Reese honors 'best' of 1978

Salutes Senior NCO, NCO, Airman of Year

Two members of the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron (CE) and one from the 3500th Resource Management Squadron have been named as Reese's top enlisted personnel for 1978.

Selections for the Senior Noncommissioned Officer (NCO, NCO and Airman of the Year Awards were announced at a special awards banquet here last Friday.

Named as the Senior NCO for '78 was RM's SMSgt. Guy A. Chauvin, Traffic Management Office supervisor. TSgt. Bradley L. Charters, a quality control technician in CE, was honored as the NCO of the Year. Top airman honors went to another CE worker, A1C David J. Anderson, a construction equipment operator.

Nineteen bluesuiters were nominated from various base units for the awards. Winning selections were based on on-the-job knowledge and performance, off-duty involvement in community affairs and the results of selection board interviews.

Chief Master Sergeant Al Chock, Reese's senior enlisted advisor, announced the winners while Colonel Charles E. Bishop, 64th Flying Training Wing commander presented the three men with certificates of recognition. Adding to the list of honors was Bill McMillan, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Armed Services Committee, who presented each of the men with a special plaque.

The awardees also received $50 U.S. Savings Bonds, courtesy of the NCO Academy Graduates Association. All nominees received desk sets, from the Reese Federal Credit Union and Lubbock National Bank.

Senior NCO of Year

Sergeant Chauvin, who supervises five of the Traffic Management Office sections, additionally served at the TMO officer here since May. He continued his personal education in 1978, enrolling in traffic management courses through Chicago College and completing two other technical courses.

When Reese kicked off the Combined Federal Campaign this year, the Korean veteran became the transportation monitor and doubled the unit's 1977 record for contributions. An active member of the Reese Catholic Parish, Sergeant Chauvin supports many charitable and service programs on and off base.

NCO of the Year

Sergeant Charters is noted for management expertise and is credited by his supervisors for significant improvements in the Base Engineer Automated Management System.

Working toward a bachelor of science degree, the Oregon native is currently enrolled in a sociology course at South Plains College. His natural

Roberts looks back on 1978

by Gen. John W. Roberts
Commander, Air Training
Command

As we enter into the new year, it's too bad we're not endowed as was the Roman god Janus, for whom our month of January is named. He had two faces, on opposite sides of his head so he could look forward and backward at the same time.

If we were similarly constructed, as we move forward into 1979, we could be gazing backward, assessing the past year. All in all, I believe we'd conclude that it was a good year for Air Training Command.

Perhaps one of the most important events occurred when Air University joined the command. With that move ATC, already successfully administering all initial flying, technical and military training in the Air Force — the best in the world — also assumed responsibility for AU's vast education complex.

In another important area, ATC proved its readiness capacity beyond doubt by successfully participating with operational commands in a series of readiness exercises here and overseas.

Naturally, there were problems and challenges. Prominent among them were the battles fought to preserve Air Force entitlements and the extremely difficult task — which will persist — of recruiting enough above-average young men and women to assure that the Air Force will continue to operate at peak efficiency. Then there was the concerted drive to solve the disturbing pilot retention problem, still a top-priority effort.

But despite dwindling resources and other limiting factors, we won a few, too. A couple of the more significant ones: We played a part in having the controlled element in the Officer Effectiveness Report removed, and helped to gain travel entitlements for junior enlisted men and women. So I repeat: Taking everything into consideration, 1978 was a good year. And 1979 will be even better.

Of course I'm aware that some of our current problems will persist for a while, and that even as we are solving those, new ones will be cropping up. But with every member of the command continuing to work together, these, too, can — and will — be resolved.

I compliment each of you, military and civilian, on your splendid work in 1978. You have served your country well. I am confident that you will continue to do so in 1979.

Gen. John W. Roberts

CARE Line

(Editor's Note: All calls to the CARE Line MUST be accompanied by the caller's full name and duty phone so that answers may be provided personally, if space is not available in THE ROUNDUP. All information will be held in confidence and names will be withheld from print upon request. Names and numbers are required in order to give quick, personal responses to legitimate questions. Reese people are urged to use their chain of command or the office of primary responsibility to air complaints or comments, if possible. If not, call the CARE Line. (Ext. 3273)

Service charge at LNB

I work for the 64th Supply Squadron and my complaint is about the service charge that the bank on base is charging for non-Lubbock National Bank customers. In other words if you have personalized checks from another bank they are charging you 25¢ for the check to write it. I think that it is extremely unfair.

Daniel Salazar

I have got a question about the bank on base giving us a service charge on personal checks. They have a service charge of 25¢ per check now and I was curious as to how long this is going to last and what is the reason. As much as Sure Pay is pushed, it is going to cost us money out of our pocket to save the government money. I was wondering if it is something that is going to last a long time.

SSgt. Bruce Jaeger

Lubbock National Bank (LNB) has provided banking services to Reese since 1957. Many of the services, including check cashing, have always been without charge to military members and civilian employees who work on Reese.

Recently, however, drastic increases in operating costs have caused LNB to reconsider past policies. Two of the major expenses identified to the Reese facility were the costs of providing cash to cover the checks of non-LNB depositors and the collection and write-off costs of dishonored checks.

In view of the unique situation faced by the military member and a desire by LNB to continue serving its Reese customers, a "fee schedule" for check cashing was implemented rather than a more restrictive policy patterned after that exercised by other banks in the area. The fee schedule published in Reese Bulletin Nr. 96, Dec. 14, appears reasonable and is in accordance with AFR 170-7, Banking Services on Air Force Bases.

I, along with LNB officials, regret that a continuation of free check cashing is not possible. If you wish to discuss specific banking problems or need financial advice, Maj. Roy Markle, Comptroller and Bank Liaison Officer, is available at ext. 3518.

Needs help

I have a problem, I have too many people hasseling me and I would like to have something done. I have an NCOIC and he doesn't seem to want to help me with my problems.

Anonymous

This gives me the opportunity to remind all the people at Reese that I put a great deal of emphasis on solving the problems that are brought to my attention through the Care Line. However, unless you tell me who you are and give me specific details of your problem, I am unable to help you. If you wish, your identity will be kept confidential.

Human Relations key to success

by SSgt. William Goodrich
Social Actions staff

Human Relations and supervision go hand in hand. In order to be effective as a supervisor you must practice good human relations.

A previous article on human relations and supervision dealt with being fair to your people, not allowing favoritism, and being receptive to ideas. In this article, I will address the need of being considerate, the art of giving constructive feedback, and the skills of listening and responding.

- Be considerate: Nothing contributes more to building a strong, hard working, loyal team than a considerate supervisor. We need to be courteous to superiors and subordinates alike. Put yourself in their place before making decisions affecting them. Know that they have pride, individual personalities, and self-respect. You will get much more effective work by treating those characteristics as assets rather than by trampling on them.

- Be constructive in your criticism: If you criticize, be sure it's the method and not the motive that is being questioned. Get all the facts. Suggest a constructive course of action. After all, telling someone that what they did wrong is useless unless you also tell them how to correct it and how to avoid the same mistake in the future. If you can, precede the criticism by a bit of praise. No one likes to be "put down" and left there!

- Be willing to listen and respond: Establish two-way communication. Do not dominate the conversation. The best way to encourage communications is to find out what is important to your subordinates. Ask questions, draw him or her out and get to know them personally, not just as numbers or cogs in the machinery.

Being a supervisor in today's Air Force is a challenging and rewarding job. It is not a job that can be done by just anyone. It takes a special person to be an effective supervisor — a person with pride and commitment to a never ending challenge.

CO - the silent killer

Carbon monoxide, or CO, is often called the silent killer because it is an odorless, tasteless, and nonirritating gas that can kill you under certain conditions.

This article looks at CO, where it is found, how it is dangerous, first aid, and some preventive measures.

Carbon monoxide is probably one of the oldest and most dangerous gases known to man. Carbon monoxide is formed anytime there is incomplete combustion or anytime something is burned with an insufficient air supply. Carbon monoxide is especially noteworthy during cold weather because water, gas, and coal heaters can be sources of CO if they are improperly vented. Automobile exhaust contains carbon monoxide; hence it is dangerous in enclosed areas.

Charcoal fires produce CO so they too can be dangerous in enclosed spaces.

Carbon monoxide is dangerous because it combines with the hemoglobin of the blood, thus reducing the oxygen carrying capability of the blood. This in-turn deprives the body of its normal supply of oxygen. This can lead to asphyxiation, or death by suffocation.

Carbon monoxide "poisoning" usually shows up with such symptoms as a throbbing headache, weakness, confusion, and/or vomiting, and a flushed or reddish appearance. As exposure increases, the confusion may become more severe, so that a person may not be able to help himself, and may require the assistance of others.

First aid for CO "poisoning" initially consists of removing the victim to a source of fresh air. Second, get medical help as soon as possible, even if the patient appears to be recovered.

With these first aid measures in mind, lets look at ways to prevent CO "poisoning". (1) Make sure gas, water and coal heaters are well vented. (2) Do not run cars, trucks, etc. in enclosed areas for any length of time. If you must warm up your car pull it outside. (3) If you have a faulty exhaust system on your vehicle, get it fixed. (4) Do not use charcoal grills or stoves in an enclosed area for heating. Never use charcoal in a tent or camper trailer, "It's better to be cold than dead."

These are not all the known measures that can prevent CO poisoning but these are some of the most important. Remember, Carbon Monoxide can be fatal - it is a killer. Stay away from it and stay alive.

Marijuana What you should know

(Editor's Note: This article was written for ATC newspapers by Capt. Vance Wall, a professional pharmacist who serves as drug and alcohol consultant in the Technical Training School's Social Actions Training Branch, Lackland AFB, Tex. Questions about drugs, including prescription drugs, can be directed to him by writing TTZSA (Stop 97), Lackland AFB, Texas, 78236.)

Q. Does marijuana use cause chromosome damage in humans?

A. Chromosome damage due to marijuana use or abuse is unlikely. Results from past studies have been contradictory. One study has reported chromosome breakage with marijuana use, while another study has demonstrated a higher rate of chromosome breakage in persons not using marijuana.

Five other studies have not been able to establish a relationship between marijuana use and chromosome breakage.

In the study reporting chromosome damage with marijuana use, the rate of chromosome breakage with marijuana use was comparable to that of Valium (most commonly prescribed tranquilizer in this country), aspirin, or color television.

The test subjects involved in this study were taking more than one drug. Therefore, the results of this study are considered unreliable.

Our firm also actively practices in these specialized areas of the law:

- Personal Injury
- Wrongful Death
- Professional Malpractice
- Worker's Compensation
- Products Liability
- Consumer Cases

If you think that you may need help in these areas of the law, contact us to arrange a convenient time to discuss the matter with a licensed attorney. (There is no charge for this initial office visit.) If this visit indicates a need for legal representation, our firm will provide competent, effective assistance for a reasonable fee. (Most cases involving injuries on or off the job are handled on a contingency fee basis. This means that you pay for the representation only after monies are recovered on your behalf.)

Energy saving tips

If your refrigerator is next to your range, beneath a heating duct or exposed to direct sunlight, consider moving it to a cooler place in the room. The more heat you put on your refrigerator, the more it's going to run.

For years, many people believed that it costs less to leave lights burning than to turn them off. If a room is unoccupied for more than fifteen minutes, energy can be saved by turning off the fluorescent lights.

Bishop gets Holloman assignment

Col. Charles E. Bishop, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, will be reassigned to Holloman AFB, N.M., effective March 1.

Colonel Bishop will assume command of Tactical Training Holloman, a unit of the Tactical Air Command. He will be replacing Col. Samuel Johnson.

A successor has not yet been named for Colonel Bishop.

At Holloman, Colonel Bishop will be responsible for four major units. They are: the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing, which flies the F-15 Eagle; the 479th Tactical Training Wing, which flies the T-38 Talon in conducting tactical fighter lead-in training; the 49th Combat Support Group; and the 4449th Mobility Support Squadron.

Within these units, Colonel Bishop will have approximately 6,500 military and civilian personnel working under his supervision.

The Tactical Air Command is headquartered at Langley AFB, Vir. The Tactical Training

Holloman has the 12th Air Force (TAC), based at Bergstrom AFB, Tex. as its intermediate headquarters.

On January 4, President Carter nominated Colonel Bishop for promotion to the rank of brigadier general. Confirmation of that promotion is awaiting approval action by the U.S. Senate.

leadership abilities were reflected in his performance as Chief of the Family Housing Management Branch and Industrial Management Branch during absences by the regular branch managers.

He is a founding member of the Reese NCO Academy Graduate Association and is presently serving as its President. He is also serving as the educational vice-president of the Reese Toastmasters Club. During the recent Air Training Command Inspector General visit Sergeant Charters was selected as one of the 64th FTW's "professional" performers.

He has also been named as the Air Training Command Civil Engineering NCO of the Year.

Airman of the Year

Constantly involved with maintenance and repair work in mission essential areas of the base, Airman Anderson's supervisors say that the construction equipment operator displays knowledge and skill matched by few of his peers.

An honor graduate of his technical training school, the New Mexico product has his eye on a degree in civil engineering and is enrolled now at Texas Tech. He is active in many base and community functions.

Computing WAPS can be confusing

by MSgt. James H. Shomper

The promotion and testing office has received several inquiries concerning Promotion Cycle 80A 6/7. These questions indicate many people are confused about how the Weighted Airman Promotions system (WAPS) works.

In order to better understand WAPS, people should become familiar with the terms below:

- Testing Cycle - Test Cycles were established to distribute the administrative workload involved in testing. Testing Cycle for Cycle 80A 6/7 began Jan. 1 and ends March 31.

- Promotion Eligibility Cutoff Date (PECD) - This date is established as the last day of the month preceding the Testing Cycle. PECD for Cycle 80A 6/7 was Dec. 31. PECD is of major importance as all APRs, decorations and skill level requirements must meet this cutoff date to be considered in the promotion cycle.

- Promotion Cycle - The increment months of a cycle. Cycle 80A 6/7 begins Aug. 1, and ends July 1, 1980. The promotion cycle is the basis from which Date of Rank (DOR), Time in Service (TIS) and Time in Grade (TIG) requirements are computed.

- Study Reference - AF Pamphlet 39-8 lists study references for each AFSC and can be reviewed in your Orderly Room. Airmen compete, test and are selected for promotion in the Control AFSC they have on their PECD (Dec. 31).

The first major subject that should be addressed is the computation of the WAPS points and the factors involved. There are 6 factors which make up the WAPS system. Each factor is given a point value, maximum total score is 460 points. Listed below are the factors involved, maximum score for each factor, and how the scores are computed. This information may be found in AFR 39-29, Table 8.

- Specialty Knowledge Test (SKT) - Maximum score is 100 points. Individual score is based on the percent answered correctly.

- Promotion Fitness Exam (PFE) - Maximum score is 100 points. Individual score is based on the percent answered correctly.

- Time In Service (TIS) - Maximum score is 40 points. Two points are awarded for each year of Total Active Federal Military Service (TAFMS) up to 20 years, as of the last day of the last month of the promotion cycle (July 31, 1980). One sixth point is credited for each month of TAFMS (15 days or more are counted one sixth point, periods of less than 15 days are dropped).

Think.

Aero club

The Morale, Welfare and Recreation branch is looking for people interested in forming an aero club on base.

Anyone interested should contact Vickie Sutton at ext. 3412 or stop by the MWR office on the third floor of bldg. 800.

Prospective members need to tell the MWR staff the type of flying desired (such as student cross-country or flight training).

BX holds sale

The Base Exchange will hold a pre-inventory sale Monday and Tuesday. A variety of merchandise will be offered at discounted prices.

The retail stores will be closed for inventory from 4 p.m. Thursday until 1 p.m. Jan. 26.

A post-inventory sale is scheduled at Exchange stores from Feb. 1 through 3.

Exchange limitations

The House Armed Services Committee, the watchdog for all service exchanges, has developed policies and regulations governing what can be sold in the service exchanges. A few examples of what cannot be sold in stateside exchanges are TV sets, furniture, refrigerators and some items of clothing.

E-7 opportunities

Does Palace First mean anything to you? If you are an E-7 or an E-7 selectee and want to retrain, it could mean a LOT to you!

Should you presently be in an overage or a balanced AFSC and meet the basic criteria, you could be eligible to apply for retraining into an AFSC of your choice, receive your base of preference, and all this after completing ONLY one year base residency. As of Dec. 18, 1978 there were vacancies at 41 bases in 25 states, and some overseas locations. Interested E-7s should contact the CBPO Customer Service Center immediately, since their preferences may not be available for very long. Call SSgt. Walter Sidler or SrA Pat Anderson at ext. 3276 today.

Rabies clinic set

A vaccination clinic for cats and dogs belonging to military or their authorized dependents is scheduled for Jan. 27.

The special clinic will begin at 9 a.m. and run through noon. No appointment is necessary. The clinic will be held at the Veterinary Services Office, bldg. 631.

All animals must be carried or restrained by leash. Only rabies and distemper vaccinations will be given. The shots are mandatory for all pets (dogs or cats) more than three months old in Reese Village.

NCOLS graduation

Graduation ceremonies for NCO Leadership Class 79-D will be held on Jan. 26 at the NCO Open Mess.

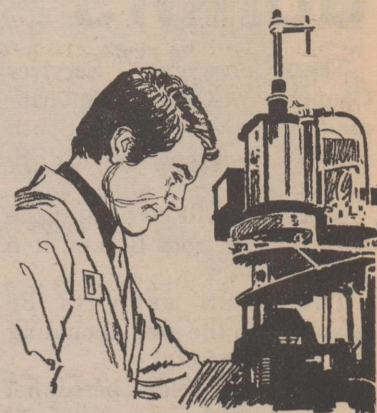

Guest speaker for the graduation banquet will be Lt. Col. Edward C. Priest, 64th Air Base Group director of Personnel.

The banquet is set for a 6 p.m. start. Dress for officers is the winter mess dress. Enlisted personnel may wear either the winter mess dress or combination-one with white shirt and black bow tie. Civilian dress is coat and tie for men and "formal" for women.

Reservations are required. Anyone planning to attend should contact the Professional Military Education Center staff at ext. 3635 before Tuesday.

McClellan to be energy showcase

McClellan AFB, Calif., has been selected as one of three Department of Defense installations to serve as a showcase for innovative energy programs, Defense and Air Force officials said in a joint announcement here.

Sacramento Air Logistics Center at McClellan will be used to demonstrate new coal-fired boiler technology, wind-generated energy, solar-energy uses, electrical-mechanical conversion systems and conservation measures.

Air Force Logistics Command officials estimate the project will cost between $100-$300 million for the McClellan phase. Selected buildings throughout the base will also be used to test new technology.

Finance stays open

Starting Monday, the customer service areas in Accounting and Finance will remain open through the lunch hour. Continuous service will be provided at Military Pay, Travel and the cashier's cage from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Class begins

Airframe and Powerplant Class: Registration will be held Jan. 29, at 6:30 p.m. in bldg. 91, Education Office. Class starts on Jan. 29, and ends April 27. Tuition for Air Force Active members is $36.25 with tuition assistance from the Air Force, plus $40.00 for books.

AFAF gears up

Campaign officials say everything is on schedule for the 1979 Air Force Assistance Fund drive that kicks off Feb. 21 and runs through Mar. 30. The fund is the only campaign run exclusively by and for Air Force people.

Reese seeks donors

The Community Services Council (CSC) will sponsor another drive for the South Plains Blood Services (SPBS) on Jan. 26.

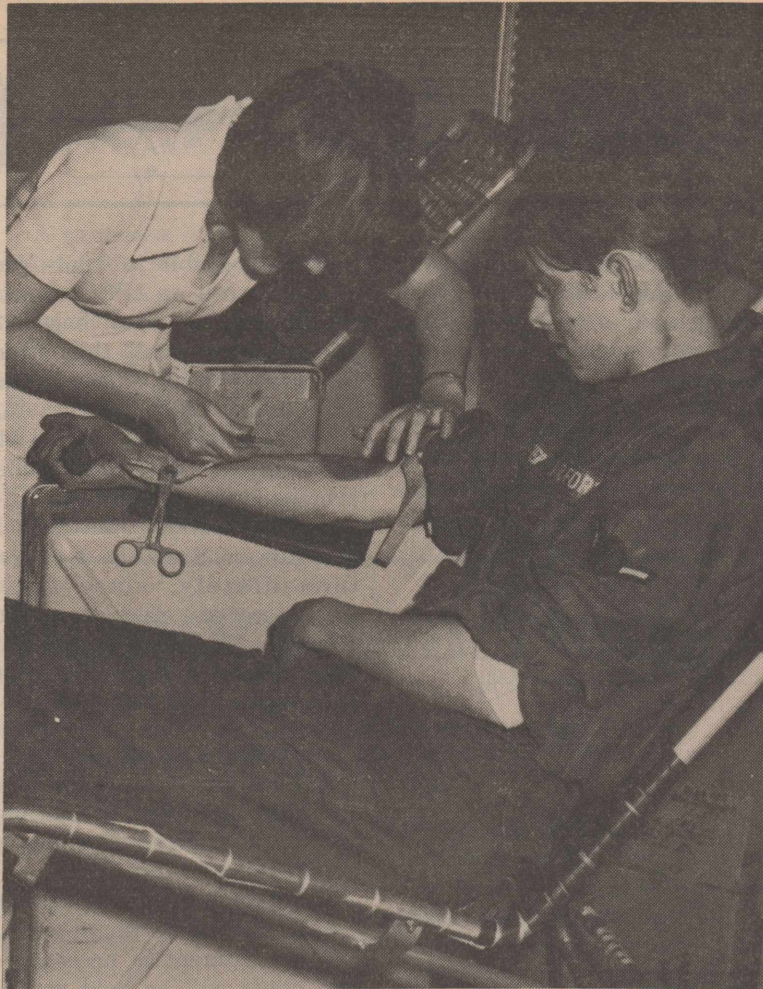

The drive will be held at the base theater from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The SPBS supports 38 hospitals in the area, including the Reese Hospital.

Last week, Reese personnel responded to an emergency call for donors by John Richmond, executive director of the SPBS. One-hundred and one pints were collected, mostly from maintenance personnel, during the emergency drive.

Prospective donors must be between 17 and 65-years-old and weigh at least 110 pounds. Donors should eat prior to giving blood, but; they should avoid extremely fatty foods up to four hours before donating.

CSC officials encourage Reese supervisors to allow their people time to give.

Allen adds support

Suggestions net cash awards

Sixteen people have received cash awards and 26 more earned awards for their suggestions through the Reese Suggestion program.

Receiving cash awards during the first quarter of FY-79 were: SSgt. John D. Sorenson, Field Maintenance (FMS), $25; SSgt. Larry R. Carroll, 35 Flying Training Squadron, $30; Amn Mark T. Williams, FMS, $25; MSgt. Carl D. Jones, Operations, $100; A1C Kenneth A. Marvin, Civil Engineers, $50; SSgt. Thomas Kazanowski, FMS, $25; A1C Paul Bunting, Supply, $100; and A1C James C. McEachin, Transportation, $60.

Also winning cash awards were SSgt. Bruce Jaeger, Supply, $50; SMSgt. Ross Meadors, Jr., Supply, $100 for two suggestions; SrA David M. Dozier, Supply, $50 for two suggestions; SSgt. Dennis R. McAfee, Security Police, $25; Marie E. Matthews, Supply, $50 for two suggestions; Barbara Botkin, Procurement, $100; Jessie A. Freeman, FMS, $25; and Lawrence S. Schepers, Supply, $100.

Noting the success of the Air Force Suggestion Program, Air Force Vice Chief of Staff Gen. James A. Hill has asked continued support for what he termed, "a meaningful, effective vehicle for management improvements."

In a letter to major commands and separate operating agencies, General Hill wrote, "The Air Force Suggestion Program is one of the best in the federal government. Program results over the years reflect the ability of our people to reduce costs and conserve valuable resources.

The awards are made based on their tangible or intangible value as outlined in Air Force Regulation 900-4. Suggestion forms are available through unit suggestion monitors or through installation program managers.

AF drops extension For job reservations

First-term airmen no longer have to extend their enlistments by 12 months to hold career job reservations (CJR's).

The CJR system is used by personnel planners and is a prerequisite to airman reenlistment.

First-termers who have already extended solely for a CJR may voluntarily cancel the extension, provided they haven't entered the extension period and the extension retainability wasn't used to satisfy other requirements.

Officials say the major benefit of this action is that a reservation is tied up for only 12 months instead of 24.

Individuals with questions on the change should contact the career assistance section at ext. 3420.

FWP holds first luncheon

The Federal Women's Program will host its first luncheon of 1979 on Feb. 7 in the Officers' Open Mess.

The luncheon will feature Liza Zelczak, a secretary with the St. Luke's United Methodist Church, as the guest speaker. Mrs. Zelczak holds an associate degree from Sullins College in Virginia and has attended Katherine Gibbs School in Boston. She has several speech awards and will be talking about the progression of women in the federal service.

The luncheon menu will include a chicken fried steak dinner for $2 per plate. The affair is open to the public.

Leslie Hatchett, Federal Womens' Program coordinator at Reese, says that the group plans to host several luncheons and seminars during the year.

Touching up painting: Airman Schrecengost

64th OMS artist brightens dorm

It isn't unusual for dormitory residents to "paint" the walls, but; the way A1C Rick Schrecengost does it is not only unusual but attractive as well.

Airman Schrecengost, a crew chief for Organizational Maintenance Squadron, has just finished his fifth painting in the OMS dormitory, bldg, 220. The 22-year-old artist used an air brush to bring life to the dormitory walls with scenes of F-4 phantoms, World War II dog fights, T-38s and crew chiefs and even a YF-16.

A commercial artist in his home town of Big Spring before coming into the Air Force, Airman Schrecengost has been using the intricate form of spray painting for several years.

The flightline worker, who has three years left on his enlistment, says he plans to return to commercial work after he leaves the service. "I want to get into more illustration," says the son of retired Air Force TSgt. Ralph Schrecengost.

It took Airman Schrecengost between 30 and 40 hours of on and off duty time to complete the five paintings. He plans to do at least two more murals after he returns from a 49 temporary duty assignment to Ellsworth AFB, S.D. as part of the ACE program.

Tom Thomson works on a special plaque in the graphics shop. The branch chief recently won an Air Training Command Newspaper Award for a series of three illustrations in the Roundup. His work is currently being considered in the Air Force wide competition. (U.S. Air Force photo)

We're so sure you'll find the no-needle method of hair removal so pleasant... so completely painless... we're making you this offer just to try it.

We'll give you an additional 15 minutes free with your first paid half-hour appointment.

And we promise you: you won't feel a thing—because this method uses no needles.

Instead, an electronic tweezer touches only the hair, not your skin.

In seconds the hair slides right out and because there is no pain involved the technician can work as long as you want.

It's safe, effective even on sensitive parts of the body... the only thing you'll feel is beautiful.

Call us for an appointment about your particular unwanted hair. But hurry, an offer this good can't last forever.

One complimentary 15 minute session per customer only.

Group cager repays debt With game-winning shot

"Well, I owed 'em one!"
 "Those were the first words spoken by Air Base Group's Ron Benevides last week after sinking a last second jumper that pushed Group past the 35th Flying Training Squadron, 42-41. The shot raised Group's mark to 7-2 on the year and turned the star guard from "goat" to "hero."

 In the squad's previous outing, Benevides missed the back end of a one-and-one, giving Resource Management a chance to steal the game, 51-50, in the waning seconds.
 "I felt as though I had let the team down against Resource Management," admitted the San Antonio native. "When we were down to just a few seconds left against the 35th (FTS) I wanted the ball. I felt that I owed the team a win."

And that's exactly what he gave them. With the taller 35th clogging up the inside, Benevides calmly popped a 20-footer over the top and through as the clock wound down to two seconds. Willie Rogers' deflection of the inbound pass cut off any miracle shot hopes by the 35th FTS as Group clinched a spot in the post-season playoffs. Rogers led the team with 12 points.

In other intramural cage action last week, the 54th ran its unbeaten streak to eight with a 46-23 pasting of the Civil Engineers. Danny Clifton topped the league leaders with 10 points.

Third place Organizational Maintenance dropped flightline rival Field Maintenance, 45-35, in the traditional "donkey" game and Sturon-2 ripped the 1958th Communications Squadron, 50-27. Rounding out loop play, Sturon-1 beat CE.

The standings in the intramural basketball league, as of Monday, were:

Team	W	L
54th	8	0
RMS	6	1
Group	7	2
OMS	7	2
Sturon-1	4	3
Supply	4	4
Sturon-2	4	4

Sports in brief

Fast-pitch softball
 Softball players wanting to make the base fast-pitch team should get in touch with Rattler head coach Larry Rinish as soon as possible. Catchers and pitchers have already started to work out for the '79 campaign and the rest of the squad is scheduled to start practice on Feb. 10. Rinish has indicated that the Rattlers are looking at a 40-plus game schedule this year. For more information contact Rinish at ext. 3211 or call the gym staff at ext. 3783.

Racquetball tourney
 Squadron entries in the base racquetball singles and doubles championships must be in to the base gym by Jan. 29, say gym officials. Base units are limited to three players. The tourney begins on Feb. 2.

Kegler countdown
 The standings in the intramural bowling league, as of Jan. 9 were:

Rattlers gain confidence despite weekend losses

Dropping a pair of games on the road may not sound like much of a confidence builder, but; according to head coach Nate Jones that's exactly what last weekend's games turned out to be.

"We're back on track," said Jones after his squad broke the century mark twice in losing efforts to Sheppard AFB. "We hadn't played a game since Nov. 26 going into the Senator games, so under the circumstances, we feel like our offense is moving pretty well."

One of the reasons the offense is perking again is the return of Don Fuller to the lineup. Fuller canned 35 points in the opening 107-102 loss. The Indiana prep star was having his best season as a service cager when he went down with a knee injury in early November.

"We're certainly glad to have Don back in the lineup," says Jones. "He is a good team player and adds a lot to our game plan."

Willie Hollis, also having his best season, scored 25 points in the opener and collected game honors with 29 points in the 118-108 loss. Hollis may be one of the premier guards in the command, hitting more than 25 points per game for the Rattlers.

Coach Jones' optimism about the upcoming Western Regional playoffs is bolstered by the emergence of Roy Bradley and Terrance Wilson as scoring threats. Wilson pumped in 39 points last weekend while Bradley chipped in another 28.

"The 'home court advantage' got us in the first game," mumbled Jones. We had twice as many fouls called on us, and we are not what you would call a physical team."

Jones blamed poor free throw shooting for the second loss. "We missed our first eight free throws," he said. "At the time, those buckets could have given us a big lead."

The Rattlers will find out how far "back on track" they are Thursday night when they open regional action at Laughlin.

"I'm not sure how we'll do," admits Jones. "We haven't beaten an ATC opponent yet this year and haven't even faced Lackland, Randolph or Goodfellow. But we won't go down easy. Anybody that comes in there looking for us to play dead will find themselves in the loser's bracket. I'll guarantee that!"

Six ATC players join AF tryouts

Six Air Training Command softball players have been invited to compete for positions on the team that will represent the United States in the Pan American Games.

The ATC players selected for the trials are outfielders Dan Welty and Art Washington, pitcher Jeff Kepner and catcher Jeff Voorhies of Randolph AFB, Texas; and second baseman Ed Conner and pitcher Dave Scott of Lackland AFB, Texas. A total of 60 softball players from throughout the nation have been invited to attend the tryouts.

Tryouts will be conducted May 31-June 6, at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo. Eighteen players will be selected for the U.S. team. The Pan American Games will be held in San Juan, Puerto Rico, July 1-15. (ATCNS)

Women's action
