Centennial Plans Take Shape

Now that plans for fitting observance of Haskell County's Centennial have been set in motion, the help and cooperation of every civic group and organization in the county will be needed to make the celebration the success it should be.

That this cooperation will be forthcoming we have no doubt. The splendid representation at the planning meeting in Rule Monday night was ample indication that people in all sections of the county Payne. are interested, enthusiastic and eager to "get the show on the road."

However, in the the initial stages, much work of a routine pature necessarily must be done, and progress of a visible nature toward staging the Centennial may seem slow. That is to be expected with relatives here. toward staging the Centennial may seem slow. That is to be expected, because only through careful preparation and planning can be laid the groundwork for a fitting and worthwhile Centennial observance.

Within a very short time the pattern for active participation of civic groups and individuals will begin to take shape. Then i will be up to each individual to assume a share of the responsibility in making the Centennial a success.

How Government Can Help

We hear much talk these day about possible government ac tion to help business. In many instances, the proposals would result in new political controls, and would further undermine the free enterprise system.

There are, however, sound ways in which government can be d service to industry and to the taxpayers—ways which would not Walter Alderson, employed at put more power into the hands of government and would not expand our swollen bureaucracy. Reasonable changes in the tax system constitutes one of those ways.

The Federal Excise Tax of 10 per cent on telephone service is a good example here, in its very nature the tax is discriminatory Telephone service is as essential to the Amercan way of life as electricity and gas. Jobs depend on your telephone-lives depend on ittrade and commerce depend on it.

But your telephone is subject to excise tax at the same rate as fine furs, perfumes and jewelry. In fact, only a very few things are taxed at a higher rate such as liquor, tebacco, club dues and Bullock, William Henry Darnell,

The telephone excise tax began in 1941 as an emergency measure. It should not be continued longer lest it become regarded as a permanent part of our tax structure.

Since none of this tax is retained by the company, the only Huntsman, Jesse Eugene Adams, person to benefit by its repeal is the subscriber. It would mean a Luke Custer Baker. Roger Q. substantial reduction in individual monthly telephone bills both on An Odessa woman will always have a kindly opinion of Has'tell and its people, especially the members of local law enforcement agencies.

The woman, a Mrs. Reynolds lost her purse, containing almost $200 in money, out of her car as she and her sister drove through Haskell last Friday.

Stopping in Munday, she dis-covered her loss but had no idea where her purse had fallen out of the car. The only thing was to re-trace her route in hopes she might find it before anyone else did. In the meantime Mrs. Tomany Wood, whose husband is a member of the State Highway Patrol, noticed the purse on the highway

A few minutes later Mrs. Revnolds and her sister stopped at the sheriff's office to report the loss and inquire if lost articles were "ever turned in here.

"Sometimes," replied Deputy Holland. "In fact we've had a purse turned in today. Wait just a moment and I'll let you talk to the ones who brought it in," the deputy told the woman.

Patrolman Wood was called and Mrs. Reynolds gave a minute description of the purse and contents, then almost burst into tears when the patrolman handed her the purse

OCEAN TO OCEAN ACROSS SOUTH AMERICA - AND BACK - IN 41 HOURS!

CHEVÝ'S NEW V8 LEVELS THE HIGHEST, HARDEST HIGHWAY OVER THE ANDES!

To prove the durability of Chevrolet's radical new Turbo-Thrust V8,* the tremendous flexibility of the new Turboglide transmission, * the incredible smoothness of Full Coil suspension, we tackled the most challenging transcontinental road in the world - the 1,000-mile General San Martin Highway. To make the test harder, officials of the Automobile Club of Argentina sealed the hood shut at Buenos Aires - no chance to add oil or water or adjust carburetors for high altitude.

So the run began - across the blazing Argentine pampas, thrusting boldly into the stone ramparts of the forbidding Andes. Up and up the road climbed, almost 21 miles in the sky! Drivers gasped for oxygen at 12,572 feet - but the Turbo-Thrust V8 never slackened its jet-smooth torrent of power, the Full Coil springs smothered every bump, the Turboglide transmission made play of fantastic grades up to 30 percent. Then a spine-chilling plunge to the Pacific at Chile's great port of Valparaiso, a quick turn-around and back again. Time for the round trip: 41 hours 14 minutes -- and the engine was never turned off! That's rugged proof-inaction of the great new advances you'll test for yourself the first time you drive a '58 Chevrolet. That's a real thrill -why not discover it this week? ·Extra-cost option

Recent Heavy Snow Points Up Value Of Crop Residue

The utilization of crop residue is an important and very economical conservation practice, point out technicians of the California Creek and Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation Districts. The benefits of crop residue management was apparent when the recent snow blanketed this area.

In a brief survey made by SCS technicians it was found that only 2 inches or less of the snow remained on clean tilled land, although 7 to 8 inches had fallen the previous day. Most of this snow had drifted up on fence rows 8 to 15 inches deep. Where grain sorghum residue was left standing snow was 6 to 10 inches deep, and there was little evidence of drifting. Land that had a cover of small grain had approximately inches of snow.

Snow varies considerably moisture content, usually 9 to 10 inches of snow will produce 1 inch of moisture. Bare ground where most of the snow blew off and piled up in drifts and road ditches received little moisture from the snow. However fields that had a protective cover of grain crop residue prevented drifting and held the snow to allow the moisture to get into the ground. Crop residue may be utilized in many ways. It provides a shade in the hot summer reducing the rate of evaporation, making more moisture available to plants. It helps in controlling wind erosion by reducing velocity of wind on the surface of the soil. Residue left on surface of soil holds the rain on the soil allowing it to infiltrate, and reduce moisture loss by runoff.

The soil is the best reservoir we have for storing water. Proper utilization of crop residue can assist in getting water into this reservoir. Its the rain you keep that counts, not how much falls,

Fertilization Will Improve Fish Pond Production

Proper fertilization can increase the production of fish in the many ponds recently stocked in the Calfornia Creek and Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation Districts.

"To grow big bluegills, raise your pond's fertility quickly, as soon as winter cold begins to wane," says biologists of the SCS. This is the most significant fact that fish culturists have learned by experience in recent years.

Bluegills begin to spawn in May or June. Within two or three weeks after the eggs hatch, the thousands of little blue gills are eating all the spare food. When that hapens, their parents cannot get food enough to grow even with full water fertility, yet they continue to spawn all summer and until the first chilly nights in the fall, usually October.

The production of bass is high during the summer period. They are growing rapidly on the thousands of little bluegills, which are the chief bass food, When bluegills stop spawning in the fall, the bass continue their heavy consumption of bluegill fingerings. As the bass reduce the number of fingerling bluegills, the adult bluegills began to grow, slowly at first then more rapidly. Growth is slow again during the colder days of winter, as fish feed very little in cold temperatures. When the water begins to warm a little, bluegills are ready to grow larger, but if the water is fertile enough to grow a lot of microscopic creatures that are an essential part of the food cycle. pond owner who waits until late spring to renew his pond's fertility cannot expect big bluegills. The season when they grow most rapidly is only 100 to 120 days, usually February to June.

To get the first 3 to 5 applications in quickly, fertilize every week or 10 days as you begin the year's program of water culture. Fertilize until a white object cannot be seen when placed 12 to 14 inches deep. 10-10-5 fertilizer may be used at approximately 100 pounds per surface acre.

Another tip for good fish pond management-don't just fish for bass. There is a lot of fun and good eating in the fat bluegills. Many ponds that get over populated with bluegills have not been fertilized properly and have never to offer helpful criticism so had enough bluegills removed. directors might improve Bass fishing alone in a pond is not

Buy Fertilizers On Grade Basis, Agent Advises

BY F. W. MARTIN County Agent

The real cost of any fertilizer is measured in terms of the per unit cost of plant nutrients applied to the soil. So, before farmers buy a fertilizer, they should look at the grade analysis and see if the same quantity of plant nutrients can be obtained cheaper in higher analysis fertilizers, advises F. W. Martin, county

The grade analysis can give a farmer this information because it tells how much nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium each bag of mixed fertilizer contains, he adds. For example, a hundred pound bag of 5-10-5 contains five pounds of nitrogen, 10 pounds of phosphoric oxide and five pounds of potash. A hundred pound bag of 10-20-10 contains 10 pounds of nitrogen, 20 pounds of phosphorus and 10 of potash, These two grades of fertilizer contain the same ratio of nutrients, points out Martin, but the latter contains twice as much in each 100 pound sack. So, even though the 10-20-10 costs more per ton, it is normally cheaper in the long run because of the quantity of plant nutrients which is obtained.

The cost per unit of plant nutrients is not the only way high analysis fertilizers are usually cheaper than low analysis fertilizers. When one sack of 10-20-10 can substitute for two sacks of 5-10-5, transportation costs are reduced. Not only would transportation costs be lower, but application costs would be less since less fertilizer is needed to supply the same quantity of plant nu-

So, low analysis fertilizers cost less per ton, but high analysis fertilizers are usually cheaper in the long run because the cost per unit of plant nutrients is lower, concluded Martin.

Home Vegetable In Texas

College Station-A good home garden can mean a sizeable sav-ing in the family food budget and can provide a source of high quality "garden fresh" vegetables for which there is no substitute. The county extension workers of Texas reported 499,910 home gardens in the state in 1957, of which 268,000 were grown in towns and cities, according to Bluefford Hancock, extension horticulturist. Growing a garden is a way to relax—a hobby that can have pleasant and satisfying results to home people, while others it is an important part of the family food budget, points out Hancock. But regardless of the purpose of growing a garden, there are cer-tain rules that should be followed to get the most out of it, he says. First, plan the garden in advance, advises Hancock. Develop

Keep the garden small enough to give it good care, and it will produce a surprising amount of vegetables. Remember, it is a lo easier to plant a garden than it is to control weeds and care for it so, don't overplant. Make a heavy application of organic matter and commercial fertilizer, suggests Hancock, Excessive rains in 1957 have brought trients from the soil, particularly from the lighter, sandy soil organic matter to the garden sit will help improve the physical condition of the soil and will supply some nutrient elements over long period of time. Adequate applications of commercial fertilizer will help furnish a quickly-available source of nutrients. Some other points stressed by Hancock are plant a variety of crops; obtain seed of adapted varieties; treat all the seed with a protectant; and make a succession of plantings to provide vegetables for a longer period.

Mrs. Artie Bradley Is Candidate For County Treasurer

Mrs. Harry (Artie) Bradley, currently employed as cashier in the Texas Cafe and well known in Haskell business circles, has authorized the announcement this week of her candidacy for the office of County Treasurer, subject to action of the Democratic pri-

Mrs. Bradley, who has lived in Haskell practically her entire life-time, has a background of business experience which includes twelve years employment in the local exchange and offices of the telephone company, one year as checker and cashier with a dry cleaning establishment in Odessa. Texas, two years as file clerk in Richmond, Calif., and five years her present position with the Texas Cafe.

Before making her decision to seek the office of County Treas-urer Mrs. Bradley gave careful consideration to the responsible duties involved, and sought the advice of similar officials in offully acquaint herself with the work of the office. In view of the years of experience she has had in the past, and a willingness to work diligently at all times, Mrs. Bradley believes she is fully quali-fied to handle the duties of County Treasurer in an efficient and acceptable manner if elected.

Like most of us, Mrs. Bradley faces the necessity of devoting most of her time to earning a live-lihood. However, she plans to make as intensive a campaign as limit-ed time will permit and will endeavor to see every voter in the county, if possible before the

In the meantime, she earnestly solicits the consideration of her candidacy by the people of Has-kell County in selecting their next County Treasurer.

Poll Scheduled on Cotton Classing Office for Area

An important questionaire is being sent to all cotton farmers in this county by F. W. Martin, County Agent. The purpose of the questionaire is to determine if farmers in the county are inter-ested in establishing a Cotton Classing Office in this area. The proposed area to be served would be Haskell, Knox and Baylor

The United States Department of Agriculture will establish such an office if there is as much as 50,000 bales of cotton per year. Provided that a suitable building with lights, heat, and air conditioning are provided by farmers ginners, warehouse men and oth-

The questionaire is being sent to all farmers in the county. County Agent Martin is asking each farmer who receives this questionaire to be sure and vote for or against setting up this cotton classing office, and return the form to the county agent's office. Candidate For Re-Election

Judge Ben Charlie Chapman of the 39th Judicial District has authorized the announcement of his candidacy for re-election, subject to action of the Democratic pri-

In making his announcement, Judge Chapman said he desired first of all to express his sincere gratitude to the citizens of the four counties composing the district for their friendship, confi-dence, and support in the past. He added that he had no forma? statement to make at this time, other than that he was submitting his candidacy to the people throughout the district on the basis of his record during the time he has served as District Judge.

Judge Chapman needs no introduction to a majority of the people in the four counties making the 39th Judicial District-Throckmorton, Stonewall, Kent. and Haskell. He has lived in Haskell County his entire lifetime and is personally acquainted with fices of public trust in order to most of the residents in the four counties.

Approximately 165 farm fami-lies in Haskell county are operat-ing their farms with loans obtained through the Farmers Home Administration.

The agency advances operating credit primarily to help eligible farm families make improved use of their land and labor resources on family-type farms and make needed changes in their farming systems. Most of the changes call for adopting better farming practices and improving the efficiency of their farming operations. The loans help farmers pay for equipment, livestock, feed, seed, fertilizer, and other farm and home operating needs including refinancing chattel debts. Operating loans run from 1 to 7 years at 5 per cent interest. The average oan in Haskell county is approxmately $2400.

Lawson said the bulk of the operating loan money in this area is being used for livestock, feed, seed, fuel, and other farm operatng expenses.

Before an operating loan for adjustment purposes is closed, the applicant and the county super-
