

Mail Crunch In Full Swing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Christmas rush at the nation's post offices started later than usual this year, but the pace is picking up and the total probably will match last year's 1.9 billion pieces, postal officials said Friday.

The peak so far this holiday season was Monday's 150 million cancellations of stamped mail, spokesman Lou Eberhardt said. That dropped to 140 million on Tuesday and 127 million on Wednesday, he said. More recent figures are unavailable because of the time needed to get daily totals.

"There probably will be another peak on Sunday or Monday because the last weekend before Christmas always is another heavy time," he said.

The 1.9 billion total for last year represents machine cancellations between Dec. 1 and Dec. 26, the period when Christmas greetings mail.

Kremlin Announces Death

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced the death of former Premier Alexei N. Kosygin today, 48 hours after he succumbed to heart failure, hailing him as a "true son of the Communist Party" and saying he would be buried with honors at the Kremlin Wall in Red Square.

Western observers speculated the official announcement was withheld so Soviet leaders could decide what honors were to be accorded the 76-year-old architect of detente with the West, who stepped down Oct. 23 after serving 16 years as premier and chief Kremlin diplomatic troubleshooter.

Clements' Plans Unchanged

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he is sticking with his plans for a billion-dollar tax relief program the next two years.

"I'm satisfied there is $1 billion in there for tax relief in one form or another," he told a news conference Friday after getting a new revenue estimate from Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Bullock forecast 1982-83 state revenue would total $27.9 million, about $5.2 billion more than 1980-81. He predicted a $568 million cash surplus by Aug. 31, 1981, that would be available to the Legislature.

Clements said other revenue estimates from other sources indicated even more state income the next two years.

The SDN Column

In our years of sitting in on meetings of boards, commissions, councils and other governing bodies, we have observed everything from surprise to outright disillusion as newly-elected officials took office and became oriented to the realities of their respective offices.

That is one of the reasons we are not expecting any miracles to take place in Washington, D. C., immediately following the inauguration of Ronald Reagan.

We Americans thrive on paradoxes. Also, we have become addicted to instant living. A lot of our problems would not even exist if we weren't in such a hurry.

Someone mentioned the other day that a conscientious bureaucrat cannot possibly put any significant changes into effect until he has been in charge of his department for at least three years, no matter how good his intentions. There always is a certain amount of groundwork that must be laid and there always is a certain amount of momentum already in force which must be brought under control, or at least set upon a new course before meaningful changes can take place. And nowhere is lag more evident than in the halls of government.

But getting back to the paradoxes, the Reagan administration has encountered a biggie as it labors in transition. This was pinpointed the other day when Philip V. Sanchez withdrew his name from consideration for the position of secretary of housing and urban development, despite the fact that it was well-known that he had it for the asking. He said he couldn't afford it, because he would have to give up business connections that would be disastrous to his own financial well-being.

Nowadays, he said, a person entering government must give up everything he's involved in plus his shorts and socks.

It's the old "conflict of interest" game, a subject that has attracted more and more attention in recent years.

The objective of the new ethics-in-government law is obvious, of course, but its effectiveness remains to be seen. There always are operators who find ways to circumvent the rules and regulations in politics as well as other games. When they do, there is a cry for more rules and regulations, and we wonder sometimes if our country is going to regulate itself to death.

There are those in the oil business who say we already have made a good start.

Early-day Americans apparently did not worry too much about conflict of interests among their officials. For 32 of the first 36 years of this nation's existence, the president lived in Virginia, (near the capital) and these early-day chief executives continued their vocations while rendering public service. If you have ever been to Mount Vernon, you know that George Washington had himself quite a personal empire there within hours of the capital, even in the horse-and-buggy days. And there is no record of any reluctance on his part to continue his vast personal enterprises while serving as president.

Now, we say we want businessmen instead of politicians in our public offices, but we don't want them to have any business. Once again we may be clouding the issue with semantics. In the same sense that everybody is a consumer, we might say that everybody is a politician. How often have you heard someone say that "old so-and-so sure has changed since he got elected to office?" Actually, old so-and-so probably did not change, but when he got into office he found the situation was different from what he expected, with problems that neither he nor his supporters were aware of while they were on the outside looking in.

So, don't expect instant miracles after Jan. 20. Remember, it takes a while to change momentum that has been building for years.

Saudi Increase Pushes Up Gas Prices In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Saudi Arabia's 6.7 percent crude oil price increase this week already has made itself felt in the American gasoline supply line. Standard Oil Co. of California and Texaco Inc. say they have raised wholesale gasoline prices as much as 2 cents a gallon. Social and Texaco, which announced the price increases on Friday, are two of the largest buyers of crude oil from Saudi Arabia, which supplies 8 percent of America's oil needs. Exxon Corp. and Mobil Corp., the other two major buyers, said Friday they had not followed the Social and Texaco moves.

But company and trade reports said four other major refiners — Gulf Oil, Shell Oil, Phillips Petroleum and Tenneco — also raised wholesale prices 1 to 2 cents a gallon in the past several days. Those increases reportedly reflected general domestic and foreign oil price increases and were not tied to the Saudi action.

The fuel-price increases can be passed on to consumers if dealers choose. The Lundberg Letter, a trade publication, said the average retail price of a gallon of gasoline rose slightly to $1.2139 in November after falling since July.

Texaco gave no reason for its 2-cent increase in wholesale prices of gasoline, diesel fuel and home heating oil and its 1.8-cent-a-gallon rise for gasohol.

Northern Electric Co.
Promotes 2 In Snyder

Jimmy Daniels, operations manager of the local Northern Electric Co. plant, has been promoted to manager of personnel, it was announced this week by company officials. He will be transferred to the corporate headquarters in Laurel, Miss.

Daniels came to Snyder in January 1978 when Northern Electric began its operation here. He had previously worked in other capacities with Northern in Brownsville and Mississippi for the past 15 years.

Replacing Daniels as operations manager will be Dan Lewis, currently plant superintendent at the local facility. Before coming to Snyder in October 1980, Lewis had worked in Northern's Hattiesburg, Miss., facility for three years.

Lewis and his wife, Sue, are both natives of Mississippi. They reside at 2302 Sunset Ave. with their daughter Cami, 11, and son Gent, 10. Daniels and his wife, Thomasine, son Richard and daughter Tracy will be relocating in mid-January. "We really hate to leave Snyder," stated Daniels. "My family and I feel that the folks in Snyder are super. I am proud of Northern's facility here and look forward to its continued progress," he added.

Northern Electric has manufactured electric blankets in Snyder since 1978.

on Friday after a lengthy stay in Tehran conferring with Iranian authorities.

A year ago, Iranian officials permitted three U.S. clergymen to conduct Christmas services for the hostages. Any such services this year probably would be conducted by non-Americans in Tehran, U.S. officials said.

The continued captivity of the Americans was the theme of remarks by Muskie on Friday during a Christmas tree lighting ceremony in the State Department lobby.

"The 52 Americans held prisoner in Iran must bear not only the doubt and fear of captivity but the agony of separation, the loneliness and longing for home during this special time," he said.

"Theirs is the most painful circumstance for all of us... Today, I want them all to know we remember their sacrifice. We appreciate it. We honor it."

26 Killed In Iran Quakes

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two earthquakes shook central Iran Friday, killing 26 people and damaging a gold dome on a Moslem religious shrine and the tomb of a Moslem saint in the holy city of Qom.

Pars, Iran's official news agency, said the first earthquake, measuring 5.7 on the Richter scale, struck before dawn.

Schools Begin Holidays Tuesday

Snyder Public Schools will dismiss for the Christmas-New Year holidays at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Buses will run at that time.

The local schools were originally scheduled to begin their mid-winter holidays on Friday, Dec. 19, but the school calendar was amended to take classes through Dec. 23. The change was made to make up for two of three days of classes that were missed because of heavy snowfalls in November.

Classes are scheduled to resume on Monday, Jan. 5.

'Open House'
At Chamber

"Open House" will be observed all day Tuesday at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce office.

The staff of the chamber and BCD will host the event and the general public as well as chamber members are invited to drop in for refreshments any time during the day.

The open house is not an official function of the chamber or BCD, but instead is being planned personally by Bill Warner, chamber manager, Murray Anne Ray, chamber secretary, and Dee Wenetslaeger, BCD secretary.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Hundreds of convicted Irish guerrillas are calling off their four-year-old "blanket" protests in the prisons of British-run Northern Ireland, their supporters said today.

They said that within a week, some 500 convicted members of the predominantly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army will halt the campaign in which they dressed only in blankets, refusing prison uniforms, and smeared their cells with their excrement.

A small group of jailed

Protestant militants also is ending a similar "blanket" protest, sources said.

The protest by the outlawed IRA is being phased out because the British government has given in to its demands for political recognition for the prisoners, claimed a spokesman for Sinn Fein, the IRA's political arm.

British officials, however, denied they made and concessions and said the convicts would continue to be treated as criminals rather than political prisoners.

IRA militants have been waging a campaign of terror to end British rule in Northern Ireland and unite the Protestant-dominated province with the mainly Roman Catholic Irish Republic to the south. The 11-year sectarian war has claimed at least 2,066 lives.

Word that the "blanket protest" was to be ended came after 40 guerrilla prisoners called off a hunger strike "to the death" mounted to press their demands for political status.

Ill Fortune Pervades Life Of Young Woman

ELKTON, Ky. (AP) — Sheena Reed was badly injured when a car ran her off the road. Eight months later, she was impaled on a plank that destroyed a lung. And after her baby died of pneumonia, she felt "destroyed ... that God had tried every way he could to get me."

But at 18 she's a survivor. Her friends call her the "toughest girl in Logan County." And she says, "When you find somebody who takes care of you and loves you, you hold on."

That somebody is her 18-year-old husband, Clark.

Since they married in August 1979, the Reeds have had "an awful lot of bad luck."

"I've even thought that maybe God was trying to tell us that me and Clark aren't right for each other," she said. "But when you've been through as much together as we have, you've got to figure you ought to stay together."

The Reeds, who wanted a family and "enough money to make ends meet," last year hired on to strip tobacco for area farmers.

In December, they were walking home after work when a friend drove toward them, intending to make them dive off the road. Reed made it. His pregnant wife didn't.

Her left leg was shattered, her hip was broken, her spine was damaged and she had a deep gash in her forehead. Doctors feared she might not walk again and that her unborn child might be injured.

She was hospitalized for 2½ months and decided "to take the chance" and carry her baby to term. The child, Clark Vinson Reed II was born in April with a cyst on the brain, a "lazy eye" and a droopy eyelid.

"He was just a little bitty thing, a wonderful baby, so sweet, and pretty, too," Mrs. Reed said. "We kept on wanting to believe nothing was wrong with him."

When the baby was 4 months old, the Reeds went over to Clarksville, Tenn., to celebrate their first wedding anniversary with a pizza, a few games of Space Invaders and a few beers.

On the way home, their car careened into a concrete culvert, flipped twice and plowed through a plank fence. Reed was thrown clear and escaped with only bruises.

But a 1-by-6-inch plank plunged like a spear through Mrs. Reed.

A doctor called to the scene fainted, and as Mrs. Reed lay conscious, rescue workers used a chain saw to remove the plank.

Beside severe chest injuries, her right arm and leg were badly cut and her lower lip was severed. She needed more than 700 stitches and spent three weeks in a hospital intensive care unit.

Chrismons Adorn Tallest Tree Here

What may be the tallest Christmas tree in Snyder can be found in the sanctuary of First United Methodist Church.

The tree, which stands 21 feet tall, is adorned with 900 lights and 200 Chrismons (holy symbols). The skirt of the tree has additional Chrismons on it. Its styrofoam base is adorned with beads interwoven with wire.

The tree was cut from the forest around Mora, N.M., transported to Lubbock and then brought here, explained the Rev. David Robertson, church pastor.

It is the fifth year for the church to have a Christmas tree. The Chrismons adorning it were made by the Nancy Caton Sunday School Class at First Methodist and the tree's stand was made by Mr. and Mrs. L.D. Logan.

The tree was lighted Dec. 7 and will remain up through

Jan. 11. "This year's tree is the most beautiful and awe inspiring that I've seen," said Robertson. "It is a work of art and an inspiration to behold."

Robertson added that persons wishing to view the tree may stop by the church from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and make arrangements at the church office.

Hepatitis On Increase Here

Infectious hepatitis is on the increase and Scurry County is not immune, says Dr. Robert Pierce, acting director of the Scurry County Health Unit. That's why it would be well for you to learn something about the ailment and what can be done about it, he said.

"Doing your part in both prevention and control of infectious hepatitis as well as other preventable diseases is your responsibility as well as that of your state and local health officials," he said.

Hepatitis commonly occurs in two stages. The first may last from one to 20 days, but more usually about a week. Toward the end of this phase the patient's urine usually turns dark and his body wastes almost white in color. Then for a day or two he usually feels better.

of these symptoms: 1. Aches in the head, back or joints.
 2. Fever, nausea and vomiting.
 3. Tenderness over the liver or "heaviness" in the stomach.
 4. Washed-out feeling, like flu or gripe.
 5. Yellow appearance of whites of eyes or skin. (However, children with hepatitis usually do not become jaundiced.)

"If you or anyone in your family has these symptoms, call your family physician without delay," said Pierce.

Anyone can get it but it occurs more often among children and young adults. If anyone in your family has been exposed to infectious hepatitis, ask your doctor about gamma globulin to help prevent the disease, he said.

During the second stage his skin and eyes may look yellow (jaundiced) and there may be some pain or "heavy feeling" in his abdomen. If there is jaundice, the patient usually begins to feel better after the jaundice reaches its deepest color. Some patients, however, continue to have slight jaundice for months.

It is not known for sure just how infectious hepatitis is spread. Since the virus can be found in body wastes of infected persons, it is probably most often spread through the infected body waste products—by direct contact with the patient, and sometimes by soiled fingers, objects, or by food and water contaminated with the virus from infected human feces. However, the virus can also be found in the blood of a patient during the acute stage, so infected blood or objects soiled by infected blood may also be important in spreading the disease from person to person.

IN EXHIBIT—This oil painting by Clyfford Still is included in the American Abstract Expressionist Painting exhibit scheduled for the Scurry County Museum starting Jan. 7. The painting is 112 inches by 145 inches, and is titled "1960-F." It features shades of brown and red, with some darker and lighter colors, and was chosen for reproduction on posters calling attention to the exhibit.

American Expressionist Exhibit Set At Museum

The American Expressionist Collection of the Sarah Campbell Blaffer Foundation will be featured in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College from Jan. 7-Feb. 16, Sharon Sutton, museum director, has announced.

This exhibition features paintings by artists who lived and worked in New York and devised a new style of artistic expression in the late 1940s. After years of struggle and rejection, their innovative methods of painting and elimination of subject matter eventually propelled American art to the forefront of the art of the twentieth century. Both the original founders of the movement, which has become known as Abstract Expressionism, or "Action Painting," and their younger followers are included in the Blaffer Collection. Also represented are figures who were influenced by surrealism, but are considered transitional abstract painters, such as Andre Masson, Arshile Gorky, and Matta. Of the first generation of this "New York School," the Blaffer Collection exhibits works by William Bazotes, Philip Guston, Hans Hoffman, Franz Kline, Robert Motherwell, Willem de Kooning, Jackson Pollock, Lee Krasner, Mark Rothko, Clyfford Still, and others.

Those artists who were younger and followed in the stylistic footsteps of the founders of abstract painting in America have been termed the "Second Generation" of abstract Expressionism. Such painters in the Blaffer Collection include Sam Francis, Robert Goodnough, and outstanding female artists Helen Frankenthaler, Grace Hartigan and Joan Mitchell.

Supplementary materials scheduled to travel with the exhibition include descriptive brochures for children and adults. A catalog of the collection is in progress but may not be ready in time for the local display. Ms. Sutton said.

The Scurry County Museum is open each weekday and from 1-5 p. m. on Sundays without admission charge the year around, except for holidays. The museum will be closed through Jan. 4, resuming its regular schedule on Jan. 5. Further information about the museum may be obtained by calling the office at 573-6107.

Round Dance Lessons Set At Senior Center

A series of Round Dance lessons is to begin Jan. 6 in the Senior Citizens Center and continue through May 26.

In Round Dancing, couples perform routines with musical accompaniment and vocal cues. The couples move around the dance floor in unison, each couple responding to the cues.

Starla Stewart of Post will be the instructor for the class. There will be a fee of $20 for the 20-lesson series, with the first three lessons free. The class will meet from 7:30-9:30 each Tuesday night.

"If you enjoy dancing, you can learn Round Dancing," Miss Stewart assured her students. She is a teacher in the special education department of Post Public Schools and teaches dancing in her leisure time.

Round Dance is not like ballroom dancing, she said, because couples follow set patterns. Any number of couples can participate in a Round Dance, so the number of dancers is not limited as it is in square dancing. If there isn't room for all the dancers in one circle, there can be rounds within rounds. The round dance cues can be set to folk or popular music.

Senior citizens interested in joining the group are invited to call the Senior Center office at 573-0194 for further information.

Despite High Cost...

'Unconventional' Gas Prospects Brighter

HOUSTON (AP) — The estimated price tag is in excess of $200 billion but the potential return is literally hundreds of trillions of cubic feet of gas.

An 18-month industry study indicates such a potential for additions to domestic gas reserves may be held by such unconventional sources as coal seams and "tight" reservoirs with geologic characteristics that resist conventional production procedures.

The National Petroleum Council study also included Devonian shale gas and geopressured brines.

The NPC's report, however, says the potential ultimate recovery from tight sands alone is in the range of 192 to 574 trillion cubic feet by the year 2000.

Such a range compares with an estimated 194.9 trillion cubic feet of domestic natural gas reserves at the end of 1979.

While saying unconventional gas could be a significant addition to the nation's future gas supply, the executive summary of the NPC five-volume report emphasizes caution.

"The report presents estimates of what could happen under certain assumed technical and economic circumstances and is not intended to represent a forecast of what will occur," the summary states.

The NPC is a federally chartered, privately funded industry group. It was established in 1946 at the suggestion of former President Harry S. Truman and has served as an advisory committee on oil and natural gas matters to the Interior Department and, since 1977, to the Department of Energy.

The study of unconventional gas sources was requested in 1978 by former Energy Secy.

James R. Schlesinger who asked that it include the outlook for costs and ultimate recovery and how government policy can improve the outlook.

The NPC says there is increasing recognition among all sectors of the nation's economy that oil and gas must continue to supply the nation with the majority of its energy requirements over the near term.

"The long lead time required for conversion from oil or gas to coal and for development of a synthetic fuel industry dictates this," the report states.

"In the interim period, the nation must seek a resource that can be developed quickly, incrementally, and with as few environmental concerns as possible. One option which could potentially fit these requirements is to explore for, drill, and produce 'unconventional gas'..."

Poles Protesting Meat Rations For Christmas

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Delegates from 135 factories in the Piotrkow area of central Poland have occupied a hall in a district government building in protest over meat supplies. Solidarity, the nation's biggest independent union, said.

It said the area got only 40 percent of the average Christmas meat allocation for Poland. It claimed regional officials had agreed to increase allocations and it said the protest would be ended if supplies actually were sold in the promised quantities.

One of the demands won at the end of crippling nationwide strikes last summer was food rationing to assure adequate distribution of scant meat supplies. The government already has begun temporary rationing for December to assure Poles have at least some meat for Christmas.

But in Piotrkow the quotas aren't being fulfilled, and the protest there is the first reported labor unrest since the end of November when Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, as well as church and government officials began urging militants to restrain their demands for fear of Soviet military intervention.

The Polish government conceded Friday it had agreed to pay the strikers more than it could afford in wage increases. It put its foreign debt at $23 billion since the summer strikes and confirmed plans to ration meat and butter for the first three months of 1981.

It also announced a reduction of 5,000 civil service jobs and a $3 billion cut in investment spending.

The debt figure — $3 billion higher than previously reported — was disclosed by Finance Minister Marian Krzak in an address before the Polish Parliament. He said the 1981 budget would see the first deficit in Poland's postwar history as a communist nation.

Krzak said state income in 1981 would go up only 1 percent but spending would have to rise 22 percent, partially to cover higher wages won by the workers.

Deputy Premier Henryk Kisiel declared, "We are determined to pay our debts and stick to regular repayment of those debts." He also said the government wanted to increase funds for farmers by 30 percent in 1981 to provide more tractors and fertilizer.

Poland has 1.1 million workers on state farms. It also has 4.5 million private farmers, many of whom are trying to form a union allied with Solidarity, the Soviet bloc's first labor union free of Communist Party control that was formed after the summer strikes.

Kisiel said meat and butter rationing would begin in January and that the government wanted to raise food subsidies by 37 percent in 1981. The end of meat subsidies last July sent prices soaring and triggered the crippling wave of strikes that gave birth to Solidarity.

Takes More Energy To Prepare Food To Eat Than To Produce It

WASHINGTON (AP) — A large part of the nation's energy problem could be solved if Americans learned to dispense with cooking food before eating it.

In fact, according to the Agriculture Department's new yearbook issued this week, more energy is expended in home preparation of food than on the farm to produce it.

About 4 percent of all the energy used in the United States is used for in-home preparation of food, says Dick Vilstrup, extension marketing economist and professor at the University of Wisconsin.

Comparatively, it is estimated that the on-farm production of food accounts for 3 to 5 percent of annual U.S. energy use.

Vilstrup takes a look at the use of energy for food production in the department's 1980 yearbook, "Cutting Energy Costs."

In all, he said, about 16.5 percent of the nation's energy consumption goes into the production, transportation, processing and selling of food. Add another 5.5 percent for fiber and timber products.

Sticking to the food portion, however, Vilstrup said the energy used in it — the 16.5 percent of the total used in the United States — showed these leading uses of energy:

—29.1 percent of the energy used in the food system goes for food processing or manufacture.

—26 percent for in-home preparation.

—17.6 percent for production.

—17 percent for out-of-home preparation.

In other words, farm production ranks third in the food chain as a user of energy, well behind processing and home cooking. Put another way, those two top items account for more than 55 percent of all the energy used to provide food for Americans.

"Today, over 75 percent of the food produced on farms is processed before final shipment to consumers," Vilstrup said.

"Processing industries require energy for washing, cutting, steaming, boiling, freezing, drying, milling, refining, baking, canning and packaging food."

And the energy requirements have accelerated in recent years, including demands for more highly processed or packaged foods, he said.

"Increased consumer demand has been noted for smaller containers and pre-cooked, oven-ready products which require additional energy in processing."

Vilstrup said a study by the Agriculture Department indicates an average of 9 percent of the consumer food dollar goes for energy costs. "Foods with the highest energy costs per dollar of processed products are sugar, butter, cheese, condensed milk, and canned fruits and vegetables," he said.

Those having the lowest energy costs per dollar include: fluid milk, bakery products, meat products and ice cream, he said.

Columbia's Kids Race For Garbage

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Ten-year-old Jaime Carvajal sat on a downtown curb at 6:45 one morning recently and gnawed ravenously on one of the handful of chicken bones piled in front of him.

The bones came from a garbage bag in front of an apartment building. It was a better breakfast than usual.

"Often the rats have gotten everything worth eating," he told a passer-by. "And if the rats don't get it, then other children can get there first, or the garbage collectors will pick up the bags first if you don't get up early enough."

The future of this semi-industrialized country may depend on what the government does, or doesn't do, to improve the plight of hundreds of thousands of children living in grim poverty.

Juan Munoz, director of Colombia's Family Welfare Institute, estimates that 60 percent of Colombia's 27 million people are 18 or younger. And there already are signs of what Colombia may face as hundreds of thousands of young people join the labor force. Guerrilla groups, which have grown dramatically in recent years, seem especially attractive — youths as young as 16 are toting submachine guns.

Unemployment, including the thousands of street vendors that Colombia considers underemployed, is about 18 percent.

The most visible products of the poverty are the estimated 3,000 urchins, called gaminés, a word coined by novelist Victor Hugo in his novel, "Les Misérables."

In Bogota, they are differentiated from the children sent out by parents to beg and steal in the streets. The gaminés wear rags and often go barefoot. Many have open sores, deep coughs, sunken eyes, distended bellies and hands that move quickly to snatch a passerby's watch or a roll from a bakery's counter.

Less visible but more numerous are the tens of thousands of children who labor for pennies a day in cold, dark factories or in other back-breaking jobs. A government study last year found at least three million children 14 or younger have adult jobs, earning as little as 50 cents a day compared to a minimum wage of about five dollars a day.

Hundreds of children work in outdoor brick factories on the outskirts of this capital city of gleaming-white, steel-and-glass skyscrapers. Boys with spindly bodies groan under the weight of shovels of coal that they toss into blazing furnaces. The heat leaves their bodies glistening in sweat. The boys walk bent, like old men.

Children carry up to 120 pounds of bricks in a sling that falls down their backs. The sling has a band that passes across the forehead, placing strain on the neck muscles.

Expansion Gets Approval

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Railroad Commission on Monday authorized Texas Utilities Generating Co. to expand by 6,000 acres its Monticello Winfield coal mining operation in Titus County.

The commission previously approved a 9,893-acre mining operation 2.5 miles of Mount Pleasant. The operation is the largest in Texas.

Examiner Chesley Blevins said the company expects to increase its output of coal by 1.2 million tons per year to about 11 million tons.

The theater's orchestra comes from the Greek and literally means the "dancing place." It was that portion of the ancient theater reserved for the dancing of the chorus, and also for the instrumentalists.

Dear Abby

Look Not Long Enough Before Widow's Leap

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am an elderly widow who met an elderly widower from another state. After he told me he loved me, he suggested I move to his state, so I sold my home for about half of what it was worth to go with him.

We lived together happily for three years. He gave me a wedding ring, but we kept putting off marriage.

Recently he drove me to my home state and left me with a friend. He said he'd come and get me in two weeks. When he didn't come, I called him and he kept putting me off until we had been apart for a month. I called him again, and this time a woman answered the phone and said she was his wife! She said they had been married for three weeks.

Abby, for three years I paid all my own expenses and one-half the household expenses. Now I have no home, I am utterly ruined financially, my health is poor, and I am all alone. What can I do? It seems that this man owes me something.

NEEDING HELP

DEAR NEEDING: You need legal advice. If you can't afford a lawyer, call your local Legal Aid Society. And for moral support, look into the senior citizens organizations and women's groups in your area.

I wish you luck and hope that your sad and costly experience will be a warning to other women.

DEAR ABBY: I was at my boyfriend's place around midnight last night. We were in bed and he was telling me how much he loved me when the telephone rang. He answered it and said, "I'm busy right now and can't talk to you." Then he said, "I love you, too, sweetheart."

He told me it was his mother. Abby, if I had to bet one way or the other, I would bet it wasn't his mother. What are my chances for being right?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: About 50-50.

DEAR ABBY: Why don't you write a book of clever answers to rude questions?

I have run out of things to say when people ask me questions of a personal nature that are none of their business. For example, "How much did you pay for that?" "What happened between your sister and her husband?" "How come you don't have any children? Don't you want any, or can't you have any?"

I'm sure you get the idea. How about it, Abby?

STUCK FOR AN ANSWER

DEAR STUCK: One of the most commonly believed misconceptions is that a question must be answered simply because it's asked. The right to privacy is still available to those who demand it. So I recommend two appropriate responses to rude questions: "Why do you ask?" and "It's none of your business."

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

White Challenges Act

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White has filed suit in federal district court here to have the Staggers' Rail Act of 1980 held unconstitutional.

White said the act, which deregulated many railroad rates, fails to protect consumers "from the abuse of monopoly power," particularly in rates for shipping coal to electrical power plants.

He said the act allows railroads to exact "monopoly profits from captive shippers."

White also complains in the suit that the act displaces state authority over rates for carrying rail freight entirely within state boundaries.

"This statute constitutes another attempt by the federal government to replace the states as independent sovereigns and to exercise regulatory control over every element of our lives," he said.

Abuse Of Elderly Burgeoning National Scandal

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — An elderly woman is tied in her bed and left a loaf of bread for the weekend while her granddaughter's family goes camping. Her great-grandchildren hideously chop off her hair.
A son beats his mother for making herself a cup of coffee without his permission. She is forced to sleep in the basement with no bed and barely any blankets.
A college student pushes his mother and father down the stairs at different times because he is upset about his father's drinking and because they have not given him the money he's been asking for. The mother suffers a broken arm, the father a fractured skull.

"Domestic violence against the elderly is a burgeoning national scandal," says Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Subcommittee on Human Services.
Biaggi says that until public hearings by House committees in the last year and a half, there had been no effort at federal initiatives because mistreatment of the elderly hadn't even been recognized as a widespread problem.

James A. Bergman, regional director of Legal Research and Services for the Elderly in Boston, says many of the remedies for elderly abuse cases must originate with state and local action.
He says only about a fourth of the states have laws requiring doctors, nurses, social workers, police officers and others to report elderly abuse cases; to require an investigation and to provide such services as counseling, homemaking, transportation, legal counsel and emergency financial assistance to the victims.

Many people who suspect mistreatment of an elderly person are reluctant to report it because they don't want to get involved in a family dispute and fear being sued if they are wrong. Nor are professionals used to recognizing elder abuse.
Mandatory reporting laws would make them take a closer look and would give them immunity from civil suits. Such legislation would allow officials to determine whether there has been abuse or neglect, to remove the elderly victim from their environment.

"It's a multiple step solution," says Bergman. "First there has to be recognition that it exists because until that happens we'll find that easily three-quarters of the people who are victimized won't come forward and even ask for help."
Unless severe harm has been done, Bergman feels counseling is a better alternative than filing criminal charges because the abused generally are unwilling to go to court.

"Even if the victim does go to court and there is a conviction, will it do anything? The odds are probably that they're going to be put on probation or parole by the court and they'll go right back home. So they've been convicted, but they're living in the same setting with the very person who testified against them."
There are no firm statistics on the number of elderly people abused by family members.
A study of more than 2,000 adults by Dr. Richard Gelles, a University of Rhode Island sociologist, projects that a half million people over 65 are physically abused by family members each year.

"We are in the infancy of finding out what the incidence of abuse is," says Dr. Thomas H. D. Mahoney, secretary of the Massachusetts State Department of Elder Affairs.
Sociologists and social workers say elderly abuse is similar to child abuse, caused by stresses stemming from the demands of caring for the elderly, from worries over money. Some families, says Bergman, have a history of violence. Alcoholism or severe psychological problems are sometimes the cause, he says.
"There isn't any simple explanation," says Gelles. "In some instances the elderly who are being abused have been in the past abusive parents, but not always."
In general, one finds the elderly, particularly the old, the sickly and the disabled, are more vulnerable because they create stresses that their children aren't able to meet socially, economically or psychologically.
Bergman says that in a Massachusetts survey of data from more than 300 persons working with the elderly, it was found that between 40 and 50 per cent of the victims were battered and had bruises, welts, cuts, punctures, bone fractures and dislocations and burns.

Other types of abuse included verbal harassment, withholding of food, mismanaging the victim's money, confinement, over-sedation and sexual abuse.
The victims are likely to be 75 and over.
Women were more likely to be abused than men.
Almost three-fourths of those surveyed said the abuser suffered from stress like alcoholism, drug addiction and medical and money problems.
Nearly two-thirds said the victims caused stress primarily because they required physical or emotional care or because they were financially dependent.
Bergman says withholding food is common. "Withholding is also used to inflict further mental anguish, putting food on the floor and saying get it there, you're no better than an animal, especially when the abuser knows the person is not mobile."
Bergman says false imprisonment is another common abuse.
"Locking a person in a room and letting them out only when the caretaker wanted to. Often not letting them out to go to the bathroom. Sometimes taking food to them and slipping it in the door and saying, here, eat it in there."

Gelles says a better overall health care system is needed. "We place an unrealistic burden on American families. We don't have a day care system for the elderly that can meet the needs of a half million people."
A House-approved bill awaiting final Senate action would create a commission to conduct a study of abuse of the elderly and provide new funds for temporary shelters for victims. Biaggi says he will sponsor in the House legislation to provide special tax credits for families who care for the elderly.
He also will seek to repeal legislation denying elderly who live with relatives their full supplemental security income from the federal government. If elderly persons live alone, or in some cases in a nursing home, they receive the full amount of supplemental income in addition to Social Security. But if they live with a relative, their supplemental income is reduced by one-third.

Mother Arrested In Infant Death
ATHENS, Texas (AP) — A 25-year-old mother was being held today pending possible grand jury action in the death of her 18-month-old baby, who died from massive injuries sustained during a suspected belt beating, police said.
The woman was jailed Tuesday in lieu of $10,000 bond, according to Assistant Police Chief Jack Brewer.
The child died Monday at Methodist Hospital in Dallas following surgery for a broken right arm and massive stomach injuries, Brewer said.
Texas Department of Human Resources officials removed a 3-month-old child from the woman's custody Sunday and placed it in a foster home, Brewer said.
Police, who took statements from two children not related to the family who witnessed the incident, said an investigation indicated the dead child had been beaten with a belt Saturday.
Brewer said the child's father was not involved in the investigation.
"We are continuing the investigation and plan to present the case to the Henderson County grand jury for consideration," Brewer said.

TREE CHARACTERISTICS IMPORTANT TO SELECTION:

When selecting trees for the home landscape this fall and winter, a whole host of characteristics should be considered.

Among the tree characteristics that affect their desirability are these:

-Longevity. Long-lived trees are much more desirable than short-lived ones. Among long-lived trees are honeylocust, pecan, oaks, red maple, Sabinal maple, cedar elm and Southern magnolia.

-Resistance to breakage. Trees with strong wood that are most resistant to breakage include crabapple, beech, blackgum, pecan, oaks, honeylocust and Sabinal maple.

-Freedom from insect and disease problems. Trees with little disease or insect problems include ailanthus, coffeetree, ginkgo, maples, oaks and tallow.

-Autumn color. Those with outstanding fall color include blackgum, sweetgum, Texas oak, sumac, tallow, Sabinal maple, and Chinese pistachio.

-Attractive or fragrant flowers or fruit. Trees with an outstanding display of flowers or fruit include redbud, flowering peach, flowering crab, flowering dogwood, magnolia and crepemyrtle.

-Handsome or unusual bark color or pattern. Among trees with handsome or distinctive bark are cork oak, Japanese crepemyrtle, eucalyptus, sycamore, Texas madrone and Chinese parasoltree.

-Cleanliness. Those that are clean and require little cleaning up include basswood, beech, oaks and Sabinal maple.

-Distinctive form. Trees with distinctive form include willow, oaks, pines, deodar cedar, American elm, blue oak, poplar, Lombardy poplar, weeping willow and sweetgum.

-Distinctive foliage color. Trees with distinctive leaf color add variety and interest to the landscape and include Sunburst honeylocust, silver poplar, Fraser photinia, Texas madrone, Japanese maple, Russian olive and purple leaf plum.

Interesting or unusual leaf shape. Those with unusual leaf shapes include ailanthus, buckeye, honeylocust, Texas oak, sumac, sassafras, coffeetree, Chinese parasoltree, ginkgo, sweetgum, tulip-poplar and loquat.

-Distinctive and handsome bud, twig or branch arrangement, shape or color. During winter months, some trees are attractive due to unusual patterns of buds, twigs or branches, including beech, blackgum, coffeetree, dogwood, sassafras, bur oak, corkscrew willow, ginkgo and Southern magnolia.

-Surficial root systems. Trees with root systems near the surface are more subject to damage and cause lawn problems. These include cottonwood, silver poplar, weeping willow, tallow and mulberry.

-Thorniness. Thorny trees are a safety hazard and include Russian olive, huisache, black locust, mesquite, hawthorn, honeylocust, osage-orange and trifoliate orange.

-Incompatible root systems. Some trees have roots that enter and clog water pipes, drain pipes and waste pipes. These include red maple, silver maple, pecan, sycamore, cottonwoods, poplars and willows.

-Suckering root system. Some trees send up sprouts from roots, which is undesirable. These include flowering crab, Lombardy poplar, tallow, jujube, ailanthus, Bolleana poplar, silver poplar, sassafras and persimmon.

-Toxic properties or offensive odors. A few trees have properties toxic to humans or have offensive odors, such as poison sumac and the female ginkgo.

When selecting a tree for landscaping, look for the sum of its many parts--roots, bark, trunk, branches, twigs, buds, flowers, leaves and fruit. Then decide how the characteristics of each part will add to or detract from the desirability of the tree.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Professional help lauded

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was so happy to see your column on manic depressions. I was hospitalized for nine weeks due to manic depression. I was very fortunate that my children realized I needed professional help or I might have ended my life or had it ended for me.

I was put on lithium and luckily I didn't have too many side effects. The doctors took me off lithium eight months ago and I have been doing fine and was released from therapy two months ago. I wish everyone knew there is such great help available. When I was initially in a deep depression the doctors put me on Elavil and it brought me out of that.

I had many family problems with an alcoholic husband whom I worshipped and we raised six sons. Much of the load fell on me and I just held it all in and took it. When I got out of the hospital, my ex-husband wouldn't let me back in our home. I felt like a dirty dishrag tossed aside after having been used to the maximum. So I got busy, went back to work and got a place and soon had my two youngest children back.

As a result of my treatment, as I got better I never had any more headaches. I stopped having the arthritis pains in my back I used to suffer from. I used to have severe stomach pains when I was upset and colitis but all that has disappeared. Even my fingernails grew longer. And I sleep soundly with no dreams. It is a shame so many people on this earth who could be helped don't know how they could be helped.

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your experience with our readers. I'm sure your letter will give much encouragement to others who need help. Your letter makes an important point — professional help can make a great deal of difference.

Many people do not know they are having a depression, and if it is something more than the ordinary mood swings that all of us have, it is not something you can correct yourself. Good friends and family members may try to help people with such problems but they cannot expect to provide the needed help. Their support is vital but medication when needed and professional help is essential.

You make the point that you might have ended your life. People must know that when a person is depressed that this is a possibility and should not take the responsibility of caring for such a person. Rather let such life and death matters be handled by people trained to deal with such problems.

Everyone has mood swings. It is sometimes difficult to draw the line between normal mood swings and a real depression. The progression from mood swings to depression is discussed in The Health Letter number 10-10, Depression: The Ups and Downs of Life, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Understanding mood swings and depression can enable a person to live a more satisfying life.

Your letter makes another point. Many illnesses, such as headaches, back pains and digestive disturbances can be caused by, or made worse by, mental factors such as depression. In these instances correcting the depression is the right treatment for the headaches and other problems.

Prison Protest Called Premature

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has refused to block the state from buying almost 6,000 East Texas acres for a new prison farm. But he left the door open for Grimes County citizens to take the matter to court again.

the purchase should be heard first in state court.

District Judge William Wayne Justice made his ruling "without prejudice" Friday, so the motion could be refiled in his court. However, he also told attorneys' any future requests to intervene in the judge said a temporary restraining order would be "premature," denying a request by 10 Grimes County residents to block the sale and to be named intervenors in a lawsuit filed by a Texas Department of Corrections inmate and the Justice Department.

Assistant Texas Attorney General Ed Dar said after the ruling in the judge's chambers that Justice apparently felt the state should have time to work out solutions to problems the judge outlined in a massive ruling last week.

In that ruling, Justice criticized overcrowding in Texas prisons and the TDC's large prison farm system. He ordered attorneys on both sides to meet in January to try to solve the problems.

The landowner's motion, filed in Houston federal court Thursday, argued that a land purchase "would fly in the face of the entire tone and substance" of Justice's ruling last week.

On Tuesday, the Prison Approval Board unanimously agreed to spend $6.7 million to purchase 5,696 acres just south of Navasota.

The board's vote came over protests from several dozen Grimes County residents, who traveled to Austin to voice their opposition to the selection.

TDC Director W.J. Estelle said after the board's vote he thought the court ruling went beyond constitutional issues "when it addressed the specific size, the specific architecture, or specific location or specific staffing patterns and where and how that staff can be utilized."

Suspected Robber Commits Suicide

ROCKWALL, Texas (AP) — A suspected bank robber apparently committed suicide after leading law enforcement officers on a wild chase punctuated with gunfire, officials said.

Richard L. Edgin, 34, a professional photographer from Dallas, died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the left temple, according to a preliminary autopsy report from the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office.

"It must have been like something out of television ...

like a wild shoot 'em up" said a spokesman for the medical examiner's office. "All those people shooting at each other and no one hitting anybody else."

A man wielding a chrome handgun robbed the Greenville Mutual Savings and Loan Association Friday morning and fled with $900 in cash, police said.

The man was pursued by a Rockwall County sheriff's deputy on Interstate 30, where other officers joined in the pursuit, officials said.

When the man fired at pursuing officers in front of the Department of Public Safety regional office in Garland, state troopers took up the chase.

Not long afterward, the FBI, Garland police, Dallas police, Dallas County sheriff's deputies and Texas Rangers got into the action.

Rockwall Police Chief Bruce Beaty, returning from Dallas in an unmarked car, encountered the suspect's car on Interstate 30, and the two men exchanged gunfire, officials said.

Financial & tax planning

NONTAXABLE EMPLOYEE BENEFITS

Inflation is causing all taxpayers to be in a higher tax bracket with no real increase in purchasing power. Since all of us are subject to the graduated tax brackets, additional pay raises are subject to the highest tax bracket of a given employee.

If an employer is interested in retaining the talent in his work force, he should consider designing a system of benefits which will give the employee additional benefits while still maintaining a deduction for the company without necessarily increasing payroll taxes. There are several types of benefits to be considered; the choice will be decided, in part, by the size, location and nature of your business.

- 1) Premiums paid by the employer on up to $50,000 of group term life insurance is deductible by the employer and nontaxable to the employee.
- 2) Employer paid educational assistance under certain qualified programs also qualify.
- 3) Food and beverage expenses incurred for business meals and paid for by the employer will not be taxed to the employee.
- 4) Meals or lodging provided to the employees on the premises of the employer and for the employer's convenience are not taxed to the employee.
- 5) The employee will not be taxed on medical care expenditures incurred by the employee or his dependents, provided the plan does not discriminate in favor of certain highly compensated employees.
- 6) Qualified employee moving expenses paid by or reimbursed by the employer will not be taxed to the employee.

Other "perks" worth considering include qualified group legal services, medical examinations, gym facility, professional and business club memberships, and spouse's death benefits.

Any of the employee benefits designed to discriminate in favor of "upper level" employees may not qualify for favorable tax treatment.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

December 21, 1980

You will develop a mutually beneficial relationship this coming year with a person who rubs you the wrong way at the first meeting. Disregard your early misgivings and the alliance will grow and become stronger.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In joint ventures today, try not to involve yourself in something where another does not ante up what you do, or who has less to offer. Balance is a must. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You and your mate could find yourselves in opposition today in a matter of mutual concern. Compromise may be the only way to overcome the deadlock.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your burden may be a bit heavier to shoulder today because one for whom you're responsible has failed to take care of something and has passed the buck to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're a welcome addition to any social gathering today, but don't be the last one to leave the party. Exit before the host or hostess yawns.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things could become a bit ruffled in your household today if there are too many chiefs and too few Indians. Set a good example instead of dictating terms.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Avoid the company of persons today who like to impose their views on others. Your tolerance for bossy types is of very short duration.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's important at this time that you manage your resources as prudently as possible. Think twice before taking on obligations you'll have to pay off later.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Important relationships must be handled with extreme tact today, even those involving persons with whom you always seem to get along comfortably.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Projects swept under the rug are likely to make their presence felt today. Lift up the rug and take care of them properly now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your friends won't appreciate it today if you are too insistent upon doing everything your way. Back off a bit. Let everyone put in his or her two-cents' worth.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have good leadership qualities today, but you must be careful that you're not too self-serving. Victory is less gratifying if it has a hollow ring.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You don't like it when persons put you in a position where you have to defend every statement you make. Keep their feelings in mind today if something is said with which you don't agree.

Dec. 22, 1980

This coming year you may be faced with some difficult decisions that will cause you to make major changes in direction. You'll handle challenge admirably and find victory along new roads.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Continue to be extremely diplomatic and tactful in important associations affecting your career or reputation. Support from allies isn't too enthusiastic now. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If projects don't come off as you hoped they would, it may be because you're going about them incorrectly. Re-examine your methods.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unless a friend volunteers to let you in on a confidential concern today, avoid prying too deeply. He or she could resent it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sure you and your mate are pulling together today, instead of pulling apart, if there is something important that has to be finished.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Unless you have the complete cooperation of co-workers today, little will be accomplished. Neither should impose personal demands on the other.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Avoid being drawn into something where financial demands are made upon you today. Developments could get very complicated or costly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to advance your self-interests today it may cost you a little more and you'll have to do a little extra to be successful. A free ride is unlikely.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Harboring resentment or grudges is out of character for you, yet today you may do so. Old wounds cannot be healed by irritating them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid associations today with persons who aren't prepared to pay their share of the tab. You won't be in the mood to be imposed upon by such types.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to be successful today, you must be careful not to spread your forces too thin. Going off in several directions would waste all of your efforts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Profit from your past mistakes by not repeating them today. A situation may arise again which is similar to one you didn't handle too well recently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you may be well-intentioned, it will be wise today not to poke your nose into the affairs of others. Watch from the sidelines.

3 Killed In Plane Crash

MANY, La. (AP) — Three people died Friday when an executive jet crashed into trees at the Many airport while coming in for a landing, authorities said.

Killed in the crash were pilot Daniel E. Martin and copilot George Brugier Jr., both of the New Orleans area.

Authorities said Mrs. Hank Helmer, a passenger, died en route to a hospital.

Mrs. Helmer and her husband were flying into Many to look over a house being built on Toledo Bend Lake for Helmer Directional Drilling of Gretna, officials said.

Helmer was hospitalized with injuries suffered in the crash.

Cause of the crash was not known, but observers said a weather front was passing through and the rapidly dropping temperatures may have had an effect.

Laura Woodall, the manager of the Hart Airport, said the pilot tried to radio a message just moments before the crash, but she could not understand it.

The plane, which left New Orleans at 10 a.m. and was scheduled to arrive at Many a half hour later, smashed into trees about 200 or 300 yards from the runway as it came in for a landing.

"They had already circled and were coming in," said Kenneth Walker, who was at the airport to meet the Helmers. "They had started their descent when the wings looked like they just fluttered side to side and they went down in that timber."

"I don't know what happened but that front had just passed through. I don't know if it had anything to do with it. There could have been some packets of hot air or something."

There was no fire.

Wild Hog May Soon Be New Meat Source

KINGSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Weary of chicken? Tired of ground beef? Put off by pork chops? Try a slice of javelina.

The meat of this ornery wild pig might be the perfect thing to highlight your next dinner party, suggest scientists at Texas A&I University, who are studying the animal for its value as a future meat source.

Dr. Robert Brown, a wildlife nutritionist, says it will be a long time before consumers can buy javelina roast from the butcher. But the critters may be an answer to possible future food shortages.

By chance, the javelina is the Texas A&I mascot. Not just by chance, the $300,000, two-year study of the animal is being funded by the Cesar Kleberg Wildlife Foundation, established by a member of the family who founded the famous King Ranch, which lies at the end of the main road through the university.

"The overall purpose of the project is to increase the production of South Texas' rangeland," Brown said. "If the land is more productive to javelina and deer than cattle, then perhaps maybe we ought to go in that direction."

Scientists will study what and how much javelinas eat and how they interact behaviorally and biologically with other range animals such as deer, goats, cattle and antelope.

Terry McLendon, a range management specialist, conducts another research project on javelinas at a different pasture near campus. His assistants take detailed notes on exactly what javelinas and the other range animals eat. The information will be used to determine how efficiently each species uses its environment.

Brown's project has four adult animals and three babies. The aim is to have eight, maybe 12 javelinas before starting intense study of their feeding habits.

Brown said the research could lead to increasing the animal's game value and possibly the establishment of specialty ranches to raise them domestically.

The javelina (pronounced hav-a-leena) is a popular game animal but seems to attract more out-of-state hunters than Texans, Brown said. No one has estimated their population, but in some areas around Del Rio, big herds roam almost undisturbed by hunters.

Javelinas, also called collared peccaries, live in herds from southern Texas down through Central and South America. They are a different species from razorback hogs, which can be traced back to European wild boars.

Javelinas are covered with bristles, weight up to 50 pounds and have long snouts and nasty tusks that can tear a man apart.

Fame Vanished Into Thin Air

LYNN, Mass. (AP) — One day the people of Lynn wanted to elect Walter Dyer mayor. The next they called him a dirty liar.

Dyer's popularity, literally vanished into thin air Friday when his dream of dropping Christmas cash from a light airplane into the steets of Lynn went awry.

Some 2,000 eager onlookers gathered in Central Square after Dyer announced he'd have an airplane drop 1,500 one-dollar bills at high noon as a gift to the people of Lynn. People stood on phone booths and hung on bus stands. Traffic was jammed.

Right on schedule, a light airplane circled overhead. But no money fell to the people. Instead a cruel winter wind blew it toward Lynn Harbor and into the icy Atlantic Ocean.

"The money just didn't land where it was supposed to," Dyer said. "I'm not God. I got no control of the wind."

"Instead of coming down, it went up and out," said Patrolman Tony Anness. "The clams out there are going to be worth a lot more money."

Anness said a couple of people reported finding a few bills along the beach.

"Eventually it'll wash up on the shore," he said. Back in the square, things turned ugly.

Problems solved.

Lucky Black Pays Off

By GARY GARRISON
Associated Press Writer
The Pittsburg Pirates were wearing black Friday night, but it wasn't because the team and their fans were in mourning. Quite the contrary, they were celebrating a victory in the Class 3A Texas schoolboy football title game. Pittsburg beat Van Vleck, 13-2, for the championship. Top-ranked Pilot Point and Tidenhaven battled to a 0-0 tie and settled for a co-championship in Class 2A. The final game of the Texas schoolboy football season was to be played today when Port Arthur Jefferson and Odessa Permian tangled for the Class 5A crown at Texas Stadium in Irving. Pittsburg coach James Rust says the mostly black uniforms are a good luck charm for the team. "We wore black starting three years ago and we've been a winning team since then. We were unscathed on wearing black until Friday night," Rust said. "We wore gold in the playoffs last year and we lost to Van, 7-6."

"The kids are kind of superstitious," Rust added. Rust will lose 22 seniors from the championship team. Asked if that gives him any concern about next year's team, Rust proudly pointed out that the school's eighth grade team, ninth grade team, junior varsity and varsity lost one game between them.

Asked what he was thinking when he saw his team's center heave the football over the punter's head in the direction of the end zone, Rust said he was more concerned about it turning into just a safety than he was losing the team's scoreless streak.

"I said to myself, 'Dear Lord, please let him grab it and throw it out of the end zone or something,'" the coach recalled. Byron Linwood covered the ball in the end zone, allowing the safety, but denying Van Vleck a cheap touchdown.

Pittsburg held a 7-0 lead in the second quarter when Van Vleck scored the safety, ending a string of 42 consecutive scoreless quarters for the Pirate defense, a state record.

Tailback Gary Hashaway scored both Pittsburg touchdowns, the first on a 7-yard run in the second quarter and on a 4-yard jaunt in the fourth quarter. Linwood kicked an extra point for the Pirates, but missed a 32-yard field goal attempt on the final play of the first half.

Pittsburg ended the season with a perfect 15-0 record. Van Vleck was 12-2-1.

Pilot Point came close to scoring one time in the scoreless tie with Tidenhaven, for the Class 2A title. Pilot Point moved to the 4-yard line, but three tries yielded only two yards and a field goal attempt failed on fourth down.

Ector Eagles Nip Tigers By 57-56

ODESSA—It was another case of "almost, but not quite," for the Snyder Tigers here Friday night as they opened the 1980-81 District 2-4A conference basketball season. The Bengals staged a comeback in the fourth period, but it fell one short of Odessa Ector and the Eagles captured a 57-56 decision.

Thus, the Tigers, who went to the state finals last year, saw their season's record slip to 3-12 and got their conference mark started at 0-1. The Tigers had the upper hand in the early going and held a 16-13 lead at the end of the first period, but the Eagles out-scored the visitors by 16-8 in the second quarter to give them the cushion they needed for the victory.

Coach George Byerly's Bengals came back on the court following intermission and fought the Odessans on even terms in the third period and then put on a rally for an 18-14 advantage in the closing stanza, but it wasn't quite enough.

Kris Seale paced the Tigers in scoring with 24 points, while Barry Blackmon also was in double figures with 10. Gamble led the Eagles with 23 points. Snyder hit 27 field goals to only 23 for Ector, but the Eagles had 11 free throws and the Tigers only two.

Friday night's action closed out the pre-Christmas portion of the Tigers' schedule. They will return to action Dec. 30 when they go to Big Spring to meet the Steers in a non-conference match.

SNYDER—Wilson 4-0-8; Housden 1-0-2; Wallace 3-0-6; Blackmon 4-2-10; Lofton 1-0-2; Gafford 2-0-4; Seale 12-0-24; Totals 27-2-56.

ECTOR—Gamble 11-1-23; Pierce 5-0-10; Butler 3-3-9; Ricks 4-4-12; Pride 0-3-3; Totals 23-11-57.

Sophomore Team Nipped

BIG SPRING—Snyder sophomores were nipped 63-62 by Midland Lee junior varsity in Big Spring Tournament play here Friday afternoon.

The Cats were to play the loser of an Odessa High-Midland High junior varsity game at 8:30 Saturday morning.

"The team played better, with fewer turnovers than they have this season," said Coach Jim Carson. "We shot better from the field and the line. It was a see-saw game all the way. They (Lee JV) won because they had the ball last."

Whit Parks put up 15 points while David Nicholson added 13, Britt Vincent 10, David Miller 9, Johnny Overton 8, Brent Roemisch 5 and Matt Davis 2. Parks and Miller had seven rebounds each.

Oiler Fan's 'Luv' Focuses On Cash

HOUSTON (AP) — A lawsuit has been filed in state court by a Houston medical secretary who says she came up with the slogan "Luv ya Blue" and has not received one cent from the Houston Oilers' football organization for the use of the now-famous sign.

Donna Duron, 33, said she is and always will be a loyal Oilers fan but that the organization has "wrongfully appropriated and exploited her intellectual property and broken a special relationship she had with the club since the fall of 1978."

Ms. Duron is asking the court for an accounting of all money received by the Oilers for the use of the "Luv ya Blue" slogan and that she be paid a percentage.

Ms. Duron said in the fall of 1978 she began developing slogans and phrases which she made as signs and banners and personally applied to the walls of the practice training facilities of the Oilers.

It was at that time she came up with the "Luv ya Blue" slogan.

The lawsuit claims that the Oilers organization then began to use the slogan "as a planned promotion without my knowledge, approval or consent."

Robert F. Stein Jr., the attorney for Ms. Duron, said he thinks the Oilers "have treated her very shabbily. She doesn't think a race to Austin to register the slogan as a trademark entitles them to 100 percent of the profits."

Mike McClure, Oilers vice president for marketing, declined to discuss the lawsuit but said "I know the lady in question."

Ms. Duron said she still is an Oilers fan and "I am with them all the way, no matter what happens in court."

Stein Signs With Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Journeyman infielder and free agent Bill Stein has signed a three-year contract with the Texas Rangers, the American League club announced.

Stein, who has a .262 lifetime batting average, has played for the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago White Sox and Seattle Mariners.

Stein played out his option with Seattle in 1980 and was drafted by the Rangers, White Sox, Mariners and California Angels in the Nov. 13 re-entry draft of free agents.

"Stein will give us protection at the infield position," executive vice president Eddie Robinson said Friday.

"Last year third baseman Buddy Bell, second baseman Bump Wills and shortstop Bud Harrelson were out of action for long periods with injuries. Stein has played all those positions as well as first base."

Henry Frnka Dies At 77

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Henry Frnka, former football coach of the University of Tulsa and Tulane University, died at the age of 77.

Frnka was coach at Tulsa from 1941-45, compiling a 40-9-1 record. All of his Tulsa teams went to bowl games, defeating Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl and Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl while losing to Tennessee and Georgia Tech in consecutive Sugar Bowl games and to Georgia in the Oil Bowl.

Mustangs Victims Of Incredible Comeback

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Trailing 45-25 with 3:57 remaining in the third Holiday Bowl football game, Brigham Young Coach LaVell Edwards didn't think his football team had a prayer.

A 42-yard touchdown run by Southern Methodist tailback Craig James had seemingly all but crushed the Cougars' chances of ending their bowl jinx.

"I thought that was it," Edwards said Friday night. So did more than half the San Diego Stadium crowd of 50,214 and, most likely, anyone watching on national television.

But quarterback Jim McMahon wasn't finished.

In one of the most incredible comebacks in bowl history, McMahon produced three touchdowns in the final 2:33 — and 27 points in the last 4:07 — as 14th-ranked BYU stunned the 19th-ranked Mustangs 46-45.

"It was a miracle," said McMahon, who connected on a 41-yard desperation pass to tight end Clay Brown as time expired in the game.

"It's called the 'Save the game play,'" said McMahon, who completed 32 of 49 passes for 446 yards and was named the game's most valuable player.

"It's been in our offense ever since Doug Scovill (BYU's offensive coordinator) has been around, but we've never had to use it before," said McMahon, who broke 26 NCAA offensive records this year. "I told everybody to run to the middle of the field and I would throw it up and hope for interference."

Brown and SMU defensive back Wes Hopkins came down with the ball together, but under college rules mutual receptions are awarded to the offense. Brown outwrestled two other defenders on the play.

"It was a 'Hail Mary' pass," said Brown, who caught three touchdowns passes. "I can call it that because Jim and me are Catholics."

After order was restored, kicker Kurt Gunther's pressurized extra point gave BYU, 12-1, the margin of victory. It was the Cougars' first victory in five bowl appearances and ended a five-game bowl drought for the Western Athletic Conference.

Southern Methodist, behind its sensational sophomore tailback tandem of James and Eric Dickerson, had stormed to a 19-0 lead and widened it to 35-13 early in the third period.

Then, said Edwards, "we caught fire."

Moving 72 yards in seven plays, McMahon ignited the rally with a 15-yard scoring pass to wide receiver Matt Braga, who made a spectacular one-handed catch. BYU's Todd Shell recovered the onside-kick following the touchdown and the Cougars were back in business.

On a third-and-one, McMahon, who passed for 250 yards in the fourth quarter alone, connected on a 40-yard bomb to Bill Davis, taking the Cougars to the SMU 1-foot line. Scott Phillips scored from there and caught a two-point conversion pass from McMahon, making it 45-39 with 1:58 left.

Eagles Seeking First Title In Two Decades

IRVING (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles on Sunday seek their first title of any kind since their 1960 National Football League championship. All they have to do is lose to the Dallas Cowboys by 24 points or less.

"We're not worrying about 25 points," said Eagles quarterback Ron Jaworski. "As far as we are concerned, the score is 0-0 when the game starts. We want to win."

For Dallas, 11-4, to successfully defend its National Conference Eastern Division crown, the Cowboys must plunder the NFC's stingiest defense by 25 points. Such a large victory would give the Cowboys the edge they need in the NFL's intricate tie-breaker system.

The most points the Eagles, 12-3, have surrendered this year is 24 in their fourth game of the season against the St. Louis Cardinals. Philadelphia has yielded just 12.4 points per game.

"It doesn't make you too optimistic if you can beat 'em by 25 points," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, who says the Cowboys will open up their offense.

The Eagles and Cowboys have clinched wild card berths.

A Cowboy victory by less than 25 points or a Los Angeles loss to Atlanta would assure them a homefield berth in the first round of the National Conference playoffs Dec. 28th. Then Dallas would have to play Los Angeles again.

The Rams slaughtered Dallas 38-14 Monday night.

The Eagles won the world championship in 1948, 1949 and 1960. In 1947, they lost in the title game to the Chicago Cardinals.

Dallas was rated a three-point favorite although the Eagles beat the Cowboys 17-10 earlier this season. A sellout crowd of 65,000 was assured for the 3 p.m. kickoff.

"We're a highly motivated team," said Jaworski. "We have played every game this year like it was a playoff game."

He said the Eagles no longer had a losing complex when they played the Cowboys.

"We knew that to win the division that sooner or later we would have to play on their (the Cowboys') level," said Jaworski. "When we beat the Cowboys in Texas Stadium last year we knew we had reached that level. It instilled a lot of confidence."

Oilers Hope To Squeeze Another Decision Today

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, who like to slice their victories slim, will try to squeeze out one more Sunday against Minnesota Sunday that could lead to the American Football Conference Central Division title.

The Oilers, who have won seven games this season by six or less points, will go into the noon kickoff with one eye on the NFC Central Division champion Vikings and the other on the Cleveland-Cincinnati game.

A Cleveland loss, regardless of the Houston-Minnesota outcome, would give the division title to the Oilers. While victories by Houston and Cleveland would send the Oilers to the playoffs as a wild card entry for the third straight year.

The Oilers, who have averaged 18.3 points a game, have been criticized for their conservative offense while the defense has been holding opponents to only 15.6 points per game.

A one point margin would satisfy Oiler quarterback coach King Hill if the Oilers are still the winners.

"We can set the tempo of a game to whatever we think we need," Hill said. "We know that you win with defense in this league. There are very few teams that can dominate on offense and simply outscore everybody."

An example of Houston's fire power came against New England when the Oilers scored a season-high 38 points.

"We scored 38 points because we knew we had to score to win," Hill said. "They have great personnel and we didn't think we could hold them down. We were lucky enough to get a big lead early."

The Oilers defensive assignment this week will be to stop one of the hottest passing quarterbacks in the league, hometown product Tommy Kramer.

Kramer, who earned All-America honors at Rice University, hit 38 of 49 passes last week against Cleveland including a desperation shot that was deflected into the arms of Ahmad Rashad on the final play of the game for the winning touchdown.

The Vikings, considered also-rans in the preseason, won six of their last seven games and during that time Kramer's quarterback rating has soared to 100.2.

Minnesota's hardest chore will be stopping Houston's ball control offense and Earl Campbell who is nearing his third consecutive rushing title.

Snyder Girls Rip Odessans, 68-52

Snyder girls upped their District 2-AAAA record to 3-1 here Friday night, knocking out visiting Ector in the third round for a 68-52 victory.

The Felines, 6-7 on the season, will be idle for two weeks before traveling to Pecos on Jan. 2. The girls were to meet Rotan on Dec. 30, but the game has been called off, according to Coach Ken Housden.

Snyder dropped behind the visitors 16-15 after the first period, but got the Eagles on the ropes in the second for a 44-27 halftime lead, then delivered the knockout punch with 21 third stanza points.

The hosts, backed by three girls in double figures, went ahead by 18, 58-40, early in the fourth period, but settled for the 16-point victory.

Michelle Townsel led the Feline attack once again with 23 points, 14 rebounds and two steals. She got plenty of help, however, as Brenda Anderson came up with 15 points and nine rebounds and Pam Gray added 10 points and three steals.

Five other Snyder players put points on the scoreboard.

Cynthia Taylor got 6, Theresa Browning 5, Vickie Gregory 4, LaDonna Halford 3 and Tracy O'Day 2. O'Day also pulled down seven rebounds and Halford was credited with three steals.

Highlighting the Ector Eagles was junior guard Pam Alexander, who roasted the nets with good outside shooting for 19 points. Pam Bledsoe added 10 and Nickie Martin put in 8.

Final statistics show Snyder actually secured the game from the charity stripe as both teams garnered 24 field goals, but the Felines' got 20 one-point baskets while Ector managed only four. Townsel hit on nine of her 10 attempts from the line.

"We got a lot of help all around, particularly from the bench," said Housden, who pointed out that most of the girls had been ill earlier in the week due to a virus which has been plaguing the high school student body.

"Considering that the girls did an excellent job. We let down towards the last of the game some, but that might have been the sickness catching up with us a little bit," he added.

In earlier action, Snyder junior varsity girls also defeated Ector, 58-41.

Pam Perceval led four girls in double digits with 18 points. Tammy Merritt added 11 points and Tonya Mitchell and Penny Wolfe pumped in 10 apiece.

Donna Allen scored 15 for Ector and Charlette Stinson had 10.

lawyer James G. Watt, who appeared earlier this week to be President-elect Ronald Reagan's clear choice to be interior secretary, sources near the transition say.

Some aides close to Reagan are concerned that appointing Watt would unnecessarily anger environmental and Indian groups who have strong interests in Interior Department policy.

The environmentalists criticize Watt for his outspoken pro-development positions as head of a conservative Denver legal foundation that has specialized in attacking environmental regulations.

On Friday, 12 of the nation's biggest conservation organizations sent a telegram to Reagan urging him to pick someone else.

"We urge you to find a nominee who can better represent the public interest in the management and conservation of this nation's economic, natural and cultural resources," the coalition said.

Transition sources, who declined to be identified, said that although most environmental groups backed President Carter and not Reagan, their opposition to Watt had prompted a review of the expected appointment, which once seemed almost certain.

"You shouldn't make waves when you don't have to," said one-Reagan adviser. "You can accomplish what you want without raising a red flag for those who oppose it."

Some environmentalists have urged Reagan to appoint Rep. Manuel Lujan Jr., R-N.M., instead of Watt.

MISHAP ON 84—No injuries were reported in this wreck that occurred about two miles north of town on U.S. Highway 84 Saturday morning about 7:20. The driver, Javier Ornelas of Mineral Wells, reportedly fell asleep and lost control of the 1969 Camaro. A passenger, Julian Lopez Jr., was also believed uninjured. The car was going south at the time of the mishap, Gary Brewer, Department of Public Safety trooper, investigated.

KOONCE-MOLANO WEDDING—Helen Koonce and Ricardo Molano Jr., both of Snyder, were united in marriage Oct. 25 at Colonial Hill Baptist Church. The Rev. Glenn McCathern officiated. LaRhonda Koonce served her mother as maid of honor, while Robert Molano of Abilene served his brother as best man. Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple now reside at 2802 Ave. Y.

Minor, Clark Exchange Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Susan Lynn Minor and Michael Scott Clark were married Nov. 29 at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Ken Branam of First Baptist Church and the Rev. Miller Robinson of Colonial Hills Baptist Church officiated the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Roaal E. Minor and Mr. and Mrs. Bob L. Clark.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a Victorian style dress of chiffon. The deep V-neckline of Venice lace was bordered with a ruffle of Chantilly lace. The deep cuffs of the bishop sleeves were of Venice lace. Tiers of chantilly lace extended halfway up from the hemline in scallops, while her cathedral-length train was trimmed in the same type of ruffle.

Her hat was covered in bridal illusion with chantilly lace trim around the edge of the brim. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was trimmed with lace rosettes and pearls, bordered with chantilly lace and was attached to the hat with a large bow of illusion.

Her bouquet was of white rosebuds and burgandy and pink carnations with lace streamers attached to a lace fan matching her dress.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Bell, the bride's aunt. Bridesmaids were Valerie Wilson of San Marcos, Lori McCormick of Abilene, and Patti Clark, the bridegroom's sister. The honor attendant was attired in a rose colored victorian styled gown, while the bridesmaids wore burgundy gowns in the same fashion. Combs in the bride's color were worn in each attendant's hair.

The flower girl was Gaye Rosser of Midland, the bridegroom's cousin. Ringbearer was Shawn Hays.

Bob Clark served his son as best man, while groomsmen included Richard Huddleston, Joel McCommon, and Dwain Collier.

The bridegroom was attired in a long-tailed white tuxedo with a white shirt and bow tie. His attendants wore grey ascot tuxedos with white shirts.

Ushers were Ricky Trammell of Beaumont and Ken Peters of Nixon, the bride's brothers-in-law; Jeff Minor, the bride's brother, and Vance Voss.

Candlelighters were Brandi Jo Bell and Bill Bell, cousins of the bride.

Judy Neill was organist while Bobby Wells was pianist. Musical selections included "We've Only Just Begun" and "He Has Chosen You For Me" sung by Kim Culbertson and Jerry Neill; theme from "Ice Castles" and "Song for a Christian Wedding," sung by Cynthia Rosser, and "Candle on the Water" by Ms. Culbertson.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given in the garden room of the church.

The bride's table was adorned with a white hand crochet tablecloth, accented with a silk flower arrangement and brass candlesticks. The wedding cake was a four-tiered white cake topped with two doves on a silk flower base. Presiding at the bride's table were Teresa Trammell, Lesa Peters, the bride's sisters, and Jamie Hataway.

The bridegroom's table was adorned with a burgandy tablecloth accented with brass serving pieces and candlesticks with burgandy candles. His cake was a round chocolate on chocolate with lattice work. Presiding at the bridegroom's table were Traci Rosser, the bridegroom's cousin, and Sherry Thompson.

Susan Sullivan and Sherett Perry registered guests.

The bridegroom's parents were hosts to a rehearsal dinner at the Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Out-of-town wedding guests were from Beaumont, Nixon, Eldorado, Abilene, Houston, Lubbock, and Edmond, Okla.

Defending against Landy

You are playing duplicate. Your partner opens one notrump. Second hand bids two clubs. He is playing Landy so that his two-club call is artificial to show spades and hearts. The experts have all sorts of complicated ways to act against this. We are going to suggest a reasonably simple way to defend against this bid.

Bear in mind that you aren't interested in playing in a major suit any more and most of the time you don't want to be in game. Maybe you can penalize the Landy bidder. If you think you can, just double his two clubs. This bid says: "I can double AT LEAST ONE MAJOR SUIT for penalty. If you can double the one that is bid, do so. Otherwise, pass it around to me."

With a good hand and no major suit stopper, bid two diamonds. You expect partner to bid one of the minors if he can't stop both majors. With some game interest plus a high honor in one major, bid two of that major. With both minors and no game interest, bid two notrump to ask partner to bid a minor. With one minor and some game interest, bid three of that minor.

If you just want to compete, pass first and bid something later.

Finally, make sure that your partner knows what you are doing. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

IS THERE REALLY A SANTA CLAUS?

Should parents tell their children Santa Claus is real? Many feel that if they do, the time will come when they must confess the truth and disappoint their children.

But if a child is told from the beginning "there is no Santa," will he miss much of the excitement and fun of Christmas?

Keep the magic and gaiety without later disappointing children by treating Santa Claus and his reindeer as a wonderful game of make-believe. The jolly old man is a symbol of good cheer and gifts which accompany Christmas.

The whole family ceremoniously can hang stockings, understanding that Santa is an imaginary character like fairies and elves.

The child of two or three will join in the ceremonies but, no matter what he is told (because he can not yet separate fact and fancy), Santa is real to him.

By four or five while he still has his sense of awe and wonder, he may begin to know that Santa Claus is not an actual man who parks his reindeer on the roof and slides down the chimney.

Then and for several years to come, children enjoy the game. They seem to "believe" because it's more fun that way. In any case, parents always will want to emphasize the fun and spirit of Santa Claus and never use him in relation to a child's behavior.

But some children are very down to earth. They want to know in so many words: "Is he real or is he pretend?" Such a child should be told that Santa is pretend. If his parents can get him to enjoy Santa Claus in the spirit of make-believe, fine. But if the child definitely does not want to be "fooled," don't press the point.

At the other extreme is the child who too easily loses the distinction between dream and reality. Everything that he pretends is real to him. He needs help in making distinctions between fact and fancy.

"At Christmas time everyone loves to pretend that Santa Claus is real," his parents could say. "But of course we all know that he's make-believe. He stands for some of the spirit of Christmas."

Is there really a Santa? With a twinkle in the eye, answer, "Maybe so and maybe not."

Most children catch the twinkle and the spirit. They disregard Santa Claus gradually and without heartbreak as they mature.

But you see, there really is a Santa Claus.

Brownies Make Favors For Hospital Shut-Ins

Among the duties of the Project Committee of Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary is arranging for tray favors for patients in the hospital during the major holidays.

This year, the Girl Scouts, under the direction of Peggy Vernon, agreed to make tray favors for the Christmas holidays.

These favors are placed on each patient's meal tray, and there will be enough for three days during the Christmas holidays.

Members of 16 troupes of Girls Scouts used their own ideas on what a tray favor should be and the patients at Cogdell Memorial Hospital will each receive an original favor to brighten their meals at the hospital during Christmas.

Cookbooks for Children

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
The 1980 revised paperback edition of "Creative Food Experiences for Children" by Mary T. Goodwin and Gerry Pollen (Center for Science in the Public Interest, Washington, D.C., $5.95) is interesting and worthwhile.

Although it was intended to be used primarily by teachers in preschools, day-care centers, and similar groups, a good many parents could gain a great deal from the sound nutritional practices it advocates. One of the authors is a public health nutritionist and a mother; the other, also a mother, is a specialist in early childhood education, with long experience in teaching young children.

The book's great virtue is the guidance it offers in involving children in pleasurable food experiences. Chapters on vegetables, fruits, milk, protein foods, cereals and bread are informative. Another chapter on "Lunches, Snacks and Celebrations" offers practical suggestions parents and children can have fun using. The chapter tells "How to Take the 'Drag' out of Bag Lunches," offers suggestions for "Packed Lunches," "Nutritious Snacks," and "Snacks for Celebrations," and has recipes for a "Children's Calendar of Celebrations."

Finally, there's a section of recipes that nutrition-conscious parents may find appealing. Covered are: beverages; salads and salad dressings; soups; main dishes; breads, cereals and pancakes; dips, spreads and sandwich fillings; and desserts.

Dorothy Lara-Braud had a great idea when she gathered together recipes for her recently published book, "Good Food Kids Love" (Quick Fox). She asked a good many mothers — in person, by mail, by phone — "What are your kids' favorite dishes?" As she says, "Almost all the mothers responded quickly, naming from three to six recipes that they use again and again, year in and year out." From these the author chose about 100 recipes that "taste good" and are "good for you."

Dr. Alvin Eden, a professor of pediatrics, contributed a foreword to the book. And Alex Beck, a respected nutrition consultant, wrote an introduction and added the nutrition notes and charts that accompany each recipe.

"Good Food Kids Love" is a spiral-bound book with color illustrations on each page and durable paper that should wear well in the kitchen. The recipes are sensible American ones, from potato and corn chowder to pumpkin chifon pie (with a whole wheat crumb crust). There are also some new combinations: for example, a carrot soup that includes tomato paste, apples, brown rice, honey and raisins. All in all, the dishes should please the whole family.

If you are thinking of bestowing a cookbook on your children that they can use themselves, you might consider "Better Homes and Gardens New Junior Cookbook" (Meredith).

It's a hard-cover book that offers 75 recipes with easy-to-follow directions and is illustrated in both black and white and color. Although this book originally appeared in 1963, 55 of its 75 recipes are new. Among these are up-to-date offerings — such as Taco Burgers and Easy Muffin Pizzas — as well as tried-and-true favorites such as scalloped corn and no-knead yeast rolls.

Women Making Strides In The 80's

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — As 1980 drew to a close with the Equal Rights Amendment still stalled — 35 of the needed 38 states having so far ratified it — the nation's women could take some comfort in the fact that more women than ever would hold seats in the 97th Congress.

There will be 21, including Paul Hawkins, R-Fla., who joins Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., in the Senate. However, Mrs. Hawkins, 53, does not support the ERA and favors a constitutional ban on abortion.

And the nation lost its only two women governors: Democrat Dixie Lee Ray, 66, of Washington, defeated in the primaries; and Democrat Ella T. Grasso, 61, of Connecticut, who resigned, citing physical problems stemming from cancer of the liver.

With women having already broken the sex barrier in almost every field, it might seem that there would be no more worlds to conquer. But as the '80s opened, there were still some "firsts" recorded.

In history-making ceremonies, the first women graduates of the four U.S. service academies received their commissions, ready to join their male counterparts in every area of military activity except combat duty, from which they are barred by law.

They were the 227 women who had stuck it out through four years of tough training alongside the men as members of the class of 1980, the first to include women after the military academies went coeducational in 1976.

Receiving their hard-won diplomas at the Military Academy, West Point, N.Y., were 61 female cadets, while at the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., 55 women completed their service education. The Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., graduated its first 14 women ensigns and at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, 97 women were commissioned.

A Navy enlisted woman also made military history when Petty Officer 3rd Class Anne Michelle Mooney, 26, became the first female Department of Defense test parachutist. Her qualifying 22nd jump at the Naval Weapons Center, China Lake, Calif., was from an altitude of 7,000 feet and lasted 4½ minutes.

In Hollywood, 35-year-old Sherry Lansing broke tradition as she was named president of 20th-Century Fox Productions to become the first female studio chief. "I am very excited by the challenges of the job," she said, "but I hope as the '80s progress, the appointment of a woman to a major post will not be so newsworthy, that it will become natural for women to have high positions in every industry."

Organized labor also admitted a woman into its high ranks when Joyce Miller, president of the Coalition of Labor Union Women, was unanimously elected to the executive council of the AFL-CIO. She is the first woman to serve on the 35-seat policy-making council since the federation was formed nearly 25 years ago.

The 52-year-old Mrs. Miller, also vice president of the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union, said she would be a spokesman for all workers but that she would especially espouse the cause of women.

homes for India's poor and sick, has displaced Anita Bryant at the top of Good Housekeeping magazine's list of "Most Admired Women."

Miss Bryant, a singer whose fame stems mostly from her orange juice commercials and campaigns against homosexual rights, had been voted most admired woman by the magazine's readers for the past two years.

This year she dropped to third behind former first lady Pat Nixon, the only person to place in the top 10 each year since the magazine's poll of its readers first was conducted in 1969.

Rosalynn Carter moved from 6th to 4th place, and Phyllis Schlafly, a leading opponent of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, moved to 5th from 9th place.

Rounding out the top 10 were, in order, New York City Opera Director Beverly Sills, former first lady Betty Ford, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, former Texas Congresswoman Barbara Jordan and humorist Erma Bombeck.

a loser's bitterness

Has Rita Jenrette told all? Not quite. The wife of Rep. John Jenrette, the South Carolina Democrat convicted in an obscenity trial and subsequently voted out of office, has written for the Washington Post an article entitled "Diary of a Mad Congresswife."

In writing of Washington as a seedy brothel maintained by drug and alcohol-crazed politicians who carouse with kick-seeking women, Mrs. Jenrette vents rage over her own life gone wrong.

While we don't doubt the veracity of her claims, recently-published excerpts from her expose ring hollow. She did not make her charges public until after her husband's conviction and failure at the polls. Had Rita revealed the D.C. depravity while still part of the political scene, one could have admired her courage. Now her words shrivel as sour grapes.

Mrs. Jenrette lays bare her political "Peyton Place" experience, describing such scenes as discovering her drunken husband in the depths of debauchery with another woman and herself being drugged into sexual submission by one of his colleagues. But she stayed by his side, remaining silent until, as she admits, she no longer had anything to lose.

The timing of Mrs. Jenrette's article suggests that while her husband still held power, she wanted the material benefits of congresswifery whatever the personal cost in dignity, self-respect and morality. Hers is the sort of confession made, as the title suggests, in anger over getting caught or losing out, not in sorrow or contrition over complicity.

As a couple, the Jenrettes have exhibited the type of ethics that cause the public to equate politics with scandal.

Jenrette's defense in the Abscam trial was alcoholism. He would not have succumbed to bribery had he been sober. He also said he thought the FBI agents masquerading as rich Arabs were underworld characters who would kill him if he balked. And Jenrette defends his actions by accusing the FBI of entrapment. It just isn't fair, says Jenrette, that he got caught.

Neither Rita nor John appears capable of accepting responsibility for their own actions. Other people and the political environment are to blame for their woes.

Such ethical lassitude, such lack of scruples, such childish pouting set an appalling standard, though not an entirely unpopular one. Entrapment has become a major issue in Abscam court cases as if to say favors taken under the table are all right if the perpetrator isn't honest about the special interest represented. Know thy thief and all will be well.

And now Rita is mad that she and John made a mistake about who the real thieves were. Her vindictive diatribe against Washington and its leaders should not be taken seriously. Though her accounts probably are truthful, her motive in sharing them is not; and never has her husband been counted among the venerable on Capitol Hill. What she encountered cannot, by her word alone, be accepted as representative of the majority.

John was not of the statesmen set. Rita has left her mark only as a publicity hound with such actions as obscene gestures to FBI agents during her husband's trial. One gets, from the tone of the congresswife's diary, that she is as she criticized the political realm. "Congress," she wrote, "is a world of thirsts that can't be quenched." Rita Jenrette also has a hunger for revenge that can't be satiated.

Newlyweds are so naive. They deal with all the trivial stuff at the altar - like hanging in there through the big money, poverty, sickness, health and death.

What they should be dealing with is the stuff of which marriages either make it or fail. Whose house do we go to for Christmas dinner? Your parents' or mine?

We were lucky. My parents were very understanding. They said, "We don't care whose house you go to for Christmas dinner. We love you and we just want you to be happy. If it isn't our house, we'll be dead by New Year's."

My husband's parents were equally understanding. They said, "If you aren't here for Christmas, it's perfectly all right. We'll just assume you hated the end tables and the lamps we bought you for a wedding present and you never want to see us again."

When I was married, I weighed 113 pounds. On my first anniversary, I checked in at 132.

"What's the matter with you?" asked my husband. "I didn't know you were inflatable."

"Don't be cute," I said. "You'd put on weight too if you were eating for four!"

"Four!" he gasped. "That's right. Your parents and mine."

Most people don't realize it but this little bit of married-life drama was the basis for most of our TV game shows.

The idea for the game of "Concentration" was originated by a couple in Waterloo, Iowa, who decided to go to his mother's for Christmas. That meant her mother got to select three holidays from her "win" column. She chose Thanksgiving, Easter and Mother's Day.

"Jeopardy" was a spinoff of a game played by a couple in Austin, Tex. The wife was given three seconds to name which in-law she was to spend Valentine's Day with, guessed wrong, and was cut out of the will.

The first couple to ask, "Guess who's NOT coming to dinner?" was the basis for "Face the Music." And the first couple to say they were sick of playing musical in-laws and preferred to stay at home for the holidays gave birth to "To Tell the Truth."

The problem is still making game-show history. Last week, I heard of a daughter who called her mother to see what time she wanted her husband and their seven children to arrive for Christmas. Her mother said she thought "his" mother was stuck with them this year.

And that's how "Family Feud" was born.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Merry Christmas."

Santa is a busy fellow, and because of the demands on his time, getting him to town or in a certain shopping center to visit with the kids is a big task in itself.

Folks at the chamber can attest to the fact that making sure Santa makes his appearance on schedule takes prior planning a necessity.

Nevertheless, Snyder's problems are nothing compared to a neighboring community who decided to bring the jolly gentleman into town in a helicopter.

You normally think of Santa as a jolly, pot-bellied, bewhiskered gent with red cheeks and black boots.

A portly Santa is necessary for the image, or it was until the town's chamber decided to make arrangements for a helicopter ride into town.

The chamber had to make some fast changes after talking to the pilot.

It seems the load limit for Santa was 200 pounds and under...and the Santa due to arrive fit the image but was 30 pounds over the mark.

Christmas business in Snyder has been brisk, and we have been impressed with the traffic in all sections of the business community.

Our merchants seem to be doing a better job each year of offering the right merchandise at the right price. Snyder is a pretty complete shopping center, and we have no trouble filling our needs locally.

The price of gasoline alone is enough to make shoppers stay home, but we also think of the ease in making exchanges and getting products repaired all during the year.

There are lots of reasons to shop in Snyder, but we find friendly, personalized service at the top of the list.

Couple of employees here at the SDN had early Christmas presents. Ad Manager Wayne Burney has a new son and typesetter Paula Cobb also is a new mother.

Of course those discount yule cookies will keep. They've been digging them out of the warehouse for years, says our resident shopper.

The patter of little feet overhead is either Santa or squirrels in the attic.

Stopping the clock won't give you more time to shop, but failing to tear off old calendar leaves will give you an illusion of time to spare as the yuletide draws nearer.

About this time each year, even nonhunters are ready to declare an open season on that partridge in a pear tree.

Now is the time for all good men to mail those yule cards found in the pocket of the storm coat they haven't worn since last winter.

If you tell it like it is, they'll never accept your script based on a best-seller.

GROWING OLDER

Harold Blumenfeld Beware the winter chill

By Harold Blumenfeld

It's time for another warning to keep warm when the thermometer drops.

Hypothermia, an illness resulting from exposure to cold weather, affects people of all ages. But those over 65 are most susceptible. And the chill can kill.

In recent years, doctors have learned more about this once mysterious malady. They are now diagnosing and treating it.

Unfortunately, however, symptoms of hypothermia often aren't felt or detected early enough.

As we grow older, our body's ability to regulate its own temperature decreases.

The body's normal response when chilled is for blood vessels near the skin surface to constrict to reduce heat loss. The visible results are pale skin and shivering. The skin temperature often drops - though not necessarily the body temperature.

Victims of accidental hypothermia don't shiver. Neither does their skin turn pale. There is no warning of a chill, though their body temperatures may drop as low as 95 degrees.

It doesn't have to be freezing weather for hypothermia to affect many older people. A moderate temperature of 60 degrees can cause loss of body heat.

Those with medical problems such as circulatory diseases, diabetes, chronic heart trouble, kidney failure and malnutrition are especially vulnerable.

The best preventive medicine is to keep warm. The desire to conserve fuel may cause older people to keep their thermostats too low for comfort - and good health. Don't risk it!

Probably the best advice for potential hypothermia victims is to remain indoors when it's cold and windy outside. Wear warm clothing to guard against indoor chill.

Although there will be no shortage of heating fuel this winter, its cost can be prohibitive to those living on small incomes. You can reduce your heating costs by shutting off some of the rooms in your home that are not used regularly.

If you run out of fuel, move in with relatives or friends. Don't brave your cold home alone.

Your body won't tell you the chill is dangerous, and you might become another hypothermia statistic. About 2.3 million older Americans

- one-tenth of the aging population - could be vulnerable to this disease.

You can't be a shut-in all winter, though. Sometimes you may have to leave your home even when it's cold and windy outside. Instead of one heavy, thick garment, wear layers of light, loose clothing.

Wear a hat or other warm head covering. It's estimated that 90 percent of the body's heat loss results from an unprotected head.

It's a fallacy to think a shot of liquor - because of its initial warming sensation - is a good way to combat the outside cold. That slug of booze expands the surface blood vessels, which will bring about a greater loss of body heat.

To learn more about hypothermia, write to the Public Health Service, National Institutes of Health, Washington, D.C. 20014. Ask for DHEW Publication No. NIH 78-1464, "A Winter Hazard for the Old: Accidental Hypothermia."

thoughts

The first European convert of Paul was a woman, Lydia. She lived in Philippi and was probably wealthy, as she sold purple dyed goods. After she and her household were baptized, she invited Paul and his companions to stay at her house, which they did. After Paul and Silas were imprisoned and released, they visited her again.

"And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us: whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul." - Acts 16:14 bureaucracies, its chief should be heavily endowed with either administrative skills or the ability effectively to elégate housekeeping responsibilities.

Alexander M. Haig Jr. has all of that. A long military career has schooled him in both defense and foreign affairs. As NATO commander, he administered a multinational military establishment that can all too easily be distracted by dissension from its mutual defense goals. In the process, he won the respect of the European allies, a minor asset for an administration in which the cohesiveness of the alliance is expected to be one of the most pressing challenges.

It also helps if a foreign policy director who must deal with power centers at home as well as abroad is something of a politician. Haig is that. His military career, while including battlefield experience in Vietnam, has accentuated a political. He has been closely associated with a series of power figures, from Douglas MacArthur to Henry Kissinger and Richard Nixon.

Who is where the controversy comes in. As the White House chief of staff, Haig was deeply involved in the final stages of the Vergate debacle. His return to a prominent position quickens memories of a period many Americans, in the public large and in official Washington, might prefer to put behind them. It could mean a confirmation battle which administration might feel confident enough of winning, with the assist of the Senate's w Republican majority, at the price of lingering bitterness.

Haig's view is no secret. In his statements, before Congress and elsewhere, he repeatedly has urged great aggressiveness and boldness in American initiatives.

As an activist approach to problems. How this translates into specific policies for the future to determine. But it does promise the will be no nonentity at State but a force to be reckoned with in the administration of a president who can be outspoken in his views on foreign policy but is short on actual experience.

Which brings us to yet another qualification state outweighing all others.

The secretary of state must be the man I president wants.

Shuttle Guild Reignite U.S. Space Interest

HOUSTON (AP) - Sen. Harrison E. Schmidt, N.M., believes a success space shuttle orbital flight would get the nation's space program going again.

"I don't see any other type of event that could prove the type of catalytic activity that would give a new administration the opportunity to say let's go," Schmidt told Johnson Space Center employees Wednesday night.

Schmitt was one of the first astronauts to explore the moon.

The senator said the Soviet Union has not been idle in eight years since he returned from the moon.

"With vastly inferior technology, but with significantly more will and purpose, they have continued to gain experience on this new ocean of space."

Schmitt said he will ask President-elect Reagan to develop a large American station in space, "one that is permanent, one that would operate permanently and could be utilized in a large variety of activities."

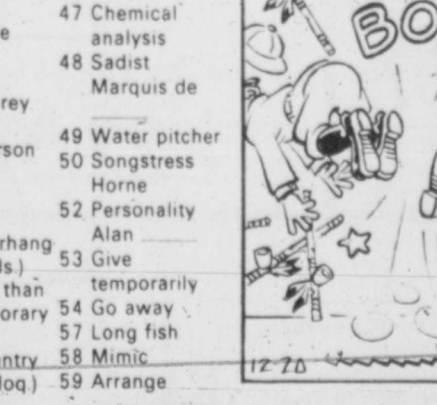

There is no technical barrier to settlements on the moon or on Mars, he said, adding that many of the children of the adults he addressed "may someday want to live permanently on another planetary body."

Mandarin Chinese is spoken as a principal language by more people than any other world language, an estimated 660 million.
