Superintendent gives lawsuit update

LISD approves new tax rate

In a unanimous vote, Thursday, August 17, LISD Board Trustees set the ad valorem tax rate at $1.24482 per $100 valuation. This is a $.026 (or slightly over 2¢) increase from last year.

The Board also adopted a resolution to levy tax on non-producing income tangible personal property (vehicles, travel trailers, motor homes, boats, airplanes, and motorcycles). This resolution will be effective for fiscal year 2001 and all future years unless entities make a change.

The resolution was adopted with the understanding that the non-income producing personal property would be taxed for seven years, or the same amount of time as all other personal property.

The meeting was attended by several reporters waiting to hear any discussion on the amended drug enforcement policy. Superintendent Raymond Lusk only discussed the policy in a "lawsuit update" with the board.

"We have been asked to provide a lot of information from the past," said

Lusk. "We have to show anything we've done in the way of preventive programs. We sent the lawyers packages several inches thick. They also wanted to know how many students tested positive and at what grade level."

"We are now at the stage of working on stipulated facts. If each side agrees on what the facts are then the judge will rule. We anticipate a ruling in late October or early November."

Lusk also expressed frustration to the board about a statement Mr. Tannahill made to the press concerning the amended school board policy.

Mr. Tannahill has sued LISD over the mandatory drug testing policy.

"Mr. Tannahill seemed surprised over the changes made in the policy," said Lusk, "and the amended policy was presented to the ACLU. I have asked our lawyer to get a statement, in writing, from the ACLU that Mr. Tannahill has seen the changes and that he either rejects or approves the changes. I want verification that it has been done."

In other business, Craig Zinck, appeared before the board to request approval for late transfer students. Zinck lives inside Floyd County, but just outside boundary lines for LISD.

Zinck told the board that a daughter (a 2nd grader), and a son (6th grade) had just moved in with him recently because of a family emergency. He did not know of the early cutoff date for approval of transfer students and was asking for an exception for his children.

Zinck praised the board and the school district and said he wanted his children attending LISD schools.

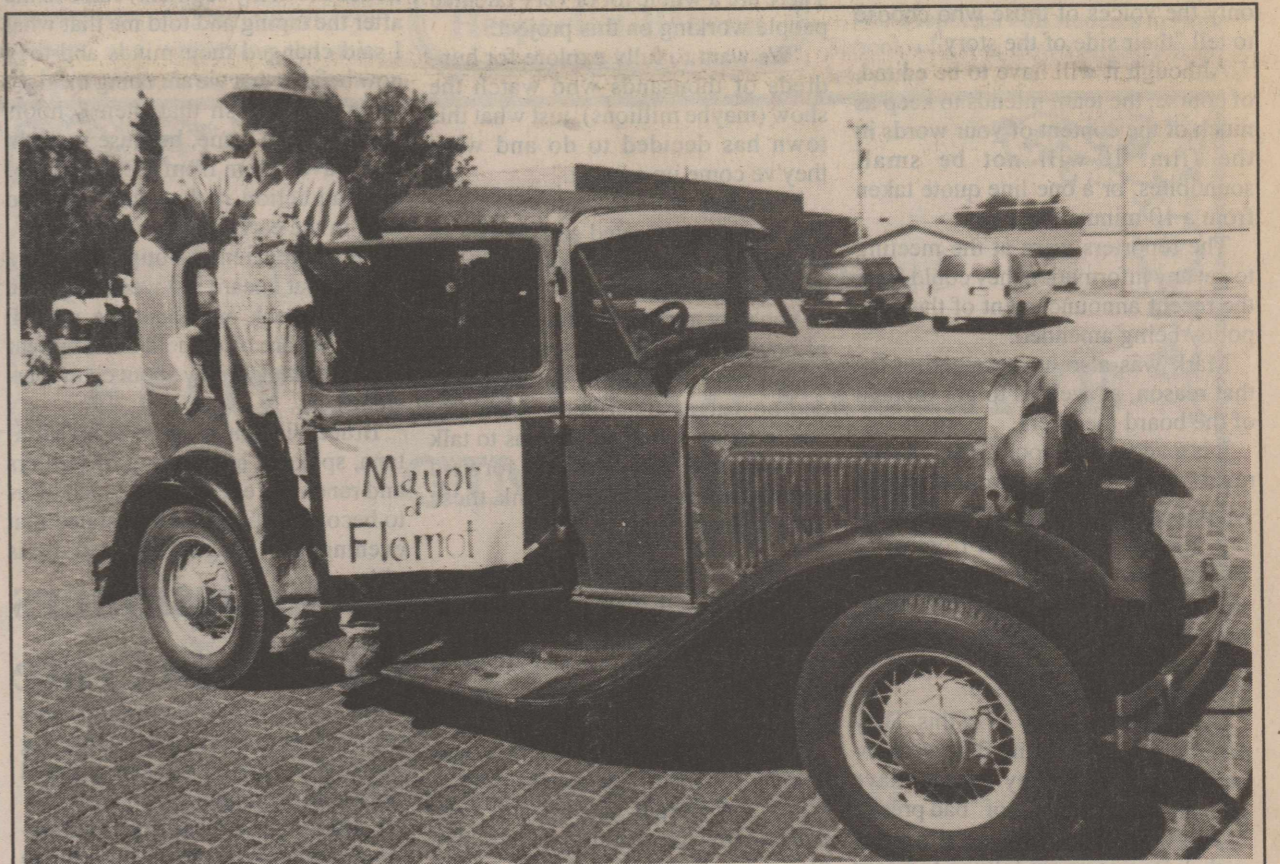

Board member Dan Smith said, "Are you aware your son would be drug tested later?"

Mr. Zinck said he was aware of that. Smith said, "Do you have a problem with that?"

Zinck assure Smith that he did not. He also gave his support of the policy to the board members.

After discussing the transfer and the unusual circumstances for the family the board was in agreement that the Council votes against personal property taxes

By Darwin Robinson

The Floydada City Council met Tuesday, August 15, and voted not to tax tangible personal property, such as, vehicles, travel trailers, motor homes, boats, airplanes and motorcycles, for the fiscal year 2001.

Councilman Clar Schacht made a motion "to tax" personal property. The motion died for lack of a second.

Councilman Jon Nielson made a motion "not to tax" personal property. Councilman Sheldon Sue seconded the motion and it passed by five council members 'for' and one 'against.'

In other business, City Manager Gary Brown recommended that the council pass on to the customer an approximate $.0125 cent increase in the 'fuel cost' for producing electricity, from the approximate $.01 cent to an approximate $.0225 cents per kilowatt hours.

Brown said, "For the home user of about 1,000 Kilowatt hours this increase will be about $9 to $10 a month. We (the city) cannot continue to absorb this fuel cost of about $38,000 per month.

Councilman Eric Cornelius made

BY THE WAY

By Alice Gilroy

By now everyone knows that I'm not perfect. I've been known to make mistakes and they almost always make it in print and then I can't say I never made the mistake.

Last week after the paper was printed, and we sat around for our weekly--"Oh my gosh, I can't believe I did that session"--my husband made the comment, "I can't believe we ever get a paper out."

On the front page I had a picture of mothers and little girls sitting in school desks. I thought the picture was of the first day of school and it turned out to be a picture of youngsters going for their Little Miss interviews.

It's a long story about how I messed that up--but I don't want to take up space explaining it. I want to take up space explaining something else.

I want to tell a story about what I consider another mistake. The mistake of a newspaper making an issue out of a non-issue. A story out of no-story.

A headline in Saturday's Avalanche Journal read, "Lockney Board Member Involved In Incident".

I was at the board meeting and I know the people involved in this story, so I'd like to tell another side.

Attending the LISD Thursday board meeting in question was yours truly, an AP writer, a reporter for the AJ (Linda Kane), and Mark Birbaum.

Mark is the cameraman and the second half of a team working on a PBS documentary on Lockney's drug testing policy. Mark and Jim Schermbeck have obtained a grant for this documentary.

They intend to interview as many people as they can--on both sides of the issue. They are trying to make the documentary without their voices being on the film at all. You will hear only the voices of those who choose to tell "their side of the story".

Although it will have to be edited, of course, the team intends to keep as much of the content of your words in the film. It will not be small soundbites, or a one line quote taken from a 10 minute interview.

The reporters were at the meeting to get any information they could from the recent announcement of the drug policy being amended.

Mark was also at the meeting for that reason, as well as to get footage of the board members.

It is a very small room. There is not much space to move around in and Mark's camera can get very intimidating. I know, I've been in front of it. The camera can also be very distracting to those trying to conduct business. Also, in all fairness, the board members are just a little bit tired of the news coverage.

Mark and Jim know all of this. They wish they had been the first team investigating this, so they wouldn't have to deal with the fallout of "bad press".

Anyway, the LISD meeting has ended. Reporters are talking to board members and people are mingling around.

Mark Birbaum is outside the building with his camera when he hears the glass doors fly open. He spun around with his camera and started filming Board Member Dan Smith walking out of the building.

Mark says, "He was coming out fast and straight toward me. He threw up his hand and that's what I saw in my frame. It looked like a fist to me. Mr. Smith brought his hand up and then grabbed both ends of a folder and put it up to the camera lens. He said, 'get that camera out of my face.'"

It was over pretty quick. It was witnessed by AJ reporter Linda Kane.

Mark said he got in his car and then came back and told Linda he hoped nothing got reported on that scene. He made it clear it was not an issue with him. He also called the AJ and talked to the editors and made it clear it was not an issue with him. He went all the way to the top and it didn't make any difference. The AJ saw it as a threat and they intended to report it that way. In fact the AJ editor, Mr. Sanders, made it clear he intends to teach Lockney to treat their reporters with more respect.

Mark said a later review of his film showed no fists whatsoever.

There is good news here--the fellows doing the documentary have gotten a small taste of the type of press that Lockney citizens have grown tired of. Now it's up to you. Do you want this chance to get away, or do you want to talk to Jim and Mark and get another opinion out as well as the ACLU is getting their opinion out.

Mark told me today, "We are here to give people the opportunity to say what is on their mind. The difference between us and the newspaper is we have nothing to sell, we have a grant. If we don't do this fairly it will never get on PBS. It can't be one-sided. There are a whole lot of very talented people working on this project."

"We want to fully explore for hundreds of thousands who watch the show (maybe millions), just what this town has decided to do and what they've come up against."

Mark and Jim are both very sorry this was ever reported and appear, to me, to have the utmost respect for all the citizens of Lockney.

You may not like the way they edit, of course, but I do believe they will be fair--and decent. No vulgar words and no vulgar advertising. I am still encouraging Lockney citizens to talk to them. Put your best foot forward one more time--I don't think these guys will bite it off.

By the way, the AJ story also made reference once again to a reporter having to be escorted out of Lockney's March school board meeting for his own safety.

I found out who the reporter was and called him. He works at the Plainview Herald and he said very plainly that that incident was also blown out of proportion by the AJ and he had no intention of ever making an issue of it.

I'm not going into all those details again, but there does seem to be a pattern developing here.

email: chowdipper@earthlink.net

Some time ago, in the early part of July, we submitted a list of questions to Mr. Clinesmith of Denton, who is standing as the Democratic nominee for the U.S. House of Representatives representing the 13th Congressional District (which is the Congressional District encompassing Floyd County.) We asked Mr. Clinesmith for his views on certain issues, issues on which Mr. Thornberry, our current Congressman, has taken certain stands, and on which he had cast certain votes, or had expressed himself as approving or disapproving certain issues before the Congress, or likely to come before the Congress.

We received no response from Mr. Clinesmith, although we did receive a very nice, cordial response from his Press Secretary, promising a response within a few days. We noted, for instance, in our correspondence to Mr. Clinesmith's office, that Mr. Thornberry had voted to impeach Mr. Clinton, and asked how he would have voted had he been in Congress and called upon to vote on the issue. We also asked what Mr. Clinesmith thought about various issues now before the Congress or that were apt to come before the Congress. We asked what Mr. Clinesmith, a personal injury lawyer, thought about campaign finance reform, and whether he would be in favor of including labor unions in the reporting procedure that might be a part of any campaign finance reform legislation. We told Mr. Clinesmith that at this point in the campaign we were not interested in comments on personalities, only on the issues he might be called upon to vote for or against, or on issues on which Mr. Thornberry had taken a position. Our thought was that we could inform our readers how the two candidates, Mr. Clinesmith and Mr. Thornberry, might differ on various issues.

Those promised few days have come and gone. In fact, weeks have come and gone. Still no response from Mr. Clinesmith.

We, having been involved in political races, understand completely the demands placed on a candidate running for office. We feel he has had sufficient time to formulate his answers. We also understand the strategies and tactics of campaigns. We suspect, strongly, that Mr. Clinesmith does not wish the people of this district, or this county, to know exactly where he stands on certain issues, lest that knowledge redound to his discredit, and the loss of votes he might receive from people who otherwise might vote for him.

A voter is always entitled, in our view, to know how a candidate would represent him, or her, once in office. The incumbent, whoever he or she may be, has a record voters may assess, one way or the other. A challenger should be willing to state his own position. He should be willing to say where he agrees with the votes cast by his opponent, and where he would differ. Then the voter can make an intelligent choice in November. Up until now, we have been unable to determine exactly what Mr. Clinesmith believes, other than the fact that he would like to be a Congressman

Letter to the Editor

Dear Alice,

You mentioned in your column last week that I went to Los Angeles to tape the Dr. Laura Show, and I just wanted to make a few comments concerning that and the drug testing issue in Lockney.

Dr. Laura has a very successful radio program but is branching out into television with a program that will air daily and make its debut on September 11 on the UPN network. It is my understanding that the show that I was a part of will air as the first or second show on the 11th or 12th.

Dr. Laura is normally very pro-parental rights. But in our situation she is very much for what our school district is doing in our drug-testing program.

I am only on the program in a short five-minute segment along with three other guests. However, the real value of the program comes in many of the other segments where teens who have been on drugs and a parent who took extreme measures to help her children speak out about the personal experiences.

Several of the audience members and one of the teenagers that was against our testing (who also questioned me in my segment) came to me after the taping and told me that what I said changed their minds and they now believe that we are doing the right thing. They wish that their schools would do the same, because it might have saved them from the torment of drug addiction if they had received help in the early stages.

This experience coupled with a speech that I heard last week made me want to speak out about the way in which we are often held back by fear from speaking boldly about controversial issues.

Bruce Vincent, a logger from Montana, spoke at a gathering of farmers and ranchers, encouraging each of us to become activists. As he stated that evening, the image of an activist is usually a negative one. Yet, we fail to realize that you don't have to stage a demonstration or get arrested to get your point across.

What it does take is being informed, being articulate, and speaking your convictions in love from your heart and not in anger from your mouth.

I know that most of you are as tired as I am of the misrepresentations in the media, (particularly in the Lubbock Avalanche Journal) of the events that have occurred since the inception of the drug-testing controversy. No reporter has been escorted out of town. No board member has assaulted a photographer. Yet the sensationalism in journalism gets more attention than the truth.

I do know one thing in this matter. Speaking out and letting these publications know that they have misrepresented the truth may not make them change. But sitting back quietly and letting them manipulate the facts GUARANTEES their continuation.

The first time that I traveled to LA in July, I faced an obnoxious ACLU lawyer and misinformed people who have only heard the media's version. After I spoke at length about our situation, one of the members of the group that is against the war on drugs told me that he had not been given all of the facts and that we really needed to speak out and let people know the truth. My response to him was this..."We shouldn't have to be defending ourselves, because we are not the ones misrepresenting the facts."

I learned something else from my experience. It is very easy for those against the drug testing to face someone who is on their side. But they must be very afraid to stand face to face with those who are for it. Mr. Tannahill and the ACLU lawyer associated with the case were invited to present their side on both of the tapings of the Dr. Laura show (the first of which will not be broadcast). However, they declined an all-expense paid trip. My only conclusion from that is the fact that they are afraid to face the truth.

I know that Jim Schermbeck has received a grant to film a documentary about our policy and many of our citizens are gun-shy about speaking out because our words get twisted along the way in the media's interpretation.

But what you say on film cannot be twisted and this is our opportunity to become activists in this matter and speak boldly about the positive effects the drug testing has had on our school.

Thus, I would like to encourage everyone who feels strongly about this issue to consider being a part of the solution by being vocal in your support of our school board, administrators and the policy we asked them to implement.

The key to speaking out is thinking before you speak, never raising your voice in anger, and looking the enemy in the eye so that they can see that you are a human being just like they are. In your eyes and your manner, let them see that you have a genuine love for the children of our community and are intelligent enough to weigh the pros and cons of the issue.

In these times, it seems that so often the battle for our rights has nothing to do with what is best for us as a nation or even as an individual, but is instead a battle of pride and selfishness fought by those who love the limelight.

If we as a community will join together in prayer for this situation and ask God to give us the courage and the words that need to be said, then I have no doubt that He has the power to make each one of us, in our own way, activists fighting for what is good.

I realize that this has been very lengthy, but I thank you for allowing me to share these thoughts and words of encouragement.

Sincerely,

the motion, starting with the customer's August electric bill, to change the charge for 'fuel cost' from the approximate $.01 cent to the approximate $.022. The motion was seconded by Sue and unanimously passed.

Councilman Ruben Barrientoz made a motion to set the week of September 11-16 (Monday -Saturday) as "free dumping" week at the City Landfill for Floydada utility customers, with the exclusion of tires, which will be charged at the normal fees.

The motion was seconded by Councilwoman Bettye King and it was unanimously approved.

The council set a flat fee charge of $25, for each round trip to the Plainview prison, to all organizations when hauling work crews of prisoners in the City van.

A Public Hearing was opened concerning the Juvenile Curfew Ordinance. Following the Public Hearing the council unanimously approved a motion by Cornelius, and seconded by Nielson, to leave the City Juvenile Curfew Ordinance "as is" with no changes.

Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Bruce Ballou addressed the council and reiterated his intentions on building a general mechanics and wood-working workshop building across the street to the East of the PAC offices, where their garden now exists.

Ballou said, "I have discussed with the Juvenile Board about our vocational program for the Parent Adolescent Center. One of the problems that we are seeing is that we are being successful in reducing the crime rate in Floyd County and our Judicial District.

"We get these kids at 17 and 18 years of age. One of the problems is that when we let them off probation and turn them loose, they don't have anything to fall back on. So they go back to doing the same old thing they have always done. And getting the same old thing they have always got," Ballou added.

"One of the things we are going to attempt to do is at least prepare them for probably minimum wage with a skill once they become young adults.

"We have accepted a private donation from a Floyd County resident which will allow us to build a structure to house this program. I have received approval from the Juvenile Board to go ahead with this.

"I hope to acquire the property right across the street from PAC. There are four lots that we are looking at. One is privately co-owned and we are working to acquire that lot.

"There are three lots east of that lot that are owned by the city. We would like to make a proposal to you to acquire those lots.

"Our intent is to focus on automotive mechanics and industrial/building construction technology with a woodshop. We hope this will generate some revenue to put back into the program and build it as we go. We will start out slowly by doing small jobs in automotive and some woodwork crafts," Ballou concluded.

Schacht made the motion to accept PAC's low bid of $250 each for the three City lots, Lot 9, 10, 11, Block 60, Original Town. Barrientoz seconded the motion and it passed by a unanimous vote.

City Attorney Karen Houchin addressed the council reminding the old members, and instructing the new members, of their responsibilities as council members to conduct themselves within the law.

Some of the topics covered by Houchin included: (1) the council cannot hire relatives; (2) council members must disclose any conflict of interest financially; (3) council members cannot hold dual government offices; (4) the council must post date and time of meetings; (5) most records and notes in Open Meetings must be shared with the public; (6) all Executive Sessions must be strictly confidential and not be discussed with anyone; (7) the council cannot give away property; (8) the council cannot purchase property over $15,000 without bids; and (9) the council must operate with a budget.

Care Center celebrates birthdays

By Lorilla Bradley

August is a "sizzler"
Almost all the time
And if we're not too careful
We may complain and whine!

The first one we will honor
...Rosebud" is her name...
She likes the lovely roses
And "blooming" is her game!

Ruth McIntosh we're greeting...
...Shes slowed her step a bit...
But years when she was teaching
He classes were a "hit!"

Ruth Harrison is a lady
...She counts from 1909...
Who always is so friendly
So drop in any time.

Salutes to Mr. Eakin
He dates from 1903...
He knows so much of history...
Just visit and you'll see.

To cheer these lovely people
On this their special day
Lets do the birthday "ditty"
To cheer them on their way!

Thursday, August 17th was birthday party time at the Rehab and Care Center with members of the City Park Church of Christ hosting.

The honorees were seated in the lobby and each wore a lovely corsage/boutonniere compliments from dg Floral and Design.

We are sorry Ruth McIntosh and Rosebud Bonjour were unavailable for the photograph by the Hesperian photographer.

The poem was read and all joined in singing the Happy Birthday Song.

Each honoree received a gift package containing items to be used in their room along with snack treats to be enjoyed there also.

The Care Center provided a delicious birthday cake complemented with fruit punch enjoyed by honorees, guests and other home residents.

Ruth Harrison had as her guests her son and daughter-in-law Joe Max and Janette.

The next party will be Thursday, September 21st at 3:00 p.m. Please come and celebrate with your loved ones and friends. We are always happy to have visitors.

Safe medicine doses important to children

There is more to prescribing medicine to children than meets the eye. Studies under way at Baylor College of Medicine and Texas Children's Hospital have been designed to determine the proper doses of medication for children and eliminate some of the current guesswork.

"One practice has been to give a child who weighs half as much as an adult half as much medication," said Dr. Susan Blaney, associate professor of pediatrics at Baylor. "That isn't necessarily a rational way of prescribing. A lot depends on how the body handles the drug."

Eight medications, from antibiotics to antacids, are the focus of studies. The Houston site is one of 13 that serve as the Pediatric Pharmacology Research Unit Network.

The nationwide network gives investigators access to a large pediatric patient base and experienced physicians in a wide variety of subspecialties.

A primary purpose of the network is to provide the data necessary for FDA approval for new drugs and drugs already on the market that will be given to children.

"In the past, there has not always been adequate information on drugs used in children. Not only is there a difference in prescribing medication for children compared to adults, but there may also be differences in newborns, toddlers, and teenagers," Blaney said.

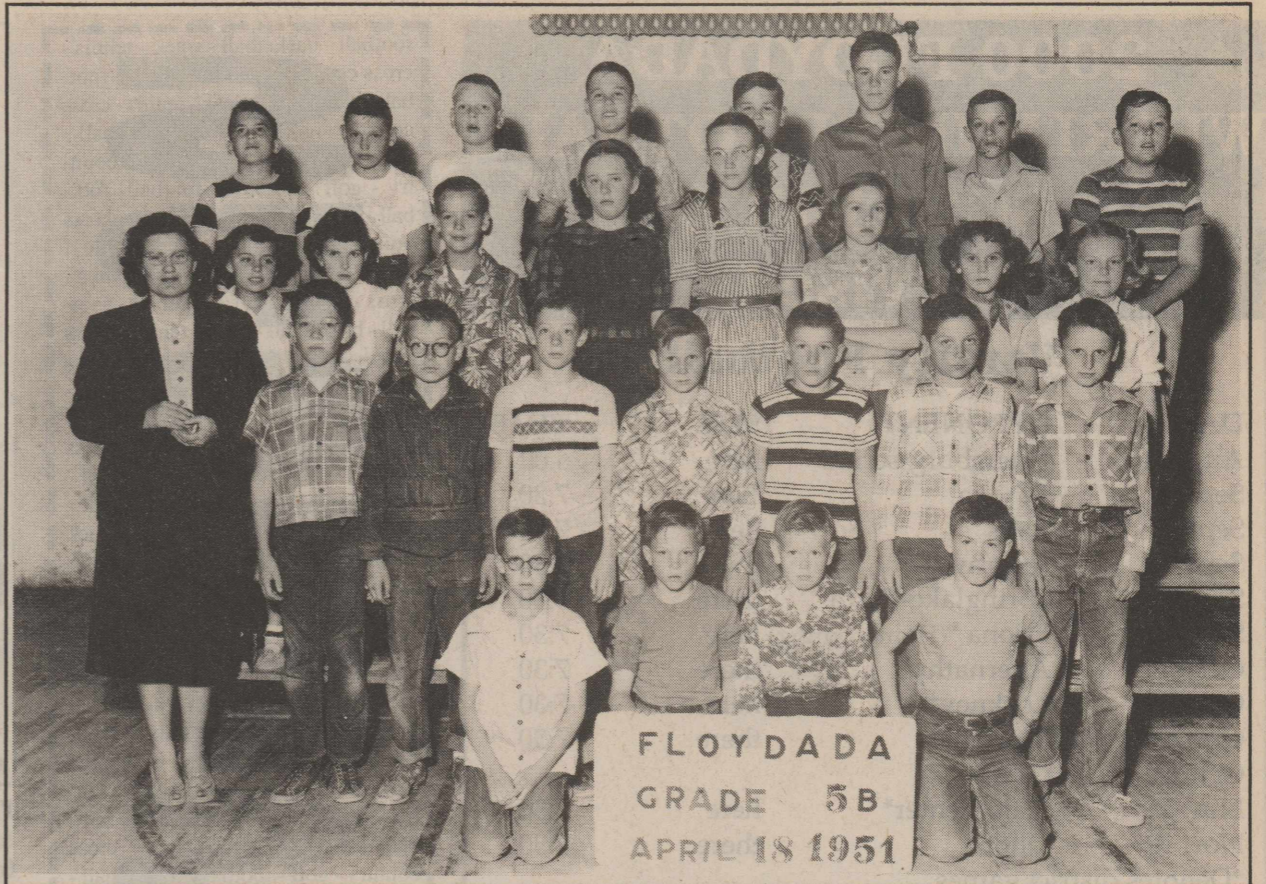

The way children's bodies metabolize the drugs at different ages will be a key factor in the studies. Age and organ function are the usual indicators in how a child will handle a drug, Blaney said.

"Weight is not necessarily a factor. You can have a 7-year-old who weighs 40 pounds and a 7-year-old who weighs 65 pounds, but their organ maturation and function could be similar," she said.

Two primary types of studies will be conducted. In pharmacokinetic studies, blood samples are drawn at regular intervals over a period of hours to determine how the body is processing the drug. In efficacy studies, the research focuses on how well a drug works in children compared to what is considered standard for that disease. The efficacy studies take a longer time.

In addition, the network is performing studies to evaluate the effect of genetics on drug metabolism.

"Physicians prescribing medicine want answers to these questions," Blaney said.

REMEMBER THE GOOD OLE TRACTORS

Irrigation, bugs, and meetings in full swing in the cotton patch

By Shawn Wade

As if high irrigation pumping costs, on-going beet armyworm pressure, aphids and persistent hot, dry conditions weren't enough, growers in some areas of the Texas High Plains are also facing a rapidly building population of boll weevils that could further strain both pocketbooks and the tolerance of area bankers.

Over the past few weeks boll weevil populations outside of the three active boll weevil eradication zones have been steadily building and are becoming an increasingly serious problem for producers.

The biggest problem is predictably confined to the non-active eradication areas in the Northern High Plains and Southern High Plains-Caprock regions. Some of the counties most affected are: Briscoe, Cochran, Crosby, Floyd, Hale, Hockley, Lubbock, Swisher, and parts of Lynn and Garza.

As both the NHP and the SHP zones progress toward eradication program referenda this Fall the rising presence of weevils in and around cotton fields will draw producers' attention to the growing problem.

High Plains Sunflower field day to be held Tuesday, August 29 as Halfway

By Tim W. McAlavy

Farmers on the High Plains can learn more about sunflower production at an Aug. 29 field day sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Sunflowers are an alternative crop often grown in rotation with cotton, corn, grain sorghum and other crops. Many farmers also grow sunflowers as a late-season catch crop," said Calvin Trostle, Extension agronomist based at Texas A&M's Lubbock Research and Extension Center. "The Experiment Station at Halfway, in Hale County, will host the field day. The Halfway station is 12 miles west of Plainview on U.S. Hwy. 70.

"We will review common producer concerns about growing sunflowers, and discuss how producers can successfully use sunflowers as rotation crop with cotton and other crops."

The field day begins at 1:30 p.m. and will feature these speakers and topics:

*West Texas Sunflower Agronomy: Common Production Problems, Travis Miller, Extension agronomist, College Station.

*Sunflower Insects and Control. Greg Cronholm, Extension Integrated Pest Management agent, Plainview.

*Fertility for Sunflowers in a Cotton Rotation, Calvin Trostle.

"We will move to the turn-row at the Halfway Station at about 3 p.m., where producers can examine the latest conventional, confectionary and oilseed hybrids first hand. Representatives of Red River Commodities, Triumph Seed and Cargill Hybrid Seeds will be on hand to profile these hybrids growing in Texas A&M's sunflower field trial.

"We will wrap up the field tour with a producer feedback session on sunflower production problems and commodity support needs, and query them on how we can make our research and extension educational programs more responsive to their needs and concerns. Producers can earn one general Continuing Education Unit (CEU) at this field day."

For more information on this event, call Trostle at 806-746-6101, or the Hale County Extension office at 806-291-5267. Red River Commodities, Lubbock; Triumph Seed Company, Ralls; and Cargill Hybrid Seed Plainview; are cosponsors of this event.

FARMERS KEEP AMERICA GROWING

Managing Cotton Harvest in Ultra-Narrow Rows

Planting cotton in ultra-narrow rows is a growing trend through the Southwest. When handled properly, the technique is producing high yields of high-quality fibers at a lower cost per pound compared to conventional cotton. Ultra-narrow-row cotton also appears to withstand droughty conditions better and produce longer fibers than conventional cotton.

But it's important to manage ultra-narrow-row cotton from planting right through to harvest. Growers find the technique can mature a crop 10 to 14 days earlier than conventional cotton. While this earliness can lead to significant cost savings, moisture levels in cotton can be no more than 14 percent at picking, meaning a desiccant is necessary in ultra-narrow-row cotton to achieve that level of moisture.

When used in a harvest aid program, CYCLONE® herbicide allows growers to:

- increase cotton yields by cracking more mature, unopened bolls
- schedule cotton harvest and reduce harvest problems, such as high plant moisture
- reduce regrowth of cotton foliage after cutout
- eliminate late-season weed problems
- improve lint quality and gin turnout by reducing levels of green foliage at harvest

Apply a tankmix of Cyclone with phosphate or chlorate defoliant when bolls are 80 percent open and the remaining bolls to be harvested are mature. When tank mixing with other defoliant, treat when bolls are 60 percent open and remaining bolls are mature.

After cotton has been properly defoliated, use Cyclone to open mature bolls and desiccate green weeds when 75 percent or more of bolls are open and remaining bolls are mature.

Let Cyclone help you get the most yield, quality and profit out of your ultra-narrow-row cotton. The better you can control your cotton harvest, the more lint you'll put through the gin.

Social Security provides savings guide to retirement

By Mary Jane Shanes
Social Security Manager

Social Security was designed to provide only part of your retirement income. It replaces almost 40 percent of an average wage earner's pre-retirement earnings. According to most financial experts, you will need about 70 percent of your pre-retirement earnings to provide a comfortable retirement.

Fortunately now Social Security provides tools to help you formulate a savings plan to prepare for your financial future. The first, the Social Security Statement, provides you with estimates of the monthly retirement, disability and survivors benefits you and your family may be eligible for now and in the future and also a listing of your past earnings.

You will receive your Statement in the mail every year about three months before your birthday. It is an important person document and should be used for your financial planning and to keep track of your earnings under Social Security.

The other tool, the Social Security Retirement Planner, can be found on Social Security's website at www.ssa.gov. It will allow you to:

- calculate your retirement benefits using different scenarios;
- find out certain types of earnings and pensions can affect your retirement benefits;
- see if your spouse and children will be eligible for Social Security benefits on your record; and
- discover your options if you are close to retirement age.

Although Social Security doesn't provide 100 percent of your retirement income, it is still a base you can count on. These new planning aids will help you use that base to plan for a more financially secure future.

In accordance with the provisions of the Texas Agriculture Code, Chapter 74, Subchapter D, and 4 Tex. Admin. Code, Chapter 3, Subchapter A, the Texas Department of Agriculture (the Department) will conduct a referendum on the proposition of whether or note cotton growers shall establish a boll weevil eradication program in the Northern High Plains Boll Weevil Eradication Zone and pay a maximum annual assessment in the amount of $12 per land acres of irrigated cotton and $6 per land acre of dryland cotton, including skip-rows, for up to thirteen years, plus a maintenance fee thereafter. The initiation of a program at this assessment level is contingent upon obtaining financing to allow an eradication program to operate within a maximum budget level of $96.93/acre, the projected cost for a four-year eradication program. If approved, the program and assessment are expected to begin on a date determined by the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation and the Texas Department of Agriculture based on biological and geographical considerations and the availability of resources. If the necessary financing is not arranged prior to program commencement, the program will not be initiated and no assessment will be collected.

The Northern High Plains Eradication Zone consists of all of Swisher and Hale counties; the part of Randall County that lies south and east of a line running along Highway 60 from the Deaf Smith County line east to Interstate 27, then running north along Interstate 27 to the Potter County line; the part of Armstrong County that lies west and south of a line running along FM 294 from the Carson County line to Hwy 287; then running due south to Mulberry Creek; then running east along Mulberry Creek to the Donley County line; the part of Briscoe County that lies west of a line running along Hackberry Creek from its intersection with the Armstrong County line to its intersection with the Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River; continuing south along Cherokee Creek from its intersection with the Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River to County Road 27; continuing south along County Road 27 to Hwy 256; continuing west along Hwy 256 to the Caprock escarpment; and continuing south along the Caprock escarpment to the Floyd County line; and the part of Floyd County that lies south and west of a line running along FM 97 beginning at the Motley County line; continuing west to the Caprock escarpment; and continuing north along the Caprock escarpment to the Briscoe County line.

Also, as part of the referendum, a representative of the above-referenced zone will be elected to serve on the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation Board of Directors. The board is charged with administering the boll weevil eradication program in Texas.

The referendum and board election will be held by mail balloting. Ballots will be mailed by September 11, 2000. All ballots cast by mail must be postmarked no later than October 2, 2000, in order to be valid. Any cotton grower having cotton production in the year 2000 within the zone define above is eligible to vote, and, if he or she resides in the Northern High Plains Zone and has at least seven years experience as a cotton grower, can have his or her name placed on the ballot as a candidate in the board member election. A cotton grower is defined as a person who grows cotton and receives income from the sale of cotton. The term includes an individual who, as owner, landlord, tenant or sharecropper, is entitled to share in the cotton grown and available for marketing from the farm, or or share in the proceeds from the sale of the cotton from the farm.

Any person eligible to vote in the referendum or board member election that resides in the Northern High Plains Zone and meets the seven year experience requirement may place their name in nomination for election to the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation Board by written application to the Department at the address provided below. Nomination forms are provided by the Department and must be signed by the nominee and least ten other eligible voters. The nomination form must be received in Austin by September 4, 2000 and must provide the legal residence of the applicant. A nomination form may be obtained by contacting the Department office or any county agent located in the voting area.

For more information regarding the referendum and election, of if you are a cotton grower in the above-referenced area and do not receive a ballot, please contact the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas, 78711, telephone 512-463-7593.

The Country Preacher
By Pastor Darwin Robinson

FLEAS AND CHICKEN MITES-I do not know WHY they were created. However, I do know WHEN they are on me, I have the urge to kill them as soon as possible.

In the early 70's I was visiting the Chontal Indian church at 8,000 feet in the mountains of southern Oaxaca. The village overlooks the Pacific Ocean and is a three hour hike up.

After a winter cold night service, I was ushered to a small shed behind the pastor's thatched roof hut. With my warm sleeping bag, I thought I would get a good night's sleep.

NOT SO! I didn't know it, but I was sleeping where the dogs usually sleep. So I was sharing my sleeping bag with about 1,000 dog fleas. (Don't dispute my numbers!)

When my sleeping bag filled up with fleas, I decided to vacate the premises. I shook. I brushed. I picked.

I hung the sleeping bag inside out on a post and occupied the hammock nearby. I shivered all night in the cold breeze, but I was 'flea free'!

Meanwhile back in Tampico, during a visit by a group of young people from our home church, we had a run-in with 2,000 chicken mites. (Don't dispute my numbers!)

I had rented this little building behind a house in a very poor neighborhood of Tampico. We were conducting services and trying to start a church.

On Sunday morning I asked one of the preacher boys from the visiting group to preach and I would interpret into Spanish. This we started doing when I began to notice specks appearing on my open Bible.

I tried to brush them off, but to my surprise, I smeared tiny drops of blood as each speck burst. "Houston, I knew we had a problem!"

Everyone else began to experience the same thing. Chicken mites were falling from the ceiling into our hair and all over our clothes. I had no choice but to dismiss the service.

As we exited and headed for the pickup and their van, the landlord told me the house I rented was being used as a chicken house during the week. END OF RENT CONTRACT!

We went straight home and everyone showered. We hung our clothes outside in the sun.

MORAL OF THE STORY: "Ben Franklin said: He who lies down with the dogs shall rise up with the fleas." (or chicken mites!-Robinson)

The Paper Pulpit
By: Pastor Henry Russell

"WALK IN THE WORLD FOR ME TODAY"

A Goodhouse Keeping Magazine appeared a few years ago, about a young man just 22 years old that was losing his 4 year struggle with leukemia. How he had enjoyed life. A few days before he died, he tells his mother, "Do something for me today. Leave a little early...walk a few blocks...look at the skies...walk where I would have walked...Walk in the world for me today." Jesus said something like this before He died, "As the Father has sent Me, So send I you." I wonder where I would need to walk if I walked where He walked?

HIS STEPS LEAD HIM TO CHURCH

As His custom was He went into the synagog. If He should walk through our town today, I'm certain He would still do the same.

HIS STEPS LEAD HIM APART TO PRAY

Jesus was certainly a praying man. He would often steal apart from others and spend time alone with His

HEAVENLY FATHER. HIS STEPS LEAD HIM TO HOMES WHERE FOLKS WERE IN NEED AND HURTING

He went to Peter's Mother-in law's house to touch her fevered body. He told Zaccheus, "I must abide in your home today. When I leave, you'll be saved, your name in the Book of Life." Even so, send I you.

HIS STEPS LEAD HIM TO GETHSEMENE

A Deep commitment of total surrender to God's perfect will. Hear His words, "Nevertheless, not my will but Thine be done." He could sure use some folk that would walk for Him today.

HIS STEPS LEAD HIM TO THE CROSS

Of course, none of us need to go to that old rugged cross. He did that in our stead. Yet, He has told us that we too have a cross to bear. He told us to do this daily if we want to be His disciple. We sing, "Must Jesus bear the cross alone, and all the world go free? NO! there's a cross for everyone, and there's a cross for me."

The best thing a father can do for his children is love their mother.
