

Reserve captains improve career chances

Air Force officials have announced a change in policy that will improve the career opportunities of reserve captains who fail to be selected for promotion to temporary major, say local personnel officials.

Reserve captains who are not selected the first time they are considered for temporary major will no longer be separated.

In addition, a selective continuation program will be implemented for reserve captains who have twice failed to be selected.

"Policy changes will be effective with the June temporary major selection board and will apply to all promotion categories," points out MSgt. Ray Guerrero, NCOIC of Quality Force Section.

Officers will be considered for selective continuation after the second deferment to temporary major. Those selected will be able to remain on active duty for at least three additional years and probably will be able to serve until retirement.

Continued officers will help meet Air Force requirements in shortage skills such as rated duties, engineering specialties and other career fields.

The exact number of officers to be continued depends on many factors, including Air Force requirements. Officials expect about 100 will be continued this year. More will be affected in following years.

Previous policies releasing captains after nonselection to major were implemented in 1975 when the Air Force was rapidly reducing its officer strength to meet congressionally imposed limits.

Under that problem, first-time non-selected officers could apply to remain on active duty to be considered a second time.

"With the current policy changes, only reserve officers who are not selected the second time or chosen for continuation will be separated," adds Sergeant Guerrero.

Officers selected for and accepting continuation under these changes will remain eligible for temporary and permanent reserve promotion, regular appointment, training and assignments if they are otherwise eligible.

Anyone with questions should contact Sergeant Guerrero at Ext. 3339.

Express route proposal fails

Reese's fight to establish express CITIBUS routes ended last week when the deadline for securing the service passed with the base still far short of the required 100 paid-in-advance riders.

Base officials tossed in the towel at 5 p.m. Friday, shortly after ticket sales closed at the Mathis Recreation Center. Only 15 people had purchased the $20 monthly CITIBUS passes.

"At least for now," explained Capt. Gary Taylor, chairman of the bus service committee here, "the express route idea has been killed. For whatever reasons, Reese people just didn't respond to the proposed program."

Failure to reach the needed number of paid riders ended months of campaigning by base officials for the express route. The idea for the service was raised late last year in a Base Advisory Council meeting. Since that time Reese and Lubbock transit officials have labored to find a "workable" bus program. Their efforts included two major proposals.

Under the direction of Captain Taylor, a volunteer working group had reached an agreement with CITIBUS to provide two buses to Reese for $2,000 per month.

As a bonus, express ticket holders would have been entitled to use all of the "regular" CITIBUS routes for free.

Base officials had blessed the proposal because it not only offered Reese people a money-saving form of transportation, but held great potential as a major energy saving program. They had even extended the original deadline to try and save the program.

"Everyone who purchased passes will receive a full refund," said Captain Taylor. "All ticket holders need to do is turn in their passes at the Mathis Recreation Center."

Community observes Armed Forces Week

South Plains area residents have an opportunity to learn more about this nation's "Forces for Peace" during Armed Forces Week, May 14-19.

Armed Forces Week kicks off its activities on May 14 with a Joint Services display at the South Plains Mall. The display will open at 10 a.m. with the official opening at 11 a.m. with the reading of a proclamation by Mayor pro-tem Alan Henry.

Also planned for the week are Red Carpet tours of the base to interested groups or organizations. These will be conducted from May 14-18 and may be scheduled by calling Capt. George Reasonover at Ext 3727. Included in the tour will be the Instrument Flight Simulator facility along with a T-37 and T-38 on static display.

A Joint Services Briefing Team will be available to civic groups and schools once again this year. The team presents a one-half hour audio-visual program on the Military Services and Armed Forces Week. For more information on this group, contact Bill Tynan at Ext. 3169.

New chiefs

SMSgt. Gary G. Sutton, above, and SMSgt. Dennis Christensen each look over some reports in their offices. Sergeant Sutton, chief of Hospital Administration, and Sergeant Christensen, T-38 Flightline Branch Superintendent, were among those named on Monday's chief master sergeant promotion list. Six senior master sergeants were eligible for promotion here. Sergeant Christensen, a native of Ceylon, Minn., has been at Reese since August 1977. Sergeant Sutton hails from San Antonio and has been in the Air Force 16 years. (U.S. Air Force photos)

National Hospital Week begins

May 6-12 is National Hospital Week and the focus around the country for the observance will be on our nation's hospitals' voluntary effort to contain health care costs.

Many of us in the military service might reply, "So what! Our health care is free, isn't it?"

Well, yes and no. Medical care provided in DoD medical treatment facilities is, with the exception of a small hospitalization charge, provided at no cost to the military beneficiary.

But free it's not. It costs money to run a hospital and the military is not exempt from the inflationary spiral that is affecting our economy and our nation's health care facilities.

We all must realize that there is no such thing as "free" health care. Even if you don't have to reach into your pockets right away to pay for the health care you're going to pay for it somewhere along the line; perhaps through bigger tax bills or by a gradual erosion of medical services because of increased demand and an inadequate supply of resources. That's why the conservative and wise use of health care resources is always in your best interest.

As a Hospital Commander and resource manager I must be constantly aware of costs and insure that adequate medical services are available to our patients within budgetary constraints. Both military and civilian hospitals are continually looking for ways to cut costs without cutting quality of care.

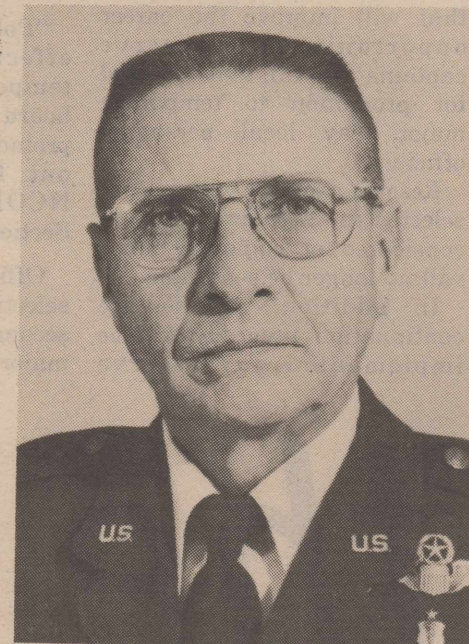

Even so, because a hospital is geared to providing the highest level of care around the clock, 365 days a year, its overhead and personnel costs are high. If you need that level of care, there is no substitute. But, it is a waste of resources to use it when you don't.

There is another way, however, to lower costs. A method that is so simple that many completely ignore it. I'm talking about prevention of disease.

This is where you come in and we can all start by taking better care of ourselves. For example, it has been estimated that 24,000,000 people in the United States suffer from high blood pressure, which is a contributing factor in one-third of premature heart attacks and strokes. Estimated medical care costs for 1975 were 15.9 billion. That's quite a price tag for a problem that can be controlled with proper diet, exercise and no smoking.

Another illustration of the cost of illness is alcoholism. Statistics suggest that alcohol abuse is the single most expensive health problem in the country today, with an estimated price tag of $33.6 billion in medical care costs in 1975.

As such, I would suggest that National Hospital Week is an excellent time to look at your life style and choose healthier habits. As part of the observance of this week your base hospital will be offering you several consumer educational programs.

I urge you to take advantage of these programs and take positive steps to improve your health.

Preventive care is still the best bargain for you in health care.

CARE Line

(Editors note: All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made, however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use their chain of command or the office of primary responsibility to air complaints or comments if possible. If not, call the CARE Line at Ext. 3273.)

Saving energy?

Why, if the base is on a strict energy conservation program, does the base gym stay open until midnight?

I enjoy the gym and have participated in activities after 10 o'clock but I have noticed the lack of people using the facility. I checked the participation records for a 20-day period and found an average of 6.9 participants at 9 p.m., 10.6 at 10 p.m. and 1.4 at 11 p.m.

For a base the size of Reese, these late hours are not needed. I am sure the mercury vapor lights, saunas, weight room and racquetball courts use their fair share of energy.

Let's back up President Carter's Energy Conservation Program!

Dear Energy Conscious:

We need more people like you who are concerned about energy consumption but I think we are ahead of you on this one. The late night operating schedule at the gym was a test program to see if there was a justifiable need to stay open until midnight.

The usage figures you quoted are fairly accurate and you're correct they don't justify staying open that late. Therefore, the new hours are now 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays.

Thanks for your interest and keep saving those kilowatts.

Five good rules for buying a car

by Capt. Felix Stalls

In the United States we own enough automobiles so that if everyone wanted to leave the country by automobile, we could all ride in the front seat.

With this many cars, very few Americans exist that do not own or will someday buy a car.

Buying or motor vehicle can be like opening a legal "can of worms."

The first rule that you should abide by is never sign anything until you have made a firm decision to purchase the car that you have been shown. If the salesman works up a deal for you with all of the charges, allowances, taxes and finance charges, there is no reason for you to sign it. You don't have to acknowledge receipt of it.

The second rule is for you to read everything that is presented to you. Read it carefully and fully. In most cases when you finally sign a contract you are agreeing that it is the whole contract and that no oral representations by a salesman have any bearing on it.

If, while reading the contract, you have questions which are not answered to your satisfaction, take the time to come to the Legal Office and have it reviewed by a Legal Assistance Officer.

The third rule is to take the car, especially a used car, off the lot, to a mechanic that you trust. Pay him $10 or $15 if necessary, but have him go over the car with a fine-tooth comb. A good mechanic should be able to tell you whether or not the car is mechanically sound.

Rule "four" is to have all repairs and adjustments which are necessary taken care of before you accept delivery of the car and before you obligate yourself to pay for it. You have much more power to get satisfactory repairs accomplished at that time than you do later under any kind of warranty.

Finally, as a general fifth rule, it is far better to finance your automobile through the credit union or another lending institution rather than through the dealer himself. There are some knotty legal problems that can result from financing the car through the manufacture's corporation, especially if you insure the car through the dealership.

President Carter salutes Asia-Pacific Americans

by SSgt. Michael Bradford
In the continuing effort to recognize the significant and on-going contributions specific cultural and ethnic groups have made to the personality of American society, the first observance of "Asian and Pacific-American Heritage Week" will be celebrated from today through May 4.

The dates specified in the Presidential Proclamation are of particular importance to the heritage of Asian and Pacific-American people.

On May 7, 1843, the first Japanese immigrants came to the United States and on May 10, 1869 the transcontinental railroad, to a large extent the work of Chinese laborers, was completed.

Although these two groups were the earliest arrivals in large numbers, there are now five major sub-groups based on 1970 census enumeration:

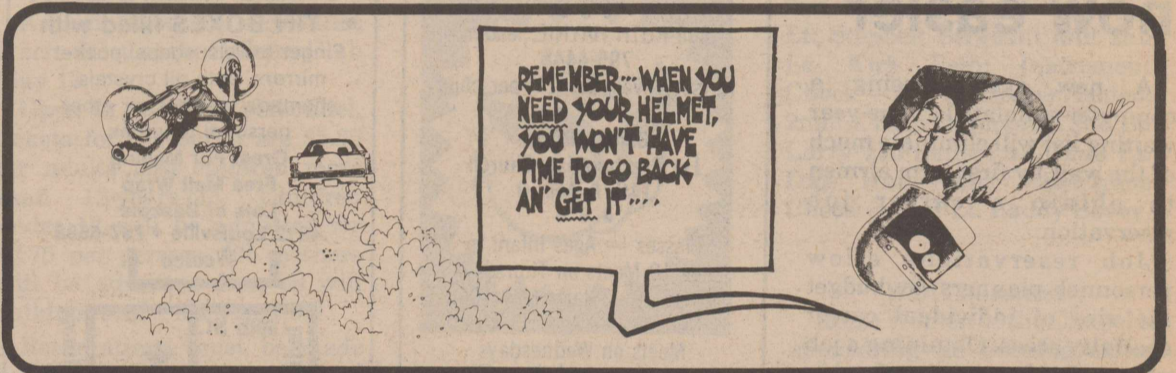

Japanese, Chinese, Filipino, Korean, and Samoan. These five groups total approximately 1.3 million people nationally. More recently, the greatest influx has come from the Southeast Asian countries.

The main obstacles to acculturation centered around areas of language, lifestyle and prejudice. The large numbers of Asian and Pacific-Americans who were born outside of the United States have unique cultural patterns and languages that serve as their means for social interaction and communication. Even many of those born in this country will retain their particular cultural patterns and language. English, to them, is a foreign language, and the "mainstream" of American life is a foreign culture to them.

While their native cultures have provided ways and means to maintain the common good,

American society and simple prejudice have often not allowed the channels and resources for Asian and Pacific-Americans to care for one another in the traditional ways. A vacuum often exists where the effective delivery of health, education, and social services in a culturally relevant manner should be taking place. As with other minorities, efforts are continuing relative to bilingual or bicultural services, assistance, and information dissemination. If all Asian and Pacific-Americans are to be contributing members of our American society, they must be encouraged and prepared to participate in the American lifestyle without having to deny their own heritage.

We, at Reese, salute those Americans of Asian and Pacific heritage and recognize their invaluable contributions to our American way of life.

Vacation school set

by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Arnold G. Johnson
"I love to tell the story."
What story? The story of Good News! What Good News? The Good News of Jesus Christ.
June 4-15, the Reese Chapel will open its doors to the children of our community for the "I Love To Tell The Story" Vacation Bible School.

Vacation Bible School is the single most important and effective way to reach children and their parents. We are hoping to have 200 children this year for our Monday through Friday, morning classes.

The material will include games, puzzles, songs, projects and Bible stories for ages three through Junior High. Children need to be three-years-old by June 1 to enroll.

We are asking that families take an active part in our VBS. We need teachers and helpers in the following areas: Music, recreation, crafts, refreshments and Bible studies. Nursery care will be provided at Reese Child Care Center for worker's children on a reservation only basis. Make reservations now if you know you will be helping us.

We are also asking parents to provide two dozen cookies per child for refreshments. Nursery through second grade send cookies June 4. Third through eighth grade send cookies June 11.

Anyone interested in enrolling their children in VBS or wanting additional information may come by the Chapel or phone Ext. 3237. Please pre-register by May 20.

Making progress

Mike Sandobal, left, and Lorenzo Robles tear into the roof of one of the four warehouses being demolished to make way for the new Reese family shopping center. Base officials report that work on the new facility, which starts with the commissary relocation and renovation project, is moving according to schedule. Actual construction on the new commissary will begin in early August with work on the Base Exchange complex expected to start around September.

AF career reservations now easier

A new system using a computer-simulated one-year waiting list will eliminate much of the wait by first-term airmen to obtain a career job reservation.

Job reservations allow personnel planners to budget the size of individual career specialty areas. Obtaining a job reservation is a step involved in reenlistment.

Airmen should still make their reenlistment intentions known as soon as they are eligible since quotas will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis. They will immediately receive a job reservation if one is available or is projected to be available before their date of separation.

For more details contact SSGT. Kenneth Zielinski, base career advisor.

Supply boosts image

"Gleaming" is a word that comes to mind walking through Supply Building 250.

"Orderly, spacious, clean and pleasant" are other words that could be used to describe the warehouse.

And it isn't just in the warehouse. The offices of the 64th Supply Squadron are taking on a new look as quickly as time and budget permit. Paneling has been added. Desks are being replaced. The drab greens and dull greys are giving way to more cheerful colors.

If improvement is a state of mind, then that state exists in the supply squadron. It seems everywhere one looks there are people doing something to make their work area a better place to do business.

Talk with Captain Wilford Foster, chief Management and Procedures Branch, or James Truelock, Material Storage and Distribution Officer, and you hear plans for present and future improvements coming in a steady stream.

"We'd like to get an outside facility for paint and lumber storage to make more room in the warehouse," says Truelock. "We also need to increase the size of some of the bins in the aircraft parts section."

Captain Forster adds, "With the expected increase in the flying load this summer we'll need room to increase tire and other aircraft stock. We are also in the process of getting civil engineering and aircraft stock into separate areas to increase the efficiency of our operation."

James Truelock is proud of his operation, so is Captain Foster. So are the many other people, civilian and military, who work in the supply squadron. It shows!

GROWING WITH THE GREAT SOUTHWEST

We love her too!

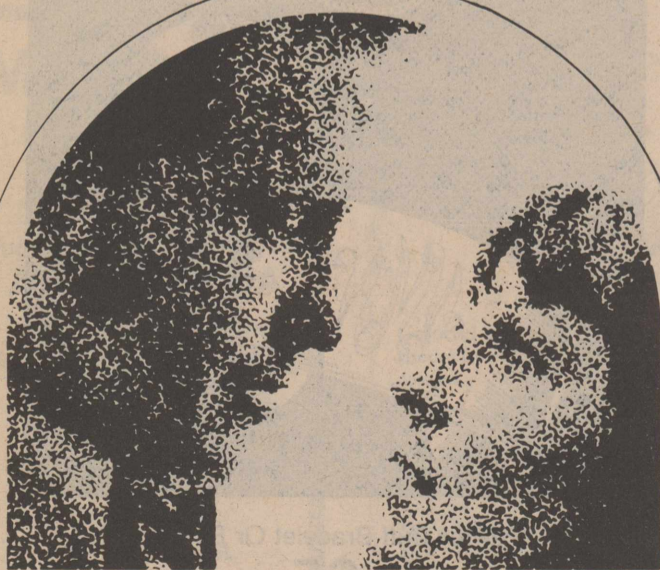

How can you help but love her?
She's lived your life with you . . . feeling, sharing and giving.
She's stubborn at times, but the first to be there in her silent way, when you need her most. . .

Dancers join AF troupe

Local disco dancers have a chance to perform with the Tops in Blue troupe when the Air Force entertainers put on a pair of shows here May 20.

According to Bob McFall, Mathis Recreation Center program director, a disco dance contest will be held tonight at 11 p.m. in the Mathis Recreation Center to select the two couples that will get to perform a "special" number with the Tops in Blue cast.

At least one member of the dance team must be active duty military. There is no entry fee for the contest. To give contestants a chance to get warmed up, the disco dance will start at 10 p.m.

For more information contact McFall at Ext. 3787.

Clower performs for MS

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society will host the annual Dinner of Champions Monday at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Banquet Hall.

Jerry Clower, noted storyteller, MCA Records superstar and Grand Ole Opry regular will entertain. Another highlight of the evening will be an auction of autographed footballs from our Southwest Conference teams as well as NFL and AFL professional teams.

Tickets may be purchased by calling the MS office (747-4353) or by visiting Hemphill-Wells (Mall), Montgomery Ward, any of the First Federal Savings & Loan offices, or either of the L&H Drug Stores.

The reception will start at 7 p.m. with music by Doug Burdett; dinner starts at 8 p.m.

Photography course set at Reese

A photography course will be offered at the base photohobby shop in the Arts and Crafts Building, beginning May 16.

The course lasts from six to eight weeks and meets Wednesday and Fridays, 5:30 p.m. Subjects covered will include everything from the basics of camera choice, composition and subject matter through processing of black-and-white, color print, and color slide materials.

SSgt. Dennis Mehrenberg, former NCOIC of the base photo lab, will teach the course. It is open to all retired and active duty military personnel, their dependents and DOD civilians.

A $35 entry fee covers everything except film and camera. Expensive cameras are not necessary.

For further information contact Sergeant Mehrenberg, Ext. 3614, or MSgt. Gene Morgan, Ext. 3241.

Softball season begins

Intramural softball league officials have set May 15 as the start of the 1979 campaign.

Although the league roster was still being worked out at Roundup press time, a gym spokesman said that at least 12 teams are expected to compete this year.

Among those mentioned were the 54th Flying Training Squadron, Supply, Resource Management, Organizational Maintenance, Air Base Group and the Hospital.

Others named were: the 35th FTS, Sturon, Field Maintenance and the 1958th Communications Squadron.

For the second straight year, the league will play only slow-pitch softball.

GO TOPLESS

in an MG midget.

Put the top down and let the wind blow through your hair. You can afford to spoil yourself with an MG Midget. It's the lowest-priced true sports car on the road. And, with an EPA rating of 34 mpg highway and 23 city, it's thrifty to run, too.

That means you don't have to wait to enjoy rack and pinion steering. A short-throw, four-speed stick. Front disc brakes. Free-wheeling agility. An unsurpassed feel for the road.

Test drive a Midget today. After all, to go topless in an MG Midget, you don't have to sell your shirt.

AF boxers decision local 'golden gloves'

Displaying a blend of power and boxing skill, the Air Force boxing team rolled to a 6-1 team victory over the West Texas Golden Gloves Association here Saturday night.

The power came from light-middleweight Joe Curiel (Dyess AFB, Texas) and heavyweight Victor Berard (Dyess), TKO winners in the Reese hosted boxing tournament.

Welterweights John Ellis (Peterson AFB, Colo.) and Lonnie Rogers (Charleston AFB, S.C.), light-welterweight Richard Johnson (Mather AFB, Calif.) and Tony Huggins (Sheppard AFB, Texas) boxed their way to split-decision victories for the Air Force team.

Nationally ranked Robin Blake, a 17-year-old featherweight from Levelland, Texas, presented a clean sweep by the Air Force squad, registering a convincing second-round TKO over Georgia Golden Gloves champ, Alvin Dixon (Robins AFB, Ga.). Blake, who is scheduled to represent the United States against the East Germans in mid-May, was named the tournament's outstanding boxer.

Curiel, the only returner from the 1978 Air Force squad, demonstrated a lethal right hand in his TKO win. The 1979 Southern Texas AAU runner-up staggered New Mexico's Lee Mascarenas with a straight right in the first round and was in control throughout. It was the right hand that ended the fight as the Corpus Christi native dropped Mascarenas in the third round of the light-middleweight bout.

Heavyweight Berard effectively worked to the body of Lubbock Golden Gloves veteran Jasper Colbert, setting up his third-round TKO. Trapping the weakened Colbert in the Air Force corner, the 1979 Odessa Golden Gloves runner-up caught Colbert with a series of left hooks and straight right hands, ending the fight with about 1:30 to go in the round.

Sporting an obvious reach advantage, Huggins was able to keep Reese's Charles Watson at bay enough to claim a split-decision in the bantamweight bout. Watson, who was a finalist in the air Force team trials earlier this year, pressed the 1978 Indiana Golden Gloves Champ throughout the fight, continually absorbing punishment from Huggin's stinging left jabs.

In light-welterweight action, Johnson's cool and deliberate style was too much for Levelland's Roddy Blake, the older brother of Olympic hopeful Robin Blake. Remaining at a distance throughout the fight, the winner of the 1979 Reno Gold and Silver light-welterweight crown used clean crisp jabs and an occasional right lead to outscore Blake on two of the three judges' ballots.

Ellis and Rogers both claimed split-decision victories over the same fight, Lubbock's Raymond Amalla. Rogers, the 1979 Inter-service welterweight runner-up, used a deceptively fast left hook to out-point Amalla in the first fight. Three bouts later, Ellis' lightning quick hands recorded the Air Force team's sixth win on the night. Amalla was awarded the tournament's outstanding sportsmanship award for his double effort.

Air Force boxing coach, Al Alaniz, praised the West Texas squad for providing the AAU Championship bound squad with a quality tune-up match.

The Air Force team heads into the AAU Nationals in New Orleans May 11-13 hoping to earn recognition that may land some of the fighters berths on the 1980 Olympic team that will go to Moscow. The Air Force had two fighters make the 1972 Olympics in Mexico City.
