Recognizing Big Spring Royalty, creativity in the Class of 2020

Herald Staff Report

The Class of 2020 was handed a rather peculiar hand when it came to their senior year. With an international pandemic sweeping in unexpectedly, the second semester of the 2019-2020 school year came to a screeching halt at Spring Break. Distance learning was how Howard County students concluded their year, and in that, the Senior class lost the opportunity to make traditional memories. However, due to the hard work and creative planning of Big Spring ISD administration, staff and parents, the Class of 2020 was still able to experience a graduation ceremony and prom. This year, Big Spring held their graduation at Memorial Stadium - that last class to graduate at Memorial Stadium was the Class of 1978 - under the stars and the stadium lights, with a full moon rising. The seniors not only were able to walk the stage, but they had their very own parade through town - Comanche Trail Park to Memorial Stadium - showing their Steer Pride across the community.

Through a generous donation, one lucky senior was awarded $100 for best

66 local businesses, 161 families supported by Big Spring Area Community Foundation COVID relief

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

In a time of uncertainty, low oil prices, and pandemic sweeping across the nation, financial security is a concern that is plaguing many homes across the nation; Big Spring is no different. Big Spring Area Community Foundation - serving Big Spring since 2001 - has been provided a unique opportunity during this pandemic to extend assistance to local businesses and local families. In the past year, the BSACF awarded over $474,000 in grants, scholarships, and agency funds.

The Big Spring Area Community Foundation awarded COVID-19 relief grants to 66 qualifying businesses along with a grant to the City of Big Spring to assist 161 individuals by paying their residential utility water bills that were past due on June 1, 2020.

"As a business owner, you never ever want to experience anything like this and never during your first year in operation. We saw a 60% drop in revenue overnight," Kelly Owens, owner of Locals 79720, said. "It means the world to us to have the support of the Community Foundation with this grant. It gives us a kick start and we're keeping our lights on and staff employed."

The BSACF annually awards grants in compliance with Internal Revenue Service (IRS) rules to local non-profits who address community causes and needs. The Foundation was only able to award relief grants this year to assist small businesses and

Former State Trooper Kenneth Reed arrested

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Former State Trooper Kenneth Reed Jr., 51, was arrested by the Lubbock Police Department on June 3, 2020, for online solicitation of prostitution.

"Our department takes allegations like this very seriously, and Reed was immediately suspended after his arrest. He has since retired and is no longer employed with the department," according to a statement from the Texas Department of Public Safety.

According to the arrest report from the Lubbock Police Department an undercover police officer was contacted from an ad posted online and Reed began communicating and made arrangements to meet at the listed location. At the scene Reed knowingly agreed to pay a fee for the purpose of engaging in sexual conduct with the undercover police officer. Reed was arrested and transported to the Lubbock County Jail.

According to arrest records, Reed posted bond and was released on June 4.

Marj Carpenter

Marj Carpenter, a pioneer woman journalist in America and former Moderator of the 207th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church USA, died on June 13, 2020. During her tenure as Moderator and News Director of the Presbyterian Church, Marj traveled to over 126 countries to eyewitness what the church was doing in mission around the world. She became known as the "Voice of the Missionaries".

Marj served as head of the Presbyterian News Service from 1979 through 1985 in Atlanta, Georgia, and at the church headquarters in Louisville, Kentucky, from 1985 through 1994. During her final year with the News Service, she served as mission interpreter and spoke to thousands of churches over a period of several years throughout the world on "Mission, Mission, Mission!"

Marj also had 28 years as a field reporter with newspapers in Pecos, Texas, Andrews, Texas, and Big Spring, Texas, and was recognized throughout West Texas as a key journalist, historian, and supporter of the region. She first gained national recognition as a result of her role as a key reporter on "The Pecos Independent" which helped expose the activities of Billie Sol Estes in the 1960s.

In 1991 and 1992 she served as president of the National Federation of Press Women and was once named Communicator of the Year in the United States.

Marj was born in Mercedes, Texas, on Aug. 23, 1926, the daughter of Walter and Beatrice Collier. She graduated as valedictorian of Mercedes High School in 1943. Three years later, she graduated Summa Cum Laude from Texas A & I University in Kingsville, Texas, with a Bachelors degree in Music. Marj also holds three honorary doctorate degrees from Austin College, Presbyterian College in Clinton, S.C., and Presbyterian Women's University in Seoul, Korea.

She has authored two mission books, "To the Ends of the Earth", and "And a Little Bit Farther." She also wrote a book of her life stories entitled "Get Your Foot Out of the Durn Petunias." Her "Big Spring Herald" newspaper features were published in two volumes called "Ridin' Fence". Marj has been featured in several books, including P.J. Pierce's "Texas Wise Women Speak: "Let Me Tell You What I've Learned" and Kay Bailey Hutchison's book, "American Heroines." She also has received numerous awards, including "Woman of the Year" in Big Spring, Texas, the Bell-McKay Mission Award, and over 130 journalism awards, including the Associated Press Community Service Award based on her follow-up of the Billie Sol Estes scandal in West Texas.

Marj was a member and elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring, Texas, and has been active in many churches in America, with special focus on church youth. She actively supported both the Girl and Boy Scouts of America for over 50 years.

Survivors include daughter, Carolyn Carpenter Stewart and her husband, Bo, of Winnsboro, Texas, son, Jim Bob Carpenter of Osprey, Florida, three grandchildren, Chad Carpenter of Houston, Texas, Cody Carpenter and wife Camille, of Lubbock, Texas, and Dusty Carpenter of Bradenton, Florida. She was preceded in death by her daughter, Catherine Carpenter, her husband, C.T. Carpenter, Jr., her parents, one brother, and a sister.

Services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring, Texas, at 10 AM on June 18th. Arrangements will be with Myers and Smith Funeral Home Funeral Home of Big Spring. Visitation will be at Myers and Smith Chapel on Wednesday, June 17th, from 1 PM to 7 PM.

Pall bearers are Don Dillingham, James Horton, Kent Ivey, Doug Mays, Mike Thomas, and John Yater. Honorary pall bearers are Paschal and Jack Odom, Jerry Worthy, Jerry Grimes, Joe Horton, Mark Richardson, Jim Weaver, and Clarence Hartfield.

Memorials may be sent to the music department of the First Presbyterian Church of Big Spring, Texas, the Heritage Museum in Big Spring, Texas, or to the Overseas Mission Agency, Presbyterian Church USA, 100 Witherspoon, Louisville, Kentucky 40202, or to the Presbyterian Outreach Foundation at 381 Riverside Drive, Suite 110, Franklin, Tennessee 37607.

Alison Flores was the winner of the car decorating contest for the Big Spring Senior Parade on Graduation Night.

She is currently attending Midland College to pursue a career in sonography.

"Graduation night was sadly different, but it was definitely a great long night for all of us to remember to tell in the future," Flores said. "Winning the parade contest was quite a shock for me and everyone who helped put it together. The idea with the mask and eyes was a very last minute thing to come early that morning and with the help of my family that afternoon we managed to get it done. I'm so grateful that they went out of their way to follow crazy directions from me."

In addition to the graduation memories, this past weekend, Seniors were able to enjoy their last prom. During the festivities, the tradition of crowning King and Queen, along with Prince and Princess took place.

This year, the Prom King was awarded to Anthony Sarmiento - class valedictorian - and Queen was Sophia Dominguez. The Prince and Princess were Zaiyah Solis and Taralyn Perkins.

Now that the semester has ended, diplomas have been handed out, and the Class of 2020 has closed the chapter on their high school years and is ready to embark on the next part of the journey.

individuals impacted by COVID-19 due to the pandemic being declared a national emergency by the Federal Government. During nationally declared emergencies or disasters, IRS regulations allow public charities to provide assistance for individuals and businesses impacted by the crisis.

"In these unprecedented times, the Big Spring Area Community Foundation feel it vitally important to offer a financial bridge to businesses and families of Big Spring," Tommy Churchwell, Board Member of the Big Spring Area Community Foundation, said. "Through donations made to the foundation, we are able to support projects for Big Spring, and look forward to more opportunities to enhance quality of life in our area."

According to a press release, the BSACF awarded 22 scholarships, 66 COVID-19 relief grants, and one grant to the City of Big Spring to assist 161 individuals with past due utility bills, and four agency funds provided throughout Big Spring and the surrounding counties.

The Big Spring Area Community Foundation's mission is to create personal, permanent, and powerful legacies with charitable funds customized to meet their philanthropic goals.

A New Commandment

Tom Sloan

“A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.” John 13:34

Jesus called it a new love commandment because our love for one another is supposed to reflect and represent His love for us. Jesus called it “a new way to love” because it was different than the old commandment which stated – thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. But what am I supposed to do on the days that I don’t love myself so much?

This new love commandment is not based on our performance, but on Christ all-sufficient finished work on the cross. It is a new commandment because of how Christ loved us – unconditionally. This is not the human way to love which is based on “do good to get good”.

It is the Christ way, the way He loved me when I was His enemy. He loved me when I was morally bankrupt, unfaithful and drowning in the darkness of my own bitter hopelessness.

Jesus was able to love me in this fashion because He is the end of the Law for righteousness to all who believe.

The Apostle Paul says that where there is no Law, there is no transgression (no sin). And when Jesus died on the cross, He became the end of the Law, thus, clearing the way for His unconditional love for us.

I can love my neighbour even when I don’t feel like it because all I have to do is remember how Jesus has loved me.

Jesus’ new commandment is more than a fact to be learned or a feeling to be felt, it is a purpose to be lived. But we don’t fulfill this purpose on our own, by our own merits or strength.

We love Him because He first loved us and, in this love, which came to us, we can love each other as He has loved us.

‘When does it stop?’ Slain man's family makes tearful plea

ATLANTA (AP) — Pleading through tears Monday, the family of a black man killed by Atlanta police outside a drive-thru demanded changes in the criminal justice system and called on protesters to refrain from violence amid heightened tensions across the U.S. three weeks after George Floyd’s death in Minneapolis.

An autopsy found that 27-year-old Rayshard Brooks was shot twice in the back late Friday by a white officer who was trying to arrest him at a fast-food restaurant for being intoxicated behind the wheel of his car.

Brooks tried to flee after wrestling with officers and grabbing a Taser from one of them.

“Not only are we hurt, we are angry,” said Chassidy Evans, Brooks’ niece. “When does it stop? We’re not only pleading for justice. We’re pleading for change.”

About 20 of Brooks’ children, siblings, cousins and other family members sobbed at a news conference as more than 1,000 people gathered not far away at an NAACP-led protest outside the Georgia Capitol.

Floyd’s death May 25 after a white Minneapolis officer put his knee on the black man’s neck touched off demonstrations and scattered violence across the U.S., and Brooks’ killing rekindled those protests in Atlanta. The Wendy’s restaurant where Brooks was shot was burned down over the weekend.

Evans said there was no reason for her uncle “to be shot and killed like trash in the street for falling asleep in a drive-thru.”

“Rayshard has a family who loves him who would have gladly come and got him so he would be here with us today,” she said.

Relatives described Brooks as a loving father of three daughters and a stepson who had a bright smile and a big heart and loved to dance.

His oldest daughter learned her father was slain while celebrating her eighth birthday with cupcakes and friends, wearing a special dress as she waited for Brooks to take her skating, said Justin Miller, an attorney for the family.

“There’s no justice that can ever make me feel happy about what’s been done,” said Tomika Miller, Brooks’ widow. “I can never get my husband back. ... I can never tell my daughter he’s coming to take you skating or for swimming lessons.”

She asked those demonstrating in the streets to “keep the protesting peaceful,” saying:

“We want to keep his name positive and great.”

The NAACP protest took place as lawmakers were returning to work after a three-month coronavirus shutdown. Several Democratic lawmakers joined protesters and called for Georgia to pass reforms including the repeal of the state’s citizen’s arrest and stand-your-ground laws.

While some Republican leaders in Georgia pushed back against swift action on some proposals, GOP House Speaker David Ralston endorsed rapid passage of a hate-crimes law, telling lawmakers that failure to act would be “a stain on this state we can never wash away.”

Morgan Dudley, 18, skipped work to join the Capitol demonstration after her job kept her from joining prior Atlanta protests following Floyd’s death.

“I was like, ‘You know what? This is not a trend. This is an actual problem that we’re facing,’” said Dudley, who is black.

Cities across the U.S. are responding to calls for reform while the protests set off by the death in Minneapolis continue.

In Chicago, Mayor Lori Lightfoot said a panel of residents, activists and one police official will review the police department’s policy on when officers can use force. Albuquerque, New Mexico, Mayor Tim Keller said he wants a new department of social workers and civilian professionals to provide another option when someone calls 911.

And New Jersey’s attorney general ordered police in the state to begin publicly divulging names of officers who commit serious disciplinary violations.

After Brooks’ killing, Officer Garrett Rolfe, who fired the fatal shots, was fired, and the other officer at the scene, Devin Brosnan, was put on desk duty. Police Chief Erika Shields resigned a day after the shooting.

Fulton County District Attorney Paul Howard said he hopes to decide by midweek whether to charge the officers.

The Georgia Bureau of Investigation was put in charge of the investigation.

Police had been called to the fast-food restaurant because of complaints that a car was blocking the drive-thru lane. An officer found Brooks asleep in the car.

Police video showed Brooks cooperating with the officers for more than 40 minutes until a breath test determined his blood-alcohol level was over the legal limit. When one of the officers moved to handcuff him, Brooks tried to run and the officers took him to the ground.

Brooks broke free and took off with a Taser but was shot. Rolfe told authorities that Brooks had fired the Taser at him. Asked why Brooks ran, family attorney L. Chris Stewart suggested he may have feared for his life.

“They put George Floyd in handcuffs and he was subsequently killed,” Stewart said.

“So just getting put in handcuffs if you’re African American doesn’t mean, oh, you’re going to get nicely taken to the back of a police car.”

Federal Reserve launches corporate bond-buying program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve said Monday that it will begin purchasing corporate bonds as part of a previously-announced plan to ensure companies can borrow through the bond market during the pandemic.

The program will purchase existing bonds on the open market, as opposed to newly-issued debt. The central bank said will seek to build a “broad and diversified” portfolio that will mimic a bond-market index. The bonds will have to be from highly-rated, investment-grade companies, or firms that fit that description before the viral outbreak struck.

The announcement boosted the stock market, which was already rebounding from early losses. The Dow Jones rose 0.8% in afternoon trading.

The Fed’s purchases should hold down corporate bond yields, making it cheaper for companies to borrow. But by also lowering the return from investing in those bonds, the Fed’s actions will likely encourage investors to shift money from corporate bonds to stocks in hopes of achieving a higher return.

When the Fed announced its bond-purchase program in March, few companies were able to issue bonds. Banks and other large investors were dumping assets in favor of cash. New research has found that simply by announcing the program, the Fed was able to encourage more bond trading and improve the market’s efficiency.

The Fed has said it will buy up to $750 billion of corporate bonds and exchange-traded funds made up of corporate bonds. The Treasury Department has provided the Fed $75 billion of taxpayer funds to offset any losses that occur from the investments.

Separately, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston said Monday that banks can now register to participate in the Fed’s Main Street Lending program, which is intended to funnel more credit to small and medium-sized businesses.

Under the Main Street facility, the Fed will buy 95% of a loan from a participating bank, which removes most credit risk from the bank and frees up more capital for lending. The loans can be made to companies that either have up to 15,000 employees or $5 billion in revenue.

Lenders “are encouraged to begin making Main Street program loans immediately,” the Boston Fed said.

Treasury has also provided $75 billion to offset losses on Main Street loans, which can range from $250,000 to $300 million. The Fed has said it will spend up to $600 billion on Main Street. Fed officials have depicted the program as one targeted to companies that may be too large for the government’s small business loan program, and too small for the government’s bond buying program.

Coahoma coaches and players happy to be back working out with their teams

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sportswriter

The Coahoma Bulldogs and Bulldogettes began their second week of summer workouts this week and there has been a great turnout every day. On the first day of workout, 175 student-athletes showed up ready and prepared to work off any unwanted gains that might have happened over the three months all of the student-athletes were stuck at home.

During the beginning of the second week of workouts, the attendance at Coahoma still remained high. Each group was split up into eight athletes and worked on their own, separate drills during the two-hour workout. While one group was working on drills such as lunges and high-knees, another would be doing 10-yard sprints or scissor kicks. The emphasis of the workouts on Monday morning seemed to be focused on explosiveness and working on getting up to full speed quicker.

Coahoma is in the morning with all high school student-athletes in the morning and then the junior high athletes later in the day. Around 5:30 each day, student-athletes who had summer classes or were just unable to make it to the morning workouts because of differing circumstances are able to go up to the school and get their workout in.

On Monday morning, the boys and girls were training in separate groups on opposite sides of the field with a handful of coaches that included Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Chris Joslin. All groups would rotate after about 20 minutes at each station and head to the next coach leading the next drill.

Inside the weight room, Coach Coley Dobbs was leading half of the athletes through upper-body lifts and half of them through lower-body lifts. The room seemed to have great energy and it was obvious that all of the a Coahoma student-athletes were happy to be back with their coaches and teammates.

"All of our athletes are really close so it's finally be back with them and working hard," Bulldogette Julia Canales said. "We're out here working harder than we were last year and we're going to come back better than we were last year."

Bulldog Patrick Gutierrez added, "It feels amazing. Just getting to see everybody from the team and getting back to it and getting everybody ready. It just feels really good."

All of the guidelines set forth by the University Interscholastic League (UIL) were being followed with all of the athletes having plenty of space between them, hand sanitizer spread throughout the field and weight room, and a Coach disinfecting the bar after each lift.

These workouts are a welcome change for the Bulldogs and Bulldogettes who show up every morning to break a sweat and get themselves back into athletic shape. After three months of virtual meetings with coaches and working out on their own at home, it was obvious how much each student-athlete was enjoying themselves while working out alongside their teammates on Monday morning.

What kind of workouts were these Coahoma athletes doing during their isolated time?

"I was working out about twice-a-day and then I would go and do about a two-to-three mile run and finish it off with some sprints," Gutierrez said.

Canales added, "I ran a lot. I definitely ran a lot. The mountain helped out with that."

Even though everyone is glad to be back around their friends, teammates and coaches, there is still some energy to be desired during workouts from a small number of athletes.

"Don't be lazy," Joslin could be heard yelling at some athletes giving lackluster energy on the field.

Even though the school is now in Week Two of the return of summer workouts, there is still plenty of work to be done and progress to be made. Over the past week, it has become obvious which athletes were still working out over the three-month break and which ones decided not to.

That is an issue for high school coaches that is currently happening around the country with the return of student-athletes. The majority of the Coahoma student-athletes seem to be following the flow of the drills consistently without any issues.

Coahoma will continue to work hard every day during this summer (excluding some mandatory off-days) and the future of the red and white looks bright. Even though it is a smaller school, the amount of dedication and energy shown by the Bulldogs and Bulldogettes to be at the school working out every morning during the summer is impressive and something every 3A school would like to have.

Joslin and his staff will continue to coach up their student-athletes over the next couple of months and will look to achieve more than their record-setting athletic programs from a year ago.

NFL commissioner Goodell encourages team to sign Kaepernick

By JOE REEDY

AP Sports Writer

Roger Goodell would like to see Colin Kaepernick back in the NFL this season.

The NFL commissioner said during ESPN's "The Return of Sports" special on Monday that he is encouraging teams to sign the 32-year old quarterback, who hasn't played the past three seasons. Kaepernick was with the San Francisco 49ers in 2016 when he knelt during the national anthem to protest racial injustice.

"If he wants to resume his career in the NFL, then obviously it's gonna take a team to make that decision. I welcome that, support a club making that decision and encourage them to do that," Goodell said during his interview with ESPN's Mike Greenberg.

Seattle Seahawks coach Pete Carroll said last week that he received a call from another team about Kaepernick. Carroll and the Seahawks brought in Kaepernick for a workout in 2017 and had another session in 2018 before it was canceled.

Goodell set up a tryout for Kaepernick in Atlanta last year for scouts of all 32 teams to attend, but it unraveled at the last moment due to lack of media access and what Kaepernick's representatives saw as an unusual liability waiver. Instead of the workout taking place at the Falcons' training complex, Kaepernick conducted an impromptu session at a high school in front of media and scouts from eight teams.

Opening lead — two of hearts.

There are times when a defender must have the courage of his convictions and make a play that sacrifices a trick in the interests of defeating the contract. For a prime example, take this case where West had to play exceptionally well to achieve the desired goal.

West made the normal lead of a heart against three notrump. Declarer played low from dummy, and East won with the king. When East returned the ten of hearts, South followed low, whereupon West made the extraordinary play of the queen of hearts!

West knew that he was handing South an extra heart trick by overtaking his partner's ten with the queen, since declarer was marked with the heart jack. But West realized that if he allowed East's ten to hold the trick, his partner would be unable to lead a third heart to force out dummy's ace.

Declarer could do no better than take the heart queen with the ace, lead a club to his ace and return a diamond. West followed low, of course, and dummy's ten won the trick.

South's only remaining hope now was that the opposing clubs were divided 3-3, so he played the king and another club. But when the clubs proved to be divided 4-2, he had to go down one.

Now let's go back to trick two and see what would have happened if West didn't overtake East's ten of hearts with the queen. The ten wins, and East probably shifts to a low spade at trick three. Declarer wins, forces out the ace of diamonds and winds up with nine tricks consisting of four diamonds, two spades, two clubs and a heart.

Tomorrow: Sylvia hits the jackpot.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

qualities are always inside you, just waiting for permission to emerge, when actually, they don't really need it.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 16). Your year swings between dealings in matters of depth and importance to adventures in the lighter side of life. The months to come bring events, relationships and environments that allow you to cut loose of your cares in levity and laughter. Changes in work will inspire your stellar performance. You'll earn trust and position. Leo and Aquarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 3, 35, 25, 18 and 16.

like today when the small picture reflects the big picture. The mountain is climbed one upward step at a time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Be like the great entertainers. Meld your sense of what the audience wants with your own appetites and gifts. If you only give what they want, you're pandering. If you only give what you want, there won't be a deal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Nothing provides an energy rush like adrenaline, and nothing brings out your adrenaline like other people's expectations. You'll be able to accomplish much more when there's social pressure involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Ennui is like a solicitor ignoring all the neighborhood signs. When he comes knocking at your door, don't let him in. Don't even go to the door. Find something creative to do and he'll go away.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). In the mood for a risk, you'll be testing your own limits. As your attitude tilts toward daredevil-ish, will you be enchanted or alarmed? Maybe a little of both, and that's the point.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). There are people who seem to make you feel bold and playful, although those

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "I am going through some major overwhelming changes. My husband relocated to another state for work, and I will give my two-week notice shortly. I just feel that I am not going to find work where my husband is. My birth date is April 10, 1975. What do you see happening?"

Put your worry in a box; tape it up; and get on with handling the other boxes in front of you. With four luminaries in Aries, the sign of beginner's luck, you needn't fear change. It's very positive for you to move every few years, and you'll usually find that such a move invigorates every aspect of your life. Your Venus in stable Taurus indicates that when you're in uncharted territory, your love relationship will be your rock. You can't go wrong making your love relationship your priority. I believe that you will find work and it will be even better and more enriching in many ways than the work you're doing now. Moving is stressful enough without adding your fears about the future to the mix.

Mind Your Sneeze

Dear Annie: Throughout the coronavirus pandemic, my husband doesn't cough or sneeze into his arm. He sometimes coughs into his hand. No matter how hard I try to instill in him how he could be affecting everyone in the household, he argues that it's bull.

His excuses include that he doesn't want to get his shirt sleeve or bare arm messed up, or that he forgets. Is there any way you can put in print how important this is? Thank you. -- Mind Your Manners

Dear Mind Your Manners: Your husband might say that your requests are baloney, but it sounds like he is being the bully here. Sneezing into his hand is disgusting and affects everyone around him. Continue to tell him to knock it off, and if need be, schedule a call with your medical doctor, who can go over the importance of using a tissue or sneezing into your elbow. Tell your husband that if he has to sneeze, he should excuse himself and get as far away from everyone as possible. You might also want to invest in a good, old-fashioned handkerchief.

Dear Annie: This is regarding the woman who had a problem with her sister's husband, who refused to come into the house to a gathering because he would have to take off his shoes. You are probably right that he is a stubborn louse.

But here is another thought that people who have historic wood floors in a house surrounded by gravel should consider. They can acquire shoe coverings in several sizes, like the ones house tours sometimes require, and offer them to visitors if they are uncomfortable in their stocking feet for whatever reason.

My sister has those. She bought them because I have had major reconstructive foot surgery on both feet, which means that I have no natural padding in my heels.

I only wear tie shoes with supportive inserts to support and cushion my feet. If I were to have to go just with socks on a hardwood floor, I would gingerly hobble to the nearest chair and sit there the whole party.

To avoid ever having to do this, I keep a few of the coverings from my sister in the car so I can go back and get them if need be. However, I have never had to get them, because my other friends are tolerant of my shoes, even though they and other guests are in stocking feet.

People who have never had such foot problems may not realize the torture that going in stocking feet could be causing someone else. -- A Sister With Extreme Foot Problems

Dear Foot Problems: Disposable booties are a great suggestion. Thank you!

This Date In History

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, June 16, the 168th day of 2020. There are 198 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On June 16, 1996, Russian voters went to the polls in their first independent presidential election; the result was a runoff between President Boris Yeltsin (the eventual winner) and Communist challenger Gennady Zyuganov (geh-NAH'dee zyooh-GAH'-nawf).

On this date:

- In 1567, Mary, Queen of Scots, was imprisoned in Lochleven Castle in Scotland. (She escaped almost a year later but ended up imprisoned again.)
- In 1858, accepting the Illinois Republican Party's nomination for the U.S. Senate, Abraham Lincoln said the slavery issue had to be resolved, declaring, "A house divided against itself cannot stand."
- In 1883, baseball's first "Ladies' Day" took place as the New York Gothams offered women free admission to a game against the Cleveland Spiders. (New York won, 5-2.)
- In 1903, Ford Motor Co. was incorporated.
- In 1911, IBM had its beginnings as the Computing-Tabulating-Recording Co. which was incorporated in New York State.
- In 1932, President Herbert Hoover and Vice President Charles Curtis were renominated at the Republican National Convention in Chicago.
- In 1933, the National Industrial Recovery Act became law with President Franklin D. Roosevelt's signature. (The Act was later struck down by the U.S. Supreme Court.) The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was founded as President Roosevelt signed the Banking Act of 1933.
- In 1963, the world's first female space traveler, Valentina Tereshkova (teh-rushsh-KOH'-vuh), 26, was launched into orbit by the Soviet Union aboard Vostok 6; Tereshkova spent 71 hours in flight, circling the Earth 48 times before returning safely.
- On June 16, 1967, the three-day Monterey International Pop Music Festival, a major event of the "Summer of Love," opened in northern California; among the featured acts were Jefferson Airplane, The Who, the Grateful Dead, the Jimi Hendrix Experience, Janis Joplin, Otis Redding and Ravi Shankar.

In 1970, Kenneth A. Gibson of Newark, N.J., became the first black politician elected mayor of a major Northeast city. Chicago Bears running back Brian Piccolo, 26, died at a New York hospital after battling cancer.

In 1978, President Jimmy Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos (toh-REE'-ohs) signed the instruments of ratification for the Panama Canal treaties during a ceremony in Panama City.

In 1987, a jury in New York acquitted Bernhard Goetz (bur-NAHRD' gehnts) of attempted murder in the subway shooting of four youths he said were going to rob him; however, Goetz was convicted of illegal weapons possession. (In 1996, a civil jury ordered Goetz to pay $43 million to one of the persons he had shot.)

Ten years ago: After meeting with President Barack Obama at the White House, BP Chairman Carl-Henric Svahnberg announced the oil giant was establishing a $20 billion claim fund and suspending dividends as he insisted, "We care about the small people." Movie director Ronald Neame ("The Poseidon Adventure") died in Los Angeles at age 99.

Five years ago: Real estate mogul Donald Trump launched his successful campaign to become president of the United States with a speech at Trump Tower in Manhattan.

One year ago: The England captained the U.S. Open golf tournament in Pebble Beach, California, holding off two-time defending champion Brooks Koepka for a three-shot victory. A massive blackout left tens of millions of people without electricity in Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay in what Argentina's president called an "unprecedented" failure in the countries' power grid; most people had their power back on by evening.

Today's Birthdays: Actress Eileen Atkins is 86. Actor Bill Cobbs is 86. Author Joyce Carol Oates is 82. Country singer Billy "Crash" Craddock is 82. Songwriter Lamont Dozier is 79. Rhythm and blues singer Eddie Levert is 78. Actress Joan Van Ark is 77. Actor Geoff Pierson is 71. Rhythm and blues singer James Smith (formerly w/The Stylistics) is

70. Boxing Hall of Famer Roberto Duran is 69. Pop singer Gino Vannelli is 68. Actress Laurie Metcalf is 65. Actor Arnold Vosloo is 58. Actor Danny Burstein is 56. Model-actress Jenny Shimizu is 53.
