HASKELL, HASKELL COUNTY, TEXAS, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1916.

WHOLE NO. 1592

ASSAULT MADE ON W. O. W. HALL

Friday night, Oct. 6th while the members of Elmwood Camp No. 1, W. O. W., were innocently attending to their own business affairs, thinking only of maintaining their "sovereigns" certain "Wild" of "Rule" would be at the "Point" of the camp quietly "in."

Only all were startled by a demonstration in or near the room; this was quickly followed by a force too great for the members to resist with any hope of success. Hastily secreting the hourly out, and by opening the windows removing as far as possible all of his recent presence, the members prepared to meet the onslaught of the gallantry of valiant men, though one or two of the timid ones prepared to make by means of the windows.

Resistance was not protracted; the members meekly surrendered. The "sovereigns" were escorted into the hall each with a beautiful "Mesquite" draped in white; the members gradually retired to one while the only "Wild" in the forest was quickly subduing up after one short

Birthday Party

On October 7th, at 4 p. m. little Miss Loraine Taylor entertained 20 of her friends under five years of age. The little tots enjoyed various games, story reading and kodaking on the lawn. After an hour's pleasure they were ushered to the dining room by Loraine, which was prettily decorated with cute flowers and a tiny cake covered in cherries, and 3 burning candles. On another table were her beautiful little gifts for which she thanked her little friends, and entertained them by reciting and spelling while they were served ice cream cones and fruit by Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Wilson. After much merriment in blowing out the candles the little ones were invited into the parlor and enjoyed piano music by Mrs. Taylor.

Then wishing Loraine many happy birthdays, they said good bye.

M. E. PARK MADE SUCCESS FARMING

M. E. Park, living a few miles north of town is one of our best known citizens, a successful farmer with a modern home and well improved farm consisting of 320 acres of good land and 200 acres in cultivation.

Mr. Park was sheriff of Haskell County from 1906 to 1910, serving the people for four years in that capacity.

After the expiration of his office he returned to his farm where he now resides and began farming and stock raising.

He has some very fine stock in which he takes a great pride. His horses are excellent and his Jersey cattle are of the best breeding.

Mrs. Park has the Buff Orpington chickens and they are beautiful birds and make a good showing. She has an incubator and gives much time and energy to poultry raising. Mr. Park made a good feed crop and his cotton is making a fair yield.

FARMERS RACE TO GIN—WAGON UP-SET

In a race to be first under the suction with a bale of seed cotton at the Newsom gin, Saturday between Sam Newsom and Charlie Bledsoe two well known farmers of this section, resulted in the up-setting of Bledsoe's wagon and breaking out the tongue. Mr. Bledsoe was thrown from the wagon, but escaped without injury.

The team broke loose from the wagon and ran about the gin yard, but was soon stopped by other parties present.

Fortunately they were near the gin when the accident occurred and plenty of assistance was at hand, and the wreck was soon cleared away.

J. V. Williams returned Sunday from the east to Haskell where he says that many places in east Texas are very dry. Cotton is nearly all picked out, and some wheat was being sown.

YOUNG MAN STOPS RUNAWAY MULE TEAM

While Calvin Pitman, a mute, living south of town was watering a team of mules at one of the public watering places on the square, the team became frightened and ran away.

The young man had taken off the bridle from one of the mules, and the mule, thinking it had the advantage made the break to run away. However, the young man was equal to the occasion, seizing the mule by the ear and throat he held on, and finally succeeded in choking the mule down and stopping the team after they had ran almost around the square.

Fortunately no damage was done. The pluck of the young man coupled with good judgment averted much damage that might have happened had he been less vigilant.

WOODMEN CIRCLE STORM W. O. W.

Friday night, October 7th, the Woodmen Circle ladies had a very successful time in storming the Woodmen. They waited until they knew the lodge had opened up the lodge and were going through with such business as is customary, when to the surprise of many, the door was thrown wide open, and something like fifty ladies marched in, taking seats on the right and left of the stage. After the crowd quieted down, Mrs. Kline was called on to make a speech which was enjoyed by the crowd present. They showed their endorsement by the cheers which followed. Sov. Collier made a short talk and turned the time over to the ladies. The W. O. W. ladies had given the W. O. W. ladies an invitation to be present on that night with their drill. Sov. Kirkpatrick, Guardian of the W. O. W. introduced Sov. Stevenson, captain of the Stamford team. She called her team to the floor to put the work on. Everyone watched with eager eyes as the portly looking ladies took their places waiting for the Captain to give the signal, which was not but a few minutes. After the first signal music began, each one keeping in harmony and time. Out in the ante room where they all put on their regalia, returning with their continued the march, till they were gone through with it all. Cheers were given, and were repeated from the side of the house. They were gratulated by every one present. It was worth the time to see how they were trained. No one could ever regret being present and seeing what the right kind of training means. Stevenson was greatly praised for her faithful work. Mrs. Eula White furnished music for the benefit of all on the piano. It is to be praised for her talent in music. After they had listened to beautiful strains of music which thrilled the hearts and minds of the crowd, the W. O. W. ladies served sandwiches and coffee, after which cake and cream were passed. Every one was served with this. After everyone had gotten ready to eat, the hall was cleared, giving space for the team, as were specially requested to put work on again. In a very few minutes the sixteen ladies, white and red, well matched team were all in their places, going through with their march which seemed to be appreciated after having eaten the refreshments, which were especially prepared for the W. O. W. How we do look to our "Big Sister." We feel and yet we can't see the great arm of protection which ever surrounds us. We do honor and respect the name W. O. W. far more than we can find words to express.

Nunn, of Stamford was called on to make a speech. How the crowd arose and more especially did Stamford team cheer when he spoke of being so proud. How honorable did they feel to see their Auxiliary doing the great work they were doing. Sov. H. A. Goldsticker was called to the floor and responded beautifully to Mr. Nunn's words of praise in their behalf. Following are the names of the team composing the team from Stamford: Captain Sov. Stevenson, Mesdames Katie Hall, Bill Bruce, H. A. Goldsticker, Casner, Chas Owens, Campbell, Lackey, Piron, J. F. Lee, Frank Ballard. The following are the visitors from Stamford: Mabel Bryant, Helen Edmes, Mesdames Moore, Nunn, Ballard and Messrs Bill Chas Edwards, Thad Clark, Moore, Dr. Montgomery, I. W. Stevenson. The following were here from the lodge:

MAGAZINE CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

With the coming of October, the Magazine Club has again begun their winter time activities. The first meeting was held Friday, Oct. 6th at the club room, and was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Fred Sanders. The program consisted of speeches from each of the ex-presidents, Mesdames Wilson, Key, Fields, and Murchison. All were good and very much appreciated and the greetings from our new president was given with that assurance of love and kindness and of that enthusiasm and interest that she has always manifested in the workings of the Club for good. She said with the cooperation and loyalty of each member this would be the banner year of the Magazine Club in the history of Haskell.

From four to five o'clock a social hour was held, and refreshments consisting of fruit punch, ice cream and angel food cake were served to something like sixty five ladies who availed themselves of the opportunity of being entertained at the hospitality of our new president.

Cow Recovers Lavalliere
Little Ida May Hunt residing near Temple is a believer in miracles since she recovered a gold chain and lavalliere lost some weeks ago. The ornament was found by her one day twisted around the leg of the family milk cow and mudencased.

The child lost the trinket in the river. She prayed that it might be recovered to her. The family cow seeking water waded in the river, sank up to her hocks in the mud, and when she pulled her feet out of the mud, the lost article came up too. When her father went to milk the cow, the discovery was made.

The finding of this lavalliere gave this child great joy, but her joy was nothing compared to the delights found in the show case of beautiful jewelry at J. W. Pace Drug Store. And if you lose it and no cow is handy to bring it in, we keep more just like it or better.

From Center Point lodge, the following: Charlie Fouts Mr. Bland and Mr. Adams.

There were other visiting members but we failed to get their names.

Sov. Collier called the house to order and expressed his appreciation to the ladies for entertaining them so royally, and was going to show it by giving the ladies and visitors a free pass to the picture show. The crowd was soon lined up and went parading down the streets feeling it was good to be there, and be one of the happy members.

By the time the crowd got over to the show, the house was clear, giving seats to the comfort of all, more especially to the tired ladies that waited and served the crowd. But they soon forgot ever being tired when the funny cartoon was flashed on the screen, followed by a very interesting picture. The music was certainly fine, and seemed to suit the occasion perfectly.

Before parting the Stamford ladies extended the invitation to the Haskell ladies which was accepted heartily. Sov. Goldsticker promised to meet with us again the third Saturday. She is one of the best lodge boosters, and one that we all reverence and respect, and always look forward to her coming with delight.

One would naturally think Villa is an exceptionally greasy greaser.

There is always something to be thankful for. Have you thought recently what yours should be.

The open season for paying your taxes is here and the collector will be found at the same old stand.

Cotton is selling for better than 16c per pound and the farmers of Haskell County still speak and associate with us common town folks.

Haskell doesn't believe in doing things by halves—the new Baptist Church when completed, would be a credit to a town many times larger.

The true benefactor of West Texas is the farmer who is able to make two "thoroughbred porkers" grow where none grew before.

The State Fair at Dallas will hold forth this year from Oct. 14th to 29th. We know, because we have just received our official notification to that effect.

A government expert says sugar can be produced for two cents per pound, but we have never been able to induce our groceryman to produce at anything near that price.

The Asperment Star has a man in this county who owns a good farm, plenty of livestock, feed stuff, etc., and will make twenty bales of cotton this year—still he has not been able to take his county paper. We are glad he lives in Stonewall County instead of Haskell as we would dislike to take chances on the breed increasing.

Old Ad Changed

In resetting our professional cards this week on the machine, the ad of the law firm of H. G. McConnell was set in new type, and we take occasion to remark that this ad, same type and same border has been running in the Free Press since 1900—sixteen years without change, or without missing an issue. In looking over the files of the Free Press the professional card of H. G. McConnell is found in every paper since 1887.

In this connection it might be well to remark that Judge McConnell is one of the leading lawyers in West Texas.

A Treat

C. Sears, of New Mid, was in the city last Saturday with some real East Texas ribbon cane, that he received from his old home near Woodville in Tyler county. He called at the Free Press office and left a choice stalk for our mutual benefit that made the force and editor some good chewing.

Mr. Sears will ship a car of home-made ribbon cane syrup to this county in the near future.

One of our subscribers, G. W. Hutto, of Rule is the owner of a valuable cow which gives milk from six teats. Would it be possible and advisable to develop a breed of milkers with six teats from these freaks of the bovine family?

There will be some land selling in Haskell county this Fall, it may be your place. List it with T. C. Cahill, Haskell, Texas.

FROM THE FIELD

BY W. M. FREE

TUESDAY

In the afternoon we went northwest of town stopping first at the home of J. E. Bolles on the Gilliam road. Mr. Bolles had gone to Knox City for the day, and the girls were picking cotton near the house. Mrs. Bolles has some nice chickens and turkeys, and we noticed some good hogs in the pen.

We made our next stop at the home of A. B. Thornton. He had gone to town and we found no one at home except the small children.

We spent the night with John McGregor, a tenant farmer who has done exceedingly well in this section. He has about thirty-five head of horses and mules; plenty of hogs and cows for home use; lots of chickens and turkeys, and cultivates 200 acres of land. Mr. McGregor has a big job hauling water for 55 head of stock and for the family also, which keeps him well employed. We enjoyed our stay with these good folks, and went our way rejoicing the next morning.

WEDNESDAY

We met S. M. McCain in the road who said he was hauling his 49th bale of cotton to the gin. He gave us $1.00 for the Free Press to go to his address one day.

We noticed J. M. Poteet, of Myers has lumber on the ground to build a smoke house. He has out eighteen bales of cotton. His cotton was damaged by the recent hail, but he is making a fair crop.

We stopped at the home of Fred Monke. Fred had gone for a load of corn to finish up his hogs before shipping them to market. He has some fine ones and they will bring top price.

We drove off the road a little ways to the home of T. M. Keele, a young tenant farmer on the Weinert farm. He has a good crop, and Mrs. Keele has a lot of chickens and turkeys on the yard.

We called at the home of John Popelka, a Bohemian farmer. He was in California working in one of the big sugar plants. His wife and children are looking after the farm. They had fine luck with poultry, having 300 chickens and 50 turkeys on the yard at this time.

We stopped by and saw John Peter. He was picking cotton near the house John has the Lone Star variety of cotton and says he likes it fine. He raises lots of chickens, hogs and cattle for home use.

C. M. Hlavaty and family were picking cotton in a far field, and we failed to see them, but left them a Free Press to read at the house.

We called at the home of ex-sheriff M. E. Park, and was pleased to look over his up-to-date surroundings—nice residence, good barn and other buildings. An account of his success will be given in another part of the Free Press.

We stopped at the home of Joe Stastny, a Bohemian farmer. He was plowing near the house. He has a good farm of 120 acres; has 4 head of fine young mules; 4 head of good cows; and hogs for his meat. They raise lots of chickens. He will make better than one-quarter of a bale of cotton per acre from his entire crop.

D. T. Elmore was peddling beef to his neighbors as we passed his house, and we failed to see him. He has a good cotton and feed crop and has some fine hogs. He sold five head of fat hogs in Weinert Monday.

We called on Frank Havran. He was picking cotton. He has out 8 bales. Owns 120 acres of good land and has plenty of good stock to farm his place. Raises lots of chickens and turkeys, and is doing fine every way.

We reached the home of W. E. Adams a little after noon, but Mrs. Adams gave us a good dinner; had fried chicken along with other good things to eat.

A. G. Vannoy was helping Mr. Adams break stubble, getting ready for wheat sowing. The recent hail and big rain damaged the cotton very badly in this section.

F. G. Wheeler had gone to Weinert with bale of cotton to be ginned. He has some fine horses and Mrs. Wheeler raised chickens and turkeys. Mr. Wheeler has nine head of hogs and 12 head of cattle, and is one of the best farmers in his community.

We met A. C. Malerry in the road near his home. He had been to the gin at Weinert. He has just begun picking and has out three bales, and reports some hail damage to his cotton crop.

We next called at the home of J. V. Lewis. He was picking cotton. His cotton was damaged by the hail very badly. Mrs. Lewis has a big bunch of R. I. chickens and turkeys and they were looking fine.

The big lake on the farm where Mr. Lewis lives was filled by the big rain, and hundreds of wild ducks were swimming and flying over the lake as we passed by. We wished for a gun, and the game laws repealed at that particular time.

We called on J. R. Collier who was picking cotton near the road. Joe is one of the best young farmers in Haskell county. He bought part of the tract of land known as the open section east of Rochester one day last week. He made about 30 tons of maize and has 60 acres of good cotton.

We drove to the field where D. M. Baird was helping his wife pick cotton. The crop was badly damaged by the hail, and Mr. Baird received damages from the insurance he was carrying. Mrs. Baird has a lot of chickens and turkeys, and she has had good luck with them.

We drove into the city of Weinert and found everything lively—cotton selling for 16 cents—and everybody in a hurry. Weinert is a queenly little city, and her business men are a live bunch, working for the best interest of their town and surrounding country.

We called on Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stockton, who have attained a ripe old age. Mr. Stockton is 73, and Mrs. Stockton is 67 years of age. They are splendid old people, and have been in Haskell county fourteen years.

We spent the night with D. E. McDonald, a good farmer living east of Weinert. We enjoyed our stay with those good people. Mr. McDonald came from Hill county last year. This is his first crop in Haskell. He has some good horses and cattle; 30, or more head of Poland China hogs, and chickens and turkeys by the score. Luke Johnson, Mrs. McDonald's brother is farming with him. Luke is a hustler and a good business man.

THURSDAY

We called early at the home of J. F. Newton. He had gone to Lynn county and will go from there to Crosby county, where he will arrange to move his family soon.

We made our next stop at the home of J. H. Gould, who came from Ellis county last year and made his first crop here. Mr. Gould is an advocate of good farming, and believes in deep plowing and thorough cultivation. He has sowed 60 acres of wheat and has a fine stand; has 60 acres of volunteer oats, which has come up nicely. He is getting ready to sow more wheat, and will begin in a few days. Mr. Gould is an advocate of a farmer making his living from the farm. He raises hogs and keeps Jersey cattle for milk and butter, and Mrs. Gould raises lots of chickens, the Plymouth Rock is her favorite breed.

E. S. Weed was picking cotton when we passed his place. His cotton was badly damaged by the hail. Mrs. Weed raises lots of chickens and turkeys every year.

We stopped by the home of O. S. Wood. They were all in the field picking cotton. Mr. Wood is one of the best tenant farmers in his section. He is now able to buy a home, and will soon be a land owner.

We made our next call at the Weaver farm. J. N. Weaver and J. F. Weaver are farming the place. They own 320 acres of good land. They came from Montague county the first of the year, and have made their first crop. J. N. will teach the Pleasant Valley school the ensuing term.

We called on Ed King, a splendid tenant farmer from Bell county. He is doing well. He has some of the best cotton in the Pleasant Valley community, and owns 6 good mules. Mrs. King has had good success with her chickens this year.

We stopped at the home of J. K. Mitchell, finding no one at the house we hastened on. We called again and got a write up of this good farmer and his success in Haskell county.

We stopped at the home of Henry Free, one of the best farmers in his section. He grows various crops and makes a success farming and stock raising. He was not at home when we passed, and our write up is limited at this time.

We took dinner with Jim H. Free and had a good dinner, and was made to feel welcome in this happy home. Jim was picking cotton and has out 5 bales and has quite a lot of open cotton. Mrs. Free has a nice bunch of chickens and turkeys and they are doing fine.

We drove to the home of J. W. Derr, a prosperous farmer who owns about 200 acres of good land; has a nice residence; good barns and is making a living and laying up money for a rainy day. Mrs. Derr has the Plymouth Rock chickens, and a nice lot of turkeys. Mr. Derr has his wheat all sown, and it is up to a good stand, and he has a fine stand of volunteer oats. He had gone to Haskell with a load of oats to sell. He made a good crop of oats last year.

E. L. Ridling had just left home for his daily trip to Weinert. He is the present County Commissioner, and has the public roads and bridges in good condition. He has a splendid residence, and a good farm. He came from Bell county about 14 years ago, and is one of the best citizens. He has a lot of good stock and is a good farmer.

Our time being up for the week we began our journey homeward, meeting Wm. Myers and Fred Monke, who were coming from Haskell. They were out looking after plans and materials to build the new school building at Myers, and informed us that work on this building would begin soon.

We reached Haskell late in the afternoon, a little bit jaded with the dust of field upon our face, but our labor was not in vain—our efforts were crowned with success.

We again thank you for your kindness, for it shall not be forgotten. We will be out again next week.

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardul, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardul, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardul, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill. I wish every suffering woman would give a trial. I still use Cardul when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good." Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardul, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardul for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.

THE BOGANY LUNATIC BAKERS, THE FUNNIEST ACT ON EARTH, ENGAGED FOR STATE FAIR

Those cynical persons who declare that real humor is a lost art are warmly urged to pay a visit to the State Fair of Texas this year and see the antics of the Bogany Troupe of Lunatic Bakers. It's pretty sure that after seeing this act they will have reason to change their minds, for the Bogany's are just about the funniest and cleverest comedians be the public today. This act during the past season has been the big humorous hit of the New York Hippodrome and is described as one of the most thoroughly enjoyable collections of nonsense now being performed. The Bogany troupe is composed of eight comedians, each with a worldwide reputation. They have been engaged for the entire period of the State Fair, Oct. 14 to 29.

All the Effectiveness, Not the Effect, of Calomel.

LIV-VER-LAX is one of the most important medical discoveries of recent years. For a long time medical experts, realizing the harmful effects of calomel, have been striving to find a liver cleanser that would be just as effective as calomel, and yet be absolutely harmless in its action. Recently this remedy was actually put forth by L. K. Grigsby, in his LIV-VER-LAX.

LIV-VER-LAX is a harmless vegetable compound, desinged solely for the treatment of liver complaints. The immediate farvor it has met with in thousands of homes is proof positive of its real value.

If you feel worn out, tongue coated and skin sallow, don't delay until it becomes dangers, nip the trouble in the bud with LIV-VER-LAX. Insist on the genuine, bearing the signature and likewise of L. K. Grigsby, which is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. For sale by

1910 Our Business Shows 1916

A Phenominal Increase

There are reasons for this. In the first place, the conditions of our country are far ahead of any previous season. With the abundant crops we have had and the prices we are getting are putting not only the farmers but the people in General in mighty good financial circumstances. The second reason for this, phenominal increase, is good honest Merchandise, sold on a legitimate profit with honest and fair treatment. In 1910 we established our business on a very small basis. In order to build our business, we had to adopt some business principals. The Bed Rock of our business is one price to All. the same to every Customer under like conditions. To this great principals more than to any other single factor do we attribute the growth of our business in volume and in the confidence of our customers.

The only practical rule and we believe the only fair one, is to mark everything in plain figures and charge all customers the same.

THE MAN AND THE MIRACLE

By ALLISON BURR.

"Nell, I've invited Wilbur Kirk and his mother for the week end," Mrs. Ames gave her niece a sidewise glance. "Dear Aunt Lucy, I wish I could make you see how impossible it is for me to like Wilbur Kirk in the way you want me to like him."

"And I wish I could make you see that he is far superior to any young man who has paid you marked attention since you came out last fall."

"But, auntie, even if I saw all the superiority that you seem to see in him, it would make no difference. It will be something more human than such superiority that will win my heart."

Mrs. Ames shook her well-waved and tightly-netted gray head as Nell started down the boardwalk toward the post office with a handful of letters to mail.

As Nell came out of the little frame post office she caught the tinkling sound of Hawaiian stringed instruments playing a lifting melody that was soothing to her restless mood. Following the sound, she went down the boardwalk and found the musicians were stationed in the center of a large refreshment pavilion which she often patronized.

The bustling manager found Nell a small table where she had a glimpse of the water front. With the menu card in her hand she sat for a moment dreamily listening to the music and watching the frothy little white caps follow one after another to the water's edge. She had quite forgotten about ordering anything until she became conscious that a man had paused expectantly beside her table.

Without looking up she gave a careless glance at the menu card, and asked: "Do you still serve that delicious peach miracle?"

"I beg your pardon," said a man's full-toned voice, and, looking up, she saw, not a waiter, as she had expected, but a much-tanned young gentleman in a blue serge suit that covered a well-proportioned figure six feet in height. It was Nell's turn to beg pardon now, and she did it in a state of very pretty embarrassment.

"This seems to be the only seat left," said the young man, indicating the vacant chair at Nell's small table. "Have you any objection to my occupying it?"

"Not at all," said Nell, and she began studiously to scan the menu card.

Suddenly a ball of well-frozen pink ice cream tumbled from a tray and went rolling across the table straight for Nell's lap. When it was on the very edge of the table the sunburned hand of the tall young man opposite shot across the table and grabbed it firmly. While the penitent waiters replaced the cloth Nell and the young man laid aside reserve and laughed lightly about the awkward incident.

"A moment ago I asked you whether you served peach miracle," said Nell, "but you've made it very evident now that you can even stop a miracle already in progress."

"Is that pink stuff 'peach miracle'?" he asked.

"Yes."

Nell decided that silence would be more embarrassing than conversation, so, as they ate their ices, they chatted and enjoyed the music together.

"That music certainly strikes my ear pleasantly," said the young man, "for I've been four months in a mining camp where a metallic graphophone grinding out ragtime was the only thing that even pretended to be music."

Immediately Nell attributed the sunburn to the outdoor life of a mining engineer and drew a pleasing picture of the young man opposite in corduroy and puttees. And, as other women have done, she had jumped to the right conclusion.

Nell was sure now that she had met the man of her dreams and she could have wept because her ice cream was all gone and she had no further excuse for remaining, as the musicians were silent for the moment.

When they rose from the table Nell extended her hand to the young man as a gentle way of saying that their acquaintance was at an end.

"I shall not forget your coming to my rescue," she said sweetly.

"And I shall not forget you," he said. Her eyes fell before the wistfulness in his and she withdrew her hand and left the place without either of them speaking another word.

When she reached her aunt's cottage Mrs. Ames was enthusiastic over a telephone call just received from Wilbur Kirk saying that he and his mother would motor out that evening instead of waiting until Saturday morning.

"There they are!" exclaimed Mrs. Ames later as a car drew up at the curb.

"I'm afraid we're dreadfully late," said Mrs. Kirk, when they were all inside the drawing room, "but we stopped at the hotel for a little visit with my nephew, Jack Ainslee, who is just in from South America. Jack insisted upon being a mining engineer instead of a minister or lawyer, as I wanted him to be, and when I see his fine physique and his tremendous manliness, I'm glad he had his way about it. By the way, Mrs. Ames, I've asked him to call tomorrow."

"So glad you did," said Mrs. Ames effusively, and Wilbur wondered why Nell turned suddenly to the window just then and gazed outside. He would have wondered even more if he had heard her ecstatically murmuring something about "another miracle."

Milk a Pain Killer.

"Everybody should know that milk is an excellent pain killer," says Farm and Fireside, "first because it gives almost immediate relief, and second, because milk or cream is nearly always available. If a person should get tar in the eyes, put in a few drops of milk or cream. It will also afford great relief if cement or a gnat should get in the eyes."

To Remove Glass Stoppers.

It often happens that a glass stopper becomes obdurate and refuses to come out, yielding neither to persuasion nor force. Next time it occurs, try holding the neck of the bottle in hot water until the neck is thoroughly heated. Then drop a few drops of oil on it where it fits into the bottle; leave it stand for five minutes, and you will find that the stopper will come out easily.

Cats Fond of Needles.

Cats seem to have a habit of swallowing needles. When a cat is brought to a veterinary hospital suffering from a cough, the doctor always looks for a needle. In one instance Doctor Clark of New York operated on a cat to move what he thought was an ordinary needle. He found a hatpin 1/2 inches long. But the cat's life saved.

Keeping Premises Clear of Ants.

The bureau of entomology says that if the housewife would get rid of ants that bother her, the first and most important thing for her to do is to keep all her food supplies, especially sugar and other sweets, in tight metal containers. Anything else that the children may see about should be promptly cleaned.

BALLEW

The cold norther that blew up Monday morning reminded us that Fall had begun. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lawson, Henry Smith and Lewis Williams attended the show at Abilene Saturday. They reported a grand time. J. H. Cunningham left Sunday night for Abilene, to attend Federal Court. A. J. Tolliver went to Rule Sunday to visit his daughter, Mrs. Fred Schwede. Mrs. John McGregor and daughter Mammie visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bishoffhausen, east of Haskell Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hayes, of Whitman, and Misses Ruby and Gean Hayes of this community attended the show at Abilene Saturday. A number of W. O. W. attended the lodge at Roberts Thursday night. They initiated, several candidates and had lots of cake and coffee which was enjoyed. Most everybody will get up with their cotton picking this week. Several of the young folks attended the singing at Curry Chapel Sunday evening. Clay Kinnrough of Gantt community was in this community Sunday. Freck

BRUSHEY

Cotton picking is progressing nicely. Some of the people are just about through. Anna Chamberlain took dinner with Bertie Smith Sunday. Lucy Chamberlain, and Bill Bowman and family took dinner with J. A. Bowman and wife Sunday. A. J. Smith left for Ocala Monday on business. The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Lane has been on the sick list the last few days, but we are glad to report him much improved. A. A. Burdette's baby is quite sick at present, and there seems to be an epidemic going through the country with the little folks. The farmers are preparing to sow their winter grain. We have a norther here this morning, and it looks like snow. You Haskell people should come over and see our good roads, the county is putting in shape. For fiters are simply fine. Bessie Smith visited Miss Nellie Chamberlain last Sunday. Rev. Bill Bowman preached a fine sermon at the Methodist church Sunday night. Rev. D. M. Strickland will preach at the Baptist Church next Sunday. Red Wing

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Haskell county, Texas, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Margaret Hood, Emma Hood, James Hood, Henry Hood, Mrs. Lizzie Wood, a feme sole, Charlie Hodge, Pat Hodge and Miss Willie Hodge, all of whose residences are unknown, Royal Penn, a minor of Wise county, Texas, who has no guardian, and Miss Annie Uvalde Vanclave, of Ellis county, Texas, a minor who has no guardian, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not then in any newspaper published in the 39th Judicial District; to appear at the next regular term of the County Court of Haskell county, Texas, to be held at the court house thereof, in Haskell on the first Monday in November, A. D. 1916, the same being the 6th day of November, A. D. 1916, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 3rd day of October, A. D. 1916 in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court, No. 181, wherein Mrs. Prudence, E. Miller, a feme sole, and Mrs. Margaret J. Hodge, joined by her husband, Jessie Hodge, of Itasca county, Texas, are Plaintiffs and Margaret Hood, Emma Hood, James Hood, Henry Hood, Mrs. M. E. Emory, J. S. Emory, Mrs. Lula McMorris, S. R. McMorris, Mrs. Cora Spencer, S. R. Spencer, Mrs. Annie Mamé Ashton, M. B. Ashton, Mrs. Lizzie Ward, J. S. Ward, Mrs. Inez Farrington, Chas. E. Farrington, Mrs. Bessie Wallace, Robert M. Wallace, Mrs. Josephine Douglass, R. C. Douglass, Miss Catherine Penn, Royal Penn, Mrs. Bessie Lee Carroll, Carroll, Miss Annie Uvalde Vanclave, Thomas B. Vanclave, William Vanclave, R. Vanclave, Charles Hodge, Pat Hodge, Miss Willie Hodge, Mrs. Dora Williams, A. K. Williams, R. E. Sikes, and Miss Annie Vanclave are defendants, and the cause of action being alleged as follows: That Plaintiffs and defendants are heirs and interested in the estate of Wm. Vanclave deceased; that letters of administration by an order of this court were granted to J. S. Emory at the October term, A. D. 1910, on the estate of the said Wm. Vanclave, deceased, and that said administration is still open and pending in this court; that there has been more than one term of said court after the expiration of twelve months from the original grant of said letters of administration; that the assets of said estate now in the hands of said administrator are by a large amount, less than sufficient to pay all the debts and expenses of every kind which have been approved or established by judgment, or which may yet be established by judgment, and also the probable expenses of administration; that the residue of estate is subject to partition and distribution, and that plaintiffs and defendants herein are all and the only lawful heirs of said estate.

Wherefore plaintiffs pray that the defendants be cited to appear at the next regular term of this court and show cause why a partition and distribution of the residue of said estate should not be made among the heirs thereof, and that a decree then and there be made for the partition and distribution of the residue of said estate, and that commissioners be appointed and a writ of partition issue, if said estate be found capable of division.

Herein fail not, but have you before said court, on the said first day of the term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness my hand and official seal at my office in Haskell, Texas, this 3rd day of October, A. D. 1916.

Test of a Good Book.
That is a good book which is opened with expectations and closed with a profit. It is a wise book that is good from title page to the end. One must read it, fairly mastered, prepared to master the great pieces of literature. The encyclopedia of deities may be left for less occupied and thoughtful moments.—Amos Bronson Alcott.

A suit for the principal, interest and attorney's fees due upon six promissory notes, each dated October 24th, 1908, executed by the Defendant, Walter Harris, and payable to the order of Plaintiffs on or before October, 24th 1909, 1910 1911, 1912, 1913 and 1914, respectively each in the sum of $426.67 and bearing interest from date until paid, interest payable annually, and if interest be not paid when due to become as principal and bear the same rate of interest, providing for ten per cent attorney's fees and having the usual accelerating clause and retaining the Vendor's Lien upon Block No. 16 of Swenson's subdivision of the Jane Wilson League in Haskell County, Texas, Abstract 413, Patent No. 518 Volume 12, containing 160 acres of land, plaintiffs alleging the execution and delivery by Plaintiffs to Defendant, Walter Harris of a deed of even date with said notes conveying said property and retaining the Vendor's Lien to secure the payment of said notes, and for the principal, interest, and attorney's fees due upon three promissory notes dated December 15th, 1913, executed by the said Walter Harris and payable to the order of Plaintiffs on or before December 15th, 1914, 1915, and 1916 respectively, each for the sum of $339.54 and bearing eight per cent interest from date until paid, and providing for ten per cent attorney's fees, and reciting that the same were given for part of the balance of accrued interest due on the six notes first above described.
Plaintiffs allege that simultaneously with the execution of said interest notes, said Walter Harris executed and delivered to Plaintiffs a contract of extension of said six original notes, so as to become due December 15th 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, and 1922 respectively, and continuing in force the Vendor's Lien on said property to secure the payment of said original and interest notes.
Plaintiffs further allege that on February 15th, 1915, the said Walter Harris joined by his wife, conveyed said property to Defendant, W. T. Bryant, who as a part of the consideration therefor assumed the payment of said six original notes and said three interest notes.
Plaintiffs further allege that on April 15th, 1915, the said W. T. Bryant joined by his wife, Essie Bryant, conveyed said property to Defendant, Thos. C. Tucker, who as a part of the consideration therefor executed and delivered to the said W. T. Bryant, his ten certain promissory notes in said deed described, each in the sum of $54.00 and which said notes are subordinate to and second and inferior to the lien owned and held by the Plaintiffs.
Plaintiffs allege default in the payment of said interest notes and interest on said original notes since December 15th 1913, the exercise of their option to declare all notes due, the placing of same in the hands of attorneys for collection and the promise to pay said attorneys the ten per cent provided for in said notes.
Plaintiffs further allege that Thos. C. Tucker and wife, Mary J. Tucker are setting up some kind of pretended claim of right or title by virtue of said deed from W. T. Bryant and wife, but that said right or title under said deed or otherwise is subordinate and inferior to the lien of plaintiffs by reason of the notes sued on.
Plaintiffs allege that the several deeds mentioned or some of them, and notify them to produce the same on the trial or secondary evidence of their contents will be offered by plaintiffs.
Plaintiffs pray citation and for judgment against Walter Harris for principal, interest and attorney's fees of the notes sued on and for costs of suit, and for foreclosure against him and defendants W. T. Bryant, and Essie Bryant, Thos. C. Tucker and Mary J. Tucker of the Vendor's Lien of said notes and that the lien retained by W. T. Bryant and wife in their deed to Thos. C. Tucker to secure the notes therein described be declared subordinate and inferior to the lien of plaintiffs, and for general and special relief.
Herein Fall Not, And have you before said Court on the said first day of the next term hereof, this writ with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

WINFRED'S LUCK

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

"It seems too bad," Mrs. Ramsey stopped thoughtfully, but the professor did not even glance up from his writing. "I said, dear, it does seem too bad that we are somewhat bound to take the girl here."

"Not bound, nothing compulsory about it, Betsy," the professor responded cheerfully. "Hector merely asked if we could take her with us. I thought it would relieve you."

"Well, it would. She could be a lot of help if she's that kind-willing, I mean. It was on account of Everitt that I spoke. Laura begged me to keep him out of—well, you know what I mean, dear. Not to let him fall in love until he is through college."

"Can't help falling in love at a good place. They all do." The professor's eyes twinkled. "Write her to come, anyway, Betsy, and don't worry."

Everitt came downstairs just as his aunt sealed the letter. He was such a clean, frank, splendid boy. And the girl might be anything. She tried to explain her coming.

"She's the daughter of an old classmate of your uncle. He is the head of a mission now in southern Oklahoma and has a large family. Winfred is the eldest. She wants to work her way through college and we are going to have her live with us."

"Gee, isn't that plucky of her?" After Winfred's arrival that seemed to be his attitude of mind toward her—admiration for her pluck.

And the worst of it was, no matter how the other girls tried to smooth it over, she was left out of the smartest frat dances and the best girls' clubs on account of her position at the professor's house.

The event of the early winter season was the A. G. L.'s dance at the fraternity house. It was Everitt who set Winfred's name down as his choice, and he told her of it the day before the committee suggested that he select another girl. He turned on Ted Holland with steady eyes.

"I'll bring Miss Gray or no girl."

News and gossip travel quickly in small town college circles. Somehow the rumor grew until it reached Mrs. Ramsey's ears and troubled her. It would never do for Everitt in his senior year to be absent from the A. G. L.'s dance, while for Winfred it really didn't matter, since she never aimed for the social side. So she told Winfred just the way matters stood, and the girl from Oklahoma listened with a little smile.

"Why, of course, I understand, Mrs. Ramsey," she said gently. "I'll tell you what we'll do. I have promised one of the girls in my chemistry class to run out over Sunday with her. She lives at a farm just outside town, and I can skate down the river to the place. You can tell Everitt."

Mrs. Ramsey never quite forgot the look of the man that came to the boy's face when she told him. He had come home whistling the night of the dance. "I thought it best to try and make her understand how unpleasant the other girls might make it for her if she went," she concluded. "Now, don't be foolish, Everitt."

"Foolish," he laughed shortly. "Aunt Betsy, she's going to skate five miles down the river to the Davises, and every student has been warned against skating on account of the danger. I'm going after her. You'd better tell Uncle Felix and let him try and get some help out after us. We'll need it."

He caught his skates and boots from the hall seat box and was gone before she realized it.

As he left the town far behind he began to call her name, the pet name Betsy gave her:

"Win! Oh, Win!"

And finally he saw her ahead, well out in midstream. He caught up with her, thanking heaven she was safe. She turned her head and smiled back at him just as the ice cracked under his feet and he saw the black water surge up between.

The sting of the ice-cold water left him numb with shock, but he felt bottom under his feet. The water only came to his chest, and he knew Winfred was at least six inches shorter than himself. But she had kept her balance going down and was standing, too, lifting her chin high from the water.

The ice broke under his touch when he tried to rest any weight upon it. And the strangest thing happened. They were close now, side by side, not knowing how long they could stand the strain, and Winfred's face was near. Without one word of love or questioning, Everitt bent and kissed her.

"Hello, hello, there!" came a shout from the shore road and the hum of a motor. Two lights swung into view. "Are you in?" called the professor.

"Yes, sir, right over here," Everitt called back.

An hour afterward Winfred lay wrapped in blankets on the couch before the open fire in the best bedroom, a guest of honor, and over her leaned Everitt.

"We were just planning, Aunt Betsy," he said, happily, "how Win can finish her course even after we're married. Aren't you glad for me?"

"Glad, dear," Mrs. Ramsey sighed, as she patted the brown braids lying on the pillow. "I think you're a very lucky boy."

AUNT PERSIS HAS A PLAN

By LOUISE OLIVER.

This morning I awakened as happy and carefree as a puppy on a farm; tonight I feel like the fellow in mythology who had to keep the world balanced on his shoulders. And what has made this difference in my outlook on existence?

A girl, of course!
And such a girl!

When I think of the way her hair curled over the tops of her ears and her eyes—teasing one moment and then half closed to see how you'd take it the next—it drives me mad.

Here is what happened:
I came yesterday on a visit to Aunt Persis. You see, Aunt Persis has the family fortune, and so of course all the branches out to the sixteenth cousins are nice to her. So as I finished college last week dad said: "You must make your Aunt Persis a visit and let her see what a decent fellow you are. She may have some plan up her sleeve for you, son, and so humor her as far as you can."

So I packed up and arrived last night.

Well, as I said, I awakened heart whole and care free and enjoyed a good breakfast—until auntie said: "Addison, do you remember the little Lambie girl you used to play with next door? The one you got cross at one day for laughing when your pony threw you into the mud and whom you chased with a handful of burs and stuck them all through her curls?"

The memory brought a guilty flush. "Yes, I remember, Aunt Persis."

She nodded. "Well, Grace is a great favorite of mine now, Addison, and I've taken a notion I'd like to see you two married. I love you two young people better than anything in the world and I'm getting old," significantly. Then she went to a desk and brought out a box. "I've had another fancy lately, too. I've had my jeweler design a ring that any girl would be proud of, I should think. Do you like it?"

"You might put it in your pocket," suggested the old lady. "And now, Addison, don't you think you'd better apologize for the burs?"

There certainly was no risk in motoring over to call on old friends, so I took my roadster and went over at ten. I was going along the road that leads to the Maples and just before I came to the big gate a little car jumped around a curve and I hit it. A girl flew out into some bushes as my car caught hers and carried it along a bit. I finally got the engine stopped and ran back as fast as I could, but the girl wasn't hurt a bit, and there she stood, tousled, with a smudge across one cheek, but laughing and looking too sweet for anything.

"It was my fault," she protested. "No, mine!"

"I beg of you—" Then something familiar struck me.

"Is your name Grace?"

"Yes!"

"I thought so. Don't you remember me? I am Addison Jennings. I was just going over to pay my respects."

She was silent a minute then—"Addison Jennings! No, I don't believe I do."

I was piqued that she should forget. "Oh, don't you? I was just on my way to ask you to marry me. See, I've brought the ring and all. I'm Miss Persis Grant's nephew."

"Miss Persis told you to do it, no doubt."

"Asked me to, to be exact. And I'm being dutiful."

She slipped the ring on her finger with an odd look. "Do you know I think I will take you up, Mr. Jennings."

Things were going differently from the way I had expected.

"Won't you take me home?" she asked.

I took her up to the big house and she asked me to wait while she repaired the damage to her toilet.

In a few minutes a girl came down—not my girl; another, tall, statuesque and dignified.

She came in and held out her hand. "How do you do, Addison?" she remarked pleasantly. "It's years since I've seen you. The last time I believe you stuck burs in my hair."

The room was whirling. "Are you—" I began. "I thought you were—will you please tell me who the girl is I ran into just now and nearly killed."

"Grace Tilden, my companion!"

"Ye gods!"

"It's two o'clock and I'm afraid to go to bed. I can't wake up and face Aunt Persis."

And yet down in my heart I'm distractingly happy.

A week later.

I have re-read my confession and the joke's on me.

I fell asleep in my chair that night and the telephone bell on my table woke me at eight in the morning. Aunt Persis was talking to a girl. I knew the voice and listened.

"Miss Persis," she said. "It will do him good to let him think he's engaged himself to Grace Tilden. We planned it in a hurry to change places while he was waiting for me down stairs. He's terribly blunt and honest, but adorable, Miss Persis. I think I've loved him since he chased me with the burs. Don't give us away yet, please. The joke's too good and he deserves punishment—"

Jolly old world this.

Examine, if you please, every other heating stove available. You will discover that the doorframes are bolted on. They in a few years become loose and your stove leaks air, falls hold fire overnight, and dissatisfaction always follows.

Not so, however, with the genuine Round Oak stoves. You will discover the doorframes are riveted on—gas-tight life.

Examine the Stove Itself
Do not be satisfied with claims, but carefully inspect the construction of the heater itself.

We invite the opportunity of demonstrating not only this point of marked superiority, but four others which characterize the all-fuel stove. Note that it burns hard coal, soft coal, oak wood and cobs, and lasts a generation. The reasons why they were patented. Let us explain them.
