

Council will assist in energy saving plans

By Capt. George H. Hobbs

No serious problems at Reese AFB were suggested at Monday's meeting of the Wing NCO/Airman Advisory Council.

Of general interest, however, was the adjustment by the recently-arrived enlisted women to their new base, and vice versa.

According to Sgt. Hassie Tyson, WAF enlisted advisor, the women are satisfied with their jobs and living conditions. Several other council members commented on the women's "fine duty performance."

The council recommended the resuming of a former program of community recognition for the Wing Airman of the Month. This renewed program went into effect yesterday, when A1C John L. Loudat was given a certificate at the Lubbock City Council meeting. Airman Loudat, 64th Supply Squadron, was also honored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Assistance Asked
The Wing Commander, Col. Walter H. Baxter III, asked the council members' help in several areas. In doing so, he pointed out, "I can communicate more through this organization than any other council." He added, "It's important that each of us is continually conscious of saving energy."

"But let's not do dumb things in the name of energy conservation at the risk of de-emphasizing safety or our mission," said the colonel. "We have to be mission, safety and energy conservation oriented. You guys can give me lots of help."

Several announcements were made concerning upcoming events at Reese. Of particular interest to council members is the Quarterly Wing Commander's NCO Call, scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday at Simler Theater.

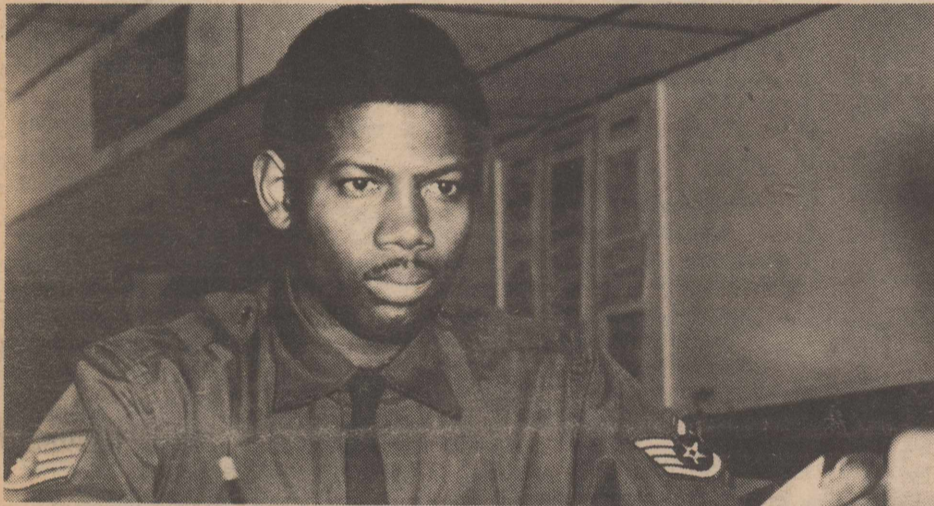

It was also mentioned that the bus service to and from Reese Village was discontinued Feb. 22 due to lack of participation.

Prior to the meeting's adjournment, new council members were introduced and welcomed by Colonel Baxter.

AECP selects airman

The Air Force selection board for the Airman Education and Commissioning Program (AECP) has selected SSgt. Lee Williams, 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, for officer training.

The Reese sergeant was among 201 enlisted persons picked for either direct entry into the School of Military Sciences, Officer, or for advanced education and subsequent entry into SM SO. Sergeant Williams will re-enter college this fall to complete 33 semester hours before getting his degree.

The next AECP selection board will meet the week of April 22 at Wright-Patterson AFB. Applications must be received no later than March 12 to be considered.

AECP provides up to 36 months of on-campus education, ending with an undergraduate, graduate or lateral degree. Airmen with at least one year of active duty and 30 semester hours of college credit are eligible for AECP. Up to 15 semester hours from Community College of the Air Force transcripts may be applied toward the requirement.

Applicants must be able to complete degree requirements, plus 12 weeks of SMSO training before their 35th birthday. Airmen applying for a rated specialty must be entered into flying training not later than age 27½.

Airmen who already have a degree are also eligible to apply. The Reese Education Office will assist in counseling and help in application preparation.

Campaign drive begins

Col. Walter H. Baxter III, wing commander, has announced that the Air Force Association (AFA) will conduct its annual membership drive at Reese AFB, beginning today.

In announcing the drive, Colonel Baxter pointed out that the AFA's current membership is 115,000. Citing the fact that membership in the Association is entirely voluntary, he also went on to say "The AFA represents all Air Force people and is, in essence, the professional society of the Air Force."

Locally, strong support for Reese is provided by the Lubbock Chapter of the Association, which has as its President Tom Ireland. More than 727 persons are now affiliated with the Lubbock Chapter and Ireland expressed the hope that this year's drive will substantially increase this number.

Membership in the Association is open to all active duty personnel and all others who have served with the Armed Forces of the United States. AFA members receive many benefits, including a monthly copy of "Air Force Magazine" and eligibility for a number of low-cost group insurance programs.

Membership dues are $10 per year, but the local chapter has announced that it will pay half of that for the first year during the membership drive. A three-year membership is set at $24. Lifetime membership in the Association is also available for a one-time fee of $200.

The drive will continue through March 31.

USAFI terminates AF educational programs

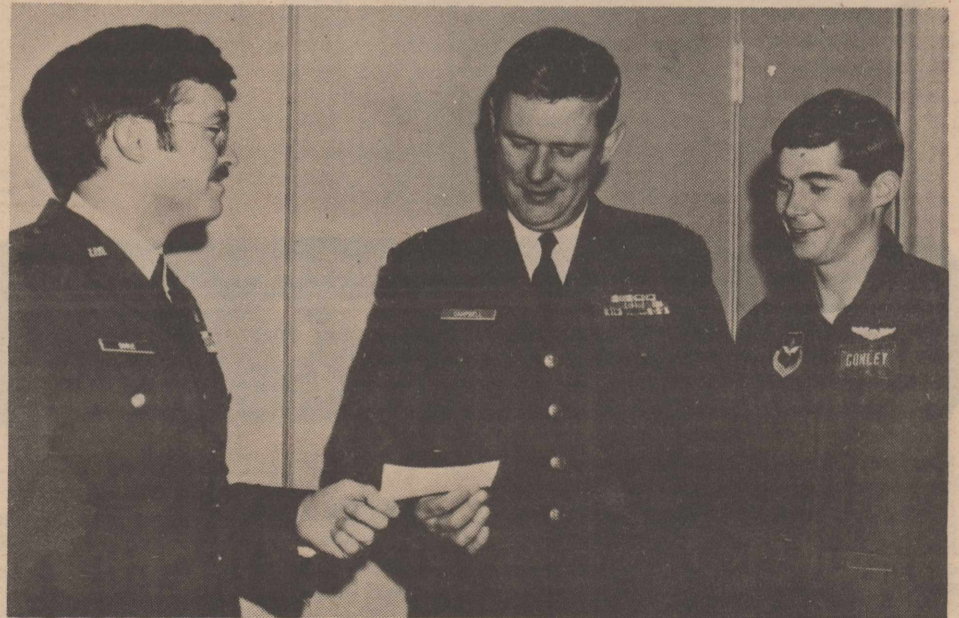

If you are one of the Reese personnel waiting to take a United States Armed Forces Institute (USAFI) end-of-course test or need to get a USAFI transcript, you must take the tests and make applications for transcripts before March 15.

The USAFI program is being discontinued at the end of May with the termination of contracts with the member educational institutions. Military members who are currently enrolled in classes will be allowed to finish their course work, but further enrollments will be refused. If you need to take a test, you must submit your application for testing before March 15, and the answer sheets must be submitted for grading no later than April 15.

Personnel who request official test reports or duplicate military test reports must do so before April 15 or their requests cannot be processed. Since USAFI has the records of several million active-duty and ex-servicemen and women on file, every effort is being made by the institute to insure that your access to your file is not interrupted. An alternate source for this information will be determined in the near future, and you will be notified on how to go about getting information from this new source.

Reese personnel who have questions concerning the discontinuation of USAFI services or how it will affect your course work or educational program, are encouraged to call the Reese Education Office at Ext. 2469.

Chapel fund gets help

The members of Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 74-05 decided that what they didn't need, somebody else probably would.

As a result of the class' decision, Operation Wiseman, a charitable program sponsored by the base chapel, received a check for $300. The class, which was graduated from the UPT program here Feb. 8, had that amount left in their class treasury after finishing pilot training and decided to donate it to Operation Wiseman.

Operation Wiseman was started in 1971 as a source of assistance to military personnel at Reese who cannot be assisted by the Red Cross or the Air Force Aid Society in times of need.

Capt. Brian C. Dugle of the class presented the donation to Chaplain (Col.) William W. Campbell, base chaplain, Feb. 21 at the chapel.

Personnel interested in obtaining assistance in time of need should contact the Base Chaplain's Office, Ext. 2237.

(Editor's note: The following letter was received by Col. Walter H. Baxter III, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, Feb. 22 from Stanley W. Cole, chairman of the board for The American Cancer Society, Texas Division.)

Dear Colonel Baxter:

The 1974 Combined Federal Campaign has been termed an outstanding success and we are extremely grateful to you as Chairman and Maj. H.M. Hailey, chairman of the Joint Work Group, for your leadership in the Lubbock Campaign.

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society, please convey to the other members of your team and to the Federal Employees in your area our appreciation for their generous support. And, to that, I would like to add my personal thanks.

This is a time of critical need for the American Cancer Society in finding the necessary financial support to fund our expanding programs. Thus, we deeply appreciate the confidence shown in our Society by those who contributed to the Lubbock CFC.

DoD announces voter registration month

March 1974—named "Military Voter Registration Month" by the Department of Defense—will mark the beginning of the Armed Forces' voting assistance activities culminating in the general election November 5.

In March, military voters from certain States should be informed of the requirement to register before election officials can send an absentee ballot for either a primary or a general election. These States are Alabama, Alaska, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada and West Virginia.

Other States either do not require registration for members of the Armed Forces on active duty or enable them to satisfy any registration requirement by (1) registering them from the Federal Post Card Application (FPCA—Standard Form 76) used to request a ballot for an election; (2) mailing State registration forms to the voter with an absentee ballot; or by (3) utilizing an affidavit on the ballot-return envelope as a registration document.

Registration rules or guidelines are summarized below for each of these "pre-registration" States. While registration deadlines are listed for those States that have specified them, a voter may apply for registration anytime during the year by writing to the appropriate election official. A registration application should be submitted well enough in advance of a deadline so that registration may be completed before registration books are closed—generally 30 days prior to an election (in Georgia, 50 days).

The FPCA is the form of registration and ballot request most generally used. After registering, the voter should submit another completed FPCA to ensure that a ballot request is received by the proper election official.

ALABAMA—Voters are registered by the County Board of Registrars, county of residence. To register, obtain a State registration questionnaire from your County Board by submitting a completed FPCA (indicate in Item (6) "Request registration forms"). While no specific deadline for registration has been set, an applicant should complete registration well in advance of Alabama's May 7 primary in order to obtain, vote, and return an absentee ballot before the election deadline.

ALASKA—To register by mail, complete an FPCA, entering in Item (6) "Request registration forms." Mail FPCA to the Lieutenant Governor, Pouch AF, Juneau 99801, so that application is postmarked at least 30 days before the August 27 primary or the general election.

FLORIDA—Voter registration is conducted by the Supervisor of Elections, county of residence. A completed FPCA should be sent to this official in sufficient time to complete registration prior to 30 days before the September 10 primary or the general election.

GEORGIA—Voters are registered by the Board of Registrars, county of residence. To register, send a completed FPCA to the Board, indicating in Item (6) "Request registration forms." Completed forms must be received by the Board at least 50 days prior to the August 13 primary or the general election.

KENTUCKY—Voter registration is conducted by the County Clerk, county of residence (if a resident of Louisville, by the Board of Registration Commissioners). Send completed FPCA to the County Clerk or Board of Registration Commissioners of Louisville, requesting registration forms in Item (6). Return completed forms to reach election official at least 30 days before the May 28 primary or the general election.

LOUISIANA—Voters are registered by the Registrar of Voters, parish of residence. Send completed FPCA to the Registrar, indicating in Item (6) "Request registration forms." Completed forms must be returned to reach the Registrar before registration books are closed (30 days before the election). Primary election date is August 17.

MISSISSIPPI—Voter registration is conducted by the City Registrar, place of residence, or by the County Registrar of each county of residence. Send completed FPCA to appropriate official, indicating "Request registration application" in Item (6). Completed application form must be returned to reach official prior to 30 days before the June 4 primary or the general election.

NEVADA—The Board of Registrars or the County Clerk, county of residence, will register voters. Obtain an "affidavit of registration" form by sending a completed FPCA to the appropriate election official. Return the completed affidavit to reach the official prior to 30 days before the September 3 primary or the general election.

WEST VIRGINIA—Voter registration is conducted by the Clerk of the County Court, county of residence. Send a completed FPCA to the Clerk indicating in Item (6) "Request application for absentee registration." This application must be executed and returned to reach the official prior to 30 days before the May 14 primary or the general election. (AFP5)

JUMPS assures faster pay service

(Editor's note: This is the last in a series of four articles by Capt. Wayne C. Brunton, deputy Accounting and Finance officer (Mr. JUMPS). The articles have served as an introduction to the major pay switch that will take place at Reese in May. What the Reese Accounting and Finance Office (AFO) can do for YOU is the subject of this last article.

"What's in it for me?" is the question some of you may have asked yourself when you first heard about the new Joint Uniform Military Pay System (JUMPS) that will hit Reese May 1.

In the first three articles we've described what the system can do for you. It can provide faster pay service through decentralized input, electronic transmission and computer processing of information affecting your pay account. It can provide more assured pay service through automatic deposit of your pay in a bank enrolled in the Guaranteed Deposit Program. It can also provide more informative pay service through the monthly issue of Leave and Earnings Statements.

Responsibility for satisfying you, the member, remains with us in the Reese AFO. Obviously, our training, initiative, competence, and courtesy will affect our ability to carry out that responsibility. But will there be any difference in the type of customer service provided?

To some extent there will be. We will continue to be the focal point for inquiries about your pay. For six to eight months after conversion we will continue to input most information affecting your pay. After that, plans call for the local CBPO, AFMPC, and AFAFC to make their particular inputs independently.

Finally, we will be able to make cash payments locally on our own authority when we determine the member is due is due the money. Under AMPS it has been necessary to ask the "parent" AFO for authority to make such payments when resolving pay problems.

We sincerely hope this series of articles has illustrated what JUMPS will mean to you. If you have any further questions about the system or its significance to you, call "Mr. JUMPS" at Ext. 2432 or 2816.

The Reese Base Exchange will be offering two new money saving ideas to help the shopper save a little more on exchange purchases. The "Money Saver" program is designed to offer merchandise at a cost comparable to items in major discount chains, especially in children's clothing. The "Extra Dividend" program, is designed to offer lower prices for selected health and beauty aids. These savings are possible by reduced prices from product vendors, and so, may only be offered for periods of 10 to 30 days at a time. However, the exchange may have many items at reduced prices at the same time.

A one-fifth scale model of a large portion of the B-1 bomber, being developed to replace the aging B-52, has been tested in the test sections of the transonic and supersonic propulsion wind tunnels at Arnold Air Force Station, Tenn.

Beginning today, the Reese Drug Counseling extensions are 2994 and 2373. Those people preferring off-base counseling may dial the Lubbock Drug Crisis Center at 747-3535. Both offer 24-hour service.

The Reese Officer's Wives Club will begin classes in genealogy, pen and ink drawing, and beginning knitting this month. Members interested in joining these classes are encouraged to contact Mrs. Rick King at 797-1262.

The Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve are increasing recruiting efforts as active duty personnel are being released early under the fiscal year 1974 airman force reduction programs. Both Guard and Reserve recruiters will be contacting the Reese Consolidated Base Personnel Office to arrange for counseling sessions in the near future. The Reese CBPO will be able to give you information concerning these visits.

Reese was well represented at the graduation of Air Training Command's NCO Academy Class 74-1, when TSgt. Rufus W. Feury, 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, was named a distinguished graduate. Sergeant Feury was the only member in the graduating class from Reese.

The Base Library now has a coin operated copy machine available for use by all base personnel. All copies are 10¢ per page.

The Uniformed Services Savings Deposit Program, for persons serving outside the United States or its territories, will end June 30. The program, initiated in 1966, was designed to curb spending overseas and reduce the balance of payments deficit.

Old Soldiers' Home deduction increases

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—The monthly deduction of 10 cents for all regular enlisted and warrant office members of the Army and Air Force for the U.S. Soldiers' and Airmen's Home here will be increased to 25 cents per month, beginning July 1.

Today's smaller military services, coupled with the rising costs of employee salaries and other necessities for home operation and maintenance, have resulted in home expenditures exceeding income, officials said.

The home, located in Northeast Washington, D.C., is operated for the care of retired enlisted and warrant officer personnel of the regular Army or Air Force.

Admission is open to members who have served 20 years or more as enlisted personnel or warrant officers or who have a service-connected disability rendering them unable to earn a livelihood and served during a war.

Members of the home are provided quarters, rations, medical, laundry and other similar services. No deduction from the members' pay or pensions is made for these services. Members may work at the home, or outside of the home, to supplement their income.

Home members are afforded the same medical care as is available to active military personnel. Although the home has a modern hospital, support is provided by Walter Reed Army Hospital. Additionally, the Sisters of Charity devote many hours of care to the sick and disabled.

The United States Soldiers' and Airmen's Home was established by an act of Congress March 3, 1851. Much of the home's income stems from the monthly deduction from the pay of each regular enlisted and warrant officer member of the two services, as provided by law. The rate of deduction was 25 cents per month from 1936 until 1943 when the Secretary of War reduced it to 10 cents due to the size of the Army during World War II.

Additional support is gained by fines and forfeitures from the regular enlisted and warrant officer personnel of both services, as well as interest paid by the U.S. Treasury on the home's permanent fund, and from the unclaimed estates of deceased enlisted and warrant officer personnel of these forces.

System expands personnel files

MSgt. Donald E. Shirley
APDS Keyman

Another phase in the Total-Man Management Concept is coming to Reese AFB and the Air Force beginning March 18, 1974. "APDS" is the phrase being heard in the Reese Consolidated Base Personnel Office (CBPO), and it means Advanced Personnel Data Systems.

The APDS will streamline present reporting procedures established in the implementation of the Base Level Personnel System—BLMPS as it is known—during 1971.

5,000 Items
With BLMPS, the CBPO was able to maintain 3,500 separate items of information on each person assigned to Reese. With APDS, 5,000 items are going to be maintained. Also, procedures have been established to allow CBPO to request data which is maintained on you at the Military Personnel Center (MPC) at Randolph AFB, Tex.

are the most eligible person in the Air Force for a short tour.

Quicker Change Recording

Another modernization to be accomplished by APDS is in recording changes to your status. It will be done much quicker. At present, all data is forwarded to your major command, in most cases Air Training Command, who in turn updates their files, then forwards the changes to MPC. APDS is going to create a simultaneous flow to both MPC and your major command. So if you report a data change to CBPO on one day, your master file at MPC and your major command will be updated the next day and not eight or ten days later, as it now takes.

Congratulations to:

Lt. and Mrs. William Jackson Ashion of 372 Harmon Drive, Reese Air Force Base, on the birth of a son weighing 8 pounds 1 ounce at 3:19 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 13 in St. Mary's Hospital. The father is a pilot

Mr. and Mrs. David E. Blackledge of 6302 Elgin Ave., Apt. 294, on birth of a son weighing 7 pounds 7 ounces at 4:24 p.m. Thursday at St. Mary's Hospital.

Some data presently on the CBPO files will be transferred to the MPC file, such as decoration history, duty history, assignment preference, and so on. That doesn't mean you won't be able to find out what decorations you are authorized, but it will take a bit longer.

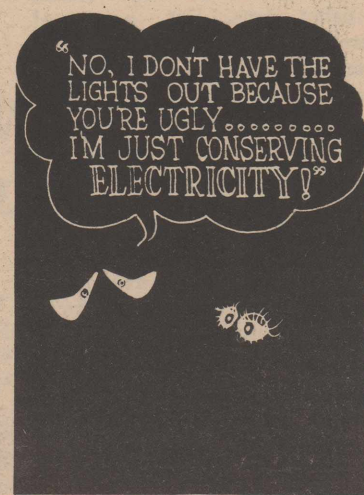

The exact day of any short tour returns will be added to the short tour return date. At present, just the month and year are reported to MPC. The addition of the day portion is going to assist MPC select the MOST ELIGIBLE person for a short tour.

For Example

Here's an example. Say your AFSC is 43270 and you are in the "Freeze Zone" for a short tour and you returned from your last short tour Dec. 20, 1965. Under the present BLMPS System, MPC selects all 43270's that returned in December 1965. After manually screening their listing of all returnees with the same date, MPC selects one of you to fill a short tour levy.

With APDS it is going to be quite different. You returned on Dec. 20 but there maybe 50 other 43270's that returned before that date. MPC will be able to select the individual who returned on Dec. 1 as the most eligible, without the possibility of error, to fill the assignment levy. So as you can see, if you are selected for a short tour under APDS, you

To list all changes that will take place under APDS would fill the Roundup. If you should have a question or want to know more on APDS, feel free to call the Personnel Systems Management Section at Ext. 2322 or stop by Room 6, Building 815 and we'll be glad to fill you in on the "System of the 70's" . . . APDS.

Spokesman explains Base of Preference opportunity

TSgt. Darrell E. La Montagne
NCO Career Advisor

There is some confusion among enlisted personnel at Reese concerning the procedures or ways by which a Base of Preference (BOP) can be requested and obtained.

This confusion may, in part, be attributable to alleged former policies or practices which "presumably" enabled an Air Force Recruiter or an NCO assigned to Reenlistment & Separations Section an optional authority to "deal" directly with the BOP in order to secure the desired assignment "on-the-spot," provided the first-term airman agreed to reenlist to get his base of choice "on-the-spot"—or so the story goes.

Must Be Eligible

Today, a first-term airman, who decides that he would reenlist if he could secure his BOP, must first be eligible to reenlist. A first-term airman must have completed three years of active duty, be serving in pay grade E-4 or E-5 and obtain his immediate squadron commander's approval in writing before the Reenlistment and Separations Unit at the Consolidated Base Personnel Office can process him for reenlistment.

The BOP Program for first-term, second-term and career airmen can only provide the interested enlisted member such a transfer if, and only, if there is a vacancy at the base to which the airman desires reassignment. Herein lies most of the confusion in the minds of many airmen, especially first-termers, who believe they find a "credibility gap" in returned BOP requests indicating "disapproved—no vacancy."

Misconceptions

Many airmen believe that there are, in fact, vacancies at their bases of choice in their AFSCs, because some have personally checked with the shop or branch chief or other personnel at that base and have learned that "there are plenty of vacancies." The facts are, however, approved and scheduled-in replacements frequently originate directly from the Air Force Military Personnel Center (AFMPC), Randolph AFB, Tex., or through a Technical Training Center. The local branch chief, supervisor or other personal friend the airman desiring a BOP contacted simply did not have this information available to him at a given point in time, nor could he be generally expected to.

AFMPC Provides

Projected gains to replace projected losses are provided by AFMPC but frequently are accomplished without the immediate knowledge of the local military or civilian supervisor. A shop chief, branch chief or other person responding to questions concerning present or projected manning in a given AFSC specialty might reasonably conclude that "vacancies" are or will be "open," when in fact they have already been filled.

For example, a Technical Training Center class, scheduled to graduate in six weeks, may already have four of its class students earmarked for assignment to that branch or shop supervisor, which would probably be unknown to that branch or shop chief at that time.

First Step

All airmen should contact me, the Base NCO Career Advisor, at Room 1, CBPO, Ext. 2158 or 2714, as their first step in submitting an application for a CONUS transfer under the BOP program. An accurate, quick and up-to-date "vacancy" situation can be readily determined within a given AFSC, for any eligible first-term airman BOP applicant who desires a BOP within ATC.

For bases under other commands (SAC, TAC, ADC, etc.), there is a 4-6 week delay necessary to forward an official written inquiry to the Major Air Command overseeing the manning situation at the base to which the airman desires reassignment.

Photo course gives valuable shutter tips

GUNTER AFS, Ala. (AFNS) —As cameras become increasingly simplified, photography appears to be booming among both serious hobbyists and casual family snapshot fans. But, as usual, there's one major hang-up: even after the initial outlay for the camera and lenses, buying and processing film can be expensive.

The Extension Course Institute (ECI) here can't do anything to lower film prices, but it does offer a means of saving money in the processing stage while opening a new avenue for creativity for those who like a little "something extra" with their hobby. The still photographic laboratory specialist course, CDC 233X4, offers detailed instructions on how to turn exposed film into finished prints, personalized with the "artist's touch."

The five-volume program tells how to attain special effects with exposure control, filters and variation of paper grade. Instruction is also provided for the proper mixing of chemicals required to process most films and papers.

For students without access to a photo hobby shop or other darkroom setup, one volume is devoted to the equipment needed for a well-stocked operation and its maintenance. Naturally, the beginner can choose only the essential pieces of equipment to get started, if he wishes. While the instruction deals with specific equipment items, the principles and procedures apply to all typical equipment.

The course can also aid the person who is already skilled in lab work but who wants to invest some money in equipment and enter the world of color. Volume four details entirely with color work, explaining color balance as well as processing and printing.

The lab course is one of seven photo-related programs, ranging from CDC 23631, apprentice still photographic camera specialist, to CDC 23352, motion picture laboratory specialist.

The education office has the entire list and all the details on how to enroll. As with all of the almost 400 ECI courses, the course is free.

MARS station can give distant service

By SSgt. Nelson Frehulfer

Would you like to send a message home or to a buddy overseas? Don't have the time or even an 8¢ stamp? No sweat! Your Base MARS (Military Affiliate Radio System) Station is waiting for your call.

Designed primarily as an emergency, back-up communications system for the base, MARS also functions as the military counter-part of Western Union. Military personnel and their dependents are permitted to send "MARSGRAMS" of up to 30 words to their friends and loved ones almost anywhere in the world.

So, ya'll come see us at the little trailer (Bldg. 3010) outside the big fence or, just give us a call at Ext. 2638 and we'll get the word(s) out for you. Save that 8¢ stamp; send her a MARSGRAM.

Sample forms and blanks will be available at the Mathis Recreation Center. The base MARS Station is a part of the 2053rd Communications Squadron, Air Force Communications Service (AFCS).

AFCS provides communications and air traffic control services for Department of Defense agencies on a global basis.

AF uses computers for civilian records

The Reese AFB Civilian Personnel Office will begin phasing out manual civilian personnel record-keeping in October, along with Laughlin and Williams Air Force Bases, Tex.

This announcement from Air Training Command Headquarters stated that computers now used by the Air Force to process pay records and maintain military personnel records will take over the job.

The new automated system is known as the Civilian Personnel Management Information System (CPMIS).

Randolph First

Randolph AFB, Tex., will be the first ATC base to begin conversion to the new system. Its conversion began last month.

Lackland AFB, Tex., will begin converting this month followed by Keesler AFB, Miss., Sheppard AFB, Tex., and Vance AFB, Okla., in April. Chanute AFB, Ill., will begin automation of their civilian records in May.

Lowry AFB, Colo., and Columbus AFB, Miss., will begin in June; Craig AFB, Ala., in July and Moody AFB, Ga., and Webb AFB, Tex. will begin their transition in September.

Take Over Reports

The computer will prepare many reports which previously drained time from the professional duties of the CPO staff. Employees are expected to receive better service and supervisors will be able to rapidly retrieve more precise and factual data about personnel resources, manpower authorizations, assignments and other information required for personnel actions.

Worldwide Air Force implementation of this program is anticipated by March 1975.

Stickpusher's solo ends in big splash

1st Lt. Edward B. Hayden

Last week we left our undaunted here, Lt. Stanley Stickpusher, with his head, I mean his gear, up and locked and two smooth-running engines.

Having now committed himself to the blue, visions of horror danced through his head. "What if I lose my radios?!!?" . . . Will the aircraft continue to fly, or, worse, yet, will I have to divert?!!?!!" The thought is so distressing, Stan immediately flushes it from his mind and continues to outside downwind.

On initial to correct runway (even without radar vectors), Lieutenant Stickpusher warns Poppet of his upcoming pattern. Pitch-out, inside downwind, and final turn resemble an assortment of amusement park rides, however, Stan manages to bounce-and-go, to record his first pattern.

Devilish Seagull?

Feeling rather devilish and because we all have a bit of Jonathan Livingston Seagull within us, Stanley ventures to request a closed pattern. Following approval from Poppet, the lieutenant demonstrates what appears to be an unusual attitude recovery and proceeds to conclude his initial solo flight.

As our solo tank candidate parks his baby jet and returns to the squadron for his traditional dunking, we ask him to summarize his feelings upon soloing. He simply replies, "It was no-o-o sweat!"

Brown Winds

This past week brought us the predictable, yet uncomfortable, brown winds. Although we may wipe our eyes and grit our teeth, there is one consolation—these winds are still out-of-limits for the IG's C-118.

In closing, the 35th Flying Training Squadron extends its congratulations to Capt. and Mrs. Dorin Balls upon their marriage last week. However, we would like to remind Lt. Col. Richard Ingram and his swordsmen of their remedial sword training at 7 a.m. tomorrow.

March predictions warn of dust, wind

By Capt. Bill Parker

March signals the beginning of the windy season around here Chicago, eat your heart out.

As spring develops this year, we will be plagued with blinding dust storms. The dismal dry winter has compounded the annual problem of dust and the long-awaited outlook for some moisture is dismal.

One bright spot about all of this; with all the dust around we won't be travelling as much—thus, an effort toward energy conservation. We can just sit at home in our easy chairs and watch the countryside blow by.

The average maximum temperature for March is 64 degrees. The hottest it has ever gotten around here in March is 90. The coldest it has been in March is two above. The average low temperature for this month should be about 35 degrees. Winds should be greater than 11.5 miles per hour about 47 per cent of the time. If it ever does rain, we will not be expecting more than one half inch. March has an average of three days of precipitation and the average snowfall in two inches.

March is also the season kickoff for another South Plains floor show—thunderstorms. On the average, March usually produces about one day of boomers.

Visual effects make "Exorcist" top film

By Lighthouse

There isn't much doubt that the movie to cause the greatest sensation since the "Godfather" is "The Exorcist."

Tales of people fainting in the theaters, getting sick in the aisles, and people being carried out on stretchers after having heart attacks, have spurred the movie-going public on like you have never seen before.

When the movie opened in Los Angeles, the theater owner came to work at 8:30 a.m. to prepare for the 10:30 showing, and found a line with over 2,000 people in it, waiting for the first showing. Some of those in the line had spent the night on the sidewalk waiting for the first ticket sales.

A Real Horror Movie

It isn't hard to analyze why "The Exorcist" is such a popular movie, or why it was able to get back the $10 million it took to make the movie in the first 60 days it ran. Advance billing for the movie said that in all of the history of Hollywood, this was the first time that a real horror movie had been made. All of the other so-called horror flicks had just been a warm-up for the real thing, and this movie was it.

Of course, the fact that the book was a runaway best seller for over a year probably didn't hurt the publicity any, either. Yet "The Exorcist" had one real drawing card that no other movie since the Ten Commandments could match—super hard-hitting graphic visual effects that had no equal.

I went to see "The Exorcist" last week, and believe me, it is as scary as it is advertised to be, but it isn't anything to faint over.

Possessed

The movie is about a little girl who is possessed by the Devil, and the efforts of a priest to rid, or exorcise, the Devil's spirit from her body. In our literature, or at least the literature that most of us are familiar with, the Devil is usually portrayed as a sneaking, cunning type who trades illicit wishes or desires for the soul of the persons he deals with.

Even though we realize that he is no good, we are never really made aware of all of the profane and disgusting things that he stands for. All of the vice and corruption and disgust that men are heir to are never attributed to the Devil, and so in many cases, we really come to overlook these traits. There is none of that Sunday school fantasy in "The Exorcist." All of the violence and disgust are put right on

JAG cites punishments

The Reese Staff Judge Advocate Office has released the results of disciplinary actions taken against three Reese airmen.

A 64th Air Base Group sergeant was reduced to the grade of airman first class for failure to repair. A sergeant from the USAF Hospital was given seven days extra duty, also for failure to repair.

In the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, an airman was reduced to the grade of airman basic and received vacation of a suspended sentence resulting from previous disciplinary action for being AWOL.

the screen for everyone to see, and it isn't pretty.

Originally slated to cost about $3 million, the movie costs ran to over $10 million, with most of the extra money being used on special effects. It was money well spent. Not since the parting of the Red Sea have the senses been so stimulated as they are in this movie.

Varying Opinions

Some critics are calling the movie a rip-off, while others are calling it the greatest thing in film history. No matter who you end up agreeing with, you can't deny the fact that it has been nominated for 10 Academy Awards, and will probably end up with at least five.

If you have any doubt that the movie can scare you, think about the sign that the theater management put on the box office window.

"We do not recommend this movie for children, people with a history of heart trouble or people who have mental illness."

I think the devil made them say that.

Sir:

I just bought a filter from the BX Service Station. They gave me the wrong kind of filter and it doesn't fit on my car. I went back to exchange it, but this guy who manages the place back there said that the place was closed and I could not exchange it and that I would have to come back at another time. I need my car to take my wife to work and I think this is a pretty stink way to run a business. All he had to do was take a PH-30 off his shelf and exchange it for the PH-25 which they gave me. I think the new management is bad over at the service station. Somebody should do something about it.

SSgt. Thomas

Sergeant Thomas:

Your request was not unreasonable but your timing was. I am told it was an hour after closing and the manager was in the midst of tallying receipts, preparing bank deposits and doing those things necessary in the course of operating any business and which require concentration and security. Unfortunately, your visit coincided with this requirement. Give him another chance; I hope he will do better by you.

Sir:

I just noticed that you put the speed traps back up and I just wanted to say that they are too high. I just spent $10 on a front-end alignment and I cannot afford to buy new shocks for my car or have my front end aligned every time I have to jump over one of these bumps. If you go over one of those things you have to go one or two miles per hour, and even then you bottom out on your shocks. I think something better can be done, even if you have to lay little mounds of asphalt on the road. As it is right now those things are too high. Thank you.

SSgt. Thomas R. Redden
64th OMS

Sergeant Redden:

The portable speed bump has been removed. We are continuing to look for ways to help remind people that the speed limit in the Village is very slow.

Sir:

My question is what can we do to facilitate the lines at the commissary and what are we doing about getting paper bags to the commissary? Also I can't see why we can't use the alphabet in order to cut down on the customers at the commissary. There are too many customers going in one day. For example we have five days in the week and on Wednesday the commissary is open late. Can we do something to facilitate the lines at the commissary? Even though the employees are doing their best coping with the customers, there might be a way to cut down the long lines. I don't blame the customers or employees if the get irritated or mad. For example, today I was in line for 20 minutes waiting for a shopping cart. Then I got my groceries and waited one hour in line to pay for th groceries. Also I lost my temper with one of the employees, but I am sorry I did not get the name of the employee. I never in my life have seen a customer push another one out of the way, but I did today. Is it possible for the commissary to close on Saturday and open on Monday, and also could it be possible to use the alphabet in order to specify certain days when customers (using their last names) could shop? Thank you, sir.

Sgt. Vasquez

Sergeant Vasquez:

As published in a previous CARE Line and editorial in The Roundup, paper bags are extremely hard to buy, due to the national shortage. Bags are purchased as they become available from the manufacturers. This limited supply of bags is being supplemented with used boxes. The Tuesday-through-Sunday shopping schedule provides maximum shopping opportunity for the greatest number of authorized customers. Your suggestion would restrict those people who must shop during other than duty hours to a very limited period. Your recommendation to limit shopping alphabetically seems to defeat the purpose of providing a service. If Sergeant "L" were unable to shop on his designated day due to illness or absence from the area, it would be a week before he could shop. A similar method of restricted shopping was unsuccessful at Little Rock AFB, Ark. I suggest that you consider changing your shopping hours to avoid the congestion. Peak business is usually carried on from opening time until approximately 3:30 p.m. For example, at 4 p.m. Feb. 21, there were only 35 people shopping and all available cash registers were in operation. Only three people were waiting to be checked out.

Sir:

I live in Barracks 420 and I have got a motorcycle and every time one of us comes on base with the motorcycle, one of the SPs keeps stopping us and harassing us. He wants to see our license or says that we take off too fast and everything else. We do about 15 or 20 on base and that's it. Thank you, sir.

No Name

I regret that you don't want to "get involved" and give your name or the name of the Security Policeman who allegedly harassed you. Correcting this alleged treatment is difficult without the names of the individuals involved. The men and women of the Security Police Division continually receive many commendations and favorable comments for their outstanding courtesy, military bearing and self-control under adverse conditions. It is not fair or right to stereotype a group of people as being guilty of what you report. The Security Police Division has a timely and active police community relations program conducted by the Superintendent, MSgt. Abraham L. Jackson III. Future incidents of this type should be brought to his attention, Ext. 2614, and they will be resolved.

Bad checks, shoplifting damage exchanges

Military morale programs and the price of exchange merchandise are being adversely affected by a variety of dollar-draining dishonest acts, according to the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES).

AAFES has declared war against a small but active group of culprits who steal from their buddies each time they commit a dishonest act against the Exchange Service. Each year monies earmarked for a central morale fund are lost through those acts. This means loss of dollars which never buy dayroom furniture, pay for unit sports programs, chapels, libraries, hobby shops, and many more recreation programs. Bad check writers are one group now feeling the squeeze, through an intensified AAFES effort. Last year AAFES had to write off more than $1 million due to bad checks, but they have acted to curb that problem. The exchange is now selectively using computers to verify checks quickly. The introduction of a finger impression device at many exchanges has also made it more difficult to cash a bad check.

When a commander is advised he may lose funds which pay for many programs on his installation, he takes a personal interest to see that drain is stopped. In effect, AAFES's problem is the commander's problem.

Shoplifters Caught

Last year some 6,500 AAFES customers were caught in the act of shoplifting, with a total of nearly $50,000 in recovered merchandise. Those statistics may seem comparatively small, but they are just the tip of the iceberg. Police and retailers agree that only one shoplifter in 10 is apprehended.

That means last year alone the Exchange Service was "taken" for roughly $500,000. It also suggests there were 65,000 acts of shoplifting in AAFES outlets.

If a $1 million loss through bad checks and a $½ million loss from sneak thieves aren't hard enough for the honest patron to endure, outright theft makes the situation worse. According to the AAFES commander, incidents involving theft range from vending machine break-ins through burglary of major retail outlets.

Other Acts

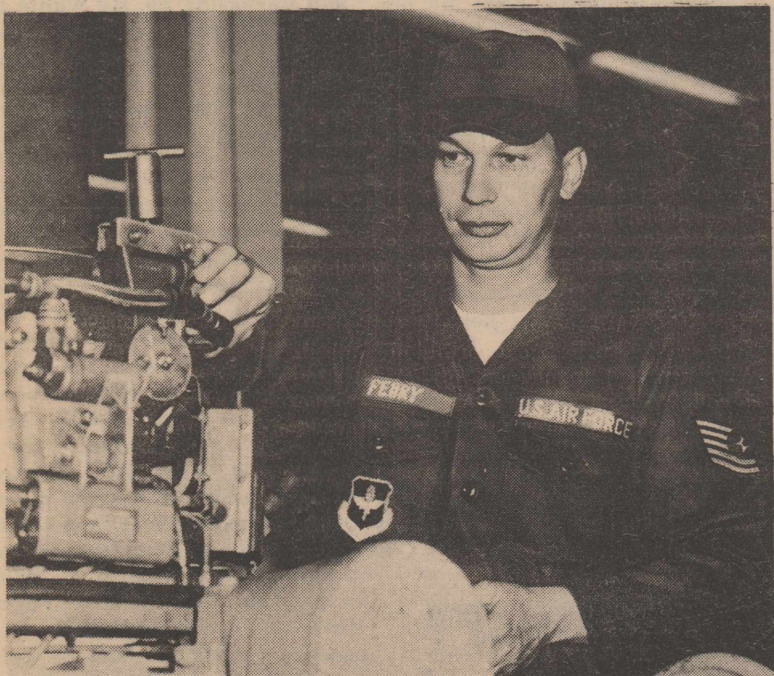

There are other dishonest acts committed every day. Price tag switching, illegal refunds, and other offenses are forms of stealing, just as surely as burglary or fraud.

Part of the problem seems to be that those prone to commit dishonest acts do not realize they are stealing from themselves and their fellow servicemen, rather than from some huge and faceless organization. Another point may be that "honest" patrons may occasionally look the other way when a vending machine is vandalized or merchandise from "the system" is stolen by a friend.

Whatever the causes, the cure must be found. AAFES cannot exist without the cooperation and understanding of all patrons and every commander.

Everyone must help the Exchange Service carry out its mission of service to the American serviceman.

The club has also announced that their Executive Board meeting this month will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the NCO Open Mess.

March Air Force Now encourages carpool effort

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—"Air Force Now" for March highlights in humorous fashion tips on conserving energy, according to Air Force information officials. The energy tips offer a light viewpoint of some basic things Air Force people can do at home and at work to reduce their use of energy.

A featured segment in this issue, which is a must showing at Commander's Calls, is the program under way at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, to encourage base-wide car pooling. The program is so successful that approximately 150 applicants are registered each week.

Other segments of the 19-minute film include a look at the phased-array radar at Eglin AFB, Fla., which plays an important role in tracking earth-orbiting satellites. The giant radar has no moving parts and is actually run by a computer.

From Eglin, AFN cameras travel to Washington, D.C., for an interview with Air Force Surgeon General Lt. Gen. Robert A. Patterson. General Patterson discusses the future of military medicine, concentrating on new services provided by physicians' assistants. These assistants work under the supervision of a physician who is still responsible for the patient's welfare.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization Music Festival in Kaiserslautern, Germany, and the U.S. Air Forces in Europe Band are the subjects of another segment. Music of eight participating bands is featured as they parade through the German city's streets and participate in nighttime concert festivities.

Correction board helps to solve problems

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—"See the chaplain and write your Congressman" are two well-worn pieces of advice which barracks lawyers are fond of providing to Air Force people who have problems.

There is another way, although not too many people seem to be aware of it.

As provided by law, the Secretary of the Air Force, acting through a board of Air Force civilians, can correct a military record when he considers it necessary to correct an error or remove an injustice.

Governing Procedures

Procedures governing the operation of the board are provided in AFR 31-3, "Air Force Board for Correction of Military Records."

Composed of senior civilians appointed by the Secretary of the Air Force, the board was established in the Department of the Air Force in November 1948 to relieve Congress of the necessity of considering private relief bills for both active members and former members of the Air Force.

Similar boards are in operation for members of the Army, Navy and Coast Guard.

The board reviews approximately 6,000 applications annually. Cases considered by the board include every type of military-related problem affecting Air Force people.

The board reviews each application and may authorize a hearing, recommend that the record be corrected without a hearing, or deny the application without a hearing. The application may be denied administratively when it is determined that all administrative remedies have not been exhausted.

There's nothing really complicated about petitioning the board for a record correction but it does require the petitioner to demonstrate, with complete and relevant supporting documents, that an error has been committed or that an injustice should be rectified.

Assistance in preparing the application, which begins with completing DD Form 149, is available through the Consolidated Base Personnel Office (CBPO), bldg. 815 the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate, bldg. 26. Applications should be addressed to USAFMPC/DPMDRA 5, Randolph AFB, Tex. 78148.

Spokesmen for the Board for Correction of Military Records say that many applications submitted to the board are not appropriately documented, are vague in stating the relief requested, and have not exhausted all available administrative remedies. "Applications of this type," they add, "take up needless time in processing and delay action on other deserving cases before the board which warrant relief."

Review Encouraged

Officials add that when an applicant has completed his application he should review it as objectively as possible and ask himself if he would be willing to grant the relief requested based solely on the documents provided.

"If you don't tell a complete story," officials say, "and submit proper documentation, board members cannot equitably consider all aspects of the case fully and act fairly on the request."

Although it is not a requirement for applicants to be represented by counsel it is recommended that counsel or the Judge Advocate, as appropriate, examine supporting documentation to better assure the application has been fully developed to support the applicant's claim.

Free counsel is available through several national service organizations. An applicant is not required to be a member of these organizations to request assistance.

Addresses Given

Addresses of the Washington, D.C., headquarters of these service organizations follow. Contact can be made through local chapters of these groups before contacting their Washington headquarters.

Service organizations which provide free legal counsel are: American Legion, 1608 K Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; American Red Cross, Room ID-514, the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20330; American Veterans Committee, 1333 Connecticut Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036; AMVETS of WWII, c/o Veterans Benefits Office, 2033 M Street N.W., Room 202, Washington, D.C. 20421; Blinded Veterans Assn., Inc., 2121 P Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037; Disabled American Veterans, 1221 Massachusetts Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005; Disabled Officers Association, 1612 K Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006; Jewish War Veterans, c/o VA Central Office, Room 121, Washington, D.C. 20006; Veterans of Foreign Wars, VFW Memorial Building, 200 Maryland Ave. N.E., Washington, D.C. 20002.

Reese dependent attains top Scouting award in ceremony

Scott H. Baxter, 15, was presented the Eagle Scout award by Jerry Stevens, Longhorn District Executive for the South Plains Area Council during an award ceremony Sunday in the base chapel.

The Eagle Scout Award is the highest rank that a boy can achieve in Scouting. Only one of every 200 boys ever earns that rank. To become eligible for the high rank, a boy must be proficient in traditional, as well as new, Scouting skills. He must not only be an active participant in Scouting activities, but must also be active in church, civic and other community functions. Before final selection, a Scout must be determined to exemplify the Scout spirit and pass before six boards of review.

Only 135 boys out of the South Plains Council's total number of 10,385 Scouts received the Eagle Award during the past year.

Scott is a sophomore at Lubbock High School, and has been active in the Scouting program for more than seven years. He started in Scouting while his family was stationed in Germany, moving on later to a Boy Scout troop in Pennsylvania.

Scott is the son of Col. and Mrs. Walter H. Baxter III.

Honorable discharge carries full benefits

By Capt. Carl J. Kretsinger

(Editor's note: This article is part of a continuing series intended to inform Reese people of their legal rights and responsibilities under the Uniform Code of Military Justice. Advice concerning Federal, State and local law will also be covered in future columns.)

Over the past several weeks, I have written about the three discharges which can be issued under other than honorable conditions.

As can be concluded from those articles, anyone who might receive one really forfeits a lot of benefits and personal rights. There remain two discharge certificates which are issued under honorable conditions—the general discharge certificates and the honorable discharge.

Uncoded Discharge

The honorable discharge is one which is issued after completion of four years active duty. It is uncoded and entitles the recipient full benefits. For example, all those benefits which I identified in earlier articles as being lost go along with the honorable. The other nice thing though, talking in dollar and cents, is that if you go to college, you get up to $220 per month for full time attendance. Now if you are married, you get more. You can receive this for up to four years. Likewise, one who has a general discharge has this same entitlement.

Home Purchase

If you are desiring to purchase a home and need financial assistance, then you can get a Veterans' Administration home loan. This reduces the amount of money needed to move into a home, and further, the government guarantees the loan on that house.

What it all boils down to is that the honorable discharge is the most important document that a G.I. can ever receive. If you have the honorable discharge, you stand to get that job, to get that education, generally to be a success in whatever endeavor you might seek.

However, if you get a general discharge, although you have the same entitlements, you will still stand far down the employment line because that employer is going to hire the person with the best credentials. And when he sees that general discharge, he knows right away that the person did not really do his job while in the military. He might have a character and behavior disorder, a bad attitude or a drug or alcohol problem.

39-12 Discharge

Still, with the honorable discharge, if you get one by way of 39-12 discharge action, it will be coded. That means it is, in a sense, a qualified honorable discharge certificate. Again it tells prospective employers that you might have a drug problem, attitude, alcohol problem or a character and behavior disorder.

So, even with an honorable, if it is coded, you will stand at the back of the employment line. So, the most important type of discharge is the uncoded honorable discharge certificate—the one that is issued after four years of eight hours work for eight hours pay. That is the best recommendation that you can give to your future employers.

'Harlem Thrillers' take rattle out of Reese team

By Sgt. Tom Green

Those traveling, talented, clowning court jesters, the "Harlem Thrillers," invaded the Reese gym Feb. 21 and fulfilled the expectations of everyone. They came, they played and they conquered the "Reese Rattlers" in a hilarious 76-68 game before a large and enthusiastic crowd.

The Harlem humorists displayed remarkable versatility as both excellent entertainers and master roundball handlers. The talented men who make up the Thrillers are "Sugarfoot" Johnson, Art "Bones" Smith, Vance "Hands" Williams, "Big Bill" Allen, "Tricky Dicky" Loftis and "Muskrat" Woodward.

The team captivated the crowd with their unpredictable antics and premeditated pranks. Before it was over, a lot of sides ached from laughing and some jaws were sore from grinning, as the clown princes amused fans with elastic-handball tricks, the "bottomless bucket of water" trick, an exhibition of "basket baseball", and a fake purse-snatching from a member of the audience.

The Thrillers kept the fans involved by having them participate in the action, and it was easy to see that the audience enjoyed the show just as much as the Thrillers did.

At half-time, TSgt. Leon Archie provided a break in the comic action by presenting a superb Karate exhibition of flying kicks and board-breaking, the result of a highly coordinated and controlled application of the movements found in the martial arts. Sergeant Archie is a member of the Reese Karate Club. Other club members also demonstrated these skills.

The Harlem Thrillers will be on the road, making several stops in Oklahoma, and then they will travel to Madison Square Garden in New York, where they will take on the NBA All-Stars, March 4.

FMS roundballers continue drive toward championship

Intramural basketball at Reese shifted into high gear February 19, as the base's annual roundball tourney got under way to determine the season champion.

Opening night action saw the 64th Student Squadron #1 team edge out the Special Services quintet, 60-48. Special Services vainly attempted a come back in the second half of the contest, but the 11 point deficit that they had at half-time was too much to overcome.

Undisputed Mis-match

An undisputed mis-match between the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron (FMS) team and Supply ended up in a lopsided victory for FMS by the score of 102-57. Supply simply could not pose a threat to the FMS squad, who apparently could do no wrong. A total of five FMS players scored in double figures, with Donald Locke, Lee Sanders and Wilfred Contreras dumping in 30, 21, and 18 points respectively, enough in itself to have stopped the Supply team.

In the night game, the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron (OMS) upset the skilled 35th Flying Training Squadron (FTS), 51-47. Down three points at half-time, the OMS team came back in a rally, lead by high-scoring Allen Gilbert, to overtake the opposition and end up a four-point victory.

Close Bout

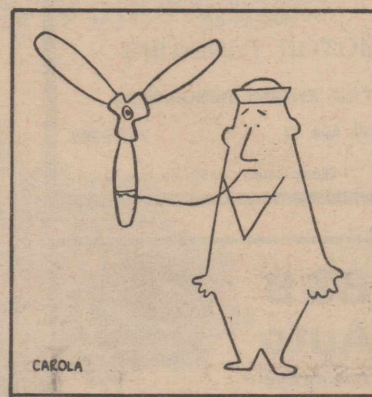

Picking up the pace the following night, Supply managed to stay alive by sneaking past Special Services in a close 58-57 game. Although they were down by 14 points at the half, the Supply five outshot and outplayed the Special Services team to emerge a last minute victor in this close cage contest. Early Boykins led the Supply team by dunking 24 points, outshooting the high scorer for the Services team, Rick Wren, who chipped in 16.

Later that evening FMS once again dominated the court against the 64th Student Squadron, walking away with a 77-49 win over the hapless opponents. This win gives them an outstanding 89.5 point per game average so far this season, as well as leaving them undefeated in tourney play. High scorers for FMS in this clash were Steven Phillips with 20 points, and Lee Sanders, who dropped 17 points.
