

Hit who?

It looks like someone's hands are in real danger as one of the concession operators at the last picnic and carnival nails up the booth's sign.

Picnic-carnival set for Sunday

An "Almost Anything Goes" competition will be only one of the big events taking place Sunday during this year's Labor Day Picnic and Carnival set to begin at noon. Base squadrons will battle each other through eight "comical" events to determine a base champion.

Musical entertainment for this annual affair will be provided by "Styng" and "Whiplash Disco." "These two groups have been strong crowd pullers at Mathis Recreation Center and should furnish some good entertainment throughout the afternoon," says Hal Green, chief, Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR).

Food and game booths, operated by members of local organizations, will provide picnickers with a variety of things to eat and do. Back this year by popular demand will be the "Dunkin" tank. "Your favorite person might be sitting behind that screen so come out and get someone wet," says one MWR official.

"Anyone missing this year's picnic," added Green, "will miss an afternoon of good ole fashion fun and music. Come out, visit friends and have a good time."

Plays game

Some of the youngsters taking in the last Reese picnic and carnival try their luck at the putting game. Along with the concessions this weekend's picnic will include live and disco music and an Almost Anything Goes contest.

Reese UAC membership to survey Village residents

The Base Advisory Council (BAC) is looking into two issues that directly affect people living in Reese Village.

During last week's BAC meeting, Unit Advisory Council (UAC) members were tasked to survey Reese Village residents about how they feel about on-street parking and pay telephone booths in Reese's family housing.

UAC members will be asking people whether they prefer to have parking limited to one side of the street (an idea suggested to decrease traffic congestion) or if they want parking to remain open on both sides as it is now.

Reese Village residents will also be asked to share their views on the use of pay booths. If enough interest is shown booths may be placed in strategic areas. UAC members will also solicit suggestions about where the booths, if installed, should be located.

Village residents are urged to cooperate with UAC representatives in completing both surveys. Anyone with an input, who has not been contacted by a UAC member, should contact their squadron orderly room for information.

Vote!

Allen says cast ballots

Air Force chief of staff Gen. Lew Allen Jr., has urged all eligible members of the Air Force community to register and vote in the 1978 elections.

Noting that Sept. 7 is Armed Forces voting Day, General Allen told commanders and voting officers to make a concerted effort to remind Air Force people of their opportunity to vote and to assist them in obtaining absentee ballots.

Armed Forces Voters Day emphasizes "the importance of free elections and the opportunity granted our men and women in uniform to take part," General Allen stated in a message to major commands and special operating agencies.

General elections will be held Nov. 7.

"To ensure that members of the Armed Forces can exercise their registration and voting rights, Congress has authorized use of the Federal Post Card Application for Absentee Ballot. Citizens eligible include Air Force members and their families at all stations as well as civilians and their dependents serving overseas," he said.

"I ask all eligible members of the Air Force to vote, you count, and our nation deserves your participation in this key part of its government process," General Allen stated.

Pedestrian gate reopens; Cops plan two-week test

The Security Police will reopen the pedestrian gate starting Tuesday, for a two week test period.

The idea, say Security Police officials, is to find out if there are enough people who use the gate to make it worthwhile to open it permanently.

Located adjacent to the base Hospital, the pedestrian gate provides ready access to the installation for residents of Reese Village.

Starting Tuesday, the pedestrian gate will be open from 7:30 to 8:15 a.m., 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4:30 to 5:15 p.m. normal duty days through Sept. 18. The average number of people using the gate each day will be computed at the end of the test period.

Roberts stresses holiday safety

Americans no longer think of Labor Day as just an official time set aside to pay deserved honor to the nation's working men and women which, of course, it is and has been since 1894. Almost all of us now enjoy it as part of the last big holiday weekend of summer.

Note that I said almost all of us. Entirely too many American families will recall it for the rest of their lives as the time when they lost a loved one through an accident at a resort or on a crowded highway. Four hundred and sixty-nine died over last year's Labor Day weekend. The tragedy is that many of the accidents could have been avoided if only a little extra care had been exercised.

I urge every member of Air Training Command to take that extra care. Enjoy yourselves to the fullest, but come home safely with your families.

Make the coming Labor Day outing one you'll want to remember, not forget.

THE ROUNDUP is an unofficial newspaper published weekly in the interest of personnel at Reese Air Force Base of Air Training Command. It is published by Barron Publications, Inc., a private concern which is in no way connected with the department of the Air Force. Opinions expressed by publishers and writers

Think safe this weekend

Most of the summer is behind us now and we made it safely through the Memorial Day and Fourth of July weekends without a fatality. Now, Labor Day is upon us. The last traditional long summer holiday weekend will afford us the opportunity to enjoy ourselves before school starts and the weather turns cold. Don't spoil the weekend by being involved in a mishap.

We like to say that America is a sports-loving nation. We love our athletic contests and games, and everyone seems to recognize and take for granted that there must be rules for those games. Everyone seems to realize, too, that those rules have to be enforced or there might just as well not be any rules of the game at all. Why, then, is it that we cannot recognize that in this great game of life, which all of us play, we must have rules to govern our actions, and during this holiday weekend we are especially concerned with our actions while driving cars and motorbikes? Also that those rules require enforcement in order to be effective: Rules of this kind are of far more serious importance than those of any mere game.

With the invention of the automobile came a new breed of man. The quiet, reserved person who sets the example for accepting social responsibility assumes a brand new personality once he gets behind the wheel of a car. As the hands grip the wheel and the foot feels the power of the accelerator, we see our Doctor Jekyll transform into a Mister Hyde. Whatever the reason for this transformation, I'm not really sure, but the fact is it creates a selfish, careless, and inconsiderate driver. He develops a tunnel vision focusing on his destination and ignores all else, including the vehicles of others.

Some drivers forget that alcohol and driving should not be mixed. Please, don't you be one of them. So many times accidents could be prevented and lives saved if each driver used a bit of common sense, observed the rules of the road, and displayed a bit of courtesy. Again, rules and courtesies are established to prevent getting into a position where you realize that you are in danger.

These traffic rules mean life or death! Let me ask of you to consider what would happen if we had no traffic rules? Why! It wouldn't be safe for any of us to venture out, would it? All right, now consider again what would happen if we had rules but did not enforce them. That is easy — conditions would be no better than if we had none at all. However, here is when we run into a large problem. There are not enough policemen in the country to enforce all the rules, all the time, upon all of us. Thus, we must depend upon each individual to practice self-supervision and ensure that lives are not needlessly shortened this weekend.

Col. Charles Bishop

I cannot overemphasize the importance of each individual recognizing and accepting the responsibility for their actions with respect to accident prevention. It's up to you to keep yourself safe. Accept the challenge and have an enjoyable and safe holiday.

'Please, hell'

By Bob Reed
ATC Office of Information

The other day I was writing a standard "get-out-the-vote" article. Reaching the usual "Remember, please, to vote . . ." I stopped. I'd had it.

"Please," hell! Legions died to endow you with the precious right to vote. It's your duty, your obligation. For your country. For yourselves. For your children.

But the sad fact is that those who vote often constitute a minority. A proud one, but a minority nonetheless. A knowledgeable source has estimated that around 70 — repeat, 70 — percent of eligible Texas citizens will not vote come November.

And that's just in Texas. I don't know about the other states. But I do know that even in the heavyweight bouts — Presidential elections — we go through the roof with joy when more than 60 percent of the eligible U.S. electorate registers goes to the polls.

What reasons do non-voters give? "I don't like the candidates." Unacceptable. Write in a name. If that isn't possible, pick the one you think most likely to grow in office. You can always bug him later.

"I'm sick of all politicians." Unacceptable. The country can't run without them.

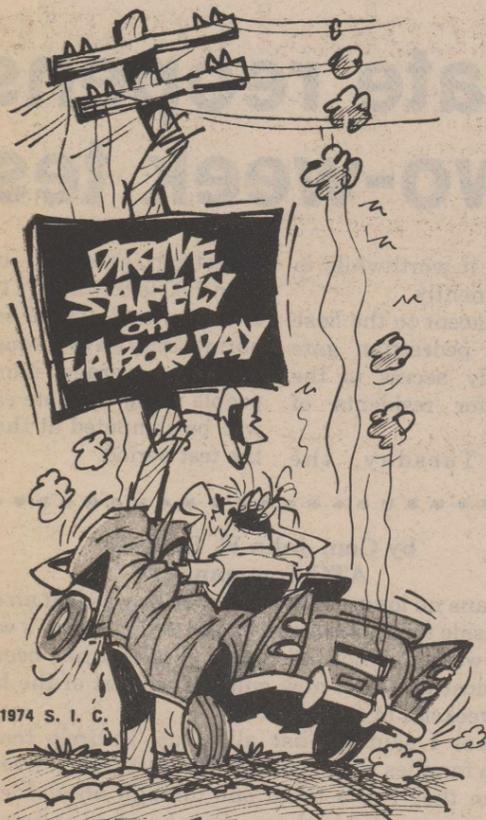

"The polls say my candidate can't win, so my vote would be wasted." Unacceptable. Not voting isn't a vote against anything. It's a vote for the winner. Your vote could have cancelled out one cast for him.

I couldn't care less how you vote. (That's not completely honest, but let it ride.) Sure I have personal preferences, but what they are is none of your business, unless I choose to tell you. And vice versa.

In that case we can disagree violently, but I grant you full rights to your conviction and admire you for fighting for it at the polls.

Another thing: I've sworn off listening to non-voters cry about "our lousy lawmakers" after the election. Let 'em go find another non-voter's shoulder to wet.

Vote. If you do, you're a dues-paying citizen in good standing. If you don't, you don't deserve America.

Drugs: Beans, Crank, Co-pilots, familiar to 'speed freaks'

by SSgt. Douglas Stevens
Drug, Alcohol NCO

Beans, Bennies, Black Beauties, Black Birds, Black Mollies, Bumblebees, Cartwheels, Chalk, Co-pilots, Crank, Crossroads, Crystal, Dexies, Double Cross, Eye Openers, Hearts, Meth, Mini bennies, Nuggets, Oranges, Pep Pills, Speed, Roses, Truck drivers, Turn abouts, Uppers, Wakeups — thats a lot of different names for Amphetamines on the illegal Drug Market.

Amphetamines are sometimes perscribed by doctors for control of hyperactivity in children, narcolepsy, and weight control. They have also been commonly used by drivers on long trips, night shift workers, tired housewives, students and others who must meet deadlines, athletes for increasing performance, as well as by others for pleasure and general stimulation.

One of the most widely publicized drug abusers is the "Speed Freak" who injects massive doses of amphetamines during a continuous "speed run" of several days. Besides the "rush" (instant euphoria) of injection, the speed run is usually characterized by action, arrogant feelings of power and pleasure, and regularly leads to suspicion, hostility, aggression and sometimes psychosis.

To avoid withdrawal the speed freak continues to inject more drugs, never sleeping and eating very little. After several days in this pattern, unpleasant side effects increase and the person finally "crashes" (goes into a long and restless sleep). After waking up he or she feels ravenously hungry, tired, depressed, and may start the speed run all over again.

The slogan "speed kills" refers partly to the "death" of the personality, of the will and of the psychological freedom of someone who is dependent upon stimulants. It also refers to the lack of healthy eating and sleeping habits, and other results of speed abuse such as weight loss, sores, ulcers, chest infections, liver disease and paranoid reactions. Speed does not, however, kill the body all by itself. It is generally the users who kill themselves because of selfconcern.

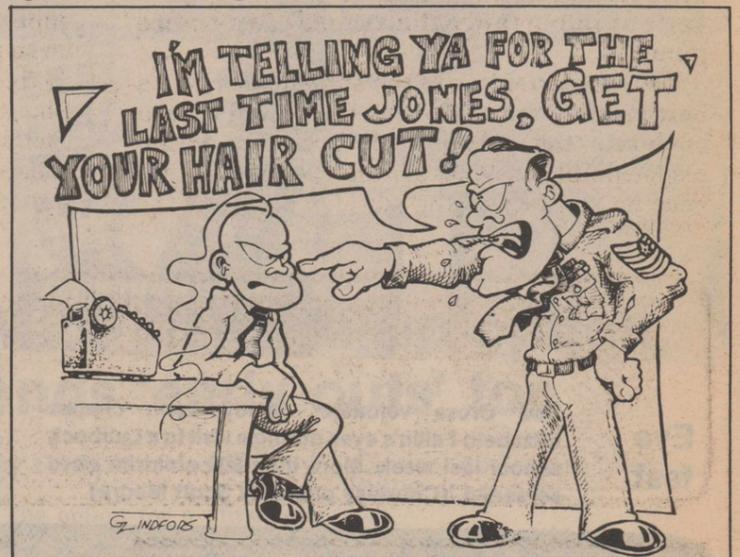

While the speed freak is the most sever example of stimulant abuse, any compulsive use of stimulants results in perhaps milder but similar effects.

If you are "hooked", your best cause of action is to seek help before it's too late.

Make the big catch; Get hooked on safety

Perhaps this Labor Day weekend will be your very last chance to haul out that old fishing tackle and head for a river or lake. And if this last chance also happens to be your first chance, these tips compiled by the American National Red Cross may help make your outing have a happy ending. Who knows, they may even help you land that "big one" to fill out your Fall fishing tales.

- (1) Know how to swim and know basic first aid.
- (2) Listen to the weather forecast and prepare accordingly.
- (3) Stow away some needle-nose pliers, wire cutters, and a pocket knife in your tackle box.
- (4) Tell someone where you plan to fish, mentioning also when you plan to return. Take a friend along—it makes for good and, of course, safe company.
- (5) If you plan to fish from a

- boat, carry a PFD (personal flotation device) for every person aboard.
- (6) Don't fish in waters where there are swimmers or scuba divers.
- (7) Do not go barefoot—fish fins, broken glass, nails, or other beach debris can hurt.
- (8) When wading, move cautiously—watch for step-offs into deep water and unsteady rocks in fast-running streams.
- (9) Be careful extracting hooks—some fish have teeth that can severely lacerate.
- (10) Should a hook snag you, cut it from the line, put a dressing on the injured area, and get to a doctor.
- (11) When fishing from a boat, remain seated while casting. And cast overhead, not sidearm.
- (12) Don't anchor your boat in channels or tie it up to a buoy—these are traffic lanes and must be kept clear at all times.

Optometry volunteers screen 200

The Reese Hospital optometry clinic staff, with the aid of two Red Cross volunteers, helped boost Reese's community relations program last week by examining students at St. Elizabeth-St. John Neumann elementary school.

Capt. (Dr.) Robert Crane, chief of the optometry clinic, A1C Greg Robins and volunteers George Ann Fulton and Sandy Lynn, screened more than 200 elementary and kindergarten age children for possible eye problems.

Mary Jo Moore, principal, expressed her gratitude for the volunteer time and efforts donated by Reese personnel in performing the community service.

James commands RM; Anders tops maintenance

Lt. Col. (colonel selectee) Gobel D. James assumed command of Resource Management last week in a move that placed Col. Loyd J. Anders Jr., at the head of Maintenance. Colonel James, who arrived here last Wednesday was the Executive Officer to the Commander of Field Command at Kirtland AFB, N.M., before coming to Reese.

Commissioned through the Aviation Cadet program in 1953, he went on to become a command pilot with more than 3,500 flying hours to his credit. He served a short tour in Korea in conjunction with the "Pueblo Incident" and later was shot down over North Vietnam and captured. He was held as a prisoner of war until March 14, 1973.

As a result first term airmen will no longer be able to use the one additional year provision in order to further deliberate on whether to reenlist or separate from the Air Force. Also, the headquarters for Manpower and Personnel (AFMPC) has announced that additional losses under the Airman Voluntary Separation Program beyond those already approved for August will not be required. All remaining applications not approved for August 1978 will be cancelled and deleted from the system. AFMPC and the CBPO officials landed the support received from the local commanders and their staff in handling the early out program.

GROWING WITH THE GREAT SOUTHWEST

ATC explains pay possibilities

(Editor's Note: No final decision has been made concerning the October pay raise. However, in an effort to clarify the possibilities, Air Training Command's Accounting and Finance Division has prepared data, with examples explaining what could happen.)

Military pay raises are announced in terms of percentage increases. The figure being considered by the President for the October 1978 pay raise is 5.5 percent.

There has been some discussion that the dollar increase does not equal the percentage of pay raise that was prescribed. This conception does not consider the complexity of the military pay framework, nor the President's authority to adjust its application to the elements of pay.

Three allowances comprise the basic continuing military pay; these are Base Pay (BP), Basic Allowance for Quarters (BAQ), and Basic Allowance for Subsistence (BAS). Pay raises apply only to these three allowances. Other special pays are not considered; thus, when a percentage of increase is officially announced and members project its effect on their gross pay, they should consider the total of these three only.

In determining the pay raise, the President has the option to apply the raise to all three of these allowances; to Base Pay only; or to distribute up to 25 percent of the Base Pay amount to either BAQ or BAS, or to both.

If no conditions are considered, all three of the base allowances receive the announced pay raise, and the basic pay group total should increase by the prescribed percentage.

A determination by the President that a percentage of the raise will go to BAQ and/or BAS will reduce the dollar amount of the raise for Base Pay and distribute that decrease remains at the prescribed percentage.

If the President determines that all of the raise will go to Base Pay, the total raise will be less than the stated percentage of pay raise, since BAQ and BAS will not be increased.

Saves time

Vivian White operates the word processing unit in the base administration office. There are two units in the Word Processing Center.

Word Center reduces load

Reese's "mini" word processing center is open and ready for business, says Capt. Gary Taylor, chief of base administration.

The center, located in room 307, bldg., 800; offers Reese people relief with administrative work such as repetitive letters and lengthy correspondence which requires drafts and must be perfect.

Request for the service is made on an Air Force Form 1509 available at the center.

Any questions about the new service should be addressed to Vivian White or Elaine Salyer at ext. 3176. Work requests may be hand carried or sent through distribution to DAY/stop 7.

Tidbits

Clothing sales store

In addition to the special bargains the Clothing Sales store is offering Reese people as part of the Look great in '78 campaign, the facility is offering another convenience to its customers. Patrons that can't find the exact item of clothing they need at the Reese outlet can place an order for the uniform item at the store. The BX staff will contact other exchange outlets, find the article needed and have it sent to the Reese exchange.

Mail Room

The base Mail Room will be open on weekends from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Masters degrees

Two Reese personnel have recently been awarded Master's degrees through the University of Northern Colorado's on-base program. Maj. Roger L. Burke, Hospital Administrator, and 1st Lt. Robert D. Griggs, Hospital Registrar, have each earned a Master of Science degree in Business Administration.

Red Cross orientation

A basic Red Cross orientation program will be held at the base Hospital on Wednesday. The briefing, open to anyone interested in becoming a Red Cross volunteer, begins at noon in the Hospital classroom.

Promotion party

Friends are invited to help SMSgt. Guy A. Chauvin celebrate his promotion to E-8 at 8:30 this morning in the Traffic Management Office bldg. The bash will be held on the second floor.

Take off!

Taking off from the Reese flightline is a mysterious looking aircraft. It isn't some experimental flying machine, but, one of the radio controlled planes flown at last year's open house. The local model airplane club will put on a special show at the Sept. 16 Open House. (U.S. Air Force photo)

Full size, models

Aircraft top open house

At least six aircraft have already been lined up for Reese's 29th Open House on Sept. 16, joining the Thunderbirds as part of the expanding schedule of things to do and see. According to Bill Tynan, public information officer, the F-106 Delta Dart, F-105 Thunder Chief, the CH-47B helicopter and Cessna 172 will join Reese's T-37 and T-38 aircraft on static display.

Several other military aircraft are expected to be included in the Open House exhibit as well as some plane from the famed Confederate Air Force. The Thunderbirds, headliners of this year's Open House, will arrive at about 11:30 a.m. with their main show slated for 3:30 p.m. Also on the Open House flying agenda will be a demonstration by the Lubbock Radio Controlled Model Aircraft Association.

The Open House officially gets underway at 10:30 a.m. with most of the activities geared after the arrival of the Thunderbirds. In addition to the shows there will be several exhibits of military equipment and concession stands operated by local organizations. Last year's Open House drew an estimated 10,000 people and an even larger crowd is expected for the Sept. 16 show.

BUY A VOLVO 244 AND CONTRIBUTE ABSOLUTELY NOTHING TO INFLATION.

As inflation takes its toll, you ought to know about a detour around the toll booth. The 1978 Volvo 244. The price on this four-door family sedan—and on our whole line of '78 Volvos—hasn't changed since introduction time last fall. But many other car companies have failed to exercise Volvo's self-

SINCE NOV. 1977- control. (Would you believe five separate price increases for one car maker in less than a year?)

With prices going up wherever you go, at least you can get there in a car that sells for a 1977 price. But to do that, you first have to get to a Volvo dealer. Fast. VOLVO

*Suggested retail price P.O.E., local taxes, dealer preparation and delivery charges additional.

CFC: 'Fair Share' donations help 53 organizations

"What people give to the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) is their business," said Maj. Robert Lee Clark, the CFC project officer, "but, the appeal must meet the needs of 53 agencies and that's why we're asking everyone to give his or her fair share."

The Reese target for this year's CFC is $66,000. That figure is $6,000 higher than last year's goal, but, well under last year's total contributions. Reese people pledged just under $80,000 in 1977, mistly through payroll deductions.

Quoting the familiar United Way motto, "Thanks to you... it works for all of us," Major Clark urged everyone to give their fair share. To help people figure their share, a chart showing pay grade, monthly and annual fair share targets is shown.
