Q—In Sunday's varsity football write-up, the SDN states that the Tigers' 55 points beat a record of 54 points held by the 1988 football team. Didn't Snyder score 61 against Big Spring in 1975 or 1976?

A—What the article was referring to was the most points scored by a David Baugh-coached Snyder varsity team. Last Friday's 55 against Kermit topped the 54 scored in 1988 against Seminole. And yes, it was in 1975 that Snyder scored 61 points — not against Big Spring, but against Andrews. The most points ever scored by a Snyder varsity football team was in 1942, when the Tigers put up 89 against Fluvanna.

White Buffalo activities set from early morning 'til late

By Amy Odum
Contributing Reporter

From morning until late in the evening, Saturday's White Buffalo Days is planned to be non-stop entertainment.

A parade, dance, banquet, exhibitions and lots of music, story telling and cowboy poetry are key attractions centered around the unveiling of a new white buffalo statue on the north west corner of the courthouse square.

Judy Hays, the granddaughter of J. Wright Moorar, and Tumbleweed Smith will formally unveil the buffalo replica, which was created by Lubbock artist and former Snyder resident Dr. Robert Taylor.

Shops around the square will open about 9 a.m. and the celebration will officially begin at 10 o'clock with a "Parade of History." The unveiling of the new white buffalo begins at 11 o'clock.

Brud Boren and Franklin Pruitt will speak. Boren, longtime former chairman of the Scurry County Historical Commission, was largely responsible for placing the first white buffalo statue on the square. Pruitt was a long-time teacher and Snyder High School and Western Texas College.

Indians from the family of Quannah Parker, an acquaintance of Moorar, will perform a special ceremony near the white buffalo as the unveiling ceremony ends.

Alibi was made up, woman now admits

HOUSTON (AP) — An alibi that might have taken one of the nation's most notorious serial killers off death row fell apart Tuesday when a woman admitted she made it up.

Henry Lee Lucas has been convicted of 13 murders in Texas and Florida but faces death for only one, the Halloween-night killing of a Texas hitchhiker in 1979.

On Monday, Lucas' lawyer said a woman claiming to be Becky Powell, another of Lucas' murder victims, had come forward to say she was alive and was with Lucas in Florida when the Texas victim was killed.

But on Tuesday, attorney Vic Feazell said he confronted the woman with a 1971 high school yearbook picture that identified her as someone else.

"She cried and admitted to me that she is not Becky Powell, that she is Phyllis Wilcox and that this whole thing was fabricated by her," Feazell said.

She made it up, Feazell said, because she loves Lucas.

"I know I have done something terribly wrong," Ms. Wilcox told KVUE-TV in Austin.

"I now understand how easy it is to be misled when you are dealing with these Henry Lucas cases," Feazell said. "I understand now how it could have happened to the Texas Rangers. ... Now I feel I owe them an apology."

Feazell, a former district attorney in Waco, has accused the lawyers of shoddy work in investigating Lucas, who once claimed he killed several hundred people.

Lucas, 58, now claims he killed only one person, his mother in 1961. Others who have followed the case over the years say the one-eyed drifter may have killed as many as 100.

Tax notices in the mail

Scurry County residents began receiving their tax statements this week from the county tax collector's office.

For those living within the Snyder Independent School District, taxes will include the school, city, county and college. Those living in the Ira or Hermligh school districts will receive two notices — one for county and college taxes and another from the Scurry County Appraisal District for school taxes.

Taxpayers should also note that they are entitled to a three percent discount on county and college taxes if they are paid in October, a two percent discount in November and a one percent discount in December. Taxes become delinquent if not paid by Feb. 1, 1995, and a penalty will be assessed.

Friday is last chance for voter registration

Friday is the last day to register to vote in the November election.

Voter registration is held in the county clerk's office on the third floor of the courthouse.

Anyone has recently moved needs a new registration card, the clerk's office has reminded. Current voter registration cards are yellow and white.

Election day is Tuesday, Nov. 8.

There are six contested races locally, and several more wider-ranging ones which directly impact Scurry County.

Expected to draw the most interest are races which could impact the future of county government — that of county judge as well as two commissioners' precincts.

In the county judge's race, Republican Ricky Fritz, who unseated incumbent Bob Doolittle in March, is running against Bobby Goodwin.

Goodwin, a former county judge, ran unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Incumbent Precinct 4 Commissioner Jerry Gannaway, who defeated Forrest Wemken in the Democratic primary, faces a challenge from Republican Charlie Henderson in November. Henderson was unopposed in March.

In the other commissioner's race, Republican incumbent Roy Idom, representing Precinct 2, is facing Democrat Wayland Huddleson. Both were unopposed in the primary.

County Treasurer Charlie Bell won in the Democratic primary and now faces Republican Janet Merritt in November. Merritt was unopposed in the primary.

There are two other contested races in the county. For district clerk, Republican Polly Wadleigh Echols is running against Democratic incumbent Elois Pruitt. And for Precinct 1 constable, Democrat Jimmy Wilson faces independent Bill Adams.

Running unopposed in November are Democrats Frances Billingsley for county clerk, Charlie Reynolds for peace justice of Precinct 1 and John David Williamson for peace justice of Precinct 2.

Other races of local note include:

—State Representative for District 70, featuring Democratic incumbent David Counts against Republican Wilma Hogan;

—State Senator for District 30, incumbent Democrat Steven A. Carraker against Republican Tom Haywood; —District 17 U.S. Congressman Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, against Phil Boone, of Abilene.

—The state governor's race with Democratic incumbent Ann Richards being challenged by George W. Bush.

Early voting will be held Oct. 19 through Nov. 4.

Two are arrested under indictment

Monday's grand jury indictments led to the arrest of two more individuals Tuesday.

Sheriff's deputies arrested 38-year-old Javier Medina Martinez of 2002 Ave. O on indictments for bribery and providing a prohibited substance in a correctional facility. Martinez was taken into custody at 5:16 p.m.

He is charged with the Aug. 2 offense of providing currency to a Price Daniel Unit correctional officer Jim Cerda Torres, and with an Aug. 3 offense of providing marijuana to inmate David Medina Martinez.

Torres, who was arrested Tuesday morning, was also indicted on counts of bribery and providing a prohibited substance in a correctional facility. Both men are being held on $15,000 bond each — $5,000 on the bribery charges and $10,000 on the charges of making marijuana available to an inmate.

David Martinez, Juan Martin Cano and Randy Villa Pedroza — all Price Daniel inmates — were also indicted Monday. David Martinez was indicted for bribery and possession of a controlled substance and Cano and Pedroza were both indicted for possession.

Also arrested Tuesday was 20-year-old Ruben Garza. Garza, of 905 27th St., was indicted for burglary of a building. The offense occurred on Jan. 14. He is being held on $5,000 bond.

Santos Gutierrez Jr., 21, of 2807 Ave. Q was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Gutierrez is charged with stealing a vehicle on Sept. 24. He is being held on $5,000 bond.

One other individual was indicted but is still at large.

48 are dead in mass suicide

CHEIRY, Switzerland (AP) — The bodies of 48 members of a religious sect, many with plastic bags tied over their heads and their hands clasped in prayer, were found today in an apparent mass suicide.

Police discovered the bodies in the smoking ruins of a farm and three ski chalets in southern Switzerland.

Twenty-three bodies, all of which were found at a farm in the canton of Fribourg, northeast of Geneva, police said. One man was in the farmhouse with a bullet wound to the head, and 21 others were in a concealed underground chapel lined with mirrors, where they had apparently suffocated themselves with plastic bags, police said. Another body was found in a separate building.

Some of the victims in the chapel, which was reached by a door hidden behind paneling in a barn, were wearing red, white and black ceremonial robes, said Beat Carlen, the Fribourg police spokesman. Two women were wearing gold robes. One couple was in an embrace.

Carlen said some sort of altar was found in the chapel.

The bodies were discovered by police in the morning at a farm and three ski chalets.

rate building. The bodies of 25 more victims, including several children discovered lying next to each other, were found in three chalets in a ski area at Les Granges in Valais canton, 45 miles southeast of Geneva.

The victims at the farm were adults, and French, Swiss and Canadian passports were found among the bodies, said Albert Torche, a neighbor. He told The Associated Press the farm was bought about three years ago by a group that said it wanted to do biological research.

Police said they were assuming the deaths were a mass suicide by a religious sect called the Cross and Rose. It was unclear if the group was related to the Rosicrucians, a centuries-old secret society with beliefs in occult lore and power.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "No matter how busy, people are never too busy to stop and talk about how busy they are."

A national poll clearly reveals that Americans are more cynical and less compassionate than they were seven years ago.

Results of the survey portray a nation filled with resentments and anxieties, cynicism toward all government, hostilities and suspicions.

It's not a pretty picture. While there is plenty of blame to spread around, we can't help but believe that the proliferation of talk shows has been a major force in the shift toward negative attitudes.

An essay we received in the mail may reveal part of the problem. Perhaps most of us American are spoiled. The essay was entitled, "Remember When?"

Remember when: --an office call to the doctor was two dollars?

--Castor oil was about the only laxative we had? --It rained and we would set a bucket outside to catch the water to wash our hair in because we didn't have water softener in those days?

--We couldn't afford toilet tissue? (Thank goodness for the Sears-Roebuck catalogues.) --We wouldn't dare call our church pastor by his first name?

--We didn't have an ice box, so we would put a bowl of Jello outside to jell? (Only in winter, of course.)

--We walked to and from school? --Lady Ester was the most used face powder and it didn't come in shades?

--The leading perfume was Evening in Paris and Ben Hur?

--Our first permanent wave cost $1.50 and it took nearly all day? Some people call 'em the good old days. But even with all of the obvious problems faced by society today, honest folks can still find a bunch of reasons to be positive.

finesse of the club jack, if East switches to a heart, you will guess which finesse to take next.

All quite reasonable, but there is a better line available. After winning trick one and drawing trumps (keeping a spade honor in the dummy), you should cash dummy's A-K of clubs. If the 10 or queen appears, you are safe. If not, you take two more diamond tricks, finishing in hand. Now lead your last club toward dummy's J-9.

If West has the queen or if the suit breaks 3-3, you are home. If neither happens, you still have the heart finesse to fall back on.

Note finally that many pairs would reach six spades by North, following a transfer bid from South. This contract dies with the given distribution if East leads a heart. Even though I have faith in transfer bids, I believe nothing works all the time.

Which faith is that?

H.L. Mencken defined faith as "an illogical belief in the occurrence of the improbable." In some cases, I would change improbable to impossible. But in bridge, if you have faith in the percentages, you have a logical belief in the occurrence of the probable.

In today's deal, looking only at the North-South hands, how would you plan the play in six spades after West has led the diamond jack?

North's four clubs is an advance cue-bid, showing a good raise to four spades with the club ace.

Maybe you planned to cash the club ace before taking two club finesses. As long as one of them works — which will happen three-quarters of the time — you will have a discard for your heart queen. Or, after taking a losing

MCGRUFF TRUCKS — TU Electric trucks equipped with telephones or two-way radios are now designated as McGruff Trucks. This new program, launched Wednesday throughout the state, provides a safe haven for children in trouble who may now

TU Electric joins city McGruff program

McGruff the Crime Dog has begun riding shotgun on TU Electric trucks in a program with law enforcement agencies to help protect children.

TU Electric announced that it will implement the McGruff Truck Program (R) in partnership with law enforcement agencies throughout its service area, which includes Snyder.

The program sets up safe havens for children by putting McGruff decals on approved utility vehicles with two-way communication. The utility employee will call the local law enforcement agency for a child who needs help. "We'll Call For Help" is the message of the McGruff Truck

Program. McGruff is a symbol recognized by 99 percent of children nationwide as the dog who helps "Take a Bite Out of Crime." Decals of McGruff with its detective-style trench coat will be placed on more than 1,500 TU Electric service vehicles in 372 cities in 88 counties in North Central, East and West Texas, making it the largest McGruff Truck program of any utility company in the U.S.

TU Electric implemented the McGruff Truck Program because of a growing concern about child safety in the cities it serves and interest from law enforcement agencies.

"We are excited about this program and the contribution it will make in the communities we are privileged to serve," said TU Electric manager Daryl Thomas. "We're out in the neighborhoods in highly visible vehicles, making us natural partners in the community effort," Thomas said.

Through school and school programs, children will be told how to signal a McGruff-marked vehicle in emergencies. They would alert a McGruff Truck by waving both arms above their head and yelling "help."

A child who is alone and might need assistance from a McGruff Truck if lost, frightened by a stranger or other incident, threatened by bigger children or injured.

TU Electric will be reinforcing the information with a video and classroom posters, which will be sent to elementary schools throughout its service area over the next few weeks. The program is also explained in the company's October electric bill insert.

According to law enforcement agencies in other areas that have McGruff Trucks, they have been effective deterrents to potential troublemakers preying on children.

However, utility employees who work from a McGruff Truck are not crime-fighters. Their role is to call for appropriate emergency assistance when signaled for help by a child, and to remain with the child until emergency help arrives.

McGruff Truck is a program of the National Crime Prevention Council. It is a companion to the McGruff House and other McGruff crime protection programs operated in conjunction with law enforcement and taught in many schools. McGruff Truck was begun in 1991.

Companies participating in the program are carefully screened and must adhere to strict guidelines for McGruff-marked vehicles. Only government or publicly regulated utility companies with clearly identified vehicles are considered for the program, McGruff Truck is presently being used by 51 utility companies, involving more than 15,000 vehicles in 14 states.

A Bright Spot In Our Hometown! Bill Eiland

Bill Eiland keeps his civic dues paid in full. In fact, the rancher-banker has a credit balance.

Eiland was born in Stanton and moved to Scurry County when he was six years old. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Eiland, moved to Scurry County on Christmas eve in 1906 from Hunt County.

Bill's mother, Alice, came to Scurry County from Denton County in 1908. Horace and Alice were married on Aug. 20, 1922 in Sweetwater. Bill was their only child, but the Eilands also reared a foster son, J.R. Meadows who also lives in Scurry County.

Mr. Eiland believed in hard work, honesty and treating others with respect. Bill Eiland was taught and learned those lesson well.

After graduating from Snyder High School, Bill Eiland served in the U.S. Navy on the USS Prairie AD15 in the South Pacific during World War II.

After the war, Bill returned to West Texas and entered Texas Tech where he was active in the rodeo association. Bill earned a degree in agriculture in 1950 and returned to Snyder.

Bill's father had owned the Ford dealership in Snyder since 1932. The dealership also sold Dodge and Plymouth cars, but switched to Chevrolet in 1952. He sold the dealership, Scurry County Motor Company, in 1952. The father-son team of Horace and Bill purchased the Oldsmobile-Cadillac agency in 1954 which they operated until 1960.

It was in 1950, right after the oil boom had begun in Scurry County, that West Texas State Bank was organized. Horace Eiland was an original director, and Bill worked briefly in the bank and in 1955 became a member of its board of directors.

Bill Eiland continues as an active director and is a vice president (inactive).

Bill Eiland remains an active rancher with operations at the Eiland Ranch in Borden County and at the Cross L Ranch at Dermott. He has raised quarter horses for more than 30 years.

A past deacon of the First Baptist Church, Bill and his wife, Mary, are now members of Colonial Hill Baptist Church and Bill is a member of the Men's Early Morning Sunday School Class. He is a member of the Scurry County Masonic Lodge No. 706 and is a Shriner.

Currently, Bill serves as president of the Snyder Country Club, a position he also held back in the 1950s. He served on the Snyder City council in the 1950s and then served nine years on the Snyder Independent School District board of trustees, including the post of board president.

In the early days of the Little League program in Snyder, Bill Eiland coached the Little League Cubs along with Fred Bullard. His family includes his wife, Mary; three daughters, Martha Martin of Snyder, Carol Eiland of Snyder, Susan Smith of Houston; and a son, Jay Eiland of Irving.

Snyder National Bank is pleased to call Bill Eiland a neighbor and friend — a true bright spot in our hometown.

Ex-smoker needs a medical exam

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've smoked a pack of cigarettes a day for about 30 years. I recently stopped smoking and have noticed a shortness of breath. Is this normal while my lungs attempt to adjust?

DEAR READER: Congratulations on your decision to stop smoking. However, shortness of breath is not a consequence of smoking cessation. More likely, you are inadvertently being more physically active and are suffering a previously unrecognized consequence of your heavy cigarette consumption: namely, emphysema, a chronic lung disease marked by an inability to absorb enough oxygen from the air. On that other hand, the cigarettes may have left you with chronic bronchitis (inflammation of the bronchial linings); this may improve with time.

The most ominous possibility is that your smoking has led to a pulmonary growth. A few weeks ago, I saw a patient who had discontinued smoking several years before. He came to me for shortness of breath. A chest X-ray revealed a lung tumor.

I'm not suggesting that this is your problem, but in a smoker (or ex-smoker), the risk of serious lung disorders, including emphysema, is very real and very high. Therefore, I urge you to be examined by your family doctor, who will probably X-ray your lungs and may schedule you for pulmonary function studies, breathing tests that diagnose emphysema.

In most cases, the only adjustment the lungs make to smoking cessation is a sigh of relief: Breathing gets better, maybe as much as 30 percent better. Equally important, the progression of emphysema is arrested once a person stops smoking. Don't delay; get to your doctor.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there a code of ethics or rules and regulations that prohibit doctors from leaving their prescription pads in an examining room? Patients are usually left alone while waiting for the doctor to arrive and it's such a temptation.

DEAR READER: You bet it is. And it's more than a temptation for addicts, who would just as soon steal a prescription pad as shake your hand. Any physician who leaves his prescription pad in plain view is eventually going to find that pad missing because an unscrupulous "patient" will forge a prescription to obtain drugs illegally.

While there is no ethical regulation prohibiting doctors from leaving prescription pads in the examining room, the smart physicians don't do it.

Bush wants tougher laws on domestic violence cases

HOUSTON (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush has urged that people arrested on domestic violence complaints be kept in custody longer.

Police should be able to hold domestic violence offenders for 24 hours, rather than four hours as now, he said.

"A longer holding period will allow the victim time to relocate or seek help, and give the offender more time to calm down," he said.

Also, Bush called for tougher sanctions for violations of temporary protective orders and recommended that repeat offenders be subject to felony charges instead of misdemeanors.

"We need to put teeth in protective orders," he said. "We need to make a violation of a protective order protecting one spouse from another a criminal offense and not a civil offense."

"Texas must act to send the message to people who feel like abusing their spouse is their right, that we won't accept it in our society."

Figures from the Texas Council on Family Violence cited by the Bush campaign put the number of domestic violence incidents in the state last year at 155,767. That compared with 124,373 in 1991.

"There's no question a child exposed to domestic violence is one likely to go out and commit additional crimes when they get older," Bush said. "It just reinforces that criminal behavior is OK, that beating up your wife is OK, that violence is an acceptable way of life."

The Republican accused incumbent Ann Richards of accepting the status quo.

"One of the things the governor of Texas can do is to highlight this issue, to make it clear to the police departments of the state of Texas that this is an important focus of criminal justice," Bush said. "Another thing we can do is change the laws."

"All I point to is if the status quo is to continue, it sends a wrong signal on domestic violence. Gov. Richards has been in office for four years and nothing has been done to change the law and I intend to do so."

Richards spokesman Chuck McDonald said the governor had been fighting the problem of domestic violence ever since she was a Travis County commissioner, when she was instrumental in helping start a battered women's center.

Dear Abby

Infant's Quiet Death Serves As Loud Warning to Parents

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Since so many people read your column, I can't think of a better way to get the word out.

Three years ago, we had a beautiful son. We named him Adam. When he was about 7 months old, I bought him a stuffed bear (about six inches in size). It never entered my mind that something so small, soft and cuddly could be so deadly.

Somehow, during the night, Adam removed the ribbon from around the bear's neck (the ribbon was approximately 6 inches long and a quarter of an inch wide), put it in his mouth and suffocated. He was unable to cry for help because the ribbon apparently balled up and rested on his larynx. We found him early the next morning when we went to give him his bottle.

Our efforts to work with the Consumer Product Safety Commission were fruitless. Evidently, manufacturing laws are expensive to fight and next to impossible to change. We were told that the bear was an import, and therefore was one of the millions of items sold in this country which are hard to regulate. We were distressed to learn that the same country that does so much to save premature babies, handicapped children, etc. — at any cost — would do so little to protect children from such a tragic death.

Please warn your readers that it is up to them to check all toys they purchase for their children, as well as gifts they may receive.

Our friends, and even our pediatrician, were surprised that such a terrible thing could happen. They relayed their concern and told us that Adam's death made them "aware." We hope to reach as many other people as possible. Although it is not a common problem, even one child is one too many to lose in such a horrible and senseless way.

We can never replace our son, but if this letter can prevent that tragedy from happening again, we will feel that Adam did not die in vain.

HEARTBROKEN IN UTAH

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Thank you for your generosity in warning other parents about the tragic accident that took your precious Adam. I have read about button eyes on stuffed animals becoming detached and posing a danger to infants and toddlers, but who would think that a ribbon 6 inches long and a quarter of an inch wide would ball up and kill an infant?

Your letter is a timely reminder for parents to examine toys for anything that could become detached and obstruct a windpipe, injure an eye or break the skin.

DEAR ABBY: I was amused by those Ph.D.s who insisted on being called "Doctor."

My father put the whole matter in proper perspective when I became a corporate vice president at a relatively early age.

He reminded me that the number of people who come to my funeral would probably depend on how hard it is raining at the time.

My wife was even more humbling — unintentionally, I'm sure. Upon leaving for the office on my first day as a vice president, she called out to me (loudly), "Don't forget to take out the garbage, John!"

JOHN G. IN FLORIDA

DEAR JOHN: Lucky you. Between your father and your wife, they will keep you humble.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FALLING APART: Obviously W.C. Fields reached the same conclusion. He once joked: "If I had known I was going to live this long, I would have taken better care of myself."

To receive a collection of Abby's most memorable — and most frequently requested — poems and essays, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's "Keepers," P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never Known To Fail)

O most beautiful flower of Mount Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me here you are my mother. O Holy Mary Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to secure me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. O Mary conceived without sin pray for us who have recourced to thee (3 times). Holy Mary, I place this cause in your hands (3 times). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you. — Fermin Garza

40 years for theft of drugs

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) —

A former Beaumont police lieutenant has been sentenced to prison for stealing 350 pounds of cocaine from a department's evidence vault last year.

Michael R. Siebe was sentenced to 40 years in a federal prison for illegally possessing cocaine with intent to distribute.

U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher of Beaumont also sentenced Siebe to a concurrent 20-year term for money laundering.

Siebe, 44, of Buna, pleaded guilty on July 5 to those charges, plus criminal forfeiture. He could have been sentenced to life imprisonment.

He admitted that he stole the cocaine and converted it to cash, then stashed $407,000 in the safe of a Spring bank last Oct. 7.

Siebe has agreed to surrender to authorities about $1.25 million in cash found around his home and in assorted vehicles, trailers and other hiding places, U.S. Attorney Mike Bradford said.

Fisher also fined Siebe $25,000 and ordered him to serve 5 years of probation upon completion of his prison term.

Siebe's June arrest resulted from a seven-month FBI investigation into the missing cocaine.

Siebe was the Beaumont police narcotics chief when the drugs were seized on Interstate 10 in November 1992 from a truck driven by two Colombian men.

Police said then the seizure was the biggest highway drug bust ever in southeast Texas.

Siebe took the cocaine from a police evidence vault in June 1993, prosecutors said.

The disappearance was not discovered until last October, two months after Siebe had been reassigned as a lieutenant in the field operations unit.

Siebe resigned his post in June after 14 years on the Beaumont police force.

Siebe attempted suicide twice after his arrest June 24.

Lady Tigers take sole possession of second

Rallies in game 2 to beat S'water

All other volleyball games put aside, last night's matchup between Snyder and Sweetwater was a must win for the Lady Tigers.

With the first half of the regular season coming to a close on Saturday, Snyder has positioned itself in second place, just in time to make a run at the playoffs.

The Lady Tigers (14-13 (3-1)) defeated the Lady Mustangs 15-11, 15-12 at Sweetwater, but the win did not come easily for Snyder.

Down 12-4 in the second game, the Lady Tigers fought back with two straight aces from Bianca Rocha, then after exchanging possessions, Sterling Cave notched service point winners on points 7-13 to give the momentum and the lead back to Snyder, 13-12.

After sideouts by both teams, Joannie Wemken served up point number 14. Snyder, then faulted, giving Sweetwater one more chance at winning the game, but the Lady Mustangs could not capitalize. The Lady Tigers won the game on the next serve when Kelly Clay put the game away with an ace.

Head coach Patty Grimmert was proud of the way her team battled back to win the game.

"It was amazing," she said. "They (her players) got one point at a time and they didn't quit."

"This team has a lot of fight. They really impressed me with their play last night."

Grimmert attributes her team's quick start in district to the fact that her team has not had to deal with the pressure of being the team to beat.

"Nobody had us picked to be here (in second place)," she said. "I knew we would do well in district because of the youth and potential of this team."

"I would much rather be the underdog in the district, than the favorite."

The Lady Tigers take this weekend off, before preparing for their rematch against District 5-4A leader, Levelland, on Oct. 11.

Senior setter Sterling Cave led the Lady Tigers with 12 service point winners, 3 of which were aces.

Also scoring for Snyder were Joannie Wemken who had 9 points and 3 aces and Trisha McGrew who scored 4 points, 2 of which were aces. Kelly Clay notched 3 points, including the match winner, and 2 aces and Bianca Rocha scored 2 points, both of which were aces.

Edwina Brooks and Kelly Clay each had 7 kills for the Lady Tigers and Tiffany Garza had 2.

In other volleyball action, the junior varsity claimed a three game win over Sweetwater 11-15, 15-12, 16-14.

Scoring for the Lady Tigers were Brandi Cortez, who led the team with 14 service points, and Sharon Gulseth, who had 6 point. Tyra Brooks, Darla Blackwell and Shawna Purcell each had 5 points and Monie Pena and Joy Bastow scored 4 points apiece.

Snyder's freshmen team also defeated Sweetwater, 15-11, 15-7.

Leading the way were Shanna Fisk and Shea Seaton, who each had 9 service point winners. Brooke French, Amanda Huff and Lila King each had 3 points and Jennifer Seabourn had 2 points. Michelle Lewallen rounded out the Lady Tigers scoring with 1 point in the victory.

Robinson & Morenz SWC players of week

AUSTIN (AP) — Baylor safety Adrian Robinson used to think like a quarterback. Now, he plays safety like he knows what the quarterback is thinking.

Robinson, a junior, has seven interceptions in the last nine games for Baylor, the last one helping the Bears (4-1 overall, 1-0 Southwest Conference) knock off Texas Christian (2-3, 0-2) on Saturday.

The Horned Frogs had cut a 21-0 deficit to 21-10 and were driving inside the Baylor 20 yard line in the third quarter when Robinson stepped in front of an off-balance pass by TCU quarterback Max Knake and raced 89 yards for a touchdown.

The play was keyed by a strong pass rush and a crunching block on Knake by defensive end Charles Horton after the interception. The Bears, who were never seriously threatened after the score, went on to a 42-18 victory.

For his efforts, Robinson, who also had nine tackles in the game, has been named the Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

Green beats White in annual WTC game

Wilson leads Green team to 75-60 win

By TODD STANLEY
SDN Sports Editor

WTC's Lady Westerners kicked off their 1994 season with a Green and White intersquad scrimmage Tuesday night at the WTC gym.

The Green team, coached by WTC assistant Chad Welsh, defeated the White team 75-60.

Lady Westerners head coach Brenda Welch-Nichols was pleased with the effort exhibited by both teams.

"Some of our players really came out of their shells tonight," she said. "They all worked hard and played as a team."

"It's nice to see that the players can come out without a real game plan and look like a team. We've been preaching teamwork to the players and tonight they really responded."

Sophomore Tammy Wilson led the way for the Green team with 17 points on the night, while Jackie Wright had 15 points, including two three-pointers, to lead the White team.

"The teams were evenly matched," Nichols said. "In the first part of the game both teams bucket for bucket."

"The reason the white team fell behind was that they were rushing their shots and that caused them to make mistakes. The Green team was able to capitalize on those mistakes."

The Green team had a comfortable 16 point lead halftime lead, 35-19 and was able to hold off the White team for the remainder of the game to post a 15 point win.

Christy Cates and Ericka Thompson each had 14 points for the Green squad, while Donna Carrell posted up for 13 points on the night. Penny Glenn scored 10 points and Snyder's Annie Ragland had 7 points.

Diane Garate poured in 13 points for the White team and Myra Williams added 12 points. Carri Moss had 9 points, April Reeves had 7, and Diane Ezernack scored 6 points.

The White team was coached by WTC assistant Deanna Ball.

Talk of basketball lockout gets louder

NEW YORK (AP) — With the major league baseball season already canceled because of a strike and hockey players locked out, talk of an NBA lockout is getting louder.

So it's no wonder the NBA's unsettled labor situation dominates the agenda of today's owners meeting, overshadowing proposed rules and ownership changes the Board of Governors is considering.

The league, which has never had a work stoppage, has tried to squelch the lockout talk, saying it hopes things won't come to that.

But with the NBA and its players far apart on several major issues, can pro basketball do any better than baseball and hockey in the labor department?

"I feel optimistic," NBA deputy commissioner Russ Granik said. "I still think the track record between the union and management has been good. I don't have any reason to think that won't continue."

Just as in baseball and hockey, however, what the owners want and what the players want in a new agreement are two very different sets of things.

The players' union wants to eliminate the salary cap, restrictions on free agency and the college draft and get a larger share of revenues.

The owners want to close loopholes in the current salary cap, such as contract clauses that allow players to become restricted free agents after one year and balloon payments at the end of contracts. The league also would like to see restrictions on rookie salaries, and it insists on continuing the draft.

The players association has challenged the legality of the cap, draft and right of first refusal for free agency, alleging antitrust violations. The players lost a court decision in July, but appealed and are awaiting a ruling before returning to the bargaining table.

However, that ruling isn't expected until the middle of the month, leaving about two weeks before the start of the season to hammer out a deal.

"We have plenty of impetus to want to make a new deal and continue our growth," Granik said.

If matters aren't resolved by then, the league could press for players to take a no-strike pledge, ensuring the season could proceed without threat of interruption.

"That's not anything we're focusing on now," Granik said. "It's too early, to think about that."

Ethics blunders taking toll on administration

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Clinton, who made ethics in government a major campaign issue and promised an administration as diverse as America, is in a dilemma on both counts. Ethical blunders are claiming more and more of the people he brought into his government. And with nearly every personnel change he makes, his administration is looking less like America and more like the Washington establishment. The dilemma intensified this week when Agriculture Secretary

Mike Espy resigned — effective Dec. 31 — in the face of allegations he improperly accepted gifts. A second Cabinet member, Housing and Urban Development Secretary Henry Cisneros, is embroiled in a controversy over payments to a former mistress. While there is no indication yet that Cisneros is in as much trouble as Espy, the possibility of his resignation raises the specter of Clinton losing two minority members of his Cabinet. Espy is black and Cisneros is Hispanic. Espy's resignation announcement came a little more than a week after an abortive effort to place Dee Dee Myers — the highest-profile woman on the White House staff — as press secretary with a white man. Earlier, questionable handling of Whitewater inquiries led to the resignations of Roger Altman as deputy Treasury secretary, Jean Hanson as Treasury general counsel and Bernard Nussbaum as White House counsel. Webb Hubbell, the former associate attorney general, quit to deal with allegations that he overbilled the Little Rock, Ark., law firm where he had been a partner with Hillary Rodham Clinton. And David Watkins, former White House director of administration, resigned after disclosures that he hopped a presidential helicopter for a golf outing.

Georgetown University who specializes in the presidency. "It really has been a very steep learning curve for this administration." The handling of the Espy case shows the experienced hand of both Panetta and Mikva. And it enabled Panetta to win back some of the prestige he lost with the bungled replacement of Myers — in which Clinton overruled him and promoted Myers instead of reassigning her as Panetta had wanted. The White House took pains to make it clear that Espy, a friend and longtime political ally of Clinton, had been pressured by the White House to leave — and that it was Panetta who applied the pressure. The White House even volunteered additional information damaging to Espy, disclosing that a foundation run by Tyson Foods, the large Arkansas-based poultry and dairy company, had given Espy's girlfriend a $1,200 scholarship. The ethics issue is a particularly sensitive one for Clinton, given questions raised about the his and his wife's investment in the Whitewater land development project in Arkansas while he was governor and other business dealings — all the subject of an ongoing independent counsel's investigation. Furthermore, Clinton himself has long political ties to the president of Tyson Foods, Don Tyson. And the company's general counsel, James Blair, helped Mrs. Clinton turn a $1,000 stake in risky cattle futures into a $100,000 profit in the late 1970s.

Northern Ireland adversaries debate differences on TV

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bitter enemies in Northern Ireland, Gerry Adams and Ken Maginnis sat side by side on U.S. television. Irish nationalist Adams portrayed himself as a peacemaker. British loyalist Maginnis rejected him as a terrorist.

"I want to see a permanent peace," Adams said during an appearance Tuesday with Maginnis on CNN's "Larry King Live" program.

But Adams, president of Sinn Fein, a legal political party allied with the outlawed Irish Republican Army, maintained his steadfast refusal to declare that the IRA's cease-fire in Northern Ireland should be permanent.

He said that since the IRA declared an end to its military campaign on Aug. 31, a number of Roman Catholics have been killed. "From the republican point of view, the gun is out of nationalist politics," he said. "The gun is not out of Irish politics."

The IRA, which draws support from a 25-year guerrilla war to oust the British from Northern Ireland, where Protestants are in the majority. The fighting has left more than 3,000 people dead.

Maginnis, a leader of the Ulster Unionist Party, a Protestant party that wants to continue British rule, said the IRA is "sitting on over 100 tons of arms. How on earth do you trust them?"

Rejecting negotiations with Adams, Maginnis said, "I can't talk to terrorists."

Throughout their 45-minute debate, Adams insisted that "I want to live in peace" with Maginnis.

The unionist leader said the IRA had tried nine times to kill him.

Despite the skepticism of British loyalists in Northern Ireland, the Clinton administration has accepted the IRA case-fire as a sign of hope and welcomed Adams to the United States for a two-week visit.

President Clinton on Monday ended the ban on official contacts with IRA officials and on Tuesday Adams met at the State Department with John Kornblum, deputy assistant secretary of state for European affairs, Leon Feurth, Vice President Al Gore's national security adviser, and Nancy Soderberg, staff director of the National Security Council. They met for a little over one hour. The State Department described the meeting as "productive and businesslike."

The U.S. side told Adams they welcomed the IRA's cease-fire and expressed appreciation for his role in helping bring it about.

"They expressed the hope and the expectation that the cease-fire will remain irreversible," the statement said.

It added that Adams said Sinn Fein "was committed to pursuing its political objectives by peaceful means."

Adams addressed the National Press Club and declared that "the unionists are my people. I may not agree with them, but they are my people."

"They have as much right to be on the island of Ireland as I have. They have as much right and it is necessary to have their participation in building a new Ireland as I have."

"I am certainly not one of Gerry Adams' people," said Maginnis during their televised debate.

Congress OKs reorganization, insurance bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department will be streamlined and crop insurance overhauled by legislation headed to President Clinton's desk.

One day after the House acted, the Senate on Tuesday by a voice vote passed the two major pieces of farm legislation.

The bills represent legislative victories for outgoing Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy, resigning because of an independent counsel's investigation into his conduct, and for Vice President Al Gore's proposals to streamline the federal government.

The reorganization bill paves the way for Espy to begin reshuffling the Washington headquarters, cutting the number of agencies from 43 to 29 and the number of field offices from 3,700 to 2,600.

A new farmer service agency would combine farm-related programs into one agency that would provide one-stop shopping out in the field for farmers. The administration projects the bill will save $2 billion through 1998, largely by cutting the number of employees by 7,500.

Man's death sentence reversed in Azle case

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today reversed the conviction of a man sentenced to death in the brutal slaying of an 81-year-old widow in Tarrant County.

The court cited a jury selection error in overturning the verdict against Charles Richard Sonion, who was found guilty in the 1988 kidnapping and slaying of Ora Pearson, a neighbor in Azle.

Before Mrs. Pearson died, a handgun was inserted in her vagina and she was shot six times, according to court records. She also was struck in the head and stabbed in the chest.

Her death was caused by a stab wound that cut her aorta above her heart, court records say.

Her body was found in a field. Sonion, who according to prosecutors had confessed, didn't challenge that the evidence supported a guilty verdict. A legal brief filed by the defense said he

The increased activities of the American soldiers came after Michel Francois, the coup leader who masterminded squads of attaches, or army auxiliaries, fled before daybreak Tuesday to the neighboring Dominican Republic. The hasty departure of Francois, whose army auxiliaries were responsible for most of the human rights abuses here, eliminates one of the leaders who might have been an obstacle to the return of exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

The latest U.S. military figures say 95 people, many of them attaches, have been detained and more than 4,000 weapons seized, a military spokesman, David Smith, said today.

Soldiers have worked with Haitians in recent days to identify the homes of suspected army auxiliaries who instilled fear with their harsh crackdown against Aristide supporters.

Aristide was ousted Sept. 30, 1991, in a coup orchestrated by Francois, Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras and Brig. Gen. Philippe Biamby.

Francois, Cedras and Biamby were to leave power under a last-minute agreement negotiated with former President Carter. Cedras, the most visible of the Haitian military leaders, has vowed not to leave the country.

Aristide supporters applauded Francois' departure, and urged the other coup leaders to do the same.

"It is an important step toward the re-establishment of democracy and peace. ... The others (Cedras and Biamby) should follow his example," Port-au-Prince Mayor Evans Paul, an Aristide supporter, said Tuesday.

The U.S. agreement with the Haitian military averted an invasion but paved the way for the arrival of 20,000 U.S. troops to ensure the return of Aristide, Haiti's first democratically elected president.

Aristide told the U.N. General Assembly in a speech Tuesday that he would return home by Oct.

15. The Roman Catholic priest, who has been living in exile in Washington, said he hoped to bring peace to the nation. "We say yes to reconciliation, no to violence, no to vengeance ... yes to justice," Aristide said.

Officers note four arrests

Snyder area law enforcement officers made four arrests and investigated reports of vehicular accidents and theft Tuesday and early this morning. Police arrested a 28-year-old man in the 3600 block of Avenue A at 1:14 this morning for misdemeanor driving while intoxicated. A sheriff's deputy also arrested three men on indictments handed down Monday by a Scurry County grand jury (see page 1).

An employee of Rip Griffin's contacted officers at 2:52 a.m. today to request an attempt to locate two subjects in a dark blue pickup who had left without paying for $18.11 worth of gasoline. They have not been located.

At 8:42 a.m. Tuesday, sheriff's deputies advised that two pigs which had been reported as stolen from the Snyder school ag farm on Sunday have been located and returned.

Police were called to the 100 block of Milburn at 7:57 p.m. Tuesday in reference to a stolen bicycle. One person elected to file a report for Class B theft. Another bicycle had been stolen from the area but the owner declined to file a report.

Police investigated a two-vehicle accident at 12:54 p.m. in the 3700 block of Avondale. Involved were a 1989 Ford Bronco driven by Billy Clayton Riley of 3717 Avondale and a 1984 Chevrolet Suburban driven by Rex Davidson Fields of 3742 Avondale.

Officers worked another mishap in the 500 block of 23rd Street at 2:47 p.m. Involved were a city owned 1985 Ford garbage truck driven by Jack Dale Beall of 2102 40th St. and a 1990 Chevrolet driven by Regina Annette Gutierrez of 122 Milburn.

Activities planned Saturday

A street dance begins on the south side of the square at 7 p.m. The history of Saturday's celebration and unveiling ceremony dates to the 1870s. On Oct. 7, 1876, Mooar and his buffalo hunting party set up camp on Deep Creek about 10 miles northwest of Snyder. Mooar's wagons were said to have been the first to make tracks in Scurry County.

Just before sundown, Mooar saw a rare white buffalo in the midst of a small herd of buffalo. He killed the animal with one shot and saved the hide, which is now preserved in the home of Judy and S.D. Hays. Mooar became a rancher when his hunting days were over. In 1936, Mooar was chosen to lead Snyder's Texas Centennial Parade. His granddaughter rode beside him.

Wyman Meinzer of Benjamin, a well-known wildlife photographer and author, will present a slide show, "The Great Buffalo Hunts," at 3:15 p.m. in the Ritz. Snyder National Bank lobby will be open so that visitors can view a display of home-made quilts as well as the gold DeLorean automobile — one of only two in existence. The annual Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet will begin at 6 p.m. in the First Baptist Church multi-purpose center. Tickets are $10 each at the chamber. The come-as-you-are banquet will feature Dr. Taylor and Meinzer as guest speakers. Annual chamber awards will also be presented.

Ito receives requests to curtail OJ coverage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Enough is enough. We are sick of it," one letter read. "Would you please be so kind as to force the media to put a sock in it," urged another.

And so it went in some of the more than 1,000 letters sent to Superior Court Judge Lance Ito in response to a syndicated columnist's call to ban TV cameras from the O.J. Simpson trial.

Coverage that has sent television ratings into the stratosphere has produced a backlash among some viewers at a time when Ito already is at odds with the media.

On Tuesday, Ito barred the Daily News of Los Angeles — the city's second-largest paper — from the courtroom during the trial as punishment for publishing details of a jury questionnaire one day before it was officially made public. A Daily News reporter will be allowed to attend pretrial hearings.

The Daily News filed court papers objecting to the action as unconstitutional. Managing Editor Ron Kaye said the motion speaks for itself and "the issue will be resolved in court."

Ito is to consider whether to bar television, radio and photographers at a Nov. 7 hearing.

A hearing today was on a defense motion claiming some evidence taken from Simpson's Ford Bronco and his mansion on June 13 was illegally seized without a warrant. Another hearing today was on a defense motion to explore the "source and purpose" of what it called leaks from police.

Simpson, 47, has pleaded innocent to murdering his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman on June 12. Jury selection started Sept. 26; opening statements aren't expected until November.

The letters to Ito were prompted by a Sept. 27 column in which Mike Royko of the Chicago Tribune called for a rebellion against TV coverage of the trial.

The Emu Report

By Shirley Pate, Pate Emu Farm

Last week the focus was on nest preparation; this week we will concentrate on the incubator and hatcher as well as the equipment in the incubator room. When the last egg was hatched last spring everything should have been cleaned and sterilized thoroughly. Each opening on the incubator and hatcher should have been taped or sealed to prevent dirt and bacteria from entering.

It's time to open and sterilize each again, using one tablespoon of either bleach or a chemical cleared for use in the incubator/hatcher, to one gallon of water. You may either use a spray or wipe the interior with a cloth.

Start your heat/air units and clean or replace all filters. Inspect the air exchange fans and their timers. Humidifiers and dehumidifiers should also be cleaned and new filters installed. It's time to start each machine to check the thermostats and hydrometers, fan and other parts.

We may remember our parents or grandparents telling us "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This is certainly true in this case. Even though all the equipment was working well at the end of last season there may be a malfunction when it is started this fall. If there is a problem, parts may have to be ordered and repairs made. It is much better to know about any problems now, rather than after your hens start laying.

Once you have everything in good working order, start your machines up and run them for a day or two making sure the temperature and humidity are staying where your eggs hatch best.

The response to this column has been great, from people of all walks of life, not just emu breeders. Everywhere I go, church, grocery store, the shops in town, the post office, people are so nice to stop and tell me they are reading and enjoying the articles. Some say they look forward each week to the Wednesday edition of SDN With this column. Several people are cutting out and saving the articles.

I do appreciate all the support and encouraging words from the readers. I will continue to do my best to fulfill my original purpose, as stated in the first issue, "educate the public, provide information for the seasoned producer, and give help to the newcomer and the person looking at possibly getting into this industry." My heartfelt thanks again, to my readers, you are the best. For further information, contact Pate Emu Farm, 573-5340.

There's something about warm weather that brings out the backyard chef in even those who don't normally like to cook. But cooking out requires extra precaution to prevent foodborne illness.

Grilling carefully also can prevent excessive smoke and charring that may be unhealthy. To keep your cookouts both safe and fun, follow these simple tips in proper food preparation and grilling:

- Select high quality meat, poultry or seafood products for the best results in outdoor grilling.

- Keep meat products at a temperature of 40 degrees Fahrenheit or less until right before grilling. Thaw frozen meat products in the refrigerator — not at room temperature. At room temperatures, the outer layers of meat may reach a temperature that promotes bacterial growth before the inner layers are thawed.

- Keep marinating foods in the refrigerator. Do not use leftover marinade as a sauce on cooked meat. Marinade may contain bacteria from raw meat that could contaminate cooked meat.

- Always wash your hands before and after working with raw meat or poultry. Handle raw foods and cooked foods separately.

- Wash work surfaces and cutting boards thoroughly with hot, soapy water before and after preparing meat for grilling. To sanitize, clean with a solution of 1 1/2 to 2 teaspoons of bleach per quart of water. Use a different cutting board for meats than for raw fruits and vegetables.

- After you place the meat on the grill, wash utensils and platters with hot, soapy water before using them again to serve the meat. Cooking kills bacteria, but cooked foods can be recontaminated with unwashed utensils.

- Keep serving time after cooking to a maximum of two hours and refrigerate all leftovers immediately at 40 degrees Fahrenheit or below.

- Chicken, pork, turkey and ground meat products should be cooked until the juice runs clear or the temperature reaches 170 degrees.

- Eating raw or rare meat is not recommended, especially for persons who have chronic illnesses, or are recovering from surgery or have compromised immune systems. Cook meat thoroughly to kill bacteria.

These additional suggestions will keep food from becoming too heavily smoked or charred:

- Choose meats for cookouts that are low in fat to avoid flare ups from dripping fat. Trim excess fat from the meat before grilling.

- Avoid marinades or basting sauces that contain a lot of fat.

- Cover the grill with aluminum foil. Punch holes between the grids to let juice drip out.

- If dripping fat causes heavy smoke, move the food to another section of the grill, rotate the grill or reduce the heat.

- Learn to control the fire. Cook meat until it is done, but without charring it. Remove any charred or burned material that forms on the food's surface. Do not eat it.

- Wrap foods such as fish and vegetables in foil to protect them from smoke while grilling.

- Reduce grilling time by pre-cooking many foods, including poultry and ribs, by boiling or cooking in the microwave. However, immediately place pre-cooked foods on the grill to complete cooking and give it that grilled flavor. Partially-cooked foods may develop bacterial growth that causes foodborne illness.

Cookouts are popular family and social activities. Keep them safe by following common sense rules of cleanliness, food safety and healthful cooking.

SWCD directors election set

An election for two directors to serve in Zone 1 and Zone 2 of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District is scheduled for Thursday at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

The election will be held at 7:30 p.m. and refreshments will be served, said Brent Murphy, chairman of the board.

State law decrees that eligible voters must own agricultural land within the district — Borden and/or Scurry County. The voter must also live in a county which is within the district, and must be at least 18 years of age.

Likewise, candidates must own land in the zone he or she is to represent, be at least 18 years old, and live within a county which is in the district.

Directors serve four-year terms of office.

Zone 1 of the district includes the southeast portion of Scurry County south of U.S. Highway 180 and east of Highway 208. The zone takes in Hermleigh, Inadale and Pyron.

Zone 2 includes the western portion of Scurry County west of Highway 208 and south of U.S. 84 to the county line. It takes in Ira, Fluvanna, Dunn, Knapp and part of Snyder.

Current members of the Upper Colorado SWCD board of directors in addition to Murphy, who is from Gail, are Leon Sterling of Ira, vice chairman; Burl Belew of Fluvanna, secretary treasurer; Walter Stirl of Hermleigh; and Ted Crenwelge of Snyder.

The purpose of the soil and water conservation district, headquartered in Snyder, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on agricultural lands within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers, ranchers and local community entities on conservation matters.

The board coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with them, as well as with private concerns, to carry out its purposes. All conservation programs managed by the district are of a voluntary nature to the landowner or operator.

Farm bill public forum set Oct. 15 in Kingsville

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will hold a public forum Oct. 15 in Kingsville, to solicit public input on policy issues needing consideration during the development of the 1995 farm bill.

Harold Bob Bennett, Texas State Executive Director for USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said the forum will be held at Texas A&M University, Kingsville from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"The future of U.S. agriculture in the 21st Century will depend on the policy foundation we establish in the 1995 farm bill. This is a unique opportunity for Texas farmers, consumers and others in the agricultural sector to offer their suggestions on how to improve existing USDA programs and policies as well as to suggest new tools that will help U.S. agriculture reach its full potential in the century ahead," said Mr. Bennett.

Among the officials who are scheduled to participate in this farm policy forum are House Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza from Texas' 15th Congressional District. USDA participants include Under Secretary for International Affairs and Commodity Programs Eugene Moos and Acting Assistant Secretary for Economics Keith Collins.

Individuals who would like to make a presentation are requested to register in advance. To register, contact the Texas State ASCS Office, Phone (409) 260-9207, or FAX (409) 260-9358.

Clinton ratings could drive state voters away

HOUSTON (AP) — Although voters won't notice on their November ballots, an unseen issue could be as important as their choices for candidates.

A poll conducted for The Houston Post and KHOU-TV shows that lagging popularity of President Clinton could affect the performance of his fellow Democrats up and down the ballot.

"It's clear he is not a popular person in this state," said Bob Stein, the Rice University political scientist who conducted the statewide poll of 676 likely voters Sept. 23-28.

Results showed that 58 percent disapproved of Clinton's job performance while 33 percent approved.

Questioned about their overall feelings about the president, 54 percent said they had an unfavorable view and 35 percent replied favorably.

Popularity ratings for incumbent Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, in contrast, were 56 percent favorable and 34 percent unfavorable. She is a longtime Clinton ally.

Ratings were 54 percent favorable and 23 percent unfavorable for Republican challenger George W. Bush, son of former President Bush.

Of those who disapprove of Clinton, 60 percent support George W. Bush and only 23 percent back Richards. About 68 percent of white voters in the poll gave unfavorable reviews to the president, with only 25 percent favorable.

The president fared better with Hispanics, 57 percent approval and 31 percent disapproval, and blacks, 60 percent approval and 21 percent disapproval. Richards also polls better among minorities.

Even among those voters who believe the economy is improving, 48 percent disapprove of Clinton's performance and 47 percent approve.

Ratings for ex-president Bush topped them all at 66 percent favorable and only 19 percent unfavorable.

Margin of error for the poll is plus or minus 3.5 percentage points. The so-called "Clinton factor" is being felt in campaigns in many states, especially the South, where the president's poll ratings are depressed.

Democratic U.S. Senate nominee Richard Fisher, also a longtime friend of Clinton's, recently declared publicly that the president's ratings are hurting Democrats in general.

Despite Richards' popularity and her strong personality, the poll showed her in a virtual dead heat with Bush, and the numbers suggest it has a lot to do with the negative feelings for Clinton.

Richards campaign spokesman Chuck McDonald said that regardless of the numbers, Democrats expect the incumbent to be judged on her own merits, not the president's.

"Voters just don't see it as a Bush-Clinton race. They know better. The fact is it will be her strong record, her strong personality and her performance that will carry her," McDonald said.

But Bush strategist Karl Rove predicted the Clinton factor will become more pronounced as the election nears.

"It's hurting Ann Richards and every Democrat. She definitely is not immune to this. After all, she was chairman of the (1992 Democratic National Convention) that nominated Clinton," Rove said.

The Clinton influence is even more pronounced in the U.S. Senate race between Fisher and Republican incumbent Kay Bailey Hutchison.

Even among voters who approve of Clinton's performance, only 36 percent support Fisher.
