3. Alvarez then knocked a changeup by Albers into the right field seats to extend the lead to 8-3.

The 21-year-old Alvarez, who led the Pacific Coast League with 23 homers, also had a two-run shot in his debut on Sunday. He is the first player since Trevor Story in 2016 to homer for the first two hits of his career.

Manager AJ Hinch was impressed with how Alvarez bounced back with his homer after striking out in his first two at-bats on Tuesday night.

"I haven't been around him enough to see how he really responds to the success or failure," Hinch said. "But after the couple of punch outs, he stays on the ball, he's got tremendous strength ... it was a nice swing. We needed as many runs as we could get tonight."

Travis Shaw hit a solo homer for the Brewers in the seventh before a two-run home run by Chirinos in the bottom of the inning extended Houston's lead to 10-4.

The Brewers added a run on a bases-loaded walk in the eighth and got within two on Yasmani Grandal's three-run homer off Chris Devenski with two outs in the ninth. But Devenski struck out Eric Thames to end it.

Houston starter Brad Peacock (6-3) yielded seven hits and four runs in 6 1/3 innings for the win.

Peralta took the loss by giving up eight hits and six runs in four-plus innings.

"I thought some of the pitches were good ... sometimes that's concerning too, just because they're hitting your good pitches, that's trouble," manager Craig Counsell said. "He threw strikes again. He attacked. That part I liked. Obviously, the home runs and the driven balls got him."

Christian Yelich hit his MLB-leading 25th home run and finished a triple shy of the cycle as Milwaukee's four-game winning streak was snapped. It was his second straight game with a home run and extended his hitting streak to a season-high nine games.

"I could not see Yelich hit again and I'd be fine," Hinch said. "He's really good."

The Brewers led 1-0 early after an RBI single by Grandal with two outs in the first inning. Tony Kemp singled with one out in the second before White put the Astros on top 2-1 with his opposite-field shot to the seats in right.

Yelich homered to the bullpen in right-center to start the third and tie it at 2-2.

Houston regained the lead when Brantley doubled before Gurriel's fifth home run this season made it 4-2. Gurriel had three hits and drove in three runs.

Orlando Arcia singled to start the fifth and scored on a double by Ben Gamel to get the Brewers within 1 before Houston's big fifth.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Brewers: RHP Jhoulys Chacin (lower back strain) threw an extended bullpen session of about 50 pitches on Tuesday. Counsell said he expects him to come off the injured list to start during their series in San Diego, which begins on Monday.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). It would be a shame to let that interesting person walk out of your life without so much as a hello. Don't worry about what you'll say. You could spout exquisite nonsense and still forge a connection.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Ben Franklin claimed that three people could keep a secret if two of them were dead. It's something to keep in mind before you tell even one trusted person your classified information.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Where you set the bar will determine your satisfaction with what happens today. Go low. Set your expectation somewhere around "tolerable" and let anything above that come as a delightful surprise.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It's natural to burn out on something you've been doing a long time. It's just as natural to move through the fire and keep going until you reach a different perspective and reality.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You know what you care about. Actually, a lot of people care about it. The way you're different from many is that you direct the care you feel in an abiding, steadfast and loyal way. This is how you'll make a difference.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Now that it's getting easier for you to manage your own expectations (you're practically a master), it's time to apply the skill where it will make an incredible difference -- managing the expectatations of others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You're the great harmonizer, the peace ambassador, the spreader of "chill." Your ways of diffusing the tensions around you are subtle (it all starts inside of you) but powerful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Appearances can and will be manipulated, perhaps not on purpose, but people are so conditioned toward presenting a certain image that they will do so unthinkingly and regardless of the truth of the matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Just because you lived a scenario doesn't mean you understand it. Your own life and your role in it can sometimes mystify you as though it wasn't even you who was living it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Use your imagination to look into the future. It's about the best tool there is for the job. Furthermore, when it comes to predicting the move that will bring you the best outcome, none are more prescient than you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Humans are never satisfied, which is why they spend so much time unhappy, and which is also to credit for the survival of the species. On a personal level, today helps you appreciate what spiritual hunger has done for your life.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 12). This year shows you learning yourself better than ever, and that's knowledge that will create both welcome ease and thrilling challenge in a life that feels custom fit to you. You attract the people you need to serve and the people who will fortify you. The financial picture lines up in a new way for you in October. Capricorn and Cancer adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 5, 40, 11, 20 and 13.

Scammers Target the Elderly

Dear Annie: My 81-year-old mom and I live together. I work 52 hours a week, so she is home alone a lot. She does get picked up by friends a few times a week to play bingo. But something serious has happened. A guy started an online chat with her on a "Words with Friends" game. She chatted back, and by the fourth chat he had asked for her for personal information such as her email address and phone number.

Now they text every day, and she thinks she's in love with him. He's supposed to be a military peacekeeper in Baghdad, who has a suitcase he found with $5 million in it. He asked her to pay a fee of $1,250 to have the suitcase sent to our home until he's out of the military. She will not believe me when I tell her it's a scammer.

She sent him the money last week. She only gets $1,200 a month from her Social Security.

She won't Google the name of the person to whom she sent the money. Now he apparently needs $10,000 for attorney fees. I found the receipt in her room, and, guess what? It's from Nigeria, not Iraq. I figured my mom knew better than this. She hasn't even met the guy she's been texting these past six weeks.

I don't know what to do! Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated. -- Concerned Daughter

Dear Concerned Daughter: It sounds like your mom is lonely, and going to bingo a few times a week is not enough human interaction for her. Look for local community resources for your mother. Reach out to some of her friends to see if there are other er activities they might enjoy together.

You sound like a very hard-working daughter. Consider reconnecting with your mom, and taking a little time for yourself, by taking your mom to the theater or a comedy show -- something that you both might enjoy.

However, you have a right to be concerned about her finances. Scams that prey upon the elderly are all too common. They target people who are looking for connection and purpose, which is what it sounds like your mother is craving. If she refuses to listen to you, reach out to the authorities, such as the Adult Protective Services. They provide help and advice for people who are being tricked out of their savings.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Opening lead — king of clubs.

The Blackwood Convention is a very useful gadget for getting to or staying out of slams. But in the same way you don't use a rake to clean your fingernails, or a teaspoon to dig a well, you don't use Blackwood when the information it elicits may not help you get to the right contract.

For example, take this deal where South cuebid four clubs over three hearts, indicating first-round club control and interest in a slam even though his partner had passed originally.

North cooperated by bidding four diamonds, and South could then do no better than retreat to four hearts since he had no idea what his partner held in spades. If North did not have a spade honor, it would be dangerous to venture beyond the four level. But when North next bid four spades, showing the ace, it was easy for South to undertake six hearts, which proved to be an excellent contract.

Declarer won the club lead with the ace, played a diamond to the ace and ruffed a diamond high. Next came a low trump to the eight and another diamond ruff high. Now a low heart to the jack, followed by a third diamond ruff, established the diamond jack as a trick.

South then led the queen of spades, but went up with the ace when West played low. After discarding his club loser on the jack of diamonds, declarer conceded a spade to score a well-bid and well-played vulnerable slam.

Note that by opting for this method of play, South guaranteed the contract if he found the diamonds divided 4-3 and the trumps 2-1, and at the same time preserved his chance of making the slam via a spade finesse if the diamonds or trumps were unfavorably divided. Most important of all, he did not stake everything on an early spade finesse, which would have proved fatal.

Republican Rep. Mark Sanford, a vocal critic of Donald Trump, lost his South Carolina congressional seat in a primary, hours after Trump tweeted that Sanford was "very unhelpful" and "nothing but trouble." Throngs of Golden State Warriors fans turned out for a second straight year to honor the NBA champions in a parade in downtown Oakland, California; in Washington, DC, the Stanley Cup champion Capitals were cheered by fans along
