LOCAL GINS READY FOR COTTON SEASON

Local gins have been bustling with activity the last few weeks, with crews of workers overhauling machinery and installing new equipment, getting ready for the fall cotton crop. Haskell boasts of being one of the best gin towns in West Texas, having four of the best equipped and most modern gins to be found anywhere.

E. F. Lamm, manager of the Farmers Gin Co., the largest gin in the city, states that all their equipment has been overhauled and put in shape for a busy ginning season. The equipment of this gin includes ten gin stands, and a modern cleaning stand, together with two presses. A large steam engine furnishes the power for the gin, and Mr. Lamm stated Wednesday that workmen finished overhauling the machinery this week, and that the gin was now ready for operation. He expects the cotton to be coming in fairly well inside of two weeks, and predicts that with no rain whatever, the yield this year will equal that of last year's production, due to the increased acreage.

A visit to the Electric Gin will convince one that the management of this popular gin have been exceedingly busy for the past few weeks. A new coat of paint has been given to all buildings on this property, including the small residence south of the gin. Both of the two bales of cotton which have been received in Haskell this season were ginned at the Electric Gin. Their equipment includes a large oil engine instead of the usual steam engine, which enables them to start up on short notice.

At the F. T. Sanders Gin, extensive repairing and overhauling has been the program for the past two months, and the capacity of this gin has been doubled. Mr. Sanders formerly operated two gins here, but this year the two were consolidated, the machinery all being placed under one roof. A crew of men have been busy moving the machinery and installing new equipment and the building has been enlarged. A large 100 horse power oil engine has been added to the gin, while a 75 horsepower steam engine is used for the other side. New cleaners have been installed, and with the consolidation of the two gins and adding of new machinery, the gin is surpassed by none in this section. Mr. Sanders states that one side of the gin will be devoted to ginning Mebane cotton exclusively, as he has a contract for ginning all the cotton of the Mebane Cotton Breeders Association. This association has over 2,000 acres of cotton under cultivation northwest of town.

W. A. Duncan, an experienced gin man of Byers, Texas, recently purchased the Harris-Irby-Vose gin, located in the north part of town, and has been busy the past few weeks installing new machinery and going over the entire equipment of this gin. Mr. Duncan stated this week that all the machinery had been put in first class shape, and that the gin was ready for operation. Among the many improvements made by Mr. Duncan after buying this gin, was the installation of a new cleaner, the Sam Williams Unit Cleaner. The Williams Cleaning Systems represents the most improved type of cleaner, and is the latest in this line, consisting of three units. All the gin buildings and office of the Duncan Gin have also been given a new coat of paint, which adds much to the appearance of the plant.

20 CARS OF CATTLE SHIPPED TO FORT WORTH

Two cars of cattle were shipped to Fort Worth market this week. T. Ballard shipping on car and R. W. Hinton shipping a car. Messrs. Clanton and Ballard are cattle raisers on an extensive scale, and will probably ship stock to the market soon.

ROCHESTER RECEIVES FIRST BALE COTTON

The first bale of this year's cotton arrived at Rochester was brought in Monday by W. C. Allen, Jr., a farmer living west of the city. Owing to the fact that the Rochester gins are being repaired, the bale had not been ginned until Wednesday, but first bale honors were conceded to Mr. Allen. Local business men made up a nice premium and presented it to Mr. Allen for bringing his first bale to their city.

LOCAL BAND WILL GIVE PUBLIC CONCERT

The Haskell Concert Band, under the leadership of Prof. Lee Humphreys, has been progressing nicely, and a public concert has been announced for Friday night, August 25th. The concert will be held in front of the Haskell Theatre, and the public is invited to attend this, the first public appearance of the local musicians.

This band was organized only two months ago, and some excellent progress has been made in the way of developing our local musical talent. The band consists of more than twenty instruments, and for the past several weeks, practice has been held daily.

FIRST BALE COTTON GINNED MONDAY

The first bale of cotton of the season was ginned in Haskell Monday, when G. W. Hutto a farmer living in the Sayles community southwest of town brought in a bale of this year's cotton. The bale was ginned by the Electric Gin, and weighed 428 pounds. The cotton was graded as strict middling, bringing a price of 21 cents, and being purchased by R. C. Montgomery, President of the Farmers State Bank. Local merchants and business men made up a premium of $51.50, which was presented to Mr. Hutto, making a total of $141.38 received for his first bale.

According to local cotton buyers and others, the first bale this year was received earlier than ever before, as usually the cotton does not mature until about the 20th of August. In 1914, the first bale of Haskell county cotton was received in Haskell on August 17, three days later than this year's record. No doubt the hot dry weather of the past few weeks, which has damaged cotton to a certain extent, has caused some cotton the mature prematurely, which probably accounts for the early maturing of this year's crop.

OIL MILL WILL RUN THIS SEASON

Earl Cogdell of Grandbury, owner of the Western Cotton Oil Mill of this city, has been here for the past two weeks supervising the overhauling and repairing of the mill preparatory to opening for the season's run. A large crew of men have been busy at the mill overhauling the machinery and installing new equipment, and it is planned to have the mill ready for operation at the opening of the ginning season.

The local mill, which has a daily capacity of 60 tons, is one of the best equipped in West Texas, and with the new machinery that has been added, it is one of the most modernly equipped mills for the production of cotton seed products to be found. The management of the mill will be under Mr. Cogdell, an experienced oil mill man, and T. S. Dickey, of Greenwood, Miss., will be superintendent. Mr. Dickey arrived in the city this week to assume his duties. The mill will be operated day and night during the season, which usually lasts for about six months.

Mr. Cogdell, who is a former resident of this city, states that he will probably move his family to our city in the near future.

Messrs. Sam and Grady Roberts and E. B. Harris of Rule left Friday morning for Wichita Falls where they attended the Northwest Texas Press Association meeting Friday and Saturday.

R. L. DENDY BRINGS IN BALE OF NEW COTTON

R. L. Dendy, a well known farmer living on the Murchison farm northwest of town, wins the honors for bringing in the second bale of new cotton to be ginned in Haskell this year. Mr. Dendy was a close contender for first bale honors, being only a few hours later than Mr. Hutto, who brought in the first bale. The bale of cotton brought in by Mr. Dendy after ginning weighed 537 pounds, grading as strict middling and was sold to W. H. Murchison for 21 cents per pound.

Mr. Dendy states that the cotton crop this year will be unusually short, and that with no more rain he does not expect to make more than a bale to every ten acres.

WILL RESUME WORK ON OIL WELL SOON

S. S. Kouri returned the first of the week from Wichita Falls and Colorado, Texas, where he has been for the past week completing arrangements for a rotary drilling machine to finish the Commonwealth Well. Mr. Kouri states that arrangement have been made for a rotary rig and that just as soon as it can be shipped to Haskell work will be resumed on this well. He is exceedingly optimistic over the prospects of this test, and is not alone in this belief, as several of the larger oil companies of Texas have acreage around this well, and are watching the progress with interest.

It is likely that some delay will be experienced in the shipment of the rotary machine, due to the congestion of the railroads, but Mr. Kouri expects to have the machine here inside of two weeks. The derrick has been converted into a rotary derrick, and all other preparations completed in order that work may be resumed and rushed to completion just as soon as the machinery for the rotary arrives.

WEINERT GETS FIRST BALE TUESDAY

Weinert received her first bale of this season's cotton Tuesday. B. W. Green, a farmer living five miles east of Weinert, brought the bale to Weinert. The Planters Gin Co. of Weinert ginned the bale, which brought a price of 22 1-8 cents per pound. A premium of $37.00 was made up by the business men of Weinert and presented to Mr. Green.

ORIENT MAY SUSPEND IF WORKERS STRIKE

Should strike sympathizers on the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad attempt to tie up traffic as have employees of the Santa Fe railway, the Orient would immediately suspend operations, it was announced this week by W. T. Kempner of Wichita, Kans., received for the road. This statement was issued after two trains was delayed slightly Saturday night owing to mechanical complaints about equipment made by trainmen.

Mr. Kempner's warning is contained in a wire bulletin, copies of which were sent to the governors of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas and to the public utility commissions of each state, which is addressed to all agents, patrons and others concerned, and will be posted in every ticket window on the Orient system.

Patrons who solely depend on the Orient for transportation have been warned to lay in ample supplies of necessities.

HARNESS STOLEN FROM FARMER

Several sets of harness, valued at $250.00, were stolen Tuesday night from the barn of W. V. Sanders, a farmer living on the Stamford road. Local officers were notified of the theft, and are working on the case.

H. Weinert and family were visiting relatives and friends in Haskell last Friday.

JUNE TIME

SINGIN' o' June, when the roses blow;
Liftin' a song when the sun hangs low;
Whistlin' away
Through th' livelong day—
Singin' an' whistlin' a merry tune
To the rosiest month of them all—that's June.

Watchin' the clouds as they hasten by,
Catchin' the gleam of the bright blue sky;
Lazyin' round
On th' sun-kissed ground—
Hearin' th' wind through the woodland crown
Her songs to the rarest of months—
that's June.

Off through th' meadows cool an' sweet,
Where th' violets bloom in their dim retreat;
Dreamin' dreams
By the purlin' streams,
As they hasten by with their rhythmic run
To the rosiest, fairest month—that's June.

Home at eve when the moon hangs low
And the sky gleams bright with a silver glow;
Just lazyin' there
In the old arm chair
A watchin' th' man who lives in the moon
And laughs at th' fairest of months—
that's June.

NON-UNION MEN AT STAMFORD IN CHARGE OF GUARDS

About sixteen strike-breakers are at the Wichita Valley and Katy shops in Stamford, according to authentic reports.

The men are being guarded by several United States marshals and one or two state rangers. They are being furnished meals and lodging at the shops in cars furnished for the purpose. So far as has been learned, no disorders have been reported. The strike-breakers remain on the company property, never coming to town.

Railway officials declare that while the strike has by no means been broken almost normal movement is now the vogue on the Wichita Valley railway. Several freight trains are now being operated, and a solid train of livestock was handled last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orenbaum, and Miss Mada Harris of Hillsboro, and Mrs. J. H. Denison of Waco, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Perry of this city this week. This is the first time these families have seen each other for thirty-two years, and the reunion is indeed a pleasant one. Mr. Orenbaum states that he is well pleased with Haskell county, especially our thirty and forty pound watermelons.

CANNOT HOARD TIME

IN A certain time you can make a certain amount of money. You can put the money away for years later, but you can't put the time away.

Money, called by the economists frozen labor, might also be called frozen time.

But time is more than money. It can be turned into many things that can be stored away—education, cultivated taste, pleasant and profitable memories. But time itself you cannot hoard. You must use it as it passes, or it is gone forever.

Time spent in recreation is not wasted, unless you spend more than a due allowance for recreation.

But time spent in absolute idleness, or in activities that are worse than idle, is sheer criminal waste.

If you could go back over your life and gather back the hours that have never been improved, you would still have enough time to do great things.

But those hours are gone.

You can only, as Shakespeare says, "regret your dear time's waste" and resolve to waste less of it in the future.

Many men whose time had never been turned to account until they were past forty have still enough left to accomplish great things in the world.

But these are the most sincere mourners for the years that might have been utilized.

If you will begin today to bear in mind that time cannot be hoarded, and if every hour of it is converted into something that can be hoarded, you may lay the foundation for a fortune. You will certainly lay the foundation for happiness by and by.

Count your hours, and allot each one to some task or to some profitable recreation. See that none of them slip by. They are as water through a mill, which if sent over the wheel creates valuable energy, but which spilled over the dam is gone forever.

"A fig tree looking on a fig tree becometh fruitful," says the Arabian proverb. And so it is with children; their first instructor is example.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

Now is the time to go forth and pluck the early watercress, the wholesome dandelion, the dock and poke, the new shoots of milkweed and marsh marigold or cowslips, all giving the needed zest to the food of spring.

Fresh Dandelion Salad.
Those who appreciate the value of the tender bleached heart of dandelion like it with a bit of salt without any dressing. For a salad the bleached leaves are best, but the tender green shoots, cut and mixed with a small green onion and served with French dressing is a salad not to be despised. Cut the dandelion close to the root, with all the tender green buds. Wash carefully and slice the root from the base, buds and tender leaves for an inch above the root. These use for a fresh salad; the rest of the leaves may be cooked for greens. Another addition to this salad is a thinly sliced tomato, which adds a bit of acid and softens the bitter of the dandelion. Using mayonnaise on the fresh green dandelion is another appetizing method of serving it.

Cooked Dandelion Salad.
Cook the greens until tender, which will take two hours or more unless the greens are very young, then serve with the following salad dressing: Rub a small bowl with a cut clove of garlic, add one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of paprika, two tablespoonfuls of orange juice and four to five tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Whip this dressing until it is creamy, then serve on the cooked dandelions.

Pigweed or Lamb's Quarter.
This is a good wholesome green and common enough to be generally well known as a weed, but not well known as a good food. Pull it up by the roots and strip off the green leaves, as the stalk is generally too tough to serve. Cook with pork or corned beef and serve hot.

Purslane is another good green, which grows in profusion. Pick the leaves and stalks, shake well and wash, then cook as any other greens.

Horseradish, pleplant and dandelion cooked together make a good flavored combination. Yellow dock when young and tender is good.

Cowslips are delicious when well cooked and seasoned. They are easy to clean and do not shrink as do the dandelions when cooking. A half peck of tender dandelion greens will shrink when cooked to a small vegetable dishful.

Mustard is good for a green and makes a most tasty dish. The wild mustard is good, but the leaves are much smaller than those of the plant called Chinese mustard. A few leaves of the mustard cut in bits and added to the dish of lettuce improves it.

Watercress at this season is in its prime, fresh and green. It grows along the banks of brooks. One should use care in picking it where there is no fear of sewage contamination.

The City Council recently made extensive plans for the construction of a hard-surfaced road between the railroad station and the public square...

Although the prospects for a bumper cotton crop are admittedly looking gloomy, still there is no cause for unwarranted worry.

A movement was inaugurated some time ago for building an up-to-date hotel in Haskell. There is a real need for this, and although it is a hard matter to secure any definite action on a proposition of this sort just at this time...

Haskell is growing. This can easily be seen by taking note of the many public improvements that have been made in the last twelve months.

WARNING ISSUED AGAINST STARTING FIRES OUT DOORS

A warning to Texas citizens against fires starting on lawns and pastures as a result of the continued dry weather in the state was issued today in a statement given by G. H. Tilley, State Fire Marshal.

"With lawns and vegetation of all kinds drying up at the present time, the season when many fires result from such hazards is at hand," stated Fire Marshal Tilley.

"A carelessly deposited bunch of cigarettes on a lawn that has not been cut, or along a roadside that borders on pasture land has been the cause of numerous fires in Texas in past years during dry season, which extends from July to October, and there is little hope that such occurrences will not be repeated again this year."

"Grass fires also add much to the expense of maintaining fire departments. Each run that a fire department makes costs considerable money and in many cases the run is of no avail because the fire amounts to nothing."

Property owners should cut and burn their lawns as soon as they become dry, burning in such a way as to avoid any possibility of fire destruction to residences and buildings.

NORTHWEST TEXAS PRESS HOLDS MEETING AT WICHITA

One of the most interesting meetings held in the history of the Northwest Texas Press Association were held in Wichita Falls last Friday and Saturday.

The Northwest Texas Press Association is one of the oldest organizations of its kind in Texas and is the only District Association that is recognized by the National Editorial Association.

Wichita Falls could not have arranged a better entertainment program than was provided for the visitors.

W. C. Harrison of the Baylor County Banner (Seminole) was elected president of the association; W. E. Edwards of the Des Moines Review, Henrietta, Vice-President; Rapp Shaffer, Odessa, Executive Secretary-Treasurer.

TEXAS HAS $135,955 FIRE LOSS IN MONTH OF JUNE

Fires in Texas during the month of June caused a loss totaling $135,955, according to reports received at the office of State Fire Marshal G. W. Tilley in Austin, a summary of which was announced last week.

The loss through fires in the state in June shows a decrease of more than $41,000 over the loss during May when totaled approximately $180,000.

The fact that cigarettes caused a loss of nearly $6,000 in June. This is the heaviest loss reported this year under this classification. Unknown causes are given as the classification for by far the largest part of the total loss.

A summary of the June losses with the number of fires under each classification, follows:

Table with 3 columns: Causes, Fires, Total Loss. Rows include Sparks from fire, Unknown, Carelessness, Cigarettes, Matches, Gasoline, Overheated Stove, An adjoining building, Oil stove, Garage, Defective fire, Pressing machine, Trash, Telephone, Incendiary, Lightning, Spontaneous combustion, Defective wiring.

The decrease in losses during the month is noteworthy especially in view of the fact that the weather is dry and hot and many persons are away on vacation, creating conditions that are usually conducive to fire, Marshal Tilley said.

EDISON CLUBS TO BE OPENED IN HASKELL

Mr. E. Wm. Meyers, of the Edison Laboratories of Orange, New Jersey, was in town last week to supervise the organization of the Edison Service Club and arrange for a series of Recitals to be managed by the McNeill and Smith Hardware Company, Edison dealers in Haskell.

Through the Edison Service Clubs, every owner of the Edison phonograph is entitled to the use of twenty Re-Creations each month, or a total of two hundred and forty of the Edison records during the year.

Starting in the fall, there will be a monthly Recital at the store, at which the very newest of musical Re-Creation will be played two weeks before these records are put on the market for sale.

Edison owners are advised to get in touch with Mr. Smith at the store.

WORK GOING FORWARD ON COMPRESS AT RULE

The following is taken from the Rule Review of last week, concerning the cotton compress that is being erected there:

Despite the many delays on account of the railroad jam the compress is going up rapidly. When completed will be a first class one in every respect.

BLIND MUSICIAN GIVES THREE RECITALS HERE

J. W. Smith, a young man who has been blind for thirteen years, was in Haskell this week, and gave three musical recitals at different churches here.

A liar said he was riding on a horse through Russia when there came a heavy snow. He rode all day without seeing a house and about dark tied his horse to what he believed was a pointed stump, and went to sleep.

SIX BIG COMMON LIES THAT ARE TOLD JUST FOR FUN

Abraham Lincoln used to tell about the fellow who would lie about the size of the fish he caught, so that his neighbors would not believe a word he said.

The decrease in losses during the month is noteworthy especially in view of the fact that the weather is dry and hot and many persons are away on vacation, creating conditions that are usually conducive to fire, Marshal Tilley said.

In our humble opinion, the Goliath of Lies is this: "The world owes me a living." The fellow who started that he should have been sent to the penitentiary for life, and may have been for all we know.

OLD QUARRY TO BE STADIUM

Miniature California Mountain Can Be Put to Good Use at Comparatively Small Expense. A short distance from Oakland, and marking the terminus of a popular driveway along the eastern shore of San Francisco bay, is a miniature mountain covering an area of about 5 acres and 135 feet in height. It has furnished a large amount of material for building purposes, its bowels being quarried out in such fashion as to leave only a shell of the original hill. About a million and a half cubic yards of stone have been removed by quarrying from the inside of the hill, which has been thereby converted into a sort of roofless amphitheater, with a flat, smooth floor and an entrance through one side, represented by a straight and narrow tunnel, this passage of entrance and exit being used for carrying out the blasted rock in small cars on rails. To some ingenious person the idea occurred that the hollow hill might be utilized for a stadium, and the scheme is soon to be carried out, the having been obtained by purchase from the quarry company. It has cost the company $1,500,000 to create the amphitheater as it stands (which is so much to the good from the buyers' point of view), and the expense of putting it in shape for the contemplated purpose will be relatively small. The above-mentioned tunnel is to be converted into an ornamental entrance, with concrete columns. Directly opposite it is a vertical cliff more than 100 feet high and 200 feet wide, against which a concrete stage will be built. The floor (providing for a great arena) will be encircled by a concrete wall, from which concrete seats will rise in tiers, with six concrete stairways. Everything about the Stone Bowl, as it is to be called, will be extremely Greek. It will have seating capacity of 125,000 persons, and the arena will be large enough for football and baseball games, with a running track around it.

RADIO

AUDIO FREQUENCY AMPLIFIER UNITS

Construction of Two Is Described, With the Materials That Must Be Purchased.

Theoretically any number of transformer coupled stages of audio frequency amplification can be used. However, due to the amplification of static disturbances, power line induction, tube noises, etc., three stages are about the practical limit. If more than three stages are used the noises become so loud in comparison with the signal that it is difficult to hear the signal.

Since audio frequency amplifying transformers can be purchased at any radio shop and the simplest method of coupling the construction of two audio frequency amplifier units will be described.

The first unit will be arranged to be used in conjunction with the vacuum tube receiver mounted on the eight-inch square horizontal base board, previously mentioned in this column. The second unit will be mounted on a vertical panel four inches wide and six inches high to "match up" with the six-by-eight vertical panel vacuum tube described recently in this column.

The following standard apparatus will have to be purchased at a radio supply store in order to construct an amplifier unit to be used in conjunction with either receiver.

One amplifying transformer, cost about $5.
One vacuum tube (for amplifier), cost $6.50.
One vacuum tube socket, cost $1.
One filament rheostat, cost about $1.
Seven binding posts, cost about 70 cents.

The amplifier unit to be used with the eight-inch square horizontal base-board is mounted on a base three inches wide and six inches long. The tube filament rheostat is mounted in the front, the amplifying transformer in the back and the tube in the center.

Fig. XXXII shows the relative position of the transformer tube socket and filament rheostat when mounted on the baseboard. A diagram of connections of the amplifier unit is shown in Fig. XXXIII. The input coming from the terminals of the receiver that were originally connected to the telephone receiver is connected to the terminals of the amplifying transformer. One side of the secondary of the amplifying transformer is connected to the filament rheostat, the other side of the secondary to the filament and common battery lead. The filament rheostat is in series with the positive side of the filament. The plate terminal on the tube socket is connected to one side of the phone, the other side of the phone being connected to the positive side of a 45-volt "B" battery. Use a "3A5" tube as an amplifier.

When using the amplifier unit for the first time tune the receiver with the detector only. To connect the terminals T-T from the amplifier unit in place of the phones in the plate circuit of the amplifier, adjust both the filament rheostats until the signal strength is maximum.

If it is desired to still further amplify the incoming signal two amplifier units can be constructed, the output of each unit being connected to the input of the next, and the phones being placed in the plate circuit of the last amplifier tube.

In constructing the second unit make the panel and the baseboard of the same thickness, kind of wood, and finish as used for the receiver. The panel should be four inches wide and six inches high, the baseboard three inches wide and four inches deep to "match up." Use the same kinds of binding posts and filament rheostat that were used on the receiver.

Fig. XXXIV is a plan view of the amplifier unit, and Fig. XXXV is an elevation of the front view of the panel. The diagram of connections is, of course, the same as for the previously described unit and is shown in Fig. XXXIII.

These amplifier units can be used in conjunction with any radio receiver. The same units connected electrically as shown in Fig. XXXIII can be mounted to suit the builder's own taste.

TIPS FOR FANS

A radio amateur in France has tough luck. He can't send at all and is not permitted to listen in on certain government transmitting stations.

A condemned murderer in a Boston jail is spending his remaining hours in the construction of a radio receiving set so that the inmates may enjoy programs during their hours of unemployment.

Despite all advice to the contrary, people still insist on using dry cells for the filament supply of vacuum tubes. The batteries will hold up for about five minutes and then they will slowly die down, until nothing at all can be heard.

Secretary Wallace has announced completion of plans for broadcasting weather, crop and market news by radiophone from Memphis, Tenn.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Roswell, N. M., and Milwaukee, Wis., thus giving the Department of Agriculture 41 stations throughout the United States from which agricultural news may be disseminated.

A radio aerial well grounded will take all the joy out of lightning rod salesmanship. Run a No. 4 copper wire down from your lightning arrester, as specified by the new regulations of the underwriters' code compiled in Washington recently, and your home will be amply protected from lightning—if you have gone deep into the earth in making your ground.

To the Voters of Haskell County.

As all of you know, we are now in the midst of the run-off campaign for the County Judge's race, and as I entered this race a stranger to most of you and came out second in the first primary, and as time will not permit me to see each voter in this county between now and the 28th day of this month, I take this method of further soliciting your support for the office of County Judge, and in doing so I realize that the first thing that you will want to know, and I believe in fact the first thing you should know, is something of my qualifications for the office, and in that connection I shall give you a brief statement.

I came to Texas but when a small boy, was raised in this state, and my father was a poor man and it was necessary for me to educate myself. I did so as best I could and when I had finished school, I took up the study of law and it was my ambition to become a lawyer, but my limited means would not permit me to finish my law course, hence I selected farming as my occupation. I moved to Haskell County 20 years ago, and settled on a farm ten miles southeast of the town of Haskell, which place I have lived ever since. I have practically raised my children in Haskell County, and I have succeeded in accumulating a little property over and above what it took for my family and myself to live on, but it has been done by hard farm work and close economy. I have been connected with the courts of this county every since I became a citizen of the county, either as a petty juror or a member of the grand jury and I am thoroughly familiar with all of the duties of County Judge's office.

able to live without the office. I may be, but if I am able, it is because I have made a success of my own affairs. If I had made a failure in the handling of my own affairs, I certainly would not feel that I was capable of attending to the County's business. If a person cannot attend to his own business, the voters of Haskell County would be very foolish to put him in charge of their business.

If I am elected your County Judge, I shall see that every person that has a case in my court gets a fair and impartial trial, and if they select a juror to try their case before I shall let the verdict of my jury stand, unless there is something radically wrong with their verdict. I believe as a rule, jurors are fair and honest, and always want to do the right and just thing between man and man.

If I am elected, I shall favor working the County convicts on the public road. I shall see that the extravagance in the maintenance of the County Government is cut out and that our taxes are reduced and I promise you now that I shall give the County's affairs the same business like attention that I do my own, being a farmer, and a man that has toiled for his living. I believe that I know the needs of the common people of this County for I have always been one of them.

Thanking you for the votes that I received during the first primary and again soliciting your support in the second primary,

Yours for service,
R. E. Lee,
Candidate for County Judge.
