Floyd County honors Pioneers

Floyd County's Man, Woman, and Couple of the Year were honored at the Old Settler's Reunion, May 28th.

Ham Gammage, of Lockney, was the Man of the Year; Lahoma Matsler, of Floydada, was recognized as Woman of the Year, and the Couple of the Year was Guy and Margaret Ginn.

The families of both Guy and Margaret have lived in the Floyd County area for several generations.

Guy Wesley Ginn was born in 1915 in Roger Mills County, Oklahoma. He moved here with his parents, Hazel Witt and Charles Wesley Ginn, in 1923 when he was 8 years old.

Guy's paternal grandparents, Effie Ewing and John Walter Ginn, had a grocery store in Floydada, which they later traded for a country store at Alcino. Guy's father, Charles Wesley, went into the oil business, starting a new service station, and later went into the wholesale oil business.

Margaret Louise Smith was born in 1917 in Floydada. Her mother was Beatrice Henry. The Henry family was among some of the earliest settlers of Floyd County.

Her paternal grandfather, H.E. Smith came here as a retired circuit preacher.

Margaret's father, Dr. George Smith, and "Dr. George's" brother, Lon, opened a hospital in Floydada.

Guy and Margaret began dating in High School. Guy played center on the Floydada Whirlwind team. Guy finished high school in 1933 and attended Texas Tech.

Guy says his father furnished a cow for him to milk while going to college. Guy milked it twice a day and took the milk to a boarding house for his meals.

Margaret graduated from Floydada High School in 1934 and went to Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth.

After graduating in 1938, Margaret started teaching elementary school in Lorenzo.

Guy and Margaret married December 26, 1938. Margaret quit teaching to be a mother and housewife.

Their first son, Vaughn, was born December 19, 1939.

Guy received his Mechanical Engineering degree in June of 1940 from Tech and went to work for Southwestern Public Service in Hereford.

He was transferred to Clovis, where their second son, Kenneth was born in 1942.

Because Guy was working for a vital industry he was not drafted. In 1943 he was transferred to Plainview and then moved back to Floydada when Guy became manager of the SPS office in Floydada.

In 1943, Jancy Sue was born in the Pitt's hospital in Floydada.

In 1950 Guy started his farming career near Petersburg.

Margaret taught at Andrews from 1956-58.

In the late 1940's a group of about 20 men organized a Jr. Chamber of Commerce, of which Guy became the President. The Chamber later became the Senior Chamber of Commerce.

He has also been active in the Rotary Club, been a trustee on the FISSD board, and was charter member of the Floydada Vegetable Growers Association.

Margaret enjoyed gardening and was a member of the Garden Club, and a Study Club. Her hobbies included whatever her children were involved in, gardening, baking, sewing, painting, and other crafts.

They are members of the Methodist Church where Guy served on the building committee. He is the only surviving trustee from this time.

The Guys have 7 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. Their eldest son, Vaughn, died of a heart attack in 1990.

One of Guy's hobbies is wood working and some of his handwork is on display at the Museum—including a stand for a side-saddle. Margaret's children are blessed with hand-made cross-stitched quilts.

The Pioneer Woman of the Year Lahoma Matsler has been a resident of Floyd County for 65 years. She moved with her husband, Leonard, to Floydada, in 1941.

Lahoma was born to C.E. and Debera Moore, in Hobert, Oklahoma on Feb. 20, 1918. She was reared in Amherst and graduated Amherst High School in 1936.

She enrolled in Lippert Business School, in Plainview, which later became Draughon's Business College.

Lahoma's father bought her a meal ticket at the Quick Lunch Cafe in Plainview where she met her future husband, Leonard.

They married in 1938 and had been married for 67 years at the time of the ceremony.

City amends fence ordinance

By Darwin Robinson

The City of Floydada has amended the fence ordinance for dog owners.

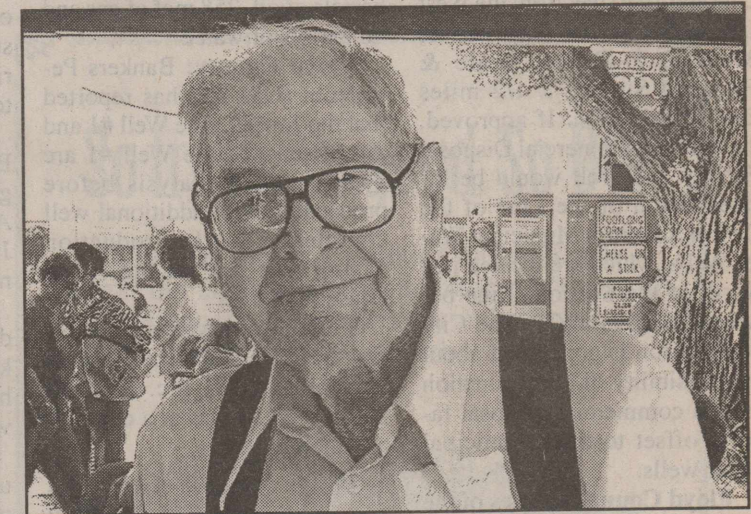

The ordinance entitled "special exceptions to fencing for large dogs over 35 pound" states, "large dogs shall be contained behind a privacy fence and such fence cannot be a chain link fence."

However, the amended ordinance states, "the owner shall submit in writing a request for a hearing concerning their specific dog and fence...the owner must certify to the history of the dog's personality as being non-aggressive...before granting any special exception."

Anyone in violation of the ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined from $50 to $2,000.

time of Leonard's death, November 25, 2005.

Lahoma worked for 5 years for Sam Curry, a realtor in Plainview. In the fall of 1941, Leonard opened his cafe, located downtown next to Pete Looney's barber shop, west of the present Payne's Pharmacy. The cafe moved to its present location on Hwy. 70 in 1959.

The Matsler's eldest child, Gary was born in 1942, followed by Mike in 1944, and Jill in 1946.

All three children graduated from FHS.

Lahoma began her secretarial career with FSD in 1956. She worked at all the schools and served under Mr. Coltharp, Mr. Nicholson, I.T. Graves, A.E. Baker, and Charles Tyer.

At one time she kept five different sets of books. She recorded by hand, in those days, all the student's grades, freshmen through seniors. She kept up with all transcripts, the school calendar, and also helped place students in classes. She was also responsible for recording tuition and transfer requirements for the students from Cone, Dougherty, and South Plains. Her biggest worry was keeping the Average Daily Attendance records, which the TEA audited annually. Nothing on the books could be changed--nor erasing or white-outs.

Lahoma has 8 grandchildren and 8 great-grandchildren.

At the age of 85, Pioneer Man Ham Gammage is still very active on the Lockney City Council.

He also serves as President of the Senior Citizens Center, and works at any job that needs to be done at the Center.

He is the father of two children: Linda Roberts and a son, Ron Gammage. He has 5 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

Ham continues to exercise daily. He rides his bike, bowls, walks, and swims at the YMCA.

Commissioners lift County's burn ban

By Darwin Robinson

The Floyd County Commissioners met in Special Session, Thursday, May 25, and lifted the county's burn ban and approved an amended resolution for tax abatement in the county.

Several local producers had been asking County Judge Bill Hardin and the commissioners to lift the county's burn ban in order to burn their trash and tree limbs.

The adopting of the amended resolution approving the Guidelines and Criteria for Tax Abatement was necessary in order to hold a Public Hearing about creating a reinvestment zone in the eastern part of the county.

A wind farm will possibly be built near the caprock by Renewable Energy Systems Americas, Inc. of Colorado, if the court approves a ten year tax abatement to them.

The commissioners set a Public Hearing for June 7 concerning the Reinvestment Zone and approved the publishing of the notice.

In other matters, the court deputized Trey Dolloff as a Deputy Sheriff for the county.

The court approved an application with Texas Workforce Commission to join the Texas Association of Counties Unemployment Fund.

Summer trail rides offered to youth

by Darwin Robinson

Trail boss G.A. Gossett of Amarillo has an unusual way of reaching out to kids during the summer months. He provides them with trail rides and camping out in the rough, or staying in a nearby hotel at night.

Gossett is an avid horseman and he organizes trail rides each summer for any and all kids that want an outdoors experience.

Gossett has given horses away to their riders in years past, but only to those who have made straight "A"s in school. The kids riding usually range from age 8 to 16.

Gossett told the Hesperian-Beacon, "Anyone who wants to get on board the trail ride from Amarillo to Floydada during June, can call me for more information at (806) 570-1309."

"We have prayer before each day's journey and we teach the kids respect. If a kid does not have a horse, I will provide them with one," said Gossett.

Gossett's horse riding schedule from Amarillo will bring the trail ride through Canyon, Happy, Tullia and Turkey. "We will stay in the Turkey hotel on June 24th and 25th. We should be in Matarador on June 26th, and then arrive in Floydada on June 27. We will be in Floydada two days until June 30th."

If approved, the Turner Commercial Disposal Facility and Well would be located South of the Line of the City of Silverton Municipal Water Wells, which are located just North of the Section Line between Sections 69/70. by Darwin Robinson
In last week's paper, May 25, it was reported the City council passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of the herbicide 2-4-D in the City limits.
City Attorney Karen Houchin informed the Hesperian-Beacon, the resolution banning 2-4-D was "repealed" in the last board meeting and it was not passed again, as was reported.

Sen. Cornyn on Immigration

'I remain committed to comprehensive reform, but I cannot support a deeply flawed bill,' Cornyn said after the Senate passed the immigration bill by a vote of 62-36.

U.S. Sen. John Cornyn is chairman of the Immigration and Border Security subcommittee.

Sen. Cornyn said he voted against the bill because it still has serious flaws, but he remains committed to comprehensive immigration reform.

Cornyn will be a member of the Senate-House panel (the conference committee) that will work out the differences between the Senate and House immigration bills.

'We've had weeks of constructive debate on very important issues for our nation, but I've come to the conclusion that the Senate immigration bill as written still has serious flaws and is not a net plus for our country. So I cannot support it.'

'Throughout the process I have tried to improve the legislation in preparation for a House-Senate conference, where it will be improved even more. The net result must be marked improvement in border security, employer accountability, better assimilation of legal immigrants, and compensation for state expenses incurred from illegal immigration.'

'The final legislation will be written in conference committee. I'll be a member of that committee, and will work to improve it.'

'I strongly believe the federal government has neglected our border security and immigration system for too long, and our country badly needs a comprehensive reform bill to correct decades of inaction. But in its current form, this bill is not where it needs to be.'

'One thing is clear: The status quo is unacceptable and the only people who benefit by it are smugglers, criminals and unscrupulous employers. It's important that we move a bill to conference.'

'The comprehensive bill I introduced last year with Sen. Kyl was written with an eye toward the conference committee and how to bridge the differences between the House and the Senate, because we knew there were going to be fairly significant differences in the approach. I have remained consistent to the principles that I put forth a year ago, and my hope is that I can play a constructive role in bridging the differences between those two approaches.'

According to Cornyn the key problems that remain in the Senate immigration bill, S. 2611, are:

• Approximately 8-10 million illegal immigrants would be placed on a different, easier path to a green card and citizenship

• The temporary worker program is anything but temporary, placing all 200,000 workers on a direct path to a green card and citizenship

• If an illegal immigrant applies for legal status and the government denies the application, the bill would not allow the government to use the information in the application to deport the illegal immigrant

• Rewards illegal document fraud by allowing Social Security payments for those who stole identities to work in the United States illegally

• Illegal immigrants who apply for amnesty would not have to pay back taxes until after first eight years and would only be required to pay back taxes for three years

• The bill reduces the percentage of green cards that go to highly educated and highly skilled workers

• The bill will increase direct spending by $54 billion and discretionary spending by $64 billion in just the first 10 years

• The worker verification system contains "poison pills" that Department of Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff stated would make the system unworkable

Cornyn and Sen. Jon Kyl (R-Ariz.) authored a separate bill titled: The Comprehensive Enforcement and Immigration Reform Act (S. 1438). The key components of their legislation include enhanced border security and interior enforcement, employer accountability, and reform to bring the current illegal population into compliance with the law.

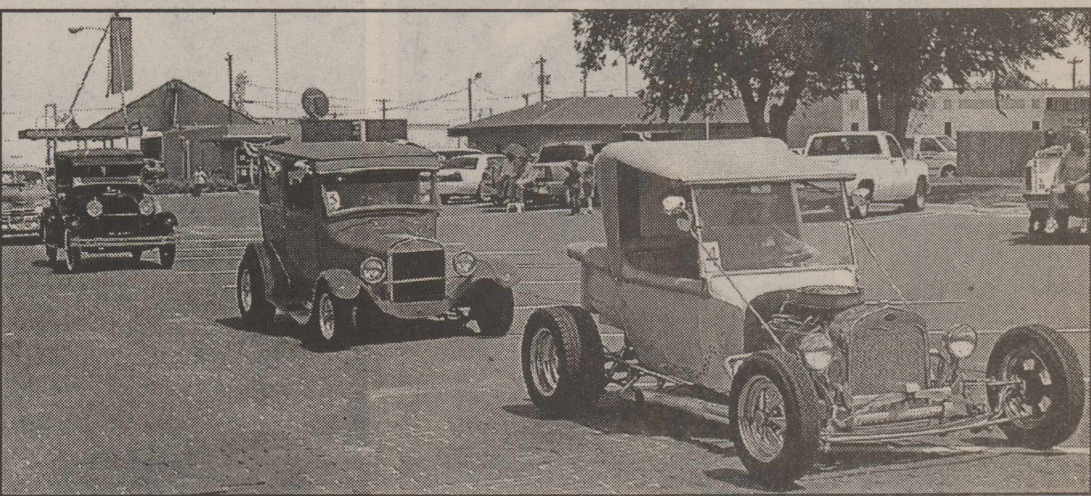

Sen. Cornyn is a member of the following Senate Committees: Armed Services; Judiciary; Budget; Small Business and Entrepreneurship; and Joint Economic. He is also the chairman of the subcommittees on Immigration, Border Security and Citizenship and Emerging Threats and Capabilities.

APPLE EATERS AT PIONEER DAY

Museum News

By Carolyn Hardy

A special thank you to all the visitors to the Floyd County Historical Museum this past weekend. Open House on Friday, celebrating the Museum's 35th Anniversary, was a success. Dolores Cannon, Wilma Gowens and Olive Hinton, members of the Hospitality Committee, Flora McNeill and J. D. Copeland furnished refreshments. Visitors registered from all over the state. Those in attendance shared many memories.

"Old Settlers" Day on Saturday, was enjoyed by many. Thank to the Floyd County Pioneer Association for sponsoring such an event-filled day. Programs, entertainment, parade and activities for all ages were provided.

The Wild Flower Show entries were just beautiful. Some were very unique. There were several entries in each category. I know it must be difficult to select a winner. Don Gowens and his helpers do such a good job with the Wild Flower Show.

The volunteer rope makers once again put smiles on the children's faces. Ed Musser from Canyon, Tom Musser from Lubbock, Monte Williams, Billy Don Colston and Bill Shipley volunteer each "Old Settlers" and "Punkin Day" to demonstrate rope making. Eddie Brown from Lamesa was unable to attend Saturday because he and his family were celebrating his birthday. Eddie wrote a note saying that he planned to be here on "Punkin Day".

The gift shop in the Museum has gift items suitable for any occasion. In addition to the Christmas ornaments, books, Floyd County coins (including silver), a new item available for purchase is a deck of cards. On the face of each card is information for a particular county in the 52-county Texas Plains Trail Region. The Plains Trail Region reaches from Big Spring to the South, Crowell on the East of the Oklahoma Panhandle on the north and new Mexico on the West. The five of clubs has information on Floyd County. A new shipment of the book "Bud & Me" has arrived. This book is so popular that we have had to reorder two or three times.

Family names recently researched include Langley, Jones, Frantz, Quirk, Bradley, Norman and Summerville. Many looked up information while they were here for the weekend.

Recent memorials received by the museum were given in memory of: Mamie Bunch and Clara Reecer.

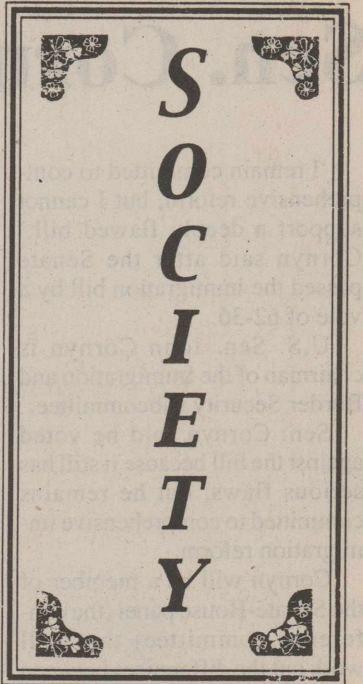

Wednesday, May 31, was my last day as Executive Director of the Museum. What a privilege to have the opportunity to receive salary for doing something you love to do. I served on the Museum Board for about 20 years prior to becoming Director in 1999. It is unbelievable what has been accomplished since I became a part of such a wonderful nonprofit organization. I had no idea how many hours of volunteer labor were required from such dedicated individuals. Yesterday's history has been preserved for the present generation. Today's history is being preserved for future generations.

Thanks to all my friends who have stopped by to visit. I have made so many new friends while working here. If you will give me a call when you visit the Museum, I will be right there to share a Coke or cup of coffee with you. The Museum and all the memories hold a very special place in my heart.

Please come by the Museum and welcome Bettye Landers

Thank you first to the attendees that celebrate the history and progress of Floyd County. Our gratitude also goes to the foundation's sponsors whose generosity provides meals for area nursing homes, the attending old settlers, and volunteers working for the success of "Old Settlers Day". This event would not be possible without the vendors, parade participants, and entertainers providing the atmosphere of the vents for the enjoyment of the attendees. Several other groups such as Boys Scouts, 4-H, civil organizations and church groups also perform events beneficial to our celebration and community.

The next group I would like to thank is the Floyd County Pioneers Association, the Chamber of Commerce and the volunteers that organize and do the hard work to make the reunion proceed smoothly. The Chamber and the regular members of the association and various committees work diligently throughout the year continuing to honor the heritage of our county. We desperately need new active members from all areas of the county.

Finally we would like to say thank you to all participating in the auction, raffle, and their donations to assure the future of the Old Settlers Reunion with funding.

Luminaria Ceremony honors cancer survivors ...and those who have lost the battle...

Floydada-A special luminaria ceremony held during the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life remembers those lost to cancer and honors those who have survived. Luminaria candles will be lit at the Floydada High School track at 10:00 pm, Friday, June 16, to represent those individuals.

Anyone desiring to purchase a luminaria may do so by contacting Jane Harrison at 293-9113 or by filling out and returning the form below. Luminaria candles will be sold for a "donation of the heart"; each purchaser is encouraged to give what he or she is able. All funds raised through these sales support the programs and services of the American Cancer Society.

"It will be beautiful when all the bags with the candles are illuminated around the track," said Harrison, Event Chair. "We hope to sell enough to light the entire track."

Relay For Life brings numerous groups and individuals concerned about cancer together for a unified effort to fight back. Former and current cancer patients, their families, businesses, civic organizations, and the public are invited to take part in this exciting team event. This "celebration of life" will take place on Friday, June 16, 2006, in Floydada.

Relay For Life is a family-oriented activity where participants enjoy the camaraderie of a team and also raise funds to support the activities of the American Cancer Society. Participants camp out at the Relay site and when they are not taking their turn walking or running, they take part in fun activities and enjoy local entertainment.

Floyd County's cancer survivors will kick off Relay For Life of June 16 at 6:00 pm with the first official lap, then the rest of the participants join the fun. Information about purchasing a luminaria, forming a team, or walking in the survivors lap is available at the American Cancer Society at 806-792-7128. For information on cancer, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit the web site at www.cancer.org.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives, and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy, and service.

South Plains Study Club News

By Sandra Lass

The South Plains Hobby Club met for a luncheon meeting at the Eclectic Teapot in Plainview on May 10, 2006. Members present included Ann Harman, Peggy Roberts, Donnie Bowman, Kay Gilbert, Doris McLain, Mildred Smitherman, Linda Kay Waller, Betty Deavenport, Mamie Wood, Wanda Lane, Virginia Taylor, Shirley Weldon, Carolyn Marble, Margaret Kitchen and Sandra Lass. Carolyn Marble introduced the first guest speaker, Helen Teeple, R.N. from Covenant Hospital, Plainview. Helen spoke to the group last year about prescriptive drugs used by older people. Her topic this time was aspirin, the most widely-used over the counter pain relieving drug and probably one of the oldest. Helen said that in 400 B.C. Hippocrates prescribed the bark of the willow tree to relieve pain and fever. This bark contains a substance called salicin, which is a natural form of aspirin. Years later, in 1887, a German chemist at Bayer created a compound to help treat his father's arthritis and, in 1899, Bayer began selling aspirin powder to physicians to give to their patients. Aspirin became available without a prescription in 1915. In 1948, Helen said that a California physician began prescribing daily aspirin for many of his patients to reduce the risk of heart attack. Helen said that aspirin can not only be used to relieve pain and reduce fever, but is widely used to prevent strokes from recurring as well.

Although aspirin clearly is a "miracle" drug, Helen said that aspirin should not be taken more than 7 to 10 days in a row unless prescribed by a physician for a longer period of time. Helen said that for the prevention of heart attack and stroke a low dose aspirin is usually prescribed and that enteric-coated aspirin can be used to avoid an upset stomach or if a bad taste or a burning sensation in the mouth or throat occurs when taking aspirin. When asked how should one take aspirin, Helen said that aspirin should always be taken as directed and each dose should be taken with a full glass of water to reduce the risk of the pill becoming stuck in one's throat. Helen said that anyone taking a blood thinning drug should not take aspirin unless directed by a doctor. She also said that children under 18 should not take aspirin for fever, flu, or chicken pox unless prescribed by a doctor, since aspirin may increase the risk of Reye's syndrome, a rare but often fatal condition. Helen said that prior to any dental treatment or other invasive procedure, one should not take aspirin due to the blood thinning property of aspirin.

Peggy Roberts introduced the next guest speaker, Kelly Watson, acting director of the Compassionate Crisis Care Center, a religious-based charitable organization for pregnant or abused women. Kelly said that the center is presently managed by Kelly and four other women, all volunteers. She said that "We counsel the young women, do office work, and clean the work place. Kelly said that last year 400 women came to the Center for assistance. Of the 400, 100 were pregnant. The Center offers three options and the consequences of each option to pregnant women. She said that the options include keeping the baby, adoption or abortion. Kelly said that not many women choose adoption as an option. Kelly and the volunteers are presently conducting interviews for a new director and board members. The Center is open Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 am to pm and is located at the corner of 13th and Quincy in close proximity to Plainview High School. When asked what the center needed, Kelly said that the center needed funds, maternity and baby clothes, and volunteers.

The next Hobby Club meeting will be held September 13, 2006. The club members plan a trip to Groom to see the stations of the cross and new displays.

Even though rain showers have been a regular visitor to the area the past few weeks they have generally been a hit or miss proposition for High Plains cotton producers in 2006.

Despite the challenges posed by generally dry soil conditions, cotton producers have made good progress in planting the crop. The area's usual pattern of planting irrigated crops first and dryland acreage second is holding true to form as producers wait as long as possible for a planting rain to get their dryland crops off to the best possible start.

Unfortunately, planting rains haven't fallen yet in many dryland areas. If the Memorial Day weekend fails to provide the necessary rainfall, dryland growers will begin dry planting their acres and hope that moisture to germinate the crop arrives soon thereafter.

Since the majority of the South Plains' non-irrigated acres exist in counties with federal crop insurance final planting dates of June 5 or June 10, Memorial Day is often the date many producers will start dry planting cotton in order to meet federal crop insurance planting deadlines.

Heading into Memorial Day the High Plains is estimated to be around 55-60 percent planted. The majority of the unplanted acres are non-irrigated and located south of Lubbock.

Planted crops appear to be faring well and warm daytime temperatures that have taken hold across the area are helping keep things headed in the right direc-

Federal Crop Insurance Changes Could Come Into Play Should Dry Conditions Persist

Intent on establishing their 2006 cotton acres producers across the High Plains are keeping a watchful eye on the sky and near-term weather forecasts.

What they want to see most are gathering clouds and raindrops, and a forecast that includes favorable conditions for spawning the rainfall they need to get a crop up and growing.

Unfortunately, there is just as good a chance that the rainfall they need will not arrive in time. If that turns out to be the case, growers need to remember that the USDA Risk Management Agency has shortened the Federal Crop Insurance program's Late Planting Period for cotton from 15 days to 8 days in 2006.

The change only affects Texas High Plains cotton counties with final planting dates of May 31, June 5 and June 10 and a few counties in eastern New Mexico. This gives producers the ability to request appraisals for drought affected acreage with non-emerged seed immediately following the end of the crop insurance program's 8-day Deferred Appraisal Period.

Plains Cotton Growers officials, who have been working with USDA Risk Management Agency personnel on the deferred appraisal issue for several years, note that the combination of the 8-day Late Planting Period and the Deferred Appraisal Period means High Plains cotton growers have to wait 16 days after their Final Planting Date before requesting an appraisal based on the non-emergence of seed planted on or before the Final Planting Date.

"The month of June is always a make or break time of year for farmers on the High Plains," says PGC Executive Vice President Steve Verett. "Mid-June is the Time that producers must shift gears and start thinking about alternatives if their cotton doesn't receive the rain it needs to get established. The shortened 2006 late planting period will make a major difference for producers in this situation and, when conditions permit, allow them the opportunity to get a secondary crop established in a timely fashion."

Avondale Mills: America's Oldest Surviving Textile Manufacturer Anticipates Shutdown

With roots dating back to 1845, Georgia-based Avondale Mills, Inc. was among America's successful textile manufacturing firms for 150 years. Unfortunately, events beyond its control over the past ten years have combined to create a situation from which the 160 year-old company will not recover.

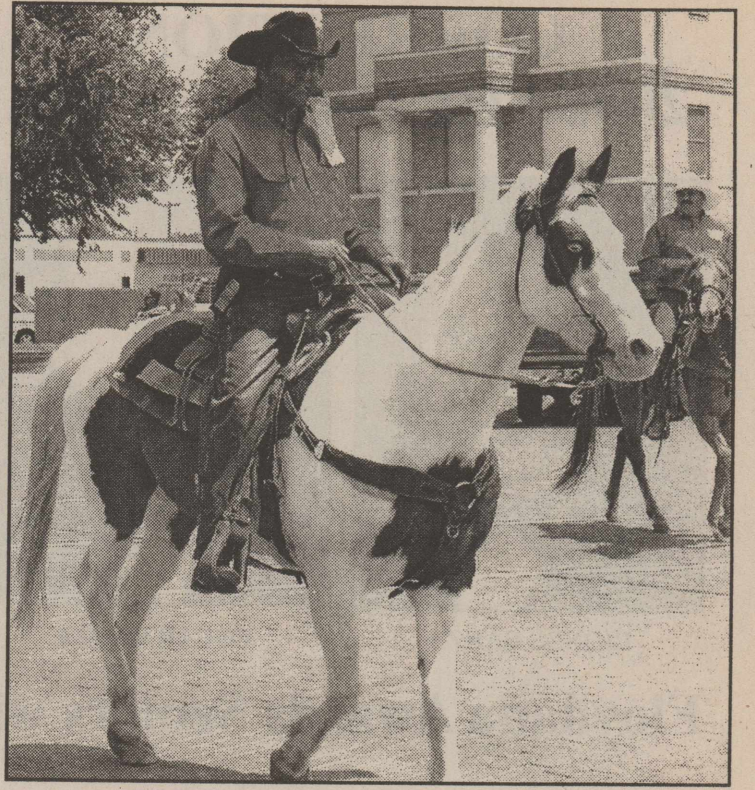

Having been successful in the past, Avondale was trying hard to find a way to weather the drastic changes that have recently overtaken the worldwide textile marketplace.

G. Stephen Felker, Sr., Avondale's chairman, president and chief executive officer, says the decision to close was brought about by the "trade practices of foreign countries that create unfair advantages for their textile industries" and effects of a chlorine gas spill that occurred next to one of the company's plants in Graniteville, South Carolina.

Ironically, the day after Avondale's announcement the company released information indicating it had reached a $215 Million settlement with its insurance company as a result of the Graniteville train derailment.

Avondale has already notified its employees that it intends to close or sell all its plants in Alabama and two other states in a move that could lead to the loss of around 4,000 jobs.

This loss of approximately 4,000 Avondale jobs will add to the 423,000 jobs already lost in the textile-manufacturing sector since 2001.

BEAUTIFUL HORSES AT OLD SETTLERS DAY

FSA news release

Producers have until June 1 to sign up for direct and counter-cyclical payment program

By Rodney Schoppa, CED
Agricultural producers have until June 1, 2006 to sign up for the 2006-crop Direct and Counter-cyclical Payment Program (DCP).

USDA will accept late-filed DCP applications through Sept. 30, 2006, if accompanied by a $100 late fee. Producers will be unable to apply for 2006 DCP payments after Sept. 30, 2006. Sign-up for the 2006 DCP began October 1, 2005.

I encourage farmers and growers to sign up for DCP by June 1 by visiting the USDA FSA office or by using the convenient online DCP service. This program plays an important role in providing producers income support.

The program provides payments to eligible owners, operators, landlords, tenants, or sharecroppers on farms enrolled for the 2002 through 2007 crop years. There are two types of DCP payments - direct payments and counter-cyclical payments. Direct payments are tied to acreage bases and yields. Because direct payments provide no incentive to increase production of any certain crop, the payments support farm income without distorting producers' current production decisions.

Counter-cyclical payments provide support counter to the cycle of market prices as part of a federal farm program "safety net" in the event of low crop prices. Counter-cyclical payments for a commodity are only issued if the effective price for a commodity is below the target price for that commodity.

The 2002 Farm Bill requires producers sign annual contracts through 2007 to participate in DCP. Producers may choose not to participate in DCP in any year. USDA has issued more than $28 billion in DCP payments to producers since the program began in October 2002.

Online DCP sign-up

Producers may also sign up for DCP online at http://www.fsa.usda.gov/egov/edco_default.htm. Applicants must have an active USDA eAuthentication Level 2 account to use the service. This requires filling out an online registration form at <http://www.eauth.gov.usda.gov> and visiting the local FSA office for identity verification.

The online service allows producers to choose 2006 DCP payment options, assign crop shares, as well as sign and submit their contracts over the Internet. The service was designed to reduce paperwork and speed up contract processing at FSA offices.

The DCP was authorized by the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (2002 Farm Bill) and is administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency.

More information on DCP is available at local FSA offices and in the DCP fact sheet posted online at: <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/publications/facts/html/dcp06.htm>. FSA's Web site is www.fsa.usda.gov.

Facts about "Bird Flu"

The Sky Is Falling?????

It's enough to make you head for the hills. Some headlines about "bird flu," or avian influenza, make grave predictions (literally), and foretell absolute worst-case scenarios.

What is "Bird Flu"?

Avian Influenza is a virus that usually affects only birds. It circulates among the wild bird population (and sometimes, pigs) and like some other flu viruses, can change, or mutate.

All "Bird Flu" isn't the same.

The avian influenza virus can be configured into more than 144 strains, as determined by the combinations of "H" and "N" The "H" --or Hemagglutinin, and the "N" --Neuraminidase, in the virus. For example, the virus may be classified as H1N2, H2N2 or H7N2.

To add to the mix, some avian influenza strains come in one of two strengths, known as "pathogenicity," or the ability to sicken or kill birds.

Low pathogenic avian influenza (LPAI) may be inapparent or make birds slightly ill. Highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI), on the other hand, may make birds very sick, or cause large death losses.

The highly visible "bird flu" in the news is a highly pathogenic H5N1 strain, which has not yet been detected in the U.S. However, could be "imported" by migrating wild birds, or by diseased birds or products smuggled into the country. Early detection is crucial.

You can't tell by looking.

Avian influenza infection, the particular avian influenza strain, or its pathogenicity can't be determined by looking at a sick bird. A number of diseases or conditions can cause birds to become ill or to die. To determine the cause, laboratory tests must be conducted on blood, tissue or fecal material from a potentially infected bird. In Texas, the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory (TVMDL) conducts the laboratory testing.

Wild Bird Testing

Wild waterfowl are the natural host for the avian influenza virus. Since 1998, more than 12,000 migratory birds and waterfowl have been tested in Alaska, and it is not unexpected to detect some avian influenza strains. All tests, however, have been negative for H5N1.

This year, more wild birds are being tested along their migratory paths--called flyways. Texas is in the Central Flyway, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Wildlife Services and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in 2006 will collect several thousand samples from targeted species, selected due to their potential risk for carrying avian influenza. Collectively in the U.S., more than 100,000 wild birds will be sampled.

Do I report dead wild birds?

A dead bird in your yard should not cause undue concern. However, because birds may die from a variety of causes, don't touch the bird with bare hands. Place a plastic bag over your hand and pick up the bird, enclosing it in the bag and disposing of it in the garbage. Then wash your hands thoroughly.

If you see a die-off of many birds, notify your local health officials, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, or the Texas Animal Health Commission (the state's livestock and poultry health regulatory agency). Samples then can be collected to determine if the birds died from avian influenza or some other cause.

What about domesticated flocks?

Commercially produced poultry (including chickens and turkeys) are raised indoors, protected from contact with wild birds.

Biosecurity measure are employed, which may include disinfecting boots and tools prior to entering poultry houses, restricting visitor access, and cleaning vehicle tires at the farm gate, to avoid introducing disease.

Routine disease surveillance for avian influenza is performed on commercial flocks. Since 1995, the Texas, commercial poultry industry submitted more than 200,000 samples yearly to the TVMDL. Last year, the sample count topped 366,665. Routine disease surveillance also is conducted on many noncommercial flocks.

In 2004, two strains of avian influenza (not H5N1!) were detected in the state. The TAHC and the USDA-Texas staff responded immediately to quarantine the flocks, and control, then eliminate the infection.

On the affected sites, cages, poultry houses and equipment were thoroughly disinfected. Before releasing the quarantine, the team conducted widespread area testing of both commercial and noncommercial flocks to ensure the disease had been eradicated.

The TAHC encourages all flock owners to report to their veterinarian or the TAHC unusual signs of illness in their birds or significant death losses. TAHC and USDA veterinarians, trained as foreign animal disease diagnosticians, can collect and submit samples for testing.

For more information about biosecurity, or to report unusual illness or death loss in your flock, call the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) at 1-800-550-8242.

Under its Fowl Registration Program, the TAHC requires domestic and exotic fowl sellers, distributors and transporters who sell at public sites to register with the agency, if they're not enrolled in a recognized avian influenza surveillance program. This will enable the TAHC to quickly contact flock owners if a disease outbreak is associated with a public sale.

The TAHC also has increased live bird market and backyard flock disease surveillance. Don't "chicken out" because of avian influenza fears!

What's YOUR preference? Scrambled eggs? Chicken leg, turkey sandwich?

What would summer be without chicken on the grill, fried drumsticks on a picnic, accompanied by deviled eggs, or a succulent smoked turkey leg at the local fair? Enjoy!

As with any food product, follow safe and proper food storage, handling, cooking and serving practices to avoid spoilage.

What's the story in Asia & Europe?

HPAI H5N1 has been detected in about 50 countries. It is believed to be carried by wild birds or spread through the illegal movement of poultry and fowl. Animal health officials in many countries follow procedures similar to those used by states and the USDA to address the disease. In the U.S., immediate response is crucial.

Why have people gotten sick from H5N1?

Since 2003, about 200 persons have contracted the HPAI H5N1 virus. Nearly all had extensive direct contact with sick or dead birds, or consumed improperly prepared products from sick birds. Human-to-human transmission has not been demonstrated.

Lack of biosecurity, extreme crowding, and cultural practices may contribute to the transmission of HPAI H5N1 to humans. As of late May 2006, nearly 50 human cases had been confirmed in Indonesia, a country roughly three times the size of Texas, but with 245 million citizens and more than 780 million poultry, most in small, backyard flocks.

In contrast, Texas has 23 million residents, and most of the state's 100 million poultry are produced commercially.

Then what's the concern?

The worst-case scenario would be a mutation of the virus that results in rapid human-to-human transmission. To date, HPAI H5N1 remains primarily a bird disease with only limited bird-to-human transmission.

Preparation. Communication.

At the national level, the USDA is working with a cadre of agencies in preparation for response to an HPAI H5N1 outbreak, should one occur.

As in most other states, the TAHC is working cooperatively with state and federal animal and human health agencies, and industry to prepare for an avian influenza situation.

Also, as a member of the Governor's Division of Emergency Management, the TAHC may enlist support from more than 30 agencies, if a disease outbreak occurs. The Foreign and Emerging Animal Disease response plan is the state's blueprint for a disease response.

To develop and maintain expertise, TAHC veterinarians and animal health inspectors have worked on poultry disease outbreaks and have participated in state- and national-level preparedness meetings.

Obituaries

DELISE E. MCGUIRE

Funeral services for Delise Estelle Mitchell McGuire, 106, of Lubbock were held at 1:00 p.m. Tuesday, May 30, 2006 at the First United Methodist Church of Anton.

Interment followed in the Anton Cemetery under the direction of Sanders Funeral Home of Lubbock.

Mrs. McGuire died peacefully in her sleep Saturday, May 27, 2006 at her home.

She was born in Clarksville, East Texas on March 16, 1900 to Rufus Bruce and Anna Jane Mitchell. They were early settlers in Hale County, involved in farming, ranching and operating a hardware store and funeral home they later sold to Frank Harmon.

She graduated from Floydada High School as the salutatorian of the class of 1920. She was a journalist, historian, civic leader in Hale, Floyd and Hockley counties.

Delise, whose first love was writing, served five years as Society Editor for the Plainview Evening Herald. After her marriage in 1925 to Robert McGuire, she moved to Floydada and the society desk at the Floyd County Hesperian for Editor Homer Steen. With the birth of her sons, Bobby and Don, she became active in local and state matters with offices in civic clubs and the Parent Teacher Association.

Journalism again became her inspiration when President Roosevelt's WPA program in the depression of the 1930's offered unemployed journalist the opportunity to collect and contribute to the most comprehensive guide to the history and geography of every county and township in every state. In this work she drove a 1936 Chevrolet over paved roads, unpaved and sometimes river beds to interview early day ranchers, settlers and in some cases Civil War veterans.

The outbreak of World War II in the 1940's presented Delise with a new experience as a government employee managing the ration board in Floyd County and later the Hale County Ration Board in Plainview.

An entirely new direction was taken when she and her husband, Bob opened a department store in Anton and the journalist became a merchant. Since she enjoyed meeting the public, she pursued this role until the death of Bob in 1966.

In 1968 Delise with her sisters, Edna Young of Plainview and Cecile Alder of California visited her son, Bobby in England who was employed by the Department of Defense in their opening school systems designed to provide state side education opportunities for the children of military community in England, Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

After this visit she decided in 1969 to join Bobby in England. She became acquainted with personnel in the school systems local, regional and national offices and developed many close friends.

Travel and gardening were activities avidly pursued and she worked in her vegetable garden along side her English Gardener, Brian Bishops well past her 100th birthday. She was honored on her 100th birthday by 50 friends and relatives who made the trip to England and took her across the channel to Brugge, Belgium. Birthday wishes included cards from Governor George Bush, President Clinton and Buckingham Palace representing Queen Elizabeth II.

She is survived by two sons, Robert and Donald Bruce McGuire and his wife, Naomi of Lubbock; a sister, Edna Young of Plainview; five grandchildren, Michelle Alexandra and husband, Curtis of Lubbock, Cristy Hamman and husband, Kerry of Georgetown, Don, Jr. and wife, Angela of Southlake, Amy Fry and husband, Chad of Arlington and Matthew Mitchell and wife Christine of Frisco and 10 great-grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers donations may be made to the First United Methodist Church of Anton.

Kenny Maines returns to Floydada FUMC

By Martha Farris

"It's a special occasion a tour First United Methodist Church when Kenny Maines joins us," said Rev. Les Hall, Pastor. "We are looking forward to his visit on Sunday, June 11 when he will provide the music for our 10:50 morning worship service."

On Sunday, June 11, there will be a combined service at 10:50 a.m. following Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. Kenny will begin playing as people gather before the service and several times during the service. A lunch will follow at noon and everyone is invited to the covered dish event!

Kenny was elected Lubbock County Commissioner in 1992 and held that position for 12 years. In 2004, he decided to leave politics and return full time to the music that he loved. "To be honest," the musician said, "I learned, as many do as we grow older, God has a definite plan for me. I felt I was not serving that plan."

While devoting 12 years as a County Commissioner, Kenny continued making public appearances and composing. He composed his first song at age 9, which isn't surprising since he grew up in a very musical family. On his last visit to FUMC, Kenny brought his first solo CD titled "Kenny Maines." Since that time, he has recorded "Out of Control," a new CD of Christian music. He will bring that CD with him June 11.

Kenny married Sharon Hibner in 1980 and they have two sons, Brian and Jeremy. Sharon is Anchor and Reporter for Lubbock News Channel 11. Kenny, Sharon, Brian and Jeremy are members of Aldersgate Methodist Church and have performed many times with the praise and worship team there. They have also provided special music on occasion. Currently, Brian plays drums and percussion for the praise team at Lubbock's First United Methodist Church contemporary service. Jeremy is majoring in Architecture at the University of Texas in Austin. He sings and plays guitar.

Alan Crossland, owner of Rt. 1 Acuff Studios where Kenny has recorded said, "When you play your heart out and get that energy back from the audience, it is a rush you really can't get anywhere else. I think singing and writing is what Kenny was put here to do."

Pastor Les Hall said, "Our hearts and door are always open. We invite everyone to join us on June 11 to hear Kenny sing and bring his Christian testimonies."
