

School Lunch Prices May Jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress goes along with President Reagan's budget plan for 1981-82, you had better count on adding at least 20 cents a day to your child's school lunch next fall.

And if you're a small-town mayor looking for a loan to build a new community fairgrounds or a building to entice new industry, chances are you'll have to look somewhere else.

Much the same is true for many farmers, rural electric cooperatives and others who will feel the pinch of a tightened Agriculture Department budget to be proposed by the Reagan administration.

Food stamps, which were expected to account for $12.4 billion of the fiscal 1982 budget, will come in for some of the sharpest cuts. But so will the federally subsidized programs for feeding school children lunches and breakfasts.

$9.7 billion so far.

The Reagan plan to sharply reduce spending in the next fiscal year by tightening eligibility and income exemption — counting a free school lunch as food-stamp credit is one idea — is awaited apprehensively by social advocates such as Bari Schwartz of the Food Research and Action Center.

"the working poor" would be devastated by cuts in benefits.

Farmers would feel the bite, including dairy farmers who have profited in recent years by rising government supports under a mandatory formula that goes up when inflation pushes expenses higher.

Administration officials said they would exempt from cuts school programs to provide free meals to children from poverty-stricken families, some 9.5 million pupils they say now get free meals.

Schools get federal meal subsidies for all pupils, not just the poor ones. And those that help children from the more affluent families would be canceled under the Reagan proposal.

Next school year, a school lunch nationally for those who pay is expected to go up to an average of about a dime to 94 cents a serving. If Congress goes along with the proposed budget cuts, it would cost another dime more, averaging about $1.13 a serving for those who can afford to pay.

Food stamps are expected to cost $11.1 billion in the year that will end on Sept. 30, but Congress has allowed only

"Our concern is that food stamp benefits are so inadequate now that any cut-back in benefits and eligibility will just throw us back to the situation that we were in back in the '60s when the program was just getting off the ground," she said in a telephone interview.

Special Interest Groups Ready To Fight Transportation Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interest groups, from mayors to aircraft manufacturers, are scrambling to wage a counter offensive to Reagan administration proposals to slash billions of dollars from the transportation budget.

Within hours after Budget Director David Stockman's proposals were leaked last week, the interest groups scurried around Washington to get copies of Stockman's so-called "black book" of proposed cuts.

Stories about the cuts began emerging last Sunday, and "by Monday we got our hands on the black book," said one lobbyist particularly interested in proposed cuts in highway funds.

During most of the week, he and other lobbyists moved to buttonhole key congressional staffers and congressmen who will be in a position to block the proposed reductions.

The U.S. Conference of Mayors condensed the Stockman proposals into 3 1/2 pages, sent them to all mayors around the country and urged them to "contact your member of Congress and the White House soon" to protest the proposed cuts.

The Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association quickened its lobbying efforts during the week. "We got in touch with just about every one of the (congressional) committees," said association spokesman Charles Spence.

The group is particularly concerned about proposals by Stockman to reduce federal funds for airport development.

Meanwhile, statisticians at the American Public Transportation Association were on the telephone during the week to get an update on the status of mass transit projects that might be threatened by the proposed cuts. They ranged from preliminary engineering money for such cities as Houston and Los Angeles to construction funds for Miami and Atlanta.

The administration is considering slashes of more than $7.6 billion in mass transit assistance over the next four years, including $1 billion during the next fiscal year.

Jack Gilstrap, executive vice president of the transit association, said he is confident some of the proposed cuts can be blocked.

"We're going to make our case" on Capitol Hill, he said.

"There's something about (mass) transit that tends to grow on you. The Carter administration found it and I suspect the Reagan administration will too. It takes a while," Gilstrap said in an interview.

Mass transit lobbyists, as well as representatives guarding the interest of other groups, are concentrating on Capitol Hill, where final decisions on budget cuts will be made.

But, says one transportation lobbyist, the real battle will not begin until after Reagan gives his economic speech Wednesday.

"Then we can focus on specific proposals not just options proposed by the Office of Management and Budget," said the lobbyist, who asked not to be identified.

Various interest groups also have tried to head off cuts by going directly to administration officials.

Status Of Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, concentrating on federal spending and tax issues, is ready to receive President Reagan's detailed budget recommendations for dealing with the nation's economic problems.

Here is the status of major legislation:

Federal Budget

With Congress starting to examine proposals for the fiscal 1982 federal budget, the government's 12-month spending and taxing period opening Oct. 1, Reagan is set to address the lawmakers and the nation Wednesday night on his economic program.

Reagan is expected to urge spending cuts of up to $50 billion for fiscal 1982. Predicting his proposed cuts "probably are going to be bigger than anyone has ever attempted," Reagan has said "there has to be a change of direction in this country and it's going to begin with reduced government spending."

Earlier this month, Reagan declared Americans are suffering from the "worst economic mess since the Great Depression" and government spending must be cut.

In mid-January, then-President Carter recommended a fiscal 1982 budget bearing a deficit of $27.5 billion, with spending set at $739.3 billion. Carter estimated the fiscal 1981 budget deficit would be $55.2 billion, compared with $59.6 billion in fiscal 1980.

Debt Limit

Reagan has signed legislation boosting the temporary federal debt limit to a record $985 billion through Sept. 30. It was the first major law passed by the 97th Congress.

The previous limit had been $935.1 billion. In seeking the increase, Reagan said he was acting "with great regret because it is clear that the massive deficits our government runs is one of the root causes of our profound economic problems."

The bill increasing the debt limit was passed 305-104 by the House and 73-18 by the Senate.

Income Taxes

Rep. Barber Conable of New York, senior Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, says he looks for enactment of an income tax cut fairly quickly, constructed around a bill offered by Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., and Sen. Bill Roth, R-Del., for a total 30 percent tax reduction over three years.

"I think substantial elements of Kemp-Roth will still be in what Congress enacts. But I think Congress will modify it," Conable said.

Reagan has said he will "ask for a 10 percent reduction, across the board, in personal income tax rates for each of the next three years. Proposals will also be submitted for accelerated depreciation allowances for business to provide necessary capital so as to create jobs."

Natural Gas

Energy Secretary James Edwards says Reagan is "moving toward complete deregulation of natural gas" prices but hasn't decided whether to seek decontrol by Sept. 30, a date being studied by the administration.

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, and Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, say they oppose reopening the natural gas deregulation question this year.

Among energy actions being urged by Reagan's Office of Management and Budget is a suggestion for changing the timetable for deregulating natural gas prices. This would provide for deregulating the wellhead price of natural gas as of Sept. 30. Under current law, controls on most gas would not be lifted until 1985.

U.S.-Iran

With congressional hearings set to begin soon, Reagan has been examining the Carter administration-negotiated agreement which, shortly after Reagan's inauguration, gained release of the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran for 444 days.

A resolution proclaiming a day of thanksgiving for the safe return of the former hostages was passed by Congress and signed by Reagan.

Thurmond has already introduced a proposed amendment that would forbid deficit spending, except in time of war, without the approval of at least 60 Senate votes instead of a simple majority vote now required on spending bills.

Thurmond said his amendment also would "ensure that the federal sector does not spend more than the private sector in relationship to the gross national product."

Thurmond, now chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he will not press for action on his proposed amendment "until we confer with the White House and see what their timetable is."

"They may prefer that we hold it off, although I wouldn't see too much merit in that," Thurmond said. "If we think they delay it too long, we may go ahead."

Thurmond Wants Budget Amendment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., says he doesn't put much faith in the proposition that any one president can handle the job of balancing the federal budget.

He is determined to press for a constitutional amendment to require all presidents and Congresses to work out balanced budgets from now on.

"Suppose he (President Reagan) does balance it," said Thurmond. "I'm pretty sure the moment he goes out, the next president — and the next Congress — will unbalance it."

"I have been (here) 27 years and in the last 25 the budget hasn't been balanced but once," Thurmond told United Press International in a recent interview. "The Congress has not shown the restraint to do it."

(Actually, the budget has been in balance four times during that period: fiscal 1956, 1957, 1960 and 1969.)

"There are so many pressures on Congress to spend for this, spend for that," he said. "Worthy things. Worthy goals. It is just a question that you don't have all that money to do it."

Thurmond has already introduced a proposed amendment that would forbid deficit spending, except in time of war, without the approval of at least 60 Senate votes instead of a simple majority vote now required on spending bills.

Thurmond said his amendment also would "ensure that the federal sector does not spend more than the private sector in relationship to the gross national product."

Thurmond, now chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he will not press for action on his proposed amendment "until we confer with the White House and see what their timetable is."

"They may prefer that we hold it off, although I wouldn't see too much merit in that," Thurmond said. "If we think they delay it too long, we may go ahead."

AMA Official Asks For Caution

CHICAGO (AP) — President Reagan's proposed budget cuts must be made "across the board" and should not single out medicine, says an executive of the American Medical Association.

The Reagan administration says it has made no decision on whether to cut Medicaid as it seeks to trim federal spending.

But Dr. James H. Sammons of Chicago, executive vice president of the AMA, warned Sunday. "You have to be particularly careful of the elderly and of the poor. Inflation has taken its toll on them."

"When cuts are made in medicine, there are going to have to be some tough decisions made as to what goes," Sammons said. "But the doctors of this country are certainly prepared to do their share and make it work. We're all aware that the economy must be brought under control."

Sammons made the comments in an interview on the last day of an AMA leadership convention here.

In a separate interview with The New York Times, Sammons said, the possibility of cuts has caused "a lot of anxiety and a fair degree of confusion."

"When you start manipulating a system that treats 3 million people a day, you'd better be a little careful before jumping off a cliff," he said in the interview published today.

Tax Policy Overtaxing

HISTORICALLY, the structure of American government has forced our domestic policies to the middle of the road. That has been a source of great strength in our political life.

While the problem of balancing the federal budget in a time of recession has posed formidable obstacles, the political mainstream seems committed to that goal for fiscal policy.

Often, lawmakers have suffered from dealing with many issues in too short a time frame. The period for dealing with problems frequently is seen as beginning with the two-year life of a new Congress, or at most, the four-year term of a new President.

Only substantial progress in that direction will reduce the pressure on monetary policy that is created when it is required to bear the whole anti-inflation burden.

TODAY, THERE is evidence of national consensus on the principal issues: 1. Inflation as a major source of national concern; 2. The need to bring fiscal and monetary policy into better balance; 3. The need for higher levels of saving and investment;

IF AMERICA is to increase its levels of savings and investment, then we must face the question of the adequacy of our tax policies.

There is also greater recognition that monetary policy alone cannot do the job.

These biases can be attacked only through significant tax reform.

How Not To Cut The Budget

WASHINGTON—About all the talk you hear in Washington these days is talk of the government's 82 budget. There's not much excitement at the White House or the Supreme Court.

and Carter—have tried to get rid of the outfit. As one of his last acts in office, Carter in December vetoed a Senate bill to keep the funding going.

WHEREUPON EVERYBODY agreed that so great a deficit would be intolerable. The consensus was clear. Let us cut the budget.

VERY WELL. As I say, Carter vetoed the 1980 effort to keep a tourist promotion funding going.

the humanities under his definition that it is a sinister force bent on undermining Biblical values and beliefs. Disagreeing with the conventional wisdom that parents are responsible if their children go astray, Davis accused the schools of doing worse than just falling down on the job.

CULLEN DAVIS, who says he turned to God for peace of mind that his great wealth couldn't buy, sees humanism as the root of what ails American society.

"FORTUNATELY for us (Americans), a lot of humanists were defeated in the last election," Davis told the luncheon gathering at the Memorial Civic Center.

HIS REMARKS are certain to raise the dander of dedicated teachers who go to church every Sunday and do their best to be a positive influence in the lives of their students, but Davis sees a sinister force at work among them.

Left Doth Protest Too Much

WASHINGTON—I haven't been to El Salvador, but the liberal press is emphasizing that there is no significant Communist presence in the civil war there. That can lead to only one conclusion: the place is crawling with Reds.

1978 alone, "the Soviet Union spent $2 billion around the globe denouncing American militarism."

in El Salvador, some people will sign anti-American petitions until they are stopped by death or writer's cramp.

Consumerism Caldron Is About To Boil Over

NEW YORK—The consumer movement that exploded with such force in the U.S. in the early 1970s will simmer in the early 1980s—a reflection of your desire to push the government off your backs. But look out!

Ads, posters, etc. can't alert everyone to a recall, particularly if the owner of the product doesn't read English. The gap is very wide.

WHILE IT HAS been clearly demonstrated that the intensified competition does tend to control costs, other occupational restrictions still exist which help keep the prices of the services rising—and these are the targets now.

NEW COMMUNICATIONS technology. Traditional consumer protection laws don't even begin to apply in the emerging world of instant communication, federal regulators fear.

PARTLY AS A result, housing defects cost the average new home buyer more than $1,000, according to a recent study by the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

THE agenda of challenges to consumer advocates grows rather than diminishes. Any demure silences are temporary.

OTHER SPONSORS included such senators as Warner of Virginia, Goldwater of Arizona, Abdnor of South Dakota, Exon of Nebraska and Hayakawa of California—all of them blessed with generally conservative ratings.

Reducing inflation by increasing unemployment is like cutting off your legs to lose weight.

Study Says Trident, MX May Boost Arms Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deployment of both the advanced Trident II submarine missiles and the MX missile system, which would enhance American strategic capabilities, might lead to accelerated nuclear arms development in the Soviet Union, a federal study says.

"The Trident II missile, combined with other U.S. programs ... could increase Soviet fears of a U.S. first (nuclear) strike," according to an arms control impact statement sent to Congress on Saturday.

The Soviets might respond to deployment of both missiles by developing new nuclear weapons that would upset the nuclear balance and could not be easily controlled by any new arms agreement, the statement says.

Although acknowledging the possible arms control risks associated with deployment of the MX, the report says, "the national political and military risks involved in not doing so are even greater."

The impact statements by the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency says some mix of Trident II and MX missiles might be found that would not threaten arms control.

The United States has not made a decision on whether to deploy both the Trident II and MX missile.

Meanwhile, the second-ranking official at the Soviet embassy in Washington, Minister-Counselor Vladilen M. Vasev, said Saturday the SALT II treaty is "not in force" because the U.S. has not ratified it.

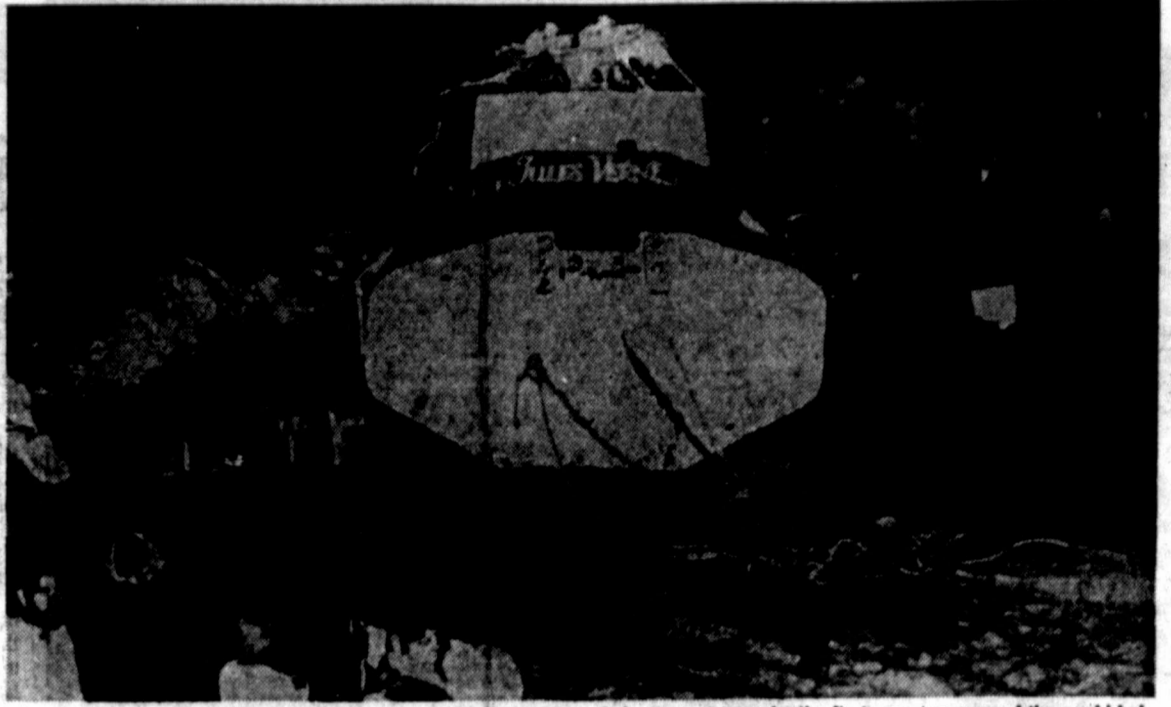

Asked about the fate of the strategic arms limitation agreement, Vasev told the Cable News Network, "I would say the ball is in the court of the (Reagan) administration ... We are in the process of waiting for the United States to do its side of the agreement."

The U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency reviewed more than 90 U.S. weapons systems and concluded that all were in accord with present arms control agreements. The report was sent to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The statements say both the land-fired MX missiles and Trident II submarine missiles would overcome increasing U.S. vulnerability to a Soviet first nuclear strike.

Arms control could be threatened, the statements say, if the Soviets developed a new weapons system to counter the increased capabilities the United States might gain from deployment of the Trident and MX missiles.

However, either the MX mobile missile system or the Trident II missiles could enhance arms control if the Soviets responded by building a controllable new mobile missile system of their own.

GROUNDLED — A crowd of excited peasants surround the balloon "Jules Verne" after two American adventurers landed their raft in a field near this northern Indian village of Murchpur Saturday. Maxie Anderson and Don Ida, who took off Thursday in their attempt to make the first non-stop, around-the-world balloon flight, abandoned their effort after the 20-story-high balloon had failed to gain enough elevation to cross the Himalayan Mountains separating India and China. (AP Laserphoto)

Balloonists Abandon Bid To Circle Globe

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Two American adventurers, their bid to float around the world in a giant helium-filled balloon ended in a muddy field at the foot of the Himalayas, said today their conquest of the air would have to wait for another year.

"The balloon is finished, we cannot use it again," the pilot, 46-year-old Maxie Anderson of Albuquerque, N.M., told UPI. "We have neither the helium nor the time. The westerlies have moved north and it is definitely off for this year."

Anderson and his co-pilot, 47-year-old Donald Ida of Longmont, Colo., made arrangements today to retrieve "Jules Verne," the battered balloon that was trampled under the feet of thousands of curious villagers in a muddy field 120 miles northwest of New Delhi.

An Indian Air Force helicopter arranged by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's son Rajiv failed in an attempt to lift out the red, white and blue gondola by cable Sunday night and Anderson said they would bring it back by truck.

A helium leak that began shortly after the balloon lifted off from Luxor, Egypt, Thursday prevented them from rising high enough to clear the snow covered peaks of the Himalayas.

The Americans feared that even if they made it to the other side of the range they might be stranded on the barren plateaus of Tibet and gave up in India Saturday.

"We decided we would rather land somewhere near civilization where it is warm," Anderson said.

The two men slept in the gondola after thousands of curious farmers and villagers arrived by camel, oxcart and foot to see the downed craft and its two American pilots.

A U.S. embassy official slept in the gondola Sunday night to guard it after most of the thousands of dollars worth of radio and navigation equipment were removed. The two adventurers planned to head back to the United States after at least two days in New Delhi.

Anderson said winds blew the leaking Jules Verne — named for the author of "Around the World in Eighty Days" — far west of the point where they wanted to cross the Himalayas. They would have needed a 23,000 foot ascent.

Originally they planned to circumnavigate the globe nonstop in eight to 10 days, sailing from Egypt over Saudi Arabia, the Arabian Sea, India, China, Japan, across the Pacific, the United States and the Atlantic Ocean then back to the Middle East.

Anderson was on the first trans-Atlantic crossing in 1978 and also made the first transcontinental balloon crossing of North America with his son last year.

'Inhumane Society' Mutilating Cats

GLENROCK, Wyo. (UPI) — Responsibility for a series of cat mutilations in the area was claimed by a group calling itself The Inhumane Society.

Town Administrator Larry Palmer said he received a letter from the group recently saying it was responsible for the mutilations, which involve cutting off the tails of cats.

Ruth Kennedy of the Humane Society, which operates the local animal shelter, said several tails have been found recently, but the de-tailed cats have not been seen.

Police Sgt. Robert Bahner said police had several leads and intended to prosecute someone for cruelty to animals, which carries a maximum $100 fine and up to one year in jail. He said the group also may be responsible for the throat slashing of an Alredale puppy, which survived.

Home-Owned Wood Metal House Services Include Shredding

With all its facilities and services related to scrap metal, the Wood Metal House at 1912 Ave. F not only locally owned but is one of the oldest businesses of its type in the area.

The services of Wood Metal House have been utilized by a lot of customers in Lubbock and region since its founding back over a quarter century ago!

Founded by the late J.W.C. Wood, the firm still essentially is a family-operated enterprise, with Mrs. C.P. (June) Houston as owner and active operator, with her son, Harry Hays, as manager.

Keeping in a leadership position in the trade is a way of business at Wood Metal House.

Example of this is recognition that the firm has the only can shredder in Lubbock, the owner reports, and purchase of aluminum cans is one of its major and appreciated services. Presently, aluminum cans are bought at 30 cents per pound.

Furthermore, customers can see their cans weighed and then run through the shredding machine in only a matter of minutes.

Most all scrap metals are purchased at the convenient lot at 1912 Ave. F, easy to reach from anywhere.

Local Ownership

Owner June Houston is a lifelong Lubbock resident and she takes pride in the local ownership of the firm, emphasizing that revenues are channeled back into the local economy.

Wood Metal House is open 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and business is appreciated, just as it has been throughout the years, whether for purchase of scrap metals or for buying and shredding cans.

"We are glad to be part of the community and economy here," Mrs. Houston always is glad to relate, "and we look forward to continued years of mutually beneficial dealings with the greatest group of customers anywhere. May we include you, look in this list?"

Remember the location, 1912 Ave. F, phone 747-2441, in Lubbock. The firm is clearly marked on the west side of Avenue F, just south of 19th.

RX Treadmill Firm Stocks Wide Selection Exercise Equipment

"Walk, jog or run in the comfort of your own home!"

This great exercise — without concern for weather, dogs or crime — comes easy, thanks to the RX Treadmill Co. that offers "Walker Jogger" treadmills in 10-speed total-electric models and in three separate manual models.

Full information and selection from a full stock is available at RX Treadmill Co., 1406 Ave. Q, Lubbock, phone (806) 747-8323, where Robert Green, 31-year Lubbock resident, is general manager.

"Green points out the following advantages of the Walker Jogger" hat puts it at the top of the class in its field."

All Walker Joggers are equipped with the all-important center guide exercise area belt that is a patented feature owned by RX Treadmill Co. Also, the registered trade name, Walker Jogger", is the sole property of RX Treadmill Co. The name "Walker Jogger" means quality.

Sturdy, Light
Walker Jogger" treadmills are especially designed for in-home use. One can depend on very sturdy construction throughout, assuring extra long life of the units, while at the same time being light enough in weight for easy moving.

All Walker Joggers" have solid steel balance wheels that are securely locked onto the machine for good smooth operation. The solid steel balance wheel and the center guide belt are two unique features in the treadmill industry and provide wonderful performance.

"It is a pure joy to use a Walker Jogger."

And note this: The Walker Jogger" foot massage action is great for better relaxation.

Each Walker Jogger" can be set for 10 to 14 degree angle for walking, jogging or running.

Furthermore, Walker Joggers" are maintained free! Any service situation can be handled in Lubbock; no need to send off to some distant area for service.

Rebound Exercisers
RX Treadmill Co. also carries a complete line of Rebound Exercisers, available in both the round and rectangular models.

RX Treadmill Co. also offers the Total Gym" equipment and other exercise equipment, in stock for fast delivery.

"If it is exercise equipment, try us for your needs."

"The hours are 10 to 5, Mondays through Fridays, and the place is RX Treadmill Co., 1406 Ave. Q, just across west from American State Bank in Lubbock. Remember, a full stock of Walker Joggers" and the Total Gym" equipment is kept on hand. Your inquiries and visits are appreciated; we know we can be of assistance in your exercise program."

WALKER JOGGER (R) FOR EXERCISE, PLEASURE — Mrs. Robert Green displays one of the Walker Jogger (R) units that are among the several items made available by RX Treadmill, local company at 1406 Ave. Q. Note the Rebound Exerciser, at right, also stocked.

'NO INCONVENIENCE, NO EXPENSIVE REPAIR' — George C. Washington of the Triple W Windshield Repair demonstrates the unique, simple, speedy and proven method of repairing many types of windshield damage. Check the accompanying story for details of this service enabled throughout the region.

Triple W Windshield Repair Affords 'Kier System' In Area

"Helping you reduce costs on quality, speedy windshield repairs" is the business of Triple W Windshield Repair utilizing the proven "Kier System" and making it available throughout the area. The Kier repair process will repair the "bullseye, halfmoon, daisy or star" type cracks that most frequently occur in windshields. It is emphasized by the distributorship, and the more expensive the windshield the greater the savings... even a savings of approximately 80 percent can be expected!

Advantages Outlined
 In brief, listed here are advantages of this system:
 The windshield will not need to be removed for the repair of damages listed above, and average repair time is only a few minutes. Then... chances are you won't even be able to locate where the repair was made!

Minimum Inconvenience
 The vehicle does not have to be brought into the shop; repairs are made "on the spot," with two mobile units working in this area (one out of Lubbock and one out of Springlake).
 A bullet-proof glass type solution is forced into the damaged crack or hole (as indicated in the accompanying picture) and a "money-back guarantee backs the claim that the pit will not crack or run."

Folks You Know
 Triple W Windshield Repair service is afforded by a family team in the area, with George C. Washington in Lubbock (2707 29th St., phone (806) 797-0130 or 792-0212), and P. A. and Brent Washington in Springlake (phone 986-2251). Triple W is distributorship for the Kier System in a nine-county area in this region.
 The area firm has been in existence just over a year, with the Kier System full tested and researched and proven for some two years before its marketing. It was first marketed about four years ago.
 One wishing attention to a windshield repair can expect service without delay, within two days or less most usually. The work is done by factory trained personnel.
 The Lubbock-Springlake distributorship makes a further point.
 "Ask about insurance benefits; it is quite possible this repair will not cost you a thing!"

Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture Presents Recliner Choices At Saving

"Quality furniture, large selection and rock bottom prices are no idle claim at Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture, just north of Clovis Road at 804 N. University Ave. in Lubbock!"

Proof:
 A huge shipment of Stratoloungers and Lane recliners has been received and look how they are priced to move!

Priced To Save
 The recliners actually are priced at just $189.88 and up!
 Also in the big shipment were wall-huggers, in choice of four colors, at $249.
 Imagine over 40 covers and frames from which to choose in beautiful, sturdy recliners... all at Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture, phone 762-3031, at 804 N. University.
 "Customers throughout the region have found that fine furniture need not be expensive... if purchased at Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture, the firm in Lubbock that asks 'why pay retail when you can buy Direct?'"

Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture is open from 10 until 6, Mondays through Saturdays.
 Tim Mitchell, lifelong Lubbock resident, is owner of the firm, affording the type service by ownership and staff to earn one's confidence, appreciation and continuing trade.
 (Leonard Chatham is latest of the well-known staff there, on the job in the delivery end of the business.)
 Mitchell emphasizes the following in qualifying his invitation for reliance upon his big store for consistent and exceptional values:
 "Why We Serve Better
 "A low overhead is a key factor in our low prices."
 "Advertised prices are cash and carry, with in-store financing available
 "We promise that we can save up to 50 percent on name-brand furnishings"
 "Merchandise is first quality, not seconds."
 "As a factory direct furniture, we term ourselves as the 'middle man,' cutting out the retailer!"
 "A large inventory is a hard and fast rule here. And if we do not have the item you want, we have access to a multi-million-dollar inventory from which we can supply you within a week!"
 "We are a live-and-let-live firm, enjoying your friendship and serving to the best of our ability, saving for you throughout the year."
 Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture is easily found and easily reached... at 804 N. University Ave. in Lubbock.
 Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed.

FABIT FLEET INCLUDES ROLL-OFF UNITS

Fabit Services Reflect Local Firm's Ability, Consideration

Fabit Corp., affording refuse container service including compactor and roll-off containers and service, says: "Thanks, Lubbock; your trade and confidence enabled our trash hauling volume to increase by 70 per cent in the past year alone!"

There must be a reason. First, Fabit Corporation's Refuse Container Service is a one-source answer to: (1) side-loading container service, (2) roll-off container service, and (3) container repairs, trading and sales.

Add to this the many other advantages of this Lubbock firm (since 1968) such as local ownership, radio dispatched units, no contract required, and readily available references.

Even with all this, the real reason for the firm's growth and loyal patronage might be summed in the following paragraph:

service, but back-up equipment is kept in readiness to guarantee Fabit's ability to service containers on a dependable and regular schedule.

Side Loading
 Several years ago, Fabit from its 1408 N. Quirt Ave. headquarters initiated a side-loading refuse container service to commercial accounts in Lubbock, and both commercial and residential service to customers outside the city limits.

This service still is a key enterprise of the Refuse Service Division.

Diesel-powered Mack trucks and efficient side-loading mechanisms handle containers quietly, safely and quickly. The side-loading containers work well in narrow alleys and in parking lots. Also, the gentle container handling results in less damage to containers and nearby objects. In contrast to heavy and cumbersome some lids on front-loading containers, side-loading containers have lids that are easily and safely used by women and children. Small 1 1/2 cubic yard containers are available for small users at minimum cost, and three or four cubic yard units are available for greater demands.

Frequency of service can be scheduled as needed; dependability is Fabit's strong point.

Roll-Off Containers
 With expansion of the Refuse Service Division, Fabit now also serves the area with the large roll-off container service including both compactor and container and open-top container service.

"Let us at Fabit's Refuse Container Division, phone 762-2650, at 1408 N. Quirt, detail the services that match your needs. Remember, Fabit can work for you, too; may we have the opportunity?"

Fabit believes in the golden Rule as applied to business practices, as is shown by its policy with regard to customer contracts. Fabit is willing to enter into contracts for trash hauling, but doesn't require a contract, and Fabit will not sign a contract that shifts part of the liability for property damage or personal injury from the hauler to the customer, or that is otherwise not fair to both parties. Our customers are our friends, and we want to earn their continued business through good service and friendly and fair business practices, this is Fabit's policy.

Fabit is owned and operated by a small group of local businessmen who make their home in Lubbock, spending their money in Lubbock. Clyde A. Blakeley is Fabit president and directs his personal attention and supervision to the company's departments including the Refuse Service Division.

Not only are all the trucks radio equipped to give better and more prompt

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe sure Answer In Budget Stretching

"You are not alone if the season's demands have caused a really great strain on the pocketbook. Were wardrobe expenditures sacrificed for other needs? If so, there is sensible assistance just as near as Hallie's Thrift Shoppe. It is a great place to trade and save in face of inflation."

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe, 3510 Ave. Q, can appreciably aid the fashion need and the economy need "for you, too" in every season of the year, as it has for so many during the past 14 years.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe is open Tuesday through Saturdays, closed each Monday.

At Hallie's Thrift Shoppe there is lots of new merchandise plus consignment items that are strictly "first class" that can be a smart solution to the wardrobe budget.

With the increased costs at every hand, it is exciting to find a firm that can greatly reduce some of this cash outlay.

There are clothes for the entire family (sold on consignment) and the prices are most appealing.

Call Regarding Consignments
 "If you have items suitable for consignment, call Hallie's at 744-6772 for appointment and arrangements."

"Please be prepared, when calling for appointment, to disclose at that time the number of acceptable garments you want to consign. (By 'acceptable' we mean apparel in perfect condition, in fashion and most usually in season.)"

Lubbock Electric Serving Oil Industry Throughout Wide Area

"Whether you have a new well installation, want to convert an existing well from gas to electricity, or need air compressor service for your wells or rigs, Lubbock Electric Co. is ready to serve you."

The experts at Lubbock Electric, 1108 34th St., phone 744-2336, can supply oil field motors, panels and belt drives, and they have the equipment and experience to install timers or pressure switches, dig ditches or provide almost any other service necessary to complete one's installation.

Since successful operation depends on trouble-free operation after the initial installation, Lubbock Electric Co. uses only the finest quality motors, controls and wiring materials.

In stock are motors by Baldor, U.S., Century and Louis-Allis, and Square D pumping panels.

Lubbock Electric also is distributor for Quincy air compressors and Dayco V-belts and sheaves.

Exchange, Loaner Motors
 Service after the sale, though, is the watchword at Lubbock Electric Co. Since they repair and rewind motors, they keep a large stock of rebuilt motors for exchange or loaner purposes. And of course, 24-hour service anywhere is made available by the qualified, experienced servicemen.

"For your electric needs, call 744-2336, Lubbock Electric Co., 1108 34th St. in Lubbock."

Classic Ballet Conservatory
Enrolling For Spring Schedule

Dedicated to the preservation of the complete tradition of classical ballet, the highly professional Conservatory of Classical Ballet, Inc., announces that its spring schedule enrollment is now underway.

Operating on the premise that success is not just by talent but by proper instruction from qualified direction, the Conservatory of Classical Ballet at 4902 34th St. (in Terrace Center, Unit 35-B) phone (806)797-9899 takes pride in its reputation and stature as the only professional classical ballet training school of its type west of the Mississippi. In fact, it instructs in a disciplined art form as only taught in a handful of schools in the entire world. Certainly, Lubbock and area is fortunate in having a school of this type.

Outstanding Qualifications
Owner and director, Peggy Willis is reputed as one of the most outstanding pedagogical pupils of John Barker, leading authority in the West on the teaching method of classical dance. Ms. Willis earned degrees at Texas Christian University and began her ballet studies in Naples, Italy. She has performed in the South and in England, performing with the American Festival in Great Britain. She has received numerous awards for choreography and teaching innovation, and in 1977 she made a trip to the Soviet Union with John Barker and his pedagogical students to observe the International Competitions for Ballet Artists in Moscow. She also is a noted director and author in her field.

Peggy Willis in Lubbock directs a faculty of four at the popular conservatory. On the staff are Paula Hunter, Brent McArthur, Mary Maynard and Brian Clement. All are highly qualified and each instructs classes in the art of classical ballet.

For All Ages
Even though the school trains pupils for a career in classical ballet, Peggy emphasizes, all ages are welcome and study for various reasons includes just plain enjoyment, for the highest quality of physical exercise, etc.

Enrollment might be said to be welcome for any reason, for any age.

Registration Underway
New classes are forming, with new beginning adult lessons slated for 1½-hour and 1-hour sessions on a two, three or six times a week basis.

Children's introduction to ballet (4 to 8 years old) involves one hour, one or two sessions per week.

Academic training for children begins at age 9 at the school, with students under that age afforded a very valuable orientation program with definite educational benefit.

Facilities Excel
Peggy Willis, an associate professor at Texas Tech since '72, opened the Conservatory of Classical Ballet at its present functional, large and attractive quarters in August of '79. Reception of this type conservatory not only has been most auspicious locally but has gained wide renown for the school in the ballet field.

All efforts at the conservatory are directed to the field of classical ballet and the children's programs.

Visitors are welcome at the Conservatory, and inquiries are especially solicited, whether from those thinking of enrollment for the professional challenges and development, for exercise or for just pure enjoyment. All ages are welcomed, and for a limited time, new students receive 10 per cent off on the comprehensive ballet album produced by Peggy Willis.

Lessons at the Conservatory are carefully prepared, with the guideline written by V.S. Kostrovitskaya of the Vaganova Choreographic School, Leningrad. Her textbooks, "School of Classical Dance" and "101 Classical Dance Lessons," translated into English by James Barker, provide the basis of pure classical training. This classical tradition is now accessible to the English speaking reader, and Ms. Willis has introduced this classical tradition, that is over 200 years old, at Texas Tech, making this university the "leader" in the field.

Testimonials regarding the Lubbock Conservatory are most impressive.

One said:
"I moved all the way from Pittsburgh, Pa., in order to be able to study at the Conservatory. Why don't you discover what's in Lubbock!"

Another said, in part:
"It is one of the finest professional classical ballet schools in the country. I realize now that you don't have to be a certain age to enjoy learning ballet." (This was from a housewife who also lauded the physical exercise and personal program enabled at the Conservatory.)

"Don't you, too, wish to know more of this Conservatory right here in Lubbock? Call now, at 797-9899, or visit the facilities in the Terrace Center, 4902 34th St."

Kay Rhea Center Expands

A "ladies' beauty center" is the correct description and stature of the enlarged Kay Rhea Electrolysis Center, 3008 50th St.

Long recognized for its electrolysis service, the Kay Rhea center has added through the months to its services, even doubling size of its quarters, to finally arrive at its present service scope.

Exercise Room
Exercise equipment has been installed in a big added room!

Proving the firm's claim as a ladies' beauty center, the now-available and popular services there are listed:

(1) The new Body Wrap process specifically designed to aid those people who need to look their best in the shortest period of time;

(2) Electrolysis, a method dating back over 100 years as a successful manner of superfluous hair removal;

(3) Nail caps;

(4) Sculptured nails and manicuring;

(5) Skin care including cosmetic facelifts; and

(6) Hair service including cuts, iron styling and perms.

Ear piercing is available. Latest in exercise equipment is provided.

Kay Rhea Electrolysis, at 3008 50th St., phone 793-7388, recently marked completion of its first year in business... 12 months of outstanding service and growth.

BJ's Toggery Racks Including Large Sizes At Budget Prices

"Large Clothes for Big, Beautiful Ladies" is making a lot of friends and customers for the remarkable BJ's Toggery, 2507 34th St. (just west of the University Avenue intersection and across from the S & H stamp redemption center.

And here is still further great news: Not only does BJ's Toggery provide the hi-fashion look in larger sizes, but smaller sizes also are on the racks! It is a store you won't want to overlook... for selection, the right sizes, and fantastically low budget prices.

One large area of the big 60 x 70 store is devoted to the larger size clothing, sizes 12 through 20 and 32 through 52. One may select from dresses, pants, skirts, blouses, uniform tops, blazers and dusters.

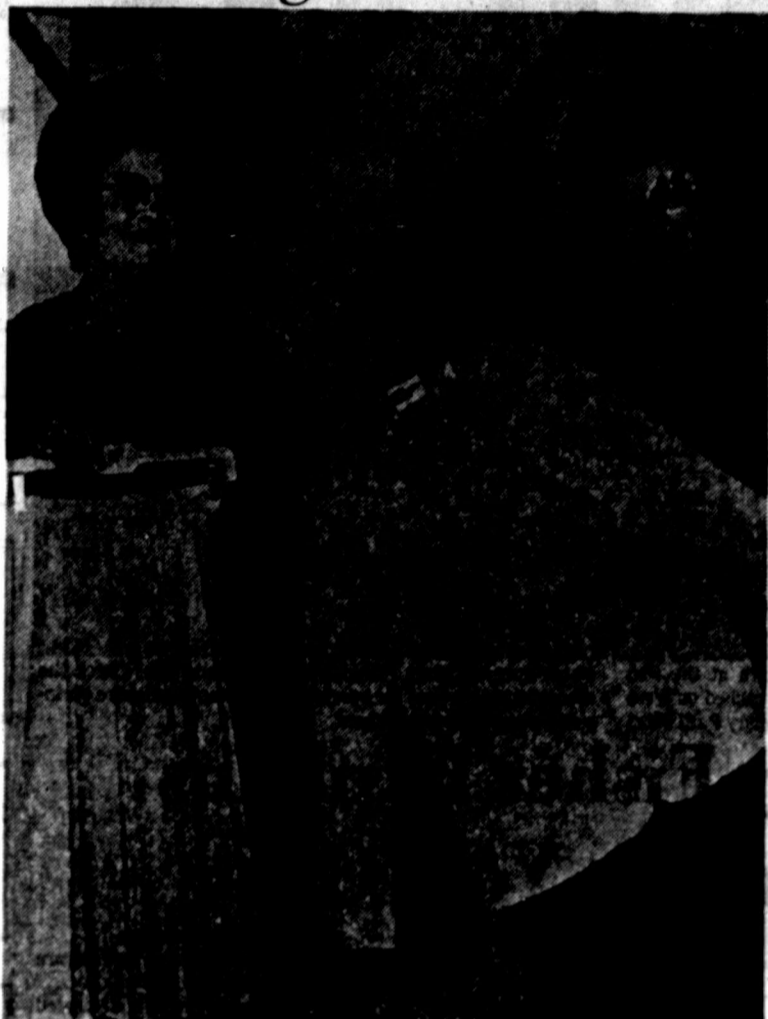

All these are at budget prices, with comparison invited to emphasize just how economical it can be for the larger woman to choose appropriately from fashion merchandise without exorbitant expense.

"In fact, you just won't believe how very low the prices are!"

Still grouped on the west side of the big, roomy store are salesmen's samples in sizes 7 through 10, with these priced just above the salesman's cost, insuring a very, very low price to the customer. One may select from these first-quality samples for very good buys in dresses, blouses, jeans, pants, skirts, jump suits and long dresses.

BJ's is owned and operated by Billie Rutherford and Jo Simmons, both long-time Lubbock residents who know retailing, clothing and the preferences of area women who expect and deserve a fashion-value combination. Jo and her husband, Kermit Simmons, have owned Lubbock Sound Equipment for some 20 years, and Billie has long been in business here, too, especially knowledgeable in the apparel trade.

Billie owned the former Factory Outlet store, at the same 34th Street location, and back in December she and Jo renamed it BJ's and expanded the merchandise to feature the hard-to-find larger sizes with patterns and prices that no longer make them "off limits" to the larger lady who appreciates such selection.

ECONOMY IN HI-FASHION WEAR — Billie Rutherford (left) and Jo Simmons, owners of BJ's Toggery just west of the 34th Street-University Avenue intersection, call attention to beautiful wearables from the stock at that firm where low budget prices are the rule, for the extensive "larger sizes" selection and for the "smaller sizes," too.

BJ's is open 10-6 six days a week. Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed, and 30-day layaway purchases can be made at no additional charge.

"Thanks to BJ's, the larger woman can dress economically, at budget prices in fact, yet still securing a chic wardrobe of fashion-oriented pattern designs best suited for her and her preferences. Larger women may now forget that "I just can't wear fashion-conscious clothes!"

Billie and Jo are most adept in their selection, stocking apparel one will desire, appreciate and wear with the knowledge that "I am dressed right, and the cost was negligible."

"Don't you think it is time you, too, discover BJ's Toggery, at 2507 34th St.?"

Fowler Hardware & Building Supplies Now Outlet For HWI's 33,000 Products

Fowler's Hardware & Building Supplies, 2256 34th St., phone 744-7433, has become an affiliate member of Hardware Wholesalers, Inc., a member-owned organization consisting of over 2,400 independent merchants.

With home office in Fort Wayne, Ind., Hardware Wholesalers, Inc. (HWI) serves retail hardware and building material dealers and has an annual sales volume of over $426 million.

Danny Fowler, owner of Fowler's Hardware & Building Supplies, says his firm now will be an outlet for more than 33,000 items in the HWI distribution center. He emphasized his firm will now be able to offer the local market a complete selection of building materials, builders hardware, brand-name tools, kitchen cabinets and paint.

No Newcomer
Many contractors, do-it-yourself handymen and other Lubbock residents have voiced their appreciation of the type store afforded by Fowler, lifelong Lubbock resident associated in the construction field for years. (HWI) plumbing and electrical background experience can be a customer benefit, with Danny glad to advise and help in selection of the proper items.

Fowler's Hardware & Building Supplies, located between University Avenue and Avenue Q (in front of the water tower), on 34th Street, also provides lawn and garden supplies, housewares, toys, appliances, sporting goods, plumbing and electrical items and more that are carried in stock or may be ordered from the HWI catalog.

Deliveries from the HWI distribution center in Waco are made each Monday. Special orders can be delivered during the week in which the order is placed if the item is ordered before Wednesday.

John Clark has been assigned as the area supervisor for the local firm. His responsibilities include employee training, inventory control, management training and product knowledge training. In addition, training meetings are conducted periodically in Waco for specialized instruction in all phases of retailing.

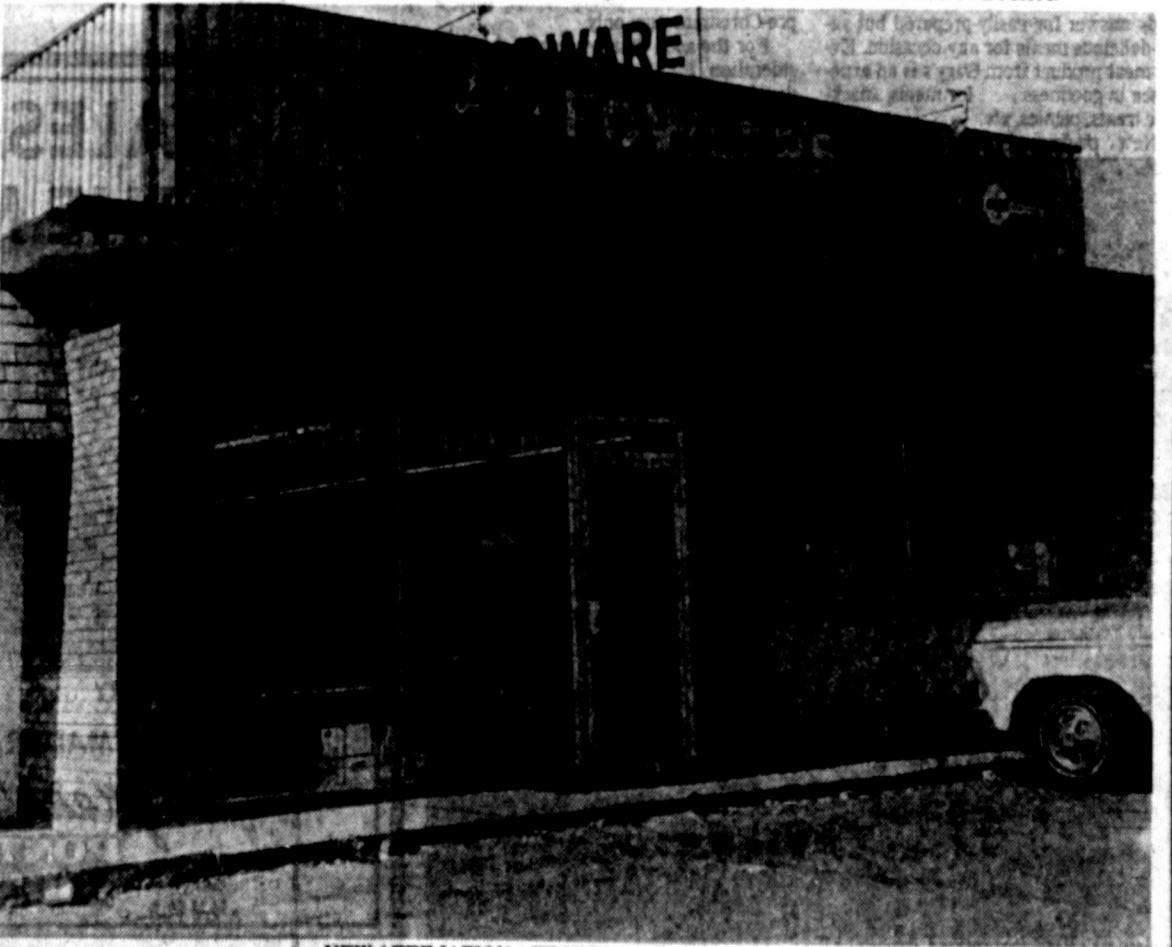

The company symbol "Mr. Friendly" will appear in all advertisements. Fowler believes the Lubbock area should have a "friendly" place to shop where a well-rounded line of items is displayed, with prices that appeal to the customer, he emphasizes.

Representative of these prices are current values such as two Westinghouse lightbulbs for 69 cents (60w, 75w or 100w soft white).

Or a Ray-O-Vac flashlight with batteries, $1.77 (all-steel barrel and including two D-size batteries).

And there's the seven-piece screwdriver set for just $2.49, featuring easy-grip unbreakable handles.

On and on the list of good hardware and building supply values could be listed, but the best idea is for "you who appreciate quality and appealing pricing to come on in to Fowler's Hardware & Building Supplies where there are scads of items one rightfully should expect to find in a better hardware store."

Pro Trim By Fisher Explains Novel 'Money To You' Offer

"It is quite possible that replacement of your broken windshield will not cost you a penny!"
That is... if Pro Trim by Fisher, 2222 4th St., enters the picture and if the windshield is insured.
In brief, it is just this simple:
"On insured windshields, either American or import vehicles, we will bill your insurance company at a definitely fair price, while paying you, directly, a full $50!"

Fair To All
"No one loses, and you, our valued customer, gain in dollars and cents from this innovative offer. In fact, many insurance companies have heartily approved of our plan, noting that they are being given 40 per cent saving off list by Pro Trim!"

Meaningful Guarantee
Windshields replaced by Pro Trim are guaranteed leakproof for life.
"Only skilled professionals dedicated to quality work could make this guarantee."
No Newcomer
Pro Trim by Fisher, at 2222 4th St., remember, phones 74Glass or 747-6245, is owned by Marc Fisher who literally grew up in the business and knows every aspect of it.

Global Discount Pharmacy Affording Specific Benefits

"Now would likely be a good time for you, as either new or old customers, to visit Global Discount Pharmacy, Inc., 2809 Ave. Q. With the day-to-day weather changes, the usual "colds," etc., a good pharmacy can be a mighty good friend!"
A lot of people in the past have learned the advantages of patronizing Global Discount Pharmacy.
Senior Citizens Discount
Some have been especially appreciative of the 15 per cent discount extended senior citizens (at age 60) on all prescriptions.
Others noted the personalized service afforded by the small operation, with the pharmacist taking personal interest and speeding one's prescription service... without the longer waits sometimes associated with the large pharmacy in more congested areas.

There's easy off-street parking at Global Discount Pharmacy, on the east side of Avenue Q, where owner-pharmacist Henry Dominguez is on the job.
Henry is a graduate of Southwestern State at Weatherford, Okla., and marks over a year ownership of his present pharmacy after serving for several years in the area, nine years with Ellis Pharmacy in Levelland, later at Stumbaugh's in Lubbock, and association with the Global Pharmacy even before purchasing it.
Henry Dominguez personally is on duty at all hours the pharmacy is open, filling all prescriptions. He is truly dedicated to giving an exceptional service.
"We think you'll like the Global Discount Pharmacy, 2809 Ave. Q, phone 744-5353."

No-Fat, No-Gristle Chili Among Great In-Demand Gary's Frozen Foods Items

Some meals and some foods are especially enjoyed during the cold weather. Right?
For instance... wasn't that chili just right that cold day, especially if it was chili from Gary's Frozen Foods?
Yes, Gary's has added chili to its product list, affording a definite treat in good meaty, no-fat, no-gristle, no-grease chili! As is true for other Gary's products, it is available in supermarkets and at the Gary's plant south of the city.
Select also from other members of the Gary's family of products: Gary's Super Dogs, Bar-B-Que Brisket, Barbeque Delight and Corn Dogs.

And there are hickory smoked turkeys, brisket and ham, also.
Gary's has quite a reputation, and rightly so, for its expertise in custom cooking, too.
Gary's Frozen Foods, at 109th Street and South University Avenue, is the ready answer for easily-prepared but super-delicious meals for any occasion. Every meat product from Gary's is an experience in goodness... for meals, snack-time treats, picnics, etc.
New packaging recently was announced, with the new barbeque brisket trays, as example, ready to place in microwave or conventional oven.

Gary still stocks the popular Dynamic electric nutcracker, great for one's own use or for special-situation gifting. Response to this unit in seasons past has been so enthusiastic that Gary has made it a year-around feature rather than a pre-Christmas item only.
For the cook that deserves every consideration, for the family or guests that deserve the tastiest of well-prepared meat products, Gary's Frozen Foods comes through... deliciously so!

SEVERAL SERVICES, VETERAN STAFF MARKS ANCHOR OPERATIONS

Anchor Steel & Supply Meeting Largest, Smallest Needs Alike

"For the largest or smallest orders, Anchor Steel & Supply, Inc., 500 N. University Ave., is a mighty good firm to know."

The folks at Anchor Steel & Supply, Inc. have been around a long time; they know customer needs and preferences and they have stocked accordingly.

Through the years they have earned the confidence of steel buyers throughout the area, whether contractors, gins, farmers, welding shops, etc.

Anchor Steel & Supply actually is a relatively new firm.

Folks Long In Experience
 Heading and staffing it, however, are men who have served together for years in the steel supply industry here in Lubbock, formerly familiar faces at another company.

Doug Williams, with 15 years steel experience here in Lubbock, is president. Jim Height is vice president; and serving in sales are John Williams, Teresa Garrett and Bill Rudolph.

Extensive Stock
 The stock at Anchor Steel & Supply includes such needs as H-beams, I-beams, channels, rebar, expanded metal, grating, remesh, angles, strips, flats, rounds, sheets, plates and pipe.

Truckload orders are welcome. Delivery service is available. Some items are available in special cut lengths.

Under same ownership and at same location is the Anchor Auto Salvage that has an exceptionally good stock of motors, transmissions, rear ends, starters, alternators, etc., on hand. Wrecked cars and pickups are bought throughout the region.

Just give the folks at Anchor Salvage a call (at 747-9687), or for steel needs call 747-2999, or better yet, visit the big firm at 500 N. University.

Anchor Steel & Supply and Anchor Auto Salvage invite your business and confidence. Come by for all your steel needs and also for auto salvage-related needs.

Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed. We appreciate you at Anchor Steel & Supply, Inc., 500 N. University.

This 'n' That Gift Shop Conducting Anniversary Sale, Reveals New Lines

Seeds of items from every department are specially priced for the Second Anniversary Sale of the This 'n' That Gift Shop, 4818 50th St.

Look at these representative values and special announcements:

Discounts of 20 per cent to 50 per cent are arranged all through the big, unique store.

Big Animals Discounted
 All the large animal figurines are being closed out at 25 per cent to a full 50 per cent off!

There's a big half-price table of other merchandise, too.

Stamp Announcement
 "February is the last month that the shop will redeem Gold Bond Stamps, but during this month we will allow $2.50 per book toward any purchase."

All Shaklee products are being closed out, with all at half price!

New Lines
 Announcement is made that the Aloe Vera skin care cosmetics by Ava Care are now being stocked, and the very complete line of Hilco brand natural and organic vitamins and food supplements is being stocked.

Store hours are 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays at This 'n' That, "Lubbock's Most Unique Gift Shop."

'Quite A Selection'
 Bringing cherished items from around the world, at an affordable price, has gained quite a following for This 'n' That. There are gift needs for every occasion and any day, with collector and decor items for every conceivable preference.

A special big table and display is devoted to musical boxes, dolls, antique copper, porcelain, ceramics and teapots all musical.

There are lots of brass items, traditional at This 'n' That.

Select from antique printer trays, electric mobiles, solar power units (really clever), and even the big brass letters that are great gifts as trivets or wall hangings.

This 'n' That, 4818 50th St., phone 792-1477, carefully guards its reputation as Lubbock's unique gift shop, serving with a tremendous stock in its expanded, modern quarters.

"Come and see us; we think you'll be amazed at the stock including so much that is new as of this week even; we know you'll be thrilled at the selection, special considerations and special prices."

Check the following as further hint of "what's new" among the firm's products and services, the factors that make it "different."

Everything from anteaters to zebras is stocked for collectors of porcelain, stuffed figures, brass, copper, etc.

The Precious Moments porcelain figurine series is in stock, each piece accompanied by a Christian saying, and there are mugs with the same type quotes and mottos.

The limited-edition Norman Rockwell figurines are stocked, each numbered and with a certificate of authenticity. Open editions are also stocked.

The Norman Rockwell limited-edition plates have arrived, too, each an official Norman Rockwell Museum piece with seal of that museum. These include the monthly edition and the limited edition annual plates.

Select, too, from the famous and much-desired Andrea fine porcelain.

And handmade crystal creations from Viking

Fenton handpainted glassware, also, with the artist's signature.

This 'n' That is quite a collector's haven when it comes to bells from all over the world. These include Bohemia glass from Czechoslovakia, porcelain hand-painted bells from West Germany and Italy, leaded crystal bells, etc. And the prices are from a modest $6 up!

Peasants Drop Key Issue

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Striking peasants in the southeastern town of Rzeszow dropped a key demand for a rural Solidarity union, an apparent acceptance of Prime Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski's call for a "honeymoon" to stabilize Poland's shattered economy.

Spokesmen for the peasants' group said "the crucial issue of the future registration of Rural Solidarity as a farmers' trade union has been suspended" until a later date.

The development came as 10,000 striking university students in Lodz, Poland's second biggest city, postponed their call for nationwide student protests in anticipation of signing a compromise agreement with the government over their grievances.

Talks in Rzeszow began after the arrival of the independent Solidarity union leader, Lech Walesa. He traveled there Sunday in an attempt to resolve the labor revolt by peasants who have occupied the former offices of the government-run union.

A spokesman for the peasants said negotiations would center on other issues in a list of 68 demands, most important of which is the increase of state investment in private agriculture.

"Spring is coming and we have to go back to the fields," a spokesman for the peasants said. "If all goes well the talks should be over in three days."

After he was named prime minister last week, Jaruzelski appealed for a 90-day period of no strikes.

Although Solidarity has not formally agreed to go along with it, a spokesman today indicated the union supports Jaruzelski's efforts to get the nation's economy back on its feet.

"We (the union) do not want weak government power because it is dangerous for the country," Solidarity spokesman Karol Modziewski said in an interview in the newspaper Zycie Warszawy.

"Weak power cannot be a trustworthy power for the people."

In Lodz, spokesmen for the 10,000 students occupying their campus said they issued a call for postponement of a nationwide walkout of students for 24 hours during the early morning hours today.

Higher Education Minister Janusz Gorski and a spokesman for the students said Sunday night the two sides were about to formally accept a compromise, ending compulsory Russian language and Marxism courses in Polish universities.

In return, the students dropped a demand for shortening their compulsory military service. The students also won their demands for freer travel abroad and an end to unpaid manual labor during vacations.

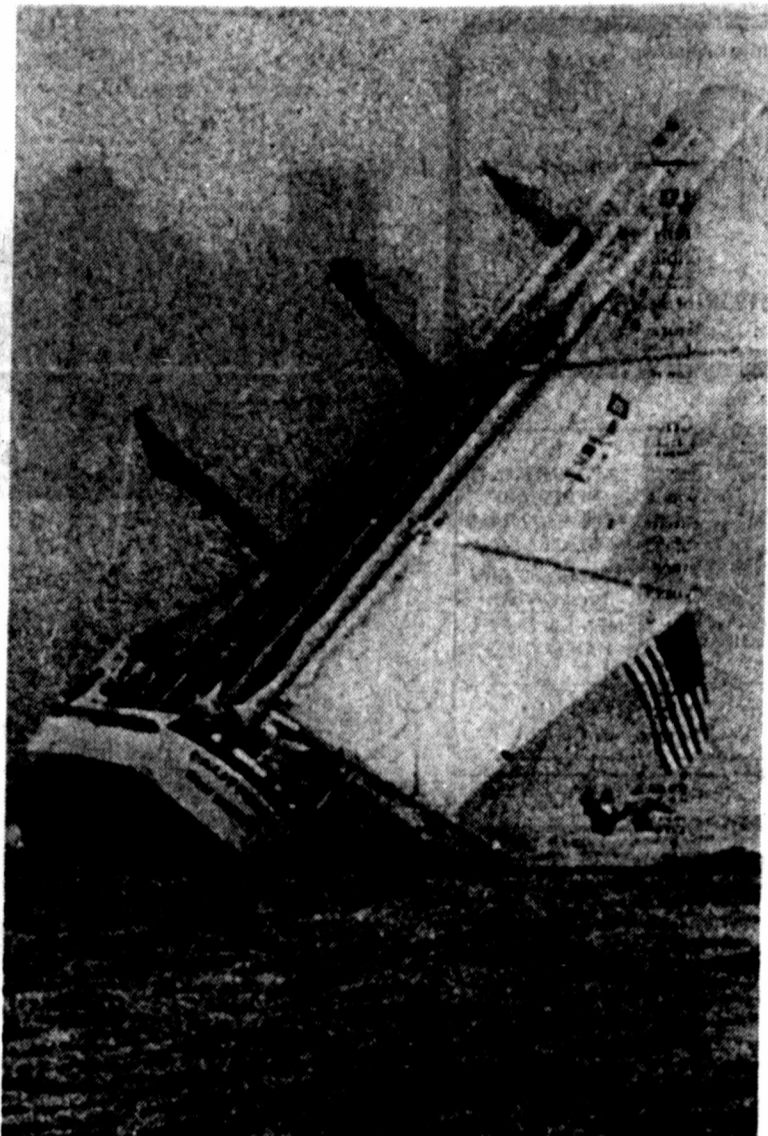

With the last two significant protests easing, Polish Communist Party boss Stanislaw Kania flew to Prague Sunday for a surprise meeting with his Czech counterpart, Gustav Husak.

Husak, in comments to a Czech Communist meeting before Kania's arrival, said unrest caused by "forces seeking to destabilize Poland as a socialist state, is growing in Poland" and said "we experienced something similar in 1968-69."

"We know how much chaos, how many shocks and what economic disruption came of this and how long we had to overcome it," he said, adding that "justified questions" were being asked by Czech Communists who wonder "where the situation is headed and what the solutions will be" in Poland.

The main issue Sunday between students in Lodz, Poland's second-biggest city, and the government was whether the charter of a new student union would accept "the leading role of the Communist Party" and ground rules for strikes.

Gorski, in a Sunday night television appearance, appealed to students at other universities not to join the strike, saying a formal agreement was "very close."

come tax rates by 30 percent over three years beginning July 1 and cut business taxes retroactively to Jan. 1, sources said.

Sprinkled in are cuts that could touch some of the most sensitive nerves on Capitol Hill.

For example, Reagan's plan to dismantle the Appalachian Regional Commission would have its greatest impact in Tennessee and West Virginia. Those two states are represented by Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker and Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, respectively.

Key to the success of the president's program will be its reception on Capitol Hill, where Reagan will deliver what White House press secretary James S. Brady billed as "straight talk to the Congress and the nation" at 8 p.m. CST Wednesday.

A Reagan supporter, Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said congressional approval depends on whether the president's program is considered as a package or in pieces.

"If these cuts have to come to the floor one at a time ... then there is no chance of getting this country turned around on fiscal restraint," Domenici said Sunday.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, a Louisiana Democrat, said he sees success for only "65 to 70 percent" of the plan — and that much only if the Reagan forces can capitalize on what Long sees as "the momentum and the will of the people on his side."

House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas cautioned Sunday that the cuts won't come easily, even though Democrats are "every bit as eager" as Republicans to cut the budget.

"Everybody in the entire United States wants to reduce expenditures. Unfortunately, there isn't any line in the budget that says 'waste, fat and fraud,'" Wright said.

"When you get down to specifics, it's extremely difficult," he added.

Newsweek magazine reported Sunday that Reagan's economic recovery program eventually could trim the federal work force by 10 percent — a total of 200,000 people. Most of those would be in federal regulatory agencies, which Reagan has pledged to curb as a way to aid American businesses.

The chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission has told Reagan's budget chief, David A. Stockman, that the president's federal hiring freeze will seriously affect his agency and hamper its nuclear plant inspection program.

fund construction of three new prison units in an effort to relieve overcrowding at existing prisons and meet some of the requirements of a federal court decision.

The new units would be built at three existing prisons — Coffield and Beto units in Anderson County and Ellis unit in Walker County.

Clements said the units, each composed of 15 buildings, will be designed to accommodate 960 inmates each, and will include recreational and industrial facilities as well as libraries and chapels.

Inmates at the new units would be housed in metal barracks type buildings, Clements said.

"This will in large measure answer the immediate problem of getting the population down so we do not have three people in one cell," he said. "This $35 million will be in addition to the funds we will need in the long term to build a new unit in Grimes County and two additional units in the future."

Clements set a Nov. 1 deadline for completion of the three new units at the existing prisons, and said the state may have to pay private contractors premium prices to work day and night to complete the buildings by that date.

The Senate and House scheduled floor sessions and a full committee slate in starting the sixth week of the 4½-month legislative session.

Also on the Senate agenda is a bill that would wipe out Attorney General Mark White's ruling that Comptroller Bob Bullock may deduct union dues from state employee paychecks.

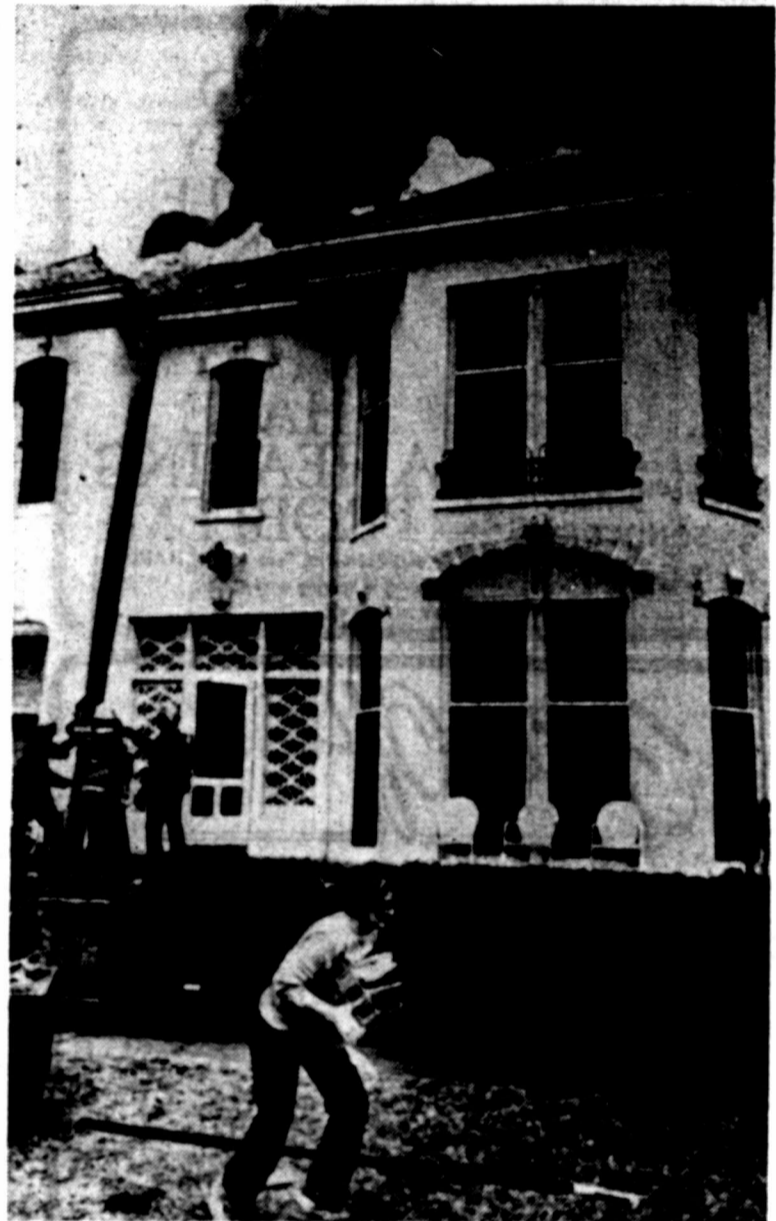

The bill is part of Clements' legislative program.

A House-approved resolution placing a moratorium on state licensing of nuclear dump sites until Sept. 1 was among the 12 proposals scheduled for Senate consideration today.

Adoption of the resolution would give the Legislature time to enact a law covering radioactive burial grounds.

Nothing was on the House calendar, but state representatives scheduled their first full week of committee hearings on non-emergency bills.

Senate committee hearings are set during the week on penalties for stealing oil field equipment, beefing up the fund to cover expenses for crime victims, testing the competency of teachers and establishing a group insurance program for state employees.

Dollar Posts Big Gains

LONDON (AP) — The dollar posted fresh gains on world money markets today, showing some of the sharpest advances seen in months on the basis of indications of tough new economic policies from President Reagan.

The dollar hit a seven-year high against the French franc, touched its highest level in years against the sagging West German mark, the Swiss franc and Dutch guilder, and reached another unofficial all-time record against the Italian lira.

"The dollar is still riding the wave and may well stay strong during the week while the market waits for Ronald Reagan's economic speech," said one Swiss dealer.

Reagan's speech, scheduled for Wednesday, is expected to detail his plans for trimming the budget and curbing inflation.

Most U.S. banks were closed today for the President's Day holiday.

Gold prices were slightly lower in quiet trading today.

Shuttle Launch Rehearsal Set

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Spaceport officials, with three 24-hour delays already behind them, set the countdown tonight for the all-important launch rehearsal of the space shuttle Columbia.

The unprecedented test is to lead to the launch pad firing of the three main engines in the winged rocket plane for the first time shortly after dawn Thursday.

The date of the long-postponed maiden orbital test flight of the space shuttle hinges on the test outcome. Operations chief George Page said the test delays probably mean the shuttle will not be able to meet its April 7 launch target.

Barring any major problems, Page said astronauts John Young and Robert Crippen most likely will be cleared for takeoff in mid-April on their 5½-hour voyage around Earth. The landing is planned for Edwards Air Force Base in California's Mojave desert.

The shuttle, a reusable space transport designed to lower the cost of space operations, is more than two years behind schedule and 20 percent over budget.

This week's 20-second engine firing is the last major testing milestone before launch. It is designed to rehearse all blast-off operations except for the ignition of the shuttle's twin solid fuel booster rockets.

The countdown for the launch rehearsal is scheduled to begin at 6:15 p.m. CST today.

The start of the countdown was delayed three times by a variety of preparatory jobs that took longer than expected, Kennedy Space Center spokesman Hugh Harris said there were no major problems.

Much of the delay was caused by problems with the ship's new high powered hydrogen-burning engines.

Four major agencies — the Railroad Commission, Texas Department of Corrections, Board of Pardons and Paroles and Adult Probation Commission — had budget requests prepared for the Senate Finance Commission.

A test of political strength between private and commercial fishermen is in the offing for Wednesday when the Natural Resources Committee hears a proposal that would outlaw the sale of redfish and speckled trout.

Political Deaths Mount In Guatemala, Salvador

By The Associated Press

The bodies of 14 young men, all showing signs of torture, were found in Guatemala and 250 more people were reported killed in El Salvador as political violence continued without letup in the two neighboring Central American countries.

Guatemalan authorities said the 14 bodies found about 100 miles east of Guatemala City, the capital, on Sunday may have been the victims of rightist death squads that carry out almost daily assassinations in response to attacks by leftists trying to topple the military regime of Fernando Romeo Lucas Garcia. Death squad victims include a growing number of students, union and political leaders and professionals.

Police also reported a shootout Saturday in front of the Guatemala City headquarters of the liberal Christian Democratic Party. It was not clear what prompted the shooting in which one person was killed and three others were wounded. They were not identified.

Hundreds of people were killed in political violence last year in Guatemala, while 13,000 died last year in the warfare between leftists and rightists in El Salvador. And the death rate there is increasing.

Informed sources said the toll last week in El Salvador was at least 250, raising the toll so far this year to more than 2,250.

Most of last year's deaths were attributed to rightists fighting a leftist bid to establish a Marxist government in place of the civilian-military junta that now runs the country. However, the leftist guerrillas are waging more offensive actions this year.

Since a widespread guerrilla offensive last month failed to capture any towns for the leftists, they have been blowing up bridges and communications links in an apparent attempt to isolate cities and towns from San Salvador, the capital. An official of the Public Works Ministry said 138 of the ministry's workers have been killed and 11 bridges blown up in the eastern provinces.

The government claims the guerrillas also are burning cotton fields in an attempt to cripple the economy further and are trying to collect a "war tax" from businessmen by threatening them with death.

The Roman Catholic archbishop of San Salvador pleaded "in the name of God" Sunday for an end to the political violence.

"Please, in the name of humanity do not kill the defenseless, in the name of Christ do not kill your own brothers, in the name of God do not kill," Archbishop Arturo Rivera y Damas said in his weekly homily.

He said the security forces must be given certain special rights because of the situation, but they should make "prudent use of those rights." He said that in less than a month at least 178 people have been shot for violating the dusk-to-dawn curfew in force across the nation.

consistencies with Mathis' records and none with Glass', he said.

Glass is the only child still missing in the series of 18 slayings and disappearances of black children.

Feegel said no cause of death could be established from the remains, which were found by an FBI team in an area where the bodies or remains of six other children have been found since the string of slayings began.

Mathis' remains were discovered less than an hour before a maintenance worker on the other side of the Atlanta metropolitan area spotted the body of a young black male, later identified as 11-year-old Patrick Baltazar.

That body was the first in the 17 deaths to turn up in suburban DeKalb County. Unlike many of the others, found in isolated areas, it was discovered behind an office complex in a densely populated area.

DeKalb Public Safety Director Dick Hand said after the discovery of Baltazar's body that the more deaths discovered, "the greater the chance of apprehension. We've learned more and more with each one of these cases."

Police spent the weekend questioning workers in the Corporate Square Office Park, where the body was found. Authorities said they hoped to work up composite drawings of possible suspects seen in the area.

The two discoveries Friday brought to six the number of children's bodies or remains that have been found in the Atlanta area in the past six weeks. All but two of the 17 victims have been male, all have been between the ages of 7 and 15, and eight of them either were suffocated or strangled.

PLO Rejects Egypt's Peace Plea

By United Press International
The Palestine Liberation Organization today rejected an Egyptian call to halt its armed struggle against Israel and set up a government-in-exile to pave the way for peace with the Jewish state.

PLO spokesman Abdul Muhsen Abu Meizer, in remarks published by the Abu Dhabi newspaper Al Khaleej, said the Palestinian revolution is an expression of the aims of the Palestinian people and the armed struggle will continue as long as the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people are not realized.

Abu Meizer, who is in the United Arab Emirates for talks with government leaders, dashed Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's renewed bid to settle the elusive Palestinian issue.

Sadat, speaking Sunday after nearly three hours of talks with Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky in Cairo, urged the Palestinians and the Israelis to end their fighting "to create the required atmosphere for mutual recognition."

Sadat's call coincided with a Newsweek magazine report that Israeli Labor Party leader Shimon Peres favors negotiations with the Palestinians but feels Jordan must also participate. Peres is favored to win the next election and become Israel's prime minister this summer.

"The PLO," Sadat said, "should sit together with the Palestinians under occupation and the Israelis to end their parts of the Arab world and decide upon the new government, a responsible government."

Kreisky, who arrived in Cairo Saturday on a mission for the Socialist International, said he needed more time to study

Sadat's suggestion, first made in 1972 and rejected by the PLO.

But both Sadat and Kreisky appeared to agree that Egyptian-Israeli negotiations on Palestinian autonomy should be delayed until a new Israeli government is formed after the June 30 elections.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir briefed Israel's cabinet Sunday on his visit this week to Washington, where he expects opposition to Prime Minister Menachem Begin's proposal for resuming Palestinian autonomy talks before Israel's June 30 election.

Device Explodes Prior To Pontiff's Visit

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — An explosive device went off at Karachi's national stadium, minutes before Pope John Paul II arrived to say Mass today, and a doctor said it killed one man and injured two others.

The pope, making a brief stopover here on his 12-day Far East trip, was apparently unaware of the explosion, in a stairwell leading to a seating section for foreign diplomats. There was no immediate word on whether the incident would alter the pope's schedule.

A physician who treated those injured said "it was an explosion but we don't know what it was." American vice consul Tim Kane was one of those in the area, and took off his shirt to cover one of the victims. Witnesses said they appeared to be Pakistani men in their 20s.

The pope had arrived at the stadium, normally used for cricket matches, to deliver a 90-minute Mass.

His stopover schedule in this Moslem nation also included a meeting with Pakistan's president, Gen. Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, before heading to the Philippines, Guam and Japan.

The 60-year-old pontiff stepped from his jetliner to a 21-gun salute, heard a military band play national anthems and reviewed an honor guard.

A hastily sewn yellow and white Vatican flag assembled over the weekend after officials discovered they lacked one flew alongside Pakistan's green and white national banner.

Some priests complained about Zia's orders that for security reasons only bishops and a few other church officials could attend the welcoming ceremony. They alleged it was an attempt to turn the papal stopover into a "state visit" to give the appearance John Paul sanctions Zia's military regime.

John Paul was to meet with Zia, celebrate Mass and send greetings to Pakistan's estimated 750,000 Catholics before leaving for Manila. There, he is to spend much of his time with the faithful in cities, rural areas and slums, and meet briefly with Philippines President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

As the pope's jet crossed Lebanon's skies, he sent wishes for "peace and fraternal co-existence" to the half-Christian, half-Moslem nation rocked by civil war in a telegram to Lebanese President Elias Sarkis. The pope said, "I have not forgotten the dear country of Lebanon. I hope in my heart that it will have peace and brotherly love."

The Vatican said John Paul sent messages of peace and brotherhood to other heads of states whose countries he flew over.

Pope John Paul's visit to the Philippines will be the second papal visit in 11 years. It will be the first in history to Japan and Guam.

Vatican officials said the pope's major theme on his 21,000-mile voyage would be peace — through disarmament, fair distribution of wealth, protection of human rights and inter-faith dialogue.

L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, said the pontiff would call for critical decisions to advance the cause of peace because mankind is "threatened by an immense danger, ... an atomic conflict and the terrible existential and social inequalities which culminate in the tragedy of poverty and hunger."

Possibility Of Arson Probed In Disco Fire

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Ninety detectives are questioning survivors of the Dublin nightclub fire that killed 48 people, checking reports that the blaze could have been started by youths with a grudge setting fire to chairs.

An off-duty fireman who was working at the Stardust Cabaret as a bouncer, John Fitzsimons, told officers at least two youths were seen setting fire to some stacked foam-backed chairs, a police spokesman said Sunday.

The spokesman said there were reports the youths, who he said had not been identified, could have had a grudge against the club, but he did not elaborate.

the others were so badly burned it might be impossible to identify them. Authorities believed no foreigners were among the dead.

More than 130 others were injured. Eight were in critical condition.

"This fire comes to no great surprise to me," said Michael Maguire, the chairman of the Fire Officers Association. "The association has been warning that this could happen, and has been making representations to the Department of Environment for many years on proper fire regulations."

Other sources said the club refused to admit persons it considered troublemakers. But the manager refused to say if anyone was turned away Friday night, when about 800 people jammed the Stardust for a "Dance the Night Away" Valentine party.

The Sunday Tribune said five girls reported they saw youths lighting the padded chairs with matches just before the fire began to spread near the stage of the club early Saturday.

A 19-year-old waitress, Elizabeth Marley, said she saw two chairs afire and ran for help.

"I told the barmen and the bouncers and between 12 and 15 of them rushed to the fire and tried to put it out with fire extinguishers," she said. "One of them opened a fire prevention screen and the flames just leapt out across the ceiling."

Witnesses said thick black fumes filled the nightclub within four minutes and burning plastic dripped from the ceiling on the panic-stricken young men and women trying to flee.

Officials had believed 49 people were killed, but a police spokesman said pathologists established that only 48 bodies were found. However, the mother of three teen-agers who were in the club, 40-year-old Mary Coyne, died of a heart attack when told her son and two daughters were safe.

"The strain must have been too much for her," a neighbor said.

Nations Writing Environmental, Economic Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Caribbean nations and their neighbors will meet in Nicaragua later this month to complete work on a "Caribbean action plan" to work on the region's environmental and related economic problems.

"It is not an issue of conservation," said Arsenio Rodriguez, a marine biologist with the United Nations, "it is an issue of economic survival."

Rodriguez said representatives from countries in the region will meet in Nicaragua in late February to put the finishing touches on the environmental plan that is supposed to cover everything from oil spills to hurricane protection.

General agreement to continue with the plan was reached last January and the coming meeting will decide the next step, he said.

The pact covers Central America, Mexico, the Caribbean islands, the U.S. gulf states, the Bahamas and northeastern South America from Colombia to Guiana and Panama.

Haiti, the poorest nation in the Western hemisphere, is one example Rodriguez used in a recent interview to illustrate the need for an environmental pact. He said 80 percent of that country's land is unusable because of environmental mismanagement.

"They have cut down the trees and they have created a desert. That is also happening at an accelerated pace in other countries of the region — accelerated deforestation," Rodriguez said.

Unless that and other environmentally unsound practices are curbed, he said ecosystems in the region will continue to deteriorate "with immediate implications for the man in the street" and "economic chaos in the near future."

The food of Haitian refugees arriving in the United States and surrounding Caribbean nations is only one effect, he said.

Crime Line Inc. this week spotlights the 11-year-old unsolved murder of city zoning administrator A.J. Prim, who died July 24, 1970, after being wounded more than two weeks earlier.

A $1,000 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the person or persons responsible for the death of the city official.

Prim was found about 3 a.m. July 8, 1970, slumped over in the front seat of his 1967 Chevrolet at the intersection of FM 1729 and Acuff Road.

After discovering he had been shot, four passersby took Prim to Methodist Hospital, where he died 16 days later. He had suffered five .22-caliber gunshot wounds in the abdomen.

In brief interviews with sheriff's deputies while he was hospitalized, Prim indicated a black man entered his car at a traffic light at Idalou Road and Quirt Avenue and forced him to drive east of the city.

The 50-year-old Prim told deputies the man became angry and shot him when he refused to follow the abductor's instructions. Investigators said the victim's wounds indicated he was shot by someone in the car on the passenger side, or by someone standing outside the passenger door.

Prim said he attempted to drive back to Lubbock after being shot, but he lost consciousness several times before being taken to the hospital.

The Lubbock County Sheriff's Department recently reopened the investigation of the mysterious murder, and anyone having information about the case is urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Callers may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Persons wishing to contribute to the Crime Line reward fund may mail their tax-deductible donations to Crime Line Inc., P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

Crime Line offers a $500 reward for information in the shooting last Thursday of 4-year-old Cory Menton of Shallowater and his 22-year-old mother, Vanessa.

Judge Menton Jr. told police he, his wife and the youngster were driving west in the 3100-block of Clovis Road when a man in a late-model Ford pickup truck fired a single gunshot blast at their vehicle.

The boy was struck in the head by the blast, and he is undergoing treatment.

ONE-ON-ONE — Adaptive physical education teacher Marty Montoya gives student Delores Sifuentes some pointers in hand placement during a unit on volleyball. The special class at Monterey High School originally was conceived to aid physically handicapped students but turned into a course adapted more to the needs of emotionally disturbed youngsters. Mrs. Montoya said the course is helping to develop an increased self-image on the part of the students. (Staff Photo by Dennis Copeland)

Gym Class Improves Students' Self Images

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 At 1:30 p.m. each weekday, the Monterey High School girls' gym echoes with shouts of encouragement for 10 handicapped youngsters discovering they can get more out of physical education than just volleyball skills.

The students are the pioneering members of a new adaptive physical education class developed and taught by PE instructor Marty Montoya. Most of the youngsters are emotionally disturbed or otherwise emotionally maladjusted but several have mental or physical handicaps.

The project, begun with the new semester in January, has proved a test of patience and guidance for Mrs. Montoya, but not at all to her dismay. "Mostly I volunteered for the program," she said, noting resource teachers (who serve handicapped students in special classes) had "mentioned the need, and the timing was now." Monterey principal Jerrell Snodgrass added "parents were just hungry" for such a class.

The program is geared to aid students who generally have low self esteem and "are quick to react," Mrs. Montoya said. "They get angered easily," she added and some have formed a "protective shield" against potential embarrassment and hurt feelings.

Several students who have physical handicaps have additional limitations, although they are obstacles that are being overcome. One young man confined to a wheelchair because of muscular dystrophy rolls onto the basketball court eager for his chance to handle the ball.

Another student who has difficulty bending because of scoliosis is exploring his limitations. "I'm going on what he wants to try," Mrs. Montoya said. "I've seen a lot of improvement in him."

The basis of her program is individualized teaching. "Every person in here has a different problem. With a smaller class, you can focus on individual basic skills — in some cases elementary skills

Inmate Disturbance Subdued By Jailers

AUSTIN (AP) — While riot-equipped city and state police waited downstairs, jailers using chains and handcuffs subdued a group of unruly sixth-floor Travis County Jail inmates who set fires, pounded on walls and shouted their displeasure at their living conditions.

At one stage in the confrontation the inmates were able to acquire some make-shift weapons, said Sheriff Doyne Bailey.

"They got a hold of some fluorescent (light) tubes and broomsticks," he said. "At one point, they got hold of one of our fire hoses."

"It was scary as hell up there," said fireman Lee Gotcher who said he went to the sixth floor while inmates were still setting trash and mattress fires. "I think they (jailers) did a fantastic job of keeping somebody from getting killed up there."

The jail occupies the sixth and seventh floors of the Travis County Courthouse and, at one point, witnesses said flames up to six-feet high reached up the sides of the building as inmates poked wads of burning trash through holes in the walls.

Noise of the prisoners chanting in unison and pounding on jail walls could be heard on the street, six floors below.

The outbreak began as supper was being served and, according to Bailey, climaxed growing inmate dissatisfaction.

"I think the disturbance is the end of two or three days of unrest," he said. "There's been kind of a growing disenchantment with their clothing, sandals, bedding and food."

Bailey said there had been a much smaller disturbance Saturday night when two inmates started two small trash fires.

One inmate, identified as Victor Roy, was carried from the jail on a stretcher and was hospitalized for smoke inhalation but there were no other injuries, said Bailey.

"I think 'major disturbance' is a pretty accurate description. I wouldn't consider it a riot because we didn't have any serious injuries or escapes," the sheriff said.

About 30 sheriff's deputies, Department of Public Safety troopers and Austin police officers were outfitted with helmets, flak vests and other riot gear downstairs but they were not needed, Bailey said.

The jail officers were able to force the prisoners back into their individual cells from the common room where the trouble began about 6 p.m., said Bailey.

"None of the inmates ever got outside their tanks (cell blocks)," he added. "We never did actually lose control of the inmates, we just ran a little behind in putting them to bed."

Bailey said there were 96 prisoners in the area where the disturbance began but said not all of them were involved.

"It would be difficult to say (how many were involved). We think the fires were started by about four inmates," he said.

Fashion Show Marks Observance Here

By ANN EVANS
Family News Staff

Just by comparing ancient and modern fashions, quite a bit can be learned about cultures. When the Chinese celebrated their new year last week, a fashion show featuring ancient and modern clothing was given.

History and legend are intermingled with the ancient clothes, which were obtained from the Coordination Council for North American Affairs in Houston.

Jennifer Carro, coordinator of the fashion show, said the ancient outfits are from different dynasties, and are therefore from different times in China's history. The oldest costume, an everyday dress originating from Shi, also has a legend behind it. Shi Shih was known as the most beautiful girl in China, and was said to have been discovered while washing clothes at the river. She was taken to the palace where she was admired for her beauty.

The emperor's robe from the Han dynasty also was modeled. Charles King, who posed as the emperor, supposedly has classic emperor-like features. Ac-ording to Jennifer, the emperor during that dynasty should not have high cheekbones, and his face should have a becoming shape. "He could not have a big belly either," she said. A slender, healthy body was preferred for an emperor.

Some of the modern clothing in the fashion show was a modification of the ancient dress. Other clothing was of modern styles suitable for working and shopping. These styles, which are usually silk or a silk blend, feature many side slits, piping and braided buttons. Embroidery also is used generously, either hand-sewn or painted.

The fashion show took place during the celebration of the Chinese new year. 1981 is called the "Year of the Rooster", because the Chinese call a year by its animal name.

All the models in the show are Chinese or Taiwan students attending Texas Tech University. Jennifer Carro, coordinator of the fashion show, is a fashion design major at Texas Tech. She said she would like to do more Chinese fashion shows if possible.

School Spellers Named

By MARIE CANNING
Spelling Bee Editor

Five Lubbock County schools have completed their spelling bees in preparation for the City-County Spelling Bee to be held Saturday, March 7.

Stacy Smith, 12, was the winner at Cooper Junior High School. She is in the seventh grade and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith of Lubbock. To win the contest, Stacy spelled "debit" and "deception" correctly.

Alternate for Cooper will be Kimberly Carpenter, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carpenter of Lubbock. She also is in the seventh grade. D'Nan Mathis was the school bee director. Stanley Wheeler is the principal.

At Idalou Elementary School, Amy Lawson, a fifth grader, was named winner. She is the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cam Lawson of Idalou.

Alternate for Idalou Elementary is Jennifer Gilbreath, 11. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gil Gilbreath, also of Idalou. Jennifer is in the fifth grade. Katherine Ferguson served as school bee director. E. Grayson is the principal.

Station Junior High School Principal Ernie Davis announced that eighth grader D'lyn Ford, 14, was school spelling bee winner. She is the daughter of Darlene and Larry Dickson. Jan Johnson served as school bee director.

Bean Elementary School fifth grader Janet Cuellar, 10, spelled "sheriff" and "squeeze" correctly to win her school bee. Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cuellar, 1315 30th St.

Kevin Steffensen, 11, also a fifth-grader, was named alternate for Bean Elementary. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Steffensen, 1515 40th St. Vicky Tate served as school bee director. Thayne Amonett is the school principal.

Patricia Hough, 12, spelled "fairground" and "falcon" correctly to be named winner of the Overton Elementary School spelling bee. A sixth grader, she is the daughter of Bobby Hough, 4312 29th St.

Melody Wilson, 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Wilson, 1810 E. 27th St., is the alternate for Overton. Drew Jackson, principal, served as bee director.

The Lubbock City County Spelling Bee will begin at 9 a.m. in the Evans Junior High School Auditorium. Director for the city-county bee is June Hogue, intermediate language arts consultant in the Lubbock Independent School District.

Judges for the bee will be Drew Foster, primary language arts consultant, Lucy Gutierrez, bilingual consultant, and Wayne Dickey, secondary language arts consultant.

Pronouncer will be Patrick Cates of Lubbock High School. Drew Jackson will be recording judge. Dictionary judge will be Ila Curry, elementary math consultant.

Cotton Maid Visits Here

Modeling designer clothing ... traveling around the country and to the Far East ... being photographed for magazines ... appearing on talk shows ...

Sounds like a dream come true, doesn't it? For Karie Ross, the 1981 Maid of Cotton, it is fun and glamorous, but also hard work.

Karie, who spent four days in Lubbock representing the American Cotton Industry, visited several cotton gins and factories during her stay in Lubbock.

During an all-day photo session in Memphis, Karie found out that modeling is not just standing around with a smile on your face. "I was tired at the end of the day," she said. "Those models really have to work hard!"

While in Lubbock, she learned all phases of the cotton industry, including cotton irrigation and planting.

But when she speaks to those already knowledgeable about the cotton industry, what does she talk about?

"Usually here in the cotton belt they ask about the program — where I've traveled, who I'll be talking to, and so forth. The key issues and concerns about the industry will be discussed more after my overseas trip."

Karie, who is from Clinton, Okla., said her father does not grow cotton, "but it grows around Clinton." She had no association with cotton before she was named Maid of Cotton, but said she finds the benefits and experience intriguing.

A senior at the University of Oklahoma, Karie took a semester off from school to travel for seven months to represent the cotton industry. She is a news communication major who has had experience in print media and media information.

"Recently I became interested in broadcasting," she said. "Right now I'm on the other side: I've always been the one to do the interviewing, but now I have to answer questions instead of ask them. It's fun, though."

In March, Karie will visit China in a trip sponsored by the Cotton Council International. She also will see many Far East countries including Korea, India, Thailand.

The neatest thing about touring is that I don't see the usual tourist places. I get to learn about the cultures and the towns," she said.

Karie's wardrobe is very limited. "Used to the Maid of Cotton took 25 suitcases with her and had to have two cabs to carry everything," she said. "Now we are limited to three suitcases. I've learned to pack efficiently and be organized."

Her main problem in traveling is getting enough rest. "Sometimes I cut short my enthusiasm by being tired, and that is bad on my part. But no one is physically capable of being enthusiastic 24 hours a day, although I feel I need to be."

Although she has just begun her tour, Karie feels she has learned a lot about life and people.

"Friends have said they could tell a difference in me. They say I am more mature and not as scatterbrained," she said laughing. "But I think I just appreciate the simple things in life more."

DEAR ABBY:

Feels 'Half A Woman' Following Mastectomy

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago I had a mastectomy. It was a terrible shock because I had been in excellent health and never dreamed it could happen to me. I was 44 and very happily married to a wonderful man who couldn't have been more supportive during the ordeal.

When I recovered, my husband started to lose interest in me (physically), and I couldn't blame him. I felt like half a woman. Our marriage fell apart, and we were divorced two years later. Shortly after that, I had a second mastectomy.

I am still attractive, and men are attracted to me, but I don't know how to handle the possibility of another romantic relationship. In clothes, I look like a whole woman with a beautiful figure, but I feel guilty and deceitful because I know I am not.

I can't very well confess my deficiencies to a man on the first date. But if I don't warn him, he could feel cheated later on.

Abby, must I forget about romance and the possibility of remarriage because I am damaged? I love life and I'm self-supporting, but I need to be loved again.

SOMETHING MISSING
DEAR MISSING: As long as you perceive yourself as "damaged" — or "half a woman" — your chances for being loved again are slim.

Please contact your local chapter of the American Cancer Society. It will have a long list of women in your community who have been down the same road but have learned how to live full lives that included romance and remarriage. They will be glad to help you build your self-esteem. That is really all you're "missing."

DEAR ABBY: We have a 10-month-old daughter, our first child, and she's an adorable, healthy little girl.

The trouble is Vera, my sister-in-law, who has a 16-month-old daughter. Vera has constantly compared the progress of my child with hers since the day mine was born. Her daughter sat up, crawled, walked and talked at a certain age, and what's the matter with mine?

I am sick of these comparisons, but I don't want to start anything with her. Will you please tell her, Abby?

BUGGED
DEAR BUGGED: It would be better if you told her. Let her know that you are perfectly satisfied with your daughter's rate of progress. And should you have any questions about it, you'll consult your pediatrician.

DEAR MISS VAN BUREN: I wish to protect your column on suggested Christmas gifts for the elderly.

Thanks to you I was inundated with gift certificates and small tins of tuna and chicken!

I disagree with you 100 percent. I don't want my friends and family to think of me as an object of charity at Christmastime. Your practical gift suggestions, such as newspaper or magazine subscriptions, gift certificates and food do not appeal to me at all. I would much rather have a frivolous, frilly nightgown. Then at least I'd know I am still considered alive and feminine! And if I must, I will eat a peanut butter sandwich for my Christmas dinner while wearing my frilly gown.

Please, stop speaking for the world, Abby. Who do you think you are — the omnipotent being? What colossal ego!

DISAPPROVINGLY YOURS
IN CARLSBAD, CALIF.

Do you have to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Consumers Get Choices In Bank Credit Cards

By ROBERT BURNS
 NEW YORK (AP) — Time was, you wanted a credit card, you went to a bank and applied for one, not worrying much about which bank; one was pretty much the same as the next. And so were their credit-card services.
 But that's all changing.
 Now there are such things as credit-card wars in many parts of the country.
 Although many banks lost money on their credit-card operations last year, they are still trying to undercut each other on the pricing features of their cards.
 Such battles reflect the trend toward deregulation of the nation's financial industry. Competitive barriers are falling left and right. And that has opened the door for aggressive bankers trying to expand their consumer base. Others are content just to protect what they already have.

For the consumer, that means more choices in finding the best credit-card deal in town.
 Banks in many states require you to pay an annual fee for the right to hold your card. That trend started last spring when the Federal Reserve Board asked banks to tighten their credit programs in an attempt to stem consumer spending and curb inflation.
 Now, nearly a year later, dozens of banks require such fees. At Bank of America in California, the fee is $12 a year. If you have both a Visa and MasterCard, that means a $24 annual charge. Bank of America has about 8.3 million card holders, more than any other bank in the country.
 But Crocker National Bank, one of Bank of America's biggest competitors in California, took a different tack when it changed its credit-card pricing last summer.

 It decided to charge cardholders 12 cents for each time the card is used. So the more you use the card, the more you pay. If you use the card only for identification, and not for purchases, you pay nothing. But for most people, it means their credit card is no longer as cheap as it once was.
 "There's no question ... that (card) prices are not going to be as low as they once were," said Betty Lattie, a Crocker public affairs official. "That's part of the changes in banking."
 And those changes are affecting consumers in most parts of the country. But while the prices are higher, they also vary greatly from bank to bank and from region to region.
 In Chicago, for example, Harris Trust & Savings Bank charges a $20 yearly fee to its credit-card holders. But the fee is the same whether you have one card or two. Continental Illinois Bank, on the other hand, charges a yearly fee of $15 for Visa and MasterCard. But you can have a combined account for $15 a year, compared with $30 for separate accounts.

 In New York, several banks recently established annual fees of $15 for their credit-card holders. But not all are the same. In fact some banks chose to not impose an annual fee in hopes of luring customers upset by the fee strategy.
 For Bank of New York, the no-fee decision seems to have worked well. The bank started a local newspaper advertising campaign on Jan. 29, stressing that, unlike most other big New York banks, it was not charging an annual fee.
 Richard Field of the bank's marketing department said applications in the first 10 days totaled "well into six figures," although he declined to be more specific.

 The ad campaign "struck a spark" in consumers peeved by the new fees imposed by Bank of New York's chief competitors, Field said, "much more so than we had anticipated."
 New York banks only recently started charging annual fees on credit cards because state law had prohibited such fees until it was changed last fall.
 Nationally, the range of fees — and the complexity of fee structures — varies greatly.
 Take the Huntington National Bank of Columbus, Ohio for example. It charges Visa and MasterCard customers $20 per account or $25 for a combined account with a single line of credit.
 But cardholders may waive up to $20 of that by maintaining a checking account and either a savings account with $1,000 or a certificate of deposit with $1,000.

 But if the customer keeps a minimum checking account balance of $500, neither the savings accounts nor the certificate of deposit are needed.
 But each month the account requirements are not met, a $1.65 charge shows up on the cardholder's checking account statement.
 But senior citizens need not worry about the account requirements. They are charged no fees, regardless.
 Gone are the days of bank-card simplicity.

Scientists Plan To Avert Earth-Asteroid Collision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warning that errant asteroids could one day destroy civilization on Earth — just as they may have wiped out dinosaurs — a group of scientists says man should be planning to use rockets and hydrogen bombs to deflect asteroids back into space.

There are about 800 asteroids in deep space that could destroy most of life on our planet, and perhaps hundreds of thousands of smaller ones that could demolish a single city or region, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Advisory Council said in a recent report.

The only way to avoid an impending collision would be to detect the possibility far in advance and intercept the approaching body with a hydrogen bomb, the council said.

Such a project could eventually cost billions of dollars, but the council proposed a modest beginning: a few million NASA dollars to start Project Spacewatch.

The project would dedicate one large telescope to detecting all asteroids and meteors larger than 30 to 60 feet in diameter whose paths cross the Earth's orbit and track them for years in case they wander onto a collision course. The observation could later be expanded to detect smaller objects with a network of telescopes, radars and satellites.

To change a collision course, the council said, a spacecraft carrying a hydrogen bomb would attach itself to the object in space and be exploded by a radio signal from the ground.

The group, assembled by NASA to explore future space projects, noted there is growing acceptance by scientists of a theory that the world's dinosaur population was erased 65 million years ago when an asteroid, perhaps six miles in diameter, struck the Earth.

The theory, proposed three years ago by Nobel physicist Luis Alvarez, is that the collision threw so much dust and debris into the atmosphere that it blocked out the sun for years, destroying plant life and plant-eating animals like the dinosaurs.

"In the 130 million years the dinosaurs roamed the Earth, they failed to develop the technology to avoid their own extinction," the council said. "Homo sapiens have developed an adequate technology. He can avert any further extinction by asteroid impact. We think we should."

So what is NASA doing with this recommendation?

Very little, at present, according to Dr. Devan French, the agency's discipline scientist for planetary materials.

"In the current financial climate, it's difficult to propose a new program such as this if you can't justify a clear need for it," he said.

French would like to see a low-level effort started, such as investing $3 million to $4 million in a telescope especially for asteroid and meteor observation.

"We need more capability to determine how many bodies are out there and where they are," he said. "A dedicated telescope would certainly enlarge our data base. Right now there are too many objects that we can't detect because they're too small and move too fast."

"These things are potential hazards," French added. "There's unquestioned evidence these impacts have occurred in the past, and they probably will again."

Much attention was focused on this potential problem in 1967 when the asteroid Icarus passed within 4 million miles of Earth — close by astronomical standards. That mile-wide collection of rock and ice comes close to our planet every 19 years, and astronomers speculate that the gradually changing gravitational pull of the Earth and other planets could someday put it on a collision path with Earth.

The council also suggested NASA send a spacecraft to probe the asteroid Anteros when it passes within a few million miles in 1985. But that mission won't materialize because of the estimated $100 million price tag.

Another intriguing suggestion from the panel: Use an H-bomb to deflect a Mars-crossing asteroid into a Martian polar cap.

That, it said, could melt much of the ice cap.

Government's Car Book Popular

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The federal government is trying to tell Americans everything they've ever wanted to know about automobiles with a 68-page guide called "The Car Book" that has become an instant hit with consumers.

Critics, including some industry sources, charge that the publication — now in its second printing — is inaccurate and unfair, particularly in its safety ratings.

The National Highway Traffic Safety

Administration prepared the guide and defends it. Bob Boaz, a spokesman for the agency, said the book is designed to show that there ARE differences among various makes and models and that there are cars on the market today that combine safety and good mileage.

"The choice between safety and fuel economy is not one that the consumer should have to make," Boaz said.

Critics of "The Car Book" say that the safety tests used were too limited because they involved only one type of crash, in which a car is driven, head-on, at a speed of 35 mph, into a concrete barrier. The critics also say that the flat "pass-fail" rating system used to grade the cars is unfair.

Boaz said the "pass-fail" grades are not meant as complete safety ratings. They are simply intended to show comparative performance. He said the head-on crash was used as a standard for testing because it is a common type of accident. He said more than 60 percent of crashes involve a front-end collision of some type. "The Car Book" says that 55 percent of deaths and serious injuries occur in frontal crashes.

The publication is available at no charge from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009. It includes information on dozens of domestic and imported automobiles in the categories of safety, fuel economy, maintenance and repair costs and insurance fees. Separate sections deal with tires, used cars and complaints. There is also a chart listing safety recalls from 1977 through the middle of 1980.

"The Car Book" appeared early in December. Two weeks later, all available copies — 450,000 of them — had been ordered, according to the Consumer Information Center. By the end of January, there was a backlog of 600,000 orders. The second printing, now being distributed, totals 1.5 million copies.

"The Car Book" also offers some general suggestions on purchasing an automobile, including a "buyer's checklist" of questions to ask. Among the questions:

- Is the passenger capacity and number of seat belts adequate?
- Is there enough space for baggage, and can you easily load or unload items from the trunk or cargo area?
- Does the dealer have a good reputation for customer service?
- How long is the warranty and what does it cover?
- Did the car pass the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration crash tests?

Analysis Indicates Los Angeles Most Expensive Place To Drive

DETROIT (UPI) — Los Angeles retained the dubious honor of being the most expensive place to drive in 1980, while Detroit was the cheapest of 20 large cities, a survey shows. But costs in all the cities were up substantially over 1979.

In its annual geographic analysis of motoring costs, the Hertz Corp. said today Los Angeles retained its 1979 ranking as the most expensive place to drive, with 1980 ownership-operating costs of 53.8 cents per mile — 14 cents per mile above the national average.

Detroit was at the bottom of the list at 37.2 cents per mile.

Last November, the car rental-lease company calculated that national average 1980 car operating costs were 39.8 cents a mile, an increase of 25 percent over 1979. Hertz said the average for the 20 large cities rose above the national average to 42.1 cents per mile, up nearly 25 percent from 33.6 cents in 1979.

Those costs are based on a 1980 domestic compact car that will be owned for three years and driven 10,000 miles a year.

Included in the calculation are costs of gasoline and oil, maintenance, repairs, licenses, fees, insurance and loan interest. The largest expense is depreciation — the difference between a vehicle's purchase price and its trade-in value.

Hertz said New York ranked No. 2 in driving costs at 50.7 cents per mile, followed by San Francisco, 49 cents; Miami, 43.8 cents; Chicago, 42.5 cents; Denver, 42.4 cents; Seattle, 41.91 cents; Houston, 41.87 cents; San Diego, 41.8 cents; St. Louis, 41.1 cents; Minneapolis, 40.5 cents; Milwaukee, 40.26 cents; District of Columbia, 40.23 cents; Dallas, 40.14 cents; Pittsburgh, 39.99 cents; Cleveland, 39.65 cents; Boston, 39.51 cents; Atlanta, 38.1 cents; Cincinnati, 37.4 cents, and Detroit, 37.2 cents.

Each was substantially above the 1979 figures, by amounts ranging from 9 percent in Denver to 36 percent in San Diego.

A Hertz spokesman said wide variations in insurance costs are a chief cause of differences in car operating costs across the country. Other factors are variations in state tax rates; differing interest ceilings on car loans and fluctuating vehicle delivery charges.

Operating costs differ widely, depending on the type of car driven, how long it is kept and how many miles are driven, Hertz said.

Among the 20 cities, Hertz said average per-mile costs were 40.3 cents for subcompact cars, 46.6 cents for intermediates and 51 cents for full-sized cars.

NEW MADRID, Mo. (UPI) — There are three sets of padlocks on the bankrupt Ristine Grain Elevator — one belonging to a federal judge, one to the state and one to the farmers who own the $6 million worth of crops inside.

The judge says the farmers will have to wait in line with the other creditors. The farmers say they own the grain and they will take it back. The state wants to stay out of the way.

Wayne Cryts, a spokesman for the farmers, said Sunday the farmers were going to start loading their crops today, in defiance of the judge's order.

"We're willing to lose everything we've got," said Cryts, who has 31,000 bushels of soybeans worth about $250,000 stored in the elevator. "We're willing to go to jail if we have to, and we're going to go to the elevator if we have to go by ourselves."

"I'm still paying interest on those beans. My assets are tied up. I've got outstanding bills that are growing at 2 percent a month. This is absolutely going to bankrupt us if we don't get it settled."

The Missouri farmers — who grew the crops and hold negotiable warehouse receipts issued by the state department of agriculture — have been joined by farmers from as far away as Nebraska, Louisiana and Virginia in their dispute with the government.

About 500 farmers gathered for a weekend rally in Sikeston, about 10 miles north of the grain elevator, to plan their strategy. The elevator is about a mile north of New Madrid, a town of 3,000 in the Missouri Bootheel 150 miles south of St. Louis.

A spokesman for the Missouri Highway Patrol in Sikeston said state officials were going to stay out of the dispute unless they were asked to assist the federal marshals.

"It depends on what the federal authorities are going to allow," Lt. Joe Faber said about the possibility of violence.

The crops — owned by Cryts and about 200 other farmers — have been stored in the bankrupt elevator, owned by the James Brothers Co. of Corning, Ark., which declared bankruptcy in September 1980.

which will concentrate on the role played by organized crime, will be directed by Douglas P. Roller, attorney for the Chicago-based Organized Crime Strike Force.

The probe will be a coordinated effort by the strike force and the Internal Revenue Service, which plans to investigate unreported income by people involved in the rackets.

In a separate article in its Sunday editions, the Tribune said the high risk of automobile theft in Chicago adds $100 or more to the cost of every car owner's insurance.

The report said the investigation,

Grand Juries To Probe Auto Thefts

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal grand juries will meet in five Midwestern states this week to investigate the multimillion-dollar racket of stealing, stripping and reselling automobiles, a published report said today.

The Chicago Tribune, quoting unnamed sources, reported that the grand juries will meet in Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Hammond, Ind., and Louisville. It quoted the sources as saying the Chicago area and northern Indiana have become the hub of the nation's auto "chop shop" industry.

Ninety cars a day are stolen from Chicago streets, and most of them are found stripped down if they are recovered at all, the article said.

Local car thieves gross more than $200,000 a day from auto thefts, and most of that money is channeled into other illegal activities, the newspaper said.

Most car thieves have organized-crime connections and there is a continuing war for control of the lucrative illegal market, the Tribune said. Federal authorities believe at least 21 people have been killed in disputes involving automobile thefts, the paper said.

Fewer than 15 percent of vehicle thefts end in arrests.

GM Plans To Offer Rebates On Autos

CHICAGO (AP) — In an attempt to stimulate sluggish sales, General Motors Corp. is preparing to offer cash rebates — some as high as $500 — on all its 1981 model cars, according to published reports.

GM will hold a series of dealer meetings starting this week to announce the plan. The Chicago Tribune reported. In addition to cash rebates, the program reportedly will include incentives for dealers and salesmen.

The 1981 model year began Oct. 1, and through December, sales trailed 1979 by less than 10 percent. In January, GM raised model prices, and sales dropped to almost 14 percent below last year.

DR. LAMB

Understanding Asthma

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 63 years old and have what my doctor has diagnosed as intrinsic asthma. Cigarette smoke, perfumes and strong detergents seem to trigger my coughing spasms. I can sleep through the night but with my first contact with irritants my lungs will partially close and I will have a wheezing rattle in my throat, which will also affect my speech.

My doctor is a specialist in allergies and has put me through all the tests. He says there is nothing more that can be done for me and my best bet is to avoid the irritants that bother me. Of course that is impossible to do entirely.

Is there a place I could go that may have newer medical treatments? My doctor is competent but if there is a chance other treatments would help I would appreciate knowing about it.

DEAR READER — The chances are that your doctor has done all that can be done. However, it is quite natural that you would want to seek out anything that might enable you to do better. The solution for patients with this situation is to have a consultation. The American Medical Association actively encourages physicians to use consultations as a means of ensuring that patients get the best and the latest in medical management.

A good way to do this is to ask your doctor to refer you to a major clinic or medical center. That way their studies will be returned to him for your future care.

Now, your story is not quite typical. Intrinsic asthma is usually not associated with specific factors that you are allergic to, but rather it is triggered by some internal mechanism in your own body. External asthma is the more common type and is associated with allergic reactions. Your doctor is quite right that the best way to control asthma caused by specific allergies is to avoid those substances.

And there are several types of asthma. Some people have mixed forms. To give you a better understanding of asthma I am sending you The Health Letter number 8, Asthma. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of The Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Irwin Blisters Hawaiian

HAIL, HAIL ... IRWIN — Hale Irwin reacts positively after rolling in a birdie putt during the final round of the Hawaiian Open tournament Sunday. Irwin won the $58,500 first prize. (AP Laserphoto)

HONOLULU (AP) — Hale Irwin won the Hawaiian Open by a six-stroke margin and with a record score. He led all the way in the final round, by a minimum of two strokes.

But it wasn't easy.

"It sounds absurd, but it's hard to play with a five-stroke lead," Irwin said Sunday after scoring his first victory on the PGA Tour since the 1979 U.S. Open.

"You don't want to get too aggressive and make mistakes. And you don't want to be too conservative and back off."

The key to it, Irwin said, was experience.

"A lot of experience came into play over those last few holes," said the man who now has won 12 American titles in 13 years on the Tour.

"I knew I had to play a good back nine, not so much making birdies but making good golf shots and a lot of par, forcing the other guys to try to catch me."

He did that. And more.

Irwin got the pars he needed to secure the victory. And then he put on a birdie-eagle finish to set the tournament scoring record at 265, 23 strokes under par on the 6,881-yard Waialae Country Club course that was robbed of its defenses by the rare absence of wind.

"Deep down I wanted to break the record, but, really, it was just a bonus," said Irwin, who started the final round with a five-shot cushion, saw it dwindle to two strokes at the turn, then finished his closing 69 on a high note.

Don January, a 51-year-old veteran and an occasional competitor on the seniors tour, came on to take second at 271 after a closing 68.

Ben Crenshaw, Terry Diehl and Isao Aoki, Japan's leading player, were next at 272. Crenshaw, who once got to within two strokes of the top spot but finished with a 67, said, "You have to be realistic about it. I was playing for second. I didn't have any thought of catching Hale. He's too good a player."

Aoki had a closing 69, Diehl 70.

The group at 273 included Bean, Tom Watson, John Schroeder, John Mahaffey and George Archer. Bean, Mahaffey and Archer had last round 67's. Watson shot a 68 in the warm sunshine and Schroeder matched par 72.

Lee Trevino finished with a 68 and a 274 total. Bruce Lietzke, a two-time winner this season, had a birdie-birdie-birdie finish for a 69 that extended his streak of consecutive rounds at par or better to 18. He had a 275 total.

Irwin, who won $58,500 from the total purse of $325,000, had the lead all the way in the last round but said: "Things were starting to get a little shaky there for a while" when his lead dwindled to two strokes.

He added to that margin, however, with a great 9-iron shot that left him a six-inch tap-in for birdie on the 12th. The critical string of pars followed.

And he got the scoring record with a 5-iron shot that left him a six-footer on the 17th and a 3-wood shot that set up his 20-foot eagle putt on the last hole.

"It's been a long time," he said. "I'm very pleased, not only with the win but with myself, making a comeback to get back to the position where I feel I should be playing."

Tech Patterns Baseball Victory

By RAY GLASS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

It was a game of waiting Sunday between Texas Tech and New Mexico.

The two baseball teams met in the fourth and final game of a three-day series at the Tech Diamond and waited for the familiar events to unfold — the Raiders grab an early lead, pitching on both sides is shaky and may collapse, and the Lobos score a run late in the game.

That had been the pattern in two of the first three games and, true to form, Sunday's game was no exception. But Tech managed to hang on for an 8-5 victory as the Lobos left seven runners stranded in the final four innings.

The win moved the series record and Tech's overall mark to 3-1 while New Mexico slipped to 1-3 in regular season competition.

The Raiders jumped on Lobo starter Moe Camilli and reliever Bill Dunston for eight runs in the first three innings, the third time in four games Tech has run up a big lead early in the game. But, despite a strong winning performance by starter Robert Bryant, the outcome was in doubt when the Lobo bats came to life late in the game.

The left-handed Bryant, a senior from Austin, picked up his first win of the season in his initial start by scattering six hits and allowing one run in his seven-inning stint. But he had control problems, walking five Lobos, and left nine runners on the base paths while striking out six.

After he worked his way into and out of a bases-loaded dilemma in the sixth, he was replaced by Mark McDowell and came close to not figuring in the final decision.

The Raiders and Bryant were leading 7-1 going into the top of the sixth when the signs of a New Mexico comeback began to surface. Bryant hit leadoff batter Larry Harrison in the back to start his troubles. After Mark Biren fanned, John Diggins drew a walk. Bryant then struck out pinch-hitter Mark Berardi before issuing a free pass to Ben Bregman, loading the bases. But Robert Kiro dribbled a weak check-swing hit back to the mound and Bryant threw him out to retire the side.

After a relatively easy seventh, Bryant was removed in favor of McDowell, the seventh Tech pitcher to see action in the four-game series.

"We took Bryant out because this was his first time on the mound this year. He had thrown 130 pitches and we didn't want to take a chance of hurting his arm," Tech coach Kal Segrist said of the decision to change pitchers.

"We felt like he was probably going to be able to finish the game, but we didn't want him to be sore next week and have a hard time coming back. And he had thrown more pitches than we like. We think 120 pitches is enough."

McDowell, a Houston junior who worked in only 16 innings a season ago, was in trouble from the outset. He gave up a single to leadoff man Biren before getting Diggins to fly out to center.

Biren, on second thanks to a wild pitch, moved over to third on Berardi's single and Bregman singled him home. McDowell walked pinch-hitter Robert Martinez to load the bases. Robert Gemignani singled in one run and Tommy Francis singled home two more and Matt Dean replaced McDowell.

Dean got Brunenkant to hit back to the mound and, after walking Harrison to reload the bases, induced Biren to hit a grounder to second, forcing Harrison for the final out. Dean set down the Lobos in order in the final frame to save the game.

While Bryant pitched a solid seven for Tech, Camilli, 0-1, faced 12 batters in less than two innings before he was yanked. The Raiders got to him early, with leadoff batter Rusty Laughlin hitting his second offering into left field for a single.

A passed ball moved Laughlin to second and he reached third as Scott Nethery bounced out to second. Jeff Harp walked and stole second before leftfield-

Earl Scudday Searching For Reality

NEWS THAT THOMAS HENDERSON, the former Dallas Cowboy linebacker, is in an out-of-state hospital trying to free himself of narcotics addiction came as a real shocker to this scribbler. If there ever was a fellow who didn't need to rely on drugs, it was "Hollywood."

To the casual acquaintance, at least, Henderson had everything going for him. He was a magnificent physical specimen and handsome enough to be a movie star. He was bright and witty and a lot of fun to be around. Even Coach Tom Landry, never one to throw adjectives around, said that Henderson had the grid ability to be great.

If there were shadows in Henderson's past, as a black youngster living in poverty, he concealed them very successfully. From the time a Cowboy scout first visited him on the campus of little Langston College in Oklahoma, he was bubbling with self-confidence. He had strong opinions on certain subjects, too.

When the Cowboys routinely sent him a questionnaire during his senior season, a secretary typed his name as "Tom Henderson." The questionnaire came back a few days later with the name crossed out and a note in bold letters across the top: "My name is THOMAS!"

In a section for the player's comments, he declared, "You better draft me, because I'm going to play for somebody in the NFL!"

"Hollywood" never hid his emotions, for sure.

HENDERSON WAS DRAFTED by the Cowboys late in the first round in 1975, after using an earlier pick from the New York Giants to grab all-everything Randy White. The 'Pokes made quite a talent haul that year, with 12 rookies — the "Dirty Dozen" — making the squad. It should have been the "Lucky Thirteen," but Landry cut quarterback Jim Zorn at the last minute to make room for veteran Preston Pearson.

That was fast company for a player from Langston, who also had to make the switch from defensive end to linebacker. Sure enough, Henderson had problems galore when he reported to the Cowboys' training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., that July.

After a couple of weeks, the scribblers covering the Cowboys began to wonder out loud if Henderson was the sure-fire talent that Dallas scouts had proclaimed. He had speed and agility, admittedly, but he also was having a tough time mastering Landry's complex defensive scheme.

At one point, the writers asked Landry if there was a possibility that Henderson would not make the squad despite being a first-round draft pick.

"Certainly," Landry replied. "I have seen Heisman Trophy winners who didn't make it."

One Sunday morning when the situation appeared grim, Henderson climbed a high hill behind the training site and sat up there for hours. He never revealed his thoughts, but when he came down it was with his dream of success in the NFL revived.

HENDERSON DID MAKE the squad, of course, chiefly because of his value on the special teams. He was a streak going downfield to cover on punts and kick-offs and was a deadly tackler.

His amazing speed — for a linebacker — helped the Cowboys win a crucial tilt at St. Louis that autumn. Henderson returned a kickoff 97 yards for a touchdown that enabled Dallas to eventually win in overtime, 37-31.

The Cowboys played Pittsburgh in Super Bowl X that season and Henderson nearly repeated the feat. He took the opening kickoff back into Steeler territory and only a desperate grab by a startled Roy Gerela saved a touchdown.

Henderson made a lot of big plays during his five seasons with the Cowboys, although he never achieved the consistency that the coaches sought. He became the starting strongside linebacker in 1977, when White moved to tackle and Bob Brown moved to the middle, but his greatest success was on the kicking teams.

BECAUSE OF THE controversy surrounding him the last two years at Dallas, when he dropped all restraint in an obvious bid for personal publicity, teammates and the media became highly critical of his antics. Landry tried to get him to tone down his verbal blasts at opponents, because that was contrary to the mentor's own code of conduct.

But Henderson would not be squelched. He made the Pro Bowl in 1978, despite his growing notoriety, and turned in some truly spectacular plays. In an exhibition game against the Houston Oilers, he met the mighty Earl Campbell head-on and got a draw out of it. They both went down on the spot, not yielding an inch. And Campbell outweighed Henderson by 20 pounds!

Now the golden throats in the booth claim that Campbell cannot be brought down by one tackler, but Henderson did it.

Against the Rams in the '78 playoffs, Henderson intercepted a pass and ran it back for a touchdown. That nearly killed the gladiators from Tinsel Town.

In Super Bowl XIII, Henderson blitzed Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw and pinned his arms to his side, enabling Mike Hegman to steal the ball and romp to a touchdown that put the 'Pokes ahead for a time.

"Hollywood" made good on some of his boasts, after all.

LANDRY TRIED EVERYTHING in an attempt to help Henderson, but in 1979 the situation became intolerable. We know why, now, with Henderson's admission of drug use. He became a disciplinary problem and hurt team morale. So Landry reluctantly suspended him and later shipped him off to San Francisco with the hope he might find a new scene helpful.

He did not. Cut by the 49ers, he caught on briefly with Houston. Then the Oilers released him.

Henderson's whole world has collapsed now and his critics are chortling in glee. But some of us, at least, hope that the personable young man overcomes his problems and achieves success. If not in the NFL, perhaps in some other area.

Life is bigger than a football field, when the final whistle sounds.

Tate Breaks Slump With Ring Triumph

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Just before the bell ending the fourth round, John Tate was caught flush on the jaw by a left hook from Harry Steichen and when Tate returned to his corner, a jittery manager, Ace Miller, asked if he had been hurt.

"He said he wasn't — that it didn't bother him," said Miller, "but it sure bothered me."

A big question mark about Tate, the former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, has been his ability to take a punch, especially since his knock-out losses last year to Mike Weaver, to whom he lost the title, and Trevor Berbick.

"I think I showed I can take a punch," said Tate after scoring a lopsided, 10-round decision over Steichen Sunday for his first victory in 16 months.

Steichen might not be the kind of puncher to give an answer to the question of whether Tate has a China Chin, but the important thing for Tate Sunday was the fact that he won. Another loss almost certainly would have ended the 26-year-old former Olympian's career.

Tate's performance was tentative, especially in the early rounds, and he was not entirely satisfied with it.

"I can't say I fought like a million dollars," said Tate. "Every day you go to the cotton field you can't pick 100 (pounds.) I'm very pleased with the 87 I got."

Tate, who weighed 242½ pounds, said after his 21st victory in 23 pro fights: "I'd like to fight about once a month and get back in rhythm until I can fight for the title."

Not so long ago, Tate admitted, he "thought about taking my money and putting it into some other business. Then I went fishing one day and got it into my mind to beat Weaver, to beat Larry Holmes, to beat anybody I have to to get back the title. I just made up my mind I ain't going to lose anymore."

Weaver took the WBA title away from Tate last March 31 when he knocked Tate out with 45 seconds left in the fight. Holmes is the World Boxing Council heavyweight champion. Both of these fighters are in a much faster league than the 27-year-old Steichen, who said after the fight, "I thought I would have a harder time than I had. He never hurt me, his punches were more like pushes than punches. I was intimidated by him more than anything else."

While Steichen, who weighed 229½, was not unduly impressed by Tate, he still managed to win only one round on the card of one of the three judges. And the other two gave Tate a shutout.

Tech Enters Scramble For SWC's Third Place

Arkansas and Houston have all but assured themselves a bye to the Southwest Conference post-season basketball semifinals in San Antonio. But the third-place pass to the quarterfinals is another matter.

Texas and Texas A&M are still in the hunt with 5-7 records. While the first three teams get byes, the fourth-through sixth-place clubs get a homecourt berth in the first round of the tournament March 2.

Petty's Strategy Wins Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There is no question in the mind of Richard Petty that a different set of circumstances would have prevented him from winning his seventh Daytona 500 stock car race.

4-5A Race Possibilities Multiply

Just when things ought to be clearing up, they seem to get more confusing. In District 4-5A, with only two boys' games and one girls' game left, both Plainview and Monterey have very good shots at clinching their respective district titles.

In the girls', the situation is cut-and-dried. To avoid a playoff between the first half winner (Monterey) and the second-half winner (Plainview), the Bulldogs would have to lose Tuesday night's season finale in Hereford.

Borger Climbs Into Contention

Borger took a big step last week toward staking claim to the second-half District 1-4A boys' basketball crown by winning a pair of games last week, but still must deal with Canyon as the race enters the final three weeks.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bode Deal

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Partners may be a bit more competent than you are tomorrow in handling your collective interests. Instead of bucking their efforts, emphasize cooperation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The duties for which you're responsible you'll deal with fully tomorrow. The bind could come by taking on the chores of the less-efficient.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In your dealings with friends things will be going your way tomorrow, yet there's a possibility you could do something unwise and create ill-will.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be supportive of family members tomorrow, especially in situations where others boast of accomplishments of their brood. Don't be one-upped.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Give compliments to friends tomorrow in situations meriting acknowledgment. Be sincere, however, because they'll resent being damned by faint praise.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your possibilities for personal gain look promising tomorrow, but there is also an indication you may not be willing to share that which others helped you acquire.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you are positive your way is right tomorrow, function as independently as possible. Associates who want to be helpful may actually turn out to be a hindrance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your ideas on ways to achieve things tomorrow will be quite good, but you might implement them counter-productively. Act, but also think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're popular with friends tomorrow and you'll make a desirable addition to any gathering, but you must be careful not to overstay your welcome.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) When it comes to protecting your self-interests tomorrow, you're more than capable of handling any situation. But you might not perform as well looking out for others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll handle things in ways tomorrow which will win you admiration. Boasting about your accomplishments, however, will take the bloom off the rose.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In managing complicated situations for others you're very adroit tomorrow, but take care not to be drawn into something sticky which could cost you money out of your own pocket.

Your Birthday

February 17, 1981

Howard Baker Wants Senate TV Coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker says he thinks he has enough votes to start television coverage of Senate sessions later this year.
But there is some opposition. Sen. John Warner, R-Va., says he's fearful televised coverage might degrade "intangible qualities of the Senate. It's the old adage: if it works don't tinker with it."
"That has to be balanced with enhancement of this chamber through real time reporting of what happens here," he said.
A single camera was used this week to televise the Senate in a test conducted by the Senate Rules Committee, which is considering whether to recommend public televising of regular sessions. Warner participated in the test.
Mary Pickford, the popular Hollywood star of the 1920s who won a Special Academy Award in 1975, was born in Toronto.

Man Not Expected To Turn Informant

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Authorities say there is no indication a man sentenced to 84 years in prison for his role in what is believed to be the nation's largest marijuana smuggling operation will turn informant against other officers of "The Company."
James A. Mitchell, 50, of Brighton, pleaded guilty last month to all charges in a 42-count indictment against him and 10 others. He was sentenced Thursday. One co-defendant has been sentenced and another has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentencing.
Two other defendants await trials next month in connection with an alleged conspiracy to smuggle $120 million of Colombian marijuana into the States.

Mrs. O'Hair, Son Seek Privacy

AUSTIN (AP) — America's leading atheist, tired of busloads of hymn-singing church kids, has moved into hiding.

Madalyn Murray O'Hair still goes to work at her American Atheist Center every day, but her private life has become even more private.

"We absolutely gave up," she said. "We had busloads of choir singers singing hymns on our lawn."

"We have moved out and nobody knows where we are. We are under an absolutely different name. The people in our office do not know where we live. There's no way anybody can know where we are at now," she said in an interview in her office.

Miss O'Hair and son Jon Garth Murray moved in October. They got rid of the home in which they had lived for 15 years. The harassment became all too common, she said.

"The (local) Baptist church sent people down to knock on our door to convert us," she said, adding the church "inundated" her mail box with "praying-hand post cards."

"For the first time, I feel a little bit safe," she said.

Her office building has been defaced — crosses are carved into the door and tar on the roof was laid to say "Jesus Loves You."

Miss O'Hair said she is encouraged by the publicity surrounding the Moral Majority, whose efforts to influence politics and government, she said, are "beautiful."

"The Moral Majority is demonstrating overtly for the entire public what the Roman Catholic Church is doing covertly. I think it is absolutely beautiful because it gives a handy demonstration for persons to have a deep understanding for what's going on in the government covertly," she said.

Jon Garth Murray said he, too, is pleased by the Moral Majority's efforts.

"It's making people think about their religion and that's dangerous for religion," he said. "When they start thinking about it they'll say, 'Did Oral Roberts really see a 700-foot Jesus or is he putting me on to get my check out of my checkbook?'"

Miss O'Hair said she has high hopes for Bill Murray, her son who recently declared himself a Christian and spoke out against his mother's work.

"I hope he winds up with a Rolls-Royce and a house on the Riviera. He's a good atheist and I think what he is doing is taking the religious community for a ride. To use a phrase that would be appropriate for him, God bless him," she said.

The American Atheist Center, a million-dollar headquarters that also serves as a publishing house for Miss O'Hair, also has ambitious plans.

Frog Gift Made Of Glue Dough

By SHARI LEWIS

You've heard of a frog on a log? Well, here's how you can have a frog on a rock. The frog will be fake, the rock will be real, and, together, they'll make a perfect weight to give as a gift.

Shape your frog out of Glue Dough.

Glue Dough is a combination of equal parts flour, cornstarch and Elmer's glue, which gives you a moldable dough that hardens without baking. Mix equal parts of the three ingredients in a bowl. Squeeze the stuff until it's well blended. If your mixture is too dry, add a drop more glue. If it's too moist, sprinkle on a bit of flour and a dab of cornstarch — a little at a time.

This Glue Dough will keep fresh for weeks in a tightly closed plastic bag.

To sculpt the frog (or any animal), shape Glue Dough around balls of paper.

You can make colored Glue Dough by adding food color to the glue before mixing it with the flour and cornstarch. Use a felt marking pen to add details.

There are dozens of other things you can make with Glue Dough, too. If you send a self-addressed business envelope to: Glue Dough, P.O. Box 157, Hilliard, Ohio 43026, the Borden Co. (which makes Elmer's glue) will mail you a copy of a tiny but excellent free booklet all about things to do with Glue Dough.

Friday's Brain Twister: Why does popcorn pop?

Answer: Hidden inside each kernel of popcorn are teeny drops of water. When the popcorn gets hot, this water turns to steam. Then the corn explodes, which lets the steam escape into the air.

Today's Brain Twister: What words have these unlikely combinations of letters hidden within them — XYG and DHP? (Look for the answer in Tuesday's Kids-Only Club column.)

Want to discover simple ways to do spooky stuff, like giving a Haunted House Party? Making kooky costumes: Doing silly, scary stunts, anytime, anywhere? Get Shari's new Kids-Only Club book, Spooky Stuff, by sending your name and address, along with $1.95 plus 65 cents for postage, handling and tax, for a total of $2.60 to: Shari, in care of The Avalanche-Journal, 6464 Sunset Blvd., Suite 920, Hollywood, Calif. 90028. Fishermen Rescued From Sinking Boat

MIAMI (AP) — Six sport fishermen aboard a sinking pleasure boat were plucked to safety by a Coast Guard helicopter moments before the craft went down off Florida's east coast, officials said.

The 40-foot Miss Bonnie, based in Fort Lauderdale, had been buffeted by high winds and heavy seas and began taking on water Thursday in the Gulf Stream between Miami and Bimini, said Lt. J.G. Gary Tabony. When an engine stalled, skipper George Greenwalt radioed for help.

"They pulled the last two guys out just as the boat went under the water," Tabony said. No injuries were reported.
