1962 Feed Grain Program Planned For Winter Barley

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman explains how fall-seeded barley will fit into the 1962 feed grain program which will be carried out under recently enacted Agricultural Act of 1961.

"While many of the details are not completed for the feed and grain program which was broadened to include barley for 1962 by the recently enacted Agricultural Act of 1961," Secretary Freeman said, "it is important that winter barley producers have as much essential information as soon as possible and before they plant their barley acreage this fall.

"Including barley in the feed grain program gives us an added opportunity to achieve a needed adjustment between feed grain production and feed needs," Secretary Freeman stated. "The magnificent response of corn and grain sorghum producers to the feed program put into effect within a few short weeks after January 20 for this year's production is resulting in real progress toward a better balance in supplies. We are determined to make further progress toward this end in 1962 to the benefit of taxpayers, consumers and producers. The new legislation gives barley producers an opportunity to participate in this undertaking."

In general, the operation of the 1962 feed grain program for barley will be similar to the provisions in effect for 1961 corn and grain sorghum production. Payments will be made to producers who divert barley acreage to a conserving use.

As additional program details are worked out, State and County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committees will be advised so this information can be passed along to winter barley producers. Yield and acreage information is being prepared in county ASCS offices and each winter barley producer will be mailed his barley base acreage, his yield (established on the basis of 1959-60 average acreage and production) and payment rate per acre. The signup period for winter barley producers will be announced later.

Secretary Freeman said that about half of the conservation payments to be earned by diverting barley acreage this fall will be offered to producers when they sign. While the 1962-crop barley support price will not be announced until early next year along with support prices for other feed grains, 1961 county support rates for barley will be used in determining these advance payments. Secretary Freeman also said that the 1962 national average support level for barley will not be less than the 1961 level.

age to conserving uses will receive a payment. The payment will be equal to 50 per cent of their normal production on their diverted acres times the county support price. The legislation authorizes payments to be made in cash or in kind from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks.

Additional Acreage Reductions

Acreage reductions of up to an additional 20 per cent may be at a higher payment. Payment for this additional acreage reduction will be determined at the rate of 60 per cent of normal production and will be in kind.

As in the case of the 1961 Feed Grain Program, these are special provisions permitting a producer to divert a minimum of 20 acres.

Barley producers who participate in the program will be required to devote the acreage diverted to conserving uses. This will be in addition to their normal acreage of cropland devoted to conserving uses.

Corn And Grain Sorghum Producers

Corn and grain sorghum producers who intend to plant barley this fall must not plant more than their base acreage of barley if they want to participate in the 1962 feed grain program and be eligible for price support on these two crops.

Corn, grain sorghum, and spring-planted barley producers will be given an opportunity to participate in the 1962 feed grain program next spring. Details of the program as they apply to these producers will also be announced later.

Top Cowhand Will Compete For Rodeo Title

Roy Boiles, a former Sweetwater boy and the junior all-around cowboy of the 1960 Boys Ranch Rodeo at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch will be riding for the senior title when the rodeo is held over the Labor Day week end, September 3 and 4.

Roy came out of the 1960 rodeo with a perfect score, compiling 100 out of a possible 100 points by riding the smaller animals of the rodeo that has become nationally-known as the only one of its kind in the country. It was Roy's first experience as a contestant and this year for the first time he will be eligible to enter the senior division with the older boys of the ranch.

With nearly 300 boys now living at the ranch, the 17th annual Boys Ranch Rodeo is expected to be the biggest ever held with more young riders contesting for the trophies and prizes than ever before.

The Brahma bulls, bucking broncos and steers are all professional rodeo animals that have been taken to the ranch especially for the rodeo. Points will be compiled under R.C.A. rules. Younger boys at the ranch ride calves and appear in special feature attractions. It is a rodeo for all of the boys and those who do not participate as contestants work at the many behind-the-scenes activities connected with the occasion. Only outside participation is by the Amarillo Air Force Base band. Huge shade trees around the rodeo arena assure all spectators a cool vantage point from which to watch the event. All indications are that the 17th annual Boys Ranch Rodeo will be the fastest, most competitive and thrilling the boys have ever had and they anticipate a record breaking attendance.

The rodeo's two performances, Sunday and Monday, September 3 and 4, will be held at 2:30 p. m.

30 Texans May Die In Labor Day Accidents

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announces the official prediction that 30 persons in Texas will be killed in traffic accidents during the Labor Day week end.

In making the prediction, Garrison warned motorists that records show this three-day period to be one of the most dangerous times of the year on the highways.

The highest Labor Day holiday toll since World War II was in 1951 when 46 persons were killed in 33 accidents. The lowest was in 1949 when 23 were killed in 19 accidents. Figures prove that most fatal accidents are caused by traffic law violations.

"Driving is always a full-time job, and driver concentration and alertness are especially essential during the holiday periods because crowded highways increase driving hazards," Garrison said.

THE LOST MONTH

This dream girl turned dreary drudge has only 11 months each year to ENJOY life. She spends the other month doing dishes by hand.

It's true. On the average, it takes two hours a day to wade through three stacks of dishes—breakfast—lunch and dinner. That comes out to 730 hours a year. And, friends, that's a month. A month of full 24 hour days.

Don't be a drudge and do dishes — and lose a month a year. "Dial" dishes in an electric dishwasher and enjoy life all year long. It costs just a cent and a half a day to wash and dry dishes electrically. You couldn't buy the hand lotion for that little money — and you get another month to live better electrically.

1962 Sugar Beet Public Hearing August 29

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announces that an informal public hearing will be held in the Shirley-Savoy Hotel in Denver, Colorado beginning at 10:00 a. m. August 29, to receive views and recommendations of persons interested in the 1962-crop sugar beet acreage program.

Sugar beet crops for the years 1955 to 1960, inclusive, were restricted under the Sugar Act. The 1961 crop was unrestricted to permit sufficient production to fill the prospective quota and provide a normal carryover. In 1960 the sugar beet area fell far short of filling its quota and the carryover was too small to service the marketing quota for the area.

Present indications point to a 1961 beet sugar crop of record proportions and to an increase in the carryover at the beginning of 1962.

Views are invited at the hearing on whether the 1962 acreage should be restricted or unrestricted. For consideration by USDA in the event it determines that restrictive shares will be necessary, discussion at the hearings is desired on all phases of the proportionate share program, including the following: (1). Desirable effective inventory of beet sugar at the end of 1962. (2). Desirable 1962-crop national acreage limitation. (3). Provisions to be made for new producers and new areas at the national and at state levels. (4). Methods of dividing the na-

Head of Old Firm Has Modern Ideas

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Sherwood Egbert is an ex-marine from Washington State with the build of a college basketball player, which he once was, apparently limitless energy, a burning desire to get things done immediately and a persuasive manner which charms both Wall Street bankers and back shop foremen.

For six months he has been president and chief executive officer of Studebaker-Packard Corporation, a job in which he needs every talent he can muster.

He seems perfectly willing to work days, nights and weekends at his $100,000 a year post and is convinced Studebaker is in the auto business to stay.

Studebaker has been building wheeled vehicles for 110 years, starting with wagons. But recently it has been fighting an often unsuccessful battle to make at least one or two of every 100 automobiles sold in this country a Studebaker product.

"We can make money, and then some, on 2 per cent of the auto market," Egbert said in an interview. "I think our goal of 2 1/2 to 3 per cent is entirely reasonable."

Others Convinced In his short time in South Bend Egbert has convinced a lot of other people it can be done, ranging from skeptical old-time employees to disenchanted dealers.

His next, and much more difficult, target is the public.

Although he claims not to be a devotee of Madison Avenue, Egbert liberally sprinkles his conversation with pet Madison Avenue words and phrases such as "image," "esprit de corps," "impression" and "communicating." And he's great on maxims such as "it takes a man to build a man but any dunce can fire one."

He's working hard on Studebaker's image.

"The public gets an impression of a company by what it sees and hears." He waved his hand around the old five story brick building hard by the New York Central Railroad tracks which houses Studebaker's general offices and said, "the impression this place gave was that it was a poor house."

Egbert says it would cost $3,000,000 to renovate the ancient structure and Studebaker doesn't have that kind of money to toss around. But he is busy doing what he can.

This includes a completely new modern lobby, new paneled offices, yards of bright carpeting, typewriters and filing cabinets in glowing colors and lots of paint.

High On Bright Colors Egbert is very high on paint, especially in bright colors. "It's an intangible," he maintains. "It makes people feel good, even though they don't know why they feel good."

As a result Studebaker has used 25,000 gallons of paint in the last three months, more than in the previous 100 years combined.

Machinery, which used to be what Egbert calls death pallor gray, now is yellow, green and red. Floors have been cleaned, lighting improved. Plant foremen wear white shirts and coats. Security guards are spruced up in new khaki uniforms.

Egbert believes the image of Studebaker automobiles — even of its compact Lark — has been one of dependability but dullness, lacking the glamour with which the auto industry seeks to surround its products.

"What we need," said one long-time Studebaker dealer, "is lots of sex appeal — and Egbert wants that, too."

Dale Davis of Rochester, Mich., one of the 17 members of Studebaker's advisory council, says of Egbert: "He completely sold himself to us with his tremendous ability and know-how. This is a man dripping with ideas. He is the very thing Studebaker has needed."

Just prior to joining Studebaker he was executive vice president of McCulloch Corporation of Los Angeles, a leading manufacturer of aircraft engines, chain saws and outboard motors. Earlier he spent four years in the marines and a year at Boeing Aircraft.

Egbert said one look at the books at Studebaker convinced him "we had to move — and move in a hell of a hurry." At the same time, Egbert said, "I knew there were a lot of darned good people here. I wanted to find out what was going on.

"The hardest thing was to listen — and understand. It was all I could do to hold myself down."

Egbert has made few personnel changes. But he has installed management by committee to the extent all departments participate in decisions. "Everybody has to know that every decision we make about a car in some way affects their department. I'm no one-man genius."

An experienced pilot, Egbert personally flew a company plane around the country meeting his dealers. He has relied heavily upon his dealer council, which urged him to glamorize the Lark.

"Our 1962 models are cars in which they (the dealers) participated," Egbert said. The new ones are longer, without the stubby appearance of the last three years. Interiors are considerably dressed up, especially in a new bucket seat model.

The Hawk has a new roof, a new grille and a changed rear end — all accomplished since April 10 — undoubtedly a record for an industry which normally uses three years or more lead time between design and production of new models.

Egbert was slowed, but only momentarily, by major surgery last month when he had his gall bladder removed. Four days out of the hospital he attended a board meeting in New York complete with 28 stitches and a plastic tube in his belly.

Still In Stitches "I wouldn't want to repeat what my doctor said about me," Egbert said with a grin, "but it was an important meeting."

Now he's back in his newly refurbished office (first new drapes in 16 years) although he still has the stitches.

"Prototypes of our 1963 models will be running on our test track Sept. 28. We have contracted for our '64s and our '65s and designing is to be completed by February. This will give us the lead time we should have," he said.

die the horseback riders. A color guard representing Howard Norvell Green Post 262 of the American Legion, an Amarillo Air Force Base band, the King and Queen of the Old Timers Reunion, Miss Stratford and Little Miss Stratford will lead the parade.

American heritage has been selected as the theme for the parade. Floats, cars, horseback riders, adults in golf carts, and others will be assembled on the school grounds at 11:00 a. m. Children walking, riding bicycles, go-carts, and other vehicles will meet at the corner of North Main and Fourth Streets. Each entrant in the parade will be given a number to be displayed in the parade to assist the judges in identification of the winners. The parade will begin from the school grounds, and move down Main Street where the children will join in and pass before the judges who will be stationed at various places on Main Street. The children will be taken out of the parade at the intersection of North Second Street, but the remainder of the parade will travel across the tracks on the Gruver highway to the turn-off behind the County Barns.

The barbecue, formerly held at the American Legion Hall, will be held at the County Barn. Winners of the parade will be announced during the barbecue.

Floats will be judged on originality, eye-appeal and beauty, preparation and effort, and adherence to the parade theme. Floats will not be eligible for each prize unless a good sized American flag is displayed.

LETTERS To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Are you one of the million of Americans wondering why we are racing toward socialism and the welfare state faster with each passing week? This question has been answered for me by a book I read very recently. This book, "Keynes at Harvard", is a staff study by a group of Harvard graduates written for the express purpose of informing the American people what was being taught at Harvard and why.

Recent graduates reflected the attitude that "Our free enterprise society is doomed". The result is a general despair for any chance of an individual future under the present social order. Private initiative and individual enterprise are considered out worn concepts. The modern mind is taught to look only for stop gap measures to tide it over until a "dying capitalist system" is replaced by some other forms of government socialization.

Socialism has been planted in this country through this kind of thinking at Harvard as well as some of our other leading colleges and universities.

"Keynes at Harvard" deals with Keynesism as set forth by John Maynard Keynes, British economist (1883-1946). His teachings are today considered an idealogical base for British and American Socialist.

Do not read this book unless you are prepared for some very shocking facts. This book is short, (106 pages), and written for anyone from a freshman in high school up. The facts are there. You form your own opinion.

This book is in our library. It is the duty of you and I to educate ourselves on these basic economic theories.

Our capitalistic form of government has made this Republic the envy of every country in the world. If we allow our country to degenerate into second rate nations under another form of government, we have no one to blame but ourselves.

You decide. Read "Keynes at Harvard" now.
