As a reminder, until further notice, the City of Big Spring offices are only open by appointment only and electronic communication is encouraged.

Isaiah 58 seeking volunteers in efforts to extend donation times and days

By IRIS RANGEL
 Herald Staff Writer

The local non-profit food bank in Big Spring, Isaiah 58, has a mission to feed the needy and provide for the less fortunate. In order to maintain contributing to the residents of Howard County, Isaiah 58 is heavily seeking volunteers who wish to aide in their efforts to leave no Howard County citizen hungry.

Isaiah 58 has serviced the Big Spring area for 24 years and has become a foundational organization in many of the lives that live here in Howard County.

"We don't want people to think: do I get to pay my phone bill, or my light bill, or get medicine for my baby, or do I get food? We want you to know that you're going to get food. We have enough people here in Big Spring that have given out food that no one should be hungry," CEO/President of Isaiah 58 Nancy Stinson said. "We just know that Isaiah 58 has been shown in a light that we must keep. We will be here, and we're going to continue to be here to make sure everyone is full."

Founder and church member Paul Smith formed the food bank to ensure that everyone in Big Spring has food in their pantry and never went hungry. His mission lives on decades later with Isaiah 58 providing food donations every Tuesday from 9 - 11 a.m. to all Big Spring residents. Food basket donations include fresh meat, produce, and other various supplemental food provided to Isaiah 58 from the West Texas Food Bank. Each donation is free of charge and given through a drive-thru style distribution located at 809 Scurry Street.

Isaiah 58 is located at 809 Scurry Street and provides donations to the public every Tuesday from 9 to 11 a.m.

"I wish that our words get out far and near and we get those people in that need that help. I pray that we will be able to bless everyone in this community in some state, form, or fashion. We want to bless, and in order to be that blessing, we need some blessings poured out upon us as well," Stinson said.

With the current pandemic taking its toll on all small business types, Isaiah 58 was closed for several weeks earlier this year, but is facing a heavy challenge with bouncing back into

Thanksgiving safety, travel precautions

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Families are preparing to gather together for Thanksgiving meal, and for many it will be the first time gathering since the onset of the pandemic. This year, while it is important to remember key safety measures to ensure the slow of spreading the coronavirus, but it's also important to not forget key safety measures when it comes to the festivities.

The National Fire Protection Association offers several articles focused on Thanksgiving safety with one of the main focuses being on cooking safety. According to the NFPA, cooking fires are the number one cause of home fires and home injuries.

For those who will be handling the cooking this holiday season, it's important to remember to be on alert. The person doing the cooking should not be consuming alcohol and should have had a good night's rest.

Regular checks of the food, whether you be simmering, baking or roasting are recommended, as well as close supervision of frying, boiling and grilling foods. The use of a timer is recommended to help, especially if there is more than one dish being cooked at once. When using oven mitts, drying towels or other flammable materials be sure to keep them off the stove area once it is hot.

According to the NFPA, the leading cause of fires is kitchen is unattended cooking and most cooking fires in the home involve the kitchen stove.

In the event of a fire, even a small one, the NFPA recommends that the house be cleared if there is any doubt of your ability of putting the fire out. When the house is exited make sure to close the door to help contain the fire, and immediately call 911.

If a small greasefire were to start on the stovetop, smother the flames by sliding a lid over the pan and turning off the burner. Make sure the oven is turned off and keep the door closed until the area has cooled.

According to statistics provided by the NFPA, in 2018, there were an estimated 1,630 fires responded to across the United States. Thanksgiving Day is the peak day for fires with the next busy time being Christmas. In those fires, cooking caused almost half of all reported home fires and home fire injuries and is the second leading cause of home fire deaths between 2014-2018.

For those who will be traveling this holiday season or even planning a get together, the CDC has offered up a few safety tips. According to statistics, in the past week there were more than a million new Covid-19 cases in the United States. With increased cases and no real end in sight, the CDC says the safest way to celebrate this Thanksgiving is with those living in your household.

Region J exceeds 15% hospitalization for Covid cases

Editor's Note: The City of Big Spring recently announced that Region J has surpassed the 15% hospitalization rate for Covid-19 cases, for seven consecutive days. With the increase in cases, per the Governor's Orders, the guidelines state that occupancy rate for establishments must roll back to 50% capacity from the current 75% capacity. The press release issued is as follows:

region's hospitalization rate exceeds 15% for seven consecutive days, that region must impose stricter COVID-19 guidelines.

Howard County is a part of region J for the state of Texas; on Nov. 15, 2020, Region J went above the 15% hospitalization rate for COVID-19 patients. On Nov. 23, 2020, Region J remained above a 15% hospitalization rate. Pursuant to GA-31 and by order of Governor Greg Abbott, Big Spring and Howard County must reduce the occupancy rate for non-exempt businesses from 75 percent capacity to 50 percent capacity.

Bars and similar establishments that hold a permit from the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission (TABC) and are not restaurants may offer on-premises services at up to 50 percent of the establishments total listed occupancy.

Patrons at bars and similar establishments operating under these guidelines may eat or drink only while seated.

Staff members are not included when determining operating levels with the exception of manufacturing services and office workers. The Governor's Order GA-32 provides more specific instruction about this change.

These guidelines take effect in Howard County at 12:00 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 24, 2020.

normal distribution hours due to a low number of volunteers willing to continue their mission.

"I need volunteers. I need volunteers badly. I would love to have volunteers that have that heart to come in and let me know that they're all in. I would really like the younger people in our community to start coming out because they are our future," she said.

If more volunteers came forward to aide in Isaiah 58's pursuit, this would allow for extended hours of distribution or even possibly additional days of distribution, according to Stinson. According to Stinson, 10 volunteers will be needed in order to maintain a healthy distribution. Stinson is hoping to receive volunteer help from younger individuals in the community, as the donation baskets/boxes have grown heavier and more challenging to distribute for their current, older volunteers.

"It's not easy to keep these doors open. We've struggled just like everybody else and we were lucky enough this year that we were given grants to help families out with their bills. Unfortunately, we have run out of those types of funds. We're hoping and praying we'll get bigger grants this coming up year," Stinson said.

With the holiday season fast approaching, Isaiah 58's goals are seeming to become unclear with the current pandemic taking a toll on funding and donations as a whole. Stinson is looking to receive help from companies or individuals in the area in order to provide the less fortunate with a generous Thanksgiving and Christmas.

"If there is anyone out there that wants to help Isaiah 58 do something spectacular for Thanksgiving and Christmas, I would welcome that.

We're just trying to make sure that everyone has the best of the best that we can possibly offer," she said.

Stinson strongly encourages volunteers to come forward to help in their efforts for bettering the community and to make sure no family is left behind.

"Right now, we see such a need, and we just pray that we get that help. We just want to bless the community and have everybody be proud of Isaiah 58 and want to be a part of Isaiah 58," Stinson said.

The current board of Isaiah 58 is as follows:

- Nancy Stinson – CEO/President
- Cliff Stinson
- John Loveless – Finances
- Kelsie Armistead
- Caleb Loveless
- Clara Hilario
- Teresa Sanchez
- Lynn Johnson

Family gathering with those outside your household could increase the risk of spreading Covid-19 or other seasonal viruses, such as the flu.

For those who do decide to travel, the CDC encourages planning which includes checking the community levels of places you will be traveling through and your final destination. If public transportation is being used for travel it is recommended a mask be worn and frequent sanitation – hand washing or sanitizer – along the trip.

If possible gatherings should be held outside or in spaces large enough to allow for social distancing. If at all possible, limit the duration of the gathering. Statistics have shown those who have close interaction for more than 15 minutes are at a higher risk of exposure.

Those who have been diagnosed with Covid-19 or feel they have been exposed should not attend gatherings. Isolation for 14 days before attending a gathering is recommended to help ensure you are not spreading the virus. Also, the CDC recommends those with weakened immune systems or those at a higher risk of infection should also not attend gatherings. According to Big Spring Fire Department Fire Chief, this year - for the safety of loved ones - would be a good time to utilize the virtual connection that has been established.

"Scheduling a time to share a meal together virtually would allow families to gather around the table together while not putting anyone at risk, especially for those who have shown symptoms," Chief Ferguson said.

For those who normally do the holiday shopping after Thanksgiving, take the opportunity and explore online savings the day after Thanksgiving and days leading up to the Christmas holidays.

"Utilizing contactless services for purchased items is a good way to limit contact and help slow the spread while still taking care of your holiday shopping needs," he said.

For those who have neighbors who may be spending the holidays alone or for those just wanting to extend a kind gesture, deliver meals by leaving them on the porch which will help limit exposure, especially to those at high risk.

"Whether you are spending the holidays with just your family or even extending the invitation to a small group, clean and disinfect frequently touched surfaces and items between use to help limit the spread of germs," Ferguson said.

Showtime Steers defense stifles Andrews in 50-39 win on the road Tuesday night

ANDREWS — One day after being locked in a high-scoring affair where the Showtime Steers dropped 100 points, they were entrenched in a low-scoring defensive battle against the Andrews Mustangs that they won 50-39.

Tuesday night was not the best night for Big Spring offensively, but Head Coach Kris Hise is speaking it up to a job well done by the Andrews players and their coaching staff.

"(Andrews) did a fantastic job of keeping it slow and of slowing us down," Head Coach Kris Hise said. "I thought we also played good defense. Holding a team to less than 40 isn't bad. We just couldn't put the ball in the net."

Kyler Seymore led the Steers with 17 points as he dealt with a leg issue throughout the contest. Fellow starting guard Gavin Greathouse picked up everyone's slack on Tuesday night with a strong all-around performance. The quick and athletic guard scored 16 points while also grabbing six rebounds and six steals. Greathouse brought the energy early and often on Tuesday with everyone else following his lead.

Through the past two wins, two players outside of the consistently high-scoring Seymore have stepped up big for Hise and these strong early performances should help them as the season moves along. With an extremely deep bench where everyone sees the floor, there can be more performances like this one to expect from Greathouse, Chris Martinez, or any other of the Showtime Steer playmakers.

"Those good performances are going to help everyone get better. It opens up the floor when our guards can penetrate and finish at the hole," Hise said.

Andrews could not get anything going offensively until late in the game with Big Spring in foul trouble. The Showtime Steers played a high-intensity full-court press that put the pressure on the Mustang ball-handler and often forced them into a bad decision. Big Spring collected over 20 steals as a team and appeared to be bullying the Mustangs on the court at some points in the game.

The score was 19-14 at halftime with Big Spring leading and looking for a stronger offensive performance in the second half. They were able to do just that and outscored the Mustangs 18-6 in the third quarter. The defensive intensity that Big Spring was bringing was too much for Andrews to handle and the deep bench for the Steers allowed Hise to keep all of his players fresh on the court.

One thing that Big Spring was unable to do consistently on Tuesday night was get to the free throw line. In the first quarter, they spent plenty of time at the charity stripe and were racking up the easy points. Then, the Mustangs stopped fouling and made things more difficult on the Steers offensively.

Hise was able to come up with the best plan for his team and they continued to score by driving the lane or hitting midrange jump shots. Big Spring is still working themselves into shape, but have turned in an impressive last two performances. In those games, they have outscored their opponents 150-106 and have begun to set a tone for the rest of the season that the Showtime Steers are a team to be reckoned with.

"We just have to get in shape and play smart," Hise said. "We need to be more disciplined in our stuff. We weren't very disciplined tonight with fouls and we need to limit those next time out."

UP NEXT: Big Spring (2-1) will now take a week off before the game next Tuesday night in Grape Creek against the Eagles (0-2).

Lady Steers drop fourth straight, lose 56-32 to San Angelo Central Thanksgiving Break has come at just the right time for the Big Spring Lady Steers after falling to San Angelo Central 56-32 on Tuesday afternoon for their fourth straight loss of the young season.

"We've just got to settle down," Head Coach Eric Tuttle said. "We just get out of control a little bit. We just have to slow things down, keep things in front of us, and see what's going on on the floor."

Big Spring struggled scoring the ball on Tuesday and they were forced into turnovers that put them in an early hole. The first quarter was low-scoring for both teams and the Lady Bobcats led 6-3 after eight minutes of action. Mya Blanco was the lone Lady Steer to score a basket in the opening frame when she knocked down a shot from beyond the arc.

Tuttle's team played strong defense and they were able to limit the Lady Bobcats offensively for long stretches of time. Big Spring showed flashes of what their spring is as a team and had their fair share of possessions that they made look simple.

Junior Tristan Smith led the Lady Steers in points when she scored eight against the Lady Bobcats. Junior Ryen Terrazas added seven points and 10 rebounds, as she was the only consistent rebounder for Big Spring all-game long.

At halftime, San Angelo Central led 22-12 and they were beginning to heat up. The Lady Bobcat bench was outscoring Big Spring's 7-4 at the break and the Lady Steers were struggling turned the ball over almost 15 times and the Lady Bobcats were beginning to take advantage.

"We just need to keep learning every time that we take the floor. Even in the last few possessions, we're still going to work hard and play tight defense. We're working on every possession to get better," Tuttle said.

San Angelo Central outscored Big Spring 16-9 in the third quarter and took a 38-21 lead into the fourth. The Lady Steers showed some better free throw shooting to start of the second half but were still having trouble with turnovers.

The Lady Bobcats were spreading the ball around well and 11 total players recorded a basket for them in Tuesday's contest. This depth ended up being too much for the Lady Steers to handle and they were once again outscored in the final frame.

This time, the Lady Bobcats outscored the Lady Steers 18-to put the ball in the basket from anywhere. They made just 1-of-4 shots from three-point land through the first two quarters of action and were just 3-for-12 from inside the arc. At that point, they had 11 and were able to close out their 24-point victory with consistent play. Big Spring did perform well and frustrated San Angelo Central's coaching staff on several occasions. The group will need to take what they learned from this week's losses against two tough opponents and bring that with them moving forward.

"We haven't been able to have a practice in about a week it feels like,"

Tuttle said. "I just want to get them back in the gym so we can fine-tune some things and work on the things that we need to."

UP NEXT: The Lady Steers (2-4) will take the court next at home next Tuesday night against the Midland Christian Lady Mustangs (1-4) at 6:30 p.m.

Opening lead — ten of clubs.

"Watson, how did you fare at the club today?" queried Sherlock Holmes as he stretched his legs before the fireplace.

"Holmes," replied the doctor sadly, "I fear that ill fortune still pursues me. Today I had no good hands save one, and that one, ironically, also contributed to my downfall."

"Tell me about it," said Holmes, exhaling a huge cloud of smoke.

The doctor laid out the hand and reviewed the bidding. "I assume you were East," said the sleuth, "and declarer won the club lead with the jack and attacked a major suit."

"Indubitably correct," Watson replied. "He played spades first." "And you took the nine with the queen," continued Holmes, "and no doubt returned a low diamond, covered by the ten, jack and king." "Precisely," Watson continued, "and when I won the second spade and led another diamond, declarer finessed the nine. After I next took South's eight of hearts with the queen, I played a diamond again — once more to no avail as declarer won with the eight to make exactly three notrump."

"Ah, dear friend," sighed Holmes, shaking his head, "you think, but you do not reason. You should have returned the queen of diamonds rather than a low diamond at trick three!"

"But, but," Watson protested. "Tut, tut," Holmes chided. "I am aware of the proviso that one should not lead a queen when lacking the jack. In the present case, however, logic surely supersedes convention. South is known to have the K-J of clubs and ace of diamonds for his bids. The only honor card West can have is the jack of diamonds, and you should assume he has it. Once you play the queen, the contract is doomed. As soon as you gain the lead again, you play another diamond to establish West's jack as the setting trick."

"Holmes," said the doctor, "you amaze me."

"Elementary, my dear Watson," the great sleuth replied.

Tomorrow: A well-played hand.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Expounding on yesterday's question about gratitude (see archives). "Every time I start a gratitude practice, the habit never sticks. Maybe I'm just an ingrate. Can you help this ungrateful Capricorn?"

It is often called for to be thankful for things we don't actually enjoy, thus faking emotions we are not having. There are things we believe we should be grateful for, such as food and shelter, that are frankly hard to appreciate until we have experienced the contrast of their opposite. If you want to be deeply grateful for those things, then make it a point to experience people who do not have food or shelter, or circumstances in which you are thusly deprived, and you may find that your heart opens to gratitude for those basics.

You can also start with the things that already give you joy because just as gratitude gives joy, it also derives from it. True thankfulness is more closely aligned to enjoyment and pleasure than it is to duty. This has sensory-level beginnings. Arguably, savoring something with your senses is in itself an act of gratitude. Perhaps, dear Capricorn, you are not lacking in gratitude so much as sensory delight, connection or awareness. More on this tomorrow.

Want to Keep Working From Home

Dear Annie: I am in my mid-20s and fortunate enough to have a job that I've been able to do remotely since the outbreak of the pandemic back in March. Working from home has its drawbacks, but on the whole, I've come to really enjoy it.

For one, I used to drive an hour and 15 minutes each way for work. During the time I used to be sitting in traffic in the morning,

I am able to wake up, make myself a nice breakfast, call my parents and even meditate. I log on for the day feeling ready to go. After work, I jog or walk two miles, and then make dinner, all before the time I used to get home.

And I've actually gotten to know my co-workers better during this pandemic than I did before, as we make more of an effort to catch up with one another and set up "happy hours" via Zoom, when we ever went out to happy hours together in real life.

I know that I am incredibly lucky to have a job at all right now, especially one where I'm able to work from the comfort and safety of my own home. (I want to acknowledge the fact that there are front-line workers who have had to risk their lives every day just to keep an income, and others who have been laid off for months now, with dwindling unemployment funds.) So, I don't mean to sound like I'm whining, but I really don't want to return to the office and that commute. Moving closer to the office is not an option, as I can't afford the rent in that part of town.

Am I the only one wishing I could keep working from home? And should I try talking to my boss, when the time comes for us to return to the office, to see if I might be able to continue working from home? I know that, in general, he's never loved the idea of remote work. -- Working

From Home Works

Dear Working From Home Works: You're right. You are lucky -- and not just because you've held onto your job and health during this tumultuous year. You're lucky because you've been given a unique opportunity to evaluate what is important in your life, what helps you to feel healthy and grounded. Don't squander the lesson. When a return to the office seems imminent, talk to your boss. In the past, he didn't like the idea of remote work, but that was before the world turned upside-down. He might have gained some insights this year as well, about what's possible with remote employees. It won't hurt to ask; it will hurt not to.

If you get shot down, then decide how much of a priority it is to you to be able to work remotely, and plan your next career move accordingly.
