Ten Reese majors have been selected for promotion to lieutenant colonel.

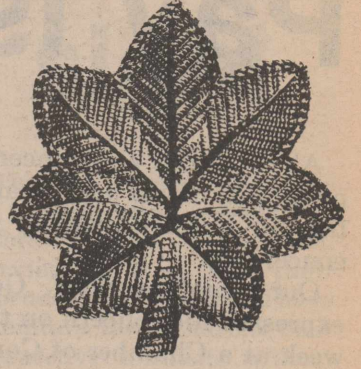

Included in last Friday's promotion announcement were: Maj. Harold K. Bramble, 54th Flying Training Squadron, Maj. Robert S. Davis, ROTC at Texas Tech, and Maj. Eugene J. Heald, Detachment 11, 24th Weather Squadron.

Three men assigned to the 64th Flying Training Wing received the 0-5 nod. They include Maj. Vincent P. Micucci, Maj. Donald W. Neff and Maj. Conrad E. Pekkula.

Also selected for silver leaves were Jon L. Winfo and Maj. Thomas A. Fryer, 35th Flying Training Squadron and Maj.

John E. Hogan, 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron. Slated to arrive here later this month is Maj. Bernice Gorman, Hospital.

There were 20 majors eligible for promotion on base. Selectees are expected to pin on their lieutenant colonel leaves between January and June of 1979.

Safety promotion may gain day off

The 64th Flying Training Wing has come up with an idea that should promote ground safety and open the door for a four-day weekend here next month.

According to John Morehead, Reese ground safety officer, Reese officials have agreed to make Nov. 24 (the day after Thanksgiving) a "down day" if the base doesn't have a reportable ground safety mishap from today through Nov. 20.

"Reportable mishaps," explained Morehead, "include any injury to military or civilian personnel that costs the Air Force any loss of a 'work time' or any property damage exceeding $250."

The rules are simple. If the base goes through the 30-day period without hitch, Nov. 24 will be a down day and most people on base will enjoy a four-day weekend. One slip, and it will be back to work the day after Thanksgiving for everyone.

The day off will be in the form of a pass for military personnel. Civilian employees can not be given time off, however, normal leave will be granted for civilians on Nov. 24 should they elect to take the day off, too.

"It sounds easy," warns Morehead "but it will take a major effort by everyone on base to pull it off."

Morehead said the last time the base went 30-days without a reportable ground safety mishap was in April of 1976. "We almost made it last month," he added, "the base went three weeks without a reportable."

The safety worker quickly pointed out that it is very possible for the wing to make it through the 30-day test without a mishap. "Williams (AFB, Ariz.) has gone two months without a reportable mishap," says Morehead. "It can be done."

Local workers help speed pay delivery

Late-night action by Congress authorized the military to get paid on time last week, but; Reese people can thank local finance and base administration workers for making sure it was "normal" payday here.

"When Congress gave us the go ahead Thursday night (Oct. 12)," said Maj. Roy Markle, Wing Comptroller, "We had everything ready to go. The checks had already been run off and all we had to do was get them into the mail in time for delivery on Friday."

Getting ready was what it was all about for the folks in finance last week. When the possibility of a payless payday was turned into a probability by Mississippi Senator John Stennis, block of a House approved continuing resolution back in September, Air Force and local finance officials got things rolling.

Special briefings were set up at Commander's Calls to let everyone know what could happen, what was being done, and where people could go for help if approval to pay the military didn't come in time.

Major Markle's people talked with the heads of local financial institutions during the week, informing them of the problem so that they would be able to handle emergency loan requests. They also set up contingency plans with the Lubbock Postal Service to

New toys

Audra and Kendra Latham, pre-school age daughters of Chinera Latham, play with some of the new toys donated to the Reese Hospital children's room by the Officer's Wives Club Charitable Association. The group bought the toys for children from infant to 10-years old. They also contributed a toy box to the Hospital.

Pay issue concern

All of us were very concerned last week by the possibility of late pay. I want to assure you that the Air Force leadership was and is equally concerned.

Our Chief of Staff, Gen. Lew Allen Jr., expressed his concern on the pay problem last week at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon in San Antonio.

"I feel confident that we will find the mechanical way to have this situation be not much of a financial burden for our people," explained General Allen. "We worked very hard to do that. I think this kind of issue, as with others, is a more serious thing . . . I think many of our people simply don't believe that the country cares much about the job they have to do and they regard an action like this . . . as being an example of a nation's indifference to its fighting forces.

"If we fail to meet a payroll by half a day — by a day — by a matter of hours, it may or may not be a financial burden to our people, but it certainly is going to lend credence to a concern they have as to whether their efforts and sacrifices are appreciated," he said.

I believe he is "squarely on target" and his words should be taken as an indication that he considers our security and quality of life as high priority issues.

Chicken feathers

This week I ordered two lunch boxes with chicken at the Talon Inn. When I started to eat them, several pieces had feathers on the chicken. I brought this to the attention of the Veterinary Clinic, they make the inspections on base, and they informed me there was nothing they could do, that the chicken was already government inspected. Personally I like my chicken fresh but the feathers have got to go. Now I am not going order chicken there any more and I urge anyone else who has had a similar problem to do the same. Maybe we can get something done about this. Thank you very much.

SSgt. Richard Patterson

Needless to say, the situation you encountered with the chicken purchased from the Talon Inn should not have occurred. In addition to the inspection conducted by the Veterinary Clinic, the Base Exchange has a policy to perform a quality check on all food products procured by the exchange. The chicken you purchased was an oversight.

The Food Operations Manager has been instructed to provide additional training to food service personnel in product inspection and any inferior food items are not to be used. Any items which cannot meet these standards will be brought to the Exchange Manager for corrective action with the vendor who supplied the products.

If other people have experienced this problem it has not been addressed to the Base Exchange for resolution. Should you or any other personnel experience such a problem in the future bring it to the attention of the individual in charge at the time and the problem will be resolved immediately. The Base Exchange Manager has instructed the Talon Inn to provide you with two lunch boxes of chicken at no charge should you so desire.

Mathis hours

There are a lot of us who would like to use the Mathis Recreation Center for lunch and we can't take lunch any other time except 11:00 a.m. to noon. I would like to have the Center open from 10:30 or 11 a.m. Right now it is being opened at 11:30 p.m. and we can't use it for lunch.

SrA Ron Silversteen

We have been operating the following hours for almost two years and the majority of our patrons are very happy with these operating hours. Our doors are usually open for business at 10:45 a.m. daily. Monday thru Thursday 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Friday thru Saturday 1 p.m. to midnight Sunday and holidays 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Whenever we have a dance on Friday or Saturday nights we remain open until 12:30 a.m.

Military must maintain integrity

By Gen. John W. Roberts
ATC Commander

Because the decisions made by Air Force managers affect America's military readiness, they can neither be taken lightly nor based on expediency, artificiality, or deception. Rather, integrity is essential. Our officers, airmen and civilians must base their decisions on uncompromising adherence to reality and on the best interests of national security.

Fortunately, we have managers throughout the force who have such integrity, who are committed to excellence, who forthrightly express their views, and who do not shrink from taking responsibility for difficult decisions. Such integrity must be encouraged.

Air Training Command is encouraging integrity through a systematic approach to giving decision-making authority to lower-level managers wherever possible. Our "Buck Shop" program, based on the idea of "The Buck Stops Here," is a visible expression of our trust in the integrity of our people. Through "Buck Stop," decisions once made at the Major Command are now made at our wings and centers, placing both the authority and responsibility with the managers closest to the action.

We believe the "Buck Stop" approach accelerates the maturity of our lower-level managers, that it trains them for responsibility, and that it fosters a belief in integrity which is contagious. That's healthy for the Command and for the Air Force.

Without integrity among Air Force managers, the Nation could well question our stewardship of its airpower responsibilities. Approaches such as "Buck Stop" can encourage integrity in our managers today and strengthen it in those who will lead our force tomorrow. (This article was published in TIG Brief No. 16, Vol. XXX, Aug. 25, 1978)

Watch what you sign!

by Maj. David F. Sullivan
Staff Judge Advocate

Recently, several airmen have sought legal assistance, complaining they were tricked into signing purchase contracts by fast-talking automobile salespersons. Specifically, they asserted the salespersons promised that if arrangements could not be made to finance the automobile to be purchased, the purchase contract would be voided.

However, when such financing could not be arranged, the airmen were informed they would be held responsible for purchasing the automobile under the exact terms of the written account. As a result, in some instances the airmen were forced to forfeit their down payments - whether made in the form of cash or trade-in automobiles.

Consumer fraud of this type is extremely difficult to prove. Moreover, as a general rule, a written contract cannot be altered by a verbal agreement. In effect, a salesperson's oral promise to vary the terms of a written contract cannot be enforced. If all consumers understood this rule of law and resisted the temptation to trust glib salespersons, most consumer problems could be avoided.

As an example, if a salesperson orally agrees to do or provide something that is not covered by the written contract, the purchaser should determine whether that promise is instrumental to his agreeing to the contract. If it is, the purchaser should require that the promise be incorporated into the contract, in writing, before signing.

The best, if not the only, time to prevent being swindled is before signing a contract. Servicemembers and their dependents are entitled to have a military lawyer review their prospective contracts without charge. Why not take advantage of this extremely important benefit? It is much easier for us in the legal office to prevent consumer fraud than it is to correct an injustice after the fraud has been perpetrated.

Your legal assistance office is located in room 209, building 800. Call for an appointment (ext. 3505); or if time is of the essence, come in without an appointment. You may have to wait for a while until a legal assistance officer is available, but the time will be well spent if it saves you money and heartache.

Chaplain's comment

by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Arnold Johnson

I received a note from one of our Chapel members recently that I thought I would share with our Reese Community. It was a simple question, "Why do I find it so hard to pray?" My answer follows:

I can't tell from the way you ask your question whether your problem is one of finding the right words, or one of really believing in prayer.

If you read through the prayers you find in the hymnals, or in some of the books of prayer provided for you in churches, you will find the language to be archaic according to today's standards. Yet, for some people, that form of prayer speaks for them.

The other extreme might be shown by the prayers Malcolm Boyd revealed in "Are You Runnin' with Me, Jesus," or the book of "Prayers" edited by Michael Quoist.

Read some samples of each of these styles . . . use them, and as you do you may soon find that you can find comfort in prayer.

If the difficulty is one of a meaningful experience, it may lie in your understanding of what prayer is really supposed to be ultimately. For the Psalmist it was wondering, chastising, praising and singing to God . . . a personal God, For Christ, it was a conversation with His Father. For me it may be but a moment, a few minutes, or hours when I meditate on Him and His Will for my life. Again, you must begin with Him—believing that He does care for you, that He does listen to you, and that He does answer you. As you do that, then prayer has become a living relationship with God for you.

The second "Awareness 78" seminar for Reese dependents will be held on Oct. 27 at the Base Chapel from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The first seminar, held last month, was an unqualified success. Twelve spouses and dependents attended and found the four-hour seminar both enjoyable and informative. Those receiving course completion certificates included Pat Bishop, Kyle Caruthers, Key Chase, Rose Chock, Kimberly Chock, Pat Clark, Connie Davis, Betty James, Patricia Maples, Jean Montgomery, Margaret Segafredo and Sally Wax.

Refreshments for the seminar were provided by the Chapel and Social Actions. As an incentive, two special prizes were given. Medics issue challenge

'Best room' contest set

A three-day pass will be the reward for the "best kept" dormitory room in each squadron following judging of the living quarters by the base commander on Dec. 1.

The pass is being offered to dorm residents as part of a challenge from the Hospital Squadron to the rest of the people living in the enlisted dormitories. The Hospital airmen even went so far as to issue an official challenge to the other units:

"We, the dormitory residents of Hospital Squadron, recognizing a need among our fellow occupants, hereby challenge them to match our own high standards of living. It is generally accepted that the substandard living conditions are the fault of the dorm residents and that through self-help work we can make the dorms a good place to live."

People living in the dorms have until Dec. 1 to get ready for the judging. In addition to the three-day pass to be awarded the best room in each squadron, the top overall squadron will receive a plaque proclaiming it as having the best looking rooms on base. Individual winners will also receive a letter of recognition from the base commander.

Base officials enthusiastically supported the idea of a challenge submitted by the Hospital, noting that it was a positive way to approach the problem of dormitory living conditions.

Locals speed payroll ensure prompt delivery of the checks once the Air Force got the "green light" to go.

"The civilian side of the house offered us a unique problem," noted Major Markle. "The Defense Appropriations Bill covered funds for Fiscal Year '79 which started on Oct. 1. Since the civilian pay period included the last week in September we had to prepare two pay checks — one for the end of September and one for the first week in October."

Through it all, Reese officials kept in close contact with Air Force leaders in Washington D.C. and the Finance Center in Denver. Any changes in the pay status were passed on to supervisors as quickly as possible. After the Center announced that "Sure Pay" program participants would be paid regardless, the word was sent out to the units immediately.

When authorization did come, Oliver Keel, base finance officer, Capt. Gary Taylor, chief of Base Administration, TSgt. G.W. Lyons and A1C Ron Benivedas came in at about 11 p.m. and metered the checks to be mailed. On base checks were put into the mail boxes that night and those going off base were hand carried by Keel to the main Post Office in Lubbock.

A special Commanders Call for Reese's Top-three non-commissioned officers will be held Monday at 4 p.m. in the NCO Open Mess Ballroom. CMSgt. Al Chock, senior enlisted advisor, says that the call will include a review of the wing's progress during the last year and a look at future goals.

Mathis celebrates Halloween

The Mathis Recreation Center has two bands to help celebrate the Halloween Weekend. The weekend's activities start off on Oct. 27 with STYNG. Styng will be playing from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Admission is $1.50 or $1 with VIP card. The Celebration continues Oct. 28 with THE MCPHERSON'S. The McPherson's is a travel show composed of 5 sisters and a five piece band. At the dance that night there will be prizes awarded for the dance contest and also for the best costumes. Dependent sings in opera

The wife of Reese student pilot will perform one of the lead roles in Giacomo Puccini's opera "La Boheme" Oct. 27 and 28 in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Helen Dewey Reikofski, whose husband (2nd Lt. Roger D. Reikofski) is a student in Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 79-03, will sing the lead soprano role of Musetta. "Musetta's Love Song," the highlight of her performance, is considered one of the most beautiful arias in the opera.

Although a serious student of music for only a few years, she has already performed in several other operas. She played the "Countess" in Mozart's "The Marriage of Figero" and Poppea in the "Coronation of Poppea" by Monteverdi.

Under the direction of John Gillas, the Texas Tech Music Theater and Civic Lubbock Inc., production starts at 8 p.m. both nights. The opera, performed in English, tells the story of four young Bohemian artists living in Paris' Latin Quarter in the 1830s.

For ticket information contact the Civic Center box office at 765-9441.

Reese Rod, Gun Club supports Junior NRA

The Reese Rod and Gun Club is sponsoring youth affiliation with the National Rifle Club.

Operating under established rules of the Rod and Gun Club, the NRA Junior Club is designed for dependent youths 18 years old and under. The NRA course in shooting is specifically tailored to familiarize the newcomer with the techniques of shooting the .22 caliber smallbore rifle and to create additional skill in experienced shooters.

The NRA basic smallarms training course serves the purpose of providing those interested in smallarms sensible instruction by competent, responsible instructors. It also provides an introduction to those NRA activities which can open up a lifetime of sport for the beginning shooter.

The marksmanship qualification awards courses are among the most popular activities planned. Beginners have 15 ratings to recognize and reward their development of shooting skills. As a shooter completes qualification courses, he is eligible to receive awards, including certificates, lapel pins, medals and felt emblems. Club membership is inexpensive.

For those interested in joining the NRA Junior Club, an organizational meeting will be held in bldg. 820, room 11 at 7 p.m. on Thursdays.

What Makes Pinocchio's Pizza So Good?

Some people say it's our sauce. It's our own special recipe. Some people say it's the cheese. We blend our own special mixture ... and then we pile it on like there's no tomorrow. Then again, some folks feel it's the toppings that make our pizza so good. They're always fresh and tasty. And there's those who like our pizza because they've never tasted anything like it before! We think these are all very good reasons. At Pinocchio's ... we make great pizza. Come in and tell us what you think.

Try a Pinocchio's Pizza ... and find out why they're so good!

Six eligible for holiday early outs

Six Reese airmen are eligible for early outs during the Christmas-New Year holidays.

According to Reese Personnel officials, Airmen and Officers with an established date of separation (DOS) from Dec. 11 through Jan. 7 may be separated anytime during that period, provided the eligibles request the separation.

Service academy graduates who have not completed initial service obligations before desired separation date and reservists on initial active duty for training are among those ineligible for the early out.

Personnel under investigation or awaiting trial or result of trial by court-martial and also excluded.

Commanders are authorized to exercise liberal leave policies consistent with operational requirements during the holiday season.

OWC schedules pottery demonstration Nov. 2

The Officers Wives Club monthly luncheon for November will include a pottery demonstration by Texas Tech's Professor Vern Funk and one of his students, Seth Seiderman.

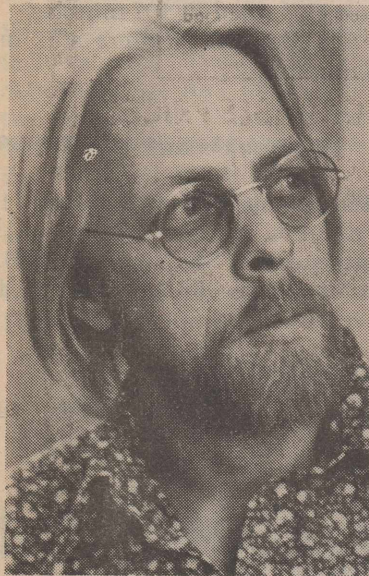

Funk, who is in his second year of teaching at Tech, has worked with clay for more than 20 years and has exhibited his works across the nation. He is listed in a book called "History of American Ceramics" and has pottery included in the national collection — "Objects USA."

Funk will provide commentary and show slides and Seiderman will demonstrate how to "throw" clay on a potter's wheel. Seiderman is expected to throw three or four different pots, showing some of the various techniques used by potters.

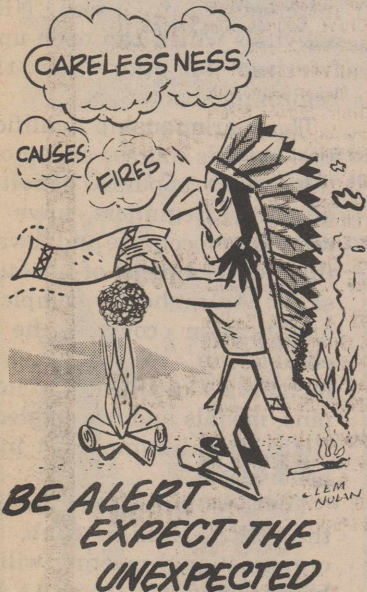

Hosted by the Operations' wives, the luncheon will feature chicken crepes with mushroom sauce or a super chef salad.

Social hour begins at noon with a spiced wine punch. The luncheon starts at 12:30 p.m.

Reservations are due by Oct. 30 at 1 p.m. To make reservations call Lonnie Taylor, 797-9541; Kay Chase, 799-7212; Cheryl Wertz, 799-8785; or Laura Peters, 793-5575.

54th FTS extends streak, stretches lead over Supply

The intramural flag football league race has turned into a three-team battle as the teams reached the mid-way point in the season.

The undefeated 54th Flying Training Squadron maintained its perch on top of the loop standings by blanking Organizational Maintenance Squadron, 28-0. The win raised the 54th to 6-0 on the year and stretched their slim lead to one full game over idle Supply Squadron (5-1).

Air Base Group made it two white-washings in a row for OMS as Group (5-2) stayed within striking range, 15-0.

Sturon-1, which threatened to challenge the top three last week, fell on hard times, forfeiting to last place Field Maintenance and falling four games off the lead in the loss column.

Rounding out last week's circuit play: Hospital knocked off the Civil Engineers, 14-6; Sturon-1 picked up a forfeit win from classroom rival Sturon-2, 7-0; and CE notched its second win against four losses via a forfeit by ailing Sturon-2.

The standings in the intramural flag football league, as of Monday, were:

Team	W	L	GB
54th FTS	6	0	—
Supply	5	1	1
Group	5	2	1½
Sturon-1	4	4	3
CE	4	4	3
OMS	3	4	3½
Comm	2	3	3½
Medics	3	5	4
Sturon-2	2	4	4
35th FTS	2	5	4½
FMS	2	6	5

Fuller returns to action; Rattlers split 49er series

by R.D. Monson

Don Fuller returned to Rattler line-up last week and promptly scored 33 points to pace the varsity cagers to a series opening 78-68 win over the visiting Holloman 49ers.

The smooth forward canned an even dozen field goals and added nine points from the charity stripe in his first varsity action since mid-way through last season. Fuller raised his weekend total to 59 by hitting a game-high 26 points in a losing effort on Saturday.

The 49ers returned home with a split by posting a 41-16 halftime lead in game-two and then holding off the Rattler's second half challenge, 92-76.

Willie Hollis, who tied Fuller for game honors on Saturday with 26 counters, chipped in 16 points in Friday night's win. Randy Love and Roy Bradley were the only other Rattlers to reach double figures last weekend. Love scored 10 in game-one and Bradley netted 12 on Saturday.

The Rattlers used "team" play to down the talented 49ers Friday night. Although blessed with a strong and tall line-up of players with obvious potential, the Holloman game plan proved questionable in both games. The difference was on Saturday the 49ers were red hot from the field.

Base varsity soccer team blanks West Texas State

Bruce Schaffer and Reza Pahlavi each scored twice as the Reese varsity soccer team posted an impressive 4-0 shutout over the West Texas State Buffaloes last weekend.

Pahlavi gave Reese all the scoring it needed 10 minutes into the first half on a 20-yard screamer into the net. Schaffer made it 3-0 on a pair of 25-yard blasts mid-way through the second half.

Then it was Pahlavi's turn, again, scoring on a penalty shot with 10 minutes left to play. "It was the best game we've played this year," admitted head coach Craig Ford after his team's second season win. "Our defense really played together all game long."

The Reese defense was so overpowering that the Buffs had only one shot-on-goal the entire first half. Spearheading the defensive unit were fullbacks Karl Olsen and Tom Trodanvoich.

Ford also had praise for his offensive unit especially play-making Cecilio Young.

The squad will try to improve on last year's second place finish in the New Mexico State Soccer Tournament in New Mexico next weekend.
