Aftershocks Slow Rescue Operation

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — More aftershocks rocked the Naples-Sorrento area of southern Italy Wednesday as workers kept digging for bodies and the chief of relief operations said he was planning the evacuation of thousands made homeless by Europe's worst earthquake in 65 years.

The continuing tremors brought down buildings that escaped the earthquake Sunday night and frightened hundreds of thousands of survivors bivouacking in parks, beaches and other open spaces.

"We have offered them school buildings, but they don't want to go in with anything over their heads. It is understandable because they were so shocked and frightened," Salerno health official Antonio Ercolano said. Bleary-eyed soldiers, police and firefighters helped grieving villagers dig out the living and dead from the rubble that hit Sunday night. Rescue teams worked slowly because they did not have enough bulldozers or other equipment.

Fallen stones and collapsed bridges blocked many roads, but an Interior Ministry official said relief teams had arrived at every community in the stricken region by Tuesday evening.

The military command estimated the death toll at 3,132. The parish priest in Sant' Angelo dei Lombardi said he believed 1,500 corpses were beneath the ruins there. Officials in Laviano, 46 miles east of Salerno, predicted they might find 700 bodies under the rubble in their town.

The Interior Ministry said 2,400 bodies had been recovered and 200,000 people were homeless. It was Europe's most deadly earthquake since a 1915 quake killed 30,000 people in the Avezano region of central Italy.

"We will set up a well-organized exodus for those who have survived in the towns choked with thousands of deaths," said Giuseppe Zamberletti, who was put in charge of relief operations on Thursday update

Santa Due In Snyder Friday

If this is Thanksgiving Day, can Christmas be far behind? It is, indeed, and Snyder will quickly take on a Christmas atmosphere before the turkey leftovers find their way into the traditional hash.

Santa Claus is coming to town tomorrow to officially lend a hand in introducing the Christmas spirit to the Snyder retail business community.

Under sponsorship of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants'

Committee, he is scheduled to arrive at the airport at about 1 p. m. Friday. After greetings there, Santa will board a fire truck for the trip into town and ultimately he will be set up on the west side of the Snyder square in the building formerly occupied by Whitfield's Fabric Shop. There, area youngsters will be afforded an opportunity to visit with him out of the cold.

Also tomorrow, a number of Snyder retail firms will begin their annual Two-Day Sale, an event that has become a tradition in launching the Christmas shopping season here.

The lights on the downtown Christmas decorations will be turned on Friday evening, and most of the stores will be open well past their regular closing hours.

Their Two-Day Sale will continue through Saturday.

Red Tape Hampers Cleanup

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Four months after Hurricane Allen slammed into South Texas, officials of the stricken cities complain that they are hopelessly mired in a frustrating tangle of federal red tape.

Lower Rio Grande Valley mayors told a Texas Coastal and Marine Council hearing that they have been stonewalled and short-changed by the government agency set up to ease the flow of federal relief funds.

"We've spent $10,000 picking up brush alone," Mayor Jeff Burke of Rio Hondo said at the Tuesday hearing. "They've offered us about that much for all our damage, including only $3,800 for roads."

Charged With Stealing Charity

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A young man posing as an employee of the Hoeftgen Co. of Austin has been stealing small change donated to a national drive for cerebral palsy victims.

The man has been picking up donations cans at various businesses, pocketing the change and replacing the can with another one.

Hoeftgen, the local Schlitz distributor, has placed donation cans with about 80 percent of the company's 1,300 clients in Travis, Williamson, Bastrop and Milam counties, according to general manager Jim Lawrie.

"We're alerting the other stores now," said Lawrie. "We don't know how widespread it is at this point."

Celebrating Instead Of Mourning Thanksgiving

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — After more than 300 years of observing Thanksgiving as a day of mourning, some Wampanoag Indians will celebrate a "Day of Awakening" this year.

Their Thanksgiving will be a bittersweet remembrance of the difficulties that began for American Indians after white settlers took root in the New World. Within a generation of the Wampanoags' feast with the Pilgrims at the first harvest celebration in 1621, the newcomers and the natives were at war.

But this year, Thanksgiving also will be a new beginning, an example for the future.

"All my Indian brothers wanted to get rid of that stigma (of mourning)," says John Peters, head of the Massachusetts Commission on Indian Affairs. "We'd been holding our heads down too long."

"I don't see anything to be gained from mourning forever," adds Russell H. Gardner, or Chief Great-moose.

"It is a sad commentary on history that one culture usurped the other," he says. "(But the first Thanksgiving) was a service of love and peace. It's something we can point to as a good example for the future."

Plymouth townsfolk and visitors will celebrate Thanksgiving with a traditional Pilgrim's Progress, a re-enactment of the early settlers' procession to worship. After an ecumenical church service in the Town Square, there will be a public turkey dinner at Memorial Hall.

The Wampanoags and members of other tribes plan to fast and gather for speeches and prayers at the statue of Chief Massasoit overlooking Plymouth Rock.

Then they will break their fast with a pot-luck dinner on Main Street, followed by native songs and dance.

Indians should look ahead, not dwell on the past, says Peters, also known as Slowturtle, the supreme medicine man for the Wampanoag nation.

"Our message is that the family structure has to rejoin again. People have to start loving like human beings again. Love and trust have to return. We need to stand together and prepare a place for those unborn children to live.

"If we're going to survive, all of us have to come back together as units, as families — that's a time for giving true thanks," he said.

The first Thanksgiving "was a day of rejoicing. See Thanksgiving, Page 11A

The SDN Column

After all of the speculation about J. R.'s assailant, we decided to watch the television show, Dallas, at our house the night the culprit was scheduled to be identified.

Frankly, we had trouble keeping our attention focused on the television set. Not having seen many episodes of the serial, perhaps we were not well enough indoctrinated. But, whatever the reason, it came across as rather dull fare.

So, about 15 minutes deep into the show and well before the shocking disclosure was made, Margie was dozing in her chair and yours truly was picking at a crossword puzzle and about half keeping up with the proceedings on Dallas.

Somehow, we just knew that it was going to be a woman who shot J. R. It fit the trend of the show. And it did not seem likely that his wife would be the one. She had too many good motives for shooting him.

We read enough Sherlock Holmes and saw enough Hitchcock on the tube to go for the obvious. So, the revelation, when it came, was no shock. The main question we might have raised was why she didn't turn the gun on the show's producer instead of poor old J. R.

But you can't win them all.

Sometimes there is no explanation for the taste of viewers and spectators. So, we say, "to each his own."

We thought about this when we read Peggy Koonsman's letter to the editor about support of fans for the volleyball team. Mostly they just don't go for quality alone, but instead opt for tradition.

It may not make sense intellectually, but one of the facts of life in the sports world, whether it is junior high, high school, college, or professional is that the worst football game will attract more people to watch it than a red hot game of basketball, volleyball, tennis, track, or golf.

That's probably why the networks treat us to such extravaganzas as the New Orleans Saints vs. the Los Angeles Rams on Monday night.

continuing voyage

After 360 years, the voyage of the Pilgrims on the Mayflower remains one of the outstanding epics in the human story. Though history has tended to romanticize the Pilgrims and exaggerate the role played by the tiny "Plimoth Plantation" in the subsequent history of New England and the United States, that migration is justly a proud part of the American heritage.

On this day, we ought to recall not only the story of that Thanksgiving held a year after the Pilgrims landed but also the perilous voyage itself. It is a tale of courage made all the more imposing when we remember that it was embarked on—at just about the worst time of year—by women and children as well as men.

Today, in our modern, comfortable world, we are seldom called upon to exhibit the kind of raw physical courage that was necessary to sustain the Pilgrims for more than two months in a small, overcrowded boat on a frequently stormy ocean, headed for where they knew not what in a hostile and unknown land.

Indeed, even the need for a little spiritual stamina in dealing with our daily problems is something most of us are strangers to.

Perhaps that is true for individuals. Perhaps it is possible to slide through life, conforming to the beliefs and opinions and morality of the majority, with no great harm done to anyone.

Not so for a nation, however. A nation is always confronted with the unknown of the future. A nation that coasts, that talks rather than lives greatness, that enshrines but does not practice the principles on which it was founded, is only existing on suffrage until some stronger, more dedicated system comes along to supplant it.

Just three weeks ago we elected a president, one lonely human being who must chart America's course in the years to come. It is he who must lead us, inspire us, perhaps drag us unwillingly to an unknown place called Destiny.

There, even as did the Pilgrims, would we plant our ideals and our lives and fortunes that they may be a sign to coming generations of men who will say, "Brave voyage."

not-so-good old days

If you've ever suspected that perhaps the old days weren't all that good, here's evidence to back you up.

FBI and other ominously upward-trending statistics to the contrary, the crime rate may not be all that different in the typical American city today than it was a century or more past.

The latest report in the long-run Middletown Study finds that the past had its full share of offenses that are the focus of concern today—assault and battery, murder, sex crimes and a long list of routine transgressions.

The Middletown Study, using Muncie, Ind., as its typical city, analyzes court records dating back to 1829 in charting the ups and downs of public order. Begun in 1924, it has been updated several times, the current report covering the half decade since 1975.

In releasing it, Ball State University sociologist Dr. John D. Hewitt noted that compared to periods in its past, Muncie today is notably law-abiding. What stands out in the long view of crime statistics is that varying attitudes toward law enforcement by officers and important segments of the community have a direct bearing on the numbers of arrests for social offenses in any given period.

One such period was immediately following the Civil War, when Muncie's crime rate rose sharply, according to Hewitt, in response to "an apparent attitudinal shift among residents, a new moralism inspired by religious fervor as churches and other groups attempted to capture the minds of Muncie citizens."

In other words, neither is there much new about the Moral Majority.

Every year, without fail, on the eve of Thanksgiving, a television reporter somewhere interviews a live turkey. The turkey's response is neither emotional nor is it compassionate. He just keeps eating. Frankly, it used to upset me. It was more than the fact that we shared a thigh problem, it was genuine concern for this proud feathered friend who, within hours, would go from prime time to cancellation.

beginning of time have asked, "When is the turkey done?" and I would answer them, "Any time it wants to be." Some naive women think you can judge the cooking time of a turkey by figuring out the poundage, the oven temperature, and allowing so many minutes per pound. Wrong, raw turkey breath. It depends on the stubbornness of the bird. I have seen 30-pound birds cook in two hours, before the pies have cooled, before the potatoes and yams have cooked, before the cranberries are frozen, before the guests have left from St. Louis.

my turn

Today is Thanksgiving, the most American of all our holidays. Our tradition of Thanksgiving dates back to 1619 when a group of newly arrived English settlers landed at a site 40 miles north of Jamestown. When they sat down to give thanks they were fulfilling the first of the 10 directives of their charter: "...that the day of our ships arrivall...shall be yearly and perpetually kept holy as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God." (Later, emphasis was shifted from eating to spelling.)

Contrary to popular belief, however, that first Thanksgiving was not celebrated in November. October was the month and the occasion was a giant cookout. Also, the first Thanksgiving was not confined to a single day but was a week-long harvest festival.

Exactly how the turkey came to be associated with Thanksgiving is not clear. I have read there is no evidence that turkey was even on the menu for that first Thanksgiving. But with so many people there for that first feast, I find it hard to believe that someone didn't dish up the fowl.

There were earlier observances of thanksgiving, some dating as far back as 1584. They, however, were one-shot affairs and seem never to have caught on as annual observances. The modern Thanksgiving tradition dates back to the 19th century when the magazine "Godey's Lady's Book" and crusader Sarah J. Hale argued for the need to have a designated holiday of Thanksgiving. It was Abraham Lincoln who, in 1863, set aside by presidential proclamation the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving.

Judge Calvin Ashley issued the temporary restraining order Wednesday and ordered a hearing on the matter for Dec. 1. But Lackey said Reyna could not be located and indicated the state would have to file a motion for an extension of the TRO if Reyna is not found in 10 days.

"Reyna has induced the refugees to take the trip to Wichita Falls by representing to them that he would arrange jobs for them in Wichita Falls," the petition said. "In fact, Reyna has not arranged jobs for most refugees he has brought to Wichita Falls. The result has been that many of the Cuban refugees have been left with inadequate food and shelter for some time after their arrival in Wichita Falls."

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A state district judge has issued a temporary restraining order against a man the Attorney General's office, has accused of defrauding Cuban refugees by luring them here with the promise of jobs that never materialized.

The State Attorney General's office filed suit in 30th District Court here alleging that Carlos Reyna of Wichita Falls violated the Texas Consumer Protection Act. The suit says Reyna promised refugees at Fort Chaffee, Arkansas, a job if they would settle here and he charged them a small fee for transportation.

Assistant Attorney General Doug Lackey said residents here complained to his office that many of the refugees were crammed in houses with sparse bedding, no toilet facilities and inadequate food.

The suit seeks restitutions and damages for the refugees and civil penalties not to WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ronald Reagan's intention to proceed with the tax cut that he promised during his presidential campaign is worrying many traditional liberal economists, who maintain that such action would fuel inflation and deprive the federal government of needed revenue.

But, interestingly, the prospect of a tax cut has also worried some very conservative economists.

By way of background, Reagan has embraced the proposal put forward by Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., and Sen. William Roth, R-Del., to cut tax rates 10 percent a year for three years.

The theory behind Kemp-Roth is that lowering tax rates will provide a greater incentive to work, causing Americans to earn significantly more money.

This expansion of the tax base is expected to increase the revenues taken in by the federal government.

Reagan has also spoken favorably of another conservative-backed proposal: limiting federal spending to a fixed percentage of the gross national product. Thus, the federal budget could increase only at the rate at which the national economy expanded.

This plan is being pushed by the National Tax Limitation Committee as the way to seize firm control of the federal budget. Similar measures have already been adopted by several states.

But at least one highly regarded conservative economist sees a potential danger if Reagan embraces both the Kemp-Roth and NTLC proposals. If both were adopted, he fears, federal spending and taxes might increase sharply rather than decrease.

That economist is Norman Ture, head of the Institute for Research on the Economics of Taxation. He forecasts that a spurt in the economy would be the almost immediate effect of a Kemp-Roth type of tax cut. If federal spending were tied to the GNP, this economic growth would trigger corresponding growth in federal spending at the same time.

Ture projects that the GNP would grow by $44 billion in the first year after enactment of Kemp-Roth. In fact, he believes that such a cut in tax rates is long overdue. What worries him is that Reagan might push for Kemp-Roth and indexing of federal spending at the same time.

Ture projects that the GNP would grow by $44 billion in the first year after enactment of Kemp-Roth. That growth would reach $166 billion by the plan's fifth year, two years after the full 30-percent cut took effect.

"Given these gains in GNP," warns Ture, "the NTLC kind of spending limit would permit substantial and growing increases in federal outlays far in excess of those now envisioned. The rates of gain in GNP would modify after several years, but the magnitude of gain during the adjustment period would establish a far higher plateau of government outlays by virtue of the NTLC limit than would otherwise be contemplated."

Ture estimates these "mandated" increases in federal spending at $15.3 billion in the first year and a whopping $93.3 billion by year five. That would mean fiscal 1985 spending of $995.9 billion—well above even the $901 billion projected by the Carter administration for that year.

The NTLC is not without formidable allies, especially among the newly elected Republican senators. So, when the Reagan administration finally sends its tax-cutting proposals to Capitol Hill, the ensuing debate is likely to pit not only liberal against conservative but conservative against conservative. Some lively sessions are forecast.

"Tiffany Of Rome" Promotes Use Of Semiprecious Stones

By Florence De Santis

ROME (NEA) - Bulgari is the Tiffany of Rome. In a series of beautiful rooms, furnished with antiques, you find the "grand luxe" jewelry the Bulgari family has made since 1905.

Bulgari is famed for using all the gemstones, not just the "precious" stones. Now such use has become a trend with many designers of fine jewelry.

Traditionally, there have been only five "precious" stones: diamond, ruby, sapphire, emerald and pearl. When the Japanese discovered how to make oysters produce pearls in huge underwater "farms," the jewelry world debated whether cultured pearls were "precious."

"Inflation has put the precious stones, except for pearls, almost out of reach of all but the wealthy," said Gianni Bulgari, head of the family-owned firm. "Many fine semi-precious stones now cost what the five used to cost. The designation of semi-precious no longer has any meaning. A fine, large-carat tourmaline of unusual color can easily cost more than a lesser quality diamond."

Bulgari shows, by way of example, an 18-karat gold chain with a pink tourmaline and amethyst pendant, pearl necklaces set with coral, sapphires and diamonds, a carved ivory necklace accented in 18-karat gold and many small diamonds. One sees onyx, lapis lazuli, blue agate and pink quartz in the showcases, too. The Dancy, tangerine is called the "kid glove" orange because of its easy-peeling quality.

Rejuvenate Your Weekend With Thanksgiving Leftovers

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

It's difficult to list the ways in which leftover turkey may be used. Just let your imagination loose when you're faced with the tasty remains of a holiday gobble.

For example, curried turkey is easy to do and so are broiled bananas. Put the two together for a dinner that will tingle the tastebuds.

Another different turkey dish is a deviled casserole with a crunchy topping and ingredients such as raisins, olives and rum that make each bite interesting. So, as you see, it needn't be turkey sandwiches every day following a holiday bash.

CURRIED TURKEY OVER BROILED BANANAS

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 2 cups cut-up cooked turkey

- 1/2 cup sliced pitted ripe olives

In a medium saucepan, melt butter. Add onion and celery and cook until tender. Blend in flour, salt, curry powder and crushed bouillon cube. Cook 1 or 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Gradually stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Simmer 2 or 3 minutes. Add turkey and olives; heat serve over broiled bananas. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

BROILED BANANAS

Cut 4 bananas in half lengthwise. Place on a buttered baking sheet. Brush with melted butter and broil for 3 to 5 minutes. (Bananas need not be fully ripe.)

DEVILED TURKEY CASSEROLE

- 1 onion, chopped
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 6 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon mustard
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 1 cup celery, sliced
- 3 cups cooked

- 1 turkey, diced cup ripe olives, sliced
- 12 -ounce jar pimento, chopped
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup Bacardi dark rum
- 1 cup seasoned bread crumbs

In saucepan, saute onion in butter until golden. Blend in flour, mustard and salt. Add milk and cook, stirring, until mixture thickens. Add celery, turkey, olives, pimento and raisins, heat thoroughly. Add rum and spoon into a large baking dish or casserole. Top with bread crumbs and bake in a pre-heated 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8-10 servings.

One of the first things a beginner learns is to return his partner's suit. Later on a student learns when not to return his partner's suit.

Then he is taught the general rule of leading fourth best, except from certain high-card combinations.

We now turn to our unlucky expert who sat South. We will let him tell his own story.

"On a good day I would have missed a slam, six diamonds plus my sure winners would have given me 12 tricks.

"The game was duplicate. Most other declarers at three notrump made 10 or 11 tricks at three notrump; I made just eight."

We will explain what happened to him. West made his normal lead of the queen of spades. Our unfortunate friend won in dummy and promptly played three rounds of diamonds.

This line of play was so standard that all other declarers did the same and all East players were on lead.

Those who always returned partner's suit led a spade and South made five odd. Those who realized that South was marked with the spade king led a heart. All but one led the standard fourth best. Declarer played low and made only four odd if West cashed a second heart.

Against our friend, East led the queen of hearts. A tough play, but the only one that could defeat the contract. South had no way to escape four quick heart losers.

Searching Space For Sounds Of Life

The Snyder (Tex.) Daily News, Thu., Nov. 27, 1980 7A

GREENBANK, W. Va. (AP) — Among West Virginia's apple orchards and rambling old farmhouses stands a row of gigantic dishes staring into space, silently eavesdropping on the hum of the universe.

The radio telescopes of The National Radio Astronomy Observatory, located in the Greenbrier Valley near the Virginia border, hunt for sounds of life across the universe, turning radio blips and static into pictures of galaxies that would take spacecraft hundreds of light years to reach.

They also reach back into the origins of time, hunting for debris and other clues from the explosions and stellar collisions that formed the first stars and planets at the birth of the universe.

"It's as if we're on the shore staring out across an endless sea without ever knowing where it goes or ends," says a guide leading the way to the telescopes.

George Russano sits in the observatory's control room, poring over calculations of an experiment on the birth of stars. Around him banks of sophisticated computers whir and click.

"We're trying to understand what makes a star, what triggers star formation and the evolution of galaxies and galactic structures," Russano said.

"We're looking for what started it all."

The giant telescopes — rotating metal dishes up to 300 feet in diameter and two acres in size — stand in the fallow fields of farms that were purchased when astronomers established a listening post on the universe here in the early 1960s.

Crumbling buildings still dot the observatory's grounds, and deer and rabbits roam freely amid the spindly legs of the telescopes as they turn slowly to track distant stars and planets.

"It's all a bit obscure, I suppose," Russano said. "Someone once did a calculation that the articles in which we publish our findings are read by three people in the whole world."

Scientists built the nation's first major radio observatory in the sleepy valley because its seclusion helped protect the extremely sensitive telescopes. (The Greenbank observatory is now aided by installations at Socorro, N.M., and Tucson, Ariz.)

Cowboys All But Assured With Win Over Seahawks

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys are just a victory away from all but clinching their 14th trip to the National Football League playoffs in 15 years.

But Coach Tom Landry says it isn't going to do much good unless the Cowboys play well in their final four games against Seattle, Oakland, Los Angeles and Philadelphia.

"All four games are against excellent teams," said Landry. "Those games will decide what we can do and where we'll be. I don't care to be in the playoffs unless we can be something.

"If we lose one then we'll have a chance to go to the Super Bowl."

Dallas meets Seattle Thanksgiving Day coming off a poor outing against Washington in which the Cowboys struggled to a 14-10 victory.

The Cowboys are 9-3 and a victory over the Seahawks would virtually assure them of one of the two wild card National Conference playoff berths.

The worst Dallas would finish would be 10-6.

Los Angeles, unless it catches Atlanta in the NFC Central, has the inside track for the other wild card berth with a current 8-4 record.

Two teams from the NFC who have the best records other than the division champions meet Dec. 28.

"We have only a slim chance of catching Philadelphia now," said Landry. "The Eagles are just too solid on defense to have a breakdown."

The Eagles are two games ahead of Dallas with four to play.

"I haven't thought too much about the wild card," said Landry. "Of course, we went to the Super Bowl one year as a wild card."

Landry said the Cowboys were "just about on schedule" with their 9-3 record.

"If you look back to the summer, we were concerned about replacing four defensive backs and the quarterback," said Landry. "We couldn't expect miracles but things have worked out pretty well."

"I'm still not sure what this team is going to do. I've seen 'em play awfully good in every area and I've seen 'em look bad. I'm really looking forward to see how we play the last four games."

Landry blamed himself for quarterback Danny White's four interceptions, calling himself "stupid" for a call late in the game that led to an interception by the Redskins.

"It was my worst call of the year," Landry said.

Landry said Seattle would provide another stiff test for the Dallas defense.

Clark Hopes To Keep Lions In 1st Place

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - You'll have to pardon Coach Monte Clark if he seems less intent on x's and o's than on circling the wagons in front of the Silverdome.

Clark finally has his Detroit Lions back in first place in the Central Division of the National Football League's National Conference and all they have to do to stay there is protect their own turf.

However, the Lions, 7-5, who host the Chicago Bears, 4-8, in a 12:30 p.m. game on Thanksgiving day, may find that easier said than done.

"We'll win as many as we can and see what happens," Clark insisted.

The Lions' coach said he expects the Bears to come in fighting mad Thursday after Sunday's loss to the Atlanta Falcons in which star running back Walter Payton was ejected for touching an official.

"It wasn't in a hostile way," Payton said. "I had no intention of mangling him or anything."

Clark fears, however, that Payton and his Bears teammates would love to mangle the Lions - again.

"You have to remember they beat us 24-7 the last time we played them (Oct. 19 at Soldier Field)," Clark said. "I don't know how we could catch them at a worse time."

The Lions climbed back on top of the NFC Central by virtue of their 24-10 victory Sunday over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers while the Green Bay Packers were upsetting Minnesota to leave the Vikings one game back at 6-6.

Thursday's game, to be televised nationally by CBS-TV, will afford the country a chance to see the veteran Payton go head-to-head with rookie Lions' running back Billy Sims.

Locals To Vie In Soccer Meet

Snyder will send a soccer team to the West Texas Soccer Coaches Association Tournament, to be held in Lubbock, Dec. 6-7.

Odessa, Clovis, N.M., Hobbs, N.M., Amarillo and Lubbock will be among the cities represented in the two-day tournament.

Snyder will play its first game at the Lubbock State School, 10:15 a.m. Dec. 6 against an as yet unnamed opponent. Winner of the clash will play again at 3:15. Loser will vie at 2.

Players for the local bunch will be Chris Marlow, Chris Woodard, David Stewart, Robby Smith, Alva Smith, Talva Smith, Cory Fisher, Darla Smith, Shelly LaRoux, Brian Burgess, Jason West, Israel Hinojos, Justin Hester, Rusty Clayton, John Griffin and Shane Alexander.

Coaches include Alva Smith, David Fisher, Eddie Stewart and Wayne Woodard.

Furnishing the entry fee for the tournament was Penny Lane Restaurant.

Eagles Will Get Beat!

By BILL McCLELLAN
No flutter, no fuss, no excuses - this week's picks are going to be smooth and sweet.

No longer shall I bad-mouth the pros, cuss the collegians and scoff the schoolboys.

This week I am taking a positive outlook on the predictions. For instance, after looking over the current 20, I am POSITIVE I am going to do a good job. Furthermore, I am optimistic about the rest of the season. Folks, this is the beginning of something Grand! This is the first day of the rest of my life! This is...

Sickening isn't it? Enough of that trash, let's get on with this week's usual selection of drudgery. Last week's attempt came up with a lousy 13-7 for 650, and I expect worse this time out. Check out a measly 165 right, 75 wrong for the season, 688, and suffer through the following logic if you've got nothing better to do:

1. Stamford vs Canutillo. I'm a Stamford native, and can't think of any better reason than to go with the Bulldogs...STAMFORD 28, CANUTILLO 21.
2. Rotan vs Plains. 'P' comes before 'R' in the dictionary...PLAINS 17, ROTAN 7.
3. Permian vs FW Richland. Mojo begins to roll? PERMIAN 35, RICHLAND 20.
4. Estacado vs Brownwood. Mike Jenkins told me if any team didn't care about Brownwood's reputation, it would be Estacado...MATS 21, LIONS 14.
5. A&M at Texas. Texas, because my one joy in making these predictions this year has been to see A&M lose or win when I actually picked them that way...TEXAS 27, A&M 15.
6. Tech at Arkansas. It's their turn to win this week...TECH 23, ARKANSAS 21.
7. Rice at Houston. Who you tryin' ta kid?...COUGARS 45, OWLS 14.
8. Auburn at Alabama. Ditto...ALABAMA 19, AUBURN 3.
9. Pitt at Penn St. I'm in the pits already...PENN ST. 14, PITT 13.
10. Seattle at Dallas. Cowboys are warming up for the playoffs...POKES 24, HAWKS 14.
11. Cleveland at Houston. Cleveland doesn't believe, and you HAVE to believe...OILERS 17, BROWNS 14.
12. Miami at Pittsburgh. UPPSETTT! Miami catches the Steelers off guard, then holds on in a wild finish...DOLPHINS 28, STEELERS 27.
13. Philadelphia at San Diego. UPPSETTT number tt-wwwooooo!!! Eagles want the Falcons next week more than they want the Chargers this time...DIEGO 20, PHILLY 19.
14. St. Louis at NY Giants. I'm not totally nuts...CARDS 21, GIANTS 14.
15. Tampa Bay vs Green Bay. Who cares? The Pats, believe it or not, still have a chance to win a championship...G-BAY 23, T-BAY 18.
16. Buffalo at Baltimore. Baltimore plays Cincinnati next week; Buffalo plays Los Angeles. The heads are turning for UPPSETTT number three!!!...COLTS 14, BILLS 10.
17. Cincinnati at Kansas City. Calm down with...KC 23, CINCY 20.
18. Washington at Atlanta. Atlanta, folks, will play for the NFC title...FALCONS 21, REDSKINS 10.
19. New England at San Francisco. The Pats won't get knocked off, just frightened...NEW ENGLAND 24, FRISCO 21.
20. Chicago at Detroit. Don't kid yourself about this one. It's in the bag...LIONS 35, BEARS 27.

Wool Bowl Will Pit NJC - NMMI

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP) - win only twice. NMMI last won the game in 1977, when it beat Independence Community College of Kansas, 38-28.

This season, Navarro posted a 7-3 record and finished second in the Texas Junior College Conference to unbeaten Kilgore Junior College. NMMI posted a 4-5 regular season mark.

Navarro, which runs the veer offense, is paced by halfback Eddie Hamilton, who rushed for more than 700 yards this season, and quarterback Fred Hesse, who passed for more than 1,000 yards.

NMMI has played six previous times in the bowl but the Broncos have managed to

Values Often Shift During 1st Weeks Of College

By TERRY KIRKPATRICK
AP Newsfeatures Writer
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — It's Thanksgiving. Pop has just filed away the cancelled checks for his daughter's $8,000 freshman year at college. She's just returned in his Cadillac from a morning at the family's tennis club. They sit to eat. "Our family's values are so middle class, so materialistic," she remarks casually, and Pop's jaw drops precariously close to the cranberries. So goes the autumnal rite of passage: the first reunion with offspring freed from the nest, flown away to school — and new habits and ideas and values. The scene might be any of the 2.5 million homes welcoming college freshmen back for the holidays this month.

More can happen to some youngsters in those first weeks than at any other time in life, says Ronald Jackson, who has observed the process over two decades as an administrator at four universities. As the dean of student life at the University of Rochester today, he sees it in 1,100 novitiates a year. "Parents call us and say: 'What the heck happened? What have you done to our child?'"

Jackson says. "In just eight to 10 weeks, their children are already asking major questions about their lives."

Or the old homestead might reel under stereophonic disco until 3 a.m. and fitful snoring until noon, if the parent is lucky. Some only deduce their child's presence from the trail of dirty laundry. "A student is likely to spend a great deal of time on vacation checking out his new experiences with his peers," Jackson says. "Parents often interpret that as rejection, but it's just part of the exploration process."

Others stumble home "and turn into vegetables for four days — just eating and sleeping. It looks to the parent as though an expensive education is being wasted. But students look forward to Thanksgiving as a rest period. College is very fast-paced."

Beyond the physical is the mental metamorphosis, and its stages are predictable. Freshmen come in with what Jackson calls a "dualistic" way of looking at the world:

you-me, yes-no, right-wrong, all-or-nothing. An "all liberals are bad" attitude, for instance, gets whipsawed in a course in which the teacher presents the good and the bad aspects of socialism.

The next stage is "multiplicity," in which all opinions are considered valid and criticism is wrong. Last comes "relativism," in which conflicting views are compared critically and decisions made. Before arriving at a set of beliefs, though, a student will seem to flip-flop erratically as he tries alternatives.

"Students have a tendency to turn on or off. They may challenge everything their parents say," Jackson says. "Or they may show a condescending tolerance of the parents when they suddenly recognize that their parents haven't achieved enlightenment yet."

These rapid changes make for chaos back home and in his counseling sessions, Jackson says, "but I'm optimistic about how it all works out. The number of tragedies we see is really very small." After four years of churning, the departing senior usually leaves with 80 percent of his original value system intact, but reconstructed and individualized.

Aids to a vegetarian diet

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My daughter, 18, has been a vegetarian for about five years. She does not eat meat, fish or eggs. What is a good diet for her and how about vitamins?

DEAR READER — It depends on what her vegetarian diet includes. You can have a reasonably satisfactory diet and still omit meat, fish and eggs. The complete protein in this instance must come from milk and milk products such as cottage cheese. The other alternative is to have a sufficient variety of vegetable proteins that complement each other. Mature bean seeds, particularly soybeans, are often very helpful in this regard.

As a young woman she could have an iron deficiency unless she's very careful. Women in the childbearing age tend to require about twice as much iron as men do anyway. The other possible deficiency would be vitamin B-12. She can avoid both of these problems by taking one of the general purpose, daily vitamin tablets that also contain iron.

It's a bit more difficult to manage children on a vegetarian diet because those are the years when they need increased amounts of protein for growth and two of the amino acids that are not as important to adults. Protein requirements are also increased during pregnancy and during lactation. There are a lot of misconceptions about diet so I know you'll be interested in The Health Letter number 16-2, Dangerous Dieting, which I'm sending you. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Help. Our daughter-in-law had two Caesarean sections and two or three miscarriages. Now my husband is blaming her for not trying to have a son. Our daughter-in-law and our son have told him that the doctor advised against another pregnancy. My husband says another child would not kill her. Is this true? I'm very despondent about the whole problem.

DEAR READER — Apparently I missed something. I was under the general impression that the prospective parents were the ones who decided whether they wanted another child or not rather than the potential grandparents.

It's a good idea to follow your doctor's advice on such matters. I know nothing else about your daughter-in-law's problems but it is true that a woman who has had one Caesarean section often must have another one. There are several reasons for this. If the first Caesarean section was done because the pelvic outlet was too small for the passage of the baby, that condition will still be present for all subsequent births. Then, once there's a scar from an incision in the uterus, it's more likely to rupture. Some women are able to have subsequent normal deliveries provided the basic reason for the first Caesarean is no longer applicable, but this has to be decided on an individual basis.

Finally, why does your husband think the daughter-in-law is responsible for having a son? The sex of a newborn baby is determined by whether the ovum was fertilized by a female or a male sperm cell from the man.

Aftershocks

Monday.
"The model which will guide us will remain the Friuli emergency," he held a news conference. In 1976, when two violent tremors and torrential rains killed about 1,000 people in the northern Friuli region, Zamberletti bused and trucked 120,000 survivors to requisitioned hotels, pensions and private homes for the winter on the Adriatic coast. About 95 percent were able to return home eventually, but about 35,000 still live in prefabricated housing.

"We will give ample margin to local mayors, while using military support facilities in various areas," he said. "But we will not have the benefit of the numerous military bases of northern Italy, so we will have to fly many soldiers down."

The U.S. government announced it was sending 1,000 tents from military stockpiles in Europe, but Zamberletti said tent cities were only a partial answer. He said with winter at hand, they could not be used for "the old, the weak and the sick" and also were unsuitable for mountain villages above 3,000 feet.

Thanksgiving

thanksgiving and gratitude," said Rose Briggs, an 87-year-old Plymouth historian and direct descendant of some of the Pilgrims, including Gov. William Bradford.

"And also they had a good time," she said. "An amusing aspect is that one of the Indians' great games was football. So our present rash of football games on Thanksgiving is part of 1621 precedent. Apparently they ran up and down the seashore kicking a ball and gambling very heavily on the results."

By the next generation, however, the Indian and English cultures were in sharp conflict. By 1675, 50,000 colonists had settled here, Prince Philip, son of Massachusetts, had declared war and Thanksgiving was no longer a holiday for all.

State Wants Shoe Polish Sales Halted

HOUSTON (AP) — A Dec. 1 hearing has been scheduled on the state's petition for a temporary injunction barring the sale of a shoe polish until it is properly labeled.

The suit filed by the consumer protection division of the Texas attorney general's office alleges Super Coat is being sold without advising purchasers it contains toluene, a toxic substance that can cause someone to get "high" or cause physical and mental harm if inhaled.

State District Judge Peter Solito granted a temporary restraining order last week prohibiting sales without proper labeling and specifying the spray cannot be sold to persons under 18.

Several chemical abuse counselors for the Association of Advancement of Mexican-Americans submitted affidavits saying they had observed children who became disoriented, stopped taking care of their appearances and hygiene, slurred their speech, lost their appetites, and suffered headaches after inhaling the spray.

Building Victim Of Hit And Run

Snyder police are investigating a traffic accident in which Roy Lashaway's coin and antique shop on the East Highway was the target of a car that left the scene.

The hit and run was reported about 9:50 a.m. Wednesday and is alleged to have occurred between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday.

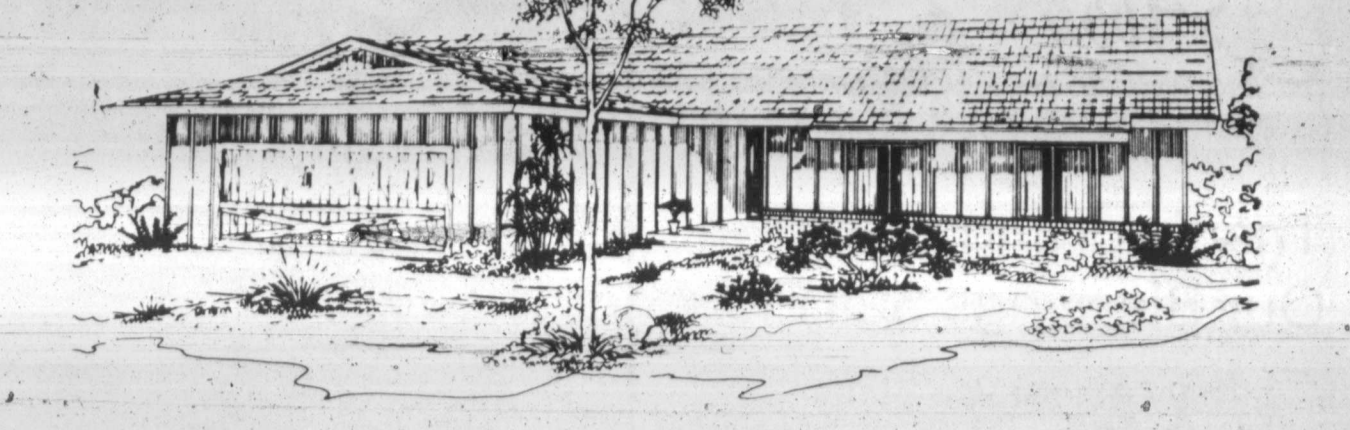

Damage to the building was estimated at $500.

Different Appeal

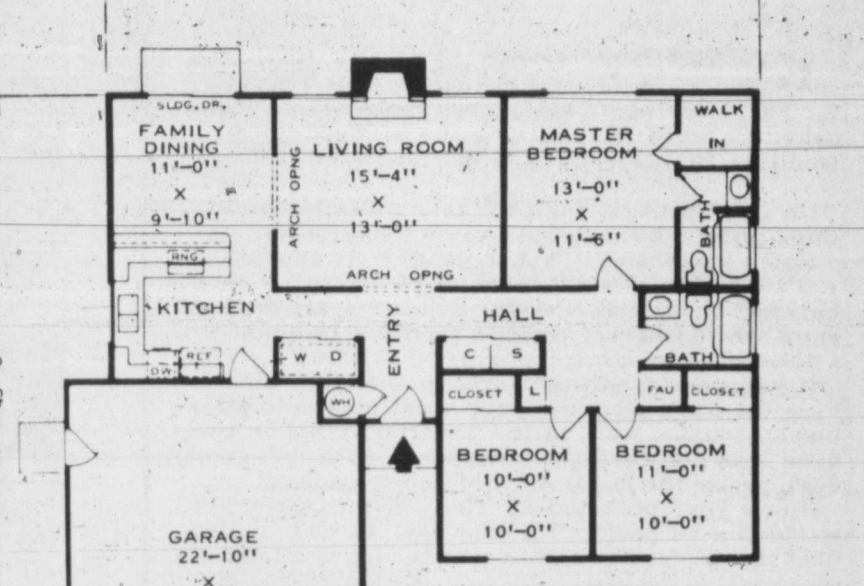

HOME DESIGN
By Larry Farnsworth

This distinctive Design AC1181 is just about as different on the inside as it obviously is on the outside. Its appeal is different too for it outruns many far more conventional plans when it comes to popularity with builders. This is their favorite choice and there are many reasons why it is.

Note the living room for example. It is large, totally separate, located at the back of the house for privacy, and its fireplace forms the focal point as you enter the spacious living room. The two arched openings add a special flavor, one handles the entry traffic, the other leads to the dining room making this design great for entertaining, and note the area is highly efficient and interior traffic pattern insured traffic through the garage door by the central entry just within to the laundry alcove in the hall the recessed front door. Two never intrudes upon its activities. The garage also has a side door leading to the yard.

In the rear corner of the house the master bedroom is a big square foot of living area plan is enjoys its own share of drama and a compartmented bath of chosen. The main bath backs serving the family room area up to this one for maximum providing both viewing of and have outside windows. A rear convenient access to the out-location gives this room extra side. The U-shaped working privacy too.

The other two bedrooms are comfortable too, both in size and in closet space. Note also the extra storage closet, and linen closet centrally located, just outside the door of each bedroom and main bath. A basement version is available with staircase from entry. Good living is available too. You may send for a free 44 page plan book available from Larry Farnsworth, P.O. Box 1841, Las Vegas, Nevada 89101.

Middle America Has Own Monsoon Season

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer
Middle America has its own monsoon season, much like the seasonal wind that brings heavy rains in Asia.

"We have a true monsoon characteristic here in the middle part of America," says Jack Villmow, climatologist at Northern Illinois University, De Kalb, Ill. "I think the term 'mid-American monsoon,' or 'MAM' for short, is quite appropriate."

"We think of the monsoon as an Asiatic phenomenon but it's really just more pronounced there. It's a situation that occurs frequently enough in North America so that we notice an increase in precipitation during summer as Gulf air moves very easily northward into the heart of the continent."

June, July and August — a quarter of the year — account for a third to a half of the annual rainfall in the mid-American monsoon belt, Villmow says. This zone extends from Denver to Chicago and from Kentucky to the southern portions of Canada's prairie provinces.

The term monsoon can be useful in understanding weather patterns, Villmow says. It derives from the Arabic word mawsim, meaning season.

As computer specialists advance in their profession, they're more and more compelled to "interface" with people and many of them have trouble with that, the trade magazine Datamation says.

"They find it difficult to deal with resolving conflicts and personal communications," the magazine reports.

"You can't yell at the computer, so you yell at your wife, or husband. This scenario all too often is played out among married computer people. Among the nation's professionals, only air traffic controllers have a higher divorce rate. Psychologists see this result as the unfortunate but natural outcome of the high degree of stress most data processing managers suffer," the magazine says.

Basic research on the earth's ozone layer in the atmosphere may unexpectedly lead to a saving of aviation fuel.

These patterns mark the location of intensity of the jet stream, the high-altitude air current flowing around the world from west to east, at altitudes where most airlines fly.

At the jet stream's core, wind speeds can reach 200 mph. The core can be found through ozone changes, say Melvyn Shapiro of the National Center for Atmospheric Research and Arlin Krueger of NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

Gilley Foresees Long Future For CW Music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music singer Mickey Gilley, whose Texas nightclub helped inspire the urban cowboy craze, says he believes the western charm will last a lot longer than a twisting ride on a mechanical bull.

Gilley, whose club was the earthy setting for the John Travolta film "Urban Cowboy," says the variety of country music, the lure of its lyrics and associated attractions like the mechanical bull and western fashion will maintain the "cowboy chic" fever.

The movie helped launch dozens of similar clubs across the country, many of them converted discos whose rhythmic beat was becoming unimaginative and boring to scrutinizing listeners.

Patrons now show up wearing snappy western hats, boots and jeans, and some of them drive shiny pickup trucks with Confederate flags in the rear window and bumper stickers deriding disco.

And the onslaught has even affected some skating rinks, whose traditional organ music has succumbed to the country sound.

"I can ride it and I have four or five times. But the operator can hurt you if he cranks it up. I don't want to get hurt."

Number Of Aliens Is Unknown

WASHINGTON (AP) — A General Accounting Office study says no one really knows how many illegal aliens are living in the United States.

The GAO, the investigative agency of Congress, concludes in a study that "An illegal alien, once safely into the United States, has little chance of being located and deported. INS (Immigration and Naturalization Service) simply does not know the number of illegal aliens and who or where they are."

Although INS has estimated the number of illegal aliens at 4 million, some Census Bureau staff members say the number is 5 million.

The GAO report said prospects for controlling illegal immigration are poor. In a letter commenting on the GAO study, the Department of Justice agreed that without implementation of major measures for controlling entry into the country, "little progress in solving the immigration problem is likely."

Dear Abby

Thanksgiving 1980: Our Blessings Still Flow

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: It's Thanksgiving again. (So soon?) A few years ago I wrote a column especially for Thanksgiving. It was so well received that I was asked to repeat it, and now it's become almost a tradition. Here it is again, with a few minor changes.

On this Thanksgiving Day, take a few minutes to think about what you have to be thankful for.

How's your health? Not so good? Well, thank God you've lived this long. A lot of people haven't. You're hurting? Thousands — maybe millions — are hurting more. (Have you ever visited a veterans' hospital? Or a rehabilitation clinic for crippled children?)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal chords to utter human sounds, walk to the breakfast table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes, praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't.

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight.

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, call someone. Go out of your way to do something nice for somebody. It's a sure cure for the blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. Concern for fair play under the law. Your country may not be a rose garden, but it also is not a patch of weeds.

Freedom rings! Look and listen. You can still worship at the church of your choice, cast a secret ballot and even criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock on the door at midnight! And if you want to live under a different system, you are free to go. There are no walls or fences — nothing to keep you here.

As a final thought, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving Prayer; perhaps you will want to use it at your table today:

O, heavenly Father: We thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

We thank thee for health and remember the sick.

We thank thee for friends, and remember the friendless.

We thank thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

May these remembrances stir us to service That thy gifts to us may be used for others.

Amen.

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving and may God bless you and yours.

Love,
ABBY

Labels Women Balls Of Fluff

BALTIMORE (AP) — Testifying in a sex-discrimination suit against the Baltimore Police Department, Commissioner Donald D. Pomerleau described women as "balls of fluff" — to loud disapproval from spectators in court.

"It's an endearing term, a term I would use to describe my wife."

His statement brought moans of disapproval from women officers in the courtroom.

Pomerleau was being cross-examined Tuesday by an attorney for Officer Mary Stout, who is suing the department over alleged discrimination in promotion and assignments of women officers.

Job turnovers in the National Park Service are small. The starting salary for a fulltime park ranger with a college degree was $10,507 annually in 1979. There are more than 40 applications for every job opening.

Her attorney, Kenneth Johnson, asked Pomerleau if he had once publicly called women "little balls of fluff."

"All women are little balls of fluff in the eyes of the Creator," he told U.S. District Judge Frank A. Kaufman.

Old-fashioned peanut brittle quick, easy in microwave oven

Everybody loves the holiday season—it's the time of year when friends and family are busily preparing special mouth-watering goodies to share with others.

Old-fashioned peanut brittle is one tempting treat that has been a yuletide favorite through the ages.

"Even nicer," say home economists from Whirlpool Corporation, "delicious peanut brittle can now be made quickly and easily in a microwave oven. No more stirring constantly and checking closely until the mixture reaches the proper temperature."

Quick-cooking

The following recipe takes only nine minutes to prepare in a microwave oven, and it's so good you'll want to make several batches for gift-giving, too.

OLD FASHIONED PEANUT BRITTLE

- 1 cup raw peanuts
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup white corn syrup
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 tsp. butter

In a 1 1/2-quart casserole, stir together peanuts, sugar, syrup and salt.

Cook 8 minutes at HIGH, stirring well after 4 minutes.

Add butter and vanilla. Cook 1 minute longer at HIGH.

Add baking soda and quickly stir until light and foamy.

Immediately pour onto lightly buttered baking sheet.

Spread out thin.

When cool, break into pieces. Store in air-tight container.

How to turn out a holiday classic in one-third of the time

Family traditions are what holiday celebrations are made of. Treasured recipes handed down through the generations are an important part of these traditions.

In years gone by, long hours of preparation and cooking time were necessary to serve these specialties. Today's busy cooks, who want to keep family customs alive but do not have time to fuss, can get help from their Mirro pressure cooker.

Steam cooking under pressure is fast and easy, requiring only one-third the time of conventional methods. For instance, a steamed fruit pudding usually takes four hours of cooking time, but it takes only about one hour in the pressure cooker.

Step-by-step

With the following step-by-step guidelines from the Mirro test kitchen, revive a family tradition or, better yet, start one yourself.

DICKENS' PLUM PUDDING

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped, mixed candied fruit
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 2 tablespoons dark rum

Cream butter with 1/2 cup sugar until light.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Toss flour, baking powder, spices and salt to mix.

Add to egg mixture alternately with milk, blending well after each addition.

Stir in raisins and candied fruit.

Turn into a buttered 4-cup metal mold.

Cover with foil.

Pour 3 cups water into cooker.

Place mold on rack in cooker.

Cover, place over heat and allow a small stream of steam to escape from vent tube for 20 minutes.

Set control at 15. When control jiggles, reduce heat and cook 40 minutes.

Run cold water over the cooker to reduce pressure instantly.

Dissolve 2 tablespoons sugar in the water; add rum.

Pierce pudding with a long-tined fork or cake tester and baste with rum sauce.

Serve warm.

8 servings.

SPIRITED PECANS

- 1-1/2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup Amaretto di Saronno
- 3 cups pecan halves

In a saucepan, combine sugar and Amaretto di Saronno.

Bring to a boil, and boil until 238°F. on a candy thermometer, or until a small amount forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water.

Stir in pecans and keep stirring until sugar syrup becomes cloudy and grainy.

Spread out on a cookie sheet and let harden.

Separate into small pieces.

Store in an airtight container in a cool dry place.

Makes about one quart.

Gold jewelry is status symbol, treasured gift

Real gold jewelry has become the status symbol of the '80s. With gold's increased publicity and recent price fluctuations, more Americans than ever are clamoring to own this beautiful, but increasingly rare, metal.

And, according to The Gold Information Center, America's leading jewelry designers are striving to create "affordable" looks to meet this demand. They are responding to the higher gold price with innovations in design and manufacturing processes that reduce the weight of their gold jewelry without diminishing its innate beauty and styling.

With the entire household gathered in front of the fireplace, the log was lighted with a piece of wood that had carefully been saved from the previous year's Yule log.

Should the log not ignite on the first attempt, superstition held that ill luck would follow. To further ward off ill fortune in the coming year, the log had to burn for at least 12 hours. A portion of the extinguished log was then saved for the following Christmas, often stored in the house as a protection against lightning.

The ashes of the Yule log were later mixed with the earth at the base of the fruit trees on the land, with the belief that this would make them more fruitful.

Perhaps the most interesting abstraction of the Yule log tradition exists in France today, where the French Christmas cake, a bûche de Noël, is one of the most obvious symbols of the holiday season.

It is actually a chocolate roll covered with chocolate icing, meant to resemble a log of wood.

It is actually a chocolate roll covered with chocolate icing, meant to resemble a log of wood.

GIFT-GIVING

How did gift-giving come to be associated with the Christmas holiday? The tradition probably goes all the way back to the story of the three Magi, or wise men, who brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh when they came to Bethlehem to do honor to the newly-born Christ.

Of tidings of comfort and joy.

May your holiday gifts be rosy!

Once again, it's time to hustle-bustle, hurry-scurry, fret-and-worry to get ready for the holidays.

Christmas shopping can be the worst of it. What size? What style? What color? How much is enough, yet not too much? How will the budget s-t-r-e-t-c-h? Stretch out. Relax. You can rise above it, if you think "rosy" thoughts.

Roses are an ideal gift for almost everyone on your shopping list. A single bloom in a bud vase will make the pre-teen next door feel grown-up, the elderly neighbor down the block young again, and your child's teacher as if she can survive until the holiday recess.

An "old-fashioned" nosegay will dazzle a dieting aunt who is between sizes once again. A bountiful bouquet will bring roses to the cheeks of an in-law. A perfect rose floating in a shallow bowl can "bowl over" the most sophisticated friend.

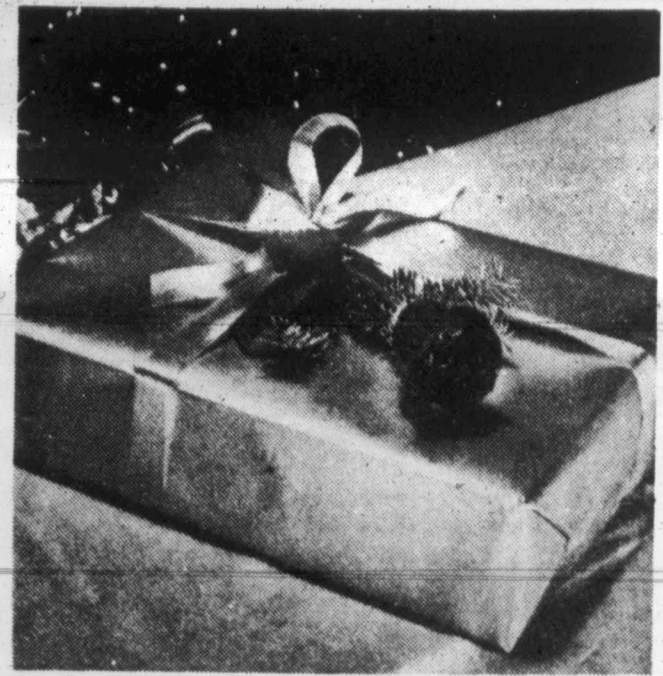

Roses bring benefits at the office, too. A small bouquet in a simple container can impress the boss without giving the impression that you are overpaid. (It could sweeten the atmosphere at bonus time, too!)

Two roses in a bud vase, presented to a secretary, can do much to strengthen typing skills and good will.

Roses adapt beautifully to any pocketbook—a real Christmas blessing for this year's shoppers trying to make do on last year's budget. Simply adjust the size of your rose gift to the amount you want to spend.

Visit a florist and discuss your Christmas shopping list with a rose expert. You'll find creative ideas and charming containers.

Be sure to insist upon American-grown roses for maximum freshness and beauty. Then relax, and let your Christmas be a masterpiece!

WRAP UP YOUR HOLIDAY SHOPPING . . . at the florist's. A rich, red rose tied upon a gift box will make the present inside seem even better. To keep the rose fresh from Christmas eve to morn, insert the stem into a water-filled plastic tube, available at florist shops.

BAKE A BATCH OF CHRISTMAS COOKIE FAVORITES

Christmas is cookie time. Mounds of luscious cookies emerge from ovens all over the world to grace this joyful season, and children of all ages look forward to them eagerly.

If you're giving a party this Christmas for a group of youngsters, you might consider incorporating this favorite treat into your plans.

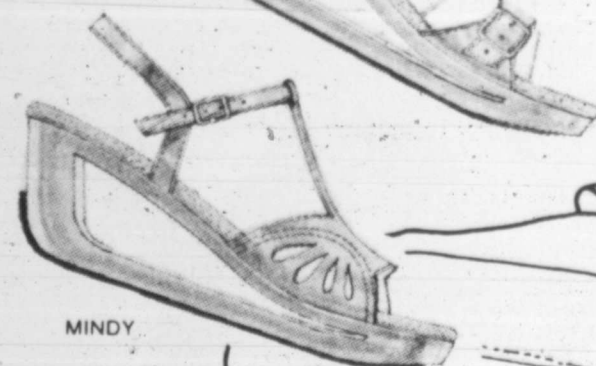

If you have the time, you might bake, build and decorate a gingerbread house. It makes a marvelous centerpiece, and sets the mood to perfection. Around it, display your offering—freshly baked cookies, grouped by type.

Traditional Christmas favorites include gingerbread men, buttery spritz cookies decorated with red and green sugar, crunchy pfeffernisse dusted with powdered sugar, and scrumptious leckerli.

You might also want to include non-traditional delectables such as chocolate or butter-scotch chip cookies, and peanut butter cookies. Yumm.

Tradition of kissing under the mistletoe is of Druidic origin

The quaint and agreeable custom of kissing under the mistletoe has its origins in ancient Celtic tradition.

In ancient Britain, mistletoe was regarded by the Druids as a sacred and mysterious plant. It was the symbol of life and the sun, protector against disease, and, some believed, an aphrodisiac.

Each year at the winter solstice, the Arch Druid and his fellow priests would perform elaborate rites which centered around the mistletoe.

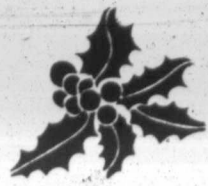

These forest worshippers would gather in the woods to seek out the oak tree upon which grew the mistletoe. Clad in white robes, the Arch Druid climbed the tree until he reached a bough laden with the semi-parasitic plant.

He next cut the plant with a golden sickle, being careful not to let the sacred branch fall to the ground.

It is not clear how the actual custom of kissing under the mistletoe evolved, although it is believed to have stemmed from the Druids' belief in its powers of fertility.

According to tradition, each time a young maiden happens beneath the mistletoe whether it's suspended from a chandelier or hanging in a doorway, a lad may claim a kiss from her.

For each kiss claimed, a berry is plucked from the plant and given to the maid; once all the berries are plucked, there is no more kissing. And, the hapless young maid who receives neither kiss nor berry will not marry that year.

mistletoe home to hang over their doors, as it was believed to ward off evil spirits and to ensure fertility.

Nothing captures the spirit of the Christmas story as dramatically as the traditional nativity scene. The creche, with its cast of beautifully hand-crafted characters, was inspired by centuries of religious devotion.

The manger, with its Holy Family, Shepherds, three Wise Men, animals and angels attending the infant Jesus, can be collected piece by piece or in its entirety to bring Christmas alive in your home with symbolic intensity.

For many people, the creche collection begins with a single piece, perhaps the stable or the child in the manger, and grows each year with the addition of new pieces.

Traditional nativity scenes: collectibles that tell the Christmas story with drama

Nothing captures the spirit of the Christmas story as dramatically as the traditional nativity scene. The creche, with its cast of beautifully hand-crafted characters, was inspired by centuries of religious devotion.

The manger, with its Holy Family, Shepherds, three Wise Men, animals and angels attending the infant Jesus, can be collected piece by piece or in its entirety to bring Christmas alive in your home with symbolic intensity.

For many people, the creche collection begins with a single piece, perhaps the stable or the child in the manger, and grows each year with the addition of new pieces.

A completed creche scene can consist of as many as 24 pieces or as few as four—baby Jesus in the manger, Mary, Joseph and the stable," said Paul A. Schmid III, President of Schmid, creators of world famous creche sets.

For a loved one, adult or child, the giving of a hand-carved figurine can begin a treasured creche collection.

Artists of the mountainous Tyrol region of Europe were the first to depict the Bethlehem scene with a native landscape, including snow-covered stables and huts against a background of mountains.

Today, that tradition is still alive at the House of ANRI in the Groden Valley of Italy where master-woodcarvers have created fine wood nativity scenes for well over half a century.

Known around the world for their distinctive creche sets, these skilled artisans hand carve and paint delicate figures which are treasured as part of the Christmas tradition.

ANRI creche sets, available exclusively through Schmid, are painstakingly reproduced from the works of renowned artists such as the late Professor Karl Kuolt, known as one of the world's most famous carvers of creche figurines.

A creche set by ANRI is a perfect Christmas gift for the beginning collector or a thoughtful addition to someone's existing nativity scene. For more information on ANRI creche sets write: Ms. Linda Bauman, SCHMID, 55 Pacella Park Drive, Randolph, MA 02368.

Holiday gift ideas from the great outdoors to your home

Do you dread sitting down and making up your holiday gift list? Have you just run out of great ideas for cousin Jill, Uncle Bob or your father-in-law?

Your troubles are over! Why not give them all an unusual gift of the great outdoors?

Wouldn't it be wonderful to give a gift that allows Uncle Bob to go camping or backpacking? And, how many fathers-in-law ever received a tent as a gift?

Or, wouldn't cousin Jill much prefer a stylish—and warm—goosedown jacket? Sierra Designs, a designer and manufacturer of men's, women's and children's outerwear and camping equipment, suggests a number of unique gifts for this holiday season.

Delightful down

Want to give a gift of warmth? Goosedown jackets or vests are a wonderful choice. Down garments are very much in fashion now.

Right not only for rugged use in the great outdoors, goosedown garments are equally smart for city wear. And, in these days when stretching a dollar is important, it's good to know that a quality goosedown jacket or vest will last for years.

Down jackets and vests are available in an assortment of colors and styles. Some have featherweight antron/nylon on the outside, very cozy, and other models have a rugged poplin shell.

Good goosedown products are filled with prime goosedown, a natural insulator that's light, soft and comfortable. Sierra Designs advises that you spend time talking to the salesperson at your local outdoor shop or better department store before you make a purchase.

Check quality

Ask about the quality of the down. Test the durability of the outer fabric. Check the stitching, finish and fit. Today, there are a number of goosedown garments tailored specially for women.

Now, for that adventurous item on your list. We bet you've never considered giving a tent! But why not? The gift of a tent will allow a spring outing that's far more enjoyable than most other weekend activities. Sierra Designs suggests that you purchase a lightweight, durable and spacious tent.

Outdoor equipment

Today, tents can be put up in a matter of minutes. There's no struggle, and no need to hammer stakes into the ground. You can purchase tents to sleep two, three or even four people comfortably, the latter being ideal for family outings.

Be sure to select a tent that is not only rugged and well-made, but appropriate for the terrain and the weather. Sierra Designs also recommends that the tent you select should come with a lifetime guarantee so it can be enjoyed season after season.

Other outdoor gift ideas include sleeping bags, lanterns, a camping stove or a daypack. And, while you're at it, why not a great outdoor gift for yourself?

After all, once you've introduced all your loved ones to the great outdoors, you'll probably want to join in on the fun. Perhaps a parka to match the one you bought for your husband, uncle, daughter... or even your mother-in-law.

Lasts for years

Whatever you select, these gifts of the great outdoors are certain to be appreciated long after a blender stops blending and a wallet lies forgotten in the bureau drawer.

TIRED OF TURKEY? WHY NOT VARY HOLIDAY MENU?

Are you tired of turkey? We begin to look forward to the big bird somewhere around October when the fall harvest of pumpkins, squashes and cranberries titillates our taste buds as we anticipate Thanksgiving.

We shoot our bolt on that last Thursday in November with a table that should rightly be called a groaning board.

Then, with Christmas shopping, decorating, parties and all the other preparations for the season, we give little thought to a Christmas feast that could be a shade different.

Not only is it traditional to present the turkey with all its trimmings, it's easier.

But, really, a crown roast of pork or lamb, stuffed in the center with its own ground meat; nuts and cranberries and decorated with spiced apples on each point, is not difficult to fix.

A German sauerbraten marinated in ginger snaps, an English standing roast of beef accompanied by Yorkshire pudding, a French breast of veal stuffed with ground pork, rice and olives may require a little more time, but each is well worth the effort.

Recipes for all these treats are available in any good basic cookbook.

For those whose families would go into shock without the traditional turkey and trimmings, throw them a curve or appetizer or dessert.

Try an elegant, light cream of watercress soup (canned chicken broth, watercress put through a food processor and a dash of nutmeg), a molded pate of beef, pork and liver, or a quiche made with Edam cheese and sliced tomatoes.

And, for that last-sweet course, dispense with the pie and turn your pumpkin into a cinnamon-perfumed brandied flan (custard) or stack miniature cream puffs into a pyramid held together and drizzled with caramel syrup.

Surprise the family, a little or a lot—they just might love you for it.

Show you care by giving in true Christmas spirit

There are few things more pleasurable during the Christmas season than the look on the face of someone dear to you, for whom you have chosen the perfect gift.

The custom of giving gifts dates back to the Romans who adopted it from the story of the Magi—the three Kings who presented gifts to the Christ Child.

One of our most celebrated American writers, O. Henry, expressed the custom of Christmas gifts best in a beautifully crafted short story, "The Gift of the Magi."

A young couple, very much in love and very poor, sell their most precious possessions to bring happiness to each other on Christmas. He sells his heirloom watch to buy combs for her luxuriant hair; she cuts and sells her hair to buy a fob for his watch.

For all the cries of Christmas commercialism, the thoughtfulness expressed in an appropriate gift delights all. It is also a good time of the year to spread goodwill, to let those who have touched your life know in a tangible way that you appreciate them.

From family members to special friends to the neighbor who baby-sat for you in an emergency, a present shows you care—and that's what Christmas is all about.

The advent of Christmas evokes excitement and pleasure in virtually everyone, and the family pet is as likely to be affected by all the activity and glitter as any.

The look of wonder in a kitten's eyes as it stares at its first Christmas tree is something too precious to be forgotten.

Let your pet join in the festivities, but take some precaution, for its sake and yours.

- Some seasonal plants, such as mistletoe and poinsettia, are poisonous. If you have pets—or young children—around, you're wiser to forego them.

- Candles add a special glow to holiday parties and even quiet winter evenings at home.

However, if you have a cat or dog, it's wiser not to leave candles burning unattended. A curious animal could knock one over and start a fire.

- If you have a natural Christmas tree, you're better off not using preservative in the water at its base. Cats, particularly, are notorious samplers and, after all, you wouldn't want your pet drinking water which has been heavily treated with chemicals.

- Many people feel that a tree is not complete without garlands of lights. If you belong to this group, and you have a cat or dog, be careful not to leave the animal unattended in the vicinity of the tree. If possible, stand the tree in a room that can be closed off.

- Stay away from breakable Christmas tree ornaments. Besides the waste of breakage, a glass ball which shatters can leave splinters about—making it easy for either pet or person to cut him or herself unaware.

Replace those shiny glass balls with satin ones. They're equally decorative, and far safer.

Silver icicles turn a Christmas tree into a wondrous, glittery sight. They can also cause severe digestive problems to an animal that is so entranced by them that it just has to take a taste.

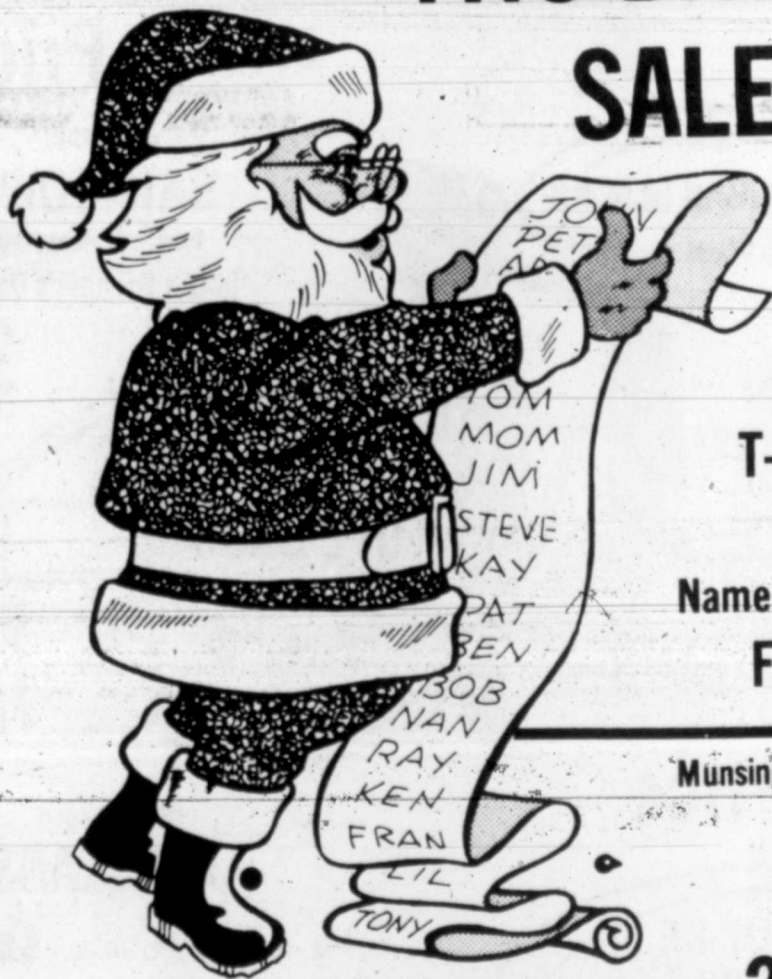

CHRISTMAS TREE ORNAMENTS make terrific playthings, on or off the tree, in the eyes of your average household pet. This cat contemplates pouncing on a shiny satin ball for a romp across the room—which proves conclusively that Yuletide is an occasion to be enjoyed by every member of the family.

Parenting tips: planning happy holidays for young children

The Holidays—no other time is quite so special, quite so exciting, especially when it is a brand-new experience. Babies and young children can easily sense the change of pace, the extra activity that the Holidays bring. The people at Gerber Products Company, the experts in families with infants and young children, suggest these tips for making this fun time one of learning and growth as well:

- Wrap baby's presents in colorful paper without tape, just loosely tied with string or bright yarn. No matter how long it takes to unwrap, don't rush a small child if he's happy exploring.

Colorful paper and bright bows stimulate a baby's sense of color, and unwrapping presents helps develop eye-hand coordination.

- Take the time to show baby all the ornaments, presents and other items that glisten and sparkle at Holiday time. Even the smallest infant will respond with bright-eyed wonder to the new colors and shapes.

- Choose gifts for babies and small children that are soft and flexible, with no sharp edges or parts that can be removed and swallowed by an active, curious baby. Easy-care Gerber play-suits and sleepers are washable and have snap closings that eliminate the struggle to get dressed, for mother and baby alike.

Gifts for growing babies

Stuffed animals, rattles, infant learning puzzles and toys, a personal feeding dish, cup, and spoon, Funtzie slippers, sleeping gowns, or a new Gerber-bib are appropriate gifts for growing babies.

Even simple, practical presents satisfy a child's growing delight in surprise and make him feel a part of the gift-giving.

- To guard against baby's over-activity, loss of appetite or fretfulness brought about by too much Holiday excitement, keep mealtimes and bedtimes quiet and calm experiences, just as they should be all year round.

Relax and enjoy

These quiet moments give parents and baby time to relax, so necessary to the health, appetite and sensitivities of both parents and child.

When baby is encouraged to observe new sights and sounds, and participates with family and friends in joyous reunions, the Holidays can be a learning, growing and developing experience for every young child.

SANTA'S SOLAR-POWERED WORKSHOP

Santa's energy-conscious too this year! So are a Troop of New York Boy Scouts. They've published a kit of complete instructions to build four solar-powered cookers and ovens, from inexpensive materials found around the house.

Dreamy intimate apparel doubles as holiday attire or other holiday activities. Even when there is lace present, he states, it can still look right since there is so much lace shown on dresses this year.

Accessories the key

Choosing the right accessories can be the key to the whole success of socializing a nightgown. Make sure that your shoes, your jewelry and your evening bag are definitely meant for partying. Then, no one will question your gown unless you choose to turn it into a topic of conversation.

If you like being the center of attention—tell all. If you don't—let it be your secret.

To wrap your outfit up luxuriously and inexpensively, Penney's buyer suggests a full-length pile-fabric robe in white, black or a deep tone.

"It really can look like an expensive fake-fur evening wrap and your whole outfit will cost a third or a fourth of the price of a comparable outfit from ready-to-wear."

like matte-surfaced jersey or other fabrics with a dress look.

Next, consider the color. Pastel colors may look too much like a nightgown. Deep tones, such as wine or black, or brights, such as red or persian blue, will look more dress-like. Finally, he cautions, examine the way the garment is cut.

If it is cut high enough to let you wear a strapless bra or has a bodice of lycra spandex that fits as firmly as a swimsuit (so that a bra is unnecessary) the gown is apt to be more successful in its social usefulness.

In creating an outfit from the intimate apparel department, Bryan suggests that, besides nightgowns as evening gowns, you weigh the possibilities of lounging-pajamas for disco-ing

However it's a concept that has been around for some years.

A brief history

At least five years ago, John Kloss came out with a collection of nightwear that could make it glamorously out of the bedroom into the social whirl.

Other designers quickly followed his lead and today many of the things sold in intimate apparel departments look as though they have been created with this dual purpose in mind.

Color important

Penney's expert suggests several criteria in deciding whether a nightgown can be worn as an evening gown. First, the fabric. It should be fairly opaque. Look for things

Actually the concept of two-purpose gowns and robes is a practical way to fight inflation.
