Наро,

There is a year lost behind us, lots of words we never spoke and now we have our separate lives yours in heaven and mine one earth. Growing up, we played, we talked, we laughed and we cried through thick and thin and in difficult times we emerged together as one. I miss you and today I want to let you know in my heart I have always felt the love we had and neither distance nor time can take away the bond we had. I could never ask for, want, or need a better brother because I had the best in you. I love you!

Near panic has gripped the nation's stock markets. The value, or at least the paper value, of good, solid companies has headed south, hurt by the unethical actions of a few rotten apples. Recent high flyers, like Enron, Global Crossing, World Com, are now has-beens. Even the President of the United States has felt compelled to get in the act in an effort to quiet troubled

And to add some bitter tea to America's cup, we are told the budget is facing a "shortfall" of some $165 Billion. That money will have to be "borrowed" by our government before it can pay its bills, including the usual interest free loans and grants to Israel. (The Israelis get their money "up front", which allows them to collect interest on money American taxpayers have to borrow and pay inter-

As this is written (Monday), we believe dawn is just before breaking. Allan Greenspan, Chairman of the Federal Reserve, is due to give his dance before a Senate Committee on Tuesday, and we may get some hint of what kind of shape the economy is in. But no matter what Greenspan says, the market itself will punish, indeed it has already punished, companies like Enron. It is sad, exceedingly sad, that employees and stockholders had to be punished along with the malefactors, who, in many cases, got rich in the process of fleecing everyone else. Clinton, our former President, in that same category. It was he, it must be remembered, who set, or tried to set, the moral tone for public service in this country during his Presidency. While he sold nights in the Lincoln Bedroom for outrageous "campaign" donations, his faithful partisans, including many Democratic Congressmen and Senators now accusing Bush of various political sins, were trooping down to the White House to profess their undying loyalty to Clinton, no matter his crimes. Now many of those same people are decrying the demise of ethics in parts of the business community

We really don't know how the government is going to sort all this out, or how they are going to come up with rules and regulations that will instill a degree of honesty in the captains of business and industry. In truth, there is just as much honesty in the business community as there is anywhere else in our society. There is one thing any small businessman learns early in his career, and that is to treat his customers honestly and fairly. If a customer gets the idea he, or she, is being treated unfairly, or dishonestly, by any business, they will simply go elsewhere next time. That dishonest businessman will soon be out of business.

But things change when the business becomes so large that it is run by Directors who have no real connection to developing and protecting the business, and by CEO's (Chief Executive Officers) hired by those same Directors, many of whom are chosen by the same CEO's they are supposed to police. In those companies where that practice is followed (that is, Directors chosen by the CEO), a blueprint for disaster is built into the system. If the CEO chooses wisely (from a docile Board, and an exceedingly lucrative salary, plus all manner of stock options and sweetheart deals. Otherwise intelligent Directors will, under those circumstances, agree to proposals they would discard in a minute in their own operation. After all, it is somebody else's money. Why not give the CEO a bonus, even if he has lost money for the stockholders. Why not give him stock options if he has kept the Board happy with fancy

No matter how difficult it is, we believe the politicians will come up with some workable solutions, now that elections are upon us. To be sure, one reason, probably the principle reason, we believe the government will come up with a solution is that politicians, for all their faults, have the ability to say, like the waddling duck, 'don't walk as I walk, walk as I say walk." They know how people are supposed to walk.

McCoy community gathers for 50th annual reunion

By Flora McNeill

Thirty five people met on July 14, 2002 to celebrate the fifty years of the McCoy Reunion and surrounding communities, which met at Lighthouse Electric on Matador Highway. Flora McNeill with the assistance of Billy Mac and Sharon Shipley and Billie Jo and Gleva Smith will host the reunion on July 13, 2003 at Lighthouse Electric.

In thinking about how I could present something in memory of those responsible for our meeting today, my thoughts were only filled with the first reunion of McCoy fifty "ears ago! I will quote the article from the Hesperian in it's entirety with the heading "100 Persons Attend McCoy Reunion Here" then as follows.

"Approximately 100 persons attended the first reunion of McCoy Community old settlers and students Thursday in Mackenzie Park."

"Mrs. W.W. Smith of Floydada was the oldest settler present. Mrs. Smith lacks a few days being 84."

"An association was formed at the reunion and offices elected. They are Raymond Hurst, Happy president; George Smith, Floydada, Vice president; Mrs. Thelma Jones, Floydada, secretary; and Leonard Smith, Floydada, treasurer."

"A committee was formed to make plans for a reunion next year to be held on the last Saturday and Sunday in August in Mackenzie. On the committee are Colman McSpadden, Lubbock; C.L. Berry, Floydada; and R.L. Neil, Floydada. So successful was this reunion that plans for next year's include special entertainment, speakers and

In checking the list, I find about a dozen still living. Listed in the minutes, included those in attendance were from Lubbock, Hale Center, Happy, Petersburg, Slaton, Plainview. Brownfield, Plains, Idalou, Floydada and Portales.

Lets reflect on the present for a moment when we know that our early settlers had none of the facilities of today but as Paul said in Phillipians

"Forgetting what is behind, and straining forward to what lies ahead, I press on toward the goal for the prize of the heavenly call of God in Christ Jesus." It has been said that when God shuts a door, he opens windows! Also, I'm sure these people, farmers, all believed and I quote from Ecclesiastes "A time to be born, and a time to die;

a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted."

As always we remember those who have gone on in these last years and today we dedicate this to those we've lost this year. H. Sid Waller, Vera Thacker Ownbey, Charles William Reed, Wilda Spikes Laminack, J.E. Waller, Carroll L. Fulton, Grady Jenkins, Mary Glynn Culpepper Burgett, Troy E. Cummings, Wilmith LaVerne Day Carmickle, Jewell Teague and Willie Fay Wilson Poteet.

Those in attendance were: Bill and Jean Warren, Amarillo; Mava Peterson, Lovington, New Mexico; Lou Ann and James Sinclair, Plainview; Carolyn Davis and Marvin and Zella Smith of Petersburg; Bobby D. Payne and E.M. Kids are more "buzzed" by caffeine

Are your kids guzzling down more by Baylor and Texas Children's Hos- that most kids drink more than one caffeine-loaded drinks this summer?

"The availability of caffeine products and drinks has increased," said Joan Carter, instructor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "A broader variety of caffeinated beverages, larger servings, and unaware parents can all result in more caffeine consumption."

Kids and teenagers receive a great deal of their caffeine intake from such products as carbonated sodas, chocolate, flavored teas, coffee drinks, and over-the-counter medications.

Although caffeine is not addictive, kids can develop a dependence on it, said Carter, also a registered dietitian at the Children's Nutrition Research Center, a USDA facility administered soda," said Carter. "The problem is do the same.

"Kids who develop a caffeine habit over the summer can find themselves having a harder time with sleeping habits and attention span in class when school starts," said Carter. Other effects include irritability, headaches, frequent mood changes, nervousness, and a temporary rise in heart rate.

Since many kids now consume larger servings of caffeinated colas and chocolate drinks rather than fresh fruit juices or milk, weight can also become a problem.

"Kids are encouraged to consume soda per day."

Parents can follow some of these tips to help limit their child's caffeine · Replace caffeinated drinks with herbal tea, milk, water, fruit juices, or caffeine-free beverages.

· Check ingredient labels on food products and over-the-counter medications. Two products may seem identical, but one may be caffeine-free.

· Consider caffeinated soda as an occasional treat for children and not as a regular part of the diet.

• Be a good role model. Maintainno more than 45 to 50 milligrams of ing a healthy caffeine intake in your caffeine a day - equal to one 12-ounce life can make it easier for children to Certain tree seedlings are available vice has provided a series of articles ant of alkali soils. This tree has light through all NRCS offices. Orders are taken from October to February and are delivered for pickup in March of each year. To order contact your local NRCS office at 983-2352.

In all trees there are three kinds of problems that might occur throughout the lifetime of a tree. 1. Fertilization needs 2. Insect Infestations 3. Disease

First we'll discuss fertilization needs. A common problem in our area is iron deficiency. This is primarily due to our heavy caliche based soil. Yellowness in tree leaves is the common symptom. Iron deficiency can easily be detected. One should take a close look at the tree leaf veins and if Blue Spruce - slow growing tree they are dark green in color and the leaf is yellow it's a sure bet it's iron deficient. I recommend FE 138 for row windbreak because of slow treatment. Check with your lawn and garden dealer for product. Usually one treatment is sufficient. At any rate a good well rounded tree fertilizer is suggested each year.

Secondly, insects are a common problem. There are literally thousands of insects that can affect trees. Best advise is to close examine your trees frequently. Be sure to look on the underside of the leaves. If you notice any insects try and get a positive i.d. Recommendations for treatments are much easier once we've identified the insect. A good common safe insecticide is Diazinon or Dursban. As with any insecticide make sure to read and follow the label.

The most common problem with windbreak trees especially evergreens is disease. We're not really sure why but it seems that most evergreen type trees are more susceptible to various tree diseases and fungus. Therefore there are hundreds of tree diseases. When trying to identify the disease, know the symptoms. Check with a respectable lawn/garden or tree business or County Extension Agent for help on diagnosis and recommendations. Fungus type diseases are the most common. I like to recommend a common fungicide called Daconil 2787 for most tree fungus problems: It also works well in lawns.

Homeowners must keep in mind there is not a single product that will "quick fix" all problems.

One announcement that has not yet been made, however, is the date when growers will begin signing up for the new program. We would like to express our sincere THANKS to all those that had a part with the Ole Country Market. Without the help of so many people we could not have pulled it off.

There are so many that helped we could not possibly mention them all, but a few we feel we must.

Special thanks goes to the PAC kids for their help in setting up, Travis Jones and Norman Muncy for getting the canopies, Alice Gilroy for all the press, Tony Ricketts for all the radio air time, Excel Energies for their generous contribution, 4-H for decorating the square, Boy Scouts for the use of the flags, Larry Ogden for the sound equipment, the inmates at Wheeler Unit for putting up tents and to the City of Floydada for all their help on the square.

But the biggest thanks of all goes to the citizens of Floydada. If you baked a pie, bought a pie, walked for a cake, yelled bingo, or just came out and supported the event, you had a hand in raising money for the Floydada Beautification. Thanks again to all that took place in beautifying Floydada.

> Floydada Chamber of Commerce Floydada Beautification Committee

We would like to extend our Extra Special Thanks to the families and the employers of our Chamber Board Members. These people sacrifice their homes, their offices, their stores, and their free time with their families. There are times when it seems they do more community work than their jobs. So we would like to thank the following people and business'.

The Moses Reves Family, First National Bank of Floydada, The Dr. Bill Dean Family, The Rick Perelez Family, Napa Auto Parts, The Brad Jackson Family, The Seago Family, The Floydada Rehab and Care Center, The Randy Duke Family, Kirk and Sons and Duke's Dodads, Tomas Trevino-Wal-mart, The Jose Alaniz Family, Adams Well Service, Dub Holt, FISD, Jimmy Willson and Jon Jones.
