SWCD celebrates start of Deaf Awareness Week

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer
 Through the South West College for the Deaf, Big Spring has a long relationship with the deaf and hard-of-hearing community; so it's of course no surprise that the city celebrates and honors Deaf Awareness week - this week - each year.
 Mayor Shannon Thomason recognized the week by issuing a proclamation, which was read at a lunch event Monday at the SWCD cafeteria.

 Thomason, a professional pilot, was working during the presentation, so he asked Big Spring resident Mary Frances Malone to present the proclamation Monday.
 "Whereas Sept. 23 through the 27, 2019, marks the annual Deaf Awareness Week; its purpose is to increase public awareness of deaf issues. Activities and events throughout Deaf Awareness Week encourage individuals

A recipe, with a dash of history

Heritage Museum is searching for recipes with history, to be released Christmas 2019

Matthew Horton
 Herald Staff Intern
 It's been long known that taste can be intricately tied to certain memories. For some, it's that certain dish that brings forth memories of balmy summer nights spent with family and friends; for others, the taste of a certain cookie evokes those frosty Christmas mornings long since past. Tammy Schreengost, the Director of Big Spring's Heritage Museum wants to capture those very memories in a new cookbook that will serve as a synthesis of delicious recipes and history, both communal and personal.
 "Everyone has that favorite family recipe with all the memories attached to it," Ms. Schreengost said. "Memories can be what makes certain food so special. By sharing recipes, we want to bring Big Spring of past and present to life, have people talk and share histories with each other."
 All are encouraged to submit their treasured recipes along with photos and memories. Examples of what to send include everything from a family photo around a dinner table to a short story telling the life story of a loved one and the desserts they made that flavored each holiday.
 "For instance, we'll feature Nettiejean McEwan's famous Holy Cake recipe," Ms. Schreengost said. "This was the cake she made whenever any of their kids had a birthday. It's exactly these kinds of recipes that are so important to personal memories that we're looking for."
 Also key to the cookbook will be that dedicated to providing education, employment and independent living among people who are deaf, hard of hearing, or deaf-blind, and recognizing their achievements and capabilities, and whereas South West College for the Deaf has provided education programs for persons who are deaf, hard of hearing or deaf-blind for more than 40 years; therefore, the City of Big Spring offers its full pride and support for South West College for the Deaf, and to all observers and participants, for renewed commitment to improving the quality of life for the deaf, hard of hearing and deaf-blind populations; now, therefore, I, Shannn D. Thomason, Mayor of the City of Big Spring, Texas, do hereby proclaim Sept. 23 through the 27, 2019, as Deaf Awareness Week in Big Spring, Texas, and encourage all citizens of Big Spring and surrounding communities to give full support to this week's programs, ceremonies and activities."

SWCD students and faculty were joined by Big Spring and Howard County first responders, Howard College trustees, and other members of the public for the proclamation presentation event. SWCD Student Government President Samantha Padilla served as mistress of ceremonies for the event; and SWCD Deaf Support Professor Jeff Anderson spoke about the history of Deaf Awareness Week during the event.

After the presentation, Howard College and SWCD President Dr. Cheryl Sparks spoke to media about the importance of the event to the local community.

"Deaf awareness week was implemented right at 40 years ago, and we have had the opportunity as a community to celebrate Deaf Awareness Week because we have an awareness of deafness because of the South West College for the Deaf," said Dr. Cheryl Sparks, President of Howard College and SWCD. "So today was the kickoff for our campus and the college district in general to share in some of the activities that are happening across the country, and some that are specific to our campus, relative to deaf awareness. This is a time that we can expose hearing people to some of the things that are very important in deaf culture. I would just make the comment that, when we were starting the celebration, how we flipped the lights off and on. Well, in the deaf world, that's the way you begin. You flip the lights off and on. Then of course, as we would applaud, instead of clapping, what we do in the deaf world is, we wave our hands. So those were some immediate deaf awareness aspects of the ceremony. We will continue with opportunities like that throughout the week."

Sparks listed a couple of the events that will take place during the week.

"Tuesday evening, at Starbucks, we will have... it's going to be called 'Deaf Night,' from 6 to 8 p.m., and it will be a coffee tasting," Sparks said. "Several of our deaf individuals will be there and it will be 10 percent off for those who attend, and it will be an opportunity to communicate with the deaf community. Then Thursday from 4:30 to 5:15 at the Howard County Library, we will have ASL Family Story Time with SWCD students. For those who haven't been exposed to American Sign Language, you will be able to witness the telling of stories in ASL, which are very visual, very demonstrative. I think people would really enjoy it if they have not had the opportunity to see a story told in ASL."

Trubisky, Bears get offense on track, beat Redskins 31-15

By STEPHEN WHYNO

AP Sports Writer

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — After the Chicago Bears' offense was slow to get going this season, Mitchell Trubisky was excited to speed things up.

Trubisky and the Bears used a no-huddle, hurry-up tempo to snap out of their offensive funk and score 28 first-half points on the way to beating the Washington Redskins 31-15 Monday night. After no passing touchdowns the first two games of the year, Trubisky connected with Taylor Gabriel on three of them in the second quarter alone.

The 2017 second overall pick looked at ease with a fast-paced approach and picked apart Washington's porous defense on 25 of 31 passing for 231 yards. It was the offensive explosion Trubisky predicted would happen this week.

"It just felt like the tempo helped us out a little bit," Trubisky said. "If everyone just continues to stick together and execute our plays and believe and just go out there and make plays, it'll be a fun offense."

Chicago (2-1) had just a 1-yard touchdown run to show for its first two games, and Trubisky entered the night with a completion percentage of 58.3 and ranked near the bottom of the league in yards per attempt. Facing the Redskins (0-3) brought out some of the best in Trubisky.

"Hat's off to him," said Washington linebacker Cole Holcomb, who was roommates with Trubisky at North Carolina. "I always knew he was a good quarterback. He struggled a little bit, but he came out and he played a good game."

Trubisky had 173 yards in the first half alone before throwing an interception at the goal line in the third quarter.

With scores of 1, 3 and 36 yards, Gabriel joined Mike Ditka in 1963 as the only Bears receivers with three TD catches in the first half of a game. Gabriel made six catches for 75 yards before leaving in the second half with a concussion.

The Bears took advantage of five turnovers by Redskins quarterback Case Keenum: two interceptions by Ha Ha Clinton-Dix, including a pick six, another by Kyle Fuller and fumbles forced by Khalil Mack and Danny Trevathan.

"That's all me," said Keenum, who was 30 of 43 for 331 yards and two touchdowns that didn't compensate for the turnovers. "Turn it over that many times as a quarterback, I let my team down. It's all on me. I take complete responsibility. I have to take care of the ball better."

With the offense up to the defense's speed in the first half, Chicago put up 28 points in two quarters after scoring a total of 19 the past two weeks, 12 of which came on field goals from Eddy Piñeiro.

Mack had two of the Bears' four sacks to continue a dominant start by the defense that didn't give up a Washington TD until midway through the third quarter. Keenum's two TD passes came long after fans chanted for rookie quarterback Dwayne Haskins and booed the Redskins off the field at halftime.

NOW WHAT?

Washington's defense that wilted in the second half of its first two losses had few answers for Trubisky all game Monday. Eight days after coach Jay Gruden said, "I don't think we have to push the panic button yet," some significant changes could be coming soon.

Before Gruden's job security is really in question, defensive coordinator Greg Manusky looks like the logical target as the first coach to take the fall. Washington's defense ranked in 21st and 17th in the NFL in Manusky's first two seasons in charge and is on pace to finish worse than that this year.

"We've got some talent," Gruden said. "We've just got to coach 'em up better, play better, be more balanced, protect the football. And defensively, stay after it."

The "Let's go Haskins" chants notwithstanding, the Redskins are far more likely to turn to long-time backup Colt McCoy if they make a change at the position. McCoy is working toward being healthy again nine months after breaking his right leg.

HA HA GETS LAST LAUGH

When the Redskins signed former New York Giants safety Landon Collins, it effectively spelled the end of their chances of re-signing Clinton-Dix, a trade acquisition last year from Green Bay who played nine games for them. Clinton-Dix made his old team pay with a first quarter interception he returned 37 yards for his first career touchdown.

Clinton-Dix for good measure picked off in three notrump and West leads the queen of clubs. Declarer wins with the king and can count seven sure tricks — a spade, two hearts, two diamonds and two clubs. The diamond suit clearly offers the best chance to pick up two additional tricks, so declarer cashes the diamond king and leads another diamond, on which West follows low.

Under normal circumstances, South's proper play would be to finesse the jack. But two factors militate against that play here. First, he needs only four tricks from the suit, not five. Second, there are no entries to dummy outside of the diamond suit itself.

South therefore plays the nine instead of the jack. He doesn't really expect the nine to win the trick, but this doesn't concern him. If the nine loses to the ten or queen, he is sure to score four diamond tricks and so make the contract.

More importantly, if West happens to have started with the Q-10-x-x of diamonds, finessing the nine allows declarer to pick up the entire suit. If South finesses the jack instead, he can't score more than three diamond tricks and ends up down one.

It is true that with this diamond combination, finessing the jack will prove the most lucrative play in the long run. But in this deal, the safety play is correct because it guarantees the contract.

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Safety plays come in many different forms. In one variety, declarer can assure himself of no losers in a particular suit if he handles the card combination correctly.

Another kind might see declarer intentionally lose a trick in a suit — perhaps unnecessarily — in order to ensure not losing two.

Still another type might concern the hand as a whole. In this variation, declarer adopts an irregular approach to a particular card combination because of the special circumstances presented by the deal.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The better you know yourself and the more in touch you are with how you're feeling, the greater your control will be over the messages you send to the world. Nonverbal communication will say more than words.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). In some way, you feel stuck. You long for someone to share an insight with you that will wake you up to the way things really are. Make it a priority to spend time with people who are emotionally intelligent.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You'll share what's on your mind. There are those who relate your issue to one of their own and somehow never bring it back to you. Your story fades; theirs takes over... narcissism at its finest. Seek those who know how to listen.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Treats and indulgences seem like acts of self-care but aren't, really, unless they line up with what you really need. Offer yourself warmth and acceptance first, and go from there.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Stories are powerful. A story can be a weapon, a vehicle, a seduction or an identity. Your own personal stories are worth caring for as you would other cherished things. Repeat stories to find the best way to tell them.

Annie's Mailbox

Still Hurting After Divorce

Dear Annie: After 46 years, my husband decided to leave me soon after he met a gold-digger overseas. He went about it in a cowardly manner, looking for his condo in secret, although his friends were in on his plans. I was devastated when I accidentally found out and confronted him about it. He admitted that he wanted to leave, and, soon after, did so.

For some time, I believed it was a late midlife crisis and he would soon come to his senses. But after several years of living apart, he demanded a divorce and I reluctantly agreed.

Soon after the divorce, he asked to become friends with me. I could not see having a friendship with someone who had treated me with such a lack of consideration and for whom I still feel anger and resentment. I am afraid that I will never have closure on this because he has not acknowledged how much he hurt me or how badly he treated me.

There is some satisfaction in rejecting his offer of friendship. I hope he has a twinge of regret for what he cast aside so cavalierly. Am I being unreasonable or vengeful in your opinion? -- Hurt and Angry

Dear Hurt and Angry: No, you are not being unreasonable. In fact, you don't have to worry about how you are acting toward your ex-husband right now. Your life has been turned upside-down, and he is the one who caused it. Seek out a good therapist or counselor to work through some of your anger and frustration. Do things that make you happy. Don't worry about what he is thinking or doing. This is your chance to focus on you and to think about how you can heal and come out a stronger person.

It is understandable that, when we are hurt, it feels good to reject or wound the one who hurt us. Don't judge those feelings negatively. Just acknowledge them for now and know that eventually you will find forgiveness -- not for him but for yourself. Then you can move on. But don't rush the process. Best of luck to you.

Dear Annie: It's time people stopped taking offense to kind deeds. Just because someone is being kind to you, it doesn't necessarily mean they're doing it because you are elderly. Even if they are, so what!

I am a woman who just turned 60, and I have tried to be polite to people most of my life, regardless of their age. I have held doors for people who were both younger and older than me. Age has nothing to do with it. For instance, I've picked up something that was dropped and handed it back to the teenager who dropped it. I have opened a door for a mother who had her hands full with children and a cart full of groceries.

You see, if everyone would just stop taking offense to a kindness shown them and accept it for what it is -- a random act of compassion -- perhaps anger would abate entirely, making room for more kind gestures. Having something nice done for you is never a reason to get upset, no matter your age. Enjoy the fact that someone cares enough to do something kind. -- Continuing to Be Kind

Dear Continuing to Be Kind: I love your letter and am printing it for your wonderful message. Continuing to be kind will make the world a better place and will help make all of our lives more rewarding and joyful.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 24, the 267th day of 2019. There are 98 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On September 24, 1976, former hostage Patricia Hearst was sentenced to seven years in prison for her part in a 1974 bank robbery in San Francisco carried out by the Symbionese Liberation Army. (Hearst was released after 22 months after receiving clemency from President Jimmy Carter.)

On this date:

In 1789, President George Washington signed a Judiciary Act establishing America's federal court system and creating the post of attorney general.

In 1869, thousands of businessmen were ruined in a Wall Street panic known as "Black Friday" after financiers Jay Gould and James Fisk attempted to corner the gold market.

In 1896, author F. Scott Fitzgerald was born in St. Paul, Minnesota.

In 1934, Babe Ruth made his farewell appearance as a player with the New York Yankees in a game against the Boston Red Sox. (The Sox won, 5-0.)

In 1960, the USS Enterprise, the first nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, was launched at Newport News, Virginia. "The Howdy Doody Show" ended a nearly 13-year run with its final telecast on NBC.

In 1968, the TV news magazine "60 Minutes" premiered on CBS; the undercover police drama "The Mod Squad" premiered on ABC.

In 1969, the trial of the Chicago Eight (later seven) began. (Five were later convicted of crossing state lines to incite riots at the 1968 Democratic convention, but the convictions were ultimately overturned.)

In 1988, Canadian sprinter Ben Johnson won the men's 100-meter dash at the Seoul (sohl) Summer Olympics — but he was disqualified three days later for using anabolic steroids. Members of the eastern Massachusetts Episcopal diocese elected Barbara C. Harris the first female bishop in the church's history.

In 1996, the United States and 70 other countries became the first to sign a treaty at the United Nations to end all testing and development of nuclear weapons. (The Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban Treaty has yet to enter into force because of the refusal so far of eight nations — including the United States — to ratify it.)

In 2001, President George W. Bush ordered a freeze on the assets of 27 people and organizations with suspected links to terrorism, including Islamic militant Osama bin Laden, and urged other nations to do likewise.

In 2002, British Prime Minister Tony Blair asserted that Iraq had a growing arsenal of chemical and biological weapons and planned to use them, as he unveiled an intelligence dossier to a special session of Parliament.

In 2007, United Auto Workers walked off the job at General Motors plants in the first nationwide strike during auto contract negotiations since 1976; a tentative pact ended the walkout two days later.

Ten years ago: With President Barack Obama presiding, the U.N. Security Council unanimously endorsed a sweeping strategy aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons and ultimately eliminating them. The heads of the Group of 20 nations began a two-day meeting in Pittsburgh aimed at making sure a fledgling global recovery remained on track.

Massachusetts Gov. Deval Patrick tapped former Democratic National Chairman Paul G. Kirk Jr. to temporarily fill the Senate seat held by the late Edward M. Kennedy. Susan Atkins, 61, a member of the Charles Manson "family" who admitted stabbing actress Sharon Tate to death in the cult's 1969 murder rampage, died in prison at Chowchilla, California.

Five years ago: At the opening of the U.N. General Assembly's annual ministerial meeting, Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon called for world leaders to join an international campaign to ease the plight of nearly unprecedented numbers of refugees, the displaced and victims of violence in a world wracked by wars and the swift-spreading and deadly Ebola epidemic. President Barack Obama implored the leaders to rally behind his expanded military campaign to stamp out the violent Islamic State group and its "network of death."

One year ago: China and the United States imposed new tariff hikes on each other's goods; U.S. regulators went ahead with a planned 10 percent tax on $200 billion worth of Chinese imports, and China said it responded with taxes on $60 billion in American goods. As the president and top GOP lawmakers continued an aggressive drive to rally the public behind his Supreme Court nomination, Brett Kavanaugh reiterated to Fox News that he had never sexually assaulted anyone.

Today's Birthdays: Rhythm-and-blues singer Sonny Turner (The Platters) is 80. Singer Barbara Allbut Brown (The Angels) is 79. Singer Phyllis "Jiggs" Allbut Sirico (The Angels) is 77. Singer Gerry Marsden (Gerry and the Pacemakers) is 77. News anchor Lou Dobbs is 74. Keenum in the third quarter and returned it 59 yards.

JUST FOR KICKS

Piñeiro, who was questionable because of a knee injury suffered while lifting weights, missed a 44-yard field goal attempt in the third quarter and was good from 38 yards in the fourth. "Eddy Money" was 4 of 4 going into the night, including a 53-yard game-winner at Denver in Week 2.

MONDAY NIGHT SADNESS

The Redskins lost their eighth consecutive Monday night game, tying for the second-longest streak in league history. They've now lost 17 of their past 18 Monday night home games.

INJURIES

Bears: DT Akiem Hicks left early in the fourth quarter with a knee injury. ... RT Bobby Massie was a surprise scratch with what coach Matt Nagy called "a small case of vertigo." ... DE Bilal Nichols was out with a broken hand.
Redskins: TE Jordan Reed (concussion) missed a third consecutive game, and CB Quinton Dunbar (knee) was out for the second week in a row.

UP NEXT

Bears: Host former Redskins QB Kirk Cousins and the Minnesota Vikings on Sunday.
Redskins: Look to avoid an 0-4 start when they visit Daniel Jones and the New York Giants on Sunday.
