

Loss of LBJ mourned by nation in memorial services

Lyndon B. Johnson, the 36th president of the United States who held office during six turbulent years, was buried yesterday at his Texas Hill Country ranch near Johnson City, Tex.

President Nixon ordered all federal buildings and installations closed yesterday for a national day of mourning, and flags on federal buildings and installations were ordered flown at half-staff for 30 days. The flags had been flying at half-staff since Dec. 26 to mark the death of former president Harry S Truman.

"It is particularly heartbreaking that even as our flags fly at half-staff in President Truman's memory, another of our leaders has fallen," President Nixon said Monday.

Memorial services took place yesterday morning at Reese Chapel and flags were formally raised the day following Johnson's death and yesterday morning.

Johnson was stricken Monday at his ranch home and was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after at Brooke Army Medical Hospital in San Antonio.

Johnson's death left the United States with no living former presidents for only the fourth time in the nation's history.

Reese AFB will host an observance of the National Prayer Breakfast at 7 a.m., Thursday in the Base Chapel Center.

The history of the National Prayer Breakfast goes back to 1952 when President Dwight D. Eisenhower established the Presidential Breakfast to seek divine guidance for national leadership and to reaffirm faith and dependence on God.

Each year since then, the breakfast has drawn together the President, members of his cabinet, the Supreme Court, Congress, civilian and military leaders as well as many leading businessmen. In 1970 the name was changed to the National Prayer Breakfast to emphasize less the individuals involved and more the purpose of the gathering.

At the forming of the Constitution, Benjamin Franklin declared, "I have lived, Sir, a long time; and the longer I live, the more convincing proofs I see of this truth: that God governs the affairs of men. If a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid?"

"We have been assured, Sir, in the Sacred Writings that, 'except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it.' I firmly believe that without His concerning aid we shall succeed in the political building no better than the builders of Babel."

It is significant that each of our founding fathers had a highly developed spiritual belief. Rights were "God-given"; man was "endowed by his Creator"; there were "natural rights" and freedom was related to the "sacredness of man".

When he was president, John F. Kennedy said, "This morning we prayed together, this evening apart. But each morning and each evening let us remember the advice of my fellow Bostonian, the Reverend Phillip Brook, 'Do not pray for easy lives. Pray to be stronger men. Do not pray for tasks equal to your power, pray for power equal to your tasks.'"

Air Force people hear a lot about utilities conservation. "Be careful how much water you use," and "don't let your lights burn indefinitely" are two popular themes on the subject.

However, even though Air Force personnel hear about conserving utilities, they don't always visualize the problem in dollars and cents.

For example, last fiscal year Air Training Command spent $173,000 for water in Family Housing areas. Additionally, $398,000 dollars was spent for water for operating and maintenance costs. (Operating and maintenance costs are those associated with mission accomplishment. An example would be the costs incurred on the flight line.)

Electricity is becoming a more important part of our lives each day. In the decade between 1960 and 1970, the total production of electrical energy in the U.S. more than doubled. One only needs to look at the new electrical home appliances appearing on store shelves every day.

Generally speaking, the more electricity you use, the less expensive each kilowatt hour becomes. However, the ATC electric bill for FY 72 was $1,658,- 000 for housing areas and $6,125,000 for O&M areas. This compares to $1,594,000 and $5,608,000 for FY 71 respectively.

Gas and sewage are also classified as utilities and here again the trend of spiraling costs for ATC can be found over the past few fiscal years.

Total utility bills for FY 71 and FY 72 were $10,090,000 and $10,767,000 respectively while the ATC Budget Office projects a FY 73 bill of $11,279,000.

Right now you might ask, "So what, how does all of this affect me?"

Well, you might ask yourself what your reaction would be if your home utilities bill increased by 10 per cent over a two year period.

Perhaps you would water your lawn fewer times each month.

Perhaps you wouldn't leave all those lights on when you weren't using them.

Family budgets being what they are these days, you would probably make a maximum effort to trim costs.

How about making a maximum effort for the Air Force? Your Air Force family is having budget problems, too. (ATCPS) bill is out of sight?

Promotions to the grade of first lieutenant will stop on July 1 for six months.

Promotions will resume on Jan. 1, 1974, at the 24-month phase point. Officials said that Defense Department guidance for fiscal year 1974 requires all serv-

An Air Force request for Defense Department to reconsider the decision has been disapproved. (AFNS).

Article 15 open to spectators if requested

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Non-judicial punishment proceedings (Article 15) will be open to spectators if requested by an accused member. This is one of the changes to the Uniform Code of Military Justice directed by Melvin R. Laird, Defense secretary.

Only exception to this new policy are cases where military exigencies or security interests would preclude public disclosure.

Secretary Laird said that he had studied the report of the task force on the Administration of Military Justice in the Armed Forces before deciding that changes were needed in administering justice in the military services. The task force was co-chaired by Lt. Gen. Claire E. Hutchin Jr., 1st Army commander, and Nathaniel R. Jones, general counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Other changes directed in Article 15 proceedings include: the availability of adequate legal advice to an accused person prior to action by commanders authorized to impose punishment, and the opportunity for full presentation by an accused person of his case in the presence of his or her commander, to include but not limited to the right to call witnesses, present evidence and to be accompanied by a person to speak on his or her behalf. In addition, each accused person is to be advised of his or her right to appeal any nonjudicial punishment and imposition of punishment under non-judicial punishment article is to be stayed pending completion of any appeal filed.

Airmen have long been advised of their right to appeal Article 15 punishment and of their right to military legal counsel at any stage of the proceeding upon their request under provisions of AFR 111-9, Air Force officials noted.

Another action taken by Secretary Laird requires the services to submit plans to revise the structure of the Judge Advocate General, and in the case of the Marine Corps, under the Director, Judge Advocate Division.

Secretary Laird said he realized that many recommendations by the task force require detailed analysis and review. In addition, many would require Congressional action for implementation.

"Accordingly, I have directed the general counsel of the Department of Defense to review and analyze those recommendations for changes in the military justice system, administrative procedures and discharges," he added.

Women may now pull KP during basic training

Women's equality has been given a boost at Lackland AFB.

School of Military Sciences-Airman officials have announced that female basic trainees soon will begin performing kitchen police chores during their six weeks here. Their male counterparts have been pulling KP so long that nobody knows for sure if there was ever a day in Air Force history that such was not the case.

The decision to put female trainees on KP—they will probably be scheduled for the duty three times during their six weeks here—was made following an annual review of basic training. The review board, consisting of selected personnel representing the Air Force's major commands, recommended the move as a step to eliminate inequality between the male and female programs.

Now, officials said, the two training programs are almost identical. However, females remain exempt from M-16 rifle firing and trip through the confidence course, while males skip charm school training.

2nd Lt. Sandra Alexander, administrative officer for the 3743rd Training Squadron, said the women will pull KP only in their squadron's dining facility. Previously, male trainees took care of KP in the women's dining hall. (ATC)

Welcome given 74-03

By Capt. Charles Thrash

It is time to welcome the new class again. Class 74-03 has arrived in our halls, and of course the trials and tribulations of getting adjusted to the Tango 37 are well under way by now. One indication that they have started flying comes in the way of a sign located on the door leading to the parachute room—"Do not bring used barf bags in here".

Zero population growth may be a hot topic nationwide, but in our squadron it has been completely ignored. We have recently had two new additions that have kept us in cigars for the past week. Capt. Larry Landtroop's wife, Linda, gave birth to a boy, Ryan; and Capt. Jeff Jorgenson's wife, Kathy, presented the world another future fighter by the name of Christopher. We hear that Jeff was a little upset with the timing. He was hoping for a 1972 arrival and another tax deduction.

Talons Thumped

Last week, in an attempt to make excuses for past defeats, Talon Talk made some uncalled for remarks about not seeing pilots of the 35th in the stag bar recently. Well, reference to the flying time board shows who is doing the work to stay up with their flying time. We usually work so late that by the time we get there the bar is closed.

We have been experiencing the rigors of going through the change-over to a totally controlled radar environment. And as to be expected there has been some confusion among IPs and students alike. One student thought that when approach control called out traffic he was supposed to say "no joy" because he wasn't having any fun.

Gee-Whiz Award

The Gee-Whiz-Award this week goes to a member of the new class who is a former varsity football player. It seems after several rides he is unable to hold the aircraft still with the brakes during the runup check. Just proves again that you have to be tough to fly the mighty Tweet.

Engine Shop can

By 2nd Lt. Steve Eames

Propulsion branch workers at Reese are responsible for supplying engines in top working order for both types of aircraft flying from the base.

And mechanics rarely get a chance "to run it around the block for a test."

Besides making repairs of engines still mounted on the craft, shops also are charged with periodic inspections, replacement and repairs of the engine parts and testing propulsion systems.

Required Maintenance

Foy A. Naler, supervisor of the J-69 Field Maintenance Engine Shop, said as of August 1972 all engines for T-37 aircraft are required by the Air Force to be torn down completely, inspected and reassembled at least once each year.

The propulsion branch is manned by about half the resources of the field maintenance unit with both civilian and military mechanics assigned.

Engines Removed

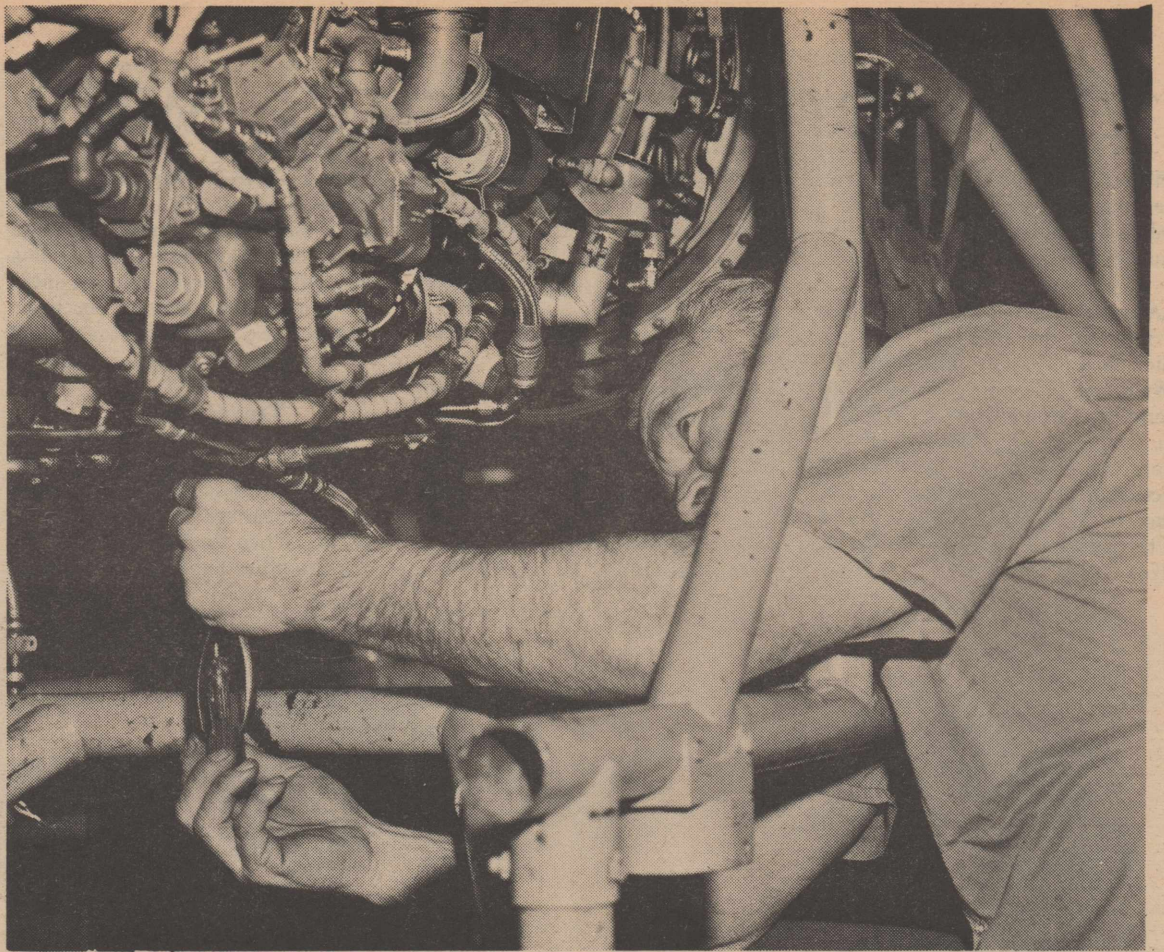

Engines to be inspected are removed from the aircraft by flight line support personnel and transported to the proper engine shop. Minor repairs and inspections also are made by flight line support workers.

Once engines enter the shop they are torn down for inspection, repair or replacement of each part and reassembled. Engines are then mounted at the test cell, hooked up to test cell instruments, started and checked.

Final repairs and adjustments are then made and engines are remounted on the craft.

Annual Check

Engines used on T-37s are completely torn down and inspected each 12 months or 800 hours, whichever comes first. Naler explained each engine works about 2.2 hours per day. Generally T-37 engines never reach 800 hours with inspection.

MSgt. James Maybon, supervisor of the J-85 Field Maintenance Engine Shop, said engines used in T-38 craft are inspected each 800 or 1200 hours depending on the model of engine used in the craft.

In addition engine shops perform maintenance on start-cart engines used to fire up jets in T-38s.

Accessory Repair

Also important to maintenance of aircraft engines is the accessory repair area at the engine shops. Personnel are charged with repairing and replacing accessory equipment directly connected to proper engine performance.

Repair of engines while still mounted on aircraft and trouble-shooting to determine the cause of engine trouble is handled by flight line support workers.

Air Force husband, wife 'band' together

Many husbands and wives share the same interest, but Stephen and Dallas Wright have carried the idea one step further.

Airmen Stephen C. and Dallas Wright fit the title of a Palace Flick to a "T". The flick is called "We're All Playing in the Same Band" and that's what the Wrights do. They are the first Air Force man and wife to play in the same section of a band. Both play French horn in the 590th Air Force Band of the East based at Westover AFB, Mass.

Difficult Instrument

Air Force band officials said that the French horn is the most difficult brass instrument to play. Officials added that Dallas is one of 10 women among a total Air Force band force of more than 1,300 people.

The couple met in junior high school in Dallas, Tex., and continued through high school together playing in the W. W. Samuell High School band there. They decided after graduating that the best way to be together and finance their future educations in music would be to enlist in the Air Force.

On July 15, 1972, the Wrights were married. On Aug. 1 Stephen went on active duty while Dallas was enlisted into the delayed entry program. Before leaving for basic training she flew to Westover AFB to audition for the band and was accepted.

Travel Together

Now that they are back together at Westover AFB they seem pleased with their choice of the Air Force and the western Massachusetts location. When the band goes on the road to other bases, or to performances in distant communities, the Wrights travel together.

"We really get special treatment. They let us room together whenever they can since they don't know what to do with me," says Dallas. In their travels they have even been guests in the bachelor officer quarters at one base.

Bach to Rock

Stephen and Dallas enjoy all types of music, from Bach to rock, and though both are only 19, they have been playing French horn a combined total of 16 years, she for seven, he for nine.

Both agree they want to attend college and earn degrees in music. They have made no decision where to go as yet, but Stephen thinks the New England Conservatory is an excellent choice and quite convenient to the Westover AFB location. (AFNS)

New officers elected for Mexican American Club

The Reese Mexican-American Club held its semi-annual meeting for the election of new officers Jan. 19 at the NCO Open Mess. Thirty members were present for the voting of six offices in the club.

Henry Salgado was elected to the position of club president, replacing TSgt. Raul Sanchez. TSgt. Joe Perez was elected vice president; MSgt. Gilbert Gonzales took over as club recorder; Sgt. Vincente Ramirez became treasurer; SSgt. Antonio Gomez and Sgt. Joe Rodriguez were instated as sergeants-at-arms.

During his last speech as club president, Sergeant Sanchez commended members and officers for their "support and hard work, which made 1972 a successful year". In closing, the sergeant urged members, "Be proud to be an American, and equally proud to be a Mexican American."

Brought up at the business portion of the meeting were suggestions to initiate a women's auxiliary club comprised of member's wives, and a planning and programming committee to set project goals for 1973.

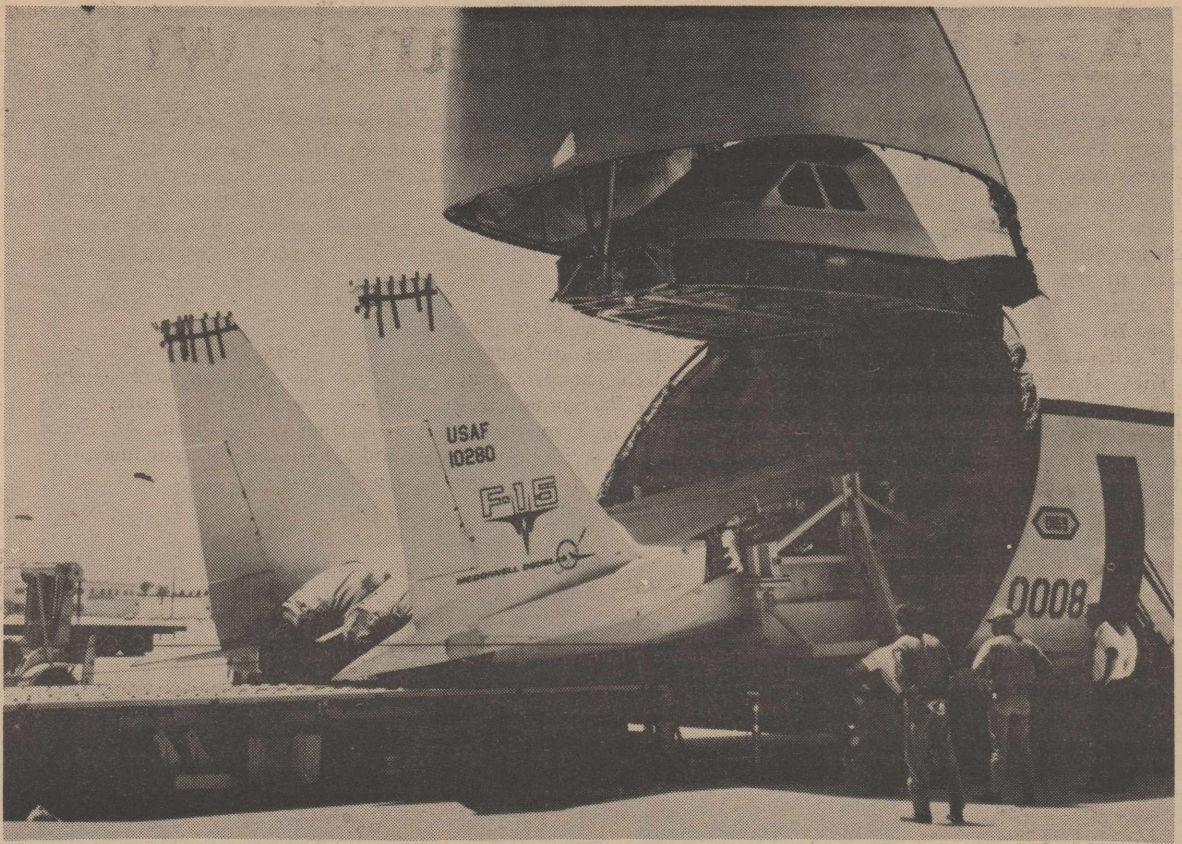

Confederates top lineup

Dancing music tonight at the NCO Open Mess will feature Chuck Harding and the Confederates to start the week's entertainment list.

The dining room will be open from 5 until 10 p.m. tonight and tomorrow. Entertainment tomorrow night will be provided by James Tompkins and the Revolutions. Sunday and Thursday nights will offer Discotheque with Gerald Lewis.

The mess offers the happy hour game every weekday at 5:45 p.m. A dinner special is offered every Tuesday and Wednesday in the mess dining room.

BX Advisory Committee seeks gripes, comments

By A1C Buddy Lerch
You don't see the type of clothing you like in the BX. You think the portion of the meat in the sandwiches at the cafeteria is too small. You feel the prices on food carried by the "Running Chef" are too high. Where can you go to comment on any of these things?

If you have comments or suggestions on any of the BX facilities or services, take them to your unit Base Exchange Advisory Committee representative. There are representatives for all units on base, and they stand ready to hear your complaints, suggestions or comments.

Meets Monthly

The Base Exchange Advisory Committee meets monthly to discuss exchange policy and receive communication from patrons via unit representatives. During the recent January meeting, topics of discussion included the base service station, the soft drink machine price increase, a complaint from flight line personnel concerning the services offered by the "Running Chef" and a proposed additional service and renovation at the barber shop. Also discussed was the possibility of featuring a "Mod Shop", either in the exchange itself, or contained in a mobile unit which would travel through a multi-base area, setting up shop on the participating bases at regular intervals.

Representatives Listed

Personnel from the 64th Air Base Group with comments should contact Lt. Col. Frederick W. Dederich or Maj. Hugh F. McCrary; 64th Pilot Training Wing personnel have as their representative Lt. Col. Marshall E. Vorhies; Maj. Lowry G. Martin serves as 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron representative.

Field Maintenance Squadron personnel should contact Maj. Harry J. Hennigar Jr.; Maj. James R. Price represents Supply Squadron; Hospital personnel should contact Capt. John R. Beaty; SMSgt. Julian H. Hyde serves as Student Squadron representative; and MSgt. Lloyd V. Floyd represents the Communications Squadron.

The BX Advisory Committee is active for all patrons, and invites everyone with a comment to contact his representative.

Farewell bid 73-06

By Capt. Roger Carter

The 54th graduates another group of Air Force pilots this week with the completion of class 73-06. For this, considering all the bad weather and difficulties of late, Charlie and Goat Flights deserve a special compliment for their efforts in successfully and safely meeting the deadline. Out of the new group receiving their wings today the 54th will gain two IPs—2nd Lieutenants Wilton Steed and Steve Mires.

Speaking of new people, Alpha Flight has two new faces. First Lt. Bill Pritchett and 2nd Lt. Mike Notley have returned from PIT to take on students. Both are recent UPT graduates at Reese. Welcome aboard all!

Squadron moves this week see Capt. Fred Kishler moving up to the wing to take over Capt. Mike Marks' job in operations. Captain Marks leaves next month for RF-4s at Shaw AFB, S.C. Capt. Roy Westerfield, formerly of Echo Flight, becomes the squadron's newest check pilot. Hawg Flight's Capt. Wayne Riggs goes to Flight Test.

The Silver Tongue Award goes to the frustrated student who dazed the Amarillo tower with some accidental mumbling about a trim button and its relationship with a type of natural fertilizer . . . !?!? Oops!

The squadron grapevine this week has Capt. Mike Conner getting MARRIED . . . and that's a confirmed rumor.

AFN 41 film reviewed

The Air Force Now film (AFN 41) for February Commander's Calls will center around the subject of "Air Rescue in Southeast Asia".

The rescue of one downed pilot, Capt. Gerald Lawrence, will be detailed step by step to show the necessary actions for each rescue. The scenes typify the rescues in combat zones continuing daily in Vietnam.

There are five main components of the rescue force in SEA. The FACs (forward controllers), Jolly Greens (helicopters), Kings (Lockheed HC-130), the Joker (Joint Rescue Control Centers) and the Sandys (slow-movers) comprise the service.

The film highlights the role of each craft and service necessary for a successful combat zone rescue. The story ends upon the return to allied territory.

Chapel sets February's events

The Reese Chapel has announced its list of special events for February.

First among these is the monthly Mass and luncheon for the Catholic Women of the Chapel, scheduled for 12:30 p.m., Feb. 2. Everyone attending is asked to bring a casserole for the luncheon.

Bible study classes for Protestant women will be held on Feb. 13 and 27. All ladies are invited.

A Sweetheart Banquet will be held at 7 p.m., Feb. 24 in the Chapel Hall. Tickets for the affair are available from Catholic and Protestant parishoners or the chapel's administrative office until Feb. 19. Cost per ticket is set at $1.50. Dress for the occasion is coat-and-tie for men, and after five for women. The menu will consist of roast beef, potatoes, salad and dessert.

palace flicks

Family Services work is subject of cassette

This week's review of the Palace Flicks program centers on the sound-on-film cassette entitled "The Family Services Program."

Directed at all Air Force personnel and their families, the five-minute film covers in depth the mission of Family Services, a program based on the idea that the Air Force should "take care of its own".

The complexities of military life and the difficulties in the certain way of living are recognized at all levels of command. Recognized also is the need for a secure and harmonious family life if military performance is to be efficient. That's where the Family Services program comes in.

Natural childbirth notice issued by CHAMPUS

DENVER — Nonavailability Statements (DD Form 1251) will no longer be issued routinely to expectant mothers who wish to deliver in civilian facilities using the method known as "natural childbirth."

Officials of CHAMPUS—the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services—note that the natural childbirth method is now used when requested in some uniformed services medical facilities. Therefore, the decision to issue a Nonavailability Statement will be based upon the actual nonavailability of the natural childbirth method in the uniformed service facility issuing the statement.

CHAMPUS officials add that only dependents of active duty personnel residing with their sponsor within 30 miles of a uniformed services hospital must obtain a Nonavailability Statement before receiving inpatient care under CHAMPUS. Dependents who are separated from their active duty sponsor, living more than 30 miles from a uniformed services hospital, or living in Iowa, Minnesota, Oregon, Vermont, West Virginia or Wisconsin have free choice between CHAMPUS and care in a uniformed services facility, as do retirees, their dependents and dependents of deceased members.

Youth league begins basketball season

The Reese Youth Basketball League began their season Sunday afternoon in the base gymnasium with two hard-fought games.

The first game saw the 11-13 year-old League teams, the Knicks and the Lakers battling it out to a 23-14 decision in favor of the Lakers. High scorers for the Lakers were Elda Roberts with 15, Jim Lambrecht with four and Jim Duesterhaus and Rick Gueraro with two apiece.

Scoring for the Knicks saw Tony Beaubouef hitting for 16, David Beaubouef scoring four and Kenny Ward and Ricky Williams logging two each. The game was played at 4 p.m. in the gym. The second game of the day was a runaway in favor of the Celtics as they crushed the Royals by a final tally of 36-5. Mike Benson led the scoring for the Celtics with 18 and his brother, Wally, followed close behind with six. Brent Swanson also hit for six points, and Dennis Pusser, Kenny Moore and Ernest White scored two each.

The Royals scoring was accomplished by Keith Ward with three and Tony Tinman with two. The games for this weekend will see the Rockets going at it with the Pacers at 4 p.m. and the Knicks versus the Royals for the second game. The nightcap will host the Lakers against the Celtics.

Volleyball plans given by gym

Officials at the base gymnasium have announced that a varsity volleyball team is presently in the planning stages.

The team will represent Reese in local competition. An organizational meeting will be held at noon, Wednesday. Persons are needed to play and officials for the competition are also needed.

Interested persons are encouraged to contact Raul Sanchez at ext. 2207 or attend the meeting Wednesday.

Rattlers strike Roadrunners in weekend cage competition

The Reese Rattlers defeated the Cannon AFB, N.M., team in two games last weekend in the base gym in preparation for the upcoming Air Training Command tournament.

The Rattlers edged the Roadrunners Jan. 19 by a slim 91-89 in a hard-fought, non-stop defensive game. Dwight Lucas, the Reese player-coach, led the scoring for both teams with 29 points.

Other two-figure scoring for Reese was logged by Sylvester Becknell with 18, Joost Van Bastalaan with 16, Sammy Eskew with 11 and Langford Knight with 10. Robert Jackson led the defensive drive for the Cannon Roadrunners, but it was not enough to stop the red-hot Rattlers as they move towards the ATC Basketball Tournament, scheduled for Jan. 31 through Feb. 4 at Sheppard AFB, Tex.

Cannon, the 1970 Tactical Air Command (TAC) basketball champions, returned for a rematch Sunday afternoon, but were again silenced by the Rattlers, 82-75.

The Rattlers are scheduled to play two games against Lubbock teams this weekend and will see action against the team from Webb AFB, Tex., at 2 p.m., Sunday, in the base gym.

Officials at the dining hall have expressed a concern about the increasing number of guests that are being brought in to that facility. They request that personnel only bring guests when necessary and to avoid bringing them every day.

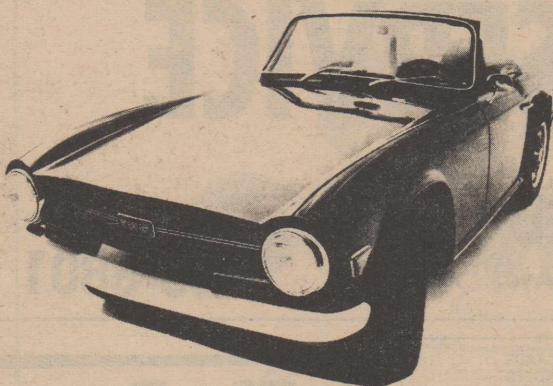

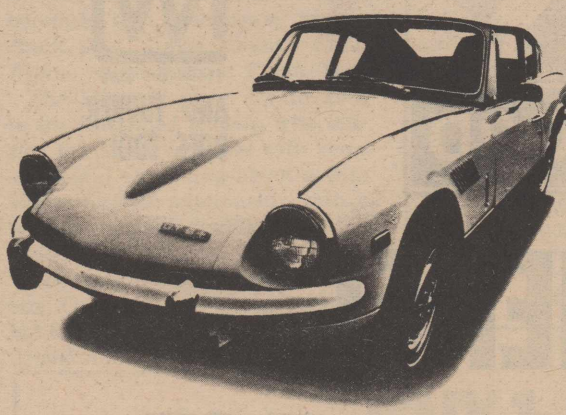

A reminder has also been issued that only two meals will be served on weekends and holidays. Breakfast will be served from 7 a.m. until 11 a.m., and lunch-supper will be served from 12:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. Flying weekends will be handled as regular duty days and three meals will be served.
