Woman at home in the air

ROANOKE, Texas (AP) — As a well as men. child, Edna Gardner Whyte had her head in the clouds; as a grown-up, she got her body up there as well.

She is almost 83 years old, a silverhaired woman often dismissed by the unenlightened as someone who does nothing more adventurous than knit booties for her grandchil-

Few people would guess, by looking at her, that she has been flying airplanes since 1926, the year before Charles Lindbergh made his historic flight across the Atlantic in the Spirit of St. Louis.

To her, the sky is almost a permanent address, with the earth a place she visits between jaunts through the heavens.

During her nearly 60 years as a pilot, she has spent almost four years in the air, flown 58 kinds of airplanes ranging from a Monocoupe to a J-5 Taperwing, won 128 trophies and taught almost 5,000 students to do, on a less heroic level, what she has done.

'It's very gratifying to be up there, so high above everything, she said. "There's nothing sadder than when a senior citizen gives up living. If I didn't have any students to teach, my days would be very dull. I'd atrophy. You know what atrophy is? Die.

'She's a pioneer in aviation," said Clarence Page, director of the Air Space Museum in Oklahoma City, which recently inducted her into its hall of fame. "She's won races all over the United States. She's determined to make the public understand that women can fly just as

Infant girl stable after bone-marrow transplant

HOUSTON (AP) — A 6-week-old in this family," Ms. London said. "In 1982, we did a transplant on a cousin of this baby that had this condition." Florida girl who underwent a bone marrow transplant to treat the same disease that afflicted David the Bubble Boy is listed in stable condition at Texas Childrens Hospital, a spokeswoman said.

Agnes Theresa received about two teaspoons of bone marrow from her 6-year-old sister Mary Angela early Tuesday in what doctors called a matched transplant procedure, said hospital spokeswoman Joan London.

The last names of the girls have not been released at the request of the parents, Ms. London said.

Agnes Theresa suffers from severe combined immune deficiency, the same disease that plagued David the Bubble Boy

David, who died Feb. 22 of complications resulting from a bone marrow transplant, was known as the Bubble Boy because he spent more than 12 years confined inside a sterile plastic-walled chamber and was taken out only after he became

Although Agnes Theresa is being kept in a sterile hospital room, Ms. London said no bubble was ever placed around the infant.

Doctors said the matched transplant procedure is considered fairly common and gives Agnes Theresa a better chance of not rejecting the

Reagan's farm proposals may cause rural 'chaos'

AUSTIN (AP) - President Reagan's proposal to slash farm price subsidies over the next four years could cause 10,000 Texas farms to go out of business, a state economist

The Reagan administration has proposed halving subsidy payments to farmers, and that would result in chaos in rural America," said Ronald Knutson of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Knutson, who last week met with Reagan administration officials in Washington, said the president wants to move agriculture in a direction that would make it depend more on market factors and less on government help.

Owners of the 50,000 mediumsized farms in the state would suffer most under the proposal, Knutson

He said 5 percent to 10 percent of those farmers probably would be ruined financially if the Reagan plan is approved by Congress next

"A lot of farmers will be hurt in the process. The unfortunate part of this whole thing is it will end up hurting those farmers that the government program was designed to protect," he said.

Texas has an estimated 190,000

The farm subsidy program pays farmers the difference between the government target price for a crop and the market price for it. The program was created during the

Although subsidies ranged from $3 billion to $5 billion a year during the 1970s, Knutson said the federal government is spending about $10 billion annually on the program in the face of declining farm exports.

The Reagan proposals likely will surprise many Texas farmers, Knutson said, noting that 70 percent to 80 percent of the state's farmers voted for Reagan in this year's election.

"It's a little ironic since farmers voted so heavily for Reagan. On the other hand, he ran on a campaign of cutting federal spending. Most farmers anticipated some cuts, but I don't think they anticipated them being this large," he said.

Parents file suit against hospital over daughter's death

HOUSTON (AP) - A federal lawsuit has been filed against an Anahuac hospital accused of denying emergency medical service to a 14month-old girl who later choked to death on a bean, says an attorney for the victim's family.

Elva and Martha Banks contend their daughter Carey died June 4 after a nurse at Chambers County Memorial Hospital refused to treat the infant when her life was in danger, said Sarnie Randle, an attorney for the Banks.

The hospital has an indigent patients' plan designed to provide care for people who can't afford it," Randle said. "None of that was done proof of payment, Randle said. The Banks, who are black, then drove to Galveston and on the way,

A chance of rain and mostly cloudy skies continue in the forecast

According to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport, tonight will be cloudy with a 20 percent chance of rain, continuing through Thursday. Lows will be near 40 rising to the lower 60s Thursday. Winds will be from the south to southwest at 10 to 20 mph tonight and continuing from the southwest Thursday, when they will become gusty.

Tuesday's high of 64 was 15 degrees below the record set in 1939. The low of 53 recorded this morning was 41 degrees above the record of Skies were cloudy across most of Texas today under the influence of a trough of low pressure over the western portion of the state. Only far South Texas reported fair skies.

Patchy light rain and fog was reported this morning in parts of South Texas and along the upper coast. More widely scattered rain was forecast for the southwestern part of the state.

A windy day was forecast for most of the northern third of Texas, where southwesterly winds of 10 to 15 miles an hour were reported. Temperatures ranging from the 50s in the Panhandle to the 80s in South

Texas were forecast, with mostly upper 60s and low 70s elsewhere. Early morning readings were generally in the 50s and 60s, with extremes ranging from 46 degrees at El Paso to 67 degrees at both McAllen and Mostly cloudy conditions were forecast, with some partly cloudy conditions expected in South Texas.

Snow hit the Rockies today and bitter cold dipped into the Plains. Rain spread along the Pacific Coast and was scattered through the Midwest as mild temperatures prevailed in the eastern half of the nation. A warning was posted for up to a foot of snow today in Colorado's central and northern mountains and an avalanche warning was in effect in the central part of the state.

Light snow fell over the mountains of north central New Mexico, the high plains of southeast Wyoming and the Nebraska Panhandle.

Snow and frigid cold moving south into the upper Plains prompted a travelers' advisory for extreme southern South Dakota. Sub-zero temperatures reached from northeast Montana and much of North Dakota into northwest Minnesota early today A Pacific front spread rain along the coasts of Washington, Oregon and northern California. Snow fell over the Cascade and Olympic mountains.

Rain showers dampened Illinois, eastern Missouri and southeast Wiscon-Mild temperatures prevailed from the Great Lakes to Gulf Coast, with overnight readings in the 60s across much of Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley and lows in the 40s stretching as far north as Michigan's upper peninsula. The East also was unseasonably mild, with temperatures mostly in the 30s

Today's forecast called for snow over the Northern Rockies and northern Plateau and snow squalls over the upper Great Lakes. Showers were predicted for the northern and central Appalachians, the lower Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley and parts of the mid-Mississippi Valley and central Plains.

Thunderstorms were forecast from the lower Mississippi Valley into the central Plains and rain was predicted for the central Rockies and northern

Highs were expected to be in the teens from northwest Wisconsin across northern Minnesota to eastern North Dakota. Highs in the 20s to 30s were predicted for most of the Great Lakes region, the upper Mississippi Valley, parts of the northern and central Plains, the northern Rockies and north-

Temperatures in the 60s to 70s were forecast over portions of the Atlantic and Gulf Coast states, southern sections of the Ohio Valley, the Tennessee Valley and lower Mississippi Valley, parts of the southern Plains and southern Plateau and the southern Pacific Coast. Elsewhere, highs in the 40s to 50s were expected, with the exception of the southern tip of Texas, where the 80s were forecast.

Temperatures around the nation at 2 a.m. EST ranged from 16 degrees below zero at Butte, Mont., to 67 at Houston, Texas.

Hostage: No proof Iran aided hijackers

Associated Press

Two Americans freed from captivity on a hijacked Kuwaiti jet in Iran underwent medical tests today at military hospital in Frankfurt, West Germany. One of the Americans and the British pilot said in John Costa Kuwaiti television interviews they had no evidence Iran helped the hijackers. U.S. Consulate spokesman Tom Johnson in Frankfurt said the Americans, Charles Kaper, 57, and John Costa, 50, were at the 97th General Hospital in Frankfurt. "They some medical evaluations," Johnson told The Associated Press in a telephone interview. Johnson said he did not know if the Americans would hold a news conference or give interviews. They left Iran on Tuesday and flew to

Kuwait, where they and 12 other had a nice sleep. They are having freed hostages were greeted by a cheering, dancing crowd. They later boarded a U.S. Air Force plane for the trip to Germany.

As the American survivors were being whisked away to the hospital in Frankfurt, Kaper shouted: "We Kaper, an employee of the U.S.

Agency for International Development and the airplane's British pilot, John H. Clark, said on Kuwait television that they had no evidence Iran had helped the hijackers during the six-day ordeal. Kuwaiti newspapers renewed their charges today that Iran cooperated with the hijackers. In Washington on Tuesday, Larry Speakes, spokesman for President Reagan accused Iran of encouraging "extreme behavior" by the hijackers and blamed Iran for failing to prevent them from killing two Ameri-

Kaper told a television interviewer he had "no evidence that Iran was involved" with the hijacking. Clark said: "As far as I knew, the Iranian authorities did their best" to free the hostages. The pilot said he was unable to see all of Iran's reported rescue mission Sunday night because tear gas used by Iranian security men blocked his view. Clark said of the hijacking's beginning: "The first I knew of it was a hand grenade pressed into the back of my neck." He denied reports that the hijackers had wired the aircraft's fuel tanks with explosives. A Kuwaiti diplomat who was among the hostages told a Kuwaiti newspaper that the hijackers had Lebanese accents and belonged to Jihad Islami (Islamic Holy War), a terrorist grouping which has claimed the 1983 bombings of the U.S. Embassy and Marine headquarters in Beirut, Lebanon, among other attacks. The hijackers reportedly had demanded the release of 17 convicted terrorists held in Kuwait for their role in bomb attacks a year ago against the U.S. and French embassies and several utility buildings. The bombings were carried out by Shiite Moslems sympathetic with Iran's government.

Costa, with blackened eyes and 13 cigarette burns on the back of his hands, his face, nose and forehead, said in a Kuwaiti television interview the hijacking was "a nightmare in which there was no night as the lights had been kept on in the aircraft continuously. The four sky pirates, who seized a Kuwait Airways jet Dec. 4 and forced it to fly to Tehran, were reportedly captured by Iranian security men Sunday. The official Iranian news agency said Tuesday it had no information on the hijackers' identities or whereabouts. Sheik Saad Al-Abdullah Al-Sabah. Kuwait's crown prince and prime minister, welcomed the returning hostages Tuesday by reaffirming Kuwait's "resolve never to bend to terrorism, blackmail, extortion, or intimidation.

From the onset of the hijacking Kuwait made it clear to the pirates and whoever stood behind. encouraged and financed them that we won't bend to any demands," Al-Sabah said in a statement distributed by the official Kuwait News

In addition to the two Americans, the released men were three Kuwaiti diplomats, two British crewmen of the hijacked jetliner, three Pakistanis, three Tanzanians, and an injured Kuwaiti who was among crewmen on the hijacked jet.

We have not been able to identify the cause for the fainting and breathing problems," he said. "I'm sure everybody just got upset at see-ing everybody else get sick."

Carbon monoxide is the most com mon cause for the fainting and vomiting that the students experienced. But levels of the gas were not evident in blood tests conducted in the emergency room, Thompson

Hospital administrator Bill Richards said, "Apparently what we're looking at is hyperventilation. When one went down, the others followed. When we got them in a controlled atmosphere and quieted down, it reverses the condition."

No adults were affect, Richards said.

Richards said several of the students had gone into convulsions but all had apparently recovered. 'I have one boy standing here beside me. I don't see any sign of post-seizure activity," Richards said. Ken Land, a San Angelo fire and arson investigator, said he found no evidence of hazardous conditions at the school that would have caused the incident.

The school was evacuated, but Land said investigators could find no evidence of carbon monoxide or other gaseous substances in or around the cafeteria.

He said heat and a "diminished air flow," combined with weary students, triggered the multiple cases of hyperventilation.

We don't feel there is a hazard ous situation (at the school)," he said. 'What we're talking about is oxygen deprivation. The kids, for some reason, weren't getting enough oxygen in their system.

School aide Celeste Allen said, "To me, it looked like the kids just fainted," she said. "It was very warm, and the air was not circulating. It honestly looked like they were just fainting. They had been so excited and keyed up."

Choir director Wynne added, "I've seen it many times. One student gets sick...suddenly, other students start showing the same symptoms."

Two teachers who wouldn't reveal their names said they, too, had experienced similar instances.

"I've had it happen in my classes many times," one of the teachers

Mauritania chief of state overthrown by former premier

PARIS (AP) - The Mauritanian chief of state, Lt. Col Mohamed Khouna Ould Haidalla, has been overthrown in a coup, the French news agency reported today, citing an announcement on Mauritanian radio.

Agence France-Presse said the radio reported that Col. Maouya Sid'ahmed Taya, a former premier, took power. It said all members of the ruling military committee retained their jobs.

Haidalla was in Bujumbura,

Burundi, attending the 11th French-African summit, according to the Mauritanian Embassy in Paris. But the embassy said it had no information about the coup.

Haidalla had been president of the northwest African country since January 1980 when Lt. Col. Mohamed Mahmoud Ould Ahmed Louly was deposed. Haidalla, in addition to being head of the Military Committee for National Salvation, also held the posts of premier and defense minister.

Radio Nouakchott, in the Mauritanian capital, said Taya, chief of staff of the army, took power Tuesday afternoon and that the military committee was unchanged, with the exception of Haidalla.

Taya was prime minister from April 1981 until March 1984, when he left the government to take over the Mauritania, a drought-hit nation on the fringe of the Sahara Desert, had an estimated population of 950,000 in 1980. The capital, Nouak chott, on the Atlantic coast, has 450,000 people, many of them living in tents and shantytowns.

The country's traditional nomadic way of life has been disrupted by the drought and the encroachment of the desert. Agricultural and pastoral lands in the south are shrinking as the desert is expanding and forcing nomads to migrate.

SHULTZ

was due to have a series of meetings with colleagues from Belgium, the Netherlands, Spain and Turkey, and he was scheduled to have dinner with his British, French and West German counterparts. Shultz earlier told reporters that he will be listening to allies' views but won't be disclosing the U.S. negotiating strategy because President Reagan hasn't yet "made decisions on lots of things material to that meeting." While the meetings in Brussels will focus on relations with Moscow, senior aides to Shultz said he will seek the views of foreign ministers on a joint strategy for combating world terrorism.

One aide who spoke on condition of anonymity said the secretary of state will urge the allies to better share intelligence on suspected ter-

In several recent speeches, Shultz called terrorism a form of warfare threatening Western values and interests and urged pre-emptive strikes by the United States if necessary to defend itself against terror-

His latest call for U.S. action, made to reporters traveling with him, came after hijackers killed two U.S. officials aboard a Kuwaiti jet that was hijacked to Iran last week and after explosions on Tuesday of six bombs along the fuel pipeline in Belgium which supplies NATO forces throughout central Europe.

A leftist group, the Fighting Com-munist Cells, said it exploded the bombs because war had become NATO's "principal focus."

Shultz on Tuesday expressed frustration that the Iranians waited several days before launching what its official media called a rescue mission by security men to free the hijackers' hostages, including two Americans.

At a scheduled meeting with Belgium's prime minister, Wilfried Martens. Shultz was expected to press for Belgian deployment on schedule of U.S.-built nuclear missiles.

Gifford pointed out that collection procedures changed in October 1983 and this year more items were added to the list of taxable goods. Thus, it is difficult to place the two months on an equal comparison

There were 18 calendar days of the new law in this month's receipts so we don't have the full effect of the new law," Gifford said of the increased number of items added to the sales tax list.

And a year ago is when the reporting procedure changed where more businesses are required to report monthly rather than quar-

"All of these things should iron themselves out by February," Gif-ford said. Those February receipts should reflect the December sales. Pam Leach at Midland Park Mall

"Our traffic has been excellent, and everyone is real optimistic. Sakowitz (spokesman) said the items they are selling are more expensive than last year; people seem to be going more for quality than quantity."

Since January, the city of Midland's sales tax receipts have been in an "adjustment" period, Gifford said, noting some months have not brought in the expected amounts.

With "wild-eyed optimism," Gif-ford said the receipts in January for November sales could amount to $575,000. "Overall, we're still in a modest growth period which may be flat for a few months."

Church gets rid of R-, PG-rated films by buying theater

WHEELER, Texas (AP) - After more than three years of feuding and a lawsuit that drew national attention, R- and PG-rated movies no longer will flicker across the screen of the Rogue Theater in this Panhandle town.

The Wheeler Christian Center, whose leader and members had decried the showing of such films as "The Blue Lagoon" and "Fast Times at Ridgemont High," will buy the town's only moviehouse and use it for gospel sing-alongs and community meetings.

The church has agreed to buy the theater to settle a lawsuit filed by its owner, who claimed he was being driven out of business and libeled by the church's protests.

"We set out to get the R and PG-rated movies off of Main Street here and we've done it," said the Rev. Ricky Pfeil, head of the independent Christian church. "We're pleased that it's Theater owner Ed Nall declined to comment on the advice of his attorney.

The dispute began in 1981 when Nall began showing PG and R-rated films, such as "The World According to Garp," "Porky's" and "Stripes." Nall's lawyer, Jim Fling, called the movies "very

"You could see worse stuff on TV, at least on HBO," he said.

But Pfeil and his 100-member congregation disagreed and began staging protests outside the theater while the films were being shown — except on Wednesday and Sunday nights when they were holding church

Pfeil also purchased space in the local newspaper and wrote columns condemning the movies. One column was headlined "Do We Have Pornography in Our Town?'

In October 1982, Nall filed a $500,000 lawsuit against Pfeil and the church, alleging libel and harassment.

The theater closed on Nov. 10 after Nall could no longer afford to keep operating, his attorney said. When they learned the theater had closed, Pfeil said, he and his attorneys decided to offer to purchase it, settle the suit and avoid the costs of a trial and possible appeals.

Nall accepted the church's offer to buy the moviehouse for $50,000. According to the agreement, the screen and marquee will stay, while Nall takes the projectors and other furnishings.

"I think everybody is reasonably satisfied with the settlement," Fling said, adding that the closing of the moviehouse will leave little in the way of entertainment in the town of 1,500 res-

Refugees live in stadium

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Turki Daher, his wife and 13 children have moved into Ticket Booth No. 1 at what was once Lebanon's finest sports stadium.

They eat and sleep in the oneroom "apartment." Nearby is a "playroom" for the children shaped by rusting mattress springs standing on end.

For the Dahers and hundreds of other refugees, home now is in the crumbling remains of the stadium that is part of the Cite Sportive (Sports City) complex on Beirut's southern edge. Most say they have nowhere else to go.

Once the site of Arab Olympic games and six-day bicycle races, the stadium now has goats and cows grazing on its soccer field. Chickens run wild, and children play on the crumbling bleachers.

The families live here although the 100,000-seat stadium was largely reduced to rubble and tangled steel bars in Israeli bombing raids aimed at driving Palestinian guerrillas from their stadium base in June 1982.

The refugees, mostly Bedouins and Palestinians, have moved into ground-floor rooms that once served as dressing rooms and staging areas for athletic events or have built tin or canvas shelters against concrete retaining walls.

"If you don't have a home, where do you live?" said Daher, 55.

His "apartment" has few furnishings. There is a wood-burning stove and sponge mattresses for sitting and sleeping. Carpet scraps provide some cover for the concrete.

Daher, a Bedouin and a day laborer when he can find work, says he is not completely satisfied with the place.

"But it's home."

The family once had a house in Khalde, a suburb south of Beirut, but it was bombed during the Israeli invasion in 1982, Daher said. The family then fled to eastern Lebanon, but returned to Beirut four months ago to try to find work.

A neighbor, Rashid Zaki, 19, lives with his parents and two sisters in the stadium rubble.

"We are displaced by the war," he said. "We are living in this wreck against our will."

Zaki is a jockey at Beirut's horse race track but says his family "just cannot afford the skyrocketing apartment rents" in the capital. The place was known as the Camille Chamoun Cite Sportive when it opened because it was constructed during Chamoun's presidential term, 1952-58. In addition to the main stadium for soccer and bicycle and auto races, there also is a gymnasium—which houses more refugees—and a swimming pool that is no longer in use.

At the start of Lebanon's civil war in 1975, the sports complex became a

Organization and remained one until the Israeli invasion.

Wrecked cars and jeeps once belonging to the PLO guerrillas still litter the soccer field, which also base for the Palestine Liberation is marked by bomb craters.

"Some people come here and remove truckloads of lead and steel bars and take it away to sell as scrap," one man said.

The refugee families, who say they receive no government or international aid, have tried to make the place as comfortable as possible.

One family has put its television antenna at the top of the bleachers to improve TV reception.

Most of the homesites have electricty, which is "borrowed" by tapping into a city power cable that passes the stadium. But the refugees must walk or drive several blocks to public water taps, where they fill plastic jugs.

Laundry is draped over crumbling walls to dry, and cooking often is done on wood fires in "front yards" cleared out of the rubble.

Fikriya Asmar, 18, moved with her husband, Wafik, to the stadium four

She and her husband live in fear that a wall might fall on them at any time, she says.

"But whatever God decides we will accept," she said as she swept out her kitchen near the stadium's main gate.

On the wall inside here dwelling, someone had spray painted a sign that Fikriya says sums up her feelings and those of her neighbors: "My love has died."

love has died."

But Fikriya's 37-year-old cousin, Samih Asmar, who has made a home for himself in one of the stadium's abandoned spaces, said that sometimes the refugees have renewed

He said that several months ago, a rich man passed by and took pity on them.

Unearthed skeletons mystery

LAMPAZOS, Mexico (AP) - In the shadow of a ghostly mesa on a rarely traveled desert highway a Mexican village debates a 300-year-old riddle: Where are the bones of Diego de Salazar?

The answer to the riddle may lie buried in a recently discovered mass grave. Then again, it may not.

Church records provide the name of the man who founded the town and generations of Lampazos children heard tales of Salazar, the Franciscan friar, who led a brave band of Tlaxcalan Indians to a desert oasis on the northern frontier in

There he established the Mission de Santa Maria de los Dolores, one of several colonial outposts linking Saltillo with the Mission San Antonio de Salazar's achievement was legend, but his grave had been lost to the ages until last spring, when workers restoring the crumbling colonial mission dug beneath the ancient floor and discovered a mass grave.

"Several workers found bones all at once, about 20 inches beneath the floor," said supervising architect Jaime Martinez Martinez. "They got scared right away and believed they'd discovered the town founder.

"Work was stopped and we called the University in Monterrey to date the bones. The city took note, people were excited and everyone had an opinion although nobody really

Martinez said the 2,000 village residents anxiously awaited the arrival of Breen Murray, a Chicago native and head of anthropology at the University of Monterrey, who was dispatched with a team of students to investigate.

"We went to see how many bones they had found," Murray said. Well, there were lots, maybe 200 individuals, but all very mixed up. The grave had been turned up by bulldozers and there was a lot of damage to the archeological con-

Among the bones, Murray found a skull dating from the Mexican Revolution with a bullet through the temple. Other skeletons were older, possibly Indians who died in an epidemic that followed the conquest of Mexico by Spain. A few, Murray said, were of more recent vintage.

We found some bones that weren't that old and asked the local authorities if they wanted to investigate," Murray said. "They said, 'no' and told us to rebury the bones - so really we don't know how many skeletons Lampazos has in its

Using 18th century church records supplied by the parish priest, Murray dug at the edge of the grave and discovered something much more exciting than the jumble of

We found three complete skeletons with a different orientation than most of those in the grave," he They were stretched out with their feet toward the altar, so that if the dead were raised, they'd sit up looking at the cross," he said.

On one skeleton, dating from the 1700s, fragments of a religious habit were found. Church records provided clues as to who the three priests might be. "But there were five or six Franciscan friars who were with Salazar and it could have been one of those," Murray said. "We can't say with 100 percent certainty, but I'd like to believe we found Salazar.

So would about half the town. Irma Delgado Romero, secretary at San Juan Bautista Church, is convinced Salazar has been found.

'I'm glad we finally have solid proof the Franciscan brothers were here," said Miss Delgado. "It's important to me to know about the people who were here before us, to know how they built our town, planted our gardens and created a place that wasn't here before."

But City Secretary Carlos Lozano, who cares more about jobs than history, remains skeptical about the

'We're not sure who those skeletons are in the church," Lozano said. 'We don't know where Salazar is and we're not looking.

Lozano's interest in the mission is strictly economic. The restoration, funded by the federal government, has brought 150 much-needed jobs to the dying desert community that for 50 years has been losing its young people to centers of opportu-nity like Monterrey and Nuevo Laredo.

Lampazos once flourished as a silver mining center and crossroad for trade between the Confederate States and Europe during the American Civil War.

But by 1936 the town had shrunk to one-third of the 6,000 people who had lived in Lampazos and almost half the village became a ghost

Lampazos, hometown of the cur-rent secretary of the State of Nuevo Leon, has experienced a mini-boom because of the restoration project, part of a federal program aimed at reinforcing the cultural identity of Mexican states along the U.S. and Guatemalan borders, the Programa Cultural de las Fronteras.

Besides the mission, the main plaza and several historic buildings in the solid, forthright style of the Mexican frontier are being restored.

Lozano hopes the restoration will attract tourists, but he balked at the idea of displaying the bones found in the mission floor. "You have to have a certain amount of respect for the dead no matter who they are," he said.

Much-delayed satellite finally gets off ground

Thirteen postponements cost government $1 million

By LEE SIEGEL AP Science Writer

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — A much-delayed weather satellite soared into space atop an Atlas-E rocket today after 13 postponements that cost the government about $1 million, a space agency spokesman said.

The NOAA-F weather and searchand-rescue satellite lifted off at 2:42 a.m., said C.J. Fenrick of the National Aeronautic and Space

The rocket was a "spectacular sight, rattling windows on Vandenberg Air Force Base and in the Santa Maria Valley," Fenrick said.

"Everything went flawlessly... Morale has been boosted 150 percent." he said.

Since the first try on Nov. 8, high winds forced cancellation of eight launch attempts, including one early Tuesday. The five other scrubs were caused by a variety of electronic and mechanical problems, said Larry Heacock of the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration's catellite service.

Each launch attempt costs about $80,000. So the the government has now spent about $1 million trying to put the $56 million NOAA-F satellite into orbit, Heacock said Tuesday.

BESIDES HELPING refine forecasting, the weather satellite will take over duties for detecting emergency distress signals, abandoned by a sister search-and-rescue satellite that broke down last June.

Next October, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to launch a space shuttle for for wind, so the same winds that the first time from Vandenberg, 140 scrubbed the satellite launch attempts would have halted only four shuttle launches, he said.

The Air Force and NASA want to launch shuttles from Vandenberg to get them into polar orbit. Space shuttles cannot be safely launched into such orbit from Cape Kennedy because they would have to fly over land. From Vandenberg, a shuttle would fly south entirely over water until crossing Antarctica.

POLAR ORBITS are necessary for launching certain weather and navigation satellites so they can pass over the Earth's northern and southern latitudes. While the Air Force will not comment on such matters, a polar orbit also would allow military shuttle flights to conduct surveillance of the northern Soviet Union.

Lt. Sharon Walker, spokeswoman for the Air Force Space and Missile Test Organization, agreed high-wind delays are likely for some shuttle launches, especially early missions when "we'll be wanting almost perfect weather, to take less chances.'

The winds could cause structural damage to the space shuttle, so we're not going to be launching into winds that have that potential," she said, adding that the shuttle has a higher tolerance for wind than the Atlas-E rocket because it is bigger and "is a sturdier vehicle."

The Atlas-E rocket and satellite together weigh nearly 270,000 pounds, while the shuttle and its rockets weigh 4.4 million pounds, Ms. Walker said.

NOAA-F, AN RCA satellite aimed for an orbit 520 miles above Earth, is the sixth in a series of eight NOAA satellites intended to provide scientists with comprehensive weather and environmental monitoring information.

The satellite also is equipped with pecial instruments designed to further test a satellite-aided search-anrescue system for finding radio distress signals triggered by survivors of shipwrecks and plane crashes or by people stranded in remote areas. The United States, Soviet Union, Great Britain and France are cooperating in that effort.

Mysterious signal detected

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A mysterious radio signal discovered by two Voyager spacecraft may come from something like a giant guitar string plucked at the edge of the solar system where solar and interstellar winds collide, a physicist says.

If the theory proves correct, detection of the radio signal represents the first remote observation of the collision area, said William Kurth of the University of Iowa.

He said the weak, hiss-like signal was detected from late 1983 through early 1984 by Voyager 1, which passed Saturn in 1980 and now is heading out of the solar system, and Voyager 2, due to fly by Uranus in January 1986 and Saturn in Septem-

Solar wind is the intense flow of electrically charged gas or "plasma" speeding at nearly 1 million mph away from the sun in all directions. Interstellar wind is the much slower plasma that is "left over from the creation of stars and includes what's being blown off other stars," Kurth

Space is full of radio sources. But distant pulsar stars and the collision of solar wind with the magnetic fields of Jupiter, Uranus and Saturn were ruled out as possible sources for the radio signal by three space plasma physicists — Kurth and Donald Gurnett at Iowa City and principal investigator Frederick Scarf at TRW, a Redondo Beach defense con-

They concluded the signal most likely originates more than 4 billion miles from Earth, at the edge of the solar system in the "inner heliospheric shock" - the boundary where the solar wind slows abruptly when it collides with the interstellar wind traveling about 45,000 mph.

The shock wave reflects free electrons and turns them "upwind," making them release energy in waves called "electron plasma oscillations," Kurth said.

Species may boost fishing industry

PORT LAVACA, Texas (AP)—Bonito, sand trout, grouper or gaff-top may not grace a restaurant menu now, but those fish brought to the new city narbor dock in Port Lavaca may bring new life to the seafood industry in Calhoun County.

During the next few weeks, workmen will be installing a protective skirting on the City Harbor dock, the final step in a $544,000 rehabilitation project that extended the existing dock 30 feet into Lynn's Bayou Turning Basin.

Completion of the project will assure the continued operation of three local businesses, Ocean Enterprises, Lavaca Shrimp Co. and Sun Harbor of Texas, representing as many as 500 local jobs.

In addition to those employed in the food processing plants, Calhoun County Marine Extension Agent Joe Surovik estimates that 1,500 families depend upon the seafood industry for their income in Calhoun County.

Funding for the project was through an Economic Development Administration grant with 70 percent of the project paid by federal funds with the balance paid by city funds through the Port Commission. The contract with Pilings, Inc. was approved by the city council on Jan.

With some changes in fishing techniques, the dock could be the beginning of a mutlimillion-dollar fishing industry in Port Lavaca, utilizing fish that are not harvested in Texas coastal waters at the present time. Many species of fish found in local waters are never seen on a restaurant menu, including sand trout, grouper, gafftop and black drum.

"I'm sure if you got a fresh sand trout, fried it up and put it on a platter, you wouldn't know the difference between it and a speckled trout," said Robert Sanders, a commercial fisherman in Seadrift. "But as a (bay) shrimper," he said, "I've never gotten enough sand trout in the net to take home for supper."

Other species such as the gafftop are difficult to clean, he said, or there are just not enough of them in the bay waters to make them economically feasible to harvest.

Sanders' comments are echoed by other fishermen and fish house owners who say that sand trout, drum and other "trash" fish are plentiful only in the deeper waters

According to John Anastio, chief executive officer of Sun Harbor Industries, shrimpers dump a lot of fish back into the water that Sun Harbor would buy for pet food.

This building on the grounds of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point is the scene where 11 children were allegedly sexually abused.

Parents claim children abused at West Point day care center

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) - Windows decorated with animal cutouts and an adjoining playground distinguish Building 673 from the other red-brick structures at the U.S. Military Academy, the nation's oldest military school

The three-story building overlooking the Hudson River shares the aura of tradition and history that characterizes the 182-year-old insti-

But the normally placid West Point community of 11,000 is roiled by Army parents' accusations that employees of the day care center in Building 673 sexually and physically abused at least 11 children, ranging in age from 13 months to 31/2 years

One mother said the West Point administration was slow to push for an investigation of the sex abuse charges when they surfaced last summer, adding that she believed the lack of initial action was part of a deliberate cover-up.

In court papers, parents of two children have asked that, "the military structure...agree to accept legal responsibility for the wrongs committed under their supervision," and provide victim counseling.

West Point's administration has denied responsibility for the alleged abuses, and no criminal charges have been filed. The alleged abuses occurred over a period of months, the court papers showed. U.S. Attorney Rudolph W. Giuliani said he assigned an assistant U.S. Attorney whose specialty is organized crime - his office's first priority - to investigate the West Point Child Development Center, whose 40 employees care for 130 children. Besides the 4,500 cadets, the West Point community consists of 2,000 military personnel and 4,400 depen-

The investigation will probably conclude by the end of this month, Giuliani said.

Parents who pressed a lawsuit against the West Point administration said some colleagues have shunned them. One mother, Mary Grote, said some people in the military community ridiculed herself and her husband Walter, a captain and internist at the base hospital.

On Sept. 20, attorney William E. Crain filed papers in federal court on behalf of the Grotes and Master Sgt. William J. and Deidrah Lamont Wright, detailing the charges and seeking to preserve potential evidence of sexual abuse. A federal judge ruled Nov. 15 in his clients'. favor, according to Crain.

Crain has said he believes more than 11 children were apparently

Pat Trotti, West Point child suport services coordinator, said in West Point's official newspaper Sept. 28 that the FBI was investigating and the case was not closed.

Crain also said he filed civil claims against the academy Nov. 21 on behalf of the Wrights and two additional sets of parents asking for substantial monetary damages. Also on Nov. 21, the Grotes said they had dropped out of the lawsuit. They said their original objective to get an objective inquiry under way - had been achieved. "Regardless of the pressures we were feeling," Mrs. Grote said in a telephone interview, "this was just a decision the Grote family had to deal with — for our child." She and Crain denied they were pressured to

The allegations first became known last July 27 when a pediatrician at the base hospital determined that a 3-year-old girl was sexually abused, court papers show.

Dr. David E. Suttle said the child he examined could not have inflicted such injury on herself and that she repeatedly said, "teacher

On August 12, after the Grotes learned of the case, they questioned their 2-year-old daughter and said she also spoke of being sexually abused at the center.

'In my opinion (after the first case was discovered) the place should have been closed down," Mrs. Grote said. "Severe steps should have been taken right then. An investigation should have been started.

Two unidentified female day care center employees were put on "nonduty status," with pay Sept. 14, after the Army and the FBI reported they passed lie detector tests. One was later rehired elsewhere at West Point and the other left the academy's employ, according to Army spokesman Maj. Alex Mondragon.

don, Paris — and Lubbock. Lubbock?

Of course, Rome has its Coliseum to add romantic atmosphere; London has the Thames; Paris the call.

Champs-Elysses Although Buddy Holly's statue or the Metro building can hardily be said to inspire romance, one local entrepreneur says romance can be found in the Hub City, even if you do have to conjure it up yourself.

'A lot of people don't realize that Lubbock is big enough to have the benefits of the big city," LaNette R. Armstrong says.

And one of those benefits is Little Hollywood, an entertainment service run by Miss Armstrong that recently expanded its repertoir of practical jokes and "strip-a-grams" to cafe serenades.

For a fee ranging from $40.$100, a strolling troubador will serenade over candlelight dinners in homes or restaurants.

The notion of offering the serenades came to Miss Armstrong in her usual productive way, she says.

"I'm always coming up with moneymaking ideas. They just come to me in the middle of the night,

Miss Armstrong's "romantically inclined family" (mother Kathlene and sister Dana who also help with the business), were there when inspiration struck. We just thought it would be neat if you're having a private dinner at home, with candlelights and romance, and we just got to thinking what you could do with that.' Armed with a cassette player and

'Mr. Microphone"-type set-up, Miss Armstrong and her hired crooner will perform for romantically inclined customers. After a brief announcement explaining the singer's appearance, couples can listen to sentimental favorites like "Love Me Tender" and "Fools Rush In.

In addition, for those who prefer the Spanish Julio Iglesias sound, Miss Armstrong has just added a Latin singer who intertwines Spanish and English verses.

And if the romantic relationship has yet to reach a serious peak, the minstrel can deliver a platonic chorus of "Yellow Rose of Texas." They take requests, too.

In order for the company to perform in a restaurant, Miss Armstrong says the serenade is cleared first by the management.

'We'll call the manager and say a party has requested a strip-a-gram or serenade and is it all right," she

Miss Armstrong adds that since the cafe serenade service is so new, they haven't been as swarmed by customers for it as much as the everpopular strip-a-grams.

She says she is contacting local restaurants to make them aware of the serenading service so "we can be

Battle shapes for Senate chairmanship

WASHINGTON (AP) - An unusual behind-the-scenes battle is shaping up in the Senate between Democrats George J. Mitchell of Maine and J. Bennett Johnston of Louisiana to succeed Lloyd Bentsen of Texas as chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Commit-

The committee is charged with helping Democratic Senate candidates, incumbents as well as challengers, get elected. It raises money and provides various other forms of campaign assistance.

The post is a crucial one, because Democrats have a good shot at regaining the Senate in 1986. Not only do parties out of power pick up seats in mid-term elections, but Republicans will have 22 seats to defend in the next election, compared to 12 Democratic seats. Republicans now command a slim 53-47 seat majority.

Bentsen, who has had the job for two years, has indicated he does not want to do it again.

What makes the fight different from most races is that the post is not elective, but appointive, and Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., indicated that he plans to appoint Mitchell to the post.

However, now Byrd himself is being challenged for his No. 1 party job by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., opening up the whole process.

Since party caucuses are almost always held behind closed doors, reporters are forced to wait outside and interview members as they emerge to get a picture of what happened inside.

But members don't always have accurate recollections of what transpired, and multiple accounts of the same meeting are commonplace.

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., is one House member who doesn't exhibit much reluctance to talk to reporters after such sessions. But the information he supplies isn't always useful.

Mexico promotes domestic tourism

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government, seeking to slow dollar flight and offer cheap vacations for its citizens, has announced a multi-million dollar campaign to promote domestic tourism.

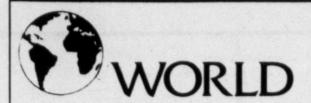

Tourism Secretary Antonio Enriquez Savignac kicked off the campaign, entitled "Mexico Offers a Choice," at a breakfast for hotel industry leaders here Tuesday.

The program involves a publicity

Ethiopians say famine preventable

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopian officials asked donor nations for nearly a million tons of grain to fight Ethiopia's famine next year, and said the crisis could have been averted if the West had responded earlier.

Army Maj. Dawit Wolde Giorgis, head of Ethiopia's Relief and Rehabilitation Commission, told a meeting of donors Tuesday his country needed pledges of 880,000 tons of grain next year.

The commission estimates that 7.7 million people are facing food shortages and 600,000 of them are severely affected. "What makes us angry, and deeply sad at the same time, is (that) what is happening in many parts of the country now top leaders of Ethiopia's Marxist could so easily have been pre-regime, and head of the ruling vented," Dawit said.

He said the West ignored his commission's predictions of a drought earlier this year.

"It needed the horrifying pictures of death and starvation on the television screens in North America and Europe to galvanize the world into taking notice of what was happening in Ethiopia," he said.

At one point during the donors' meeting Dawit singled out for praise relief aid provided by the United States, Canada, Britain, Italy, the European Economic Community and the U.N. World Food Program. Berhanu Bayih, among the five party's Relief Coordinating Committee, told the donors' meeting that since its 1974 revolution Ethiopia has ranked among the lowest in the amount of per capita foreign aid.

Overall, Africa receives about $22 worth of foreign aid per capita, while Ethiopia receives $6 per cap-

"It is because necessary funds have not been available for development efforts and for increasing food production in drought-prone areas of the country that we are now witnessing the current tragedy of death and starvation," Berhanu told the

'Famine album' climbs to top of British charts

LONDON (AP) - "Do They Know It's Christmas?," a record made by the top names in British rock and pop to raise money for Ethiopia's famine victims, has sold 1.25 million copies worldwide in just one week.

The single by a supergroup Band Aid, which includes Boy George, Duran Duran, Sting and others, raced to the top of the record charts in Britain where 600,000 copies were sold in a week. It went on sale Monday in the United States, where six million copies were printed.

"It's incredible," said a spokesman for Gallup Poll, which compiles the official British record industry charts. "It looks like it could be the biggest selling record ever in Brit-Bob Geldof of the Boomtown Rats, who brought the superstars together after seeing pictures of Ethiopia's famine victims, said Tuesday, " I'm delighted and exhausted by the success of the record.

"We seem to have caught the atmosphere of Christmas, and the people who have bought the record are as much a part of Band Aid as the band members themselves.

Geldof said there had been instances of people buying 50 copies of the record, then handing 49 back to the store for resale.

The record costs $1.62, and $1.15 goes to the famine appeal. The rest goes to taxes and manufacturing

The Ethiopian government says 7.7 million people face starvation as a result of prolonged drought.

El Salvador's rebels promise to halt attacks

LA JOYA, El Salvador (AP) — President Jose Napoleon Duarte, whose government proposed a holiday civil war cease-fire last month, today was considering the surprise rebel announcement that they will halt armed attacks at Christmas and New Year's.

In a communique issued in Mexico City and San Salvador, the rebels on Tuesday announced their decision to resort to defensive action only from midnight Dec. 23 to midnight Dec. 26 and midnight Dec. 30 to midnight

They also freed 43 army soldiers captured in fierce fighting two weeks ago.

Duarte's press secretary, Oscar Reyes, said the president was "analyzing and considering" the announcement made by guerrilla leaders. Duarte's representatives proposed a holidary cease-fire in talks with the rebels Nov. 30.

Government representatives said that during peace talks on Nov. 30 they proposed a Christmas truce but the left rejected it, a claim con-firmed by Monsignor Arturo Rivera Damas, archbishop of San Salvador, who mediated the discussions.

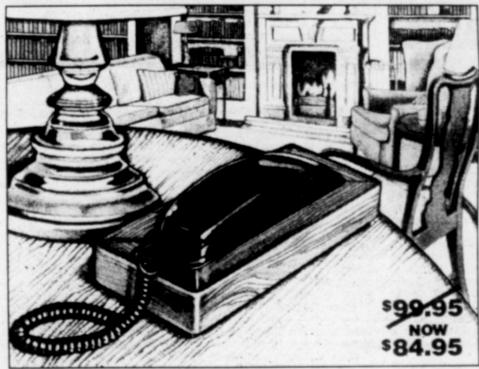

Rivera y Damas called the rebels' truce announcement on Tuesday 'concrete steps toward the achieving of peace.

The 43 soldiers were freed on Tuesday in the parched, scorched hills of San Vicente province.

"They gave us to eat what they ate," said Jose Gregorio Alfaro, one of the released soldiers. "We were not mistreated.

They appeared to be in good con-dition and were turned over to officials from the International Red Cross and Roman Catholic Church.

Dings elsewhere in the world as though they hold no immune from catastrophes can be a tragic mistake.

probably are aware by now that Ethiopia and much of the remainder of the African continent are suffering under the ravages of drought and famine. Thousands have died there already; millions more may perish. Yet, according to Worldwatch Institute, a Washingtonbased resources think tank, the African drought is a forewarning of widespread regional water crises in the 1990s that could rival the energy crisis of the mid-1970s.

And how would that affect those of us in Midland, Texas? Worldwatch provides the answer to that question in chilling terms. The Midland area sits on the southernmost tip of a vast underground aquifer called the Ogallala which is slowly being pumped dry. When all the water's gone, millions of acres of cropland will be lost. The fact that one-fifth of the irrigated cropland in the United States is watered from the Ogallala means the aquifer's depletion would be a matter of no small consequence.

Once the water's gone, it's gone, experts say, because natural recharge of the Ogallala is virtually non-existent.

One doesn't have to strain too hard to get the implication for this country. After several years of strong and steady growth, the amount of irrigated land dropped 20 percent in Texas, 18 percent in Oklahoma and 9 percent in New Mexico between 1978 and 1982, according to the study.

No, this definitely does not mean that Texas or the United States in the forseeable future is facing a catastrophe that could rival that taking place in Africa. What it does mean is that a water crisis of mammoth proportions still remains a very real possibility and if Texas and other states over the Ogallala don't get serious about protecting the aquifer's supply, catastrophe can and likely will occur.

The warning definitely has been sounded. Now it's time for action

"The Institutional Revolutionary Party is aptly named," a secret State Department report observes. "It grew out of two decades of chaos. It can only be understood as the major institutional product of a shapeless revolution. Its lack of an overriding ideology has made it evolve into something more 'institutional' than revolutionary.

ASHINGTON — The future since 1929. "But it has lost its revolutionary fervor," the report adds. The election in July will be the PRI's first major challenge since 1929.

"One reason for the PRI's success has been its promotion of social mobility - inside the club. Bright outsiders and new ideas are co-opted into the party. As newcomers rise in the hierarchy and enjoy increasing benefits from party membership, their loyalty to the party increases at the expense of former loyalties," explains the report.

This is why the emergence of a viable opposition, the conservative National Action Party - or PAN has caused such consternation among the PRI leadership. The electoral victories PAN achieved in 1983 - five of 61 contested legislative seats and nine of 105 municipal posts - may seem paltry, but they scared the PRI bosses out of their serene self-confidence.

The reaction to these modest stirrings of dissent - successful dissent, that is - was interesting and ominous. The government declared many of the election results invalid, which led to rioting in several cities.

A top-secret CIA report suggests that PAN will win even more seats in next summer's election. Indeed, if the elections aren't rigged, Mexican voters might give the opposition party a sweeping victory at the

But will the PRI sit still and let a vocal opposition party move into the Chamber of Deputies in strength? Not likely. Victory in the midterm election would put PAN in a good position for the 1988 presidential campaign - and a defeat then is something the ruling party cannot

The selection of a successor by the incumbent president is more than just a tradition; it is the foundation for the entire system of power, favoritism and corruption that PRI has perfected over the years.

"Clearly (Mexican presidents), like Soviet leaders, are heir to a political system that places retention of power above all other values," the State Department report warns. "The PRI is not likely to err on this score - not even as significantly as the Soviets did with Khrushchev.' How long will the Mexican people put up with this electoral farce?

"Perhaps quite a while," the report concludes. "Yet the rumblings have grown louder." STRICTLY PERSONAL: Here are a couple of items from my political

Democratic insiders are picking over the carcass of the party after the 1984 election like scavengers on a holiday turkey. One crumb that seems to be up for grabs is that of party financial czar and Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., the personable and ambitious House Democratic fund-raiser, is clearly bucking for the job. Coelho is making his bid from strength: The $9 million he raised for the party's House campaigns is given credit for minimizing Democratic losses. Though his counterpart in the Senate, Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, raised as much, Coelho has managed to overshadow the senator in self-promotion.

Although one Coelho critic sniffed that the 42-year-old congressman was an "empire builder," another high party source praised him for raising a record amount in a tough election year. Coelho's timing looks right for becoming the Democratic financial boss - an idea that has been discussed before. Other potential czars are either not interested or have drawbacks that Coelho doesn't. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, is quietly lobbying for a seat on the Armed Services Committee. But since he is already on the Foreign Relations Committee, a hitch has developed. The Democratic Caucus, which will make the decision on Glenn's request, has traditionally barred senators from holding membership on both of these prestige committees. Glenn is trying for a waiver of this tradition, arguing that "liaison" is needed between the two panels on arms sales - and he could be it.

If you'd like to go on the next space shuttle flight, I'll get you a seat. But where am I going to find a Cabbage Patch doll in late December?"

"You're my last resort. I've been to every toy store on the East Coast, I've advertised in the newspapers. I even tried to break into the Coleco toy factory in Connecticut. In all cases I came up empty. I can't face my Jessica on Christmas morning if there isn't a Cabbage Patch doll under the tree.

"A lot of fathers will have the same problem this year," I told him. "I don't care about other fathers. All I worry about is Jessica. If I don't produce a Cabbage Patch doll she'll never believe anything I say again." He put his head in his hands. "I've failed as a parent. "You're not a failure," I told Broadstreet. "The system has failed you. Jessica can't hold you responsible because the toy manufacturer didn't produce enough dolls for Christmas.

'It's not just Jessica that I'm worried about. Every night when I come home my wife Deborah is waiting for me at the door and she hisses, 'Did you get one?' When I shake my head I see nothing but fear and loathing in her eyes.

"Does she say anything? 'No, but I can read what's going on in her head when we're eating dinner in silence. She's saying, could have married 100 successful guys, and I had to choose one who couldn't even provide his child with a Cabbage Patch Kid."

'You're just imagining things," I told him. "She's probably thinking, I wish I could share his pain.

'You don't know Deborah. Four of her girlfriends already have Cabbage Patch dolls stashed in their closets for Christmas. They don't say it out loud, but Deborah knows they pity her for having married beneath herself

"Broadstreet, if you don't get a Cabbage Patch Kid for your daughter, you're not going to be accused of child abuse. Maybe it's as good a time as any for Jessica to learn that she can't have everything in life she asks for.

"I guess not. Are you sure you've tried every resource available? I read in the newspaper the other day that if you deposit $50,000 for 10 years with the Old Faithful Savings and Loan, they'll give you a Cabbage Patch Kid absolutely free.

"I saw the same ad. They ran out of dolls the first day. Someone also ran an advertisement for a $2 million house in Georgetown, and said they'd throw in a Silver Cloud Rolls-Royce and a Cabbage Patch doll in the deal. They had to call out the police when 600 people showed up. I'm desperate. That's why I came to His insistence on collectivization in Tanzania is the principal reason his country is in deep economic trouble. The International Monetary Fund has insisted on economic reforms in Tanzania as a condition for loans, but Mr. Nyerere has refused to accept reform. He prefers the maintenance of socialist dogma to the relief of his people. That's the situation in many parts of Africa.

Africa's hungry for leadership

The tragic fact is that famine seems destined to worsen in Africa in the years ahead. Massive food relief this year will not get to the root of the problem, which is gross mismanagement of agriculture. Socialist regimes in Africa bitterly oppose the agricultural reforms that could produce good harvests and deal effectively with drought.

It's time that the Western world acknowledges that far-reaching changes will be required of millions of Africans in 22 countries if they are not to starve to death in the future. The real need is a return to something like the old League of Nations mandates for much of Africa. Vast territories must be placed under intelligent interna-tional direction if a condition of per-manent famine is to be prevented.

The incapable, hostile regimes that exist in so many African coun-

Political figures such as Nyerere say the West wants to recolonize Africa. It wants nothing of the sort. The Western nations, however, are being forced to feed their former colonies. ## Louisiana men plead guilty in fishing fraud

MARSHALL (AP) — Four Louisiana men have admitted in federal court that they cheated to win more than $200,000 in bass fishing tournaments in East Texas. The men pleaded guilty Tuesday to federal charges of conspiracy to commit fraud through a scheme in which they imported large black bass from south Florida and then claimed to have caught them during high-stakes fishing tournaments on Texas lakes.

Elro Vernon McNeil, 31, and Carey Harmon, both of Bossier City, La.; Garry W. Parkerson, 39, of Sarepta, La.; and Kenneth Puckett, of Dubach, La., pleaded guilty to the charge of conspiring to commit

All but Parkerson were released on personal recognizance bonds, pending sentencing. Parkerson was returned to Minden, La., where officials said he was being held on an unrelated weapons charge. The men face up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

U.S. Attorney Chris Harrison said U.S. District Judge Robert Parker will sentence the men in two or three months, after a pre-sentence investigation is completed.

The cheating scandal came to light earlier this year after a prizewinning fisherman was found shot to death on a private lake in Grand Prairie, the day before he was to testify before a Tyler federal grand jury investigating the cheating.

The death of Danny Ray Davis, 33, of Grand Prairie was ruled a suicide. The grand jury was looking into a 1983 Labor Day weekend tourna-ment on Lake Wright Patman in East Texas, in which Davis won the first prize of $50,000.

Two fishermen who claimed prize catches were disqualified after failing polygraph exams. Lab tests showed their fish were from Florida. Authorities said Davis had trouble passing the test, but he was awarded the prize money on a 3-2 vote by the judges. Court papers said McNeil furnished Davis with the fish that won the top prize and that Davis paid $35,000 of his winnings back to

Puckett and Harmon admitted using fish from McNeil to win the $15,000 second prize and $8,000 third prize, respectively, in the same tour-

Three months earlier, court documents said, Davis used a fish from McNeil to win the $20,000 first prize in a bass tournament on Hubbard Creek Reservoir near Breckenridge in North Texas. Davis subsequently gave $15,000 of the winnings to McNeil, Harrison said.

Parkerson admitted using a fish supplied by McNeil to win the $105,000 first prize in a March 26, 1983 tournament on Lake o' the Pines in East Texas. According to court documents, Parkerson gave McNeil $70,000 of the winnings.

The cheating ring was involved in at least four other Texas tournaments, Harrison said.

'Most of these guys never wet a hook," said investigator Steven R. Hamilton, a special agent with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service.

"And most of the fish never touched lake water in Texas. They would go directly from McNeil's truck into the live well of the fisherman's boat," Hamilton said.

The investigation into the scandal began after the Labor Day tournament in 1983, Hamilton said, after a Longview woman learned of her fisherman son's involvement in the scheme and persuaded him to tell

Terry Isam, 21, of Longview, was charged on Aug. 29, 1984, with 'knowingly and willfully devising a scheme and artifice to defraud and to obtain money by false and fraud-ulent pretenses," and using a wire communication, or telephone call. between Texas and Louisiana to exeAUSTIN (AP) - The death of a

Texas GOP goes to court in Harlingen JP race

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Republicans have gone to court to try to win back an historic Election Day victory they claim was stolen from them after the election.

State GOP Chairman George Strake said Tuesday that 2,385 absentee ballots "apparently disappeared" between Election Day and a Nov. 15 recount of a Harlingen justice of the peace race.

The first count gave Republican Gary Thornburg a 155-vote win over was the GOP's first win in the Rio Grande Valley since Reconstruction. But the Democrats asked for a recount, which produced a 67-vote win for Cano.

The state and Cameron County Republican parties filed suit in Brownsville to challenge the recount. Strake said GOP lawyers found 61 election law violations. The total absentee vote tallied in the recount was 2,385 votes less than the incumbent Democrat Eloy Cano. It election night total had been, Strake

'The disappearance of 2,385 ballots which just so happens to overturn the election of the first Republican in the Valley is far too much coincidence for anyone to swallow,' Strake said.

Giants can lose and still win

By MICHAEL JANOFSKY N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK - The National Conference playoff picture is such a crazy-quilt of possibilities that the Giants can lose to the New Orleans Saints Saturday and get in, and they can defeat the Saints and be eliminated.

With one week of the regular season remaining, only the San Francisco 49ers and the Chicago Bears are assured of postseason play, as champions of the NFC West and Central divisions. The three other NFC playoff openings are unfilled, and five teams are still eligible to fill them.

Typically, it won't be easy for the Giants. Four games this weekend will produce 16 different scenarios, several of which would benefit the Giants. Like the Cowboys and the Los Angeles Rams, the Giants can only make the playoffs as wild cards, but because of the current circumstances, they do not control their own destinies. Given the way their season has gone, maybe that's good.

AT THE moment, the Washington Redskins lead the Eastern Division with a 10-5 record and would clinch the division championship with a victory Sunday over the Cardinals in Washington. That would also eliminate the Cardinals. If the Cardinals, who are now 9-6, won, they would win the division, leaving Washington to worry about wild-card scenarios. The other contenders in the Eastern division, the Giants and the Cowboys, are also 9-6. The Rams, a Western division team, are 10-5.

The important games this weekend are the Giants' game with the Saints at Giants Stadium, Los Angeles at San Francisco Friday night, St. Louis at Washington Sunday and Dallas at Miami Monday night.

Here is what has to happen for the Giants to make the Super Bowl tournament:

NFL Playoff Scene

The Rams' victory would give them one wild-card spot based on their 11-5 overall record, and the Giants' division record would be better than that of the Redskins, if the Redskins were to lose to the Cardinals, and that of the Cowboys, even if the Cowboys were to defeat the Dolphins. The wild-card game would be played in Anaheim, Calif., just as any wild-card game involving the Rams would be.

-IF THE Giants beat the Saints, and the Cardinals and the Cowboys lose, the Giants will be in based on their overall record. The Rams-49ers outcome would have no bearing on this; in either case, the Rams would win the other wild card.

The Giants could lose to the Saints and qualify if the Cardinals and Cowboys lost. That would give the Rams one wild-card berth, based on their overall record, and the Giants the other because of a sweep of their two games with the Cow-

The Giants could also make the playoffs one other, but highly improbable, way. If all five NFC teams in contention finished at 10-6, the Cardinals would win the Eastern division and the Giants could qualify if the Rams finish the season with an edge over the Redskins in the differential of points scored in conference games. That's nearly impossible, because both the Rams and Redskins would each have to lose, and the Redskins would have to lose by at least 44 more points than the Rams lose by. Right now, the Redskins areplus 61 and the Rams plus 19.

If all that happened, the Rams would win one wild-card berth and the Giants would win the other, based on a better record within the divilose. They can get in if the Rams lose, if the Giants lose or if the Giants and Cowboys lose.

No matter what happens before Monday night. if the Cowboys lose, they're out. But they would make it with a victory over the Dolphins and a loss by the Rams or with a victory over the Dolphins, a victory by the Rams and losses by the Giants and the Cardinals.

The Rams can clinch a wild card with a victory over the 49ers. Or they can lose to the 49ers and get in with a loss by the Cardinals or the Cow-

The American Conference is not nearly so

The Dolphins have clinched the Eastern Division. The Pittsburgh Steelers can clinch the Central with a victory over the Los Angeles Raiders Sunday in Los Angeles. If they lose and the Cincinnati Bengals beat the Buffalo Bills in Cincinnati, the Bengals win the division. If the Steelers and Bengals both lose, the Steelers win the divi-

THE WESTERN Division will contribute three teams to the playoffs, the Seattle Seahawks, the Denver Broncos and the Raiders. The Seahawks and the Broncos, both 12-3, play Saturday in Seattle. With a victory or a tie, the Seahawks win the division title, and the wild-card game will be played in Denver between the Broncos and Raiders.

If the Broncos defeat the Seahawks, the Broncos win the division and the Raiders would be the host team for the wild-card game against Seattle, assuming the Raiders beat the Steelers next Sunday.

If Denver wins and the Dolphins lose to the Cowboys, the Broncos would have the home-site advantage throughout the playoffs. If Seattle and Miami win, Miami would have the home-site advantage.

No matter how the Western Division shakes down, the survivor of the wild-card game will play the following week in Miami.

Baseball woos Sutcliffe

Free agent seduction hits high

By GENE SEYMOUR Copley News Service

CHICAGO - The seduction of Rick Sutcliffe has been one of the longest, strangest trips in baseball's

- A song pleading for Sutcliffe's services emanates from San Diego radio station KFMB. A Kansas City disc jockey - a friend of Sutcliffe's who has since apologized for his actions - encouraged a massive letter-writing campaign.

- Cubs general manager Dallas Green has used potential guilt to entice the sensitive Sutcliffe, consistently reminding the media how last season's pitching ace is a man of his word "and Rick promised me we'd talk" before signing with anyone but the Cubs.

Atlanta's Ted Turner made his recruiting pitch with, in Sutcliffe's words, "just a hell of an offer," and reminds that Bruce Sutter is waiting to save 25 or so wins for him.

San Diego has pulled out the social stops in courting Sutcliffe and his wife, Robin. Among the more memorable efforts from that city: Someone will buy Sutcliffe property in San Diego should he sign with the Padres; he'd be privy to a nudist beach rights and countless, willing female bodies. Not really the way to entice a family man.

BUT TRUE to the strangely twisted priorities of the sporting world, nothing less than irrational behavior should be expected when baseball's hottest commodity is ripe for the catch. Still This whole thing caught us by surprise," said Sutcliffe, adding he wants nothing more than to make an announcement by week's end. "This has gone on too long. I need to get back to the rest of my life Today (wed) could be the first day of the rest of the Cy Young Award winner's life, according to his agent, Barry Axelrod. Summoning his best cliches, Axelrod said Tuesday: "The ball is in Rick's court. It's time now to throw a dart. This means the four contending teams in the Sutcliffe Stakes - it is unclear whether Chicago or San Diego is No. 1, but Atlanta is said to be No. 3 and Kansas City No. 4 - finally have tendered their final

There are acceptable proposals from all four teams. We've been told if wording adjustments have to be made, it won't be a problem," said Axelrod, alluding to the area of deferred payments, loan packages and other legalese that tends to isolate those workers from average households.

Confusion surfaced Monday when San Diego was given a chance to rework the "nuances" in its reported five-year offer for between $8 million and 9 million. This upset Green, who was "hurt and disappointed" thinking San Diego was given a chance to revise its asked us Thursday if they could have till Monday to reword the language," Axelrod said. "Since I work 20 minutes from them, we said it was no problem. Just a Added Sutcliffe: "If Dallas would have said last Thursday he needed to rework the contract, it would have been no problem. Dallas came to Houston (last week for baseball's winter meetings) hoping to get a look at all the final offers and then top them," Axelrod said. "We've never let anyone know what's been offered. We never wanted a bidding war.

"If Rick picks the Cubs, he won't ask for a dollar more than their offer."

We've been continually told they want to work this out as soon as possible," Green said. "I feel Rick and Barry are honorable men. You have to have faith they are conducting this thing the way they see fit. I don't think there any problems that can't be overcome.

If Chicago loses Sutcliffe, Green says it won't be due to the Cubs' lack of effort. "We tried to sign our free agents during the season. We went hard after them in the off-season," he said. "It would hurt to lose Rick, but it won't be the end of the world.

We have a good team. No club can live or die with one player.

Sutcliffe was relaxing Tuesday in Lee's Summitt, Mo., giving daughter Shelby a bath. He was reflecting on the perils of becoming disgustingly rich.

We've asked everyone from the beginning for their final offers," he said. "If we'd have gotten them after the free agent draft, they could have been evaluated

Sutcliffe moans about time lost that normally is logged for hunting and fishing. "Tve only been hunting once or twice, fishing two or three times," he said. Normally, I'm out five, six times a week.

CUBS ALL-STAR catcher Jody Davis also favors the outdoors life. What's possible is Davis might be the decisive factor in where Sutcliffe goes. Davis has won the complete trust of the 6-foot-7, red-bearded Sut-

Team Sutcliffe/Axelrod contends it will be the organization they deem best-suited to contend for the next five years that will win them over, if the money is equal, which they say it basically is.

They all look good for years to come," Sutcliffe said. 'No one would have thought Chicago, San Diego or Kansas City could have won last year. Atlanta had an off year, but they have to expect great things now with Axelrod has described Kansas City as most fitting Sutcliffe's woodsy personality. But Axelrod also told the Atlanta Constitution the Braves are in the top three, leading to the belief that Kansas City is No. 4.

It has been suggested Robin Sutcliffe might make the decision, but Axelrod dismissed that notion, "She will participate," he said. "There are more personally important things to Rick involved than to Robin:

The Midland Lee Rebels had some trouble in the first half with the Levelland Lobos but in the end their press defense and outside shooting attack was too much to handle as they claimed a 54-41 victory Tuesday night at Lee Gym.

Lee let a 146 first quarter lead disappear in the second when Levelland made a 15-7 charge to tie the game at 21 at the half.

At the start of the third quarter, the Rebs and Lobos exchanged buckets to briefly keep the deadlock before Lee made a quick run, cashing in on a 20-footer from Derek Westbrook and a 10-footer and two free throws from Raymond Moreny to take a 29-23 advantage with 4:35 left in the third.

The Lobos made their final run of the game at the Rebs with seven straight points for their final lead of the night, 30-29. Lee answered with Tim Hill closing out the period with two field goals and a free throw for a 34-30 lead. The Rebs totally dominated the fourth quarter, 20-11, to of the Rebels' scoring in the game, claim the victory and up their rec- canning five field goals and 7-of-8 ord to 8-2 while Levelland dropped free throws for a game high 17 to 3-5.

"We did cause some turnovers with our press defense and that was good," said Lee head coach Paul Stueckler. "Our ball handling and shooting was a bit off but it's a tribute to the boys to be able to win when things aren't going too good."

FOR THE first time this season the Rebels were at full strength, adding two starters and a junior varsity player from a year ago to the roster: Anthony Dickens, Tyrone Thurman and Earl Davis respec-

SportSean Birds sign Fred Lynn to five-year contract

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Baltimore Orioles, continuing to break precedent following an off-season at the plate, have again opened their wallets to buy another free agent nine-time All-Star Fred Lynn.

Lynn, to turn 33 on Feb. 3, signed a five-year contract Tuesday worth $6.8 million as Baltimore made another move trying to bolster its offense. Last week, the Orioles signed free-agent outfielder Lee Lacy to a four-year pact worth a reported $2 million.

Ever since the re-entry system began in 1976, the Orioles disdained going after expensive free agents. Instead, they were content to acquire role players at lesser costs. In 1983, Baltimore won the World Series, scoring 799 runs and batting 269 as a team. In 1984, however, the Orioles slumped to a fifth-place finish in the American League East while scoring 681 runs with a .252 team average.

Hank Peters, Baltimore's executive vice president, said Lynn probably would hit fifth in the lineup, but said the decision would be up to Manager Joe Altobelli.

Asked where he'd like to hit, Lynn said, "Anywhere next to (Cal) Ripken and (Eddie) Murray," the powerful 34 batters.

"It's obvious we're going to score some runs," said Lynn. "I would think it would be a tremendous burden on pitchers now because they can't pitch around Murray and Ripken like last year.

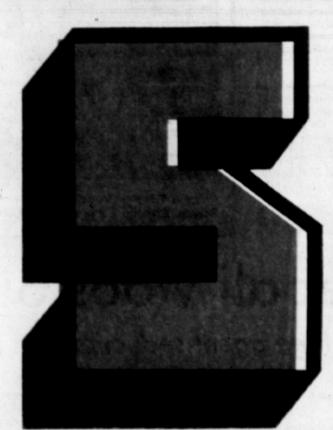

Lynn, an outfielder who has a career average of .295 for 10 seasons, hit 271 with 23 home runs in 1984 with the California Angels.

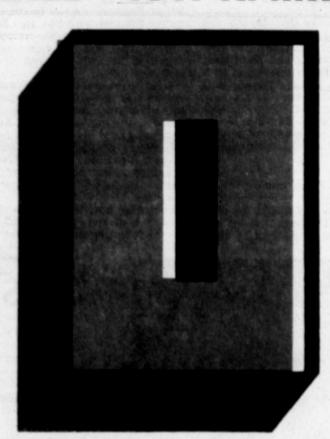

"California offered a one-year contract at substantially less than I had made the year before," Lynn said. The Angels never did make a realistic multiyear proposal."

He earned $1.45 million in California last year, and will earn about the same amount his first season with the Orioles. Lynn earned $5.25 million during his four years with the Angels.

will be success

DALLAS (AP) — Even if Dallas fails to get into the National Football League playoffs, the 1984 Cowboys' season will be a success in Coach Tom Landry's eyes.

"This team is a much more solid group than last year or we wouldn't have had a chance to make the playoffs," Landry said. He added, "We lost a lot of leadership in Drew Pearson, Billy Joe DuPree, and Pat Donovan. We had to struggle all the way, every game. We could have been out of the playoff race easily but it was a credit to the team to be able to pull itself up.

We're fortunate we still have a chance. The Cowboys will need help. If San Francisco defeats Los Angeles on Friday night, then Dallas can make the playoffs by defeating Miami on Monday night. The 49er-Rams game will be nationally televised but Landry won't watch. "I probably won't even look at the game

From Staff Reports

ANDREWS - The Midland High girls basketball team suffered its second defeat of the season at the hands of Andrews' Lady Mustangs here Tuesday night in a 68-51 loss, but it wasn't as bad as the opening season loss when the Bulldogs dropped an 81-43 decision to Andrews.

The Mustangs took a 22-12 first quarter lead to establish the lead they needed as the game was fought on even terms after that. Andrews, a state ranked 4A squad, is now 10-1 on the season while Midland High fell to 7-6, heading into the allimportant District 4-5A basketball race Monday when they travel to Odessa to face the Permian Panthers in district opener for both teams.

Eagles seek Phoenix sun

DeConcini says move assured

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles say no final decision has been made, but two Arizona officials and a U.S. senator say financially strapped Leonard Tose has agreed to move his National Football League team to Phoenix.

The move, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer and the Arizona Republic, would include Tose's sale of 25 percent of the team to Canadian businessman James Monaghan, who also has a residence in Phoenix.

'I understand Tose confirmed the deal," Eddie Lynch, chairman of the Phoneix Metropolitan Sports Foundation, said Tuesday. "My first reaction is empathy for the Philadelphia fans, and secondly, I'm elated about them coming to Phoenix."

The Inquirer quoted Michael Gallagher, chairman of the Mayor's Professional Sports Advisory Committee in Phoenix, as saying: "I'd say this move is done. I'm pleased we're going to have an NFL football team, but it's too bad that someone has to lose one for us to U.S. SEN. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said from his suburban Washington home Tuesday night that the move is virtually assured, adding that plans call for an announcement Monday — the day after the Eagles finish their season in Atlanta. The Arizona Republic said the Eagles were ready to shift the franchise to Phoenix within days after Sunday's last game.

"I have a very reliable source who says that that is going to happen," DeConcini said. "I'll be very surprised if the move doesn't take place.

In New York, NFL spokesman Joe Browne said that a proposed refinancing agreement involving possible new ownership had arrived from the Eagles Tuesday morning but contained no reference to any Eagles'

"We have had no contact from either Leonard Tose or Susan Fletcher (Tose's daughter and team vice president) regarding a possible Eagles' transfer out of Philadelphia," Browne said.

Mayor W. Wilson Goode said the city was committed to keeping the Eagles and hoped to get a group of local businessmen to match any offer Tose receives from investors in Phoenix.

Goode said he had talked with Tose on Tuesday night and met with aides on the matter most of the day. We probably have between 24 and 48 hours to resolve this issue," Goode said. In response to numerous questions and several threats against Tose made by irate fans calling the Eagles' office, spokesman Ed Wisneski said: "Mr. Tose is considering a move to Phoenix, but nothing has been signed and no final decision has been made. There is nothing more I can tell you.

Wisneski said Tose and Fletcher would not be available for comment on the latest reports.

The reports left the players and coaches shocked. "It was startling to everyone involved," said quarter-back Ron Jaworski, who owns two golf courses and a fitness center in the area. "From a fan's standpoint, from my standpoint as a player, it's devastating in a lot

Harry Gamble, administrative assistant for Coach Marion Campbell, said: "I don't feel anything other than shock, amazement, bewilderment. I haven't heard anything official, but where's there's smoke, there's

The effort to sell part of the team would be the second for Tose in two years. Last year, Tose, who reportedly has run up $40 million in operating debts and gambling losses, agreed to sell a majority of the club to four investors but backed out of the deal. The investors sued and obtained a $1.75 million settlement from

IF THE Eagles leave Philadelphia, which has hosted the NFL team for 51 years, the city would be left without a pro football team. The Stars, after winning the United States Football League championship last summer, announced they would spend the coming spring season in College Park, Md., then head for Baltimore because of the USFL switch to a fall schedule.

Carl Peterson, the Stars' president and a former Eagles executive, said: "While it is true that we have not signed an agreement with the city of Baltimore (for use of Memorial Stadium), we consider it strictly a formality while the lawyers are drawing up an official contract . . . We are set to go to Baltimore and there is no turning back.

Lynch said the first discussions with Tose came in March and the deal gained shape in the last month, but one of the reasons no agreement was formally reached until last weekend was a concern by the Eagles about a news leak before their final home game of the season last Sunday

Things are back to normal in Georgia.

Joe Ward drilled a 12-foot jumper with four seconds to play Tuesday night as Georgia defeated 12thranked Georgia Tech 60-59. It was Georgia's seventh consecutive college basketball victory over Tech, which has beaten the Bulldogs only once in a varsity sport since 1982 a 35-18 football triumph Dec. 1.

Tech was the only member of the Top Twenty to lose Tuesday night, but both No. 5 Memphis State and No. 16 Indiana got healthy scares.

Vincent Askew scored four points in overtime to give Memphis State a 57-52 victory over gritty Mississippi, and Indiana needed free throws by Delray Brooks and Mike Giomi in the last minute to hold off Iowa

Memphis State committed 18 turnovers and connected on only 43 percent of its field goal attempts, a fact not lost on Mississippi Coach Lee

'I am proud of our team. I thought it was a sensational effort, Hunt said. "We played as hard as we can. We just didn't get the shots to fall in overtime.

In fact, Ole Miss connected on only 38 percent of its shots for the game, and the Rebels were doomed after Memphis State's Keith Lee opened the overtime with a basket. Lee led the Tigers, 5-0, with 19 points, while Ole Miss, 3-2, got 18 from Eric Laird.

Indiana, 3-2, overcame Iowa State's second-half lead when leading scorer Steve Alford began finding the range. Alford finished with 22 points, 16 in the second half

NBA score King explodes

Associated Press

It was a royal return for Bernard

The 6-foot-7 forward, who leads the National Basketball Association in scoring, had 34 points Tuesday night to lead the New York Knicks to a 110-106 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers in his first game after a 13-day absence because of a groin

"After an injury like that, to put in a night like this . . .," New York Coach Hubie Brown said, his voice trailing off as he searched for words to describe what King means to the team. The Knicks had lost six of the seven games they played without King and they were facing a Philadelphia team that had won seven straight.

"In each player's heart, they know we have a better chance to win when he's out there," Brown said. "With Bernard, ball movement is easier, we get uncontested shots and our perimeter people get open. That's not to mention the inner lift he gives us, a spirit that carries over to the rest of the guys.

'My conditioning was not quite where I wanted it to be, but I just wanted to provide a spark," said King, who had 15 points in the fourth quarter to keep the Knicks ahead after they blew most of a 22point margin.

King said he was unsure how well he could play after the two-week layoff, but he knew the team needed his leadership. 'Even if I wasn't effective tonight, I wanted to help the team mentally,' he said. "It's a big difference being defended against by your teammates in practice andplaying against the 76ers. My leg's a little sore, but I didn't have a fear of injury.

The Knicks led 68-46 three minutes into the second half after scoring the first six points of the third quarter. But the 76ers, who lost for only the fifth time in 21 games, outscored New York 15-2 at the free throw line in the third quarter to cut the deficit to 82-74 entering the final 12 minutes center Moses Malone and 17 each from guards Andrew Toney and Maurice Cheeks, then narrowed New York's margin to 91-86 midway through the fourth quarter before closing it to four points twice in the final minute.

Allen may sue Wranglers

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Former Arizona Wranglers coach and chairman of the board George Allen says he may be forced to seek legal action against the United States Football League team over money

Allen, 66, said he would meet with his former boss, Phoenix heart surgeon Dr. Ted Diethrich, here Wednesday after hearing that he has no stock in the merged Wranglers-Oklahoma Outlaws franchise.

I just want what is legally right and what is coming to me, what's been promised. That's all," Allen said. "Committments were up in the air that haven't been kept. To hire attorneys and go to court with something that is as simple as ABC, I don't see why . . . But if it has to be, it will be.

When Oklahoma and the Wranglers merged last week to become the Arizona Outlaws, Dietrich became chairman of the board and went from majority owner to minority owner with a 25 percent interest.

Oklahoma co-owners Bill Tathan Sr. and Bill Tatham Jr. now own 75 percent of the Arizona franchise.

When he resigned as coach Sept. 27, Allen told reporters that he owned "more than 10 percent" of the Wranglers. But Diethrich called it "a sort of future stock" based on the team making money.

Diethrich reportedly lost about $14 million in two years.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Secretary of State George P. Schultz, singer John Davidson, actors Christopher Plummer and Dick Van Dyke, author Ross Mac-Donald and Pittsburgh Pirate Dale Berra celebrate birthdays today. Also born on this date: the late journalist Drew Pearson and actor Van Heflin. Business success depends on your ability to mend some broken fences. A positive attitude leads up the ladder to fame and fortune. Forget past grievances. Travel and good luck go hand-inhand. Be firm with those who try to distract you from your goals. A new romance looks very promising. Do not demand too much too soon.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): New developments could open the door to a wonderful financial opportunity. Make the most of things. Get in touch with an old love; the flame has not gone out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Get ready for big changes. Better days lie just ahead. Reach out and grab the brass ring! A personal relationship improves with age. Enjoy your new happiness and security.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You feel pulled in two directions now. The choice will not be easy. If you do not make it, however, someone else will. Your energy returns following a rest or vacation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22):

Acting superior is a defense mechanism you often employ. Better find a new approach before you hurt a loved one. Let your true feelings show. A young person follows your lead. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Although you feel much better after letting off steam, you had better not indulge yourself too often. A money matter can be settled in your favor if you present a specific VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A tax matter should be resolved before the end of the year. An open-minded attitude will help you develop more harmonious relations

Desperate situations call for desperate measures. From the West seat, how would you try to defeat South's spade game?

West might have entered the auction with a takeout double. However, his silence proved to be beneficial in the play - had he announced strength, there is no way South would have gone down at four spades.

West led the queen of clubs against four spades. Declarer won the ace and led a trump. West shot in with the ace and found the only shift to give his side a chance - a low heart!

What motivated West to underlead his heart honors? It was obvious that, outside of the heart suit. the defenders could hope for only two tricks - the ace of trumps and a diamond. Therefore, to defeat the contract they needed two heart' tricks, and they had to score them quickly. Once declarer had dummy's diamonds established, he would get all the discards he needed.

Obviously, if West led a heart honor, his side would get only one heart trick. Also, if declarer held the ten of hearts, he could hold his losers to one. The only combination that gave the defenders a shot would be if South held the nine of hearts and East the ten.

When West led a low heart. declarer mulled over the position at length before deciding his best chance to make the contract was to find West with a high honor and the ten and East with the other honor. So he played low from dummy and a surprised East won the ten. He returned a heart and, in due course, the defenders collected a second heart and the king of diamonds for a one-trick set.

Last week best week for CBS in Nielsen ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS had its best week of the 1984-85 campaign, taking the prime-time and eveningnews ratings by the widest margins of the season. The network's dominance also sank "The Love Boat" and won Saturday night for the first time.

CBS finished the week of Dec. 3-9 with an average prime-time rating of 18.3, according to figures released Tuesday by the A.C. Nielsen Co. ABC was 3.1 ratings points behind with a 15.2 and NBC, with a weak performance from the first installment of its "Sun Also Rises" miniseries, had a 14.6.

ABC's "Dynasty" was the top-rated show.

CBS also gained its largest overall lead in the 11-week-old season: 17.1 to NBC's 16.5 and ABC's 15.1.The ratings measure the average percentage of the nation's 84.9 million TV homes watching a particular network.

In the nightly news competition, the "CBS Evening News" had a season-high 15.0 rating, finishing 2.9 rat-ings points ahead of the "NBC Nightly News," in second for the third consecutive week. NBC's 12.1 was its highest rating since January. ABC's "World News Tonight" had an 11.6.

Throughout the season, CBS' strength has been its regular series. Last week, as usual, CBS' shows dominated Monday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday. But, for the first time, CBS also won Saturday night with its action-adventure lineup of "Airwolf," "Mike Hammer" and "Cover Up.

CBS averaged a 14.6 rating on Saturday night, beating ABC's female-appeal series that included "The Love Boat" and "Finder of Lost Loves."

It is only fitting that Army should be in the inaugural Cherry Bowl. They are both among the biggest surprises of the college football season.

Never before has Army played in a bowl game. World War II prevented the national champions of 1944 and 1945 from going and the Secretary of the Army lowered the boom on the Cadets' bowl dreams in the late 1960s.

Never before has there been a Cherry Bowl. 'We're 90-day wonders," said Tom Martin, president of the fledgling bowl which pairs Army with Michigan State on Dec. 22 at the 80,638-seat Pontiac, Mich., Silverdome, the world's largest air-supported domed stadium. "We weren't even sanctioned by the NCAA

MICHIGAN, IN case you didn't know, is the cherry capital of the world. Almost three years ago, the cherry industry asked Martin, its promotions man, if it could get involved in Super Bowl XVI at the Silverdome.

"That wasn't possible," he said. "But I told them, You may never see the Super Bowl again. How would you like your very own bowl?'

Armed with the go-ahead, Martin next had to sell the NCAA, which had more bowls than Elizabeth Taylor had ex-husbands. They were a little cool," he said. "They weren't sure if they needed another bowl. My response was that Michigan is the heart of football country. The University of Michigan has more than 100,000 spectators at each home game and Michigan State has more than 70,000, but if you want to see a postseason game you have to take some money out of the bank and go to a different part of the country."

The Cherry Bowl expects to pay more than $1 million per team, an amazing sum for a non-New Year's Day game, much less one in its initial year of existence. Ticket sales have passed the 60,000 mark and the corporate community has covered its allotment.

Come Sunday, the Army football team will embark on its first bowl trip, something Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis, "Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside," never did. Nor did Pete Dawkins, Army's other Heisman Tro-

The Cadets will bring with them a 7-3-1 record, Army's best since 1968 and only the third winning season since then. They also will bring a Wishbone offense that led the nation in rushing with 345.3 yards a game - even though Elton Akins, the leading 1983 rusher, quit the team — and a backfield that consists of four unknown soldiers.

NONE OF them played a single down at their respective positions a year ago. Nate Sassaman led all Division I-A quarterbacks in rushing with 1,002 yards after playing defensive back last season. Fullback Doug Black was cut as a freshman linebacker, played intramural eight-man football for two years, asked for a tryout last spring and climbed from No. 8 to No. 1 on the depth chart in just two weeks.

Black rushed for an academy record 1,148 yards this fall, finishing 13th nationally, and he and Sassaman became only the fourth and fifth runners in Army history to rush for more than 1,000 yards in a season (for trivia buffs, Blanchard, Davis and Dawkins never did it; the answers are Tommy Bell in 1954, Charlie Jarvis in 1968 and Gerald Walker in 1981).

Jarvis Hollingsworth, one of the halfbacks, was a wide receiver in 1983 and Clarence Jones, the other one, did not carry the ball in a varsity game a year ago. Dee Bryant, who started most of the season at one halfback spot until suffering a thigh injury, played defensive back his first three seasons at West Point.

Army's season entitles Coach Jim Young to a few cackles at the expense of those (translation: just about everyone) who snickered when he took over in 1983 and said he did not believe in rebuilding, only to debut

"I always go in with the idea of being successful," Young said. "Any time you put it off and say it's going to take two or three years, you're telling your people they're not good enough. But as 1983 progressed, I got beat down like the players did. This year, we won early (a 3-0-1 start) and the belief and confidence came on.

From a standpoint that we can play competitive football and be a winner, being in a bowl proves that and it will certainly have a positive effect on recruiting. This season proves we're capable of playing major-

HOWEVER, THE general who wired Coach Tom Cahill following a 77-7 loss to Nebraska in 1972 that "if these are the kind of young men West Point is producing, I'm going to invest in Russian war bonds" should not expect a return to the Blanchard-Davis glory years.

'Army is back — to a point," Young said. "We're sort of in the middle between the Ivy League and the major colleges. For us to win in the future, we'll have to do it the same way we did it this year — be at our best in each game and play with emotion. If we ever lose those intangibles it will be tough because we're not just going to show up on the field and beat anybody. There will always be a fine line between winning and losing."

In 1919, referring to France and World War I, Douglas MacArthur said:

"Over there, I became convinced that the men who had taken part in organized sport made the best soldiers. They were the most dependable, hardy, courageous officers I had. Men who had contended against other human beings under rules of a game were the readiest to accept and enforce discipline . . . It is a type appropriate to West Point."

And on Dec., 11, 1984, Lt. Gen. Willard W. Scott Jr., superintendent of the United States Military Academy, uttered a line that has become West Point's latest war cry. What he said was, "Beat Michigan State!"

Old college typewriter sends Gary Carter to Mets

NEW YORK (AP) - Gary Carter already had the champagne on ice at his home in West Palm Beach, Fla., when New York Mets General Manager Frank Cashen and associates arrived to talk about a contract.

And, in a matter of hours, Cashen was using a typewriter left over from Carter's college days to make the last-minute contract revisions that would bring Carter to the Mets. "I got into his car at the airport and we shook hands," Cashen said. "I went down there knowing I would have to negotiate, but in his mind; he already had the uniform on."

THE TRADE that sent four Mets, including shortstop Hubie Brooks and catcher Mike Fitzgerald, to the Montreal Expos for Carter was made during baseball's winter meetings last week. It was completed Monday when the Mets agreed to assume Carter's contract and include a notrade clause

In return for the no-trade clause, Carter agreed not to exercise his right to demand a trade during the remaining five years on his contract, believed to be worth about $1.87 million per year. "We had to change some of the conditions in his contract," Cashen said, "so we had to find a typewriter. He (Carter) found an old one he used in college. The ribbon was dried up a little bit, but Al (Harazin, Mets vice president) punched it out with one

Then we realized we needed two copies, so while Gary went in the other room, I picked out another one," Cashen said. "And those were the copies of the contract we Cashen flew with Harazin and Joe McIlvaine, Mets director of player personnel, to West Palm Beach Monday. When they flew back Monday night, they had Carter's contract in hand. Mets owner Nelson Doubleday was at Shea Stadium to meet the returning executives.

APPARENTLY Carter's only real concern, once the Mets agreed to the no-trade clause, was the names of the Mets who had been traded.

"He was afraid early on that we had traded some of the pitchers he had wanted to work with," Harazin

Among those pitchers will be Rookie of the Year Dwight Gooden, Ron Darling and left-hander Sid Fernandez. Carter's only association with Gooden, other than trying to hit his fastball, came at the All-Star

"He caught Gooden in the All-Star Game," Cashen said. "He told me he went out beforehand and told Dwight that he was here because he deserved it, now he should just have fun and blow them away. And that's exactly what he did.

Carter tied for the National League lead in runs batted in with 106 last season and hit .294 with 27 home runs. In addition to Brooks and Fitzgerald, the Mets gave up two minor leaguers, outfielder Herm Winningham and right-handed pitcher Floyd Youmans.

'Anybody who sits around and chortles about making the best of a deal is kidding himself," Cashen said. "You have to look down the road a couple of years. Youmans might be their No. 1 pitcher in a couple of years. Fitgerald could be their top catcher. Winningham could be starting in center field, and Hubie could be the top offensive shortstop in the game.

Still, with Carter's bat added to those of Keith Hernandez, Darryl Strawberry and George Foster in the middle of the Mets batting order, Cashen had reason for opti-

"I can't guarantee we'll win. Nobody can do that," Cashen said. "I'd be an idiot to say that. But when us respectable. When we got Carter, that made us a contender.

The acquisition of Carter also gave the Mets three of the six highestpaid players in the game, along with Hernandez ($1.6 million per year) and Foster ($2 million per year). In two years, the Mets have gone from the lowest payroll in the National League to one of the highest.

"I don't worry about that image that people can say, 'Hey, we pay more,' "Cashen said. "There's much more to it. I'd pay to go see this ball-Cashen said the Mets' aggressiveness in obtaining high-quality players was "due to ownership willing to take that risk. I can't criticize the people that were here before. If you UNITED ARTISTS CINE 4 3207 W. Besides dumping a big salary, the Expos also may have realized that some wholesale changes were in order to rebuild their club. Even Cashen admits he has asked himself why the Expos would be willing to part with a player whom many consider the best in the league at his

T-bill yields dip

WASHINGTON (AP) - Yields on short-term Treasury securities fell in Monday's auctions, with rates on three-month bills hitting their lowest level in 19 months.

The government sold $13.6 billion in new securities - half in three-month bills at an average discount rate of 8.38 percent, down from last week's 8.52 percent, and half in six-month bills at an average rate of 8.57 percent, down from last week's 8.67 per-

Yields rose last week following three months of declines in which the three-month bills dropped from a high of 10.63 per-cent on Sept. 4, while six-month bills fell from a level of 10.75 percent during the same period.

Texas announces offshore gas discoveries

By The Associated Press

Texaco Inc. announced Tuesday that it discovered natural gas in two wells in the Gulf of Mexico east of Texas and Union Texas Petroleum said it found natural gas in an exploratory well drilled near an earlier discovery in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana

Texaco reported natural gas at several levels of wells drilled in Matagorda Island Blocks 670 and A-

At Block 670, Texaco reported natural gas tested at a rate of 16 million cubic feet a day at levels between 7,340 feet and 7,374 feet, and that gas tested at a daily rate of 2.7 million cubic feet at levels between 9,138 feet and 9,188 feet. The lower zone also tested small amounts of condensate, a light petroleum liquid.

The well, in about 108 feet of water, was drilled to a depth of 9,795 feet and is about 65 miles east of Corpus Christi, Texas.

day at an interval between 5,456 feet and 5,502 feet, and tested dry gas at a rate of 4.8 million cubic feet a day at an interval between 5,548 feet and 5.570 feet.

The well, about 81 miles east of Corpus Christi, was drilled in about 184 feet of water and is 6,018 feet

Union Texas, a Houston-based unit of Allied Corp., said natural gas was tested at a rate of 4.1 million cubic

It said that the well, about 110 miles south of Morgan City, La., was drilled in about 400 feet of water and struck natural gas at depths between 5,112 feet and 5,156 feet. Tests are being reviewed to determine whether to erect a production platform on the block, the company

Austin companies feel microchip industry slump

for the microchip industry, two Austin firms which make the devices have have frozen hiring in most job categories and reduced overtime

But neither Motorola Inc. nor Advanced Micro Devices plan any layoffs, officials say.

The severity of the downturn in microchips, also called semiconductors, became apparent last Friday when Texas Instruments announced it will lay off 2,000 employees in Jan-

Three days earlier, Honeywell Inc. announced a layoff of 1,000 workers at its Synertek Inc. semiconductor subsidiary in Minnesota.

Motorola and AMD are the only companies in Austin manufacturing semiconductors. Motorola employs 6,000 workers, and AMD employees

And while no layoffs are planned. the brisk employment growth of the past two years is over for now, officials say. The most optimistic observers say the doldrums will continue until next summer at least. Others predict all of 1985 will be hard

"It's truly a time of uncertainty," said Wolf Loescher, a Motorola vice president.

When the problems developed this fall, the industry was surprised. Business had been booming and 1984 industry growth is expected to hit 48 percent. The companies and the industry analysts were expecting continued prosperity, forecasting a 1985 growth rate of up to 35 percent

But the growth in the personal computer industry, a big user of expected. Compounding the prob- layoff policy," says Beedle.

AUSTIN (AP) — With some analem are the new plants semiconduc-lysts predicting a continued slump tor companies plan to open next tor companies plan to open next year, creating more production capacity. Advanced Micro Devices and Motorola are in better positions than some other companies, analysts say.

'Motorola has probably the broadest product mix of any semiconductor house in the world," said Will Strauss, a semiconductor industry consultant. "That's been their protection in the past.

Motorola, of Schaumburg, Ill., said its Austin-made microprocessors, which put the central elements of a computer on one chip, are selling well. The automotive market is a big user of Motorola microprocessors, and cars are still selling well. So are Apple Macintosh computers, which use the Motorola 68000 microproces-

Motorola memory chip operations in Austin will be more vulnerable to the downturn. Loescher said he expects price cuts throughout the industry in memory chips. He said the cuts probably will reduce profit margins. Still, Loescher said, most of Motorola's personal computer customers have healthy businesses.

Andy Rothman of Advanced Micro Devices said from the Sunnyvale, Calif., headquarters of the company that "AMD is in one of the best positions to ride out the current situation." Many analysts agree.

The company specializes in chips for specialty markets that carry high profit margins. It eschews the kinds of mass market chips causing the current glut. Still, the company has not gone untouched and, like Motorola, is only hiring personnel it considers essential.

Construction permits lower

The second-quarter 1984 dollar volume of nonresidential construction permits for the Midland area was sharply lower than the 1983 quarterly average while the residential volume was moderately lower, according to W.L. Born, assistant research economist with the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M University construction permits for the second quarter 1984 totaled more than $17 million, Says Born. Of this total, nearly $2 million was for nonresidential construction, and nearly $9 million was for residential enstruction. The remainder was for additions, alterations and repairs to existing structures.

Compared to the 1983 quarterly average, the 1984 second-quarter Multiple Listing Service (MLS) sales volume was relatively unchanged at nearly $28 million while the average sales price of $98,300 was slightly higher. Mortgage rates at area savings-and-loan associations during the second quarter 1984 remained relatively unchanged from the 1983 quarterly average

The second-quarter 1984 dollar volume of nonresidential construction permits for the state was slightly higher than the 1983 quarterly average while the residential volume was relatively unchanged.

Construction permits for the state totaled $4.7 billion in the second quarter 1984. Of this total, $1. billion was for nonresidential construction and $2.5 billion was for residential. The remainder was for additions, alterations and repairs to existing structures.

Compared to the 1983 quarterly average, the 1984 second-quarter statewide MLS sales volume was moderately higher while the average sales price was slightly higher. The second-quarter sales volume was $2.4 billion, and the average sales price was $90,270.

Marathon cuts crude oil prices

By NICHOLAS D. KRISTOF N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK - The Marathon Oil Co. Tuesday cut the price it will pay for the most common kind of American crude oil by 50 cents, to $28.50 a barrel. Although several small oil companies already post that price for West Texas Intermediate, most majors, like Marathon, have remained at $29 for the key grade.

"You're beginning to break through the $29 line," said Joel D. Fischer, a petroleum analyst with Drexel Burnham Lambert in New York. "What's happening is the market is soft, and crude is following the market

If followed by other majors, the cut will put more pressure on the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to reduce the $29 price of its benchmark crude, Saudi Arabian Light. The West Texas grade is lighter than the Saudi crude and contains less sulfur, so it generally is more valuable.

After the OPEC conference at the end of October, most oil companies cut their posted prices - how much they will pay - for West Texas Intermediate from the earlier price of $30. The majors generally dropped to $29, while independent refiners offered 50 cents or a dollar less.

On Dec. 1, the Sun Co. apparently led the way among the majors by also cutting prices to $28.50, in addition to a 35-cent-a-barrel transportation rebate for most of the oil it buys, effectively lowering the price to

Dillard P. Spriggs, president of Petroleum Analysis Inc., a New York consulting firm, said that, at the higher prices, the majors have been unwilling to buy much extra crude. So suppliers find that they simply cannot get the $29 price from a major, even though it is Analysts said the market was watching closely for hints as to how OPEC might address the problem of differentials when it meets again next Wednesday. At issue are the differentials, of $3 for benchmark crudes, between heavy and light oil. A three-nation OPEC committee made up of Saudi Arabia, Libya and the United Arab Emirates has reportedly agreed to address the problem by raising prices of heavy oil, but many experts doubt that producers of heavy crude will go along with that decision.

Success of Chevron, Gulf merger hinges on oil prices

By LAURIE ITOW Hearst News Service

San Francisco-based Chevron Corp.'s formidable task of dismantling and digesting the Gulf Corp. is expected to result in a better-equipped, more efficient oil company, but the financial success of the largest corporate merger in U.S. history could hinge on a factor out of Chevron's control - oil prices.

"The problem will be if oil prices collapse," said oil industry analyst William Higgins of Value Line Investment Survey in New York, "Then, Chevron will have paid a considerable amount of money for assets that are worth less and less."

In addition, the new company faces merger-related headaches. The new Chevron is expected to emerge by midyear with about 70,900 employees, and with 60,000 within five years - 20,000 fewer than the two companies had before the merger was announced. That will require the firing of thousands of people, most of them Gulf employees outside Chevron's foremost reason for buying Pittsburgh-based Gulf is the company's 2.05 billion barrels of oil reserves. After the merger, Chevron, the No. 5 company in the oil industry according to sales, and Gulf. No. 6, is expected to climb to No. 2, behind Exxon and ahead of Mobil. In terms of service station gasoline sales, the new company could become the nation's largest gasoline marketer, with more than 7 percent of the U.S. market, according to 1983 market share figures from the American Petroleum Institute.

At the $13.3 billion purchase price, industry analysts estimate, Chevron is paying more than $6 a barrel for Gulf and its oil reserves. It costs $8 to $18 a barrel to find oil and bring it to market, analysts estimate. But because of efforts to keep prices higher by oil producers such as the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, oil actually sells for a much higher price. The official price for Arabian light crude oil sold by OPEC, which serves as a benchmark for the industry, was $34 in early 1983. That price, however, has dropped to $29 because of an oil surplus, and the average price on the market has slipped to a little more than $28. Many industry analysts anticipate a further drop in oil prices in

If oil prices fall to the low $20s, "it would begin to look like Chevron had paid too much," Higgins said. That's because Chevron has assumed a $12 billion loan - its debt has grown from 10 percent to 40 percent of equity - and mus bar hefty interest payments on that loan, he said.

'If oil goes down to $15 a barrel, this deal will look catastrophic." Higgins said. "If it stays at $25 to $27 a barrel, the deal will look fine." Higgins and most other industry analysts think oil prices will safely hover around $25 to $27 a barrel for several years.

Chevron economist George Naniche said that the future of oil prices was a consideration in the decision to acquire Gulf, and that his forecast hasn'canged nce the merger was negotiated in March. Naniche believes there's a 50 percent chance that prices could drop by $1 to $2 in April, when demand is weak. He expects oil prices will remain flat or increase slightly less than the inflation rate until 1990. Then, prices will begin to increase faster than the inflation rate as the oil surplus is At Gulf, these are difficult times. The dark humor of a cartoon on the editorial page of the Pittsburgh Post Gazette illustrates how many Gulf employees feel about the merger, one Gulf employee said. The cartoon depicted p. Chairman James Lee as King Kong, climbing to the top of Gulf's 44-story art deco headquarters. With one arm around the sky-scraper and the other extended into the air, Lee was dropping a handful of Gulf employees to the ground. The caption reads: "Most of you will land on your feet." land on your feet." Last month, Chevron sold the Gulf Oil Trading Co. to a group of private investors, including Gulf Oil Trading employees, for a yet-undis-closed price. And Gulf's Keydril Co. of Houston, which operates 10 mobile oil exploration rigs, is for sale. It's estimated that Keydril could be sold for $300 million to $500 million.

Chevron also announced its plans to seil Gulf's Pittsburgh headquarters building, with an estimated value of $40 million. Chevron is also studying the selling off of some or all of Gulf's Canadian operations and other parts of the two organizations to reduce the company's $12 billion bank loan. In total, Chevron hopes to sell off $3 billion to $5 billion worth of assets to pay off its debt.

LONDON (AP) - The dollar edged up against all major European currencies today, and gold also improved slightly in trading described by dealers as extremely quiet.

'There's absolutely nothing going on," said a London dealer. He said the last days of the year traditionally bring calm on the currency exchanges.

A Frankfurt dealer said the dollar remained on "a positive trend," but he did not foresee any significant changes in the coming days.

Gold bullion markets were equally calm. "It's extremely quiet in London, but at the moment gold looks like having more scope on the upside than on the downside," said a London dealer

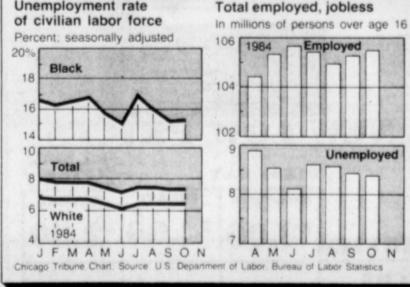

In Tokyo, where trading ends before Europe's business day begins, the dollar fell for the second consecutive day, closing at 246.90 yen, compared with Tuesday's 247.05. Later, in London, it looked slightly better

One conclusion, however, is already obvious: President Reagan has set a tone for wage negotiations in 1985 by proposing that federal workers accept a 5 percent pay cut.

In effect, increases of that amount are wage reductions, because the buying power of the consumer's dollar shrank more than 3.5 percent during the same period. Much of the new attitude of companies and unions developed during the big recession of 1981-1982, when events underscored a fundamental assumption that had long been ignored - that both labor and management needed each other.

At that point unions began talking about saving jobs, and about benefits instead of wage increases. And management began talking about the need for greater productivity and competitiveness.

> At the same time that companies were seeking less costly wage agreements from unions, they were laying off thousands of white collar workers, and trimming entire layers of bureaucracy from their management structures.

> Still another lesson developed from the experience: As the economy rose from the recession both labor and management recognized it was in their mutual interest to keep the process going by avoiding inflation.

> The relatively low level of inflation, following the scourge of double-digit price increases, permitted the new atmosphere to develop without strains. With inflation held in check, so were the demands for pay increases.

Now that it appears the economy is entering a period of slower growth, economists are talking of the threat of another recession. While the consensus is that such a prospect is unlikely, the threat remains.

And so long as it does, and so long as the other factors remain in place, it seems likely that wage inflation isn't likely to develop.

INVESTOR'S GUIDE Some firms hold dividend checks

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I thought it was a good idea to leave my stocks in "street name" at a big brokerage house - registered in the brokerage's name. The brokerage firm received the dividends from my stocks and credited that money to my

However, the brokerage firm "has a policy" of keeping that money and sending out checks on the first of each month - no matter what day a dividend is paid.

I have changed brokerage firms and my checks now are issued promptly. Can the first brokerage get away with holding people's money - sometimes for a full month because it's their "policy?"

A. Lots do. They get away with it because their customers don't kick. It probably will surprise you to learn that many customers leave large amounts of money with brokerage firms in what are called "free credit balances" earning no interest.

Some people do that after selling stock and want to have money available in their accounts to cover the purchase of other stocks. Others do it because they are just plain lazy Brokerage firms earn money on free credit balances - including dividends and interest collected and not sent along to customers. The customers don't.

One solution to this problem situation is to order your broker to put all spare cash in your account into a money market mutual fund where it will earn dividends for you. Another is to switch brokerage firms, as you did. Still another is to have your stocks registered in your name, so that you receive the dividends checks directly from the companies.

Q. What is the purpose of the "CUSIP" number found on securities? When was this numbering started? What are the Internal Revenue Service implications?

A. CUSIP stands for Committee on Uniform Security Identification Procedures. That's an arm of the national Association of Securities Dealers responsible for giving identification numbers to virtually all stock and bond certificates. XYZ Corp's common stock has one CUSIP number: XYZ Corp's preferred stock has a different num-

CUSIP numering was started about 20 years ago to make it easier to identify and transfer securities. It has no tax implications.

Britain delays on new oil pricing

N.Y. Times News Service

LONDON — The British government, despite pressure from oil companies, Tuesday put off a decision on changing its method of pricing

It had been widely predicted in British press reports that Alick Buchanan-Smith, the nation's energy minister, appearing before a House of Commons committee on energy Tuesday, would announce a new pricing system, with changes made monthly according to the average price during the previous month on the spot market, where non-contract oil is Currently, the state-owned British National Oil Corp. adopts a quarterly price that is somewhat more immune to changing spot market prices. It now appears that the government will delay its decision at least until after the meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries that is scheduled to begin in Geneva on Dec. 19.

Buchanan-Smith said it would be "foolish" for the company to decide on prices for the first quarter of 1985 with two and a half weeks to go before the year-end, as changes may still occur in the market.

In Oslo, meanwhile, a Norwegian oil official denied a report in The Wall Street Journal that Norway had temporarily suspended its monthly pricing system in favor of negotiating with customers based on free-market prices. If spot prices remained unchanged through the rest of December, that would represent a reduction of $1 a barrel from the official price of about $28.65, The Journal said.

But Hakon Lavik, a spokesman for the government-run oil company Statoil, said the report was "speculative nonsense" and added that Statoil would not make any pricing decisions until after the OPEC meet-

Industry analysts contend that British National Oil must bring its pricing more into line with the market. Its official price, $28.65 a barrel, based on the cost of crude from the large Brent field, has led would-be customers to seek cheaper oil.

The company, through production and royalty agreements, gets just over 50 percent of the 2.6 million barrels a day produced in the British North Sea. About 500,000 barrels of that is sold back to the producing companies in resale agreements, and about 800,000 to 850,000 barrels are sold by the company under long-term contracts or on the spot mar-

TXO reports record earnings

DALLAS-Texas Oil & Gas Corp. has reported that net income for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1984,rose 17 percent to a record $346.2 million, or $1.65 per share, compared with $295.7 million, or $1.41 per share, in fiscal 1983. (Per-share figures are adjusted for the 2-for-1 stock split made on January 13, 1984.)

Revenues in fiscal 1984 aggregated $2.09 billion, up 12 percent from $1.87 billion a year ago. Cash flow (funds provided by operations) totaled $754.9 million, a gain of 21 percent over the year-earlier $622.3 million. Cash dividends in fiscal 1984 capital expenditures were $768.7 million, an increase of 16 percent above the prior year's $622.3 million. Cash dividends in fiscal 1984 totaled $34.6 million, up 22 percent from the $28.4 million paid a year earlier.

Return on average stockholders equity in fiscal 1984 was 26 percent, the 10th consecutive year that such return exceeded 25 percent. Assets totaled P3.44 billion, up 18 percent. Stockholders' equity rose 26 percent to $1.51 billion. Total capital (equity plus long-term debt) increased 18 percent to $2.21 billion at August 31, 1984, with 68 percent being comprised of equity.

William L. Hutchison, Chairman of the Board, and Forrest E. Hoglund, President and Chief Executive Officer, stated, "The record financial results were attributable to outstanding volume growth in the Company's gas gathering and producing operations, which more than offset lower unit margins and prices. Furthermore, market condtions resulted in curtailments which kept TXO's volumes substantially below capabilities. Gas gathering thoughput deliveries increased 37 percent over the prior year's level to 495.3 billion cubic feet (Bcf), and crude oil and condensate production climbed 39 preent to 5.7 million barrels (MMbbls). Additionally, sales of natural gas liquids (NGLs) were up 18 percent to 9.0 MMbbls.

"Despite these increased operational levels, dedicated and owned reserves rose to new all-time highs. Company-owned natural gas reserves rose 14 prcent to 1.64 tril-lion cubic feet (Tcf); crude oil and condesate reserves increased 8 percent to 32.9 MMbbis; dedicated natural gas reserves were up 2 percent to 3.4 Tcf; and dedicated NGL reserves were 3 percent higher at 65.4 MMbbls. This was primarily due to the Company's aggressive drilling program which resulted in 947 net wells, 34 percent more than in fiscal 1983. TXO'S estimated finding cost was 96 cents per equivalent thousand cubic feet, remaining among the lowest in the industry.

Regarding the outlook for fiscal 1985 and beyond, Hutchison and Hoglund added, "TXO's current underutilized capabilities represent a tremendous potential for the future. We estimate that the Company, with its large and increasing amounts of low-cost dedicated and owned gas reserves, and extensive, strategically located pipeline systems, could boost its gas throughput volumes and owned gas production about 50 prcent above current levels. When supply and demand of natural gas reach equilibrium, prices will firm and users will seek long-term, dependable supplies. We will be in an excellent position to share in this recovery.

IBAT says it will fight attempts to open interstate banking

By BILL KIDD

AUSTIN — Interstate banking seems likely to emerge as an issue in the 1985 Legislature, Indepen-dent Bankers Association of Texas officials believe, but IBAT plans to fight any attempt to open Texas to out-of-state banking operations.

"Reciprocal interstate banking is going to be before us," says IBAT Executive Director Hagen McMahon, but 98 percent of IBAT's members remain opposed to the idea, according to a recent survey.

Actions by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency in granting "non-bank banks" charters to operate on an interstate basis appear most of a concern that State action, but McMahon says that Texas legislators may be asked to take some action to provide for regional or reciprocal interstate operations

IBAT, McMahon says, support Attorney General Jim Mattox's position of suing any non-bank banks chartered by the comptroller in Texas.

IBAT expects to spend more time opposing legislation than seeking passage of legislation on its own, McMahon reports.

McMahon expects legislation to be offered on credit card operations, allowing banks greater authority in real estate investment, changes in point-of-sale terminal statutes, and altering distances authorized for drive-in banking operations IBAT hasn't taken a position on all of those issues, but is planning to take a "neutral" position on pro-posed changes in the Texas homestead laws to permit second mortgages. IBAT is concerned that changes in the point-of-sale terminal laws could allow "some of the non-financial institutions" a greater foothold in the financial area, McMahon said, and IBAT is "definately going to stand our ground" on that question.

Texas Bankers Association and the Banking Section of the State Finance Commission are completing work on their legislative agendas.

'Perception' disagreement cited for ITT vice president's suspension

One source close to the company said that ITT's problem with Gerrity and the two other public relations officials related to an article Dec. 7 and a television report in the last week of November by Robert Metz, a syndicated columnist.

The article said four ITT shareholders had tried to put the question of whether the conglomerate should be liquidated to a vote by shareholders, believing that liquidation would produce a better return than shareholders were currently receiving.

The article went on to say that some of ITT's outside directors favored liquidation but that Araskog 'has managed to keep the dissenters

Wallace asks for programs

AUSTIN—Railroad Commission Chairman Mack Wallace has asked gas utility company executives in the state to once again implement heating assistance programs for disadvantaged customers in their company service

Wallace cited the state's four largest gas utilities - Entex, Energas, Lone Star Gas Co. and Southern Union Gas Co., for their leadership in offering assistance programs.

"A review of these programs shows that in excess of 8,200 families throughout Texas were helped with more than $745,000 in voluntary contributions from gas companies, their employees and customers," Wallace said.

FROM WINTERTHUR MUSEUM

Christmas Entertaining Ideas

Each Christmas, the Winterthur Museum, the former home of Henry Francis du Pont in Delaware, is transformed into a recreation of Christmas as celebrated in America during the 18th and 19th centuries. Thousands of visitors flock to the museum to view some twenty-one rooms decorated for Christmas entertaining with lavish table settings and replicas of the food and drinks that were served.

Our entertaining vignettes photographed at Winterthur are inspirations for the twentieth century hostess. The party ideas and the recipes are easily duplicated to add a fresh approach to your own holiday gatherings.

Pictured below, Twelfth Night Celebration, a January 6th party, commemorates the arrival of the Wise Men in Bethlehem. A glorious Twelfth Night Cake was featured and there was much fun and games. The person who received a bean in his piece of cake was designated King for the night with the rest of the guests destined to do his bidding.

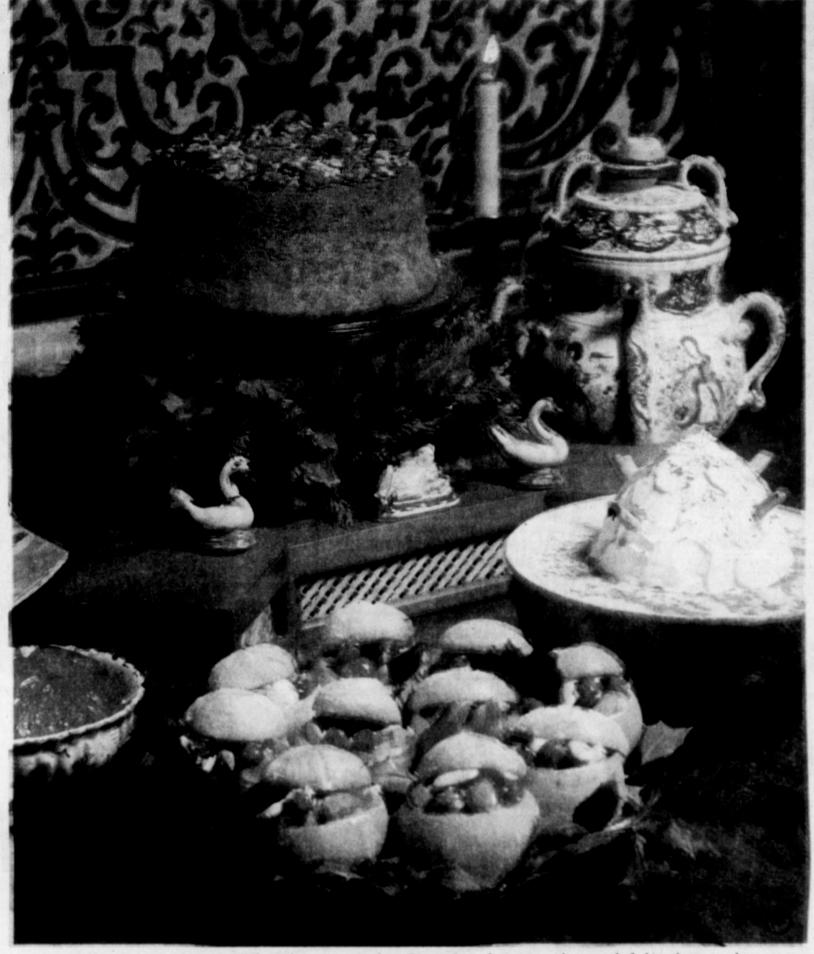

Right, lavish dessert tables with cakes, cookies and sweets were an integral part of holiday celebrations. Fruitcakes, sweetmeats, glazed fruits and nuts were served with drinks like eggnog.

Below, far right, the omnipresent porcelain punch bowl filled with a delicious concoction, was a tradition that can be easily revived. An ideal refreshment to greet holiday guests today is our Wassail Bowl Punch made with tea, cranberry juice cocktail and apple juice flavored with spices.

CRANBERRY ORANGE SWEETMEATS

- 8 navel oranges
- 1/2 pound pitted dates
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 12 pitted prunes 2 ounces crystallized ginger,
- chopped 1 cup Ocean Spray Fresh or
- Frozen Cranberries, chopped
- 1-1/2 cups chopped walnuts or pecans
  - Juice of 1/2 lemon 2 tablespoons rum or
- brandy 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

Cut oranges about 1/3 from top. Scoop out pulp; seed and chop. In a food processor, combine dates, raisins, prunes and ginger, and chop until fine OR chop by hand. Add chopped orange pulp, chopped cranberries and nuts; mix well. Stir in lemon juice, rum or brandy and cinnamon; mix well. Spoon mixture into scooped out orange shells. Top with orange "hats." (Makes 8 servings.)

CRANBERRY BANANA FRUITCAKE

- 3-1/2 cups sifted flour
  - 4 teaspoons
  - baking powder 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon baking soda 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice 1-1/3 cups shortening
- 1-1/3 cups sugar

10-inch tube cake.

- 4 eggs 1 cup mashed banana pulp
- 1 cup Ocean Spray Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce
- 1 cup raisins
- 1-1/2 cups chopped blanched almonds
  - 4 cups diced glazed fruit

Preheat oven to 350°F. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt into a mixing bowl. In another bowl, blend the baking soda and spices with the shortening. Add the sugar gradually while beating. Beat in the eggs, one at a time. Add flour mixture alternately with the banana pulp and cranberry sauce. Combine the raisins, almonds, and glazed fruits. Stir into the batter. Grease a 10x4-inch tube pan; line with brown paper and grease paper. Pour in cake batter. Place pan on center shelf of oven. Place a pan of hot water on the shelf below the cake. Check water from time to time and refill pan as necessary. Bake 3-1/2 to 4 hours or until tester inserted into cake comes out clean. If cake browns too much before ready, cover with foil. Cool on rack. Remove cake and brown paper. Makes one

- 1 pound butter 2 cups firmly packed light brown sugar
- 9 eggs, separated 3-1/4 cups flour
  - 2 teaspoons mace
  - 2 teaspoons cinnamon 1 teaspoon baking
- 3 pounds currants 2 pounds seedless raisins
- 3/4 cup almonds, blanched and chopped, or cut into strips
- 1/2 cup citron 1/2 cup candied peel

In a large bowl, cream butter and 1 cup brown sugar until light. In a separate bowl, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored; add to butter/sugar mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold in remaining cup of brown sugar; add to butter/sugar mixture. In a bowl, sift flour, mace, cinnamon and baking soda; stir in currants, raisins and almonds. Add flour and fruit mixture to egg/butter/sugar mixture. In a bowl, combine citron and candied peel; set aside. Line 2 (12-inch round) pans with waxed paper, buttered on both sides. Fill each pan 2/3 full, adding as you go layers of citron and candied peel cut into strips. Cover loosely with buttered paper and lie firmly into place. Steam 3 hours and bake 1-1/2 hours in slow oven (300°E) or bake 4 hours at 275°E. without steaming. Press surface with finger. Cake is done when firm to the touch and a wire cake tester inserted comes out clean and dry. Run knife around insides of pan and remove when nearly cool. Frost with your favorite Royal Icing recipe. (Makes two 12-inch cakes.)

WASSAIL BOWL PUNCH

1 quart tea 1 quart Ocean Spray Cranberry Juice Cocktail

1 quart apple juice

- 3 cinnamon sticks, 2 inches long
- 12 whole cloves 2 cups orange juice
- 3/4 cup lemonade

Mix all ingredients over low heat. Serve hot. Makes approximately 15 servings.

CHRIST-CHILD BASKET

The Christ-Child Basket is a Pennsylvania German tradition that you might want to recreate for your own Christmas holiday celebration. Much like a Christmas stocking, the basket was lined with a linen napkin and left in front of the fireplace on Christmas Eve for the Christ Child to fill. Good children would wake on Christmas morning to find the basket filled with apples, nuts and cookies. However, unlike the Christmas stocking tradition, there were no "sticks and coals" for bad children.

Kushikatsu imaginative Japanese foods

Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

From the Japanese cuisine, Kushikatsu captures the imagination. Tiny morsels of food speared on the end of a bamboo skewer (sometimes a doubled-edged skewer), are dipped in sake-flavored batter, rolled in crumbs or nuts and deep-fried. They make exquisite appetizers with drinks and can be presented on a tray decorated with ti leaves and flower blossoms. The trick is to heat them before serving, or to keep them warm in a chafing dish or

According to Kiku Kurahashi, manager of Yoriki, one of the few restaurants specializing in Kushikatsu in Los Angeles, the delicacy originated in Osaka after World War II. Kushikatsu eat-offs are often held at Yoriki. The idea is to break the record of 105 skewers of kushikatsu eaten in 100 minutes.

Among the 50 appetizers prepared at Yoriki are meats such as chicken with celery, seafood such as shrimp covered with sesame seeds or clams, octopus or squid, vegetables such as long spears of asparagus, stuffed mushrooms, avocados and others. A cheese cube wrapped in won ton and fried also becomes Kushikatsu when served on a skewer. We give a recipe for the batter and some suggestions for the type of foods to use. Already popular as cocktail hour food, Kushikatsu's appeal will continue to grow as time goes on because it is not only simple to cook, but is highly adaptable as cocktail fare. For those who avoid fried foods, Kushikatsu may be baked instead.

KUSHIKATSU

6 eggs cup milk cup flour, sifted 1/2 teaspoon sugar 1 small Japanese cup sake (about 1

Any tender meat, fish, shellfish, poultry or fresh vegetables cut into bite-size pieces or cubes prepared according to suggestions below

Bread crumbs or chopped almonds Soy oil for deep-frying Tonkatsu Sauce

Miso Dip for vegetables

Beat eggs. Beat in milk, flour, sugar and sake until smooth. Skewer bite-size pieces of meat, fish, shellfish, poultry or fresh vegetable onto end of long bamboo skewer. Dip skewered food into batter, then roll in bread crumbs. Skewers may be refrigerated at this point. When ready to cook, heat oil to 360 degrees in deep-fat frying pan with basket. Drop skewers into hot oil, a few at a time to prevent crowding, to cook quickly, depending on food items. Drain on paper towels. Continue to fry remaining skewers. Serve on tray with small amounts of Tonkatsu Sauce and Miso Dip. Reserve remaining sauces for future use as needed.

TONKATSU SAUCE 2 cups bottled tonkatsu sauce 2 cups chicken broth

1 tablespoon curry powder Combine tonkatsu sauce, chicken broth and curry powder in blender container. Blend until smooth. Pour into saucepan. Simmer over very low heat 1 1-2 hours. Cool, then refrigerate to use as needed. Makes about 4 cups

Note: Bottled tonkatsu sauce is available at Japanese grocery stores.

MISO DIP

1/2 cup white miso

1/2 cup mirin (rice wine) 1 to 2 tablespoons sugar tablespoon sesame seed paste

Combine miso, sake, mirin, sugar and sesame seed paste in saucepan. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer over medium-low heat 10 minutes, stirring often. Cool. Makes about 1% cups.

Suggested Foods for Kushikatsu: Clams — Dip each clam in batter, roll in crushed almonds, then in bread crumbs. Crab with seaweed - Season crab with salt and white pepper. Cut square of seaweed large enough to wrap around crab. Place crab in cen-skewer, if available. Cheese - Any cheese may be used. For medium Cheddar, cut into 1/2-inch cubes. Place each cube on small won ton skin. Fold won ton sheet, moistening seams to secure.

Stuffed pepper - Season ground sirloin with salt, pepper and finely chopped green onion. Remove seeds and membrane of pepper. Cut into squares. Place meat in center of skewer. Anchor with square of green pepper. Chicken livers — Cook chicken livers in water to cover with sake, soy sauce and ginger in saucepan about 10 minutes or until chicken livers are done. Cut livers into halves. Sandwich 2 pieces liver between slices of ginger. Marinate overnight in cooking liquid.

Chinese pea pods — Trim off ends. Thread on skewer.

Steak - Season rib eye steak with salt and pepper. Cut into 1/2-inch cubes. Thread on skewers.

Tofu - Cut tofu into 1/2-inch cubes. Place on end of skewer.

Scallops - Season scallops with salt, pepper and soy sauce. Thread ter of square. Wrap seaweed around crab. Skewer with double-pronged

Shrimp - Season shrimp with salt, pepper and soy sauce. Thread

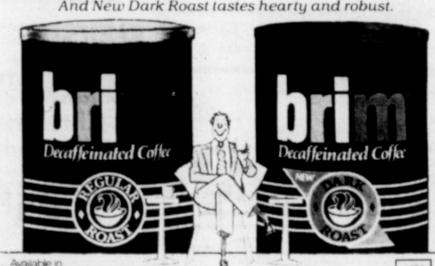

Chicken with celery - Sandwich piece of chicken breast fillet between celery slices.

Potato — Parboil potato. Do not overcook or potato will fall apart. Cut into 1/2-inch cubes. Sandwich cube of potato between 2 (1-inch) squares bacon

Venison processed into sausage

By MERLE ELLIS

There are, it seems, a good num-ber of successful deer hunters this year. Or, probably more accurately, there are a number of deer hunters' wives with freezers full of venison and faced with what to do with all that "buck" before their hunters go hunting again.

I have received a number of requests for recipes for making venison sausage. My interest in sausage of all kinds is not a well-kept secret.

My father made sausage for countless hunters at his market in Nebraska. Hunters would bring in their deer, elk or antelope. It would hang for a week or so in the walk-in cooler before being processed.

The loins and ribs were used for chops and roasts, but much of the rest of the carcass was made into sausage, some of the best I've ever had. A pound or so of the sausage was part of the price Dad charged for processing.

I was a little too young to pay much attention to the process back then. I got to help clean up, but that was about it. Most of the sausage recipes I've collected over the years are for beef and pork, and call for less than 10 pounds of meat.

To learn about venison sausage, I went to one of the foremost authorities on the subject I know, Alden M. Booren, meat extension specialist with the Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition at Michigan State University.

The following recipes should use up any venison that you may have in your freezer. If you like good sausage, but don't have a hunter in your house, you can substitute beef for be anything from the Little Chief erate at 32- to 38-degrees. This prod-Smoker, familiar to most sportsmen, to a makeshift barrel smoker or one made from an old refrigerator. You can even do a pretty nice job of smoke-cooking in your oven — using liquid smoke.

Simply follow the recommended smokehouse temperatures (in the oven) and spray liquidsmoke on the product four or five times during the cooking process

If you need more information on smokehouses, casings, curing salts, etc., drop me a line: P.O. Box 907, Tiburon, CA 94920. If you have any sausage recipes you're willing to share, I'm always interested in those,

The cure mentioned contains 6.25 percent sodium nitrite, which gives red, cured color to the sausage after heating and helps prevent botulinum toxin formation. Cures such as Modern Cure and Prague Powder often may be purchased from small commerical sausage

Complete cures, such as Morton Tender Quick, also contain sodium nitrite. When using a complete cure in this formulation, omit 1 cup salt and all other cure, and add 1 cup Tender Quick.

Utensils useful presents

Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

HARTFORD, Conn. - A chef's knife or a kitchen appliance may not seem like a personal gift. But for the amateur chef, they and other culinary gifts are more useful than yet another tie or nightgown.

Department store housewares departments and cookware shops are teeming with ideas for the cook on your list. The gift may be as sim-ple as a basket filled with gadgets and tools or as elaborate as a new set of professional-quality cookware.

Good knives are among the most basic utensils a cook needs. A good quality knife with a sharp edge makes chopping and cutting jobs easier - and safer. You're less likely to nick a finger with a knife that cuts cleanly into an onion than with one that's too dull to penetrate the outer layer.

Gerber knives received a top rating from Consumer Reports and are an excellent choice. A 4-inch paring knife ($20) and an 8-inch or 10-inch chef's knife ($38 and $40, respectively) are the beginnings of a good knife collection.

Slightly less expensive but still of good quality are Chicago Cutlery knives. (An 8-inch chef's knife is $26.50.) Besides selling the knives individually, this company also markets sets. One package includes a sharpening steel, and 8-inch chef's, 8-inch slicing, 6-inch utility, 5-inch boning and 4-inch paring knives in a counter-top wood block ($160 retail, sometimes discounted).

Cooks who enjoy preparing ingredients by hand (rather than letting a food processor do all the work) are candidates for a manual pasta machine. Atlas makes a hand cranked machine that rolls out the dough and cuts it into two noodle widths ($38). A second version has these same features plus an attachment for making ravioli ($62). For good measure, add a wooden pasta drying rack ($12).

For the coffee connoisseur, a grinder gives him or her the option of grinding roasted beans as needed. Krups makes a compact, easy-to-use version that does the job well ($24.99). (It also can be used to grind bread crumbs and spices; just be sure to clean it well after each use. As an added gift, pack a pound of

Once that coffee is made, the trick is to keep it piping hot. Corning has introduced some sleek new thermal serving pots. These are servers pretty enough to sit on the dining table. One model is called "Thermique" ($35) and can be used for both hot or cold beverages. "Coffee on Demand" is both a pitcher and coffeemaker ($26.99). A separate drip coffee attachment fits into the opening of the server. Once the coffee is made, a screw-on top replaces the drip attachment.

DEAR ABBY: Last winter I wrote to my son and asked him if I could come to visit him for a few days before Christmas. He told me to come and reminded me that he had a bad back and couldn't give up his bed, so he hoped I wouldn't mind sleeping on the floor in the living room. I said I wouldn't mind. (He's 42 and divorced.)

He told me he had a girlfriend who sometimes "sleeps over," so I shouldn't be surprised if she was there. As it turned out, she was. They slept in the bedroom and I made a bed for myself on the living room floor. It was very hard, but the worst part was not having any shades on the windows.

I arrived on Friday and planned to leave on a 4 p.m. plane on Sunday. but my son and his girlfriend wanted to drive somewhere to see a football game, so they dropped me at the airport at 9 a.m. where I sat for seven hours until my plane left. Oh yes, my son gave me $2 for

Turkeys yield 'bonus' leftovers

By OLIVIA and PAUL BENSEN Copley News Service

The origin of the word "turkey" probably is the result of confusion in England about the bird's pedigree. American Indians called the bird furkee, and this name probably was used by the Spanish who took some of the fowl home with them from the continent. When the gobblers were introduced to England from Europe, some authorities speculate, the name led people to assume that the species was of Turkish origin.

Turkeys are native to the Americas and the original wild turkey was closely related to the pheasant. Indians domesticated turkeys long before the first Europeans arrived here. The Spanish conquistadores took American turkeys home with them and bred them with European fowl.

Over the last few centuries the domesticated varieties have been bred for tenderness and a maximum of breast meat so that the turkey from your local market is a very different bird from the primeval wild

A roast turkey is an excellent choice for holiday entertaining. It's relatively inexpensive, easy to cook and popular with almost everyone. A real bonus is the leftover turkey meat, which lends itself to any number of uses.

Turkey sandwiches, sliced turkey and gravy on toast and turkey soup are probably the most common leftover turkey meals, but there are lots of other delicious ways to turn your leftovers into special dinners. The following recipes are some of our

noodles, cooked 11/2 cups finely chopped mushrooms, sauteed in butter

11/2 lbs. cooked turkey meat, coarsely shredded

3 oz. slivered almonds (optional) 1/4 cup fine bread crumbs 4 cup Romano cheese, finely grated For Sauce: 3 tbsps. butter 1½ tbsps. flour 11/2 cups chicken stock 1/2 tsp. dried basil ½ tsp. rosemary Salt and freshly ground pepper to

1 cup heavy cream ¼ cup dry white wine

In large skillet, over moderate heat, melt butter and whisk in flour to for roux. Stir in chicken stock, basil, rosemary and salt and pepper to taste. Reduce heat to simmmer and stir in heavy cream and wine. Remove sauce from heat.

Add half of sauce to macaroni or noodles and stir in sauteed mushrooms. Add other half of sauce to turkey meat. Lightly grease baking dish and cover bottom with noodles. Layer turkey over noodles and sprinkle with slivered almonds (optional). In small bowl, mix together bread crumbs and Romano cheese. Sprinkle cheese/bread crumb mixture evenly over turkey and bake in preheated 375 F oven until cheese is lightly browned and bubbling. Serves 4 to 6.

TURKEY CASSEROLE WITH MUSHROOMS

4 tbsps. butter 11/2 tbsps. flour 10 oz. chicken stock 1/4 cup dry white wine 1 pinch nutmeg wo-thirds cup heavy cream Salt and freshly ground pepper to 1 cup sliced mushrooms 3 egg yolks, beaten in ¼ cup milk l tbsp. finely chopped onion 1/2 tsp. cayenne

11/2 lbs. cooked turkey meat, sliced 3 cup fine bread crumbs 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese Butter to dot casserole

In large saucepan, heat 3 tablespoons butter and stir in flour to form roux Do not allow roux to brown. Add chicken stock and white wine. Cook sauce for 5 to 6 minutes, until slightly reduced; add nutmeg,

While sauce is cooking, saute mushrooms in small frying pan in remaining 1 tablespoon butter for 3 to 4 minutes. Bring sauce to boil and add mushrooms. Slowly add egg yolks beaten

Pour mixture into casserole, top with bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese and place under broiler, about 4 inches from source of heat, until topping is slightly browned.

TURKEY WITH PAPRIKA SAUCE

1 lb. cooked turkey meat, sliced For White Sauce:

2 tbsps. butter 2 tbsps. flour 1 cup scalded milk

Salt and freshly ground pepper to

First, make white sauce. In small saucepan, melt 2 tablespoons butter and gadually whisk in flour. Add scalded milk and continue to stir until sauce is fairly thick and very smooth. Add salt and pepper to taste.

In saucepan, melt 1 tablespoon butter, add chopped onion and simmer until just lightly browned. Add paprika and whisk in well with fork. Drizzle in heavy cream, whisking constantly, and stir over moderate heat 8 to 10 minutes. Add white sauce and check seasoning.

Place turkey slices in casserole and pour hot sauce over. Place casserole under broiler, about 4 inches from source of heat for 3 to 4 minutes until turkey is heated through and sauce browns a bit on

American consumers express preference for sweet wine

By NATHAN CHROMAN Los Angeles Times —

Washington Post News Service

Vintners throughout the world are still in a state of astonishment over the unprecedented $100 million vineyard and winery investment at

Montalcino, Italy, by two American brothers, John and Harry Mariani. Equally astonishing is the fact that the investment funds are a direct result of the earnings of the brothers' import company, Villa Banfi, U.S.A. Those knowledgeable in wine financial circles know that relatively small wine insport companies do not generate that kind of cash unless successful non-wine diversification

selling Americans on sweet-styled, light, high-volume Italian wines, chiefly Lambrusco, all from Cantine Cooperative, Riunite.

That Americans have taken to Riunite is not surprising. Sweeter-styled wines are a fact of life here. Riunite offers well-made, clean, fruity, sweeter-styled wines for consumers who apparently appreciate them and their low cost (a magnum is in the $5 to $6 range).

Increasingly popular and less sweet (although still slightly sweet) than others in the line is Secco Secco (dry, dry), a pleasant, crisper white wine with a clean, fruity aroma made from Pinot Grigio, Garganega and Sauvignon Blanc grapes. A bit higher in acid, the wine is clean, crisp, refreshing and should go well with most white wine dishes, including fish and shellfish. A relatively new addition packaged in a Burgundy-style bottle, it is available for about $3 a fifth. A nicely styled wine for Muscat lovers is Riunite d'Oro in a light, white, fruity style that is dominated by Moscato grapes, although it is produced together with Sauvignon Blanc and

Most popular is the Riunite Bianco, which suggests a Lambrusco aroma and may be too sweet as a table wine. Made from Trebbiano Romagnolo, Pinot Bianco, Sauvignon Blanc and Bianco Scandiano grapes, the percentages and blend depend upon the vintage and the whim of the wine maker. It can do reasonably well as an aperitif. More interesting is the Cristallo Riunite, Rosato, Dry, which is made in a Lambrusco character and style. Described as a frizzante (crackling or fizzy), the wine comes across as a kind of crackling rose with a nonassertive nose, a somewhat sweet, yet clean, taste that is generally more palatable than the Bianco and an all-around better candidate as a

Still popular, but less so than the Bianco, is the Riunite, Lambrusco dell'Emilia, which also is sweetish with plenty of fruity Muscat character. It is made from five Lambrusco grape varieties, Marani, Montericco, Salamino, Lancellotta and Maestri, some of which are from strictly delimited D.O.C. (Denominazione di Origine Controllata). The wine may not be the very best Lambrusco available, but at the low tab of $3.59, it cuts a formidable swath in the mar-

Without question, the co-op's best bottle is Riunite Spumante, a Charmat Process sparkling white wine made from a blend of Sauvignon Blanc, Moscato Piedmonte, Moscato Valle Versa and Spergola di Scandiano grapes. Clean with good, but not refined sparkle, its assertive Moscato nose and long-on-the-palate, unoppressive sweetness are most attractive, especially at a cost of less

'Whimsical' holiday appetizers found in British pubs

By ROSE DOSTI

Los Angeles Times — Washington Post News Service

LOS ANGELES - There are numerous eye-catching, taste-pleasing holiday appetizers, so we're giving you a few ideas here to keep in mind for cocktails. British pubs are generally a great place to find whimsical appetizers. Scotch eggs and other meat pastries are about the best in the category. They can be prepared ahead and served chilled or at room temperature. (Be sure the Scotch eggs are not left at too warm a room temperature over a long period of time or they may develop bacteria.)

Cafe D'Etoile, which may sound French but is actually a British pub restaurant in Los Angeles, prepares Scotch eggs and pork rolls as you would find them in Britain. Borrowing the recipe for D'Etoile's Scotch eggs, we used quail eggs found in jars at delis. The result is a delicate

Man builds with gingerbread

Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

NEW YORK — Allen D. Bragdon might be called an architect. But don't look for steel, concrete and glass in his structures. He builds with gingerbread.

And what wonders there are: bat cookies hovering over a haunted house, an elaborate Victorian grandma's house, a four-car circus train, Easter eggs resembling Faberge's famed jeweled eggs. He combines gingerbread houses and cookie characters, such as the Three Bears, Little Red Riding Hood and the Three Little Pigs, with stories for reading aloud. All from ginger-

Instructions for these and other irresistible real-estate goodies are in Bragdon's latest craft volume, "7.'he Gingerbread Book" (Arco, $17.95).

"I got the idea," he said recently at his Manhattan home-office, "because every year I saw the covers of the Christmas issues of Good Housekeeping, Ladies' Home Journal and other magazines with gingerbread houses on their coversi.

EVERYBODY, HE said, has a gingerbread memory. "A giagerbread house is not just a square cookie with a roof. Gingerbreach is a threedimensional chuckle, something to make people smile.

Bragdon said it was one thing to have an idea to produce a book on gingerbread, "another thing to actually design the blooming thing.'

He was told by food professionals that gingerbread couldn't be baked on a curved surface, and that the woven basket he planned would col-

Nonetheless, be persevered and found "nice ladies who had real talent." Two sisters in New Jersey, for instance, spent three weekends baking and decorating three Faberge

The finished projects were more fragile than they looked. A hippopotamus for Noah's Ark, for instance, didn't travel well. It cracked and couldn't be repaired. We had to have two of everything. and we didn't have two," Bragdon said, "so there are no hippotamuses in Noah's Ark.'

THESE CONSTRUCTION projects are not costly to make, nor do they call for expensive equipment, but they do require patience and imagination. "It's a joy to make thern, but it's a pain because it takes so long," said Bragdon, "and you can't do it every year.'

He is still searching for the ideal method of preserving his gingerbread edifices without using shellac. Part of their mystique, he said, is that they are edible.

"Humi dity is the big enemy of gingerbread houses," Bragdon said, and he suggests attaching the gingerbread sides to a cardboard box when constructing a house to prevent them from sagging, or placing the completed house into a large garbage bag and removing as much air as possible. Either way, he advised, put it into a mouse-proof box if you want to use it again next year. Bragdon's passion for gingerbread goes back to his childhood and the tongue-tingling hot gingersnaps baked by his Beverly, Mass., grand-

GINGERBREAD, HE said, has been baked by Europeans for centuries. Ginger became popular in Europe soon after Marco Polo traveled to the Orient.

An abundance of spices was a mark of wealth, and people even wore them in little bags around their necks. Fancy cakes prepared in medieval England were flavored with ginger. In the 1600s, the gingerman carried his tray of fragrant wares through open street markets and fairs calling, "Hot spice gingerbread, hot."

The first gingerbread was made from bread crumbs, honey and spices mixed with wine, ale or brandy. Molasses and flour were later substituted to make it darker and richer.

GINGERBREAD COMES in many forms. Cookies made from wooden springerle and lebkuchen molds are basically Dutch. Thin ginger cookies are popular in Sweden, and the British lay the dough over a wooden spoon while it is still warmfrom the oven to make curled cones, or Nottingham Fair gingersnaps.

The Germans like their gingerbread sweet and spicy. The dough for their houses is rolled 1-2-inch thick, making the construction more substantial. The French version of gingerbread, pain d'epices, is translated to "bread of spices.

New England colonists ate gingerbread as well, but it was served along with the meat and potatoes rather than as dessert. Gingerbread was on the traditional Muster Day menu, when, on the first Tuesday in June, all New England men had a day of compulsory militia.

Although ginger originally came from the Orient, Bragdon says, there is no ginger cookie or ginger cake or ginger anything, leavened or unleavened, baked in China," presumably because ovens are rare, and the Chinese eat virtually no desserts.

CONSTRUCTION GINGERBREAD 1 cup solid white shortening 2 cups old-fashioned molasses 1/2 cup warm water 7 cups all-purpose flour ¼ cup granulated sugar 1 teaspoon baking soda 3 teaspoons baking powder 3 teaspoons ground ginger 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Melt shortening and add molasses and warm water. Mix in dry ingre-dients until smooth, adding flour gradually. If necessary, knead last of flour into dough until smooth and flexible. Chill, then roll out dough to about %-inch thickness on cookie sheets. Cut out pattern, remove excess dough from cookie sheet, and bake in a 350-degree oven for about 12 minutes. Makes a medium-sized house with 8-by-6-inch sides, 9 1-2-by-8-inch front and back and two 10-by-7-inch roof pieces. (When cool, using a royal icing recipe, "cement" the house together and, when it's firm, decorate it to suit your fancy.)

GINGERSNAPS

3/3 cup shortening 1 cup granulated sugar

1 cup molasses egg, beaten

2 cups all-purpose flour 2 teaspoons baking soda

1/2 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon cloves 1 teaspoon ground ginger

Cream shortening and sugar. Add molasses and egg. Beat well. Sift together flour, soda, salt, cinnamon, cloves and ginger, then add to creamed mixture. Mix well. Roll into small balls. Place 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Bake in a 375degree oven for 10 minutes. Makes 4

GINGERBREAD CAKE

34 cup shortening 34 cup brown sugar 2 eggs 3 cup molasses

2½ cups all-purpose flour 2 teaspoons baking soda 1 teaspoon ground ginger 1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg 1/2 teaspoon baking powder

1/4 teaspoon salt 1 cup boiling water

Cream shortening, add brown sugar, then eggs and molasses. Sift together flour, soda, ginger, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, baking powder and salt and add slowly. Mix well and, last, add boiling water. Spread mixture in a greased and floured 9by-13-inch pan and bake in a 375degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes.

Cookbooks sold as holiday gifts

Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

HARTFORD, Conn. — The period between Thanksgiving and Christmas is not only the holiday season but also the biggest buying season of the year. Retailers know it, and book publishers know it, too.

Many of the year's new cookbooks are released in the fall to coincide with the big selling push for the holidays.

Hard-cover tomes, some with stunning color photographs, will set you back $16 to $20, some selections with $25 and $45 price tags.

Soft-cover books, particularly those produced by HP Books, Sunset and Better Homes and Gardens, are more affordable at $4.95 to $6.95. These often imitate their more expensive hard-cover counterparts by including plenty of color photography.

Santa's bag would be mighty heavy if he were to carry the new crop of recipe books. As in other years, there is a book for almost every taste — basics for the beginner, how-to's for the nervous host, baking guides for different levels of skill, wok cookery and single subject toasts to garlic, ribs, etc.

ONE OF the most beautiful and informative books released recently is "Giuliano Bugialli's Foods of Italy" (Stewart, Tabori and Chang, $45).

Bugialli, a Florentine-born cooking teacher who divides the year between his New York and Florence cooking schools, has written two other excellent books on fine Italian cooking.

"Foods of Italy" contains 125 recipes and 250 color photographs. Color is expensive to produce, and the photos no doubt contribute to the book's hefty price tag.

But the book is cheaper than a trip to Italy — which Bugialli provides in pictures and words. Food is the reason for the author's travels, and he shows ingredients in their natural habitat. He visits open-air markets and fishing docks. He shows how bread is made in wood-fired ovens in a small bakery near Florence. He travels to the northern city of Parma, where cured meats and cheese are made and to the tip of the boot to watch how the milk of water buffalos is turned into fresh mozzarella cheese.

The photographs, taken by former Life magazine photographer John Dominis, are magnificent. One of the more interesting photographs

ing next to crates of peaches, grapes, pears and fennel stacked on his boat. His arms are outstretched to catch a box of radicchio that someone has thrown from the dock. The picture freezes the crate in mid-air.

Bugialli explains ingredients how and where they are grown or produced, how to choose them . and the way they are traditionally used in an area. His recipes may surprise those accustomed to the spathetti-and-meatballs school of Italian cooking. There are tagliatelle noodles bathed in a creamy prosciutto sauce and photographed in a hollowed-out wheel of Parmesan cheese, batter-fried beets, orangecolored squash soup made from a vegetable similar to butternut squash and a Naples-style lasagna that has the colors of the Italian flag - spinach green noodles, white ricotta cheese filling and a rich red omato sauce.

PHOTOGRAPHS MEANT to make your mouth water are also a visual feast in new books by wellknown cookbook authors, "Lee Bailey's City Food" (Clarkson N. Potter, $18.95) and "Martha Stewart's Hors d'Oeuvres" (Clarkson N. Potter, $17.95)

"City Food" is the sequel to Bailey's "Country Weekend," which won the 1984 Tastemaker Award for best cookbook of the year. His menus are keyed to the setting in which they are served — a picnic in Central Park, supper in a painter's loft breakfast on a roofton terrace.

Bailey tastes reflect the melting pot of ethnic groups that inhabit New York. He has traded the red beans and rice, ham hocks, green salad with hard-boiled eggs and crusty bread — a typical meal of his New Orleans childhood — for his present supper of sausages, Cuban black beans and couscous, the egg and iceberg lettuce salad, and a light lemon ice and rum for dessert.

Bailey's recipes sound elegant but are not complicated. He often suggests what dishes can be prepared in advance. The introduction to each menu includes serving suggestions gleaned from personal experience and preparation tips.

Bakers should appreciate the name "Fannie Farmer" associated with a baking encyclopedia. Marion Cunningham, the writer and cook who revised the famous Fannie Farmer Cookbook five years ago, has turned her attention to breads, cakes, cookies, pies and even crackers, whose making she says has become a "lost art"

More than 800 recipes appear in "The Fannie Farmer Baking Book" (Knopf, $16.95). They include typically American specialties such as a sweet-tart Vinegar Pie, ethnic recipes and a healthy portion of cakes and breads made with whole grains.

Cunningham provides a detailed glossary of cooking equipment, ingredients, terms and procedures. Each chapter begins with definitions and an explanation of the type of baking to follow. She talks her reader through the making of a pie crust, a procedure that seems to intimidate many bakers.

IF YOU'VE ever longed to duplicate the kind of exquisite pastries found in a French bake shop, "Mastering the Art of French Pastry" by Bruce Healy and Paul Bugat (Barron's, $21.95) is a detailed guide. There is an excellent reference section on ingredients; color photographs show how some of the recovery will look in their finished state.

pes will look in their finished state.

The authors cover thoroughly the three essential parts — batters and doughs, fillings and toppings. But because of the nature of the subject, the recipes are time-consuming. Two other books that can keep you in main dishes for the rest of the winter are "Perfect Pasta" by Valentina Harris (William Morrow, $12.95) and "The Complete Book of Soups and Stews" by Bernard Clayton Jr. (Simon and Schuster, $17.95).

Pasta, the carbohydrate that's nourished centuries of Italians, is one of today's more trendy foods.

Harris covers all the options — pasta in soup, with vegetables, fish, poultry or meat, stuffed or baked pasta dishes, and (thank goodness) quick and easy pastas.

Some of the recipes are familiar—tortellini in broth, trenette noodles with pesto, lasagna—but others are quite unusual—fried ravioli with asparagus spears, meatand poultry-filled tortellini cooked

CLAYTON'S SOUPS and stews book is a perfect accompaniment to his first book, "The Complete Books of Breads." Take a recipe from each book, and you have a hearty dinner.

Before he gets to his recipes, Clayton discusses how homemade soups give a cook control of the salt and fat content. He also shares his methods for preparing the six most important soup and stew vegetables — onions, celery, carrots, leeks, garlic and shallots. Probably the best chapter of the book is devoted to making the perfect stock, the foundation for any soup or stew.

Mail-order food tasty surprises

Los Angeles Times — Washington Post News Service

HARTFORD, Conn. — At this time of year all sorts of delectable edibles will be winging their way through the postal service. These delicious treats - cookies, croissants, cakes, nuts, meats - will be delivered to the door of unsuspecting recipients, and they had better be hungry.

The typical mail-order company has a catalog or brochure that lists its specialties. The guide may picture the selections in living color or simply may describe what the company has to offer.

Most of the firms accept orders over the telephone. To speed the process, it is helpful to fill out the order form with the necessary information. That eliminates fumbling through your purse for a credit card or trying to find the item number in the catalog while you're on the

Here's a sampling of goodies from a few of the many companies that make and deliver food items:

Elizabeth's Best is operated by Elizabeth Gallagher of Mystic, Conn. Gallagher's shortbread shortbread is rich and buttery, and her chocolate chip cookies slightly crisp and the size of silver dollars.

Gallagher bakes and cuts her cookies by hand. For the holidays she sends them in a white gift box tied with a red ribbon and decorated with a sprig of holly.

THE COOKIES, which have a shelf life of about three weeks, are placed in a plastic bag liner to keep them fresh. Each box is $9.95 plus $3 for UPS shipping. For that price you'll get about 1½ pounds of shortbread and 14 pounds of the chocolate chip cookies. A sampler bag of four large chocolate chip or shortbread is $3.50, including postage and handling. Address: Elizabeth's Best, P.O. Box 294, Mystic, Conn., 06355. Phone: (203) 536-6354; MasterCard; Visa, check or money order. Orders for Christmas delivery must be received by Dec. 14.

Chocolate chips are everyone's favorite. One firm, the Cookie Florist based in Des Moines, Iowa, has taken this American classic one step further. They bake oversized, round cookies on an artificial flower stem with leaves. As the name implies, the cookies arrive in a box that looks as if it might contain long-stemmed roses. Wrapped in green florist's paper, the box contains six or 12 cookie flowers in one of five flavors Mini Chip Mums, Peter Pan Petunias or Forget Me Not Fudge and mint versions of the mini chips and fudge cookies — or a combination. Cookie Florist bakers Mary Oren and Paula Tillinghast try to ship orders the same day they are placed. They prefer to ship by air Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday so cookies don't sit on a loading dock over a weekend. Prices are $12.95 for six and $21.95 for a dozen with a $5 shipping charge. Address: The Cookie Florist, P.O. Box 2083, Des Moines, Iowa, 50310. Phone: (515) 255-4034; MasterCard or Visa. Orders for Christmas delivery must be received by Dec. 19.

Even fruitcake haters would have a hard time turning down a slice of Deanna Matthews' versions, which contain no candied fruit, peels or rinds or preservatives. From her home-based company called Matthews 1812 House in Cornwall Bridge, Conn., Matthews bakes two types of fruitcake, both heavy on dried fruits and whole pecans. The Heirloom Fruit and Nut Cake and the Heritage Brandied Apricot Cake are available in 11/2-pound loaves ($12.75) packed in gift boxes or in 3pound versions ($23) in reusable tins.

MATTHEWS HAS ADDED other items to her mail-order line. One winner is the Lemon Rum Sunshine Cake ($15.50 for a 1%-pound cake), a buttery, moist bundt cake made with fresh lemon and imported rum. She also offers seasoned nut mixtures, hard candies called Spice Snips, a honey mustard sauce, and Cumberland Sauce for meat and poultry dishes. There is a $2 shipping fee. Address: Matthews 1812 House, Box 15, Whitcomb Hill Road, Cornwall Bridge, Conn., 06754-0015. Phone: (203) 672-0149; American Express, MasterCard, Visa, check or money order. Orders for Christmas delivery must be received by Dec.

- Handmade croissants delivered fresh to your door is another mailorder gift option. C'est Croissant in Allentown, Pa., makes its croissants plain or filled with almond paste, bittersweet chocolate or raspberry preserves.

The croissants are shipped by UPS in gift boxes that protect the delicate crescents. A dozen regular croissants are $13. A gift pack of six butter and six almond croissants, three small jars of preserves and a French country plaid towel is $18. A breakfast-in-bed package includes 10 butter croissants, coffee, preserves and two cloth napkins ($22). The company also offers other types of gift packs. There is a $3 shipping charge. Address: C'est Croissant, P.O. Box 1987, Allentown, Pa., 18105. Phone: (215) 821-5511; MasterCard, Visa, American Express or check.

- Smoked meats and poultry such as Moulard duck breasts, turkey, country cured ham, veal bacon and a non-nitrite bacon are the specialties of Nodine's Smokehouse in Goshen, Conn.

THE COMPANY, owned by Ron Nodine, sells to retail stores and also run a mail-order service. Holiday gift packages include a sampling of Nodine's products. An assortment of smoked cheeses - one pound gruyere, % pound each of cheddar and Swiss, and 1/2 pound each mozzarella and provolone - and a 1-pound all beef sausage is arranged in a basket ($25 including shipping). A sampling of products packed in a wooden box with a sliding cover includes smoked chicken breast, boneless Moulard duck, duck legs, venison sausage and steak, three smoked cheeses, Canadian bacon and sweet cured roast beef ($49 including shipping).

A whole smoked goose ($43 including shipping) or a smoked pheasant ($23 including shipping) also can be sent to someone on your gift list. Many items are available individually but shipping and handling charges based on the total amount of the order and where it will be shipped are added to the price of the food. Address: Nodine's Smokehouse, Route 63, Goshen, Conn., 06756. Phone: (203) 491-3511; Master-Card, Visa, check.

'Hoppin' John' popular Southern dish

By TOM HOGE AP Wine and Food Writer

The black-eyed pea, a favorite of America's South, was the inspiration for an old tradition in that part of the country.

Black-eyes, or cowpeas as they are sometimes called, are the main base for Hoppin' John, a robust stew which also includes salt pork or bacon, rice and seasonings. It is usually eaten on New Year's Day in Southern homes because of a belief that cowpeas consumed on that day will bring good luck for the rest of the year.

There are varying accounts as to how this stew got its name. Some say it derives from a description of restless children hyped up over the upcoming New Year's celebration. Others contend that the dish dates back to an old English bean feast that was a tradition of that country's New Year.

The American South has a rich background of regional dishes, some brought to this country from Africa during the slave trade.

They include hominy grits, candied yams, and sweet potato biscuits. Also fried mush, chicken fried in lard, mustard greens, pigs' knuckles, barbecued spareribs and black wal-

Black-eyes are said to have been brought here from Africa during the 17th century and reportedly won a quick following.

Today, Americans have found other uses for black-eyes, including salads with vinaigrette dressing or mayonnaise. Some cooks also serve them with pasta, a dish which seems pretty heavy to me

Here is a recipe for the traditional Hoppin' John.

HOPPIN' JOHN

1 cup dry black-eyed peas 4 thick slices bacon cut into 1/2-inch

1 cup chopped onion ½ cup chopped green pepper 1 clove garlic, minced teaspoon salt bay leaf 1 dash each of cayenne and black pepper

cups cooked rice

Wash black-eyes; in 5 cups boiling water, boil 2 minutes; remove from heat and soak overnight. (Or, for quick method: add boiling water to eans, boil 3 minutes, cover and set aside 4 hours.) Rinse and drain thoroughly. Cook bacon in heavy pan until browned. Add onion, green pepper and garlic. Saute until onion is tender. Add beans, 2 cups water and seasonings. Cover and simmer 40 to 50 minutes, or until beans are tender. Remove bay leaf; stir in rice. Continue simmering about 10 minutes, until all liquid has been absorbed. Serves 4 to 6 people. Good with chilled beer.

Margaret Drake cuddles her new-born son home alone and who had been in labor for Colin. Last week, Mrs. Drake, who was at only 20 minutes, delivered her baby by herself.

Speedy Midland mom delivers baby at home, without help

By LINDA ANDERSON Staff Writer

At 1:45 p.m Dec. 4, Don Drake arrived home prepared to take his wife Margaret to Midland Memorial Hospital for several hours of labor and delivery.

Instead, he found her with their new son in her arms.

Young Colin Cassidy Drake was born at home, after a labor which lasted about 20 minutes. And his mother, who was alone at the time, delivered him by herself.

At first neither Mrs. Drake nor her doctor thought she was in labor. "I woke up at 7 a.m. that morning having contractions," Mrs. Drake said. "I thought, 'Nah, this is nothing.' I went to the doctor at 10 a.m. (for her regular prenatal checkup). He said to go home and just in case I was in labor on into the night, to go home and rest. He said, 'I think you're just having a little cramp-

Mrs. Drake's older son Keegan, 3, was attending Mother's Day Out, so on her way home from the doctor's office she decided to go shopping. "I stopped by Wal-Mart," she said, "and I had contractions in the parking lot." Once at home Mrs. Drake said she "starting timing contractions. They were closer but not as strong. When they were two to three minutes apart I started doubting" the clock.

"At 1:20 p.m. I noticed a bit of bleeding, so I called my husband," she said. After she hung up the telephone she experienced an urge to push. I was in the bathroom. I reached down and felt the head crowning.

Although walking was awkward. Mrs. Drake went the few steps to the telephone to call her neighbor Kathy Abercrombie, whose child was delivered in a planned at-home childbirth. "I got the wrong number.

When she realized she would not have enough time to get to the hospital and that she would have to deliver her baby alone, Mrs. Drake said she thought of all the possible dangers mothers and babies face at the moment of birth, especially without medical assistance.

Mrs. Drake said she had another "urge to push, and I deli-vered the head. I had to go on to make sure the cord wasn't wrapped around the neck."

At 1:40 p.m. Colin was born. Mrs. Drake said he cried right away so she knew he was all right. His father, arriving home about five minutes later, called the doctor, who instructed them on what to do until the ambulance came; then Drake called Mrs. Abercrombie, who volunteered to pick up Keegan from

Mrs. Drake and Colin went to MMH in an ambulance, where the placenta was delivered, and mother and baby were checked by medical professionals who later pronounced them in fine condition. "There are very lovely people there (MMH)," Mrs. Drake said. "They take very good care

Like her husband, Mrs. Drake's doctor's initial reaction was one of great surprise. "He called me Speedy," she said. Her first son had been born after an induced labor two weeks before his due date "because I was having some blood pressure problems," Mrs. Drake said. "I had an urge to push early (in that labor) too," but the nurses kept a close watch on her progress and advised her when it was too early for push-Colin, who weighed 10 pounds 6 ounces and was 21% inches long at birth, and his mother are home from the hospital. The two have had no ill effects from the adventure of Colin's birth, she said. "It's an experience that I still don't quite believe but I know really happened," she said.

"I just thank God everything turned out all right.

"I don't feel like a hero. If you need to do (something) you just do it. I didn't do anything special, I just had a baby.'

MISD trustees approve discipline policy changes

By JULIE HILLRICHS Staff Writer

In an unanimous decision, Midland school trustees Tuesday approved proposed revisions in board policy concerning student discipline and recommended the expulsion of two Lee Freshman High School students for violations of the specified code.

Trustees approved the revisions designed to follow the dictates of House Bill 72, which stipulates that all Texas school districts must con-

supervised or unsupervised Alternative Education centers rather than assigning students to on-campus or off-campus suspension.

Also, the term spent in either setting does not count as an unexcused absence. Students will be responsible for any work assigned and must submit the required assignments to the instructor upon their return to the classroom.

The revised code stipulates that administrators may recommend a student be expelled from school for the remainder of the semester or the school year if his or her behavior is deemed "incorrigible.

State law classifies an "incorrigible" student as one whose behavior would endanger the well-being of other individuals on school property, or "would seriously impair the ability of the schools to provide education to other pupils.'

Trustees also agreed to combine sections of the disciplinary code conthe possession, use, sale, distribution cerning the prohibition of drugs and alcohol at all campuses

After repeated violations, and if the violation occurred during the final six-week period, the student may be classified as "incorrigible" and may be expelled from school for the remainder of the scholastic year.

In other action, board members recommended the expulsion of two Lee Freshman High School students for violations of the newly revised disciplinary code.

The other student, a male, was expelled for the remainder of the scholastic year for alleged repeated violations of the drug/alcohol ruling. The student has the option to return to campus at mid-term provided he enrolls in a drug rehabilitation program, board members ruled.

The board also approved the appointment of Mamie Williams as principal of the new elementary school slated to open at the beginning of the 1985-86 school year. Ms. Williams currently serves as principal of Bonham Elementary School.

Odessa City Council decides against 'Perkins Provision'

By LAWRENCE BUDD Staff Writer

ODESSA - What may be remembered as "The Perkins Provision" was abandoned Tuesday by the Odessa City Council amid doubts about its legal authority.

Instead, the issue of continued absence by councilmembers is to be included in a spring 1985 referendum on revisions to the city of Odessa's charter.

The council decided against an attendance ordinance prepared in response to the absences of Councilman Thomas Perkins. They voted to include the issue in a referendum on proposed changes to the city's char-

Despite pressure to resign, Perkins has held on to the office. After spearheading efforts to get the ordinance passed, Councilman Nicky Sheets suggested it be tabled Tuesday because of questions about its

"If this ordinance isn't going to do us any good legality-wise, we don't need it right now," said Sheets, adding that a committee should be appointed to consider it, along with other revisions to the city charter.

"It is up to the people that elected me," Perkins, the city's first black councilman, said. "It's the people's choice, not our choice.

"It's a shame that this ever had to come up in the first place," said Councilman Sherman Cox, insisting the council's actions "were not against him or the color of his skin as he sometimes indicates.

If elected, a councilman should attend meetings, said Cox, noting other councilmembers received "flak" from residents of District 1 while Perkins was in Washington, D.C., on his six-month military tour.

"I don't know who you're talking to," said Perkins, insisting his constituents continued to support him despite his prolonged absence from

Councilwoman Melissa Hirsch noted that other parts of the charter "needed to be cleaned up," in supporting the tabling of the ordinance. Wording in the charter also stalled efforts to recall Mayor John Minor

Odessa council to appoint cable TV advisory board

By LAWRENCE BUDD Staff Writer

ODESSA - There will be a cable TV advisory board appointed by the Odessa City Council, although the mayor's task force recommended in September that such a group was unnecessary.

But Mayor John Minor said, after the council adopted the ordinance forming the group Tuesday, that he and his supporters used "reverse psychology" on the other council-members to get things done that were recommended in the task force's report.

"Really, what we're seeing is the council creating a board that's going to do many of the same things the task force recommended in their report," said Minor. "I think we really got what we were after."

The ordinance the council access to programming. approved sets up a nine-member board. Each councilmember will across the state, Odessa's does not have any regulatory powers over the local franchise. Its purposes outlined in the ordinance are to:

- Hear citizen complaints and comments about cable TV.

Establish communications with the franchise, Community Cablevision of Odessa.

One councilmember voted against the formation of the board, suggesting it represented "another bureaucracy" in the city government. "I just don't think we need it," said Councilmember Vern Foreman, suggesting the free market should control the cable TV programming.

He emphasized that another cable company could move into Odessa and compete with the current franchise if they could convince the council they are financially able. (Community Cablevision invested $7 million in rebuilding the system.)

"The best control in the world for the cable company is for 4,000 to 5,000 people to line up outside (company offices) and tell them to unhook it," he said.

But Marley claimed Winter took $600 worth of Marley's clothes and boots from the car after he was arrested in Las Vegas and after Winter flew there to recover his car.

Marley pleaded guilty in Judge Vann Culp's 238th State District Court to unauthorized use of Win-ter's automobile on July 20. Following a plea-bargaining agreement between Ms. Copeland and Downing, Culp sentenced Vincent to two years in prison and ordered that he make $1,200 in restitution to Winter.

Odessa hospital hosts critical-care program

By RON GILMORE Staff Writer

ODESSA - Nurses in the Permian Basin were given the opportunity to increase their knowledge of critical-care nursing today when Medical Center Hospital in Odessa hosted Critical Care Nursing Day

The program included information in the three critical care areas - intensive care, coronary care and emergency room.

"It is important for the nurses in these areas to keep on top of new medical equipment and be knowledgeable of physical changes in the body since it is often a life or death situation," said Fay Van Blake, manager of recruitment and employment for

The program, held in Medical Center's auditorium from 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., also offered information on the hospital's training programs, a simulated intensive care unit setup, product information and upcoming educational opportunities at the hospital.

We've been offering a critical care nursing program to our nurses for the last two years," said Kathy Porter, a spokeswo-man for OMC. "We thought it would be good to also offer it to other nurses in the area, particularly from the small towns around, who may not necessarily have ICU's or CCU's, but do have emergency care.

Deputies raid alleged house of prostitution

From Staff Reports

Midland County Sheriff's deputies closed down an alleged Odessa-based prostitution house operating as the Relaxation Center "massage parlor" Tuesday afternoon.

The business was about a mile east of the Ector County line.

Arrested in the raid was a 22-yearold woman, who is accused of propositioning Sheriff's Investigator Jim Newsom, said Chief Deputy Bennie

"He had been there before," Cureton said, "and one of the girls said she would do it." That incident was last week, Cureton said, and the proposition was made by a woman other than the one who was arrested Tuesday, he said.

The woman arrested Tuesday is charged with the misdemeanor offense of prostitution, and was released under a $500 bond.

'We told them (the owners) to shut their operation down," Cureton

He said the owners operate another message parlor in Odessa. The Relaxation Center, off U.S. Highway 80 and County Road 1307, formerly was a hamburger business, Ranch Burger. In other law-enforcement activities, Midland police reported that Dolores Merritt Pigg, 40, of 1929 S. Pecan St., died early this morning of suspected drug overdose.

Police found the woman in a kneeling position in the dining room of her house about 5:40 a.m today. Virgil Claude Kuykendall, 40, died following an apparent scuffle Tuesday afternoon in the Misty Trailer Park off County Road 130 and the Rankin Highway south of Midland.

Richard Dotson, who weighed 280 pounds when the injuries occurred, lost his $4.5 million suit in a trial court and court of appeals. However, the manufacturer and distributor of the exercise bike later agreed to a settlement, said Barry Hart, Dotson's lawyer.

Hart would not say how much money was paid to Dotson. A separate lawsuit is pending in Harris County against Montgomery Ward, the store which sold the bike.

According to court records, the exercise bike was initially owned by the parents of Julie Hart, who become Miss Permian Basin in 1981. The Harts discarded it in March 1982 and the Dotsons recovered it.

On May 19, 1982, Carldene Dotson, who was related by marriage to the Harts, rode the bike for about five minutes. Richard Dotson then used it for about 20 seconds before the seat post broke through the plastic seat and left him with severe injuries to his colon, small intestine and bladder.

The manufacturer was aware of problems with the seat post in June 1980, according to court records.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jack Hightower, who represented his conservative Panhandle district in Congress for 10 years, says he lost his job because of one vote.

By KATHRYN BAKER

"I think that if two years ago I had stood up in the caucus or on the floor of the House on the first day of the session and voted against the Speaker, I would have been a hero, at least among these people, and probably would not even have had an opponent," Hightower said in a recent interview.

But like every other Democrat in the House, Hightower cast the ceremonial vote on the first day of the session for Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr.

Republicans used middle-class America's disenchantment with big government against incumbent Democrats this year. That disenchantment was symbolized by O'Neill, a Massachusetts con-

"I think Tip O'Neill was the name mentioned always in all of my opponent's advertising. He ran a tremendous amount of advertising saving I was Tip O'Neill's boy," Hightower

Hightower was one of three Democratic incumbents defeated in Texas. Tom Vandergriff, the former longtime mayor of Arlington, lost to economics teacher Richard Armey

Vandergriff spent $1 million, much of it his own money, to barely win the newly created seat in 1982 It had been expected to go Republi-

Democrat Bill Patman had represented his southeast Texas district for two terms. He lost to Mac Sweeney of Wharton, a young, politically savvy former aide to John Connally and John Tower, who waged a well-financed campaign that caught Patman by surprise

Hightower had been one of the Democratic "boll weevils," who went against their party's leaders in the House and supported President Reagan's economic program in 1981.

Nevertheless, Republicans tar-eted Hightower's district this year. Even he admits it was ripe. It had previously been held by a Republican — Bob Price — and Hightower had less than a firm grasp on it. He won re-election with only 55 percent of the vote in 1980.

"I think the Republicans are happy to have the assistance of 'boll weevils' when it's to their benefit, but as has been demonstrated in my case, when they think they can claim the seat, they'll claim it,' Hightower said.

Hightower was defeated by Beau Boulter, a former county commissioner from Amarillo.

"I've known Janet Copeland and have been familiar with her work as long as she has been with Midland County (since September 1982)," said Dettman. "She's one of the most competent prosecutors that I know of, and it's unfortunate that someone such as Mr. Winter would seek to tarnish the excellent record she has established

DETTMAN SAID that the District Attorney's office and Ms. Copeland have "absolute prosecutorial immunity" and for good cause

Without that immunity and with the fear he could be sued for carrying out his duty, a prosecutor possibly could be intimidated and lose job efficiency "It would hamper the criminal justice system," Dettman said. "The prosecutor is an integral part of the criminal justice system, and he or she would be unquestionably hampered in performing his or her duties." Denial of that immunity would have an adverse effect on the criminal justice system, he said.

Panicky residents flee Bhopal

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Fearing a new leak of the poison gas that killed more than 2,000 people, thousands of people fled Bhopal today of the government appropried after the government announced plans to neutralize remaining toxic material in a Union Carbide plant.

At Hamidia, the city's main hospital, a strike by 1,000 interns and other medical workers ended today. The one-day strike was in protest against an alleged assault on a senior doctor by a city councilman. Arjun Singh, the chief minister of Madhya Pradesh state, said 15 tons of stored methyl isocynate at the Union Carbide pesticide plant where the leak occurred would be neutralized by converting it into pesticide next Sunday. The process would take four to five days, he said.

The state government had earlier opposed restarting production at the plant even temporarily. But Singh told reporters that "the most practical and safe way of neutralizing the gas is its conversion into pesticide."

Camps will be set up in the city's schools, colleges and stadiums for people who want to be evacuated from areas around the plant, Singh

Senate minority leader re-elected

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Democrats overwhelmingly re-elected Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia to another two-year term as Senate minority leader today, turning back Sen. Lawton Chiles' hastily mounted effort to unseat Byrd.

The vote was 32 to 10 in a closed caucus of all Senate Demo-

Chiles, senior Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee, had entered the race only Thursday, claiming it was time for a change in leadership throughout the party in the wake of President Reagan's landslide re-election vic-

But colleagues claimed the Florida senator began his bid too late, launching it after Byrd had already privately collected commitments from well over a majority of the 47 Democrats who will serve in the Senate that convenes next month.

Chiles conceded he did not have enough votes as the caucus began, but said he was looking for defections from disenchanted Democrats to deliver an upset victory. They didn't emerge.

Democrats said Chiles might have done better in his challenge had he begun weeks or months

Chiles, 54, entered the race late

Sources close to Chiles said that as of late Tuesday, he could count on no more than a dozen votes, at the most.

"It's a very personal thing. It's not a job you can win over the telephone. It takes face-to-face contact. Chiles will come up with a respectable number of votes, but Byrd will win," said one top Senate Democrat, who spoke only on the condition that he not be identified by name.

Other Democrats suggested that any serious challenge to Byrd would come after the 1986 elections, not now, despite disatisfaction among some party mem-bers with Byrd's leadership style.

Strategists in both parties agree Democrats will be in a commanding position in that election to regain control of the Senate. If that happens, the race will be for majority leader, not minority

"We'd be in control of the Senate. It would be another story,' said Ford, when asked about a possible challenge to Byrd two vears from now

Chiles is senior Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee. He has been in the Senate since 1970. Byrd, 67, served from 1977-1980 as Senate majority leader and as takeover in 1981 until now.

Kirkpatrick-Reagan meeting not conclusive; She will stay for now

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.N. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick is delaying her departure from the administration, apparently waiting to see if she can strike a deal with President Reagan for a powerful job in his second term.

Emerging from a 30-minute meeting Tuesday in the Oval Office with Reagan, Mrs. Kirkpatrick said, "We talked a bit about the future and agreed to talk again sometime after the inauguration. And that's all I'm going to have to say.

Reagan, in a recent interview, said he did not see a foreign policy opening "that would be worthy of her." The 57-year-old ambassador, a uncompromising standards of excel-lence which has become the hall-mark of San Jacinto Fine Jewelers to Midland and ClayDesta Plaza."

tives because of her outspoken views, had said previously she would resign after the current session of the U.N. General Assembly, slated to end in the middle of next week

Two knowledgeable sources outside the government said there have been discussions among senior White House officials about offering Mrs. Kirkpatrick the Cabinet-level post of counselor to the president, which carries the authority to oversee foreign policy development in the White House.

The counselor's post now is occupied by Edwin Meese III, whom Reagan has nominated to be attorney

Court battles part of Christmas tradition

WASHINGTON (AP) - Court battles over Nativity scenes have joined Santa, eggnog and silver bells as tra-ditions of the Christmas season.

In recent years, it seems as though the first chilly days of autumn always find someone suing somewhere - from Pawtucket to Pierre to get a scene depicting the birth of Jesus Christ put up or taken

Even a recent decision by the nation's highest court fell short of abating the Christmastime court

Here, in question-and-answer form, is what the creche controversy is all about.

Q: How do legal disputes over

Nativity scenes arise? A: The legal fights do not involve individuals or churches placing Nativity scenes, or creches, on their private property. But things get sticky when public land is used or there is some other form of governmental sponsorship. The Constitution prohibits the "establishment of religion" by gov-ernment, and courts have interpreted that wording to mean government cannot promote or advance any one religion or religious belief.

Q: So communities cannot include Biblical versions of Christmas in their official holiday decorations? A: They can - at least as long as the religious symbols are included along with depictions of Santa Claus, reindeer, snowmen and similar nonreligious symbols.

In a decision in March, the Supreme Court ruled that communities may put Christ in Christmas by including Nativity scenes in government-sponsored holiday displays.

Writing for the court, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "To forbid the use of this one passive symbol would be a stilted over-reaction or promotes religion?

A: Since a 1970 Supreme Court decision, the courts have been using three-part test in such cases. Under that test, a law or governmental practice is not a violation of religious freedoms if:

-It has a secular, or non-religious,

—Its primary effect neither advances nor inhibits religion. —And it does not foster "excessive governmental entanglement" with

Q: What if a city or town wants to put a creche on the front steps of the local government building, without any other decorations?

A: The high court's decision did not answer that one. The justices split 54 in the March ruling, and it's very possible that at least five of them would not allow a local government to sponsor a purely religious display. Q: What if other, non-religious displays regularly are given space on those same government building steps? Would banning religious dis-plays be a form of discriminatory censorship?

A: The Supreme Court now is studying a case from Scarsdale, N.Y., that asks just that. At issue: Whether a community may be forced to provide public land for a privately or church-sponsored creche. Scarsdale for years has allowed various displays, including creches, in a city park in the center of its business district. But in 1982 the city council decided to ban the annual creche display. A federal appeals court ordered the city to allow the creche to be displayed as long as the park remains a "public forum" open to non-religious groups. The Supreme Court's decision is expected by July, in time for Christmas 1985.

"Along with Colorado and El Paso, we have officially asked Amtrak to consider starting service from El Paso through Las Cruces and Albuquerque to Denver that would also serve Socorro, Belen, Santa Fe via Lamy, Las Vegas and Raton," said Sheck, director of planning and development for the department.

The north-south route would facilitate tourism into New Mexico and Colorado, Sheck told The Dallas Morning News.

Amtrak officials in Washington, D.C., have reacted favorably to the request, Sheck said. If studies of passenger demand, track conditions and scheduling are favorable, the north-south route could be operational by the summer of 1986, Sheck said.

China living rail

museum

SHENYANG, China (AP) — The Asia, Manchuria's crack train, pulled out of Shenyang four decades late. No one seemed to mind.

The train's streamlined Japanesemade steam locomotive, pride of China's foreign-dominated prewar rail system, rolled only 150 feet to herald China's first rail museum.

The Asia ceased service before the end of Japan's World War II occupation of China.

Buffs say China is a living rail museum. Thousands of steam engines ply the rails. China still builds steam locomotives, the last nation to do so.

The recent opening at Shenyang, a northeast industrial city once the hub of an extensive prewar Japanese-built rail network, drew a dozen Australian buffs and as many Japanese.

Among them: Australian diesel engineer Holland Holl, a diesel driver who longs for the old days, and former Asia driver Kiyoji Nagase, a Japanese from Yokohama. The museum is at Sujiatun, a

The museum is at Sujiatun, a maintenance depot in suburban Shenyang. Engines whistled and begrimed repair crews labored on live steam engines while tourists mourned the dead ones.

The Asia's locomotive, according to records and Nagase's recollection, was one of 12 SL-7 type engines built by Kawasaki of Japan for the Manchurian speed run.

A sleek aerodynamic fairing hid the stack and plumbing characteristic of most steam engines. Brought into service in 1934, the engine survived the demise of Japanese rail service and was used by the Chinese until 1974 — the boiler had reached the mandatory retirement age of 40 years.

During its heyday, the luxury train offered Japanese and Chinese elite express service between Dalian and Harbin at speeds of up to 72 mph. The cars were centrally airconditioned and a panorama coach provided an excellent view during the nine-hour ride.

Holl, of Bendigo, Victoria, retires next year after 47 years on the railroad, 30 of them spent on steam.

"All steam locomotives are pretty much the same," he said as he took a shovel from a Chinese fireman, opened the firebox and shoveled fuel into the inferno. "It's only a boiler on a set of wheels which is driven along."

Nostalgia has brought other members of his group, the Australian Association of Railway Enthusiasts, to China time and again.

"We didn't know any of these streamlined locomotives were still in existence," said Bill Pearce of Melbourne, an Australian who has visited China five times "searching for locomotives."

for locomotives."
At 203 tons the Asia engine and tender were bigger than anything the Japanese built for the home islands. The monster engine was painted bright green — a shade favored by the Chinese rail system — and pulled a single car for the opening. The ride was about 150 feet, which most riders found disappointingly short.

The SL-7 is the only museum piece in working condition. The oldest locomotive, a 1907 U.S. made DB-1, was towed or pushed onto the museum siding, as were other engines from Poland, Czechoslovakia and a Chinese-built locomotive.

Yu Wei, an official in the Shenyang Railway Bureau, said the railway and tourism authorities had spent 120,000 yuan ($48,000) in startup costs, much of it overhauling the SL-7. The Asia had languished at Dandong near the North Korean border after retirement in 1974.

Yu said China's railway ministry had said the museum could acquire other historic engines from outside the northeast region. A museum building and restaurant are planned.

The museum, an official explained, is one of many new attractions for tourists in Shenyang, a city now visited mainly by Japanese war veterans.

"Besides the museum tour," the official said, "we will have the bicycle tour, the farm visit tour, the Chinese cookery tour, and the Chinese medicine tour."

Officials in Abilene, Sweetwater and other West Texas cities and those in the New Mexico border city of Clovis have recently expressed interest in reviving direct passenger service between Dallas and Albuquerque, but no action has been taken, Sheck said.

"This route would also serve Lubbock, and would not require any new track since there was passenger service on that route up until the late 1960s," he said.

However, Sheck said New Mexico officials are more enthusiastic about an El Paso-Denver route.

Asked the reason for an aroused interest in train travel, Sheck said, "I think there has been a total revival of rail interest in the United States in the last five years. Amtrak has now gotten its act together and is offering quality service."

Sheck said the proposed El Paso-

Shortage of bulbs may keep Christmas trees in the dark

shortage of Christmas lights has left none of the above is true. some Americans facing the dim prospect of mere partridges, turtle doves and tinsel on their trees, say

From F.W. Woolworth Co. to General Electric Co., from Bangor, Maine, to Buena Vista, Calif., American bulb salesmen and consumers have been searching high and low for the traditional screw-in bulbs strung on Christmas trees indoor

"Its been an absolute problem," said Frank Moss of Ace Hardware Corp. in Chicago, a supplier to the retail trade. He said deliveries that should have been made back in October are just hitting the holiday shelves now.

NEW YORK (AP) - A sudden Beacon Electric Co. in Boston, said

There was no diabolical plot," said Levy, whose firm is the largest U.S. manufacturer and importer of Christmas lights. "It was a combination of circumstances.'

Levy said the problem started last Christmas season as shoppers flush with cash from the economic recovery emptied stockrooms of Christmas tree bulbs.

And then came Christmas 1984.

"Demand this year was explosive" as consumer demand continued to mount and stores tried to restock their depleted supplies, said Levy.

To make matters worse, South Korea's Century Electric Co. - virtually the only supplier of traditional screw-in Christmas bulbs, rolling out 36 million annually - went out of business earlier in the year, Levy said. Most of the bulb industry had to be moved to Taiwan.

Then a shortage of ocean-going cargo containers developed during the summer and early fall, Levy

Levy has his own theories why Americans suddenly went on a buying spree for Christmas bulbs.

"This all goes back to the 1973 energy scare," he said, after which President Richard Nixon suggested Americans turn off their Christmas lights as a symbolic gesture in the face of the Arab oil embargo.

'Now the consumer has decided that there is no energy shortage," he

Reception illustrates availability of non-alcoholic drinks

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a city where the cocktail reception is commonplace, the gathering in the Indian Treaty Room of the Old Executive Office Building seemed

Crowds pressed against the long table of scrumptiouslooking hors d'oeuvres; people, chatting amiably, sampled drinks from bars at both ends of the room. The difference: there was no alcohol in sight. The reception Tuesday evening, hosted by the White aimed at dramatizing the availability of non-alcoholic beverages as a substitute for beer and wine in hopes of curbing drunken driving, its organizers said. There's a good reason we don't have alcoholic beverages here today, and it's not because we are against drink-

the president's commission against drunken driving. "...We don't have any room for them." The tables were full of non-alcoholic beverages, from imitation beers and wines to a fruit concoction called Mocktails" and a wine made from grapes but never fermented and, therefore, lacking alcoholic punch. Distributors of the drinks mingled with veteran campaigners in the war against drunken driving, including Candy Lightner, founder of MADD, Mothers Against Drunk Driving; and Volpe, who now heads the National Commission Against Drunken Driving. We're trying to communicate to the people something that they don't know: how to prevent drunk driving in their immediate social circles in a positive, stimulating way," said Carol Markowitz, who originally thought up the program with the slogan, "Great Alternatives."

Volpe called it "a new preventive educational campaign" and an effort to show that "there are good alternatives to excessive drinking." So far, organizers acknowledged, the program consists of little more than the reception and a pile of press releases.

But, says Ms. Markowitz, the aim is to take the program across the country during the next year with talk show appearances, receptions, newspaper interviews and other Several distributors and producers of non-alcoholic beers and wines said demand for their products has risen significantly in recent years because of concern about drunken driving, the health and fitness craze and higher minimum drinking ages. Nevertheless, three out of every four adults still use alcoholic drinks, according to the government. Despite the enthusiasm in the Indian Treaty Room Tuesday evening, it's still anybody's guess whether the public will go for the alternative drinks.

Now from Copying Machines CIA's complaint against ABC focuses on three issues

By HENRY GOTTLIEB Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Going by past performance, it seemed a good bet that the Central Intelligence Agency would maintain its traditional stoic silence last September after ABC News broadcast a report alleging particularly dirty CIA tricks against a Hawaiian businesman.

Not only are CIA officials perennially unavailable for comment, their public relations office rarely issues more than an undetailed denial of news reports it feels are wrong. But this time the spy agency is fighting back in public, before the Federal Communications Commission, in a case that raises the question: Does the CIA have the same rights as private citizens who believe they have been victimized by the The dispute stems from an ABC World News

Tonight report on Sept. 19 and 20 about Ronald Rewald, a Honolulu investment counselor accused of stealing millions of dollars from his customers. Although the CIA acknowledges it used Rewald's company as a mail drop, it denies his assertions that it used the firm as a front for arms shipments to Taiwan and other countries.

Even more vehemently, the CIA denied a statement aired on ABC by Scott Barnes, a former Honolulu jailer, that the CIA plotted to assassi-nate Rewald. "We've got to take him (Rewald) out ...you know, kill him," Barnes said his CIA contact told him.

In a later broadcast, the network clarified the report, saying it could no longer substantiate Barnes' statement.

But that didn't go far enough for the CIA. In a complaint filed with the FCC on Nov. 21, the
