WEATHER SUMMARY

AP Laserphoto Map

The National Weather Service forecasts mild weather for the East for Wednesday. Snow is forecast in the Southwest and portions of the Midwest and upper Great Lakes region.

Rain in Midland forecast; Temperatures may drop

From Staff and Wire Reports

Rain is in the forecast for the Midland area tonight and Wednesday and temperatures are expected to drop slightly, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Forecasters are calling for increasing cloudiness tonight with a 20 percent chance of showers. Skies will be mostly cloudy Wednesday as the chance for showers increases to 30 percent.

Tonight's low should be in the lower 40s and the mercury should warm to the mid-60s Wednesday.

Winds will be from the south to southeast at 5 to 15 mph shifting to the south to southwest Wednesday at 10 to 15 mph.

Monday's high of 70 was 12 degrees below the 1933 record of 82. The low of 46 recorded this morning was 26 degrees above the record set in 1932.

STATE

Texans across much of South Texas awoke today to a dense fog that prompted a travelers' advisory because of poor visibility.

The fog - a temporary departure from partly cloudy skies and unseasonably mild temperatures in Texas - was caused by warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico, creeping back behind a warm front, the National Weather Service said.

The front cut the state into halves as it stretched from Midland to Beaumont. Skies were mainly clear north of the front and also over the extreme southern tip of the state.

Winds were light and generally southerly over all but the Panhandle, where winds reached 10 to 15 mph.

Overnight temperatures were in the 50s and 60s to the south of the warm front, while readings were mostly in the 40s to the north. The temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 43 at El Paso to 63 at McAllen.

NATION

Rain and snow spread across the West today, while early-morning fog shrouded broad sections of the nation amid unseasonably warm temperatures. Light rain fell over parts of the Northeast.

Rain, with snow at higher elevations, was scattered from California across the southern half of the Plateau to the southern Rockies. Parts of the northern Rockies also had snow, the National Weather Service said.

A travelers' advisory was posted today for the southern Sierra Nevadas because of icy roads and for the mountains and passes of Montana and parts of Wyoming because of snow combined with wind gusting to 35 mph.

Up to 4 inches of snow was predicted for the central mountains of Arizona today. A heavy snow warning, with accumulations of up to a foot possible, was in effect for the southern Colorado mountains. A winter storm

Official: Freed Americans land in Kuwait

By The Associated Press

A Kuwaiti Airways plane that left Tehran Airport with hostages who had been hijacked to Iran a week ago landed at Kuwait International Airport today, according to a U.S. Embassy spokesman.

The American ambassador was among a crowd of officials and Kuwaiti citizens who greeted the plane, and an Embassy spokesman said, "You can assume two Americans (who had been among the hostages) are aboard.

An Associated Press photograph transmitted from Tehran showed the two Americans waving as they walked up the steps to the airliner. An AP stringer photographer said that 21 passengers boarded a plane that had been sent from Kuwait to pick them up. The plane that was hijacked was apparently left on the runway in Tehran.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said in Washington that the Americans had been released from the medical unit at Tehran Airport and had been transferrred to a hotel to await the flight to Kuwait.

U.S. officials identified the two freed Americans as businessman John Costa, 50, and Charles Kaper, 57, an employee of the Agency for International Development.

Speakes confirmed that the bodies of two Americans killed by the hijackers were flown out of Iran on a Lufthansa commercial jet, which landed in Frankfurt, West Germany today. The State Department identified the dead Americans as Charles Hegna, 50, of Wausau, Wis., and William Stanford, 52, both employees of the Agency for International Development, although a spokeswoman said positive identification could not be made until the bodies were returned.

He said the surviving American hostages would be flown to Frankfurt for a debriefing after they arrived in Kuwait.

U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz said today lax Kuwaiti security was partly to blame for the bijacking of the Kuwaiti jetliner, although he praised Kuwait for not giving in to the hijackers' demands.

AP Laserphoto

Shultz, who has been an increasingly frequent advocate of using force against terrorists, praised Kuwait for not freeing 17 convicted terrorists in response to the hijackers' threats to blow up the plane and kill all their hostages. But, Shultz said on a stopover in England, "very lax" screening procedures at the Kuwait airport when the plane took off for Pakistan contributed to the hijacking.

Meanwhile, the Kuwaiti newspaper Al-Rai Al-Am, which a day earlier had charged Iran with complicity in the hijack, said it was a 'national demand" that three of the 17 prisoners, who have been sentenced to death, be immediately executed.

The 17 have been convicted of tak ing part in the bombing of the U.S. and French embassies in Kuwait last December. The bombings were car-ried out by Shiite Moslems sympathetic with Iran's government.

Shultz declined to comment on Iran's performance on Sunday in ending the six-day hijacking, but he said: "It was a long time the airplane was on that tarmac before definitive action was taken.

The official Iranian news agency IRNA, has reported the hijackers burned Costa with cigarettes in an effort to get him to say he worked for the CIA.

The hijacking ended when Iran's news agency announced Iranian security men overpowered the four hijackers and freed their last seven captives - two Americans, the British pilot and four Kuwaitis.

However, Kuwaiti newspapers charged the Iranians had cooperated with the hijackers. A man identified as a British expert on terrorism said in an interview with the CBS Evening News that the rescue could have been staged.

The British expert, Michael Yardley, said "shots were fired and yet no one was wounded.'

Smoke used by the rescuers would only "prevent you from seeing what was in there," he said.

Shultz: U.S. must defend itself from terrorists

By R. GREGORY NOKES AP Diplomatic Writer

MILDENHALL, England - Secretary of State George P. Shultz said today that terrorists "seem anxious" to attack Americans and the United States must defend itself, even if it means striking first in some cases.

Speaking to reporters on a flight to Britain, Shultz dismissed arguments that U.S. retaliation risked provoking more terrorism, as well as accidentally hitting innocent people. refueling after fog prevented land-

"They don't seem to need additional excuses to try to hit us," he said. "They seem anxious to do what damage they can.

Shultz was speaking two days after the ending of a six-day hijack of a Kuwaiti airliner during which two American passengers were killed and two others beaten. The plane carrying Shultz on a week-long trip to Western Europe was diverted to Mildenhall, a U.S Air Force base in east England, for ing at Gatwick Airport, 27 miles arms control talks in Geneva. He is south of London.

Shultz planned to fly to Gatwick later today when the fog lifted to meet the British foreign secretary, Sir Geoffrey Howe.

He was due to spend the night at Howe's country estate, Chevening, and leave Wednesday for Brussels, Belgium, to attend a three-day meeting of NATO foreign ministers.

Shultz is expected to confer with the allies in preparation for next month's resumption of U.S.-Soviet to make a brief stop in Frankfurt on Saturday to confer with West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl before returning to Washington.

A senior State Department official said consultations with the allies are very important to the Reagan administration in devising its negotiating strategy.

Texan rescues brother-in-law

HOUSTON (AP) - A 38-year-old Houston salesman who hiked across rugged mountains to rescue his brother-in-law and five others from Iran says he did so because it had "become a matter of necessity.

Rick Seymour, who says he trained with a CIA agent for weeks beforehand, "spent months trying to do it the legal way" before making the dramatic November rescue. We just kept running out of options and this became a matter of necessity," Seymour said. The salesman says his brother in-law, who is Iranian, and the others were all targeted for execution by the Ayatollah Khomeini's henchmen

Six months ago Seymour said his wife, who is Iranian, learned that her brother had been ordered executed for his political beliefs. He had fled to an area in western Iran under the control of Kurdish separatists. The salesman then contacted

Houston Post. "Everything ground to a halt when they learned he was Iranian. And it was one Catch-22 after another with the Turks.

On Monday, State Department officials in Washington said they were not familiar with the request.

"There was no way to do this other than for me to physically go over and get him.

The official spoke only on condition he not be identified. Astronomers

'see' distant planet directly

WASHINGTON (AP) - Astronomers have evidence that an enormous planet is orbiting a faint star trillions of miles from the Earth, a finding that could represent the first planet observed outside of the solar system. The researchers said Monday that this is the first claim of a planet orbiting a nearby star that is supported by direct observational evidence and not indirect measurements. The newly discovered planet orbits a dim star 21 light-years from the Earth, and also represents the first example of a giant variety of planets called "brown dwarfs" previously theorized by scientists, they said. A light-year is the distance light travels in a year at 186,000 miles per second - about six trillion miles. The giant planet is believed to be a huge ball of gases similar to the outer planets of our solar system, but much larger. It is estimated to be 30 to 80 times more massive than Jupiter, the biggest planet in our solar system. The discovery was announced jointly by the University of Arizona. the National Optical Astronomy Observatories (NOAO) and the National Science Foundation, which sponsored the work. Drs. Donald W. McCarthy and Frank J. Low of the University of Arizona, and Dr. Ronald G. Probst of NOAO, said this is the first time a planetary companion to a star actually has been "seen." The scientists said they have electronic images that show the star and planet as distinct objects. McCarthy said in a telephone interview that in the past, the presence of planets around certain stars has been inferred by indirect measures, such as the gravitational wobble of nearby bodies. In the latest research, the astronomers used special techniques to detect infrared light and heat from the planet and separate these readings from those of the nearby star. In a similar development last year, the Infrared Astronomical Satellite scanned the skies at a different infrared wavelengths and detected more than 40 stars that may be orbited by planets or other solid material.

watch was posted for the northern and central Colorado mountains.

Fog rolled over the nation from the upper Mississippi Valley across the lower Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley and much of the Northeast and south to the Carolinas. Light rain was scattered from the upper Ohio Valley to southern New England

Cold air began pushing across northern Montana early today, with temperatures dropping to the teens. Elsewhere around the nation, temperatures remained unseasonably mild.

Today's forecast called for snow over the northern Plains and much of the Rockies, with rain changing to snow at higher elevations across the intermountain region Scattered rain was forecast for New England and the northern and southern Pacific Coast.

Estimates from these models are so rough that they can be used only as a general indication of the seriousness of what might happen, it said

For instance, when the committee put its assumptions into the models, they projected temperature reductions of between 18 degrees (Fahrenheit) and 45 degrees. Temperatures returned to normal levels after about six to 20 weeks, according to these projections.

Although there are enormous uncertainties involved in the calculations, the committee believes that long-term climatic effects with serious implications for the biosphere could occur," the report said.

In April 1983, about 9 percent of the electorate turned out to reject an $11.69 million bond election by a 4-to-1 margin. The measure called for renovating the courthouse. expanding space for the judiciary and building a courthouse addition, including a new jail.

Midland County Commissioner sioners' Court was both legal and well-intentioned in its thwarted plans to raise funds to build the jail.

"The Midland County Commissioners' Court did not attempt any subterfuge in issuing certificates of obligation." Wright said Monday afternoon. "Everything was done in open court.

He noted that the commissioners had "the right to do that (issue the certificates) under the statutes."

"THE PEOPLE had the right to circulate and present petitions," Wright said, "so everything was done ... right, and that is the democratic process.

cdy cdy cir Commissioner C. DeWayne Davis cdy m was not elated over the petition drive.

"No, I'm not pleased," he said. "There was considerable misinformation (circulated by the petition backers)." He alluded to the existing jail's violations of standards set by Texas Commission on Jail Standards and to prospects of a federal judge taking charge of the jail unless com-missioners rectify the violations, which could be equated with civil-rights violations.

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White office budget for 1986-87 is being cut just as much he has asked other state agencies to do, a White aide said after State GOP Chairman George Strake claimed White wanted hefty increases for his office and mansion the next two years.

He said White has requested 43.4 percent more for the mansion and 28.6 percent more for his office.

The budget request for all the governor's office actually is a decrease of 5 percent, or $1.3 million," a spokeswoman said.

Bacteria found in water

HOUSTON (AP) - Hundreds of bottles of water are being withdrawn from the shelves at 170

Kroger grocery stores in Texas and Louisiana because of the possibility some of the water contains fecal coliform bacteria, company officials said.

Mark Lowry, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Health, said Monday that the agency tested 18 one-gallon containers, and that four contained the bacteria - which is not a contaminant, but is used to determine if contamination is present.

In addition to the bacteria, health officials in Galveston found tiny glass or plastic beads in some bottles of the Springdale water.

Congressman arrested

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland has become the 14th member of Congress to be arrested at the South African Embassy, where he was detained for protesting in a restricted area.

Protesters have been demonstrating almost daily at the embassy since Nov. 21, demanding the release of detained political prisoners in South Africa, a toughening of President Reagan's policy and seeking legislation that would limit U.S. business investment in South Africa.

A group of Jewish leaders and 30 marchers pledged allegiance to the anti-apartheid movement outside the embassy Monday.

Leland, D-Houston, was the 14th member of Congress to be detained for protesting in a restricted area. Also arrested was James Farmer founder of the Congress of Racial Equality, and Adam DeBaugh, a local community activist.

Sarpalius wants the drinking age raised from 19 to 21.

Several states have considered happy hour bans under the theory that cheap drinks taverns serve to draw customers immediately after working hours add to the number of drunken drivers.

Fumes kill two infants

WACO, Texas (AP) — After three years of struggling to get their high school diplomas and keep their young family together, a teen-age couple's dream was destroyed when their two infant children died from carbon monoxide fumes from a leaking gas heater.

The bodies of Renaldo Graves, 2, and Robert Graves, 1, were carried out of the family's residence in north Waco on a single stretcher Monday morning. A justice of the peace declared them dead at the scene.

Robert Jones, 19, a bus driver for the Waco school system, and Darla Graves, 18, a senior at Jefferson-Moore High School, were in satisfactory condition at Providence Hospital Monday night, officials said

Jones and Ms. Graves moved into the house about a week ago, his sister, Rosalind Clanton, told the Waco Tribune-Herald. They

Jones' brother, Reginal Jones, and another sister, Sharon Leak, drove to her brother's home about 8:15 a.m. and found Jones stumbling around the residence, incoherent. Ms. Graves was unconscious, they said, and the two children were dead.

Juarez mayor ends hunger strike

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) -Juarez Mayor Francisco Barrio Terrazas was back at work today, having ended a politically motivated hunger strike Monday when more than 60,000 people rallied to his support and signed petitions in protest of alleged electoral fraud.

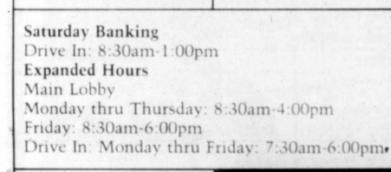

Barrio began his fast Sunday in response to Thursday's voiding of a 1983 Juarez state representative election.

If allowed to stand, the election would have given Barrio's conservative opposition National Action Party, known by its Spanish initials as PAN, a crucial one-third voting block in the 14-member House of Representatives.

Although five PAN state representative candidates were declared winners in July 1983, the state government allowed only four of five PAN candidates to serve in this year's Chihuahua state legislature.

Immigration idea

New Mexico con- United States is concerned, tempting alternative to the failed attempts to hammer the controversial Simpson-Mazzoli immigration bill through Congress.

Rep. Bill Richardson, a Democrat who heads the U.S. House Hispanic Caucus, has suggested that instead of the Congress merely attempting to fashion a bill that adequately addresses S. concerns over illegal immigration, the problem should be handed to a bilateral commission that could work toward the benefit of both nations.

Richardson's proposal is appealing for a number of reasons, not the least of which is the simple fact that getting the Congress to fashion an acceptable immigration bill of its own accord has proven impossible over a period of years. Of course kicking the immigration problem to a bilateral commission such as the U.S.-Mexican Interparliamentary Group in no way ensures the Congress will pass the proposal for reform that eventually is recommended. It's likely, though, that congressmen would be more willing to vote in favor of a proposal that came from a committee comprised of officials from both nations. That would give the recommendation more credence.

Going to such a committee has another advantage. Where the ing all along.

Another View:

gressman has proposed a immigration definitely is a bilateral problem. Uncle Sam can erect a Great Wall of China along the country's southern border, station Border Patrol officers every 100 yards and continue to launch "alien hunts" in all the major cities - and there would still be an illegal alien problem. Why? Because the United States will not have attempted to address the fundamental reason Mexican nationals enter this country in the first place: Jobs their homeland can't provide.

> Under the Richardson plan conferees could deal with particular concerns such as a "guest worker" program, an economic "free zone" in which joint U.S.-Mexican industries could operate, and sanctions against employers, which would be "very mild" under the caucus plan.

What Richardson is proposing is "a new relationship with Mexico not only to create jobs, but to help control movement over the border." He's also proposing a plan that would take away many of the reasons why various special interest groups helped kill the Simpson-Mazzoli bill.

Richardson's proposal is to deal with the long-debated and much needed immigration reform measure realistically. Maybe that's what has been lack-

It is precisely because Kissinger is held responsible for detente and the SALT agreements that he is anathema to the Heritage Foundation. Yet on page 5 of the mystery document, "Option One" for winning public support of the BMD plan requires "a 'forceful personality' approach featuring activism primarily by one individual of 'star' quality, specifically Henry Kissinger. And even the document's arguments in favor of Kissinger's designation as the foundation's white knight make a certain sense — were it not for the organization's longstanding, undisguised hostility toward the man and all his works.

Kissinger is the primary architect of SALT, but is on record as very skeptical of Soviet behavior and motivation," the document states. "Reportedly, he is eager to find a place in a second Reagan administration.

he new campaign by black politicians against the Republic of South Africa has more to do with radical politics in the United States than with the race relations in a country at the bottom of the African continent.

A majority of Americans, both devolution Charley Reese in Wales is a major concern of mine.

Most of those in the forefront of the attack on South Africa are hypocrites. I say that because these same people, who profess to be concerned about human rights, are silent as stones when human rights are obliterated, as they often are in Africa, by black tyrants.

In all the racial problems of the last 84 years in South Africa, the number of black lives lost is insignificantly small while those who have died under the hands of black tyrants like Idi Amin in just the last 25 years number in the hundreds of thousands. Blacks in South Africa do not vote but blacks in several African countries do not vote or if they do it is for a choice of one. Despite apartheid, blacks in South Africa have one of the higher standards of living on the African continent.

In short, South Africa practices racial segregation but judged by any rational standard is a humane government which is honestly wrestling with a dilemma that is in no way analogous to the racial situation in the United States.

The dilemma is that there are just over 4 million whites and just over 16 million blacks, divided into nine ethnic groupings, most of them polygamous, most of them speaking diverse languages. They are not prepared by education or experience to take over the reins of a complex industrial nation. To suddenly enfranchise 16 million people would mean chaos, economic collapse. bloody tribal wars, and in the end the emergence of tyranny That is exactly what the Soviet Union hopes will occur which is why its agents routinely murder black South Africans who work with white South Africans to find a

Calling on Congress

he administration has revealed its "freeze-plus" budget plan to congressional leaders. Reaction from both parties has been - how shall we put it? - well, restrained. In the words of one Senate aide, "At least they came up with something.

There is widespread agreement on both sides of Capitol Hill that action against the budget deficit is urgently needed. So members, even many Demoeratic members, are reluctant to dismiss the White House proposals out of hand. It's a plan, however, the virtues of which are difficult to discern.

The accent in the administration's plan is on the "plus" rather than on the "freeze." True, some domestic programs are frozen at current nominal levels. But others - notably Social Security - are allowed to grow with inflation and caseloads. Military spending would continue to accelerate. And some programs would disappear altogether. The result is a pattern of spending that would be hard to justify.

How, for example, could anyone support the administration's idea of denying cost-of-living adjustments to the poorest elderly and disabled people in the country while granting them to middle-and upper-income Social Security beneficiaries? And who could conceive of cutfing nutrition aid to needy pregnant women and newborn babies while so many are already denied help?

Is it thinkable that Congress would disband the Legal Services program, which only last year proved so useful in defendg thousands of disabled people gainst the administration's attempts to cut off their means of support? And who could feel comfortable about another assault on welfare aid to mothers and children - which has lagged far behind inflation for the past decade - while the Pentagon has so much money waiting to be spent that it can't unload it fast enough?

EVANS & NOVAK Would it really save money in the long run to eliminate the tiny program that helps welfare mothers find jobs? Or to further reduce other training programs and close down the Jobs Corps - which combat disastrously high unemployment among disadvantaged youths? Does it help the country's future to abandon investment in mass transit, urban redevelopment, sewage control and soil and energy conservation?

As for these so-called black leaders in the United States they are, as I said, hypocrites. I was involved in a small way in the campaign to stop the U.S. from buying coffee from Idi Amin. The Ugandan exiles who spearheaded the effort ran into stiff opposition - from black American politicians and from the Jimmy Carter Administration. Apparently the color of Amin's skin compensated for his atrocities.

peaceful answer

I don't know the answer to South Africa's problems, but I do know that no humane solution will be found by browbeating and economically punishing a government. which for all its faults, has been moving toward a more equitable society

Legitimate problems are often used by political radicals for their own hidden purposes. Certainly no one interested in mere race relations would bomb an integrated South African rugby team. No one truly interested in the welfare of blacks in South Africa would seek to cut off foreign investment and plunge them into economic despair.

Nor can any American claiming to be motivated by a concern for human rights argue for sanctions against South Africa while supporting trade, credit and diplomatic relations with murderous regimes like the Soviet Union. China, Nicaragua, Cuba, and others whose repression of human rights so far exceeds that of South Africa that the government of Pretoria is a saint by comparison.

That's what puzzles me. The aproar over South Africa's apartheid is so outrageously disproportionate to the offense. It is as if the United States decided to ignore cancer and heart disease and devote $20 billion to find a cure for hay fever.

Black politicians who wish to ignore the needs of black Americans can certainly demonstrate against South Africa if that's what turns them on. The Reagan Administration, however, should not be influenced by them to change its policy of constructive engagement. It is a sound policy and in the long run will be good for all the people of South Africa servative Republican senators. including four on the Intelligence Committee in addition to Goldwater, want Durenberger as chairman. They fear his hostility to Reagan's Nicaraguan policy, particularly his contempt for the contra guerrillas fighting the Sandinista government. They suspect that he takes a benign view of Soviet SALT compliance.

The decision to fight his claim as heir apparent came when Durenberger, speaking as though he were already chairman, told the Washington Post Nov. 29 he will oppose all aid for the contras. The conservatives' alternative to him is guite a surprise: Sen. John Chafee.

Overall, Chafee is one of the least conservative Republicans in the Senate and a member of the liberal "Group of Six." But he supports Reagan on Nicaragua and most other national security issues over which the Intelligence Committee exerts extraordinary influence. He might become even more a Reagan loyalist as the just-elected chairman of the Senate Republican Conference and a key lieutenant to his good friend Bob Dole.

The new, uncontested grandee of the Senate has said nothing publicly about how he thinks Durenberger's claim to the chairmanship should be handled. Goldwater bitterly complained to Dole on Dec. 5 about Durenberger's takeover attempt. Dole replied he had given Durenberger no reason to hope for the chairmanship.

But Dole is correctly known as the most skilled cloakroom maneuverer and deal-maker in the Senate. Nobody could be privy to all the arrangements he may have engineered in his unexpected election as Republican leader. Durenberger's obvious self-confidence about becoming chairman has evoked vague suspicion in the Republican cloakroom that he may have some sort of encouragement from Dole. The majority leader's intimates confirmed to us that Durenberger did have a hand in his victory

Durenberger's claim to the chairmanship rests on the "eight-year rule," an often ignored standing order of the Senate that rotates Intelligence Committee members by limiting tenure to eight years. Without the rule. Chafee would be next in line for chairman. With it, he and three conservative senators - Jake Garn of Utah, Richard Lugar of Indiana and Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming - must leave. Next in seniority is Durenberger.

On Sept. 20, Goldwater warned the Senate that the departure of these four Republicans along with four senior Democratic members "would have far-reaching negative consequences" for the Senate and the nation. Goldwater scoffed at the rule's rationale: Rotation would keep the committee from "falling under the spell" of the CIA.

Goldwater is not alone in his criticism of the rule. Lugar, incoming Foreign Relations Committee chairman, wrote him last June that it would be "irresponsible ... to jeopardize the committee's ability to analyze intelligence issues from a historical perspective by such a rapid turnover" of membership.

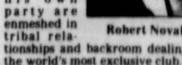

Democrats on the committee would like to strip it of conservative Republicans. Most of them support the rule, but without much passion. Nevertheless, conservative Republicans are suspicious of Durenberger and Cohen, who would head the powerful subcommittee that oversees the super-secret CIA budget if Durenberger becomes chairman. They worry about Durenberger and Cohen lining up Democratic votes in case they have to defend the eightyear rule on the floor of the Senate. But in fact, Dole's decision will be crucial. If he backs the rule, it will stay; if he wants it changed, it will be changed. What he does will thus reveal not only whether Ronald Reagan starts his second term with a damagingly hostile Senate Intelligence Committee. It will disclose how far Dole may go in fashioning the Senate into a body more inde-pendent of the White House than it ever was under Howard Baker.

WASHINGTON (AP) - After joining the chorus of protest against South Africa's racial policies, President Reagan is now being chal-lenged by a leader of anti-apartheid demonstrations to match his words with deeds.

'Condemnation means little unless it is followed by action," Randall Robinson, founder of the "Free South Africa Movement" said Monday after Reagan urged "the government and the people of South Africa to move toward a more just society."

The president's comments came as protesters began a third week of non-violent demonstrations outside the South African Embassy here, and at consulates around the coun-

Robinson, executive leader of TransAfrica, a non-profit group that lobbies to influence U.S. Africa policy, responded that Reagan has not taken specific steps to pressure South Africa's white supremacist government to restore political and social rights to the country's 22 mil-

Proclaiming Dec. 15 International Human Rights Day, Reagan called for a halt to the forced removal of blacks from their communities and the lengthy detention of black leaders without trial.

Protester calls for action on U.S. Africa policies

Reagan's statement came three days after his meeting with Nobel Peace Prize winner Desmond Tutu, South Africa's black Anglican bishop who opposes apartheid. Dur-ing that encounter, the president reaffirmed his policy of working for change in South Africa through lowkey negotiation instead of punitive measures like sanctions.

A senior administration official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said Reagan's latest remarks were sparked by a recent increase in repression in South Africa and because of the apparent view among Americans that the administration's policy of quiet diplomacy was inadequate.

In Monday's protest, three members of the American Jewish Congress - president Theodore Mann, and senior vice president Theodore Bikel - were arrested and charged with congregating within 500 feet of an embassy, a misdemeanor offense. Also arrested were Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, the 14th member of Congress to be detained for protesting in a restricted area; James Farmer, founder of the Congress of Racial Equality, and a local community activist.

Altogether more than 80 people, including celebrities and labor leaders, have been arrested in protests in cities such as Boston, Seattle and New York.

Protesters want South Africa to release political prisoners and convene a constitutional congress that would recognize the rights of blacks. They are also demanding a revision of the administration's policy and a series of economic sanctions, including a ban on new U.S. investment in South Africa.

American businesses with operations in South Africa generally oppose any type of economic sanc-

Emory in shock After East Carolina firing

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Ed Emory says he "couldn't believe it" when told he had been fired after five years as football coach at East Carolina as players and alumni demanded some explanation for the dismissal.

Emory, whose Pirate team skidded from an 8-3 mark and a Top 20 ranking in 1983 to a 2-9 record in 1984, was fired as head coach at the independent school Monday. Emory said he went into an afternoon meeting with ECU Chancellor John M. Howell and Athletic Director Ken Karr, and 10 minutes later, he was out of a job.

"I didn't get any reasons," said Emory, who had three years left on his contract. "I could live with anything if I knew why and who. If it's better for ECU and somebody can explain it to me, I can live with that. They took the most cherished thing away from me.

The firing also got a bad reception from some ECU football players and members of the Pirate Club, the school's alumni organization.

"Right now, I'm hurt, deeply hurt and real confused," quarterback Ron Jones said. "Here's a man who worked so hard. He would have given his life for success. They didn't tell him why." Center Kevin Samuel called the firing "the biggest mistake they could have ever made here. They just set this program back 10 years ... It's like somebody taking your daddy away from you.

Pirate Club member Seth Jones said he thought alumni "deserve some type of explanation from the administration.

In five years, Emory guided the Pirates to a 26-29 record. He came to Greenville in 1980, succeeding Pat Dye, who went to Wyoming and later took over the head coaching job at Auburn.

"After considering the current status of our football program and contemplating the future of that program, we have decided to make a personnel change in the head football coaching position," Howell said in a prepared statement.

Burial in Miami Cowboys not dead yet, but...

IRVING - The Dallas Cowboys aren't dead yet but their chance for a National Football League playoff spot isn't good.

The Cowboys, hoping to earn an NFL playoff berth for a record 10th consecutive year, crippled themselves with a morale-shattering 30-28 loss to the Washington Redskins on Sunday

Now they've got to whip Miami in the Orange Bowl Monday, after getting some help over the weekend.

In addition to a Dallas win, one of two things must happen:

-The Los Angeles Rams must lose to San Francisco on Friday night, or, --St. Louis must lose to Washington on Sunday and the New York Giants must lose to New Orleans on Saturday

Dallas is 9-6 and tied with the Giants and St. Cardinals for second place in the National Conference Eastern Division behind Washington's 10-The Rams are 10-5 in the NFC West but Dallas has a tiebreaker edge.

With a victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in Washington, the Redskins will have successfully defended their title in the wildest division in the NFL

"It was a big loss for us because we were going for the playoffs," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "Now we don't know. I'd say our chances are slim.

"This game was probably one of the all-time gut-checks that I've been a part of," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs. "It looked like it was over about 10 different times.

The Redskins trailed 21-6 at halftime with Dallas quarterback Danny White throwing three touchdown passes.

'When we were down 21-6, a lot of teams would have said it was over, especially against Dallas,' Gibbs said. "It was a great game, an all-time game.

Cornerback Darrell Green, who had been beaten on two first half touchdown passes by White, returned a third period interception 32 yards for a touchdown to rally the Redskins.

White threw touchdown passes of six yards to Doug Donley, two yards to Doug Cosbie, and 60 yards to Mike Renfro.

"I was at a low peak after Renfro's touch-down," Green said. "But I kept the faith."

Raiders whip Detroit, 24-3

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - Just when the rest of the National Football League thought it was safe to venture into the street, the Los Angeles Raiders came swaggering back to town wearing their playoff faces.

The defending Super Bowl champions used an awesome defense, led by Bill Pickel, and big offensive plays — a Raider trademark — by Marc Wilson, Cle Montgomery and Jim Plunkett to crush the Detroit Lions 24-3 Monday night.

The Raiders, given up for dead after losing some key players through injuries and dropping three straight games last month, now are riding a four-game winning streak and their 11-4 record in the AFC West assures them a wildcard spot in the playoffs

And, lest you scoff, remember that the Raiders rode a wildcard berth to the championship over Philadelphia in Super Bowl XV.

Pickel, who had 31/2 of the Raiders' eight sacks, led a defense that shut the Lions down at every turn. Detroit finished with only 10 first downs, 257 total yards and had two passes intercepted.

Wilson, who completed 11 of 19 for 194 yards with two interceptions before leaving the game with back spasms in the fourth quarter, tossed a 12-yard TD pass to tight end Todd Christensen in the second quarter and had a 72-yard bomb to Dokie Williams that set up a 37-yard Chris Bahr field goal in the third quarter.

'I've never had these (spasms) and I don't know what to expect," wilson said. "It's real tight now.

Bulldogs up mark to 7-4

By BRUCE CASTLEBERRY Sports Writer

After the Midland High Bulldogs had finished their routing of the Brownfield boy's varsity basketball team 82-53, even Bulldog coach Jack Stephenson admitted that the game was merely a tune-up.

MHS is now 7-4 after whipping the Cubs, but Stephenson and his young Dogs can now divert their attention to the important business at hand: this weekend's trip to San Antonio for a berth in the annual Optimist Classic. Each year 32 of Texas' best compete, and a year ago a team that didn't win the Optimist was in the state semifinals.

"The other night we played well against El Paso Parkland," said Stephenson of Saturday's 84-66 win for fifth place in Snyder's Canyon Reef tournament. "We were just trying to keep that going and take another step towards San Antonio."

Against Brownfield, the 'Dogs had won twice as many games as all of last year.

Brownfield is now 44. They could be even better if they had about four more Joel Ross types. Ross, a 6-4 center for the Cubs, had most of the limited Brownfield success and was the only visiting player that could hold his own against MHS' inside force, Darrell Davis.

Davis scored 18 points, but didn't see much action after the third period blitz nailed the lid on the decision. Ross went virtually the whole way for Brownfield, scoring 19 points, grabbing a scad of rebounds and looking like an All-District performer.

By the time the fourth quarter opened, Stephenson had long since gotten to the farthest corner of his bench. Even the team managers could have played in this one.

Those guys come out and practice and work hard every day just like the starters do," said Stephenson of his alternates who played so many minutes more than usual. Their half-court defense was better than our starter's.'

Ironically, it was an injury to Plunkett that gave Wilson a chance to start in the first place. Plunkett, who hit 3 of 4 for 102 yards - most of it on a 73-yard TD strike to Marcus Allen late in the fourth quarter - was seeing his first action since suffering pulled abdominal muscles Oct. 7.

One of Plunkett's passes also went to Cliff Branch who hung on for his only catch of the game, but it was the 500th of his career.

It was Montgomery's 69-yard punt return early in the fourth quarter, however, that turned the game around. Montgomery was given the return job only two weeks ago when Flores became frustrated with Greg Pruitt's repeated fumbles.

The roof, the Raiders' Howie Long, is about to fall in on Detroit guarterback

Gary Danielson in an NFL game at Pontiac's Silverdome. Raiders won 24-3.

Eagles ready to move to Phoenix after season

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - The Philadelphia Eagles are ready to move to Phoenix shortly after the end of the National Football League season, according to a published report.

The Arizona Republic reported today that five sources verified information pointing to the transfer. including the fact that the Arizona Board of Regents has tentatively approved the use of Sun Devil Stadium in suburban Tempe as an interim home for the Eagles until a domed stadium can be built in 1988. Other sources told the Republic that the Arizona Bank is in the process of making financial arrangement preparatory to the shift and lawyers for both sides have been alerted for a legal battle with both the city of Philadelphia and the rival United States Football League.

The Arizona Outlaws also use 70,021-seat Sun Devil Stadium on the Arizona State University campus and club President Bill Tatham Jr. said last week that "we will fight for the territory with anyone. NFL sources told the Republic that the Eagles' lease on Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia is not ironclad through 1991 as thought and could end in two years if options are not exercised.

The newspaper reported that the franchise shift would include the selling of a 25-percent interest in the Eagles to James Monahan - a real estate developer from Canada who is a part-time Phoenix resident.

Eagles' owner Leonard Tose reportedly is $40 million in debt and he was here last month negotiating to sell a minority interest to Canadian investors, the newspaper said. Tose has adamantly denied the franchise shift before, but could not immediately be reached for comment on the story. Philadelphia, currently 6-8-1, wraps up its 1984 season Sunday afternoon in Atlanta.

to work a little bit in the first period to establish themselves, then coasted to a 38-22 halftime lead.

BUT THE game was led throughout by MHS, and the Bulldogs hit the floor in the third period going for the kill.

By the time the MHS onslaught slowed, they had run off a 21-4 spurt and turned the game into a yawner.

What happened was we just wore them down with all our kids," Stephenson said. "If you had seen their program a year ago, you'd know why I'm impressed. They're not bad.

Brownfield was no match for the Bulldogs, but the class 3A Panhandle school is obviously improved under first-year coach Ron Holmes. Holmes coached for a few years in the Midland school district, and is rebuilding a squad that had hit bottom.

They were 13-84 the last three years," said Holmes. "We've already

FOR THE game, MHS shot only 44 percent (34-77), and were less impressive from the line on 14-26 shooting. But the Dog defense was too tough and MHS' speed and muscle contributed to the rout.

Fred Martin must be smiling

It wasn't the $48 million originally bandied about, but $10 million isn't bad and, besides, as Bruce points out, he'll get to see Dale Murphy play every day.

When Bruce Sutter was pitching for the Midland Cubs back in 1974 and 1975, how many would have predicted that he would be the future Cy Young winner and the one that would hit the financial jackpot in the big leagues?

Sutter signed with the Atlanta Braves over the weekend for the princely sum of $10 million with Atlanta. For the terms of the contract, the delayed payoffs, annuni-ties, and all the other complicated diversions and tax-deductible features, it would take a lawyer to make it clear.

All I know, is that there goes the off-season job at the print shop back in Lancaster, Pa. Surely, Sutter would turn that over to somebody else. Shucks, he doesn't need it for a post-career occupation. He's set for life. In his after-baseball days, Bruce probably spend his time hunt-fishing, traveling around the will world and, most of all, counting his

I wonder how much his agent is getting

FRED MARTIN'S sides must be aching from laughter ... over the reliefer with the Atlanta Braves and irony of it all ... wherever Fred may be in the Great Beyond.

It was Martin, a roving pitching coach for the Chicago Cubs, who found Sutter in the low minors, Key West or Pompano, I think, ready to give it all up and get serious about that print shop job.

He'd lost his fast ball and the only place he appeared headed for was an early shower.

Martin stepped in and showed Sut-ter how to throw the split-finger fast ball. Bruce became a relief pitcher and in 1975 notched 13 saves as the Midland Cubs made up 16 games in the last half of the season to win the pennant.

The kid showed promise, but the star of the staff was Donnie Moore, the righthander from Lubbock Monterey, whose 14 wins still stand as a club record.

Behind Moore on the starting fir-ing line were Mike Krukow, Dennis Lamp, and lefthander Bernie Beckman for a higher league after com-piling a 9-2 record and when Beckman left, Steve Hamrick came along to take up the slack with a 7-2 rec-

Moore eventually became a may be headed elsewhere in a trade now that the Braves have Sutter. Krukow and Lamp are successful major league pitchers, Krukow for the Giants and Lamp for Toronto. Beckman, last we heard, was a coach in the Toronto organization and Hamrick retired from the game and lives in Midland.

THE OUTSPOKEN Martin was fired on the eve of the Cubs' pennant clincher in El Paso. When Sutter made it to the majors, he reserved the right to call in Martin to straighten him out whenever he was experiencing difficulties getting people out Later, Mike Roarke took over that chore. Mike, who also was a pitching coach for the Cubs' minor leaguers, knew all the telltale signs when Sutter encountered problems.

In fact, last season, St. Louis hired Roarke as pitching coach just so he would be handy for Sutter. Now, I wonder if he will follow Sutter to Atlanta

BUT THE irony stretches back to Martin's days as a pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, those good teams of the 1940s when the Redbirds had more good young arms than any team in baseball.

But nobody ever got rich playing for the skinflint Cards and pennypinching Sam Breadon or, for that matter, any other team in baseball. Dizzy Dean is the classic illustration of what players in those days were up against. Dean won 30 games one year and became a holdout when the Cardinals expressed reluctance to increase his $17,000 a year salary in the 1930s.

Then, after the War, along came the Pasqual brothers in Mexico, waving big bucks at major leaguers to play South of the Border. Martin was one of those who jumped, and immediately was banned for life. which turned out to be a couple of years. He came back to pitch for the 'ardinals later after those promised big bucks in Mexico failed to materialíze.

He returned to the majors to pitch for peanuts and was grateful for the chance

And now one of his prize pupils has broken the bank. Somewhere, somehow Fred must know.

Clemson death

to go to grand jury

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) - Prosecutors say information uncovered by a Clemson University and State Law Enforcement Division probe into the death of a cross country runner will be presented to a grand jury.

Clemson track coach Stan Narewski and women's coach Sam Colson were suspended without pay Saturday pending the outcome of the investigation into the death of Stijn Jaspers, 23, who died of heart failure Oct. 19 at his university dormitory room.

An analysis of Jaspers' blood showed a non-lethal dose of a prescription pain killer, phenyl butazone. After that disclosure, Clemson officials asked the state to investigate, said SLED spokesman Hugh Munn.

Munn said Jaspers, who was from Aerdenhout, the Netherlands, did not have a prescription for the drug. Clemson President Bill Atchley has said the investigation involves "the alleged dispensing of prescription medications to some student athletes in the track program."

Narewski would not comment and drug was given to his son.

Rams' Dickerson still not convinced

By KEN PETERS

AP Sports Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Eric Dickerson of the Los Angeles Rams, the most prolific single-season rusher in National Football League history, is not yet ready to place his name among the game's all-time greats.

"I'm not going to say I'm the caliber of a Jim Brown or an O.J. (Simpson), because I could come back next year and have a terrible season," said Dickerson, who lifted his 1984 ground-gaining total to 2,007 yards Sunday, breaking the mark of 2,003 set by Simpson with the Buffalo Bills in 1973.

Dickerson pointed out that Simpson set the record in 14 games, whereas he did it in the 15th game of a 16-game season.

"I still respect O.J. He's the best," said Dick-erson, "because he did it in 14 and I did it in 15. So there's a difference that people will always bring up. But nobody else has done it since O.J., and I've done it now

Dickerson became superlative in another sense Sunday, when he gained 215 yards on 27 carries against the Houston Oilers.

Dickerson, th 6-foot-3, 218-pound speedster who set an NFL rookie rushing record last year with 1,808 yards, said he and his teammates had planned for him to get the record Friday night, when the Rams play the 49ers at San Francisco in a nationally televised game.

"But we had some big runs (against the Oilers), and the offensive line ... said, 'Let's break it today.' They came to the sidelines and said, 'You just need five yards, just five yards.' So I said, 'Let's get it,' " Dickerson said. He got some added incentive from the Oilers.

"They said the line did most of the blocking and that I was just an average back," Dickerson said. "I wanted to prove them wrong.

They were saying things, dirty things, grabbing my face mask, taking cheap shots. I was getting ticked. I told them, 'It's gonna be rough on you today."

The Rams' offensive linemen, each of whom received a watch from Dickerson after last season, took pride in his record as well.

"In the huddle, before he set the record, we said, 'This one is for you, Eric,' " said guard Dennis Harrah. "And he did it. I'm happy to be here when history was made. It was a great day for all of us.'

Kent Hill, the other guard, said, "When Eric runs, you don't have to make that great of a block.

The 30-year-old Carter, who has played in seven All-Star Games in 10 easons, is believed to be the fourth highest paid player major league baseball with an annual salary of $1.8 million.

Carter figures to bat in the middle of the Mets lineup, surrounded by Hernandez, Foster and Darryl Strawberry. New York probably will use Rafael Santana - who was surprisingly strong at bat and displayed a fine glove - at shortstop, where Brooks was expected to start.

As for the Expos, they felt a need for a center fielder because Andre Dawson no longer can take the strain the position puts on his sore knees. Winningham, who might not be ready for full-time duty next season, figures to be that centerfielder someday.

BUT MORE than a few people feel he should have rested on his laurels

Antuofermo came back Sept. 13 this year at Atlantic City, N.J. He won on a technical decision over Richard Beranek because he was leading on two of the three cards when the fight was stopped after five rounds because of cuts to both fighters. "I didn't get cut by a punch, I got caught by an elbow," said Antuofermo.

Bob Arum, who promoted the fight, said he felt he owed Antuofermo a chance, but felt the former champion shouldn't have come back.

"Every time I lost, I got cut," said Antuofermo, who will make his second fight as a junior middleweight Friday night when he meets Glen Burnett of Providence, R.I. at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y. 'I don't get beat up. I've never been beat up. It's a doctor's job, not a promoter's job to tell a fighter to quit."

Antuofermo's match will be one of five scheduled 10-round bouts on the card, including one involving Howard Davis Jr., the 1976 Olympic featherweight champion, who twice has lost lightweight title bids. Davis will fight Bobby Johnson of Easton, Pa.

Antuofermo won the middleweight title on a 15-round decision over Hugo Corro in 1979, defended it in a 15-round draw against Marvelous Marvin Hagler and lost it on a 15-round decision to Alan Minter in 1980. He was stopped in the eighth round by Minter later that year, then he announced his retirement with a 46-6-2 record after being stopped in the fifth round by Hagler in a second bid to regain the title June 13, 1981.

'He didn't beat me, he butted me," said Antuofermo.

Yanks to shorten outfield fences

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Yankees are shortening the distances to the wall in left-center and center field - the area known as "death valley" in Yankee Stadium in order to build a walkway for fans, and to give the club's righthanded hitters a break

The wall is being brought in by from eight feet in left field to 19 feet in left-center to make room for the walkway.

The existing left-field wall would be shorted from 387 feet to 379 feet, the left-center field wall would come in from 430 feet to 411 feet and the center field wall would be 410 feet from home plate, seven feet

IN RETIREMENT, Antuofermo, who resides at Commack, N.Y., ran a Coca Cola route, something he still only occasionally shorter than last season.

The left field foul pole will remain 312 feet from home plate.

'I don't want to cheapen the park," said owner George Steinbrenner. "But we're not changing the distances that much, and it will allow our fans to walk out there and look at the monuments and the plaques

"It also will make it a little more reasonable than it's been for home runs." he added. "People want to see home runs. It hasn't been fair to our right-handed hitters.

'But the main reason is to let people go out there and see the monuments.

Motta's remarks in published accounts today came in the wake of weekend revelations that Utah's John Drew and Houston's John Lucas, two players with past drug problems, have been forced out of the NBA because of a recurrence.

HE MADE his points in his weekly column that appeared today in The Dallas Morning News and in an interview with the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

'Under the agreement between the players association and the league, the only way a player can get help is to voluntarily come forward and admit he has a problem. A team cannot spot check its players and then confront the players with the results.

The best deterrent to doing wrong, Motta said, is fear - "fear of being caught, fear of embarrassment to self and family, fear of losing the lifestyle. The only way we can instill this fear is to have acrossthe-board spot checks of entire teams, including players, trainers and coaches," Motta said. He suggested the testing be put in the hands of an independent group, periodically and without warning. If a test comes up positive, the league's program of education and rehabilitation should take over, he added.

A subconscious trap has been set for NBA players and coaches because "we have a lot of money, too much free time, and we're overexposed," Motta said.

Scratchpad-Naslund NHL's Player of Week

From Wire Reports

HOCKEY-Montreal wing Mats Naslund scored seven goals, including two game-winners, and added three assists for 10 points in four games to edge center Mike Bullard of the Pittsburgh Penguins for the NHL Player of the Week for the period ending Dec. 9. Naslund scored at least one goal in each of Montreal's four games last week and has at least one point in the last nine contests.

Luke Johnsos, former Chi Bear great, dies

CHICAGO (AP) - Luke A. Johnsos, a legend as a player and coach with the Chicago Bears, who won six National Football League titles during his years with the team, is dead at age 79.

Johnsos died Monday in Evanston Hospital.

'He was a great coach with an uncanny ability to work in the press box calling down scoring plays," said Ed McCaskey, chairman of the board of the Bears. "He perfected that art and could note enemies' weaknesses."

Johnsos started as a split end with the Bears in 1928. He became an assistant coach in 1938 and during World War II was co-head coach with Heartly "Hunk" Anderson and Paddy Driscoll for four seasons while owner-coach George Halas served in the Navy.

The triumverate led the team to a NFL League championship in 1943. Johnsos was an assistant to Halas for the 1963 championship season.

"Luke was my coach when I played with the Bears." said Coach Mike Ditka, who played on the 1963 team. "He was good and very thorough because he played the game, and in his day he was a pretty darn good receiver.

Johnsos was the Bears' top receiver in 1932 with 24 catches, 321 yards and two touchdowns. He was again the team's most valuable receiver in

"He was one of the best ends in the league and a great pass receiver," said Harold "Red" Grange, a longtime friend who coached and played half-back for the Bears with Johnsos.

QUESTION: Last month, Columbia completed a football season in which it lost all its games for only the second time in its history, the other year being 1943. Have any other teams in the Ivy League gone through the same thing?

ANSWER: Since 1900, only two other colleges among the eight league members have managed to be so inept: the University of Pennsylvania in 1954, 1955 and 1979, and Brown in 1961 and 1971, all with 0-9 records. Cornell, in 1935, managed a tie along with six defeats in its seven games.

Within the league, which was formally organized for the 1956 season, Brown has gone without a victory in its seven Ivy games in five seasons, Columbia has been 0-7 four times, Penn twice and Yale (1958), Princeton (1973) and Cornell (1975) once apiece. Only Harvard and Dartmouth have played all 29 Ivy League seasons with at least one victory each year.

Q: When Columbia won the Rose Bowl 50 years ago, the Lions beat a Stanford team whose outstanding player that game was Bobby Grayson, the fullback. How good a career did Grayson have at Stanford and which teams did he play for as a pro?

A: Grayson played three seasons for Stanford, 1933-35, and he was selected for several all-America teams in 1934 as a junior and was a unanimous all-American as a senior. During his time at Stanford, the school had a 25-4-2 overall record and went to the Rose Bowl all three years. Stanford lost to Columbia in the 1934 game, 7-0, although Grayson rushed for 152 yards on a drenched field; lost to Alabama, with Don Hutson and Paul "Bear" Bryant, 29-13, in 1935; and beat Southern Methodist, 7-0, in 1936.

For his career, Grayson rushed 486 times for 2,108 yards and 18 touchdowns, but perhaps his greatest game came as a pass defender in a 24-0 victory over Washington in 1934. Grayson intercepted four passes, still a school record, and returned two for touchdowns.

Grayson was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in the first round in 1936, then sold to the New York Giants for $25,000, but he never played pro ball after being offered $5,000 in salary. Instead, he went to law school and became an assistant under his former coach at Stanford. C.E. "Tiny" Thornhill. Grayson was elected to the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame in 1955 and died in 1981.

Q: During a 2d-down-and-9 situation on his team's 31-yard line, a pro quarterback barely overthrows his wide receiver on a quick sideline pattern at his 40. However, the receiver, sensing he cannot catch the ball without landing out of bounds, jumps and slaps the ball to one of his teammates, who makes the catch on the 42 and is tackled immediately. Assuming the teammate was an eligible receiver, is this a first down?

A: Since the pass has been touched by a player, it makes no difference if the eventual receiver is eligible or not, but it does make a difference that the ball was batted forward and not backward. By batting it forward, the wide receiver has subjected his team to a 10-yard penalty from the line of scrimmage without loss of down, bringing up a second-and-19 situation from the 21. A ball slapped backward in this situation would be a legal catch and could be advanced upfield. Such a backward slap play on a pass headed out of bounds beyond the end zone line is illegal, however, because no batting is permitted by an offensive player in the end zone unless he is seeking to prevent an interception by the defense.

Q: Has a relief pitcher ever led the league in strikeouts for a season?

A: No reliever has even finished among the top five. The best strikeout total for a relief pitcher in a season was achieved by Dick Radatz of the Boston Red Sox in 1964, when he struck out 181 batters in 157 innings covering 79 relief appearances. The American League leader that season was Al Downing of the Yankees, with 217 in 244 innings. In the National League, the high belongs to Rich Gossage for striking out 151 in 133 innings for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1977. That still left him 111 strikeouts behind the league leader, Phil Niekro of Atlanta, who struck out 262 in 330 innings.

Q: Have the outstanding relief pitchers, Dan Quisenberry and Bruce Sutter, ever started a game

Quarterback wanted,

but it's kinda risky

in the major leagues? A: All of Quisenberry's 360 appearances in the major leagues, covering 635 innings, have been in relief as have all of Sutter's 549 appearances over 888 innings. The last time Quisenberry started a game he also completed it - for the Kansas City Royals' Class A Waterloo team in 1975, his first season in the minor leagues, where his 279 other appearances were in relief. For Sutter, who relieved 114 times in the minors, there were two starts - with Key West of the Florida State League and Midland of the Class AA Texas League, both in 1974.

Cubs, Chisox pay jumps

By MURRAY CHASS N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK - The Yankees and the Mets were among five teams whose average player salaries went down last season, but the Yankees retained their No. 1 spot while the Mets plummeted from 10th to 20th.

While the Mets' 10-place drop was the sharpest, Chicago's two teams had the biggest rise. The White Sox and the Cubs each soared 10 spots, the White Sox from 12th to 2d and the Cubs from 14th to 4th. California remained third.

The information came from data compiled by the Players Association as exhibits for salary arbitration.

The average major league salary was $329,406, a 13.9 percent increase over the previous year, marking the smallest rate of increase in the last five years. Previous rates of increase were 26.6 percent, 29.1, 30.1 and 19.8, as the averages went from $113,558 in 1979 to $143,756, $185,651, $241,497 and $289,194.

THE LIST showed the Yankees with an average of $458,544, down 1.1 percent. The reason? Subtract the salaries of such departed players as Rich Gossage, Graig Nettles, Roy Smalley and Shane Rawley, and add those of Don Mattingly, Mike Pagliarulo, Vic Mata, Brian Dayett, Bobby Meacham, Ray Fontenot, Jay Howell, Joe Cowley and Dennis Ras-mussen, each of whom earned

Baseball Salaries

$130,000 or less. Nevertheless, the Yankees had the highest average for the sixth time in the last seven years. The only time in that span they were not first was 1982, when the Angels nudged ahead of them after obtaining Tommy John and his large salary from the Yankees on Aug. 31. In compiling average salaries, the association uses players who are on team rosters on

Aug. 31. The Mets' average dropped 7.6 percent, from $306,253 to $282,952. The addition to the roster of such rookies as Dwight Gooden, Ron Darling and Sid Fernandez, and the subtraction of such veterans as Tom Seaver, Craig Swan and Dave Kingman were the primary reasons.

Conversely, Seaver was a significant reason for the rapid rise in the White Sox average. Seaver, whom the White Sox plucked from the free-agent compensation pool last January, earned $1,066,017 this year, including $241,017 in bonuses for innings pitched and attendance.

Expensive new contracts for two other pitchers, LaMarr Hoyt and Richard Dotson, also helped. Hoyt had a $900,000 salary and Dotson $800,000. However, the White Sox traded Hoyt to San Diego last week, so they won't have his salary weighing on their average for next year.

THE CUBS' average increased for the same reason they soared in the National League East standing: The players they acquired in trades. Rick Sutcliffe gained 16 victories for them, but they also gained his $900,000 salary when they got him from Cleveland. Other newcomers contributing were Gary Matthews, Scott Sanderson, Dennis Ecklersley, George Frazier, Davey Lopes and Ron Hassey. New contracts for Lee Smith and Ryne Sandberg also helped.

Without Sutcliffe, the Indians landed at the bottom of the list, replacing the Minnesota Twins, who had resided there the three previous years. The Indians' average salary plummeted 34 percent, from $242.134 to $159.774, while the Twins climbed to 24th with a whopping 75.6 increase, from $97,980 (the only team under $100,000 in 1983) to $172,024.

THE DETROIT Tigers, winners of the World Series, were 10th, their highest ranking since free agency. They were 17th last season, then their average rose 40.7 percent, from $263,899 to $371,332. On the other hand, the Kansas City Royals, who won the American League West title, dropped from 9th to 18th as their average slid 6.1 percent, from $309,962 to $291,160. Like the Yankees, they had many young players this year.

Dickie Thon sees Winter loop action

SAN JUAN. Puerto Rico (AP) Houston Astros shortstop Dickie Thon, who missed most of the 1984 National League baseball season after being hit in the head by a pitch, will see action for the first time here Thursday with the San Juan Metros of the Winter League.

Thon, 26, suffered damage to an optic nerve when a fastball from then-New York Mets starter Mike Torrez struck him in the temple in the opening series between the two teams at the Astrodome. The injury affected his vision and kept him out of action for the rest of the season.

Ernesto Diaz Gonzalez, owner of the San Juan team, said Monday that Thon's vision was now fully restored and predicted his comeback would be successful.

The Puerto Rican-born shortstop arrived on the island last week, several days sooner than expected. Diaz Gonzalez said he'd be in the starting lineup Thursday night against the Ponce Lions.

Another major league star hoping to make a comeback in Winter League ball this year was less successful.

Lions owner Jose Angel Cangiano announced Monday the team was releasing 1971 Cy Young winner Vida Blue hasn't come to this, but only because professionalism prevents Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka from making a real plea for help.

Throw that attitude out the window and the following would probably show up in the help-wanted section of newspapers around America:

Assuming the advertisement never runs, Ditka will take the same bandaged collection of players he brought to Soldier Field last Sunday against Green Bay to Detroit next week for a regular-season finale against the Lions.

The team then gets one week off before making its first National Football League playoff appearance since the 1979 season.

By then, receiver Dennis McKinnon, All-Pro defensive tackle Dan Hampton, his sidekick Mike Hartenstine and a host of other regulars could be ready for action, Ditka added.

Fuller was recovering nicely from a separated shoulder before he aggravated the injury a week ago against the San Diego Chargers.

The Bears could have simplified their travel plans by beating the Packers and gaining the home-field advantage as NFC champions, but instead surrendered a 20-14 decision that highlighted the club's lack of a real passer.

Running back Walter Payton, who ran for 175 yards and one touchdown and threw an option pass for a second score, briefly tried his hand at quarterback before the end of the first half. But he was only slightly more effective.

Perry Bolger, president Per-mian Basin Petroleum Association, has called upon the membership of that organization to oppose President Reagan's tax reform measures.

"The recent proposals by the Treasury Department concerning repeal of percentage depletion and expensing of intangible drill-ing costs (IDC's) should be of great concern to the members of our association," said Bolger. "This disasterous proposal comes at a time when the independent segment of the industry is already crippled from lower prices and decreased demand. Not only is it detrimental to domestic drilling, but it could also endanger national security and economic prosperity." Bolger said PBPA would join Independent Petroleum Association of America in fighting the simplified tax proposal before it became law.

Said Bolger: "We fully agree that the present tax system needs to be reworked, but we do not think that destroying the domestic independent petroleum indus-try is the way to do it."

Bolger took strong exception to Treasury Secretary Donald Regan's statement that investment money withdrawn from the oil and gas sector would be employed more productively in other industries. "It shows his lack of concern for the importance of the domestic petroleum industry to this nation," Bolger said.

He said that if Regan's comments reflected the administration's attitude toward the domesic independent petroleum industry, the longterm conse-quences to the nation would be severe, since the independent sector drills 90 percent of the wildcat wells in the nation and finds 70 percent of the new reserves.

Dollar mixed

LONDON (AP) - The dollar was mixed in quiet European trading today, selling in a narrow range near Monday's closing levels. Gold bullion prices were also mixed.

Dealers in Frankfurt said trading was sporadic, though overall market sentiment still favored the dollar. "The market wakes up when there is a dollar order, it moves a little and then goes back to sleep," one dealer said.

In Tokyo, where trading ends as Europe's business day begins, the dollar closed at 247.05 Japanese yen, down from 247.50 yen late Monday.

In London, the dollar gained fractionally against the British pound. It cost $1.2035 to buy one pound sterling, slightly cheaper than late Monday's price of $1.2038

Mesa delays start of offer to purchase Phillips' stocks

By The Associated Press

A group led by oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr. said today that unresolved legal disputes have delayed its planned start of a $1.38 billion offer to buy 23 million shares of Phillips Petroleum Co. stock.

The offer is part of a $9.1 billion proposal for the acquisition of Phillips by a partnership made up of Mesa Petroleum Co. and Wagner & Brown. Pickens is chairman of Mesa.

The Mesa Partners group has already purchased 8.9 million shares of Phillips' stock, or nearly 6 percent, for about $383 million. Last week, it announced that it would begin an offer to buy an additional 23 million shares at $60 a share in an attempt to increase its stake in Phillips to about 21 percent.

The partnership had said it hoped to begin the offer today.

But court action following the announcement of the offer has delayed the start of the offer, the firming its intention to buy Phillips shares once the legal questions are resolved.

Last week, Phillips obtained a temporary order from an Oklahoma court to bar the Mesa Partners from proceeding with the offer. A hearing on that order is scheduled for Friday

But late last week, the Mesa Partners obtained an order from a Delaware court that would bar Phillips from carrying out the Oklahoma cery Court also declared it had jurisdiction in the dispute.

At the same time, however, the Delaware court refused to grant a Mesa Partners' request that Phillips seek the dismissal of its Oklahoma suit, and the Delaware court also allowed Phillips to appeal its ruling.

Canadians begin march out of UAW

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) - The head of the United Auto Workers in Canada says the pullout of his 120,000 member unit from the 1.1 million-member union is an "evolution" that will give Canadians freedom to negotiate their own contracts

The break was announced Monday night after the UAW's 25-member International Executive Board denied a request that the Canadian union be allowed to call strikes, run contract negotiations and appoint officers without answering to the board or to UAW President Owen Bieber

The board said that if it had approved the request by Canadian director Robert White, the Canadians would be operating "without accountability" and could destroy the union.

"After exhausting discussion, the decision was made that we could not accommodate the resolution that was presented by brother White," Bieber said at a news conference.

White said it will take months to sort out the assets and rewrite the UAW constitution to provide for the separation

"Three months from now I will be in this union 34 years, so my roots are strong," White said. "I don't do this lightly, but we are talking about an evolution.

The Canadian branch talked of separation as long ago as the 1950s. Its differences with the U.S. parent grew in 1979 when the Canadians resisted contract concessions to the slumping auto industry.

when White refused to accept the terms of the UAW's new U.S. contract with GM, which put job-security demands ahead of wage and benefit gains. White led his members on a 12-day strike at GM rather than accept a U.S.-style contract. The Canadians came away with guaranteed raises in each of the three years of their contract.

The Americans had received a guaranteed hourly raise in only the first year of their contract, but also gained profit sharing and lump-sum payment provisions the Canadians didn't try to negotiate.

White charged that Bieber set limits on what could be included in the Canadian agreement, underscoring the need for the Canadians to run their own affairs.

White said the separation should not change U.S. auto companies' relationship with the UAW in Canada

PUC drops opposition to Malakoff plant

AUSTIN (AP) - The Public Utility Commission staff has dropped its challenge of Houston Lighting & Power Co.'s plans to build a lignite plant at Malakoff in East Texas.

HL&P announced last week its lignite supplier has agreed to cut the cost of the fuel to be used at the plant scheduled for completion in 1990. The revised contract should save HL&P customers $40 million a year, according to company officials.

"We have achieved our primary objective, which was to reduce costs to the ratepayers," PUC Executive Director Jay Stewart said Monday in announcing the staff decision.

East Texas lawmakers fought the staff inquiry, say-ing cancellation of the project would have a detrimen-tal economic effect on the region. The commission, which had planned to begin its inquiry Wednesday, instead will meet on Dec. 20 to

BUSINESS MIRROR Unexpected tests company's mettle

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) - The unexpected is what tests the mettle of corporate management, and those tests seem to be occurring with regularity and not always with the desired results.

Warren M. Anderson knows this more acutely perhaps than any other chief executive of a major corporation, the lesson having been brought home to his Danbury, Conn., office by a tragedy many thousands of miles away.

Anderson heads Union Carbide Corp., whose plant in Bhopal, India, was the source of a gas leak that killed hundreds of townspeople, leading not only to his personal arrest but the threat of billion-dollar lawsuits.

Handling the unexpected isn't something that managers can train for, since the nature of the unexpected is unknown until it occurs.

Nevertheless, at least one essential is known, judging from its successful application: It is to do everything possible to remove the immediate menace and then to provide the public with all information possible.

That technique was used by James Burke, Johnson & Johnson chairman, when some bottles of his company's Tylenol product were contaminated by poison, leading to several deaths.

So quickly did the company act in removing the product and informing the public that its actions are already considered a classic in management schools. Moreover, the company quickly regained much of its lost market.

Many of the unanticipated challenges to management come simply from growth, since increasingly larger business units can have a potentially devastating impact on environment and the economy

Two decades ago the future of the paper industry was threatened by charges of stream pollution. Managements approached the the problem differently, some challenging the facts, others questioning government's power to intervene.

It was a no-win situation for the challengers, but a win situation for those who complied and cleaned up their act. Studies later showed the latter enjoyed more respect in the stock market and consequently higher stock prices.

Under the older concepts, the primary role of. management was to serve shareholders first, then employees, and finally the community. But the community now has forced its way nearer to being the primary consideration.

A big factor in the transition has been safety, and the public concern with it. In spite of improvements, however, the unexpected challenges to management often emanate from a breakdown in plant and product safety.

For the Manville Corp. the unexpected emanated from the past.

For years it had been a major producer of asbestos, widely used in home and product insulation. Following the discovery that asbestos was capable of inducing cancer, courts suits - real and anticipated - forced the company to seek protection under the bankruptcy laws.

Product security in high-technology companies is a frequent source of management challenges. Ideas and company secrets tend to travel from one company to another, and the consequences can be disastrous if management fails to act.

Counterfeiting of the entire product has cut deeply into sales of some high-tech companies and challenged their managements. And unanticipated cost overruns on large products, such as power plants, have brought down many managers.

An ironic source of the unexpected is growth, with many newly formed companies being so quickly successful they literally run away from 8% 8% their founders' ability to arrange financing and hire good managers. 8% 8% Not only managers, but boards of directors are 15% 15% challenged by the complexity of today's business 20% 20% situations, which require a free flow of information and an understanding of often highly scien-13% 13% tific or financially intricate situations. 19% 191

INVESTOR'S GUIDE 'Book-entry' bonds save time, effort By BILL DOYLE

Q. It has been more than five months since I bought a U.S Treasury bond through my bank and I still haven't received the bond. When I go to the bank and ask about it, they tell me not to worry as this takes time. Should it take this long?

A. Not if you instructed the bank to buy the bond for you, have it registered in your name and delivered. In that case, the bond certificate should have been delivered to you within a week or so certainly no more than a month. It's possible that your bond computer and no bond certificate has been issued.

Unless customers specify otherwise, banks and brokerage firms usually use the book-entry method for Treasury bonds and notes. That saves time, effort and paperwork. It's also safe, because it eliminates the possibility of lost bond certificates.

Since it's clear you want possession of your bond certificate, your bank should "order it out" of book-entry and see that you get it. ...

Q. I purchased a two-year U.S. Treasury note and left it with my bank. When a semiannual interest payment on the note was due that money was not credited to my account. I inquired about this and was told the interest from the note will be put in my account when it is okayed by a big city bank. Am I sup-posed to lose the additional interest that money could earn because of the delayed payment

A. You shouldn't have to. Interest from Treasury securities held for you by your bank should be credited to your account at that bank immediately.

If your Treasury note is in book-entry form, as is most likely the case, the crediting of interest to your account should be automatic. Even if your bank has a larger bank acting as "correspondant" — sort of a go-between — there should be no delay. The transfer of money between banks is handled routinely, by bank wire.

Experts: East Texas field drying out

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Although many East Texans doubt the doomsayers, specialists warn that the argest oil field ever discovered in the continental United States, is drying out. The East Texas oil field is almost 90 percent depleted, said Jim Heath, a Fort Worth geologist.

Of 30,000 wells drilled in the field, more than 19,000 are plugged or abandoned and Heath estimates that those that are left will steadily play out as this century draws to a close.

"The honeymoon is over down there," Heath told The Dallas Morning News, which published an arti-cle on the situation Sunday. When the oil field was discovered, it created a new way of life across East Texas. A region of small, poor farms suddenly blossomed into vitality and prosperity. That some officials can be why some residents are That, some officials say, is why some residents are reluctant to believe the field could play out in the coming years.

The oil remaining in the field still accounts for $3.3 billion of Gregg County's $6.6 billion tax base.

'It's going to be a disaster," said Dan Jones, executive vice president of the East Texas Producers and Royalty Owners Association. "You're talking about a lot of school systems with 80 to 90 percent of their tax revenues based on oil. When you take that oil away, it is going to have to come out of the pockets of the people.

H.E. "Gene" Griffin, mayor of Clarksville, which sits atop the field, said officials will have to replace some of the lost oil revenue with industry.

Experts are not sure how much oil remains in the field, which has produced about 5 billion barrels since the 1930s. Estimates range from 500 million to 1.3 billion barrels

Heath said he expects wells to run out steadily over the next 14 years, but warns that the end could come sooner for those in western and central areas of the field.

Some independent producers have proposed that the production rate in the field be lowered sharply — an idea opposed by major oil companies.

Bank branch to stay in El Paso

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Federal Reserve officials say their El Paso branch will remain where it is instead of being moved to Albuquerque, N.M.

The decision was announced Monday after at least six months of "intensive studying" of a proposal to move the branch north to Albuquerque, said Susan August, a Reserve spokeswoman in Dallas.

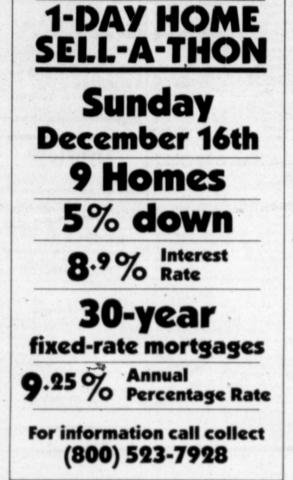

The New Mexico Bankers Association petitioned on March 22 for the move, which would have consolidated New Mexico in the 11th Federal Reserve district, according to Reserve spokesman Art Tribble.

Currently, Tribble said, the southern portion of New Mexico is in the Federal Reserve's 11th district, while the northern half of the state is a part of the 10th district.

The 11th district also includes all of Texas and northern Louisiana, with branches in El Paso, Houston and San Antonio, Ms. August said.

The 10th district encompasses, along with northern New Mexico. Missouri, Oklahoma, Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska.

August said officials would continue to study whether the entire state of New Mexico should be placed in one district.

Ector County refuses to pay for girl's medical bills

Mary Evelyn Mosqueda

By LAWRENCE BUDD Staff Writer

ODESSA — The state's capitol is the next stop for supporters of 5year-old Mary Evelyn Mosqueda, a foster child who received the nation's first liver transplant using Medicaid funds.

Ector County Commissioners Monday denied a claim by its Chil-dren's Services Board that the county was responsible for:

- About $170,000 in medical bills owed to two hospitals where the child already has stayed.

Guaranteeing payment for a needed second transplant. Without this guarantee, Mary Evelyn's name will not be added to a waiting list kept at the University of Minnesota Hospital where the transplants are performed.

Board Chairman Jimmy Edwards said the Attorney General's Office would be contacted about the case in which he claims the county is legally responsible for the medical bills of the 5-year-old, a foster child vince her birth in Odesse since her birth in Odessa.

Ector County jail cited for violations

ODESSA - While Midland on the jail related to an County continues to struggle over the prospect of a new jail, Ector County has been cited by a second state agency for its present facility.

Most of the discussion on the jail related to an inspection made Nov. 1 by the State Purchasing and General Services Commission which noted 30 violations of rules for the handicapped in jails.

The Texas Commission on Jail Standards previously had instructed Ector County to improve conditions at its jail. Some of these changes have been made, but architect Ken Fields told commissioners Monday that work must still be done to bring the facility in line with agency regulations

Fields said he was headed to Austin Tuesday and would return with a more definite report on what the county needed to do and how much the changes would cost. County Judge Jan Fisher and Commissioner Bryan Henderson suggested the architects might be responsible for the handicap features not being added

Burglar turns down plea bargain, gets life in prison

By HALLYE JORDAN Staff Writer

A 33-year-old Odessa man who earlier had turned down an offer of a 40-year sentence for a guilty plea was sentenced Monday to life in prison for the burglary of a Midland residence

Manual Lujan, arrested Sept. 25 with 29-year-old Paul Curtis Gipson after a high-speed chase with Midland police, was sentenced by 142nd State District Court Judge Pat Baskin.

Gipson, also of Odessa, last week accepted a 40-year-sentence in a plea bargain, according to Assistant District Attorney David Rosado.

Lujan, who waived trial by jury and instead went in front of Baskin Friday, had been sentenced to two years for a theft in 1973, five years for forgery in 1974 and 20 years for burglary in 1978, prosecutors said during sentencing arguments.

'I'm compelled to the conclusion that you have not learned from prior punishment or, if you have learned, you have disregarded what you have learned," Baskin said. A burglary conviction for a first-time offender is punishable by five years to life.

There is no foundation for leniency in this case," he said. "The reason life is available for first time offenders is, while the result of a burglary is in one sense a property crime, the inevitable result of a burglary of a habitation over a period of time is violence in folks' homes."

'I'm not surprised (at the sentence)," Rosado, who was assisted by Assistant District Attorney Chuck Roades, said after the trial. "I'm dering prosecution," he argued in satisfied.

Court-appointed defense attorney Ed Shelby, who argued for "a stiff sentence, yes; but a life sentence, no," pointed out there was no "life threat" involved in the burglary.

This is just not the type of crime for which a man ought to be incarcerated for possibly the rest of his life," he said to Baskin

Shelby, assisted by defense attorney Jim Eggleston, argued the state failed to place his client at the scene of the burglary and failed to prove a conspiracy on the part of his client and Gipson.

The revised Texas Penal Code states that an accessory after the fact cannot be tried as a principal in the case, Shelby said.

The most he can be charged with is accessory after the fact, or hin-closing statements.

Because of that, the state had to put Lujan and Gipson together before the burglary and after.' Shelby said later.

Midland police testified Friday they were "flooding" north Midland on special assignment because of a rash of burglaries in that area. Officers were notified of the burglary of the Patsy Hochman residence, 3602 Trinity, and were given a description of a vehicle seen on Trinity by construction workers at the house next to the Hochmans."

When the maroon and white custom-painted Monte Carlo was spotted by police, a chase ensued with speeds in excess of 70 mph. According to police testimony, Lujan was driving when Gipson, who fell or involved in the chase.

Two officers chased Gipson on foot as the suspect jumped fences and ran through backyards before being captured. Jewelry identified by Mrs. Hochman and Virginia Earhart, 2409 Goddard Court, whose house also was burglarized Sept. 25, was found in the yard through which Gipson fled, on the roof of a house and underneath the suspect after he was handcuffed. Lujan, meanwhile, was stopped and arrested by Sgt. Jeff Haile, who testified he fired five rounds at the vehicle before it finally stopped. No jewelry or weapons were found on Lujan or in the car.

The case was found on the guiltinnocent phase," Shelby said after the trial. "There was the question of was hit by an unmarked unit is the jury on that. And there was the question of was the evewitness' identification believable. Once that was believable, the rest of the case just fell in place."

A construction worker testified Friday that he saw Lujan and another man he could not identify in the backyard of the Hochman residence prior to the burglary.

The trial was much more fair here than it would have been before a jury," Shelby said, adding, "Flight always has a tendency to show motive and intent.

'The 'Miami Vice' chase scenes would have really been confusing to a jury. Practically all of the Midland city police were involved in it,' Shelby said. "The judge was able to distinguish between true culpability

MISD to change policies

By JULIE HILLRICHS Staff Writer

Midland Independent School Dis-trict Board of Trustees today are expected to consider proposed revisions in the district's student discipline policy during a regularly scheduled meeting.

Discipline programs in all Texas school districts were to change to conform with the dictates of House Bill 72

MISD, however, has been following the law since the beginning of the school year without formally changing policy, according to Becky Ferguson, communications coordina-

Proposed revisions include: Pupil punishment.

The assignment of pupils to the Alternative Education Center.

The assignment of students to unsupervised educational settings and the expulsion of pupils. — Prohibiting the possession of, use of, sale of, distribution of or being under the influence of alcholic beverages or a controlled drug substance.

Under the proposal, each principal will establish regulations necessary to manage students at the individual schools. Students whose behavior is inappropriate would be subject to disciplinary action.

The proposal also specifies that after other reasonable punishment proves ineffective, an administrator may assign a secondary student to a supervised educational setting in the Alternative Education Center or place students at all grade levels in an unsupervised educational setting off campus for not more than five days. Previously, MISD suspended students for as many as 10 days.

Alternative education can mean transfer to another campus, "longterm unsupervised home-based instruction" or placement in a juve-nile detention facility. A series of hearings and appeals are available to the student and parents, according to Mrs. Ferguson, communications coordinator

The difference between suspension and alternative education or unsupervised education is that the student would not receive an unexcused absence, she said.

Instead, the student would continue coursework during the time he or she is not present in the normal classroom environment.

Students may be expelled for the rest of the semester (no provision allows expulsion for the remainder of the school year) when:

A student has "assaulted a teacher or other individuals on school property.

A student "misbehaves to the extent that keeping the pupil in school would seriously impair the ability of the schools to provide education to other pupils." The district also is required to follow specific guidelines in declaring that the student is incorrigible before removing the student from his or her regular classroom environment (except under emergency provisions.)

Ector County school trustees reconsider two-year-old plan

By JULIE HILLRICHS

Staff Writer

A task force plan to gather information pertaining to the future needs of the Ector County Independent School District was discussed today during a regularly scheduled meeting of the ECISD Board of Trustees

The task force, created in September 1981, presented a final report to trustees in December

The report and its projections, however, were based largely on trends emerging in a boom economy, according to trustees.

Since the slowdown in economic growth, board members determined the need to compare the actual data and projections of the past two years and study the feasibility of the suggestions in the earlier report

Other factors such as House Bill 72 and Texas Administrative Code Chapter 75, also emerged that impact plant utilization and space require-ments," board members determined. According to the plan, the task force will pre-pare a detailed report for consideration by the Board of Trustees in May 1985. The following objectives will be addressed in the report:

To collect, analyze and incorporate current data into existing information and reports relative to student population.

This information will update the projected student population by district and by campus and will focus on identifying alternatives to relieve overcrowding at specific schools. It also will des-ignate attendance areas for possible new school sites

-To consider the potential impact of student opulation growth arising from existing and proposed housing developments.

Task force members will review information from housing developers and other sources to define the scope of growth in the community.

-To consider facility requirements.

The task force will analyze data generated by additional subcommittees and incorporate the requirements of HB 72 and TAC Chapter 75 along with the desegregation order into immediate and future construction recommendations. To be included among the construction recommenda-tions are renovations, modifications, additions as well as new plant facilities.

Lone Star Brass concert combines past, present

By GEORGIA TEMPLE

Past and present blended together Sunday when the Lone Star Brass Quintet played selections ranging from Samuel Scheidt's Canzona Bergamasca, circa 1621, to Morley Calvert's Suite from the "Monteragian Hills." The occasion was the Quintet's opening con-cert of the season at Memorial Christian Church.

The program, which was finished in an hour, also included works by Ludwig Mauer, Victor Ewald and Claude Debussy. It was such a pleasure to hear a musical performance in a hall with proper acoustics. Between numbers one of the Quintet members would give some introductory remarks about the author and the work to be performed. The comments Georgia Temple were appreciated, especially as these composers are not as well known as those whose works are most often performed here. The only disappointing aspect of the performance was the low turnout. I'm certain Midland has more than 32 brass music lovers.

A possible explanation for the low turnout might be because four of the Quintet members are new this year. However, the Quintet is sponsored by the Midland-Odessa Symphony & Chorale Association, and Sunday's turnout also indicated that the association failed to adequately publicize the event.

There may be another reason. Apathy. The Quintet has never had the following enjoyed by the Thouvenel String Quartet, which is sponsored by the Midland Symphony & Cho-rale Association. And the Thouvenel has seldom drawn the audience size expected in a community with so many self-admitted classical music lovers.

What is consistent about Thouvenel followers is their loyalty. The same faces can be seen at most, if not all, concerts. And the following has grown each season.

The Lone Star Brass Quintet has not been in existence as long as the Thouvenel and, I hope, when it has, that it also has attracted a loyal group of admirers from which it builds a support base.

It is ironic that in a community where I am always hearing people say, with a resigned sigh, "There's nothing to do in Midland," that when there is an event going on, often too few take the time and energy to go.

This can be particularily true of self-confessed classical music lovers who bemoan, "When it comes to classical music, this area is a sahara. Is there anything going on?" I tell them what's coming up, but I seldom see them there.

The following is a simple and obvious truth but perhaps it needs saying to remind us all. To survive, local groups need support. Support means more than writing a check. It means being there.

For the 80,000-plus Midlanders who were not there, it seems appropriate to introduce the new Quintet members.

-Michael J. Santorelli, trumpet, received his bachelor of music education at Murry State University and his master of music in performance at the University of Louisville.

Before joining the Symphony and the Quintet this year, Santorelli was principal trumpet in the Guadalajara Symphony for three years and has appeared as soloist with orchestras throughout Mexico. He is a private lesson instructor in the Midland Independent School District.

-John R. Chapman, horn, has a bachelor of music education and a master in performance from the University of Louisville. He studied with Jerry Ball at Louisville and Ken Albrecht, principal horn Louisville Orchestra, and played for Barry Tuckwell in master class. Chapman has played with the Louisville Orchestra, the Scottsdale Symphony, the Mesa Symphony, the Kentucky Opera Association and the Louisville Bach Society and has written several arrangements for ensembles including the Quintet. He is principal horn with the Symphony and a private lesson instructor for MISD.

-Robb Belcher, trombone, received his bachelor degree from Ohio Northern University and his master of music in performance degree from the University of Cincinnati. He was co-principal trombone with the Lima Symphony Orchestra, Ohio. He is principal trombone with the Symphony and a private lesson instructor for MISD.

-Pat Crumpley, tuba, received his bachelor degree from the Eastman School of Music where he studied with Cherry Beauregard. While at Eastman, he was substitute tuba for two years in the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra

Femininity is in and androgyny is out - that's the message in the spring collections of designers.

In just six months, styles have swung from man-tailored suits to dresses and sportswear that are allwoman. This change can be attributed, at least in part, to the influence of French couture; the fashions displayed in spring shows last month emphasized feminine lines.

Fashion is usually not this fickle. But, as Bill Blass observed, "The fall season concentrated too heavily on man-tailored looks and oversize shapes. Women want to look beautiful. They shouldn't want to look like men.

Considering all the skin-tight sil-houettes Blass displayed, it appears his customers neither eat nor sit down. His models wiggled down the runway in skirts shirred to resemble Venetian curtains.

'My customers spend too much time keeping fit not to show off their bodies," Blass said.

APPARENTLY, BLASS' women also are ready to bare their knees in evening shorts. And linen shorts with beaded tops also cropped up in less expensive collections by designers like Adri and Alexander Julian.

Blass' most striking designs were daytime suits with long doublebreasted jackets in either red, fuchsia and yellow, and a group of slinky beige, crepe evening gowns with Joan Crawford shoulder pads. These clothes look more like made-to-order designs from Paris than American ready-to-wear.

Carolina Herrera also took her cue from French couture — including the $1,000 price tags. (And that's for a dress.) Her ladylike suits with waist-accentuated jackets and slit skirts come in mint green striped cotton gabardine and butter-colored linen, as well as red, white and blue cotton pique. For the yachting set, Herrera paired the sweaters with long skirts or wide-leg pajama pants. Herrera's make-an-entrance evening dresses (in crepe and silk) featured plunging backs, hip hugging skirts and leg-length, they showed a variety from just above the knee to mid-calf, which is the way most designers skirted the hemline issue. The Nipons showed a preference for prints over solids. Stripes and florals in peach, terra cotta, mint and turquoise were the predominant patterns and colors.

Liz Claiborne decided to show more dresses than in past seasons. Made of easy-care cotton blends, they are available in every color, from white and black to turquoise, red, green and electric blue. As usual, Claiborne color coordinates her dresses with sweaters, skirts, pants and tops.

"I don't think in terms of masculine and feminine," Claiborne said. "I design clothes women will feel comfortable in.

Predictably, there were some designers who went to extremes to make their clothes appear feminine and sexy. Mary McFadden decided to reveal midriffs in her trademark pleated evening wear. Only the skinniest models avoided looking like souffles with their tummies poking out. Who wants to pay $3,000 to look like that?

For a fraction of the price, there are Adri's cotton print tops that call to mind Carmen Miranda. These floral tops were combined with striped skirts - a sign that mix and clash will be around for yet another season

IN CONTRAST to last season's somber navy, gray and brown palette, Adri choose "ultraviolet and infrared" colors in long, bustier dresses, glitzy s'weaters, silk evening shorts and crinkled pants with wide waistbands.

Alexander Julian's collection was the most disappointing. He floundered with his oversize linen shirts and long and boxy multicolored linen skirts, which he accessorized with heavy men's shoes or white tennis shoes and ankle socks. The models looked uneasy in the clothes.

Julian's best designs were white cotton knit dresses and sweaters, but even their impact was undermined by the ankle socks and sneakers.

Giorgio: Beverly Hills shop's 'elite' customers treated with personal touch

By MARYLOUISE OATES Los Angeles Times -

Washington Post News Service

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. - The automatic perfume dispenser over the front door is already pumping out the now-familiar scent of Giorgio, Beverly Hills. The gas-log fire is that the festive shopping season is upon Beverly Hills.

It is a Tuesday morning at 9:30 a.m. A hand-lettered sign tells customers that this morning the doors won't open for another half hour because of a "sales meeting.

The salespeople, more than a dozen, are listening carefully as Gale Hayman, one of Giorgio's nowdivorced co-owners, tells how to sell, explaining again the philosophy of this once teeny specialty store. When you are selling a suit, sell a blouse, sell a necklace, sell the shoes, sell a belt. Sell the Kenneth Jay Lane Spotlight earrings. Show the trimmed potted trees are signaling - customer the fox-trimmed jacket.

And don't forget to spray that new men's cologne.

"Are you afraid to spray it on strange men when they come in?" she asks one salesman, singling him out from the assembled cordon. 'No," he replies. "I spray it on and then rub it in." THE REAL RUB is that, through

OK, the salespeople nod. They won't forget the fur boas. THERE IS, in the $10 million-plus annual business generated in the store, a "very steady clientele." Some customers buy only at Giorgio. ### Shopping for fur coat requires caution

Hearst News Service

Time was when a woman's fur coat was a symbol of her husband's success. Today, it's more likely to be a symbol of her own success.

'It used to be when a man reached a certain status, he bought his wife a mink stole," says Diane Meier, president and owner of Meier Advertising Inc., a New York City public relations agency. "Furs were a status symbol for a certain age group. They just were not in the mainstream of fashion as far as younger women were concerned."

Today, women make up 44 percent of the nation's workforce and many of them are rewarding their self-made success with a fur coat.

Furs are suddenly "in" after being "out" for many years. Meier says the experts attribute the industry's revival to the dramatic growth in the number of working women with discretionary income, changes in merchandising and promotional appeal to a new, younger target group as well as the entry of top designers into the fur industry.

"Furs as fashion really originated with Fendi (the Italian fur designer) in the early '70s, when he created fur fashions," she says. Then along came Maximilian, well-known for the glamorous furs he created for movie stars and countesses. Now he's designing furs for working women with the discretionary income to afford them.

Visit The Islands

If you are buying a fur coat for the first time, Maximilian offers the following dos and don'ts on how to select the best possible fur for you:

- Do collect as much information as possible on the various types of furs available to you from a local furrier, fur association, fashion magazines or the library. Shop your furriers as you would your automobile dealers. Try to find a furrier who has served and pleased friends for vears.

- Do think about your lifestyle and the role you want your new fur to play now and five years down the road.

- Do experience the feel of as many furs as possible. Try them on and look for a comfortable fit at the shoulders, regardless of what you're wearing underneath. The coat should not be uncomfortably heavy to wear.

Do lift the lining and feel the skins. The leather should be soft and supple

Do check to see if the skins are their natural color or have been dyed. Be aware dying is a common practice done in some cases to create rich, beautiful colors, in others to mask the bad natural coloring of the fur.

- Do make sure you love it. You should feel warm and wonderful in your new fur

- Do select the very best of its kind in your price range. Remember, better a great racoon than a poor quality mink Don't fall for bargains unless you're convinced of the fur's quality and workmanship.

- Don't buy a coat that's not clearly labeled. U.S. law requires that each garment be labeled to include information about its country of origin or whether it has been dved.

Patients pay price

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: If you have dentures, skip this column. But if you still have your own teeth and want to keep them, you may be glad vou read it.

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here after work, emotionally drained and physically exhausted, but I must write this letter because so many people need to be educated. I am a dental hygienist who is currently seeing a flock of new patients because two elderly dentists in this community are no longer practicing. (One retired and the other one died.)

These patients had complete faith in their dentists only to come to us and find that it was in vain. They are victims of dentists who did not keep up with current dentistry.

Most of these patients saw their dentist regularly - twice a year for checkups and cleaning — some for 20 to 30 years! They loved their dentists and they can't believe it when they learn that they now have advanced peridontal (gum) disease! They can't understand why they were never told this before. I could tell them, but I don't want to be blackballed in this community should they decide to take legal action. So I will tell Dear Abby, and hope that YOU tell them:

These dentists were trained in an era of dentistry that did not understand peridontal disease, and they haven't learned anything since.

Dentures were something that were expected by most older people in the 1920s through the 1950s.

Today we know that gum disease is a bacterial infection caused by plaque - the same bacteria that cause decay. The plaque hardens into calculus (tartar) if it is not removed. The usual place of calculus formation is at the gum line, and it eventually extends beneath the gum, if not removed. It is beneath the gum that calculus does the most damage, for here it attacks the bone that supports the teeth. The bone slowly "dissolves" itself to get away from the irritating calculus. It takes years before the teeth will loosen and eventually be lost.

More often than not, the patients I see have no calculus visible when looking in their mouths. Their former dentist removed what he could see, but left the calculus under the gums, allowing the disease to continue. He either was unaware that it was there because he failed to keep was there because he failed to keep up with modern dental education, or he was unwilling to change and felt that curing peridontal disease is "modern hogwash." Consequently, the majority of his patients are suffering from advanced gum disease.

Peridontal disease is usually not painful until the final stages. However, there are warning signs. There are several stages - and all are curable until one reaches the most advanced stage.

Only a competent dentist is able to tell you what stage you are in and what treatment is needed. Usually all that is needed in the beginning stages is a thorough cleaning and a good home-care program.

The symptoms to look for are: red and swollen gums; bleeding when one brushes (healthy gums NEVER bleed); a bad taste or odor from the mouth

In the advanced stages, the bleeding stops because the gums have formed a type of scar tissue around the tooth. (If you've had bleeding for years, and then it stops, it doesn't necessarily mean the problem has gone away.)

Abby, I know this is very long, but the public needs to know the whole story. Let me say that not all older dentists are uninformed, but the vast majority have not kept up with the times, and their unsuspecting patients pay a terrible price.

I hope you deem this important enough to print. I'm signing my name if you want to check me out, but I prefer to remain anonymous for obvious reasons. — DENTAL HYGIENIST greatest boon to long marriages since shared custody of children.

Couples have been fighting the cap-left-off-the-toothpaste war since the early 1900s. You'd think in all that time Edison, Kettering or Bell or one of those inventor-geniuses could have come up with a solution to either stop the toothpaste from oozing out or figure out a way to force it back in. They never did.

Actually, leaving the toothpaste without a cap or squeezing it from the middle was never a big problem with me. I'm not one of those hysterical, knit-picking perfectionists who couldn't live with a messy bowl and a little dribble of toothpaste here and there. Those little personal habits just didn't bother me one bit. It's Minnie Mouse stuff that certainly shouldn't threaten a stable marriage.

I only concern myself with the big stuff ... things that are intolerable in a relationship and nothing is ever done about them.

How come no one has ever come up with a towel that bounces? Do you know how many years I've forced open the bathroom door and stumbled my way through wall-towall towels?

And let's talk toilet seat lids. Is it too much to expect that some research could be done on a unisex toilet seat that picks up the sensory body heat of a male or female stumbling around in the dark and either flips up or down?

s lose in the waistband and can't wear until you force it through with a pin or a knitting needle. I could have gotten a law degree with the time I wasted on lost pajama cords.

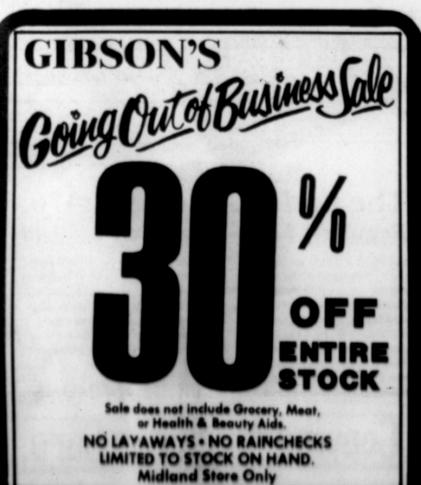

And whose idea was it to come out with razor blades for men that snap into place so your fingers do not touch the blade? I've know more marriages that have faltered since women no longer have access to blades for scraping paint off windows, taking the hems out of things, and opening cardboard boxes than you can imagine.

And how can anyone expect longevity in a marriage where the man pulls out the sheets and blankets at the bottom of the bed that you've tucked in with such care to make the edges look neat?

They say marriages falter due to a lot of little things. I disagree. I think it's a lot of big things like hair on the soap, a car seat that is always backed up to the trunk, a newspaper that has been ravaged and a bathroom glass that smells like creme rinse.

I'm not too excited about the toothpaste pump. After all, I knew he gargled and spat when I married him. I never knew he was insensitive enough to leave the shower spigot on when he finished with it.

Walkout by interns, doctors brings Indian hospital to virtual standstill

BHOPAL, India (AP) - A walkout by 700 interns and apprentice doctors today paralyzed the main city hospital which had been treating hundreds of victims of a poison gas leak that has killed at least 2,000 peo-

The walkout occurred after a Bhopal city council member allegedly assaulted a senior doctor of the 1.000-bed Hamidia Medical College Hospital because a patient suffering from the effects of the gas cloud had been discharged.

Councilman Ashok Bhabha, a member of Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's Congress Party, said the patient was released although the patient was still suffering from side effects of gas poisoning, but he denied assaulting the doctor.

The young doctors threatened to stay off the job indefinitely if the city administration did not apologize for the incident.

Hamidia is a teaching hospital, with many fledgling doctors who are serving apprenticeships following graduation. They live on the premises.

Hospital beds were full and hundreds of patients were being treated in corridors and makeshift clinics under tents. Social organizations set up relief camps nearby, supplying free medicine to victims. Tens of thousands of people were injured last week by the cloud of methyl isocyanate that leaked from a pestiide plant run by the U.S.-based Union Carbide Corp.

Mother Teresa, a 74-year-old Roman Catholic nun who heads the Calcutta-based Missionaries of Charity and who won the 1979 Nobel. Peace Prize, today comforted and prayed for children afflicted by the gas leak and called on victims to forgive those responsible and "try to love each other.

State and city officials said today they will file suits against Union Carbide, alleging that negligence by the corporation caused the disaster. The government of Madhya Pradesh state rejected a Union Carbide offer to contribute more than $1.8 million to a relief fund. The United News of India quoted Arjun Singh, the state's chief minister, as saying that since the state plans to sue Union Carbide, there is "no question of accepting the token gesture."

Officials of India's Central Bureau of Investigation said they had made a preliminary determination that poor safety measures at the Union Carbide plant were responsible for the chemical catastrophe.

At a news conference in Danbury, Conn., on Monday, Union Carbide Chairman Warren M. Anderson said the company doesn't know how the accident occurred, but that officials were "doing their utmost" to find out.

News reports said about 400 victims of the Dec. 3 leak of methyl isocyanate gas sought medical care Monday. About one-third of them previously had sought medical help, but returned because of complications, reports said.

'Most of the doctors believe the symptoms have entered the semiacute stage but the worst is far from over yet. The difference is merely one between fast, immediate death and slow death," the Times of India reported.

Nicaraguan priest says pope, bishops behind his expulsion

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - A priest serving in the Cabinet of the leftist government says Pope John Paul II and Nicaraguan bishops, who oppose his backing of the Nicaraguan revolution, were behind his expulsion from the Jesuit order.

The Rev. Fernando Cardenal said after the expulsion was announced by the Vatican on Monday: "The problem was not so much that we are in our government posts, but that we are with the revolution, and the pope as well as the bishops of Nicaragua wanted us to abandon this revolution.

Three other Roman Catholic priests hold high positions with the Sandinista government, which came to power after a revolution that climaxed in the 1979 overthrow of the rightist Somoza family, which ruled for 42 years.

A papal edict, later made part of Cardenal told a news conference in church law, bars priests from serving in official posts in any government unless authorized by the local bishop, and in the case of a religious order, by his superior-general.

The expulsion order by the Jesuits, or the Society of Jesus, is the latest manifestation of conflicts between the church and the Sandinistas

A Jesuit spokesman, the Rev. Johannes Gerhartz, said at the Vatican that Cardenal had been dismissed from the order on Dec. 4.

The Nicaraguan bishops did not comment publicly Monday on the expulsion.

The pope pressured my superiors for me to resign from my position and then pressured for them to expel me from the Jesuit order.'

Managua.

Cardenal, who joined the Jesuits 32 years ago, said he would continue to live as a priest and keep the priestly vows of celibacy.

Cardenal said he did not believe that God would want him to leave the job.

Those who also pressured me to resign my job of helping the poor were the bishops of Nicaragua, who are against our revolution, a revolution that is in favor of the great majorities," Cardenal said

'I respect the authority of the pope and the bishops, but I believe that in my case the high authorities have made a mistake and because of that I cannot obey them.

Sometimes it is easy to spot a line that will give you additional chances. More often you will have to dig hard to increase your odds. North had extra values, so he had no hesitation about introducing his spade suit freely. When South jump rebid his diamond suit. North began to like his hand. His heart cue-bid agreed to diamonds as trumps and South's cue-bid in spades was all the urging North needed to try for slam.

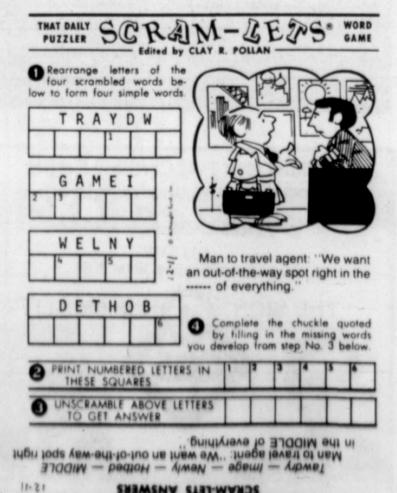

West led the top of his heart sequence and, when dummy came down, it seemed as if the club finesse represented declarer's only legitimate chance for his contract. However, an even money proposition did not thrill our intrepid declarer, and he set about seeing what he could do to improve the dds.

Declarer won the opening lead in ace of spades, noting with interest the fact that East contributed the ten. Declarer overtook his queen of trumps with the king, and the six from West meant dummy's five was now an entry. Another spade was led from the table, and when East followed with the jack, declarer ruffed and the contract became a sure thing.

The four of trumps to the five provided an entry to the table while drawing the last trump. Now declarer led the queen of spades. Had East covered with the king. declarer would have ruffed and used dummy's nine of spades as a parking spot for one of his losers. When East showed out, declarer discarded his losing heart. West won the king and shifted to a club, but it was too late. Declarer rose with the board's ace and shed his remaining club loser on the nine of spades. So declarer lost only a spade trick. We know you guessed it all along.

Singer repaid with a lot of bull

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) -When then-struggling songwriter Willie Nelson borrowed $500 from country singer Faron Young 20 years ago, he promised to pay him back by raising a calf and giving Young the beef.

Young's

covering royalties, but they had "a falling out over a silly little thing" and the deal soured, Patrick's attorney, Robert Prier, said.

Patrick, 1954 Pulitzer Prize winner for the play "Teahouse Of the August Moon," received only a payment of $2,500 representing his share of the original advance for the novel, court documents said.

The case was settled Monday, when it was scheduled to go to trial.

The book, which depicts the kidnapping of a pope, was first published in 1975 under the penname "Michael Shepherd" and reissued in paperback in 1983 under Ludlum's name after he had had 10 years of successful books.

NEW YORK (AP) - Archbishop John J. O'Connor ended the evening one up on quick-tongued New York Mayor Edward I. Koch when he followed the mayor to the podium during a Christmas luncheon.

The mayor told the audience at the Monday night affair, given annually by the archdiocese to honor child-care organizations, that he has enjoyed coming to the event since being elected mayor seven years ago.

When the archbishop spoke, he quipped, "You almost didn't get invited this year.'

The mayor turned slightly red but chuckled heartily at the reference to a dispute over a city rule prohibiting agencies, including those of the church, that do business with the city from discriminating against homosexuals. O'Connor noted that the lawyers for the city and archdiocese 'get very nervous whenever the mayor and I speak in public without their presence: They're afraid we'll settle without them.'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) -Singer Lou Rawls will headline a fit 42 colleges and universities, including Fisk University, which had its heat turned off last year because it had not paid its gas

President Reagan has appointed an advisory board to help Fisk, which is about $1 million in debt.

The 12-hour telethon, which will raise funds for members of the United Negro College Fund, will originate from the Coconut Grove in Hollywood, Calif.

SEVIERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) -Freida Parton, younger sister of entertainer Dolly Parton, says her family was surprised but not upset when they saw her picture in the January edition of Play-

"Daddy just grinned and started looking at the other pictures," said Ms. Parton, a 27-yearold rock 'n' roll singer and the 10th of 12 Parton children.

"Momma said 'Lee, that's enough.' She didn't want daddy looking at them other naked women," said Ms. Parton, who appears in the music video "Oriental Dolls.

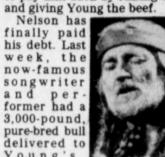

Ms. Parton posed in a dress she said reveals mostly leg and some cleavage.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Actor Charlton Heston will head a committee of prominent artists, patrons and administrators that will plan a nationwide observance of the 20th anniversary next year of the National Endowment for the Arts, the independent federal agency that underwrites cultural projects with tax funds

Heston said in a statement Monday that a highlight of the yearlong "celebration of American arts, its creators, patrons and audiences" around the country will be the award of the first National Medal of Arts by Presi dent Reagan next spring at a Washington gala.

Fairbanks still has that charm

LONDON (AP) - He might be 74 years old, but Douglas Fair-banks Jr., once one of Holly-wood's most prestigious stars, still has that Fairbanks charm.

He's silver-haired and tanned, and recently recalled an era of Hollywood glamor and allure in a lecture at the National Film Theater during a special screening of "The Thief of Baghdad" — the 1924 silent film starring his father, Douglas Fairbanks Sr. "The likes of 'The Thief of Baghdad' had never been seen before or since," Fairbanks said of the Raoul Walsh film whose locations include the Valley of the Monsters, the Cave of the Enchanted Trees and the Citadel of the Moon.

Fairbanks said the film, made for under $2 million, employed 2,000-3,000 extras a day. "If it were made in black-and-white today with the same quality of casting and the same number of workers and sets, it would cost $80 million," he said. The film consolidated the romantic appeal of its bare-chested leading man, though Fairbanks said his father's success was never in doubt.

"My father was one of those

lucky people who began to be successful the day he was born,' said Fairbanks, who grew up surrounded by stardom in "Pickfair" - the Hollywood mansion named in honor of his father and his stepmother, Mary Pickford, the golden-haired silent film star. Fairbanks married Joan Crawford when he was 19 and appeared a year later opposite Greta Garbo in "A Woman of Affairs. Of Miss Crawford, whose dubious child-rearing tactics turned her daughter Christina's book, "Mommie Dearest," into a best seller, Fairbanks said: "I have the happiest memories of her; it's just that we didn't get on, and the marriage didn't last long." They divorced after three years

Fairbanks called Miss Garbo. whose notorious elusiveness is the basis for Sidney Lumet's new film "Garbo Talks," "terribly nice, unlike the legend."

"She was shy then as she still is, but the legend has been built out of proportion," Fairbanks said. "She probably enjoys the legend.

In a film career that included "Loose Ankles," "Stella Dallas," "Gunga Din," "The Dawn Patrol" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," Fairbanks worked with many of the top directors of the day -Henry King, Clarence Brown, King Vidor, John Cromwell.

Pointing out that "directors are often dominated by stars," Fair-banks distinguished between people such as his father, who "bent over backwards to take credit for very little," and others who took credit for everything.

Fairbanks remembered Charlie Chaplin, the great comedian, who frequently visited Pickfair, as "a wonderful friend.

"Chaplin was one of my great encouragers and boosters," he said, admitting that the Fairbanks family name was not always a blessing.

wasn't an option. So, McKeand discreetly asked the minister if they could go ahead with the ceremony at Southport Baptist Church, sans license.

"I thought we could change the words or something. But the

But at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, still no license.

At 9:50 a.m., McKeand received a call. Gohmann would meet him in a hour at the City-County Building.

McKeand rushed downtown in white tux and tails, picked up the license and made it to the church on time.

Answer puzzling

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) - The crossword puzzle clue asked for the state of which Bismarck is the capital. The space had 11 letters. But no matter how you worked it and no matter what the map said, the North of North Dakota just didn't fit.

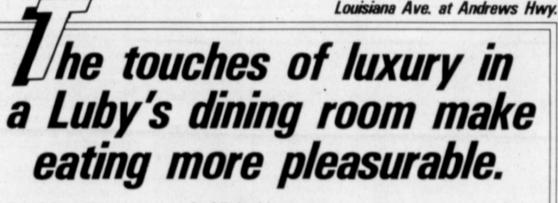

Of all people puzzling over the puzzle in the Dec. 6 Christian Science Monitor, U.S. Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., thought he knew the answer - North Dakota, of course.

"Not so, I found, from the solution appearing on page 61," Burdick said. "The correct answer, according to the (Christian Science) Monitor, is South Dakota.

Puzzled and cross, Burdick fired off a letter to the editor.

"This piracy must stop...I simply wanted the Monitor to know that we are not giving up Bismarck or one square inch of North Dakota soil,' Burdick said in the letter.

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The Rev. Carroll Pickett, who heard the final prayers of four convicted murderers executed in Texas since December 1982, says some of the condemned men confessed their crimes before entering the death chamber.

But Pickett says he won't betray a confidence. "What they've told men in private is totally different from what they said in public," he said.

Pickett, 52, is the only one of 50 chaplains in the Texas Department of Corrections who escorts prisoners to the death chamber.

He said he feels an urgent need to be with the condemned inmates in their last hours.

"I don't believe anyone should die alone," he told the Dallas Times Herald. "I don't ever want to reach the point where I say to a man on Death Row that I'm not going to be there when he dies," he said.

Pickett, who refuses to discuss his personal feelings about the death penalty, described the death watch as an agonizing experience.

"It takes me four days to get back to normal," he said. "Part of it is sleeplessness. Part of it is wondering, 'Have I done all I can do? Is there a better way?'

Five years as a prison chaplain along a towel. have changed his views on crimi- "I wiped nals, however, Pickett said.

"I used to think no one was incorrigible," he said. "I don't believe that anymore. Some people have become so immoral, so anti-social that they're never going to change.'

But Pickett does not carry a weapon and holds services in an unguarded chapel.

"I preach sermons in a chapel where the nearest exit is 250 inmates away," he said. "If they want to get you, they'll get you." In 1974, when Pickett was pastor of a Presbyterian church in Huntsville, two female members of his congregation, who worked in the prison library, were taken hostage by inmates and shot to death.

Pickett said he swore never to step foot into a prison again. He kept that vow until 1980, when prison officials asked him to become a chaplain.

'You can't fight God," he said. "If He wants you somewhere, He'll put you there

During the final hours before exe-cutions at the Walls Unit in downtown Huntsville, Pickett offers the condemned prisoners spirtual and practical advice, arranges telephone and personal visits, and helps the inmates dispose of personal belong-

"I wiped the sweat from his brow," Pickett said. "Autry had been to the death chamber before, and was afraid he'd perspire too much.

Another convicted killer, Charlie Brooks, died while chanting a Muslim benediction, Pickett said. The prayer was described by some observers as a gurgling sound.

"They called it gurgling, but I'll know the Koran and Muslim reli-believe to the day I die that he was praying to God," Pickett said. "I know the koran and Muslim reli-gion, and I know he was saying his prayers." After five years in his job, Pick-said he has no plans to leave. "This is reality" he said. "He

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have been taking a diuretic for three years because I have high blood pressure. My son is a college freshman and now he has developed high blood pressure. Is it possible that he could use the same medication that helped me? - Mrs. V.P., Cumberland, Md.

Dear Mrs. P.: 1 hope you are not considering having your son use your medication without physHANDBAGS FOR CHRISTMAS GIFTS ician supervison. A diuretic may be just what you need, but a physician will have to determine the kind and amount of medication required by your son.

There is some question about whether diuretics are the drug of choice in younger hypertensive peo-ple. Dr. David T. Lowenthal, of Hahnemann University School of Medicine in Philadelphia, reports that diuretic therpay is not effective in adolescents or in young adults.

I suggest you have your son check with the student medical service at the school he attends, or that he see your own physician the next time he is home

Dear Dr. Solomon: There have been lots of reports about how women athletes have trouble becoming pregnant. I would like to know if male athletes have trouble becoming fathers. If nature believes in the equality of the sexes, I imagine this should be the case. - Mr. K.L., Atlanta

Dear Mr. L .: It isn't participation in athletics that may prevent a man from being able to reproduce, but his weight. The results of studies for men who drastically reduced their food intake showed that they had a decline in sperm mobility and longevity. These changes occurred when the man was about 25 percent below his normal weight - that is, for example, a 40-pound weight loss for a 160-pound man.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A cousin of mine has a child who is considered to have a speech disorder. The youngster does not stutter, and I'm not clear what is meant by a speech disorder in this case. Can you explain? - Ms. B.T., Chicago

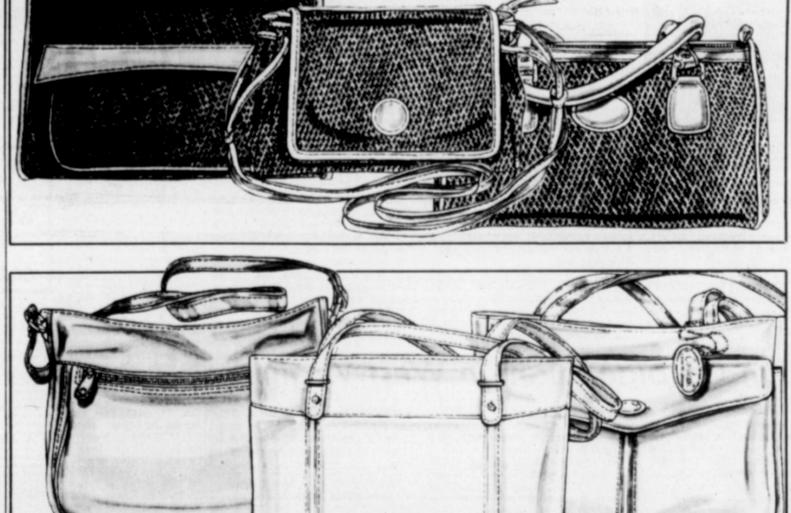

Dear Ms. T .: I'm afraid I'm not very clear either, since you provide very little information. In general, a child may be said to have a speech disorder if the listener pays more attention to how the child speaks than to what the child says.

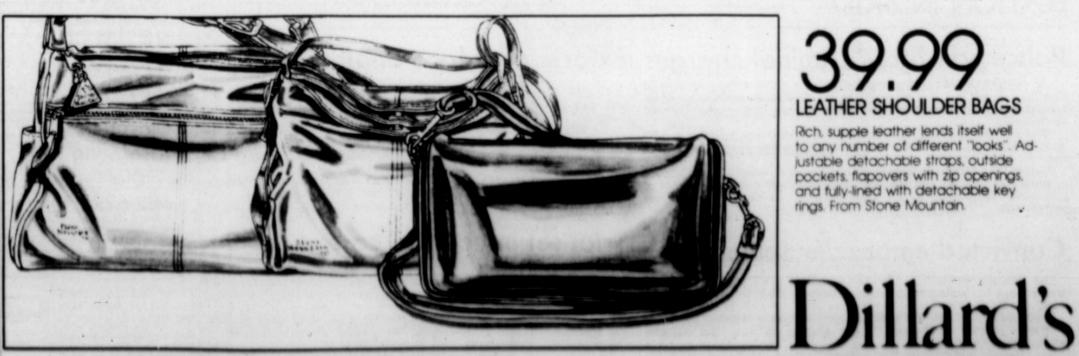

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is it true that if you don't use your eyes too much, you won't get cataracts? Also, if you do happen to get a cataract in one eye, can it spread to the other eye? Glenn, Brookline, Mass

Dear Glenn: Use of the eyes does not affect the development of a cata-ract or, if you already have one, its progression. Furthermore, while cataracts may occur in both eyes, they do not spread from one to the other.

Economic panel may be abolished

WASHINGTON (AP) - Word that President Reagan is thinking of scrapping his Council of Economic Advisers, whose former chairman Martin Feldstein rankled the White House, has prompted howls of protest from economists, including current and former council members.

William Niskanen, the senior member of the panel, said he was 'disturbed to hear" the report Monday that the president was considering abolishing the council as part of a budget-cutting move to save $2.5 million. He said, though, he hadn't been told of any such plan.

Murray Weidenbaum, who was Reagan's first chief economist, described the move as an overreaction to Feldstein's outspoken tenure at the three-member council. "I think they're overlooking the important role an independent voice provides.

Added Herbert Stein, council chairman from 1972-74, "It would be a mistake. I think the council is an asset to the president.

As for Feldstein, who left the job in July to return to teaching at Harvard University, he wasn't at his Cambridge, Mass., office or home and couldn't be reached for comment.

It was widely known that White House aides were disturbed by Feldstein's persistent warnings about the negative effect on the economy of the federal budget deficits. White House spokesman Larry Speakes publicly rebuked him for his views about a year ago, and Treasury Secretary Donald Regan advised a Senate committee to throw out the council's 1984 report, chiefly written by Feldstein.

Since Feldstein's departure, the chairmanship has remained vacant.

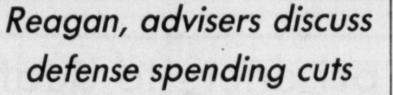

Niskanen has indicated interest in the job and said if he doesn't get it by the end of the year, he'll leave. The other council member, William Poole, is expected to return to Brown University early next year.

Regan is considered the administration's chief spokesman on the economy and a close adviser to the president.

The tiny council, whose members are appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate, was set up under the Employment Act of 1946. and abolishing it would require legislation in Congress.

It wasn't clear how far along the administration plan was.

Reagan, Weinberger and the president's budget advisers discussed military spending Monday and are expected to meet again Wednesday as the president goes over the details of the budget he sends to Congress early next vear

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Weinberger presented his budget requests to Reagan at the luncheon, but Speakes refused to discuss the proposed figures.

One official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said Weinberger went over the Pentagon request for increasing military spending authority from the current $291.1 billion to $324.8 billion in the fiscal year that begins next Oct. 1.

Before the White House meeting, Weinberger was on Capitol Hill

tary Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan was weighing eliminating the panel as part of his cost-cutting drive to reduce the $200 billion federal budget deficit

They're taking a look at it to see if it's absolutely necessary," Fitzwater said.

He said the Treasury and Com merce departments and the Office of Management and Budget, all of weighing proposals to abolish two other agencies, the Washington Post reported today. The newspaper said the targets are the Council on Environmental Quality, whose activities have already been sharply trimmed by the administration, and the Office of Federal Procurement Policy, located within the Office of Management and Budget.

Weidenbaum, now at Washington University in St. Louis, said eliminating the Council of Economic Advisers to cut the budget is "laughable...(There are) thousands of economists on the federal payroll and (only) about a dozen in the CEA.'

Jerry Jordan, who served on the council in 1981 and 1982 before returning to the University of New Mexico, said the panel was an innovation when it was created but that the administration now gets analyses from a variety of government and congressional offices. "The CEA does not have near as unique a role 195 as it once did," he said.

Leaking gas valves 'common,' report says

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) - A 1982 company report said that leaking valves were "fairly common" where methyl isocyanate was handled at a Union Carbide Corp. plant in India that leaked the gas last week and left at least 2,000 people dead.

The reports released Monday revealed that in May 1982, Union Carbide India Ltd. inspectors listed 10 "major" safety problems at the plant in Bhopal.

'All problems uncovered in the except for a problem relating to instrumentation...in a unit of the plant that is different from the methyl isocyanate storage area." said company spokesman Ed Van Den Ameele.

A company spokesman said most of the problems were corrected by June of that year and there was no evidence that previously detected defects caused the gas leak on Dec. 2-3.

Meanwhile, officials in India said Monday that India's Central Bureau of Investigation made a preliminary determination that poor safety measures were responsible for the leak. At a news conference Monday, Union Carbide Chairman Warren M. Anderson said the company doesn't know how the accident occurred, but that officials were "doing their utmost" to find out.

The 1982 report said "leaking valves reportedly have been fairly common" in the methyl isocyanate section of the plant in central India. Inspectors also noted a lack of fire sprinklers and expressed concern about "vapor cloud suppression" in the poisonous gas storage area.

The report also noted high person-

He was asked about reports of gas leaks at the plant in December 1978 and late in 1981 and an accident in December 1981 in which one worker died after inhaling lethal gas. He said the worker died because he failed to follow safety procedures.

Anderson, who returned from India this weekend, expressed "deep sympathy" for the victims and said the company is donating $1.8 million to an emergency victims' fund. But Indian officials have said the government would not accept any Union Carbide contribution.

In addition, Union Carbide and its Indian subsidiary will compensate victims for long-term damages, Anderson said.

Anderson said he could not go in the plant while in India because he was placed under house arrest upon arrival. Members of a technical team have been inside the facility but have reached no conclusions, he said.

Anderson said he was arrested because of "concern over my security
