Tower Opposes Socialized Medicine

Senator John G. Tower is opposed to socialized medicine, it was learned this week. The senator expressed his views in the following letter to Mrs. J. E. Crabtree.

Dear Mrs. Crabtree:

Thank you for expressing your views regarding the threat of socialized medicine.

I believe that medical care for those unable to care for themselves should be provided by local charitable organizations and city-county hospital and medical services. Because cradle-to-grave care by government can be provided only at the expense of individual liberty, I am opposed to any compulsory health programs.

I appreciate very much your comment on this issue. With best regards, I am Sincerely yours,
John G. Tower

Screwworm Program Results Are Noted

"Though we are just getting started, I believe we are now on the road toward eradication of the screwworm in the South-west". This statement by R. L. Murphee, DeWitt county, expresses the feeling of officials of the Animal Disease Eradication Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Texas Animal Health Commission and Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation.

"I have had only one screwworm case up to mid-year," Murphee continued. "Normally I would have had 15 to 20 cases. Though part of this may be due to the winter freeze, I have found several blows or egg masses which have not hatched. They have just dried up and indicate the release of sterile flies in the area is helping now".

Gillespie County ranchman Clint Hardin, Willow Springs, described how he found a baby calf with its navel covered with screwworm eggs. It was not doctored but the eggs did not hatch. This section has been a hot spot for screwworms in the county, according to County Agent C. A. Stone.

USDA officials explain the apparent leveling off of screwworm cases in many counties during the past week is just a preview of results that will be obtained once the new 75-million-per-week sterile fly production plant at Mission goes into operation. Production has been increased to almost 30 million flies per week at the temporary facilities at Kerrville, but this has not been sufficient to do the job.

Progress of construction at the Mission plant is another reason for the favorable outlook, the officials explained. Work is ahead of schedule, and the plant should be completed by mid-June. Fly production will be underway by July 1.

Eventual eradication of this costly livestock pest will come from a combination of the release of sterile flies and work by livestock owners. Stockmen should adhere closely to good screwworm management practices to protect their herds and help reduce screwworm populations in order that maximum results can be obtained from the sterile fly releases.

"We hope that no one had the idea that there would be no screwworms in Texas this first year", commented Claude McCan, Victoria county ranchman and a member of board of trustees of the SWAHRF. "Although we have had fewer cases than in the past in many areas, it is a question of each individual stockman staying with the fight".

McCan added that they had just dehorned and castrated the third round and have had only two screwworm cases. Normally, at this time of the year, they expect 100 to 150 cases. "Since Victoria county is in real screwworm country", he said, "you could normally expect almost 100 percent infestation when working or dropping calves at this time of the year".

Every case of screwworms put out of commission now prevents thousands of cases three to five weeks later. In turn, this helps make more effective use of the limited supply of available flies and will speed up eradication, explained the officials.

Officials stressed that stockmen should now follow a regular preventive spray program using Co-Ral or Korlan, following closely the instructions on the labels. These sprays give protection for two to three weeks.

Cattlemen in Texas are due praise for the support already given but officials of the co-operating agencies stressed that no one should let up in his responsibilities to the program now, the officials said.

The responsibilities include the regular spray program, close and frequent observation of all animals, pre-treatment of all wounds before they become infested with screwworms, early and intensive treatment of screwworm-infested animals

Cliches Of Socialism

"The government should do for the people what the people are unable to do for themselves".

If it be consistent with right principle to have a formal agency of society of delegated, limited and specified powers — government — it follows that there are principles, if we could but find them, which prescribe the appropriate limitations.

The search for these principles has proved elusive, as history seems to attest. Failure to find them has led some distinguished thinkers — sometimes called philosophical anarchists — to decide against any government at all. It has led others — sometimes called socialists — to resolve in favor of the omnipotent State; let government control everything!

Other thinkers, who refuse to approve either anarchism or socialism, settle for what is more a plausibility than a principle: "The government should do for the people what the people are unable to do for themselves. Thus, unwittingly, some avowed conservatives lend support to the socialists. In practice, this plausibility works as follows:

The people express inability in that they will not voluntarily invest the fruits of their own labor in an enterprise that promises to deliver mail to those who choose to isolate themselves. So, let the government deliver the mail — with Rural Free Delivery.

The people, when organizing railroads, will not voluntarily extend their services to communities with few passengers and frequent retreatment. Also the collection of 10 worms from each wound for positive identification. These worms should be delivered to the local county agent or livestock inspector.

and little freight. Therefore, have government compel unprofitable operations on the private roads or, as in many other countries, for a government road to perform such "services". The people will not willingly (Continued on Page 6)

The same misfortune that induced one of our depositors to start a bank account can happen to you. Here is the incident related to us:

"Aside from a little pocket money for my own use, I turn my salary over to my wife at the end of each month. She does the family buying and we always pay cash. About three months ago on the way home from her daily shopping trip he lost her purse. It contained $24.00 and it never turned up — it was simply gone. $24.00 was a big loss to us and it came hard. In telling a friend of the circumstance he told me it was foolish to carry around cash and run the risk of losing it. He advised me to start a bank account and let my wife write checks for the family purchases. As soon as I fully understood the plan and learned that the bank was willing to take care of my small monthly earnings, I at once started our account, and my wife says it's an actual relief to know she is in no danger of losing the family purse.

Feminine Summer Fashions

The eye appeal of fashions for summer can be summed up in one word, and that's feminine. Softness is achieved through masterful handling of subtle style lines.

Among the features to be noted in fashions are the following: princess lines, bias cuts, ruffled trimming, softly flared skirts and waistline jackets.

Waistlines are becoming more important as the silhouette moves subtly closer to the body. It may be accented by wide, waist-cinching belts.

Helen's Favorite:

- German Short Ribs (Serves 6)
- 2 pounds beef short ribs
- 1 cup seasoned flour
- 2 10-ounce packages lima beans
- 1/2 pint soured cream
- 4 tablespoons prepared horseradish
- Cut ribs in 3-inch squares and coat in flour. Brown in extra suet cut from ribs. Add water to cover ribs and cook slowly in a slow (325°F.) oven for 1 1/2 hours. Add lima beans, seasoned with salt and pepper. Cook for 40 minutes longer. Just before done, add soured cream and horseradish. Sprinkle with paprika and serve.

In empire styles, the waist is slightly raised, but, naturally, it is still in a natural position. For the princess silhouette, it is molded close to the body.

Free-wheeling skirts are achieved through circle flares, umbrella gores, easy pleats and A-line shapes. Even when cut along slender lines, paneling and shirring produce a freedom of motion.

Black and white are a popular color combination, used singly or with striking print.

for the evening.

McCown spoke of how Americans spoke of wars as operations, and used many of the same terms in projects in this changing world employed in counting seconds. He spoke of modern progress in the modern world as having no more impact than the discovery of fire or the discovery of the round wheel to the stone age men.

The progress point of honoring students by families and friends is a graduating progress in degrees of true progress.

Project future began in the Stratford school in the first grade and formed the basis of education, good attitudes and ability. The count down through G-11 was just the beginning. Education was the proving ground to prepare the background for taking advantage of opportunities, the speaker said.

With equal exposure to education, some have done more, and with a few exceptions, the best students have the best chances for succeeding in the future.

There is no room for those who do not apply themselves. Only study and hard work will produce satisfactorily.

McCown advised the students to continue their education, and face the future with confidence. The ones most likely to succeed, are the ones who think they can, the speaker said.

Jack Standefer pronounced the benediction.

Three of America's most popular characters were unborn: Uncle Sam, Santa Claus, and Charley McCarthy.
