THE ROUNDUP is an unofficial newspaper published weekly in the interest of personnel at Reese Air Force Base of Air Training Command. It is published by Barron Publications, Inc., a private concern which is in no way connected with the department of the Air Force. Opinions expressed by publishers and writers

Mission Possible

At Christmas we were well ahead of our "time line" of sorties flown. Then came the winter weather and in spite of all efforts, on Feb. 21, we were nine days behind and in danger of not being able to graduate our March class on time.

This week we are within two days of even, which is within our weekday surge capability. Those seven days make-up did not come easy.

I want you all to know I fully appreciate the efforts of the entire Reese team — both military and civilian — to bring us "back on track." This took continued work through the weekdays in addition to full efforts on two weekends. I thank you for working those days which are normally your own time. I am especially appreciative of the two major organizations that share the direct load of fixing and flying airplanes — Operations and Maintenance.

Now, as I have said, this reversal has taken a lot of hard work by everyone in this wing. All of you in Air Base Group, Resource Management, Communications, Weather, Medics, tenants, and even the wing staff, who provide direct and vital support to our Operations and Maintenance complex, can take great pride in your contributions to this remarkable show of "getting the job done." But, in particular, I would like to recognize the day-by-day, night-by-night hustle by the people in MA and DO who actually work on and fly the airplanes.

Thanks for a sustained, super performance!

Col. Charles Bishop

CARE Line

(Editor's Note: All calls to the CARE Line MUST be accompanied by the caller's full name and duty phone so that answers may be provided personally if space is not available in THE ROUNDUP. All information will be held in confidence and names will be withheld from print upon request. Names and numbers are required in order to give quick, personal responses to legitimate questions. Reese people are urged to use their chain of command or the office of primary responsibility to air complaints or comments, if possible. If not, call the CARE Line (Ext. 3273).

LONG CHOW LINE

On Sunday mornings the only place to eat at Reese is the base chow hall. And then it is only open a few hours in the morning. So if you wake up at the wrong time you don't eat. You can't get off base until 12:30 p.m.

Sunday I went over to the chow hall after missing breakfast and there was a line that extended outside the chow hall. What I can't understand is that people making up the lines were reservists. That is a chow hall for people who can't get off base. These reservists don't have to eat there every meal like we who live in the barracks do.

What I suggest is that there ought to be somewhere on base at all times and the reservists should have their own time to eat without taking away from us.

A1C James M. Lavoie

Weekend operating hours for breakfast are from 7:30 to 10:30 a.m. This meets the demand of the largest number of personnel and is adequate to serve airmen going on and coming off shift with ample time for sleeping in. Three and a half hours is the maximum we can serve breakfast under our contract without additional cost to the government.

The problem you perceived on Sunday, February 12, is not possible to change due to our commitment to support the Reserve forces. We move the reservists off to one side of the cashier leaving the regular sign-in sheets open. You do not have to wait in this line to sign in. You may experience some delay in getting served but we serve 18 patrons per minute and this wait should not be long.

In regard to feeding the reservist elsewhere, we are required by Air Force regulations to furnish them meals on duty weekends. The inconvenience is only one weekend per month and then only for lunch.

The original Vandals were unjustly accused of doing something that they didn't do: the sacking of Rome when they took the city over in 455 A.D. The term "vandalism" in its present use actually applied to another group of Teutonic tribes that included the Burgundians and the Goths.

There is every reason today, however, to apply the name to the perpetrators of senseless destruction. On a recent television program, scenes were shown of entire city blocks virtually leveled by vandalism.

The problem plagues all aspects of life today. In recent years, we have seen the slashing of priceless paintings, the defacing of Michelangelo's "Pieta," attempts to blow up the Statue of Liberty, etc.

The bill that the rest of us pay for vandalism is staggering. To prevent sniper attacks and attempts to derail trains, the officials of AMTRAK who run our Nation's railroads have decided to fence the entire 456-mile rail corridor in the U.S. northeast at a cost of $100 million. At hearings before the U.S. Senate on the subject of vandalism and arson in our Nation's public schools, the sum of such destruction was put in the vicinity of $600 million.

A study done for the Federal Railway Administration—trains and schools are favorite targets of vandals—found vandalism to be "an almost exclusively male crime," common among young boys who consider themselves pranksters. The study found that most vandalism occurs after school and on weekends, with peak months being April, May, June and October.

"It is extremely doubtful that vandalism can be attributed to any one cause," the study says, but lists high among the probable causes: "youthful high spirits, boredom, hostility, peer group acceptance and inadequate parental upbringing."

One of the solutions used by railroad officials was to start an education campaign in high schools, and with the help of civic clubs and the local papers, vandalism dropped significantly. But as the program emphasis subsided a few years later, the vandalism increased again, making the point that such activities should be carried out on a regular basis.

What You Can Do:

Individual citizens can and should take certain actions to reduce the temptation for vandalism. Such preventive measures include:

- A well-lit area is the last place any criminal or vandal wants to be; a small amount of money invested in a porch light will be well worth the outlay.
- If you have a dog, keep him outside at night during the summer months; an alert bark will discourage most vandals.
- Report vandalism as soon as it happens; the police can thus take swift measures to prevent further destruction since success in one area encourages vandals to continue.
- If you see anything suspicious or out of the ordinary in your neighborhood, call the police.
- Support your local boys' club and other youth civic and athletic leagues; such organizations give young people something constructive to do, thus preventing vandalic activities.

Chaplain's comment

by Chaplain (Capt.) Robert F. Satterfield

In a recent issue of a magazine for parents of small children, one of the articles contained an explanation of the importance of bedtime rituals: hearing a story, being tucked in, having a drink of water.

For a child there is a finality about the end of his day. He needs to feel secure and loved, to be reassured that he is cared for, as he allows his day to end. He is comforted that in the next room the light is on and his parents are there.

We "older children" are not so different. Am I loved? Is there security for me? Did my day have meaning to anyone? Is there a light for me to see when I need to?

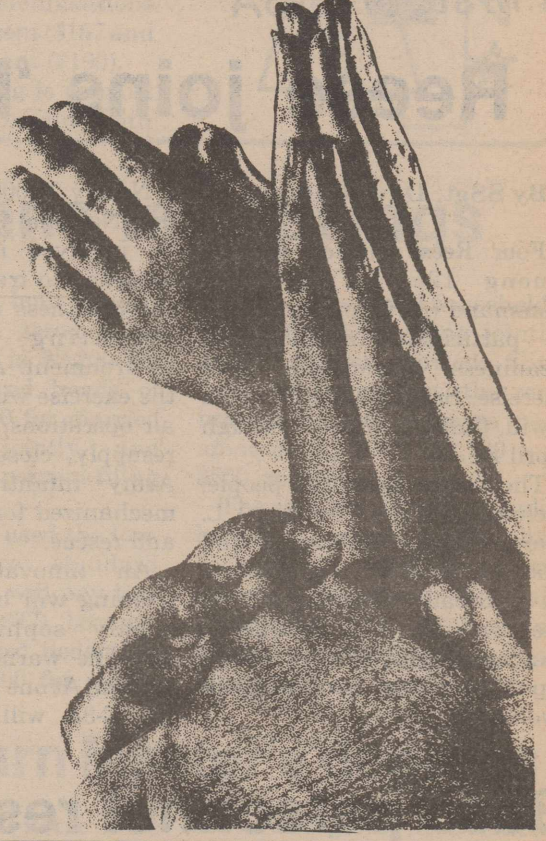

Answers to these questions are especially needed at the end of one year and the beginning of the next. All the questions about purpose, love and security come up again.

We read and hear about the proliferation of nuclear weapons, environmental pollution, shortages of resources, crime in our neighborhoods, and we wonder: Is it too late? Will we have better times ahead? Is it really the end for our society?

In one sense this is the end. There will be no tomorrows like our yesterdays. The next year will not end as the old one did. And it may be that the year as we know it in calendar days will not end at all. This year may be the year when "two men will be in the field; one is taken and one is left. Two women will be grinding at the mill; one is taken and one is left" (Matthew 24:40-41).

The question is not, "will it happen?" because it will happen some day, and each day brings us closer to it. Nor is the question, "when will it happen?" because God alone knows the timetable. The important question is, "Am I ready for that tomorrow?"

Reese joins 'Brave Shield'

By SSgt. Dave Galloway

Four Reese airmen will be among 125 Air Training Command (ATC) personnel set to participate in the U.S. Readiness Command joint exercise, Brave Shield 17, at Ft. Irwin, Calif., March 30 through April 23.

The first group of ATC people, including A1Cs Douglas L. Ward, Calvin W. Warren and Robert L. Sens, Civil Engineers, have already departed for the exercise site. A1C George C. Sanchez, Supply refueler, will be reporting to Fort Irwin in about two weeks.

Nearly 23,000 active, Reserve and National Guard forces will be involved in this exercise designed to train and evaluate the readiness of selected units operating in a desert environment. Another facet of the exercise will be a variety of air operations, including aerial resupply, close air support of Army infantry, armor and mechanized forces, and search and rescue.

An innovative aspect of training will be the use of the highly sophisticated E-3A airborne warning and control system. At one point in exercise, the E-3A will simultaneously direct 85 friendly fighters against an attacking force of 237 enemy aircraft. This marks the first time this system will be used as an operational system in a joint service exercise.

Brave Shield 17 will be conducted in three phases. Deployment of forces will take place March 30-April 7, employment of forces, April 8-16 and re-deployment of forces, April 17-23. The actual field training exercise, scheduled for April 11-16 will pit two separate task forces against each other in California's Mojave desert.

Base personnel respond to Ripe Challenge today

By SSgt. Dave Galloway

Air Training Command's (ATC) first command initiated exercise is taking place today with Reese, the Lowry AFB Technical Training Center, Colo. and ATC Headquarters at Randolph AFB taking part. Gen. John W. Roberts, ATC Commander has reemphasized the importance of this vital training exercise.

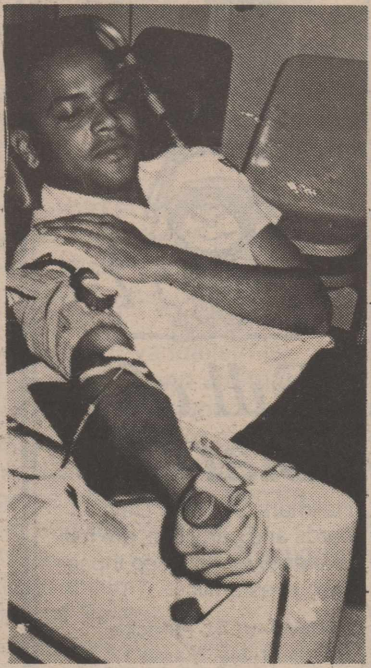

General Roberts noted it has been several years since ATC exercised in the context of today's Ripe Challenge exercise. He said command personnel have done well in joint training exercises such as Gallant Crew and Commando Rock, but that those exercises did not provide a measurement of ATC's capability to respond to total wartime responsibilities.

"We know our people can produce once deployed," General Roberts explained, "but we need to check out the capability of our total structure to respond — command and control, recall, processing and contingency support staffs. We need to determine and periodically practice the response capability of this command. Thus, the reason for Ripe Challenge."

'Zero-bracket' means tax savings

by Maj. David F. Sullivan
 Reese JA

Commerce Clearing House, in its Federal Tax Guide Report, states "zero-bracket amount: most people will save."

For 1977 and later years, the standard deduction has been replaced by a "zero-bracket amount," a flat standard-deduction amount built into the tax tables. The zero-bracket amount for 1977 is $2,200 for single persons and heads of households, $3,200 for married persons filing jointly, and $1,600 for married persons filing separately.

Taxpayers who used the low-income allowance standard deduction in 1976 will pay less tax this year (1977) because their 1976 standard deduction amounted to $1,700 for single persons or heads of households, $2,100 for those filing jointly, and $1,050 for marrieds filing separately. In effect, the zero-bracket amount increases these amounts by $500, $1,100 and $550, respectively.

The zero-bracket amount also benefits married persons because the 1976 maximum standard deduction was only $2,800 for joint returns and $1,400 for married persons filing separately.

F.S. names new boss

By Willie Joe Smith

Have you ever reported to your new duty station and found that your furniture is stuck on a side road in twelve feet of snow in "Antifreeze, Ohio?" And wives have you ever had that lonely feeling when your husband is on remote duty in Nome, Alaska?

Well someone is here to help you through these hard times. That someone is a Family Services volunteer.

Family Services is an important organization that very few Reese personnel really know anything about. It offers Reese families a wide variety of personal services. The Family Services lending closet is stocked with such essential items as beds, mattresses, cooking utensils, and vacuum; all of which can be borrowed by active duty and retired military personnel in the Lubbock area. Family Services also provides emergency transportation and babysitting. And, if you have just received orders, Family Services can provide up-to-date information on the community as well as the base you will be going to.

Reese Family Services consists, at present, of a 15 volunteer force headed up by Volunteer Coordinator Dee Weller. She was voted as volunteer of the year and is a nominee for ATC volunteer of the year. On April 1 of this year, Weller will be turning over her job as Volunteer Coordinator to Ann Drury. Weller expressed Monday that she would like to see the base as a whole and especially the wives better informed about what Family Services can do and what people can do for Family Services.

The Family Services would like to invite everyone to a Personal Affairs Briefing which will be held on April 4 from 9 a.m. to noon with a brunch afterwards. Reservations are encouraged and baby-sitting will be available. For further information call 885-3306 where a more than helpful volunteer is there to serve.

(Editor's Note: Willie Joe Smith is a senior at Lubbock Christian College. He will be commissioned as a U.S. Army second lieutenant in May of this year through the Texas Tech Army ROTC program. This semester he is "interning" with the Reese Information Office three days a week.)

Reese slates cancer seminar

By Vincent P. Micucci

The mere mention of the word "Cancer" strikes terror in the heart of most Americans — and well it should.

The dreaded disease kills 390,000 people annually in the United States. However, like all things we are afraid of, many of our fears arise from a lack of knowledge. Did you know, for instance, that most cancers, if detected in their early stages, can be treated and cured?

If you're interested in learning more about cancer, you're in luck! On Monday, the Social Actions Office will present the third in a series of programs on contemporary issues: "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Cancer, But Were Afraid To Ask".

The program is scheduled during lunchtime (noon to 1 p.m.) at the base theater and will feature a film and a lecture by a speaker from the American Cancer Society. The film stars members of the "Mission Impossible" television cast and promises to be entertaining as well as informative. The lecture will touch on the most recent research done on cancer as well as practical advice on early detection and treatment.

American Cancer Society statistics indicate that half of all cancers can be detected in time for successful treatment. These figures indicate that over 100,000 people will probably die of cancer this year who might have been saved if they had taken the time to attend a training session similar to the one scheduled on Monday. Bring your sandwich and lunch in the base theater with us — it just might save your life!!!!

Security Policemen plan rape prevention seminar

Reese organizations are making last minute preparations for the rape prevention seminar planned here March 29.

Sponsored by the Security Police division, the seminar will include presentations from the Office of Special Investigations, Reese Hospital, Staff Judge Advocate's Office, base Chapel and Social Actions. In addition, the head of the Lubbock Rape Crisis Center, Becky Mahan will talk about the problems of rape in a city that averages nearly twice the national per capita crime index for rape.

According to Mahan, the Lubbock area averages nearly eight "reported" cases of rape per month. She added that the Center is involved in supportive counseling to rape victims and in conducting public educational programs about rape.

A film, produced by noted author Frederick Storaska will be shown during the seminar. The program starts at 1 and will run through 4:30 p.m.

Tornado season nears

Severe lightning, heavy rains and destructive winds are often the "advance men" for nature's most violent storm — the tornado. Reese Disaster Preparedness specialists say if you don't know these signs — you could be in trouble.

"This part of the country has rarely slipped through a Spring without some destruction from tornados," explained Capt. Robert Dalton, Chief of Disaster Preparedness here. "In 1970 the carnage caused by one tornado spawning storm reached into the millions of dollars in the Lubbock area."

With winds ranging from 175 to 250 miles per hour the tornado has awesome strength. In a storm in the late 1960s, an 83-ton railroad car was lifted off the tracks and hurled 80-feet. There were 117 people on board.

Whenever storm activity is high in the area keep alert for the tornado warning. A three to five minute steady tone from the Reese siren means check the radio or television for emergency information.

"Don't panic," says Captain Dalton. "When the siren goes off get inside and follow instructions on the emergency bulletins. Don't tie up telephone lines trying to call the Reese or Lubbock weather units for information."

In addition to providing information about how to handle natural disasters, the base unit also is responsible for taking care of any emergency that might come up from man-made disasters such as plane crashes or chemical spills. The distinctive hard hats with the Disaster Response Force emblems make disaster preparedness personnel easy to spot in emergency situations. Listen to what they say — they're the professionals.

If you want to know what to do in an emergency, but aren't sure just how to react, talk to the men in Disaster Preparedness. They can help.

SSgt. Dennis Sebranek takes a quick inventory of items in the Disaster Preparedness mobile command post.

Sgt. Willie Rogers checks a radiometer to make sure it properly detects the presence of radiation.

Capt. Robert Dalton charts the location of an "exercise" emergency on an area map.

WINTER SPORTS

Carla Eberhart sets up a play during intramural volleyball action last week. Both the men's and women's varsity teams compete in the loop. (U.S. Air Force photos by Charley Mathews)

Rattlers, 54th FTS top loop standings

The men's varsity and the 54th Flying Training Squadron stand as the only unblemished teams in the intramural volleyball league — placing even more emphasis on their March 21 showdown. The Rattlers (5-0) rolled through a two-game slate last week. The base squad nearly blanked Supply Squadron, dumping the challengers, 15-1 and 15-4. Highly touted Sturon-2 made it closer, but also fell in straight games, 15-5 and 15-9.

The 54th FTS (5-0) kept pace with two victories, but was pressed to three games by Sturon-2. The defending champions surprised the 54th players the first game (5-15), winning by seven points. The 54th roared back the second game (15-5) and then pulled out a squeaker in the third game (16-14). In its other match the 54th bombed Organizational Maintenance, 15-5 and 15-6.

Around the league, Sturon-1 beat Supply, 15-3, 7-15 and 15-4; Field Maintenance stopped the varsity women, 15-3 and 15-11; Sturon-2 bested FMS, 15-10 and 15-12; and the women's team put a scare into Supply before falling, 15-2; 4-15 ad 15-4.

Rounding out last week's league slate, Sturon-1 topped the Rattler women, 15-13 and 15-5; FMS took OMS, 15-12 and 15-11; and Sturon-1 measured the Hospital squad, 15-10 and 15-11.

The standings in the intramural volleyball league, as of Monday, were:

Team	W	L
Rattlers	5	0
54th FTS	5	0
Sturon-2	4	2
Sturon-1	3	2
FMS	3	3
Hospital	2	3
Supply	1	4
Women	1	5
OMS	0	5

Tech students work with CE

A special program involving Texas Tech students and Reese Civil Engineers may wind up leaving the base library as the big winner.

1st Lt. Glen Koshiyama, liaison for the program explained what it is all about.

Some of Texas Tech Prof. John Garstka's senior students work on ideas for projects we in Civil Engineering don't have the manpower or time to get at," he said. They do it all. The students decide what improvements can be made, how to make them and then develop a full presentation to sell their ideas to the base."

There were four Texas Tech seniors working on the library project, the second group from Professor Garstka's class to work here.

"It is great practical experience for the students," said Maj. Hiram West, CE Commander, "and it helps the Civil Engineer workload too."

Recently, Mary McSwane led off a presentation to base officials on changes to the base library. According to the major, the students' plans show promise and it is a strong possibility that many of their ideas will be used.

The initial group helped develop a renovation plan here for the Civil Engineer building.

Reportedly, the idea to start the program here came from Jody Brotherston, a former student of Garstka's.

Working on the library project here were: Swane, Pattie Osterholm, Georgia Crownover and Susan Cunningham.

Guthrie scores again!

Singer bewitches judges, fans

Well folks — he's done it again! Once more Sgt. Orin Guthrie's musical magic has bewitched judges and a talent contest audience. And, this time his wizardry earned the young singer a standing ovation and a shot at "Tops in Blue."

Nearly a week ago, Sergeant Guthrie was bathed in the center-stage spotlight of Lackland's Arnold Hall. Before the final echoes of his self-accompanied love song had died, the capacity crowd rose to its feet, acknowledging a performance none would soon forget.

"We're all extremely proud of Orin," said Joe Perron, the man that selected Sergeant Guthrie for the Air Training Command Talent Contest. "He raised the roof at the base contest, did it again at command and he'll make it three-for-three at the Air Force competition this week."

Perron is confident that the 1958th Communications Squadron song writer-singer will win the world-wide competition and be selected for the Air Forces touring spectacular — Tops in Blue.

Sergeant Guthrie was the only member of Reese's eight-man team to qualify for the world-wide contest at McGuire AFB, N. J. Although TSgt. Loren Beck, who finished second in the comedy category, also made the trip to McGuire. Sergeant Beck is a backstage veteran of military productions and is serving a key role on the world-wide stage crew.

The other six contestants from Reese were: A1C Kenneth Cochran, A1C Stephen Shimic; A1C LeGene Brooks, A1C Derek Punter, SrA Danny Turner, Sgt. Joseph Sciretta and SrA Barry Thornell.

If Sergeant Guthrie is selected for the Tops in Blue show he will be on tour with the group in the southwest in August or September.

Stephenson garners ATC award

A1C Ronald Stephenson's climb to recognition as the Air Training Command "Airman of the Year" is the kind of "cinderella" story people around here will be talking about for a long time.

As with most "dreams can come true tales" his begins in the humble setting of a South Carolina farming community. Airman Stephenson spent the first 15 of his life in the sleepy county seat of Orangesburg. Nestled between the banks of the North and South Edisto Rivers, Orangeburg is the type of religious community that never loses its strong family ties.

There, the son of Rev. Leon and Mary Stephenson grew up with very distinct impressions of right and wrong.

When the family moved up to the State Capital, Columbia, Ron had to make the adjustment from "one of the guys" in a rural community — to the new kid on the block in the "big" city.

"I accepted Christ into my life when I was 13-years-old," recalled the oldest of three sons. "My faith has carried me through some rocky times. I know that it is through the grace of "God" that I have achieved these awards (Reese and ATC Airman of the Year)."

Airman Stephenson illustrated how his faith helped him by telling about a problem he had in high school.

"My grades dropped after moving to Columbia," he said. "I wanted to attend the University of South Carolina but my counselor said my grades weren't good enough. I knew if it was God's will I would go. The University accepted me despite my grades."

While on the Gamecock campus, Sergeant Stephenson got turned on to ROTC. "Believe it or not the girls liked the way ROTC guys looked in uniform. That is why I joined."

The 22-year-old said he never really thought about coming into the military. "My uncle was the only person in the family in the service. When I was little he used to kid me about being the only one to carry on the family tradition. And, here I am."

Mid-way through his sophomore year Airman Stephenson decided he needed a change. He enlisted in the Air Force and after basic training was assigned "direct duty" to Reese's fuels branch.

"Wilbur Briant took me under his wing," admits the fuels specialist. "Everyone here tried their best to help me get the hang of things."

During his two years here he has matured into a leader in the Winning the wing honor was a shock to Airman Stephenson. "The only reason I made it to the wing competition is that a friend of mine, who was also up for the nomination, got sick the day we were to meet the squadron board and I sort of won by forfeit. I hated to win that way because he is a great guy and deserved the chance to compete."

When Airman Stephenson was told that he had been selected as the command winner he was overwhelmed. "I thought winning the base honor was one of the best things that had ever happened. Now I'm just thankful for all the help I've had from everyone."

While awaiting the results of the Air Force competition he continues to work on his plans for a career as an Air Force flight surgeon. "I hope to go bootstrap this fall and if I can't do that then cross-train into the medical field." He noted that he enjoyed the work he has done in fuels but that his future is in medicine. "I want to get my commission, by doctorate and after retirement return to Columbia to help my friends."

In his off-duty time he is involved with Christian work at the base Chapel and in Lubbock. He has also started a Bible study class in his dormitory.

The other command winners for 1977 were: SMSgt. Cecil F. Vostatek; Laughlin AFB, Tex.; MSgt. Clifford Jackson, Mather AFB, Calif.; and TSgt. Robert E. Jacques, Hancock Field, N. Y.

Airman Stephenson

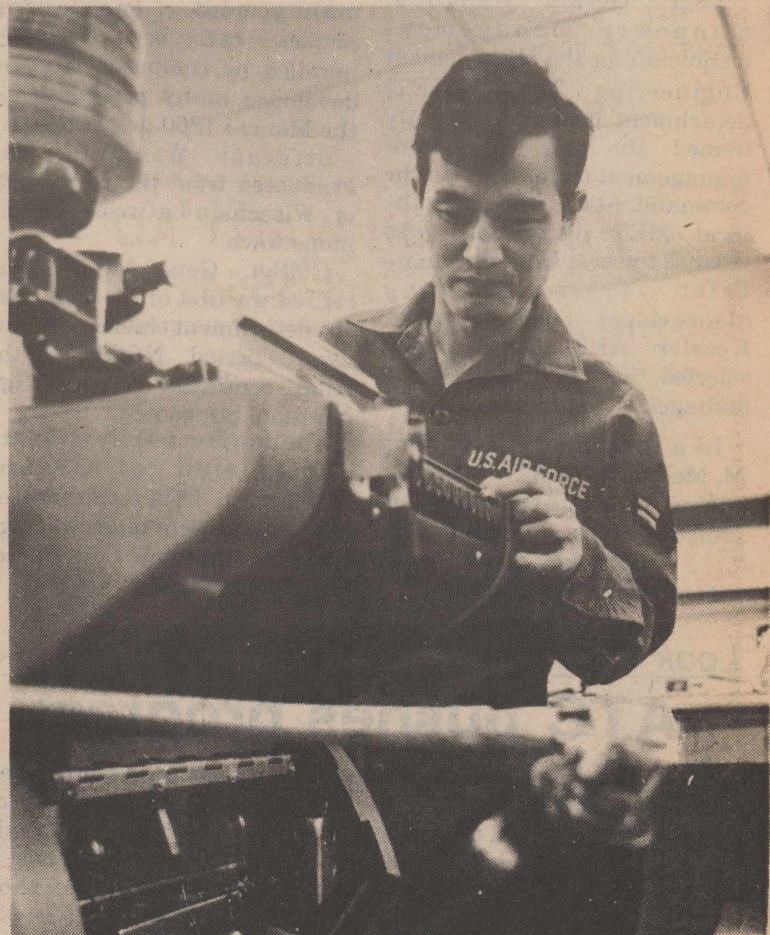

fuels branch. People come to him with their problems because they know he is really interested and always willing to listen.

But don't get the idea that it has all been a bed of roses. There have been times when he felt as though he would never make it happen, but, his faith kept him trying. "I have never been squadron airman of the month," revealed Airman Stephenson. "I had been nominated and passed over three times before going into the wing competition."

ATC honoree: Wendling

MET, Wendling nab command honors

Another Reese man has been selected as "best" in the Air Training Command, and so has his unit.

TSgt. Gerald Wendling, manpower management technician for the Management Engineering Team (MET) detachment here, was recently named the top "manpower management technician" in the command. At the same time, the local MET detachment was cited as the best Undergraduate Pilot Training Wing management team in ATC. Keesler AFB, Miss., was selected as the best Center management team.

In a letter from Col. William M. McVeigh III, ATC's director of Manpower and Organization, praised Sergeant Wendling for "...extensive work with automated procedures."

Part of Sergeant Wendling's duties during 1977 included voluntary testing of the Base Management Engineering Data System. The test proved that management engineering studies can be effectively handled by computer. He also developed many programs for the Monroe 1860 programmer.

Sergeant Wendling was graduated from the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse in his home town.

CMSgt. Gene Minor, who retired the first of the year, was the detachment chief during the award period. NCOIC of the shop continues to be TSgt. Norman Simpson.

The unit is currently under the supervision of Jeanne Yarbrough. Other workers on the management team are SSgt. Charles Huntoon, Sgt. Eunice Griggs and Nancy Gregorio.

Look Great '78

ATC pushes program

Air Training Command's "Look Great '78" is one of those programs guaranteed to receive top priority from all commanders and supervisors.

The program, which promotes Air Force appearance regulations with monthly themes, has people all over the command looking for ways to sell the program with a "positive" approach.

The project officer at Reese is Maj. Frank Salat, Headquarters Squadron commander. Major Salat is developing what he feels will be "positive" methods of promoting the Look Great '78 theme.

ATC has listed monthly topics for the "look great" campaign. This month the emphasis is on belts, buckles, gloves and purses. April's theme is trousers and slacks.
