MISD to use single-member system

By ED TODD Staff Writer

U.S. District Court Judge Lucius D. Bunton's ruling which ordered that the Midland Independent School District (MISD) switch from an at-large method of electing trustees to the single-member-district system got a "respectful" protest from the MISD. The opposition, represented by the League of United Latin American Citizens and the Black Advisory Bunton ruled Friday that the atlarge system "is in violation of the Constitution" and additionally prohibits the school district from holding any at-large elections.

Further, the judge held that MISD's compromise proposal for a 3-4 plan (three at-large and four singlemember) was unacceptable and "is unconstitutional in that it impermissibly dilutes the votes" of the minorities represented by LULAC and the Black Advisory Council.

'I'm just speechless over the whole situation," Bill Jackson, president of the MISD board of trustees, said Friday, "and I'll respectfully disagree with his opinion.'

"I was surprised," said Dr. Joe Baressi, MISD superintendent. "Not only did we lose, we lost completely.

The case was argued before the judge this week in federal court here. Midland lawyer Charlie Tighe represented MISD, and San Antonio attorney Roland Rios argued for the defendants.

"WE HAVE SHOWN that we can and have elected minorities to the school board," said Jackson, a former schoolteacher and principal who now is in the real-estate business. From the early 1970s to early 1980, two blacks and an Hispanic served at different times on the now all-Anglo board of six men and one Jackson said he has "worked too many long hours" in ensuring that Midland develops into "the best school district we can possibly have.'

We provide the same amount of money and the same programs wherever it's needed for the kids whether it's in the north, east, south or west.

We're in the business to educate kids," he said. "We don't look around" to discern their color, racial or ethnic background. "We don't see any color out there. The school board is elected to serve all the kids and not just a selected area. This is what may happen if you have just (single-member) districts."

Jackson, 52, said the public school district may appeal Bunton's ruling.

Snelson may join the race

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Assistant City Editor

After being told the congressional job of representing the 21st District is tailor made for former state Sen. W.E. 'Pete"...Snelson Midlend said Friday he is seriously considering entering the race in the Democratic primary. If Snelson enters the race, he will be the third Democrat seeking the nomination and possibly the third Midlander. Already announced on the Republican side are four candidates with Midland Mayor G. Thane Akins expected to officially enter next week The race was left wide open when U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, announced he wouldn't seek re-election but would return to Texas and begin a campaign for the gubernatorial post. It was after Loeffler formally announced for governor last fall that people began contacting Snelson about running for congress, he said. "I can't point to any one person. I started getting calls from people who said the job would be a natural for me or it was tailor-made for me."

And since another report of his consideration of the race came out Friday, Snelson said he had spent all day on the phone from callers who said they would support him.

Looking at the reasons behind his consideration of the post, Snelson cited the similarities in his 25th senatorial district and the congressional district, his experience in the legislative process and with some of the congressmen, and his record as a servative Democrat

These are not normal times in Washington or in the country. It would be important that the next congressman have full knowledge of the district and know the legislative ropes and how to be effective," said Sneison, 62.

His senatorial district coincided with the congressional district with one exception, he said. Instead of Bexar County though, his district encompassed several rural counties.

Snelson represented that area from 1964 to 1984 when he left the post to run for state land commissioner in the Democratic primary, a race he lost to Garry Mauro. During Snelson's years in the State Senate. he served as chairman of the Intergovernmental Relations Committee and later as chairman of the Senate Education Committee. He also was a member of the Legislative Budget

Craddick to seek 10th term representing 76th district

From Staff Reports

State Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, Friday announced he will seek re-election for a 10th term in the Texas House of Representatives. Craddick will run in the 76th District, which consists of all of Midland County and part of Ector County.

Craddick

Craddick has served as chairman of the National Resources Committee for the past 12 years. He was the first Republican to be appointed to the chairmanmanship of a permanent House committee. He also has served on the House Energy Committee. He ranks fourth in seniority in the 150-member Texas House.

More polyps found in Reagan's colon By TERENCE HUNT

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan had three "very small" growths removed from his colon and a sample of skin taken from a bump on his face Friday in his most extensive medical checkup since cancer surgery. Doctors initially judged the specimens to be non-cancerous, but further tests will be conducted.

'All indications are that when the lab results are in they will confirm the president to be in excellent health," the White House said in a written statement describing the results of Reagan's colon examination and checkup at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

The three growths, described by doctors as "clinically benign," were removed from the colon in a nonsurgical procedure known as a

Reagan, leaving the hospital after nearly six hours, gave a thumbs-up signal and said "Everything's fine." He and his wife Nancy then flew to Camp David, Md., for a three-day Martin Luther King Jr. holiday weekend.

Asked whether he had named a successor to departing Agriculture Secretary John Block, Reagan said,

Reagan, 74, had gone to the hospital for the first examination of his colon since his successful cancer surgery six months ago. The finding of three small polyps in not surprising," given Reagan's medical history, said Prof. Gary Gitnick of the UCLA School of Medicine.

The fact that they look benign when viewed with the naked eye is encouraging, but the key is now they look under the microscope," he said in a telephone interview. And even if they do prove benign, he said, it will be important to see if they are pre-malignant - that is, of a type judged likely to turn cancer-ous if left to grow much larger. In addition to colon cancer, Reagan also had a basal cell carcinoma the most common and easily curable form of skin cancer — removed from the right side of his nose last August. The White House statement said the new bump from which a sample was taken was on the right side of his face. The White House refused to submit to reporters' questions about the president's condition.

On Friday, Reagan also underwent blood tests, X-rays and a CAT scan, which can provide highly detailed and accurate pictures of the brain, lungs, pancreas, kidneys and other organs.

A colonoscopy is a procedure in which a long, flexibile tube is inserted in the rectum and guided through the organ by remote

A tiny wire snare is located at the end of the device to lasso growths and clip them off. The wound is sealed with a coagulating electrical current that runs through the wire.

The three growths discovered in Reagan's colon were polyps, one to two millimeters in size. The vast majority of polyps - which are fleshy growths - are benign, but some become cancerous.

Aside from the samples sent to be biopsed, all other test results and examinations were normal and revealed no evidence of any disease, the White House said. The test, called a colonoscopy, was administered as a routine follow-up to surgery Reagan had last summer to remove a cancerous tumor from his colon.

The examination, an uncomfortable but rarely dangerous procedure, was the first thorough scrutiny of Reagan's colon since the removal of a cancerous tumor six months ago. The president had to go without food Thursday as he awaited the examination. Cancer specialists recommend that people who have had colon cancer should have colonoscopies every six months thereafter to guard against the growth of new, potentially cancerous lesions, and Reagan's examination was seen as in keeping with that routine post-surgical follow-up advice. White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan had said before Reagan's hospital visit that the president would not temporarily transfer chief executive power to Vice President George Bush — as was done for nine hours during last summer's surgery.

"We know from prior experience that these type of examinations go along in a normal fashion," the chief

Referring to last year's temporary transfer, Regan said, "We know from prior things how to handle that type of situation if it were needed, but we're not anticipating we'll have to need it.' Before boarding a helicopter on the South Lawn to fly to the hospital, Reagan and Nancy stopped on the South Lawn to chat with Tina Fowler, a 13-year-old leukemia victim from New Lenox, Ill., who wanted to meet the president.

The girl, who will undergo a bonemarrow transplant next week, gave the Reagans two stuffed bears and a jelly bean-filled mug, as Mrs. Reagan's dog, Rex, barked and strained at the leash to keep moving.

Reagan prepared for the procedure — known as a colonoscopy by abstaining from solid foods since before lunch Thursday. He also drank a purgative solution to ensure the bowel is clean for the examination.

Fleshy growths called polyps, the vast majority of which are benign, are common among people over age 50, and they occur with increasing frequency as people get older. They rarely cause discomfort or illness, but some polyps — doctors cannot predict which ones — develop into colon cancer, which is among the most common and the most de forms of the disease.

Former nun shares story at local AA meeting

Two persons die in chemical blast

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) - A tank containing 2,000 pounds of a caustic chemical exploded Friday, killing two people, injuring at least 18 and sending a green chemical cloud into the air.

The late-morning explosion at the Diamond Shamrock Corp. plant also caused a small fire. Rain and wind from the south helped break up the chemical cloud and carry it over Lake Erie, where it posed no danger, said Allan Franks, chief of the public interest center for the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

He said he was unaware of any evacuations in the industrial area of Ashtabula Township.

Ammonium dichromate apparently ignited in a rotary vacuum dryer unit, but it was not known what caused the ignition, said Ginger Shearburn, a company spokeswoman in Dallas. The dryer unit represents one step in the process of making chemicals, she said.
The cloud from an ammonium di-chromate explosion could be an irritant and could cause burns if it came into contact with people, Franks

Franks said there was some structural damage to the plant. He said about 2,000 pounds of the chemical was involved in explosion.

The plant in northeast Ohio, which makes chemicals for the agricultural, pharmaceutical and paint industries, employs 60 people, although an unspecified number of workers with outside contractors may have been in the plant, Ms. Shearburn said.

Harry Roncaglione, 55, an employ-ee of Overhead Door Co. who was working at the plant when the explosion occurred, was hospitalized with a cut on his hand.

"I don't normally work at the plant, so I don't have the slightest idea what happened. It was a real big

Two men were dead on arrival at Ashtabula County Medical Center, which also treated seven plant emoloyees, five other workers and two firefighters injured in the explosion, said hospital spokesman Leonard

The dead were identified by Ashtabula County Coroner Robert Ma-linowski as William J. Smith, 29, of Conneaut and Lloyd A. Harley, 54, of Ashtabula. Both were employees of Diamond Shamrock.

At least one of the people hospitalized was not working in the plant when the blast occurred. Andrew Ceder, 61, a Conrail employee who was repairing railroad cars across from the plant, was hospitalized for observation because he was caught in the cloud of gas.

A person in critical condition was flown from the medical center to Cleveland Metropolitan General Hospital's burn unit for treatment of a skull fracture, broken bones and chemical burns, officials said. He was identified as David Beckwith, 49, according to Jim Gosky, Metro General spokesman.

Nine of the injured were expected to be admitted to Ashtabula County Medical Center.

Four others were treated at Brown Memorial Hospital in Conneaut, but all were expected to be released after they were scrubbed and decontaminated, said Claudia Gary, disaster coordinator for the hospital.

People exposed to the chemical are advised to flush their skin or eyes with running water for at least 15 minutes, according to federal guidelines on hazardous materials. Ken Schultz, the Ohio EPA's chief

DEATHS

Nugent T. Brasher

Services for Nugent Brasher, 70, a Midland oil pio-neer and wildcatter, will be held at 11 a.m. today in Ellis Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Bob Porterfield officiating. Buri-al will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park.

Brasher died Thursday evening at a Midland hospital after having a heart seizure.

He was born April 17, 1915, in Coryell County and spent his early life in Iraan. Following his schooling, he began a long career in the oil business as a roustabout in the Yates field at Iraan working for the late Bum Gibbins. He received his degree in geology from Texas Tech in 1939 and moved to Midland as a geologist with Stanolind Oil Company. He worked with them until he entered the U.S. Army during World War II. He was in the Normandy Invasion and fought in the Battle of the Bulge, achieving the rank of captain.

Following his discharge in 1945, Brasher returned to Midland to work with Stanoling. While employed with them, he was responsible for the discovery of some large reserves, including Midland Farms, the Three Bars and North Monahans Deep Fields.

In 1964 he became associated with Earl Rodman of Odessa and they discovered the Amacar-Tippett Field in Upton County, the first quardruple completion in the Permian Basin. In 1966 he formed a partnership with Bill Mathis of Midland and was instrumental in discovering the Kemick field on the North Slope of Alaska, as well as the Downie Ranch Field of Pecos County, the Nearburg field in Howard County and last year the Brasher-Atoka field in east Midland County.

Brasher was a past president of Permian Basin Geological Society, past commissioner of Midland Little League Baseball Association, member of the Exchange Club, Permian Basin and American Landman's As-

Basin and American Landman's Association, Texas Tech Century Club, Loyalty Club of the University and the Society of Independent Petroleum Earth Scientists.

Survivors include his wife, Edith Brasher of Midland; two sons, Nugent T. Brasher Jr. of Glenwood, N.M., and Jerry Brasher of Houston; and three grandchildren. and three grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Robert M. Garst, Bill Mathis, Jack C. Edens, Robert A. Dean, Louis B. Kellett, L. Decker Dawson and Johnny C. Caldwell, all of Midland, and L.E. Rogers of Flint.

The family requests memorials be directed to the American Heart Association or to one's favorite charity.

Both Edia Hernandez, president of LULAC's Midland chapter, and Charlie Jackson, past president of the Black Advisory Council, were delighted in the judge's ruling.

But Ms. Hernandez, a 42-year-old Midland activist, said she was disappointed that the school district would even consider appealing Bunton's verdict. "It dampens my spirits to know that they may appeal," she said. "I'm upset that they are thinking of appealing" the case to the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. "I think that it's a shame that men of such calibre could be acting so selfishly... "THIS JUST PROVES how insensitive they are and how hard it is to try to work with the people that are in power." She explained the appeal would delay implementation of Bunton's single-member-district ruling. Further, she said the elections would be "frozen" until the case is resolved. The appellate court could uphold Bunton's order, revise it, or overturn

Ms. Hernandez said that the ruling "only enforces our belief in the judicial systems.

Charlie Jackson, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, said the ruling was "great."

'We viewed the 3-4 (proposal) as not representative as we saw it," he said. "That still wouldn't be fair Black Advisory Council held that the Americans share common experi-

Charlie Jackson said Bunton's ruling was "most effective."
"We felt now that we have a chance for fair representation throughout the district - not only within the minority community but to give everybody a chance to run." Charlie Jackson said LULAC and the Black Advisory Council "will be ready to go" if MISD appeals the ruling. Baressi said the school district's proposed plan was "fair and guaran-that's the right term - for a second seat" on the seven-member board. I felt good about our case," which the judge rejected. The MISD voting boundaries apparently would not coincide with boundaries set by the city and county of Midland. WHILE BUNTON declared MISD's at-large system unconstitutional, he found its "3-4 plan" was "not designed or formulated with any preconceived discriminatory intent or purpose in mind on the part of any of the parties before the However, he ruled that the plan would "result in discrimination against" the minorities represented by LULAC and the Black Advisory Council. Bunton wrote that members of the class represented by LULAC and the constitutional rights" and that the class members "have less opportunity than other members of the electorate to participate in the political process and to elect representatives of their choice to the position of school board trustee."

MISD and its trustees, however, contended that the "at-large election scheme ... was not violative of the United States Constitution and was in the best interest of all residents' within the boundary of the MISD.

Bunton held that MISD and its trustees were "wrong in their assertion that past discrimination is of 'little importance' in determining whether a plan dilutes" the minorities' voting strength in violation of the U.S. Constitution. Bunton noted that of the 113,600 people in Midland County, 79,439 or 69.9 percent are of voting age. Mexi-can-Americans make up 11.9 percent of the county's voting age popula-tion; blacks make up 7.8 percent. Totaled. Mexican-Americans and blacks constitute 19.7 percent of the total voting-age population. About 50,000 Midland County residents are registered to vote, which is 62.5 percent of the county's voting-age population.

IN THE PAST 20 years, three minority candidates have been elected to the MISD board of trustees.

"...While blacks and Mexican-if it was weather-related or if the majority, the two groups have dis-tinct cultures and decidedly different political goals," Bunton wrote in his ruling. Bunton also noted that he was "un-persuaded" by Baressi's contention that the superintendent "will have decreased efficiency if required to respond and manage seven members elected from single-member MISD argued that the "34 plan" with its three at-large positions would allow for "staggering" positions and would allow voters throughout the school district to vote each year on candidates seeking three-year terms on the school board.

In late 1984, Bunton ruled in a LU-LAC-Black Advisory Council suit against the city of Midland that four seven City Council members shall be elected from single-member districts. The major and two City Council members would be elected at large. In April 1985, Oralia "Lillie" Corrales, an Hispanic, was the first racial minority to be elected to the City Council.

Bunton's ruling is subject to review and approval by the U.S. De-partment of Justice, Baressi noted. That review would come after the case has been appealed.

Bunton's final judgment in the case, which was initiated in January 1985, is forthcoming.

Three killed in rural Texas plane crash

GAINESVILLE (AP) - Three people died Friday when a single-engine plane crashed and burned in a rural field south of here, apparently while trying to make an emergency landing, officials said.

The plane crashed about 10 a.m. off Old Denton Road eight miles south of Gainesville, said Joyce Mc-Millan of the Cooke County Emergency Ambulance Service.

The victims were believed to be three men - two from Kansas and one from Wise County, Texas - but officials were still trying late Friday to establish positive identification, Cooke County Sheriff John Aston

Witnesses said metal parts were strewn over a 100-foot area leading to the crash site, but that a nearby house was not damaged.

Aston said the plane, a Beechcraft Bonanza, left Salina, Kansas on Thursday and stopped near Decatur, 40 miles northwest of Fort Worth in Wise County, later that day. The plane left Wise County Friday morning and was headed for Grayson County, 70 miles north of Dallas, when it crashed.

The plane apparently tried to land in a grassy field but its nose dipped and hit a ditch and the plane flipped, Jim Bleything, Cookee County sheriff's investigator, said.

engine just malfunctioned. We had a lot of fog out here this morning." Bleything said when the nose hit the ditch, the plane's engine was buried about two to two-and-a-half feet in the ground. Resident Charlene Ritchey told officials she heard the plane flying low over homes in the area and its engine was making an unusual noise, the Gainesville Register reported.

An inspector from the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board will be investigating the crash.

First aid classes set at park

From Staff Reports

Water Wonderland, the Midland-Odessa water theme park, will be the site for CPR and general first aid classes today. The courses will be taught by certified safety instructors and will be conducted at the park located beducted at the park located be-tween Midland and Odessa, 2 1/2 miles west of the Midland Regional Air Terminal.

The main purpose of the classes will be to maintain Red Cross safety certification for Water Wonderland's yearlong employ-ees and to provide the opportuni-ty for those employees not pres-ently certified to achieve Red Cross certification.

According to Doyle Wolfe, general manager of the park, "The safety of our guests is our number one concern, and even though we're still over three months from our opening in early May, we're making sure the people now working at the park are trained to handle emergencies. We'll continue this type of training throughout the year, making sure our safety standards are maintained."

Future classes are being planned with openings for public participation. Anybody interested in attending such classes should contact Water Wonderland at 563-3141 for dates and general information

Painter credits copter, patrols

From Staff Reports

The Sheriff's Office has used its new helicopter and extra patrols to cut back a recent wave of burglaries in rural Midland County, Sheriff Gary Painter said Friday.

The extra effort paid off with the arrest of three people at a house where burglara apparently had been exchanging stolen goods for drugs, Painter said.

The three were expected to be charged with possession of heroin after sheriff's deputies executed a search warrant at 1710 Harrison Street Friday and seized eight papers of the drug.

Officers were still searching the house Friday afternoon for possible stolen goods, Painter said.

We've been having several burglaries out in the county the last week and a half or two weeks," but the extra patrols have cut the breakins from five per day to one or two,

The sheriff said his office doesn't have the manpower to keep this kind of effort going on a continual basis, and urged rural Midland residents to set up neighborhood watch programs and call the Sheriff's Of-fice (new phone number: 688-1228) if

Accused rapist changes plea

From Staff Reports

A 23-year-old Midland man about to be tried for two rapes switched his plea to guilty Friday and was given two 33-year sentences in state

The sentences will be served concurrently, according to J.D. Luckie of the Midland County District Attorney's Office.

Gary Randall Prentice was accused of committing rapes on July 3 and Aug. 24. He was scheduled to be tried Friday before Judge Pat Baskin in 142nd District Court, but changed his mind after the jury had been selected, and agreed to plead guilty to sexual assault.

He had been indicted for aggravated sexual assault, but was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser offense of sexual assault. However, that charge was enhanced to a first-degree felony because Prentice had two prior convictions, Luckie said. Neither prior conviction was for sexual assault.

The penalty range for a first-degree felony is five to 99 years or life in prison, and a fine of up to $10,000. Prentice was represented by Midland attorney David Lashford.

County party officials told to tighten belts

By STEVE LEVINE

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau AUSTIN — Facing a possible $300,000 shortfall if both parties need statewide primary runoff elections this spring, Secretary of State Myra McDaniel has issued some costcutting orders for county party offi-

In emergency rules published in the Texas Register earlier this month, Ms. McDaniel limited the salmonth, Ms. McDaniel limited the sal-aries of primary administrators and election workers and capped at 12 the number of election workers a precinct may hire. She also tight-ened rules requiring party chairmen to use competitive bidding for sup-plies and services.

Using candidates' filing fees and $8.7 million in general revenue ap-propriations, the state pays for the administrative expenses for both the Republican and Democratic primaries. The state picks up the tab, for example, for election judges' and clerks' salaries, ballot printing, polling place rentals and transportation of voting equipment. In 1984, when only the Democrats needed a second statewide election, known as a runoff, the state met the total election expenses of $9.8 million and had a $627,000 surplus. Although new legislation doubles the income from filing fees this year, Ms. McDaniel said the likely prospects for a statewide Republican runoff for either governor or attorney general would leave her primary budget about $300,000 in the red. In November, Ms. McDaniel said that deficit could force Gov. Mark White into the awkward position of having to call a special legislative session to balance the budget just because so many Republicans want his job. Three strong candidates are seeking the GOP gubernatorial nomination, and the prospects that neither would garner a majority vote in the first primary are strong.

That would force a runoff.

As a more likely possibility, the secretary of state suggested she would clamp down on election costs. And that's what she did. Her directives include:

- A $4-per-hour limit on election workers' pay. State law authorizes the parties to pay as much as $5 per

— A limit — for the first time — on the number of election workers a precinct may hire. The number based on each precincts' expected turnout and the type of ballot they use — ranges from three to 12, including one judge and one alternate

- A maximum $2,000 monthly salary for primary administrators and other personnel and a reduction in the number of days for which they can draw that salary.

Requiring county chairman to use competitive bidding for services and products "whenever more than one source is available in the state." The old rules said chairman had to use competitive bidding only "if time permits."

— A reduction by one month in the period of time for which the state would pay the costs of office or equipment rental.

— A limit — for the first time — on election judges' pay. They may earn no more than $15 per election.

Ms. McDaniel's office did not specify how much the new rules would save the state, but an aide in the elections division said McDaniel ordered the restrictions because of the

Oak trees mark anniversary

From Staff Reports

Midland County officials planted two oak trees near the Petroleum Museum Friday to help commemorate the Texas Sesquicentennial.

Appropriately, the trees were planted on Arbor Day.

"One hundred years from now, when we have visitors, they can look back and reflect that these two trees were planted in celebration of the Texas Sequicentennial," said Midland County Agricultural Agent Earnest Kiker.

"I'd like to come back in 100 years and see how they've grown," added County Judge William B. Ahders, who joined Kiker at the planting.

The Texas Forest Service is offering Sequicentennial Shumard oak trees to every county in Texas, and Storm Nursery of Premont is matching that offer by offering each county a Heritage Live oak tree.

Midland's trees were delivered in December, but county officials de-cided to wait until Arbor Day to plant them.

Arbor Day was first adopted in Nebraska to encourage the planting of trees in that largely unforested state. The Texas Legislature adopted the third Friday in January as Arbor Day in 1949.

"I think it's time for the Democratic Party to eliminate this denial syndrome," Bonilla said. Neighborhood 'holdout' hassled for souring deal

Helen Riles is unwilling to sell her Arlington home.

Woodbrook Addition, Ms. Riley's 20-year-old Arlington neighborhood, is ripe for residential sellout. Hemmed in by businesses and Ar-lington Stadium, more and more of the neighborhood's middle-class homes are turning into rental

Last year, a group of homeowners decided to seek a big commercial de-veloper who could buy out the entire neighborhood at once and, in turn, give the owners double or triple the sales prices they could expect in oneby-one sellouts.

Ms. Riley has declined to sign a form giving power of attorney to the Woodbrook Homeowners Association to sell her property along with the others. She said she decided against such a move after friends advised her that it would not protect her from financial loss.

Nation's homebuilders gather in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Texas home builders, like the estimated 65,000 home builders from across the nation meeting in Dallas for their annual convention, are going to try and foresee the future for the industry

after a year of profit and plenty. The National Association of Home Builders officially opened its national convention Friday. The event has already drawn a record-setting number of visitors to Dallas for a single convention, and a crowd of carpet stylists, pre-fab kitchen designers, building suppliers, tract home developers and others. In the past, the association has met under the dark cloud of a sluggish industry. But this year, home builders can savor the successes of 1985 and better prepare for a projected decline in housing starts during 1986.

"Many major cities (in Texas) are in the doldrums because of oil and gas, the peso devaluation and farming," said Mike Mahaffey, president of the Texas Association of Home Builders. "But we're still in "Dallas-Fort Worth has to be considered the best housing (market) in the next year because of our diverse economy. We're not affected too much by the oil and gas problems. Right behind that would be San Antonio-Austin.'

Houston, which last year had annual housing starts between 7,800 and 7,900 compared to 30,000 in late 1982 and early 1983, may be experiencing a rebound, Mahaffey said.

"The fairest thing you can say about Houston is that it's bottomed out," said Robert J. Strudler, president of U.S. Home Corp. "I don't see any immediate recovery. Now builders have about 7,000 houses on the market. In years past, we had 25,000 generally. Those builders that were doing 30 communities are doing far less today."

Rangerville residents already fighting refuge for Central Americans

RANGERVILLE (AP) — A new shelter to house Central Americans who have applied for political asy-lum opens today, but residents of this small South Texas community already want it closed. Refugio del Rio Grande, about three miles from the international boundary, will open under the spon-sorship of the International Indian Treaty Council.

Eventually it will have accommodations for 50 Central Americans who will have legal, social, medical and educational support while staff members work on their immigration

Lisa Brodyaga, a Rio Grande Valley immigration attorney and one of the founders of the shelter, said it will comply with even the strictest immigration rules and there will be no transporting of illegal aliens to and from the shelter.

But residents of this farming com-munity of about 300 said the shelter went up without any warning and they have many questions.

Some want it moved "I know that it might be good, but if they tell me I have a choice I'd say, 'Let's move it,'" said Larry Echols, whose property is next to the shel-ter. "You don't want something on your backdoor that might be a potential problem."

Cogeneration 'attractive'

AUSTIN (AP) Power produced as a byproduct of industry is "our only major hope" of keeping down Texas electric rates, a chemical industry spokes-man told a special committee Friday.

Whitworth Cogeneration - as the process is called - is a cheap and attractive alternative to nuclear power, Harry Whitworth

The Cogeneration Study Committee met Friday to continue its look at the future of power produced by industry. Under the process, industries sell power to utility companies. It is viewed as a way to avoid the high cost of building power plants.

"No power plants should be approved or brought on line until the full potential of least-cost alternatives are included in the mix - cogeneration representing the largest of those least-cost alternatives," said Whitworth, president of the Texas Chemical Council.

Fontenot jury chosen

LIVINGSTON (AP) - A jury was selected Friday to hear the murder trial of Hurley Fontenot, 48, the former school principal accused of killing a football coach over the affections of the school secretary.

The 10-woman, two-man jury is scheduled to hear opening arguments and testimony in the case starting Monday, said State District Judge John Martin.

Fontenot, 48, former principal at Hull-Daisetta Woodson Junior High School in Liberty County, is accused of fatally shooting Billy Mac Fleming, 38. He is free on $50,000 bond. Fleming, who coached and taught math at the school, was last seen alive April 12. Ten days later, a berry picker found his body in a densely forested area southwest of Livingston in Polk County.

Bulb blamed for fire

GALVESTON (AP) - A burning light bulb used by workers cleaning a docked government freighter burst and sparked a blaze that injured 25 people, a fire marshal said Friday.

Fire Marshall Willie Wisco said the bulb inside the ship's hull burst, igniting fumes from chemicals that workers were using to clean the ship's bulkheads.

"Some water came in contact with the hot bulb and the bulb broke." Wisco said. "The sparks ignited the vapors.' Ten workers cleaning the Pioneer Contractor were trapped for about an hour when the fire erupted about 6 a.m. Thursday. The workers were degreasing the interior of the ship's holds with an industrial solvent when the fire started. Ten of the 25 injured remained hospitalized Friday, authorities said.

Candidate states position

AUSTIN (AP) Texas Supreme Court candidate Shirley Butts said Friday she is neither for nor against large judgmoney ments in lawsuits.

Ms. Butts, who filed Wednesday as a Democrat for the seat now held by Justice Sears McGee, said many people had asked her whether she was "for" or "against" large money damages. "My answer is, 'Neither.' If I were 'for' or 'against' any party or any issue in a case, I would be neither a competent nor a fair judge."

She described the current ninemember court as "pro-large dama-ge," and added, "We have an activist court - we do not need an activist court."

The associate justice of the San Antonio Court of Appeals also said the Legislature must curtail the "ex-orbitant cost" of being a candidate for the Supreme Court.

The marriage later ended in divorce.

Smoking bans adopted

AUSTIN (AP) - The Austin City Council has unanimously adopted smoking bans for public places and offices, but with broad exceptions.

Under the ordinance, which goes into effect May 15, smoking is prohibited in public places — including stores, businesses and offices - except in designated smoking areas.

However, the council also approved Thursday an amendment that allows a business owner to declare his entire establishment to be a smoking site if he can prove that most of his customers want to smoke

The council argued at length over amendments placed in the ordinance by one member, Mark Rose. The amendments exempt most tav-

Group hopes to turn Memphis motel into civil rights museum

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Peeling paint, parking lot potholes and air-conditioners held together with duct tape mar the small motel where one of the nation's foremost civil rights leaders was murdered.

A citizens' group bought the place three years ago to turn it into a civil rights museum, but that hasn't hap-pened yet. The motel is still open for business.

"People who come to see Elvis, a "People who come to see Elvis, a few of them come by here," said Calvin Brown, 62, tour guide at the Lorraine Motel. Rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley also died in Memphis.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. died on the second-floor balcony of the Lorraine on April 4, 1968, his the Lorraine on April 4, 1968, his throat ripped by an assassin's rifle slug. James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to killing King, is serving a 99year sentence at the Tennessee State Prison in Nashville.

The first national observance of King's birthday is set for Monday. "History has placed that site in our community," said D'Army Bailey, president of the non-profit group which now owns the motel. "We have an obligation...to present that site with the excellence and the dignity and the feeling that exemplifies the life that was taken there."

Brown said several thousand people visit the crumbling motel each year to see where King died - he was in Memphis to lead a strike by sanitation workers. More than 500,000 people a year tour Presley's mansion, Graceland. Bailey's group, the Dr. Martin Lu-ther King Jr. Foundation, scraped together $144,000 to buy the Lorraine in December 1982, and the organization has raised $50,000, mostly from local government, to finance a study of what the crumbling motel could become. The study, when completed in six months or so, will be used to seek up to $5 million for building the museum, and Bailey said he hopes to get 80 percent of that money from local and state government.

The King foundation was formed as the Lorraine was about to go on the auction block because the motel's former owner had defaulted on into trouble early, and the founda-

Residents discovering 'home sweet downtown'

By DEBORAH WESER

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Belford and Mary Cornelia Nelson do not worry about watering the grass, weeding the flower beds or mowing the lawn. The city of San Antonio does it for them.

The Nelsons, and about 2,300 other people, live downtown. Their immediate neighbors are the 220 people who fill the apartments in the stately old Grandada Homes on Villita Street near the Bexar County Courthouse.

Theirs is a river front property, equipped with the eye-catching public greenery and graceful trees of the popular downtown River Walk. "We've lived here five years and wouldn't live anywhere else," the 86year-old Belford Nelson declared cheerfully. From their high-rise, one-bedroom apartment, they have a clear view of the crews building the city's new marina at river level under Nueva Street, and on a clear day can see well over into the King William Historic District.

"We see somebody new every day," said Belford, a well-traveled Ohio native.

"We go by bus or walk to where we want to shop," his wife added. "I just don't believe you could live in a safer place than we do."

There is a small convenience store and laundry room in the building, but the Nelsons are incurable walkers and tend to roam the central business district for their general shopping

But they and others downtown miss the convenience of a nearby supermarket. They have to plan grocery expeditions to the nearest suburban store.

Another complaint is parking. They have begun lobbying the city to produce an identifying decal that would allow them to park and unload at home.

"We often get a parking ticket for unloading groceries," Malcom Baker Baker lives in the Casino Building near the Crockett Street Bridge. His building is next to the Kangaroo Court, a riverside restaurant where he works. United Service Organizations executive director Caryl Hill can make it to work in just under four minutes on foot. All she has to do is race five blocks to HemisFair Plaza from her comfortable apartment in the Casino Building.

"It's a good place," she insists. And safe, despite all the stories you might hear, she added.

"Living downtown is sort of like living in a small town," Ms. Hill said. "I feel more secure here than when I was living in the suburbs."

Others who live downtown are not as fortunate as the Nelson's, Ms. Hill, their well-to-do neighbors in the luxurious Left Bank condominium complex, or the young professionals who make Town Center or the Soap Works - both near the Santa Rosa

Medical Center - their home base. Poor and either elderly or transient, their housing often is inadequate, badly heated in winter and barely cooled in summer. Its saving grace is the low rent that a meager Social Security check will support.

Neither Ms. Hill nor the Nelsons are troubled by the presence of "street people" — homeless folk who wander downtown streets regularly and sleep 'rough' or in one of the local shelters overnight.

Elizabeth Gleason, who lives in the renovated Losoya Building on Losoya between Crockett and Commerce streets, agrees.

"We have our regulars, and we recognize them," Ms. Gleason said. "I feel like they don't want any trouble on their street. They just mind their business and do the best they can."

"It doesn't look good but they aren't harmful," Ms. Hill remarked. 'But public bathrooms would help.'

"Our back door is the urinal of the neighborhood," the Rev. Bill Davies said, talking about the tribulations of downtown living. He lives next to his church, St. Mary's Catholic Church on St. Mary's Street.

Both Ms. Hill and Davies are active in the Downtown Residents Association. As its president, Ms. Hill served on Centro 21, the city's downtown revival task force, for a full term. Now, she is doing her best to drum up membership for the resident association and stay abreast of downtown revival developments, among them the plan to divert some of VIA Metropolitan Transit's bus lines and make Houston Street and Alamo Plaza, among others, more hospitable to pedestrians

"I'd like to see more people move downtown," said Ms. Gleason. "And more would come if some of the buildings were converted to lofts or

"This is the first time I've ever lived downtown. And before, I rarely came downtown. But now, going to the North Side is like going out of

Ms. Gleason says she walks all over, often visiting friends or her daughter who has a house in the King William Historic District. And, if she is returning late, she feels quite comfortable so long as she can see the police or park rangers on the beat; the horse-drawn carriages; and well-lit streets.

Teen-agers cut drinking in half, Sweden reports

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Swedish youths have cut their alcohol consumption in half over a period of six years, according to three official surveys published recently. The surveys taken for the period 1978-84 indicated youths are drinking less, drinking less often and starting to drink later in life. More and more are abstaining altogether and more are abstaining altogether. As in other Western countries, alcohol consumption is also declining among adults, but the development is especially marked among Swedish youth, the polls show.

They attribute most of the decline to the government's anti-alcohol campaigns and more restrictive alcohol policies.

"Even though there is still a limited group of young people with problems who take to the bottle, I would agree that use has declined among more normal children," said social worker Rolf Ahlstroem.

Ahlstroem, who works with young people in the field, said he also agreed with alcohol researchers and authorities on the major impact the "health movement" was having on drinking habits.

"People are more aware of the body," Dr. Bjoern Hibell, a top alco- alcohol.

hol researcher at the Central Associ-ation for Alcohol and Narcotics In-formation in Sweden said in an interview. "They eat healthier; exer-cise, run and go to gyms. You see the same downward tendencies with smoking and narcotics." Bjoern Rydberg of the National Board of Health and Welfare said the increased interest in staying healthy had served as one of the main themes in getting the message across in a wide range of anti-drinking campaigns.

Another factor that helped bring about the change in young Swedes' drinking habits, according to experts, was the ban on so-called medium beer, which had about half to one-third the alcohol content to regular beers. Medium beer, introduced in 1965, was aimed at the youth marin 1965, was aimed at the youth market and was sold in supermarkets. Researchers found that it led youths to stronger alcoholic beverages later.

In the 1970s, Sweden took a generally harder line in the wake of public demands for something to be done about teen-age drinking. Surveys showed that 20 percent of 18-year-old males got drunk as often as once a week, and that more than half of negative effects drugs have on the all 12- to 14-year-old boys used

Japanese ice carvers slide into Michigan, freeze out the competition

PLYMOUTH, Mich. (AP) — An American Indian in full headdress

American Indian in full headdress stands solemnly on the street corner. Nearby, a huge bear roars from atop a rock, and the music fairly pours from a crystalline harp.

Those frozen figures and hundreds more, carved in lifelike detail from 440-pound blocks of ice, line Plymouth's streets and fill a downtown park town park.

Among them are more than 200 sculptures by Japanese chefs, recognized as the world's best ice carvers. The Plymouth Ice Spectacular, which runs through Sunday, is the brainchild of Scott Lorenz, 29-year-old general manager of the Mayflow-er Hotel.

He got the idea from a CBS-TV "60 Minutes" feature on ice carving in Sapporo, Japan. "I thought, 'Heck, we've got the weather here in Michigan, and we have the background for special events, so let's do it."

The 4-year-old ice show has turned January, traditionally sluggish for shopping and tourism, into a booming month, Lorenz said. About 350,000 people attended last year's festival in this city of 10,000 people, located 20 miles west of downtown Detroit. Detroit.

New this year are the star carvers

As the festival opened last week, crowds surrounded a lifelike Eskimo hunter, spear poised as salmon leaped about his feet in a stream. Carvers put finishing touches on a fierce-looking samurai warrior. Students from Oakland Community College's culinary arts school used a small plastic model and elaborate blueprints to hew a life-size Model-A Ford — parked illegally, of course, in front of an ice fire hydrant.

A frantic schoolteacher chased youngsters who pointed and ran in all directions, shouting with glee at a sparkling castle, Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and two battling dragons, all brought to life in ice.

Kevin Enright, a chef-instructor at Oakland, said ice-carving is done mostly by chefs, who normally start out creating icy table centerpieces. The Plymouth show lets his students carve on a large scale and earn course credit at the same time.

Using tools ranging from chain saws to fine-bladed chisels and shavers, Jim Nadeau, 32, of Chicago, turned an ice block into a grinning rocking horse.

Nadeau, a former motel food production manager, learned to carve 12 years ago from a German chef and now owns a five-employee carving business in Chicago.

But Nadeau and others acknowl-

Pizza week praises pie of pepperoni

NEW YORK (AP) — Admit it. You don't really want salad for lunch again. What you really want is pizza. Piping hot pizza. Pizza smothered with mozzarella. Pizza heady with the tangy aroma of tomato sauce. Pizza piled high with pepperoni, mushrooms, sausage. Some squid, Squid? That's what it comes with in Japan. If you're ordering your pie in Mexico, you might opt for chili peppers. Hawaiians savor pineapple pizza and Down Under, Australians and New Zealanders put mutton on top. Yuppies pay chateaubriand prices for pizzas bearing trendy toppings such as goat cheese, sun-dried tomatoes, leeks and spinach.

At the risk of exhausting a limited supply of pizza trivia too soon, be advised that one pound of oregano can season 6,900 slices and that the world's largest pie measured 80 feet, 1 inch in diameter, covered 5,037 square feet and weighed 18,664

The reason you should care is that Uncle Sam has proclaimed this National Pizza Week — the first time

In his proclamation, prompted by a request from the Pizza Hut chain, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block cited the nutritional, financial and social values of America's "favorite hot food."

Besides providing thousands of jobs in pizzerias, Block somberly declared in one of his last pronounce-ments before resigning, "The popu-larity of this native Italian dish confirms our nation's ethnic diversity and openness, and the social nature of pizza promotes camaraderie and family togetherness."

AS LONG AS there are no anchovies.

"Nationally, the favorite topping is pepperoni and the least favorite is anchovy," said Judy Kelly, a Pittsburgh publicist who spent three months researching pizza for the Pizza Week campaign.

Philadelphians are purists, buying more plain cheese pizzas than any other kind, according to Ms. Kelly, whose facts are based on statistics and published material dating back to the 1950s

According to the $11 billion-a-year pizza industry, Americans ate an average of seven pizzas per man, woman and child in 1985. "Chicago would be the self-proclaimed pizza capital because it has some very renowned pizza restaurants," Ms. Kelly said in a telephone

Baloney, came the response from

Asked about the quality of New York pizza, New York City Mayor Edward Koch huffed, "I know it's better than Chicago pizza because everything we do is better than Koch likes Sicilian-style pizza, heavy on the garlic, heavy on the cheese and heavy on the pepperoni." While best-tasting is left to debate, New York pizza is clearly a contender for best-traveled.

Three years ago, hungry students at Harlaxton College at Lincolnshire, England, made a 7,138-mile pizza run for 40 pies from Famous Ray's Pizza

FINDING THE RIGHT Ray's was an accomplishment in itself. There are more than 20 pizzerias in Manhattan alone calling themselves Ray's - including The One and Only Famous Ray's, 11 Original Ray's and three Plain Ray's.

"It's a free country and there are a lot of Rays," shrugged Marcy Russo, co-owner of the outlet patronized by the college students from England. It wasn't even the pizzeria's biggest order, she added. That honor belongs to a New York City shoe fac-tory that once ordered 70 pies.

Pizza Hut, the world's largest pizza chain, with restaurants in Kuwait and Singapore but not Italy, said it took minimal politicking to have National Pizza Week proclaimed.

You might even say Uncle Sam owed Pizza Hut one. In 1984, the Interior Department asked Pizza Hut to host a pizza party for more than 300 Soviet and American scientists and crew members on a research vessel in the Bering Sea.

Pizza Hut flew over with pizza ovens, pizza, salad and soft drinks and picked up the tab — $25,000 to $30,000, said Larry Whitt, vice presi-dent of government and public af-fairs for the Wichita, Kan.-based

The Italian Mission to the United Nations referred pizza queries to the Italian Embassy in Washington, D.C., where Counselor Massimo Baistrocchi was surprised to hear it's National Pizza Week.

WHERE FAMILIES OF ARE WELDOME

What picture comes to mind when you hear the word "family"? Do you see a mother, father, and 2.3 children? What does a family

Every family is unique. There are families with children, some with no children, some are single-parent families, and there are 'blended families' - where a new family is formed from former ones. "Part-time" families occur when a parent has custody on week-ends or during vacations. Families come in all sizes and in wide variation.

Your family - of one or more - is welcome with us. Though every family has its own specific set of problems and potentials, we all need Christ, His love, and and human caring. Let us meet your family this week!

County forecasts

Midland, Ector, Glasscock, Upton, Reagan midiand, Ector, Glasscock, Upton, Resgan. Crane, Dawson, Borden, Martin and Howard coun-ties: Saturday, fair with highs upper 80s. Light, most-ly west and northwest wind. Saturday night and Sun-day, fair with lows mid 30s and highs mid 80s.

Pleasant days due

From Staff and Wire Reports

A pleasant warm weekend is in store for Midlanders with the mercury rising into the middle to upper 60s, predicted by the National Weather Service at Midland Region-

Along with high temperatures in the upper 60s, today's winds will be light and blowing from the west to northwest. Tonight's low is expected to be in the mid-30s.

Sunday should be fair with a high in the mid-60s. Friday's high of 69 degrees missed the record mark by 15 degrees. The record high of 84 degrees was set in 1974. The record low was missed by 28 degrees with the overnight low of 35 degrees. The record low was 7 degrees set in 1949.

Abundant sunshine was the rule over most of Texas Friday afternoon as very mild winter weather continued over the South Plains.

Patchy areas of low clouds persisted from Northeast Texas through the hill country into deep South Texas. Elsewhere, skies were generally clear with only scattered high level clouds reported over the Panhandle. Temperatures were generally in the 60s statewide, with a few 70s observed over south and north central Texas. North winds around 10 mph continued along parts of the middle and lower coast. Southwest winds of 5 to 15 mph swept much of West Texas with light south winds evident across the remainder of the state. The National Weather Service said considerable late night and early morning low clouds and fog in North and South Texas.

Otherwise, skies should be fair to partly cloudy statewide through Saturday.

NATION

A storm that dumped a foot of snow on mountain areas of Oregon and Idaho brought high winds to Colorado and Wyoming on Friday, while much of the rest of the nation got a break from winter.

A forecast of gusts up to 60 mph prompted a high wind warning across central and southeast Wyo ming and along the front range of the Colorado Rockies from the Wyoming border to near Pikes Peak, the National Weather Service said.

Winds gusted to 64 mph at the top of Squaw Mountain west of Denver, Colo., and Ward and Rollinsville counties measured winds of 50 mph. The gusty winds will aggravate the danger of fire along the southern foothill and in the eastern plains of Colorado.

UNC's Kenny Smith squirms for shooting

Lee continues to romp in 4-5A

By BOB BRUNDAGE Sports Writer

On any given night in girls basket-ball at Midland Lee, no one at the game has any idea who the leading scorer will be, not even head coach

Shirley Stephenson. Friday's District 4-5A battle against Odessa High was no exception as Candace Morney pumped in a career high 16 points to lead Lee to a 68-40 victory at Lee Gym.

Of the 10 players who see heavy playing time, Morney was the last double-digit holdout. Now, all 10 main characters in Lee's 8-0 4-5A season, 15-6 overall, can claim a game of 10 points or more. Morney's previous high was eight in two different outings.

The season statistics also hold up the fact that Lee doesn't have one or two dominant scorers. Going into Friday's game, Becky White was the Lee Girls leading scorer with a 7.6 per game average. Morney was ninth at 4.8.

MORNEY CAME up with all but two of her 16 points in the final three quarters of play, claiming six in the second when the Rebels turned a 15-10 advantage into a 34-15 halftime lead. It was no contest from there on.

"I've never had a better night," said Morney, who wouldn't take much of the credit for her team's victory. "Everybody on the team can shoot, not just me. There's a whole bunch of others like Roz (Eaden), Tina (Swinney), Becky Fonda

"We just all played as a team and as long as we play that way, we'll continue to improve," continued times, the OHS Bronchos didn't know what hit them. One moment they would bring the ball up court only to have it stolen for a fast break

"This is a very talent group," said Coach Shirley Stephenson. "They move well, jump well and are very good athletes. And, they have very good attitudes, too."

Morney displays a good portion of the team's attitude, smiling most of the night and yelling encouragement to her teammates. She's extremely energetic and it shows in her style of play.

"It's the best thing I can do to keep this team up," said Morney about her jovial attitude.

ACCORDING TO Stephenson, de-

Morney. "Our strength is a well bal-anced game, offense, rebound and defense."

And, don't leave out hustle. At fense is the team's forte. "The thing that helps us the most is defense, they enjoy playing defense. They read other offenses real well. At the first of the year, our guards didn't read well, didn't penetrate to the basket as well as they are now.'

The victory keeps Lee alone atop the 45A standings at 80. However, Midland High, a winner over Odessa Permian Friday, is only one game back at 7-1 while Abilene High, a winner over Big Spring, is two back

Stephenson is far from ready to uncork the champagne bottles. "You never make it until everybody else is out and you're in," she said about the playoffs.

Obviously she's been studying Yogi Berra.

Bulldogs stay on top; Lee remains close

Odessa Permian's Lance Watkins tries to lob the ball inside, but Midland High's Thomas Wilson

(44) is there to intercept. MHS defeated Permian, 87-65, to keep first place in the 4-5A race.

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Assistant Sports Editor

It appeared Friday night at Chaparral Center that the Odessa Permian Panthers had Midland High right where they wanted them, so it's a little hard to explain how the Bulldogs managed to pull off another 87-

65 District 4-5A victory.

After all, District 4-5A's leading scorer Elvin Mackey was saddled with foul trouble early and ended the game with a meager seven points. And the season's leading scorer Matt Sears also saw a lot of bench time due to fouls before ending up with 12 points. When you have those two down and out, you don't expect a blowout over a team that was supposedly fighting for a share of first place.

Enter stage right Anthony Deande with a game high 24 points on a 10 of 16 shooting eye from the 20-foot range and you have a chance. Add a combined 30 points from non-starters Thomas Wilson and Damon Thorpe and you have business as

And business as usual is a 6-0 league start with only cross town rival Midland Lee in the way of a perfect first half outing. And that matchup comes Tuesday at the Chap.

WILSON scored a career high 18 points off the bench while Thorpe canned 12. Wilson's previous best effort was 10 points in a game while Thorpe's was six. When you need a hero, it was nice place to find a

All this left MHS coach Jack Stephenson a little giddy after the game, but he had time to sing a few

"Anthony Deande is one of the best shooters in the league and he put on a show for us tonight," said Stephenson. "And what can you say about the bench. Isn't that Thomas Wilson something. He didn't play one second of junior high basketball. He came to our clinic when he was in the ninth grade. And Damon Thorpe played in the seventh grade, didn't make the team in the eighth grade and broke a leg or something to miss ninth grade basketball. Those kids have improved so much it's

IN ALL, the MHS bench poured in 36 points and it never seemed to matter who was on the floor as the Bulldogs started the coast-to-coast rout with 10-1 lead and slowly added to that margin throughout the game. "Did you see when we had three starters sitting on the bench and we were still pulling away?" asked Stephenson. "I have people ask me all the time why I carry so many kids on the varsity and the answer showed tonight. It's to win. You need everyone in the course of a season and I feel comfortable going down deep in our bench. We've got some kids who don't have a lot of talent, but they give you all they've got. Deande responded, "I usually don't shoot that much. I like to get the ball in to Mackey if possible, but when he was out, Coach kept telling me to shoot. I missed my first two shots, but things picked up after that. And Thomas came off the bench with a great effort for us."

Wilson, who had a phenomenal first half with a seven of eight shooting eye, said, "We've played before with some of the starters in foul trouble and we knew we could do well. It makes you push a little harder and we played really well as a Thorpe added, "We've got enough players on the bench to help the starters if they get in trouble.

Lee disposes of OHS

By ERIC SCHURER Sports Writer

ODESSA-Midland Lee found its height advantage to be little advantage against smaller, quicker Odessa High, so the Rebels went to their quickness and found a 61-57 win over the Bronchos in a District 4-5 game in the OHS Gym Friday night.

Senior shooting guard Lee Dixon took control for the Rebels in the second half, scoring 17 of his gamehigh 24 points in the final 16 minutes, to lift Lee from a six-point deficit late in the third quarter. Eddie Riley also had a big night for the Rebs, scoring 20, 14 in the first half.

"We sure had an advantage in size, but they have quickness on us," Re-bel coach Paul Stueckler was saying, and they sure used it. They spread the floor and made us take them one-on-one.'

And when they did that, it was Dixon running the show for the Rebels. Dixon, who takes the term "shooting guard" seriously, was eight of 11 from the floor in the second half, mostly on long jumpers.

THE WIN leaves the Rebels within one game of first-place Midland High at 5-1, 17-6 overall, going into a pivotal stretch against MHS on Tuesday, and at San Angelo on Friday of next week.

Dixon scored nine of the Rebel points in a 13-2 stretch late in the third and early in the fourth periods to lift Lee into a 49-44 lead with 6:24 remaining. The Bronchos could pull no closer than three points the rest of the way.

It was the 10th game this season that OHS, 0-6, 6-15, has lost by five points or less.

"Things just haven't turned the right way for us this year," Broncho coach Keith Thompson said. "We've lost all those close games, with a lit-tle luck, our record could be the opposite. But we've got some young kids and we always come out and play hard."

Senior Tim Deboskie led OHS with 19 points, 13 in the final half, while Victor Dancer added 14.

The Bronchos were playing so hard, they nearly knocked off the sometimes careless Rebels. Leading by one, 31-30, at the half, Thompson applied a full court press early in the final half and Lee struggled with it. The Bronchos outscored Lee 11-6 to open the third period and take a 42-36 lead.

BUT WITH 3:47 to go in that period, Stueckler countered by sending Dixon down to help bring the ball up the floor. "We were a little tentative in the backcourt bringing the ball up the floor," Stueckler said. "So we brought Lee (Dixon) down to bring the ball up and he did a fine job.

Thanks to Dixon and some clutch side on the perimeter. Riley's 20 points is his best output since Dickens joined the club in early December. Riley was the one keeping the Rebs in the game in the first half when Dixon was cold (two of seven) and Dickens was in foul trouble.

"We were a little slow getting started tonight and we didn't play as well as we have. But we played hard and finally came out on top, and that's what counts.

"I feel I can play anywhere on the court - some in, some out," Riley said. "But I go to the boards hard, I think rebounds are more important for me than points right now.

Still, Texas' program has been the envy of all ever since the arrival of Darrell Royal back in the 1950s. And while a brief of hint of inner-palace politics surfaced during the chang-ing of the guard from Royal to Fred Akers, it was quickly quelled and life and winning continued as usual.

Akers' success after five years was the equal of any coach in SWC history for a similar period.

IN THE wake of the recent wholesale dismissals of assistant coaches, and subsequent charges that Akers' failed to delegate responsibility, personality clashes that apparently had festered without publicity as long as UT was successful, now surfaced.

As long as there was an Earl Campbell running around in the opposition's secondary, it didn't matter who coached the offense.

But the Texas, which had hatched the Chris Gilberts, Campbells, Roosevelt Leakes and the prototype Wish-bone, suddenly couldn't find a running back to carry on the tradition.

For the first time since the days of Bobby Layne, Texas resorted to the pass as a primary mode of locomotion. Another negative was added to Royal's original three as far as the Longhorns are concerned, namely, "A passing team can't win in the manner to which the Longhorns

Texas, ranked No. 1, had only to run the final seconds off the clock to win a national championship for it-self. Georgia converted the fumble into the winning touchdown.

Witherspoon reclaims crown

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

ATLANTA (AP) — Tim Witherspoon battered Tony Tubbs' body for most of the 15 rounds and became a heavyweight champion for the second time by winning the World Boxing Association title on a majority decision Friday night at the Ornal decision Friday night at the Omni. Most ringside observers weren't surprised that Witherspoon won but they were surprised by the closeness of the decision.

Witherspoon, a former World Box-ing Council champion, won the fight 144-141 on the card of Edward Woods Jr. and 144-143 on the card of Harry Cecchini. The third judge, Robert Ferrara, scored it 143-143. The AP card favored Witherspoon

Witherspoon, 28, joined Floyd Patterson and Muhammad Ali as the only men to win heavyweight titles twice. Patterson was undisputed champion twice while Ali was undisputed champion twice and a WBA champion on another occasion.

It was the first loss for the 27-yearold Tubbs after 22 victories and it came in the first defense of the title he won on a unanimous decision over Greg Page on April 29, 1985, in Buffalo, N.Y.

Before the fight, Witherspoon said he would concentrate on the 244pound Tubbs' body and that is what he did.

Beginning in the fifth round, Witherspoon, who weighed 227, landed with great frequency to Tubbs' body with both hands. In the sixth, he landed eight straight hard body shots at one point.

In the eighth, Witherspoon, winning for the 24th time against two losses, landed several body shots early, then sent Tubbs reeling to the ropes with a left hook to the jaw.

Witherspoon took away Tubbs' boxing ability by working to the body and staying on top of the defending champion. Tubbs did land some hooks and body shots of his own, but spent most of the fight trying to push Witherspoon away.

Tubbs seemed to rally in the 11th and 12th rounds as Witherspoon appeared to tire.

But the challenger from Philadel-phia got a second wind in the 13th round and again was very effective to the body of Tubbs, of Cincinnati.

In the last two rounds, Witherspoon had the best of several body exchanges and near the end of the fight landed several hard blows to

Johnson, who was supposed to sit out with a strained neck, scored 15 points in the first quarter as San Antonio raced to an early lead.

Johnson, who was perfect from both the field and the free-throw line, still had to sit out most of the game as he was ejected 4½ minutes into the second period after exchanging punches with Knicks forward Bob Thornton. The benchclearing brawl delayed the game for more than 10 minutes

Spurs Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons was upset that he lost the game's leading "We could have locked that guy (Thornton) up in the gym all night by himself and he wouldn't have scored, then we lose Johnson,' Fitzsimmons said.

The Knicks, who trailed by as many as 21 points early in the second period, were kept in the game by rookie center Patrick Ewing and guard Darrel Walker.

Ewing finished with 25 points, including 12 in the opening period, while Walker keyed a third quarter Knick rally and tallied 17 points for the game.

Celtics 123, Pacers 105 INDIANAPOLIS — Kevin McHale scored 17 of his game-high 28 points in the first half, including six in a streak that put the Celtics ahead to stay, as the Pacers dropped their sevPreps blamed for NCAA woes

By FURMAN BISHER New York Times News Service

NEW ORLEANS — Perhaps it was pure irony, but the day the annual NCAA Convention began, the president of Southeastern Louisiana University versity, a few miles up the highway, announced that his school was giving up football after 55 years. The reason: "To strengthen the real purpose of the university — education."

Before the day was out, the delegates to this legislative meeting of America's colleges and universities decided after a few years of a trial separation to get married again to separation to get married again to academics. Some will say that it was a tentative step backward, for it amended a more forward step they had taken three years ago in San Diego, and it softened the original intent.

This convention is a confusion of amendments, of articles and sections, and hyphenated and fractional numbers, and parenthetical letters of the alphabet. Trying to sort it out is like trying to read "Sartor Sartorius"

WHAT THEY did was back down on the standards they set in San Diego — requiring a 2.00 average high school grade in important courses and a 700 SAT (or 15 ACT) test score to qualify for a college athletic scholarship; highly commendable, worthy of a standing ovation. Now they've installed a sliding scale that allows one strength to offset a weakness in

The good news is, this lasts for just two years, then in 1988 they move onto the 2.00-700/15 level full bore. No backing off, no more folderol and jacking around.

The bad news is that the thing turned into an out-and-out blackwhite issue. Black colleges against white colleges. Black administrators against white administrators. Intellectual arm-wrestling that brought out some appalling accusations and bogus analogies.
"Misguided and misdirected members of this organization, embar-rassed by revelations of academic problems, are reverting back to slave

THE PRESIDENT of Grambling, Dr. J.B. Johnson, blurted that out in the middle of addressing an open

"I know you are familiar with apartheid. I ask the question: Will the NCAA's 5.1(j) (the San Diego amendment) be the NCAA's official apartheid?"

Dr. Johnson also said this. It was an unfortunate, unjustified and contemptible effort to bring an unrelated racial matter crashing down on the heads of decent people trying to restore some trace of decency to tainted athletics in college.

The Grambling president was speaking in behalf of two optional amendments that were introduced and beaten — whoppingly — before the successful proposition No. 16 was passed. This was the watering-down. The bloc of black schools sponsored the first two, one of which would have excluded tests for scholarship qualification altogether.

"The use of test scores is racially discriminatory because more blacks than white fail them." James Franks, commissioner of the Southwestern Athletic Conference, said this.

THEN THAT is to say that biology is unfair to those who fail it, and physics, history, English, and on down the line to algebra, which I considered grossly unfair when I had to take it.

The question is: Do you want your young people to be educated, or do you want to smuggle them past the academe and prepare them for life with courses like PO1 and PO2, training for mail- sorting?
A 2.00 grade and a 700 SAT score

don't exactly indicate budding genius. Dr. John Ryan, president of Indiana and retiring chairman of the Presidents Commission, was asked the other day, "Would 2.00 and 700 get a non-athlete prospect into your college?"

His answer was brief and pointed.
'No," he said.

Then why are those people who are immersed in education, responsible for the progress of our student population, not more concerned with their academic welfare? Why is one student given academic favor over another because he can run a 4.5 40 carrying a football, or pass or catch one, or dunk a basketball? And I don't know why I waste the space even asking the question.

Dr. Ryan made this pregnant point. "It's not because of weak brains," he said, "but because of poor preparation." That's finally aiming the bullet in the right direction, lower schools, and a demand that states institute the no-pass; noplay rule. How any graduate in the top 10 percent of the class can't pass an accrediting test causes me to won-der what kind of school that person was in, but such cases were brought up. And how such a test could be 'discriminatory to the poor," another charge, escapes me.

It remained for the coach of Dr. Johnson's school, Eddie Robinson, a man of widespread respect and win-ner of 329 games at Grambling, to display the more rational demeanor after the voting was over. "We're going to leave this meeting and adst," he said. "You don't pull out because you lose."

Akers must produce in '86

AUSTIN (AP) — Fred Akers will return next season as football coach of the Texas Longhorns, but will be expected to produce better results, Texas Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds said Friday.

Akers' teams in nine seasons at Texas have won more than three-fourths of their games, but trailed off in 1984 and 1985 at 15-8-1, including two straight lopsided losses to archrival Texas A&M. He also has won only two of nine post-season bowl games.

Dodds said the men's athletic council met behind closed doors for two hours Friday and discussed Akers' Jan. 3 firing of four assistants and the hiring of their

No untouchables left on Cowboys

IRVING (AP) - Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry said he will consider trading anyone on the club including previous untouchables Randy White and Tony Dorsett — if it results in the acquisition of an explosive offensive player.

"This year for the first time we don't have the luxury of saying that these guys are untouchables," Landry told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "We don't have any untouchables any more, names that wouldn't fit in a trade.

Dorsett, who for years has been one of the top running backs in the National Football League, and White, a perennial all-pro defensive tackle, were the only players that Landry put off limits to a trade last year. But Landry said the Cowboys now need to try and land an impact running back or wide receiver and would consider dealing anyone on the team. However, blockbuster trades in the NFL are rare, Landry noted. "It would take a tremendous trade to get a Dorsett or a White," Landry added. "Gary (Hogeboom) wants to be traded. He thinks everybody's out there waiting at the door. Players don't understand how difficult it is," he said. Landry said gaining a running back is his priority because he believes there is a greater need for an outstanding player at that position. He can postpone drafting a quarterback, he said. "Other than quarterback, a talented running back can change things quicker than any other position," Landry

"And you don't get them unless you take them in the first five picks of the draft. After that, if you could get a receiver who was very productive, a guy like Drew Pearson, that could help our team, too," he said.

"But you're just hoping you can find that one player who'll turn it around," Landry said.

Fryar will play for Pats

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) - Wide receiver Irving Fryar, who suffered a cut tendon in his finger that kept him out of the American Football Conference championship game, will play for New England in the Super Bowl against the Chicago Bears, the Patriots announced

Fryar, the National Football League's leading punt returner, reportedly received the injury to his right little finger during a domestic quarrel with his wife in the days before Patriots 31-14 victory over Miami on Jan.

Fryar, the first pick in the 1984 NFL draft, was tied for second place on the Patriots list of receivers this season with 39 catches. He was replaced in the AFC title game by Stephen Starring, who didn't catch any passes.

Strong safety Roland James filled in for Fryar on punt returns, and lost two fumbles. One led to the Dolphins second touchdown that cut the Patriots lead to 24-14.

Here's an interesting football question for you...What player once won the Heisman Trophy, as the best college football player in the nation, even though-oddly enough-the team he played on LOST 8 out of 10 games that season!...The answer is Paul Hornung who won the Heisman in 1956 while playing for Notre Dame. MADRID Spain — Spain is today what many people said it could never be after the death 10 years ago of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, its iron-hand leader for nearly 40 years.

It has a king — Juan Carlos Victor Maria de Borbon y Borbon, 47, who has blood links to Europe's leading royal families and aristocracy.

It has a prime minister - Felipe Gonzalez Marquez, 43, a Socialist and son of Felipe Gonzalez a dairy owner in Marquez the lower mid-

Spaniards of 1985, like many other Europeans, worry about jobs (unemployment is at 22 percent), whether someone will steal their car radios, whether they can afford to buy an apartment, and how much the Common Market's value added tax will push up the cost of living.

When Franco died, they worried that the military might seize power and wondered what role the Communists would play.

While Franco governed, West European nations were unwilling to consider Spain as a member of either NATO or the Common Market.

MANY SPANIARDS ARE still uncertain about entering the Com-mon Market, but there is little doubt about the psychological importance of having breached the barrier of the Pyrenees once and for all and joining Europe.

Such problems as unemployment and street crime are nagging concerns many associate with the new democracy, which has become the scapegoat for just about everything Spaniards don't like about modern life - from traffic jams to air pollution.

Before the civil war, Spain was a semi-feudal society, except for industrialized pockets in the northern Basque region and Catalonia.

The last years of Franco's rule coincided with large scale industrialization, the influx of U.S. and European capital and the thrill of entering the consumer era before the glitter had worn off and bills started piling up.

Commentator Armero notes that Franco's last decade in power was the flush years of the 1960s, while the post-Franco transition began two years after oil prices quadrupled in the early 1970s, setting off an eco-nomic crisis in the West that hit Spain particularly hard.

On the whole, Spaniards seem to accept the changes more readily than do those who still see thecountry as the eternal land of flashing gypsy eyes, the victory in 1939 and "For Whom The Bell Tolls."

"NO MATTER WHAT we do." Solana told reporters recently, "we are not going to be able to pass over the fact that 1986 marks the 50th anniversary of the beginning of the civil war.

the Spanish Communist Party and the legendary "Pasionaria" who harangued crowds in 1936, telling them Franco's rebel nationalist troops would never succeed.

The Communists, who many Fran-co supporters predicted would make off with the country if they were legalized, are now legal but in disarray. They have split into three separate parties; the number of Communist deputies in the 250-seat lower house of Parliament dropped from 23 in 1979 to four in 1982.

If general elections were held now, Prime Minister Gonzalez's Socialists would once again win a comfortable majority of the votes, ac-cording to a poil in October by the country's leading newspaper, the independent El Pais.

In a recent commemorative book entitled "Spain, Our Century: De-mocracy" 1975-85," 20 of the men most directly involved in what has become known as "the transition" emphasize the importance the monarchy has had for the success of democracy.

TEN YEARS AGO the notion of monarchy and democracy seemed totally incompatible. Many associated the return of representative government with a republic, not a king. But in the small hours of Feb. 24, 1981, a determined King Juan Carlos went on television in full military regalia to tell the nation and a paramilitary Civil Guards holding Parliament hostage that their coup to halt the transition would succeed "only over my dead body.

Juan Carlos won the acceptance of democrats.

The French Empire today, Parisian cynics like to say is specks of dust left from vast stretches that at different times took in much of North America, the Caribbean, Afri-

Asia and the South Seas. In 1939, 110 million black, brown, llow, red and white Frenchmen lived scattered on 5 million square miles, almost three times the popula-tion and 20 times the area of mother

Now barely 1.7 million people live on Guadeloupe, Martinique and Gui-ana in the Caribbean; Reunion and Mayotte in the Indian Ocean; French Polynesia (Tahiti), New Caledonia, Wallis et Futuna in the Pacific, and

St. Pierre et Miquelon. Southern islands and a slice of Antarctica, inhabited by 200 scientists and a lot more penguins, make up a separate territory. In the Pacific, native populations are substantial. Some outlying peoples found themselves French by accident of the winds and current carrying early explorers.

IN THE CARIBBEAN, however, most inhabitants descend from African slaves brought by Fnch planters; the Indians of Guadeloupe and Martinique died off long ago. Reunion was settled by French pioneers and indentured workers.

Upheavals in New Caledonia and Guadeloupe, and scandal over nuclear testing in Polynesia, focus attention on controversy over France's lingering presence abroad. But only hard-line extremists predict the last fringe of empire might soon unravel.

Recently revealed espionage in New Zealand shows how far France will go to protect its imperial prerog-atives, Western diplomats say. Officials in Paris say elections show people want it that way.

Even in Guadeloupe, with a wellorganized independence movement and extremists whose bombs killed eight people in two years, separatist candidates poll less than 10 percent.

"We're in France, only we're 10,000 kilometers (about 6,000 miles) away," says Bernard Bouchara, a doctor whose office in rural Reunion is complete with tattered copies of Marie Claire. "No one wants it any different."

He points to a pile of forms on his desk. "Look, health cards," he says. Where do you see such medical care in this part of the world? France is doing everything."

But an apparently growing num-ber of people say this largesse — not sentiment — is what keeps them

Economists estimate France spends nearly $3 billion a year on roads, hospitals, schools, subsidies, salaries, benefits and the like to maintain the empire.

That excludes security costs, al-ready enormous in New Caledonia. Employment reaches 40 percent in the overseas territories, three times the level in France, and frustration translates into racial tension.

Recently two jumbo jets full of gendarmes were rushed to Guade-loupe. Mobs paralyzed traffic until authorities freed a separatist who knifed a white teacher accused of kicking a black student.

Eason makes up for inattention

By HOWARD ULMAN

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Tony Eason didn't pay much attention to the nearby Chicago Bears when he starred at the University of Illinois. He's quickly making up for that now. "I never watched football" on television during college, said New England's quarterback. "We played on Saturdays, and on Sundays I didn't want to sit there and watch football all day."

As he prepares for the Patriots' first Super Bowl Jan. 26, Eason will spend the next eight days thinking plenty about the Bears and defen-sive coordinator Buddy Ryan's com-plex system for shutting New England down.

FORTUNATELY for Eason, he has two weeks after last Sunday's AFC title-clinching victory over Mi-ami to get ready for the variations that make Chicago's defense confusing for offenses.

It's sure nice to have the extra days, especially when you're playing Buddy Ryan," he said. "If you're playing them once every three years then a week (to prepare) could be tough."

The only time Eason faced Chicago in his three-year career, the Patriots lost 20-7 in their second game of this National Football League sea-son. He completed 15 of 35 passes for 234 yards, had three interceped and passed for one touchdown. He also was sacked six times

He hasn't seen a defense like that since then.

"There's 28 teams in the NFL and there's 27 fairly similar defenses," said Eason. "These guys are entirely different. Buddy Ryan has given them a fantastic scheme. He's got great personnel to play it and they all understand what they're supposed to be doing."

Eason like the one they'll see in New Orleans. He struggled early with the rest of the offense, but has completed 29 of 42 passes for five touchdowns and no interceptions in three playoff victories.

"I think the offense has matured," he said. "We had a brand new offense at the beginning of the year. We were going through some growing pains and made a lot of strides during the season. I haven't changed

Eason admitted that the Bears may force him to change some of the things he normally does on the field.

"You've got to change things around," he said. "I mean, you're not going to sit in the pocket all day and read their defense for four seconds and see seven receivers and pick out the right guy. You've got to get back and get rid of the ball."

The pressure that sometimes affects Super Bowl players hasn't hit Eason. The biggest day in the Pa-triots' history is just another game to the casual Californian.

"I'm not going to treat this game any differently than I do the first however many we played," he said. Eason has been struck by the realization that he is the quarterback on New England's only Super Bowl team, but "not in a storybook sense You don't think about stuff like that until everything is said and

He does hold on to the thought that the Patriots are one of just two teams that can win the NFL championship. He isn't worried about any

Flu bug ravages Chi Bears' camp

By NICHOLAS K. GERANIOS

CHAMPAIGN, III. (AP) - Tom Thayer is preparing for his 46th foot-ball game of the season, but this time the job is easier for the Chicago

Bears' offensive guard. He's getting ready for the Super Bowl.

The Bears practiced Friday under the inflatable bubble covering the University of Illinois' football field.

Coach Mike Ditka, still suffering from the first Friday canceled bit and from the flu Friday, canceled his afback Matt Suhey and defensive end Richard Dent had indicated Thursday that they had the flu.

But Thayer is feeling quite

"I'm having a Super Bowl rejuventation," he proclaimed at a news conference. "It gave me new life. The Super Bowl will be my 46th game in one year and 16 days," he said, as the Bears prepared to take on the New England Patriots on Jan.

26 in New Orleans. Thayer played 23 games with the Arizona Outlaws of the United States Football League last spring and summer, took 11 days off, then signed with the Bears and showed up for training camp at Platteville, Wis. Thayer made the team, then moved to starting offensive right guard when Kurt Becker got hurt.

"I don't know how he does it." said guard Mark Bortz. "I'm sore and tired. It takes a lot out of you, even just the nicks and bruises every

"I was scared," Thayer said of his quick move to the NFL. "I talked to other players who made the transition early, and they said there was a lot of mental strain. They said I'd need a psychiatrist when the year was over. Instead, the 6-foot-4, 260-pound Notre Dame graduate has taken everything in stride, and he appeared relaxed under the glare of Super Bowl publicity. "Now I can see the end of the tunnel," he said. "At the seventh, eighth or ninth game of the season, you don't see the light. Everything is routine. You don't know if it's ever going to end."

Thayer, who graduated from Nore Dame shortly before his 20th birthday, played three years in the USFL. But the native of nearby Joliet, Ill., always had his heart set on playing for the Bears.

It was George Allen, coach of the then-Chicago Blitz, who talked Thayer into signing with the team before the NFL draft. The Blitz later moved to Arizona.

"He's one of the legends of coaching Thaver said, adding Allen promised him good money and starting job.

He signed with the Blitz just three hours before the Bears drafted him in the fourth round in 1983.

"I wanted to be drafted by the Bears, but I figured there was a one in 28 chance," Thayer explained. After signing with the Blitz, he drove home to Joliet with his father, "and my sister ran out and said (then General Manager) Jim Finks was on the phone and wanted me to sign with the Bears," Thayer said.

"I looked at my dad's face, and his face just dropped," Thayer said. "I was more disappointed for him than for myself.

"The USFL was great for me," he said. "But I missed three years in the NFL I wish I'd had." Thayer was a hometown hero for traditional power Joliet Catholic High School and entered Notre Dame as a 240-pound 16-year old. So while he has four years of pro experience, he still is just 24.

He's surrounded by family and close friends after every game.
"That's special to me," Thayer said. "You couldn't write a better script.' While the routine of meetings and watching film is boring after 45 games, Thayer said he gets excited on the field. He also doesn't plan any major vacation after the season is over. "I'll take about a week off," he said. "As soon as that's over, I'll lift weights again. I love to lift weights. It's my first love after football."

Then it's off to mini-camp in May.

Jones steals the show as thief in 'Black Moon'.

By STEVE SMITH Los Angeles Times—

Washington Post News Service DALLAS — Tommy Lee Jones is an intense, versatile actor who often has been better than his movies. At his worst he was passable in "The Betsy," and at his best, as Mooney Lynn in "Coal Miner's Daughter," he was superb.

In his latest effort, "Black Moon Rising," Jones is once again bet-ter than the rest of the film, though "Black Moon" certainly scores passing grades as a simple, well-crafted adventure.

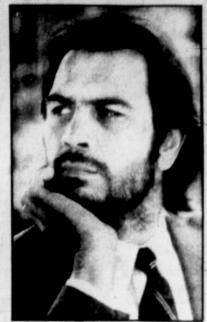

In "Black Moon," Jones plays a professional thief working for the government. He is hired to swipe a cassette tape full of financial records from a company the gov-ernment is investigating, and in his haste to escape, he stashes the tape in an experimental car called Black Moon.

"It's a pretty simple, straightforward, unsophisticated movie, Jones said in an interview. "And I'm reasonably happy with it. We didn't have very much money to make the film, and we got a lot of production values out of what we did have." ("Black Moon" was shot in Los Angeles in 46 days from a script by John Carpenter, the man responsible for "Halloween," "The Fog" and "Escape From New York.")
Jones said he never has made a movie he regrets. Thus far he is proudest of his work in "Coal Miner's Daughter," the story of country singer Loretta Lynn. Jones played Loretta's husband, Mooney, to Sissy Spacek's Loretta.

But it was not a project that appealed to him immediately. "I was skeptical. I thought, 'I don't want to do a country music biography. That's not cinema, that's not even drama. What is there about this that makes it new and different?

Jones' rough good looks and natural drawl made him a perfect Mooney Lynn, but he has avoided becoming stereotyped as a country boy. In general, he has been pleased with the variety of roles that have come his way. "I'd like for all the jobs to be offered to me, then let Bob Redford and Jack Nicholson take the dregs. But that's not how it works. You're never entirely satisfied with what you're doing or how well you're doing it, but you get as close to it as you can."

Jones says he tends to be his Excuse me. Aren't you Tom Hulce, the fellow who played Mozart in Amadeus"?

Well, what are you doing running round in a leather helmet and those funny wings?

What he's doing is playing the title role in "The Rise and Rise of Daniel Rocket," a fantasy drama that will launch the fifth season of American Playhouse on PBS Monday night.

For Huice, the offbeat role of 14year-old Daniel, a youth obsessed with flight, is both a step forward and a step back.

Back in time: he created the part off-Broadway in 1962, in a vehicle written by Peter Parnell.

Forward? Well, where did Hulce expect to go after winning an Oscar nomination in the title role in "Amadeus" last year? "Tve always been particular as to what I do," he said. The number of scripts he sees has increased since he rocketed to national attention and acclaim as the semi-crazed musical genius. "But now I can do things I believe in. As long as I can afford

And, of course, with "Amadeus" under his belt, he can afford to, for a while at least

"Amadeus," he acknowledged, was the turning point of his career. "It's given me more of an opportunity to be irresponsible."

In this instance, calling Huice irresponsible means recalling the day Parnell handed him a script he said he'd written with Hulce in mind. "I loved it," said Hulce. "I felt very in touch with it. It's a story about a small-town boy." And, he said, he loved the "dreamer" theme of the

In its pages Huice found the story of a young genius — perhaps a thread that tied Daniel and Mozart together — who spends his free time designing wings to strap on his back. When the time comes to test-fly his latest creation, his best friend urges him not to. Amid the tugs and scuffles of his assembled school-mates, he dashes toward the cliff that is to serve as his launch pad and goes for it.

Naturally, he flies.

After asking his girlfriend to wait for him, he leaves his small town to exploit his newly realized gift.

Twenty years later he returns a much-acclaimed man, only to find his girifriend and best friend are now husband and wife.

A last, desperate leap from the same cliff that launched him to fame teaches Daniel Rocket new lessons about love and power.

Well, it is, after all, a fantasy dra-ma, but one can see the parallels that make Huice feel at home as Daniel Huice grew up in Plymouth, Mich., and Whitewater, Wis., the son of a Ford employee and a mother who sang with an all-girl orchestra.

When he decided at age 15 to jump from the family nest and try his wings on the stage, there was flak from his father ("My dad would have been more appreciative of a more standard education") while his mother, who after all was in show business, "was more receptive."

He went on to earn his bachelor in fine arts degree.

Now, 15 years later, he's secured his acting niche and is awaiting release of his next theatrical film, Echo Park.

Who would he like to resemble as an actor as time goes by? Well, there's Gerard Depardieu. Then there's Dustin Hoffman.

"He takes responsibility not only for the work as an actor but for the project as a whole," said Huice. "To me, he's more of a role model."

Lucci plays haunting 'Mafia Princess' role

Sunday night on NBC. It's a prime-time break from her 15-year daytime stint in "All My Children."

She can tell you about the other kids in her Long Island neighbor-hood making fun of her olive

And what does your daddy do? they would ask. He owns his own construction company, she would reply. "I think there was suspicion," Lucci said, recalling the undercurrent in then-WASPish Garden City. They never asked the other kids what their fathers did." So it's no wonder that when asked about her latest made-for-TV movie,

"Mafia Princess," she said, "I was haunted by it.' She has the role of Sam Giancana's daughter in an adaptation of Antoi-

If there was an undercurrent of suspicion about her ethnic background as a kid, Lucci didn't let it become an undertow. "I never took it that seriously," she said, "because my life never had anything to do with (the underworld). I think the stereotypes are more of a problem for Italian men — they're seen as gigolos or mobsters. My idols while growing up were Sophia Loren and Claudia Cardinale," she said, ac-

But the stereotype may not be so easy for her parents to shake. "I think it's going to be hard for my parents to watch this," she said. Lucci recalled that her mother, who is not Italian, armed her each day with some defense against the jibes of her playmates. "Remember," she would say as she sent me off to school, 'you're one-half Swedish."

Lucci signed to play her role before the part of her father had been cast. "I was very happy it turned out to be Tony Curtis," she said.

Former minister supplies sermon-preparation service

HONOLULU (AP) - A Presbyterian minister might start his Sunday sermon by telling a story from the life of American writer Mark Twain. That same day, an Episcopal priest might tell his congregation the same story, but as part of a sermon with a different point.

different point.

The chances are the two men subscribe to a sermon-preparation

Glendon Harris, a former trade writer and minister who now runs such a service in Honolulu, says with all the tasks a clergyman has to handle "there just isn't enough time anymore" for them to do an adequate job developing sermons.

To make up for some of the lack of it, Harris publishes "Pulpit Resource," put out quarterly, which offers stories, anecdotes and literary references pegged to Scriptural readings for each Sunday.

He says the material can enliven sermons and keep a congregation's attention.

"With television, radio and modern magazines, people are more so-phisticated, they won't stand for that old style...haranguing," he says. "You have to look at it from the listener's standpoint."

While most ministers study the Scriptures extensively while in seminary, he says few receive adequate instruction in homiletics, or the art instruction in homiletics, or the art of preaching, even though such courses are included.

"If you look at the history of the church, the church has always been successful and strong when it's had a strong pulpit," he says. "Conversely, it's been weak and declining in membership and influence when there hasn't been a strong emphasis on preaching."

Presching."

His publication offers no conclusions to possible sermons, but rather is intended to give ministers a spark, or a departure point, for writing their own, he says, adding:

"If it clicks with them, they might follow it quite closely.

The Newspaper BIBLE

IT'S NOT WHAT YOU KNOW BUT WHO YOU

For salvation that comes from trusting Christ--which is what we preach--is already within easy reach of each of us; in fact, it is as near as our own hearts and mouths. For if you tell others with your own mouth that Jesus Christ is your Lord, and believe in your own heart that God has raised him from the dead, you will be saved. For it is by believing in his heart that a man becomes right with God; and with his mouth he tells others of his faith, confirming his salvation. For the Scriptures tell us that no one who believes in Christ will ever be disappointed. Jew and Gentile are the same in this respect: they all have the same Lord who generously gives his riches to all those who ask him for them. Anyone who calls upon the name of the Lord, will be saved. (Romans 10:8-13)

(Jesus said) "If anyone publicly acknowledges me as his friend. I will openly acknowledge him as my friend before my Father in heaven. But if anyone publicly denies me, I will openly deny him before my Father in heaven." (Matt. 10:12-

And who is the greatest liar? The one who says that Jesus is not Christ. Such a person is antichrist, for he does not believe in God the Father and in his Son. For a person who doesn't believe in Christ, God's Son, can't have God the Father either. But he who has Christ, God' Son, has God the Father also. [1 John 2:22-23)

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Loyds spread the word

Ty and Connie Loyd will be minis-tering in music at Word of Life, 3838 W. Wall at 7 p.m. Wednesday. Pastor Russ Austin extends an invitation to the public to come and hear them.

"Ty and Connie Loyd are a dynamic ministry team who believe the world is about to see a great move of God's glory through His people, Austin said. "Since the release of their first album, "Cry Out & Shout," they have met with acceptance and ex-citement from radio stations and audiences, both Christian and secular. Ty, saved in 1980, is a former rock musician who opened shows for groups such as REO Speedwagon, Richie Blackmore of Deep Purple and Triumph."

Ordained as ministers of the gospel Feb. 27, 1983, the two have worked extensively as youth pastors, as Christian concert promoters and as associate pastors in their local church, Church of the Crosses, Las

James and Renee Whitaker are the new assistant ministers at the Foursquare Church of Midland, 415 Alta Ave. They will be working primarily with the youth and young married couples in the church.

Whitaker is a graduate of Spearman High School and Christ for the Nations Institute at Dallas, where he received a degree in associates of practical theology. Whitaker also has a degree in associate of science from Frank Phillips College, Borger.

Mrs. Whitaker is a graduate of Borger High School and Frank Phillips College.

lips College where she has an associate of arts degree.

The youth groups meet each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the gym at the church and invite all youth to join them.

Fast reaps money

Members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints donated more than $3.8 million for the relief of world hunger during a National Day of Fasting Nov. 24, the church announced recently.

Proceeds from the November fastplus those of a fast in January 1985 in behalf of people suffering from hunger in Eastern Africa, raise the year's total of donations by church members to more than $10 million.

Church officials said that a large part of the money raised in November will go for irrigation and other development projects; however, that does not preclude part of it being used for emergency aid.

Leaders expressed appreciation for the "generosity" of members who made donations.

"The concern of church members in this country for the starving and past year has been a heartwarming new chapter in the church's long history of Christian compassion for those in distress," said Richard P. Lindsay, managing director of Church Public Communications and Special Affairs.

Potts sings at Christian

Eldon Potts, a country-gospel singer from Joplin, Mo., appeared at Christian Church of Midland this

"Potts sings a unique style of Country Gospel which appeals to people of all ages," said a spokesman for the church.

He has traveled extensively in the United States in addition to much involvement on the mission field in various countries around the world. Potts is on his way to Mexico and is collecting food and clothing to take for Mexican relief.

He has produced four albums.

Baptists in Fort Worth

FORT WORTH - An expected 23,000 Texas Baptists from churches throughout the state will gather Monday and Tuesday in Fort Worth for the annual Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference.

The annual Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference will serve as a launching pad for Good News America Simultaneous Revival in churches in 1986, the year Texas Baptists celebrate their first century of organized mission work in the

At last year's Evangelism Conference, 21,000 people packed Dallas' Reunion arena. Carlos McLeod, director of evangelism for the 2.3 mil-lion-member Baptist General Convention of Texas expects to break the record again. "With a goal to baptize 100,000 peo-ple in 1986 and our Mission Texas emphasis to begin 2,000 new churches in the state by 1990, we anticipate our greatest Evangelism Conference in history," McLeod said.

Grace sets suppers

Grace Presbyterian fellowship supper programs continue on Wednesdays from 6-7:30 p.m. at 2801 N. Garfield.

Norman Godfrey of the Samaritan Counseling Center is presenting a series of programs about personalities: the nature of personality and how different types relate to each other. The public is invited to attend the potluck dinners and programs.

Organized activities are provided for children up to age eight. A reading/homework room is available for older children.

Anniversary celebrated

The concluding ceremony of First Baptist Church of Midland's 100th anniversary was held Sunday.
The Rev. L.L. Morriss, pastor of

First Baptist from 1954 to 1975, preached the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services. At 3 p.m., a Dedication Service was held, setting the "Stone of Remembrance" and time capsule into place in the new monument built on church grounds.

Throughout the year, each quarter century has received special empha-sis with related events. Members of the congregation have been encouraged to dress in the custom of the era. Pictures, news stories and memorabilia have been displayed. A commemorative book has been written by Lu Calhoun for the last decade, 1975-1985, and a special audio cassette tape has been produced by Martha Rogers and Doris Bruce with longtime members and former pastors being interviewed and narrated by Lloyd Hawkins and edited by Larry Hawkins of KRIG Radio,

A logo-medallion depicting the church's tower with the message "Century for Christ" was designed by Darrell Dunton to commemorate the centennial along with the in-scription from Joshua 24:24, "The Lord our God will we serve..."

Films series at Kelview

Leighton Ford's six-part film se-ries "Good News is For Sharing" is being presented by Kelview Heights Baptist Church, 402 W. Scharbauer Drive. One 25-minute film is being shown weekly at 5:45 p.m. on Sundays. The third in the series is being shown Sunday.

"In this practical approach, Leighton Ford explains a natural approach to evangelism that works for ordinary people," says a church

Topics include making disciples, facing fears, tapping the gospel's power, discovering your church's role, how to naturally talk about your faith and how to answer specific questions non-Christians ask.

Besides working with the Billy Graham team, Ford is chairman of he Lausanne Committee for World Evangelization and a frequent radio speaker on "The Hour of Decision." The public is invited to attend the series. A nursery will be provided.

NEW YORK (AP) - Christians of many lands and branches observe their annual "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity" Jan. 18-25, featuring widespread pulpit exchanges, ec-umenical worship and studies.

It is a time when the unified "vision of the church is strengthened and deepened as Christians...seek to make vital their common witness, says Brother Jeffrey Gros of the Na-tional Council of Churches.

The observance is sponsored in the U.S. by the council of Protestant and Orthodox denominations and the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, with materials for use in the week distributed by the Atonement Friars of Graymoor, Garrison, N.Y.

The theme of the occasion, "You shall be my witnesses," is based on Christ's directive to his disciples in

Jews will honor King

NEW YORK (AP) - The American Jewish Heritage Committee has urged synagogues throughout the country to designate this Saturday or next as "Martin Luther King Sabbath" to recall the black civil rights leader's "legacy to his people and to all Americans."

Calling King a "modern Moses for his people," Rabbi William Berkowitz, the committee's president, sent the appeal to 3,000 Conservative, Reform and Orthodox congregations. He said the occasion also should be used to "reaffirm black Jewish relations."

First Presbyterian to install minister

The Rev. Russell H. Ritchel Jr., will be installed as minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Midland at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in a special service of installation arranged and conducted by a commission representing the Tres Rios Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church (USA). The service will be held in the church sanctuary.

The Rev. John F. Anderson Jr., pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church of Dallas, will deliver the sermon. His subject will be, "How Joshua Jarred Jericho." Anderson served the Midland church as interim pastor for a three-month period in 1985.

The worship service will be pre-eded by a dinner in the Fellowship Hall at 6 p.m. and followed by a public reception at its conclusion.

Members of the Presbytery Commission participating in the service, in addition to Anderson, include the Rev. Charles J. Hollingsworth, execRELIGION utive presbyter of Tres Rios Presbytery, Midland; the Rev. F. Ray Riddle, honorably retired associate minister of First Presbyterian Church; Joyce Sherrod, elder, Grace Presbyterian Church, Midland; and Jerome M. Fullinwider and Susan S. Kerr, elders, First Presbyterian

Special music will be presented by the church's Chancel Choir, directed by Tom Roberts, and The Thouvenal String Quartet. Tony Norris is the organist.

The anthem "Hallelujah" from Beethoven's "Mount of Olives" will be presented following the sermon. The offertory anthem is Jane M. Marshall's "My Eternal King."

Ritchel, who assumed his pastorate here Dec. 1, came to Midland from Colorado Springs, Colo., where he served as minister of education to the 4,700-member congregation of First Presbyterian Church there.

The 35-year old Connecticut native earned his bachelor of arts in psychology and sociology from Kansas University in 1972. He then spent two years with a youth evangelism group before attending Southern California College and Princeton Theological Seminary, where he received his master of divinity in Biblical studies.

Ritchel and his wife have three daughters, Kearsten, Alyssa and Hearing set in Odessa for public input on U.S. Catholic bishops' pastoral letter

SAN ANGELO — An open hearing on the second draft of the U.S. Catholic bishops' pastoral letter on "Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy" has been announced by Bishop Michael D. Pfeifer, O.M.I., Bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of San Angleo.

The hearing will take place at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at St. Mary's Parish Hall in Odessa: All interested parties are invited to attend and give input. A similar hearing was conducted in the San Angleo area of the diocese in

The program will begin with several short presentations on the pastoral letter.

First, Pfeifer will give his views on the letter, empha-sizing the way in which the second draft came about and the importance of the moral and ethical principles contained in the document.

Then John Ingram of Midland will give brief remarks on his feelings about the document as a Catholic Ingram will be followed by Deacon Alan Neff of Odessa, who will make some observations from the standpoint of a Catholic businessman.

Finally, Sister Mary Jean Audette, S.U.S.C., of Midland, will offer remarks on the draft's relationship to social justice issues. The nun, who is a practicing attorney, is a diocesan director of social justice.

After the opening presentations, which will take less than 30 minutes, the floor will be opened for remarks from the audience. The Rev. Maurice J. Voity, diocesan director of public relations, will be the moderator for the open hearings

The second draft of the pastoral letter was released in Washington on Oct. 7. It has received mixed reviews in the business and political world, but there seems to be general agreement in all sectors that the current draft is an improvement over the first draft.

At their annual meeting held in Washington, D.C., Nov. 10-15, the American bishops discussed the document, which now goes back to the individual dioceses for the process of consultation and recommendations. A final draft of the pastoral letter will be issued in the early summer of 1986, and this document will be voted upon by the bishops at their annual business meeting in Washington in November.

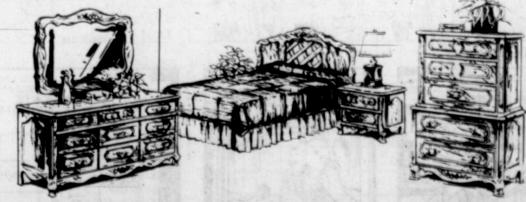

"The process by which the bishops arrive at the final draft is a collaborative one," said Pfeifer, in announcing the hearing in Odessa. "We do not claim to be experts in the field of economics, and because of this we seek the input of people of good will from all sectors. The material and comments gathered at the open hearings held here in the Diocese of San Angelo will be combined and assimilated with the findings of hearings being held in every diocese of the country."

Pfeifer added that he hopes that "anyone who wishes to share his or her feelings with us will feel free to come to the hearings and present his or her views. This hearing is certainly not limited to the Catholic community. We welcome all of our brothers and sisters, of whatever religious persuasion, to come together in a spirit of mutual respect and concern. The issues addressed in this document affect all people, and therefore the bishops more than welcome the input of anyone wishing to speak."

Hearings after the release of the first draft of the pastoral letter resulted in more than 10,000 pages of testimony being forwarded to the committee of bishops who are editing the re-writing of the letter.

Thomas to appear at King benefit

SEATTLE (AP) — "Miami Vice" star Philip Michael Thomas is charging $25,000 to appear at a ceremony in memory of the Rev. Martin Luther King, organizers say.

Thomas, who plays detective Ricardo Tubbs on the hit NBC-TV show, will speak on King's legacy and sing a hymn at Sunday's 90-minute program, sponsored by the Seattle Benefit Guild Association. Monday will be the first celebration of a national holiday honoring the slain civil rights leader.

Thomas' fee will come special funds raised by the Guild Association, an affiliate of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Proceeds from ticket sales still will go to a variety of black groups.

"These kinds of fees differ, depending on the circumstances and the people involved," said Michelle Keeler, Thomas' representative at the Exclusive Arts Agency in Alhambra, Calif. "It just depends." The 36-year-old actor, taping an episode of "Miami Vice" on location in southern Florida, could not be reached by telephone for comment.

We have no problem with his fee. Black actors are just starting to make that kind of money and he deserves it," said Freddie Mae Gautier, founder of the Guild Association. "Besides, he said he probably would give some of it back as a contribution."

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) - Former first brother Billy Carter has gone into business for himself and is plugging plans for a group of mobile home

Carter, whose outspoken, beer-drinking ways and down-home Plains gas station made headlines while his brother Jimmy was president, said during a visit to Columbus on Thursday that he plans to open dealerships in Columbus, Americus and Manchester. He said he hopes eventually to expand to other areas of Georgia and the South.

Carter spent nearly five years, beginning in 1980, working for mobile home and housing building companies. He resigned last year from his job with a Waycross mobile home manufacturer.

Carter hit Columbus in a white Cadillac, wearing new blue jeans, pointy-toe cowboy boots, a sport shirt and an insulated vest.

"I'm not ever going to wear a tie and coat again, except at a funeral or wedding - and it's got to be pretty close to do that," he said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Promoters of a coast-tocoast handshake to fight poverty in America say they're confident they can manage the staggering logistics of putting together a human chain 4,135 miles long.

"People have asked me as this thing starts out: 'Who's going to be in the desert?' " said Kenny Rogers, one of the celebrity chairmen of the May 25th event. "The answer is I'll be out in the desert. Don't leave me alone out there."

Organizers figure it will take 1,320 people per mile, or 5,480,461 people for the entire distance. To stand in the line, participants must donate at least $10. The chain will cross 500 cities and towns, three mountain ranges, 10 rivers and two deserts.

Project promoter Ken Kragen, the mastermind behind USA for Africa, announced that rock star Prince had purchased the first mile for $13,200. Organizers figure the event should raise $50 million to $100 million

A three-minute video to be played during the pregame show of the Jan. 26 Super Bowl game between football's Chicago Bears and New England Patriots will "pre-create" the event and will show some 135 celebrities joining hands. A song called "Hands Across America," written for the event, will be played.

The song was unveiled at Thursday's news conference, where the audience, including entertainers Susan Anton and Pia Zadora, joined hands, stood up and swayed in time with the music.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Like Bing Crosby, Elvis Presley, Diana Ross and others, singer Lionel Ri-chie says he's ready to make the jump from gold records to the silver screen.

"I am not coming in asking for the lead role in Gone With the Wind," Richie said, "Acting is a studied craft, like anything else. You start at the bottom and learn it."

Although he has no projects lined up, Richie says he'll make his first movie late this year or early next

"I want this to be my novelty," Richie said. "I will always have the music business as my main thing, but I want the film business as the playground I can go to."

The singer said he's considering four films and will probably make a decision in October when he returns from a four-month tour that will take him to Europe, Japan, Australia and around the United States

NEW YORK (AP) - Pianist Vladimir Horowitz says he didn't want to return to his native Russia as just a tourist, so when the United States and the Soviet Union agreed to renew cultural ties in November he volunteered as a performer.

Horowitz, who left the Soviet Union in 1925, said only five years ago he never wanted to return. The 81-year-old virtuoso had a change of heart, however, saying Thursday, "Before I die, I want to see the country in which I was born.

'But I didn't want to go home as a tourist," he said. 'I wanted to play.

He is scheduled to perform two concerts during a spring visit — April 20 at the Bolshoi Theater in Moscow and a week later at Leningrad's Shostakovich Hall.

Horowitz retired in 1983, expressing dissatisfaction with concert performances, but re-emerged last October and since has played recitals in New York, Paris and Milan. He also made a record for Deutsche Grammophon.

Horowitz said he would follow his Soviet concerts with two in West Germany — in Hamburg and West Berlin. He has not played in Germany since 1927.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Singer Olivia Newton-John and husband Matt Lattanzi are parents of a girl, born to the couple early Friday, a publicist said. Miss Newton-John, 37, gave birth to the six-pound, eight-ounce girl named Chloe at a Los Angeles-area hospital at 5:30 a.m., said publicist Paul Bloch. Both mother and daughter were in excellent health, Bloch said.

Lattanzi, 27, was at Miss Newton-John's side during the birth, he said.

The couple was married Dec. 15, 1984. It is the first marriage for both.

Miss Newton-John, an Australian artist, has had hits in both the country and pop fields, starting with her first U.S. chartmaker, "Let Me Be There," which earned her the first of four Grammys.

She also starred in the 1979 hit movie "Grease." and met her future husband on the set of the movie "Xanadu" in 1980. Lattanzi starred in the film "My Tutor" in 1983.

BOSTON (AP) - In a telephone call from her hospital bed here, Yelena Bonner chatted for 10 minutes Friday with her husband, Andrei Sakharov, but the call was interrupted by static when Mrs. Bonner tried to tell the Soviet dissident he was being secretly filmed by the KGB, family members said.

The static stopped when Mrs. Bonner, who is at Massachusetts General Hospital recovering from a heart bypass operation, shouted into the phone, "At our goodbyes," said her son-in-law Efrem Yankelevich.

They call in some homework help

By MARCIA DUNN

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sixth-graders at Milliones Middle School got some extra help with their math homework this week: American Telephone & Telegraph Co. employ-ees reached out and tutored them at home over the telephone.

"I like doing my homework now. I know it's right and I don't have to go bother anyone else about it," Demetryaiss Holyfield, 11, said during a

"When you ask the wrong question (in class), everybody laughs. But the AT&T people help you learn that question, then you're not scared to say it out loud," Deon Rice, 11,

Since Tuesday, 10 AT&T supervisors, technicians and operators in Pittsburgh have been calling pupils after school twice a week to gently remind them about their homework and review fractions. For now, the and review fractions. For now, the tutoring focuses on arithmetic.

The AT&T employees, all volunteers, visited the inner city school last week to pick up books and lesson plans and to meet their study pals.

Mildred Greene boned up a little before contacting her two pupils.

"You think to yourself what do you know about fractions. Then you look at it and say. "Un huh, un huh.

look at it and say, 'Un huh, un huh, it's fun,'" said Mrs. Greene, 41, a group manager for local operators. Teachers advised AT&T employees to ask pupils how they solved their math problems, rather than whether they'd completed them. Such a tactic proved the undoing of 12-year-old Wilbert Vaughn. After assuring his AT&T tutor that he'd completed his homework, he was at a loss to explain how he'd done it. "She said, 'You didn't do your homework. Put your homework in the said was a sping to work on the said was a sping to homework. Put your homework in front of you, we're going to work on the first problem.' She told me how to do it," he said, giggling, during an interview Wednesday with eight pupils at the school, which has 800 children in grades six, seven and eight. "There's going to be some students who are going to be on the ball and there's going to be others who need a little help. That's what we're here for," said Philip Dodge, 55, an assistant staff manager for AT&T's International Operating Center.

The helpline was conceived last summer under the Partnerships in

So far, only 23 students from one homeroom are participating, said Delphina Briscoe, the Milliones prin-cipal. But she said more will be added over time.

"When you have a company as large as AT&T venturing into young minds like this, it just makes them feel like somebody else care other than teachers and parents," said Jesse Jenkins, 36, the pupils' math

"They seem to be buckling down and getting serious about their math work," he said. "If you get into good study habits, I think that carries on into high school, college, a job."

Deon agreed: "I think it's a good time for them to be calling us because one day we're going to be on our own doing this."

Shuttle hopes for Florida landing; California waiting

By PAUL RECER

AP Aerospace Writer SPACE CENTER, Houston - Columbia, setting a record for landing delays to match its record for launch postponements, remained stuck in obscure the Kennedy runway. Columbia, originally set for launch Dec. 18, went through seven delays before lifting away last Sunday, and now is the first shuttle to experience landing consecutive postponements.

Mission commander Robert Gibson had expected to land at Edwards

Air Force Base in California on Friday after dense rain clouds blocked the Florida return, but NASA management decided to hold Columbia in orbit an extra 24 hours and try Florida again on Saturday.

Officials admitted that the weather forecast for Saturday was

"marginal." 'We've figured now that we've given you the two-day extension you asked for, it's time for you to come home," mission communicator Shannon Lucid told Gibson. "If the weather is no-go at KSC (Kennedy), we'll see you in at Edwards."

"That's what you told us for to-

Gibson and pilot Charles Bolden have practiced nighttime landings at Edwards. NASA currently does not permit nighttime landings at the Kennedy space center, where the concrete runway is narrow and surrounded by water.

The Florida landing would come at about 7:31 a.m. EST Saturday; an Edwards landing would be 87 min-utes later, at 5:58 a.m. PST.

NASA officials are anxious to return Columbia to Kennedy as soon as possible to prepare it for a March 6 astronomy mission. A Florida return also would help NASA meet its re-cord schedule of 15 shuttle launches

An Edwards return requires that Columbia be ferried across the country on top of a jetliner. This causes a loss of six days in launch preparation time and could threaten the March 6 launch date of a Columbia mission planned for the study Halley's

Earlier this week a NASA statement said that the Halley's comet March launch opportunity would be missed if Columbia landed in California. In a statement released Friday, though, NASA said, "It is recognized that to make that target date, a tight flow schedule will have to be tightened further in the event of an Edwards landing."

The statement said NASA managers are attempting to find ways "to help regain the time taken up" by ferrying Columbia from California:

We're determined to have that March mission," said NASA's acting administrator, William R. Graham, in an appearance on NBC's "Today" show. "We'll put our sequence planning and our processing in such a way that we have the shuttle as close to the March 6 launch date as Good scientific data on the comet could be gathered even if the launch is delayed a few days, Graham said. Columbia's March 6 launch date is planned to coincide with the comet encounter of unmanned Soviet and European probes.

Postponement of the landing Friday was the ninth operational delay of the Columbia flight. Launch of the mission was delayed seven times over 25 days. Poor Florida weather blocked a landing attempt Thursday.

The delays already have caused NASA to order a two-day postpone-ment, until Jan. 25, of the launch of Challenger which will have schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe as a

AP Military Writer WASHINGTON — Investigators combing the crash site of a military charter plane in Newfoundland discovered the body of a victim on Friday, more than a month after authorities thought they had recovered all such remains. The Army, in a brief prepared statement released at the Pentagon, said Army graves registration specialists and members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police "found the remains of a crash victim during snow-melting operations at the site on Friday. The remains will be returned with full military honors to the Port Mortuary at Dover Air Force Base, Del., for identification," the

The Army and Canadian police teams returned to the crash site on Jan. 6 in hopes of uncovering additional personal items, remains or other evidence that could assist the identification of the victims. Although the crash occurred more than a month ago, the Army has so far succeeded in identifying fewer than half the victims, primarily because of the severity of the crash.

The plane was fully loaded with fuel at the time of impact and the resulting fire burned most of the victims beyond recognition. De spite that, however, Army offi-cials have said they believe pa-thologists will eventually be able to identify virtually all of the

NEW YORK (AP) - The district attorney said Friday he would appeal the dismissal of attempted murder and assault charges against Bernhard Goetz, who shot four young men in a subway train. "We have decided to appeal Judge Crane's decision to the Appellate Division," said the one-line statement issued by Manhattan District Attorney Robert Morgenthau's

The office said it would issue a fuller statement on the case, in which Goets said he shot four black youths in December 1984 because he believed they were about to rob him. The case fired a debate over whether Goetz was a victim fighting back or a vigilante looking for

Earlier Friday, two black leaders said the dismissal of serious charges could be dangerous for other blacks and called on Morgenthau to send the case to a third grand jury in an attempt to get the charges restored.

The ruling "sends a signal that if you are white you can do almost anything to blacks and the law enforcement apparatus is going to stand behind you," said the Rev. Herbert Daughtry of the House of the Lord Church in Brooklyn.

There seems to be ample validation of people's suspicion that the criminal justice system is against us," he added.

Morgenthau could have appealed Thursday's ruling, sought a new grand jury investigation or dropped

State Supreme Court Justice Stephen Crane dismissed four counts of attempted murder and four counts of assault on Thursday, pointing out defects in the prosecution's presentation of the case to the grand jury and what he said was the likelihood that the testimony of two victims was false.

Supreme Court is the state's trial-level court. Crane upheld charges of reckless endangerment and weapons possession against Goetz. Goetz said he was surprised by Crane's ruling and hoped "it means that the system will abandon the concept of prosecuting victims." Goetz, an electronic equipment calibrator, shot the four on a subway train on Dec. 22, 1984. He said they had surrounded him, and one of them demanded $5 in a menacing way. The youth said he merely asked Goetz fled into the subway tunnel after the shooting and surrendered to police in Concord, N.H., on New Year's Eve.

"The worst is over ... and hopefully this nightmare will end for him, Barry Slotnick, Goetz's lawyer, said Thursday. "Mr. Goetz would like to go back to his quiet life and like to go back to his employment."

"We believe that this decision will have great ramifications against poor youth and poor people who live and reside in this city," said Sam Pinn, president of the Independent Brooklyn Corps of the Congress of Racial Equality.

Bleeding statue a 'hoax,' Canadian officials determine

By CHARLES CAMPBELL

STE-MARTHE-SUR-LE-LAC, Quebec (AP) — The tears, the sweat, the blood that appeared on the cheeks of the statue of the Virgin Mary all seemed miraculous to thousands of believers who waited in the brutal cold to see for themselves.

But then the skeptics of modern science and medicine came up with evidence suggesting it was all a hoax not even a very clever hoax, and overnight the Miracle of Ste.-Marthe melted away.

The affair came to a climax Friday when a Montreal newspaper reported the statue's owner admitted he used oil and drops of his own blood to create the effects.

Police in this lakeside town on Montreal's northwestern outskirts estimated 12,000 people flocked here in less than a week to view what local television stations took to calling the "alleged miracles."

Church officials have been cautious in their statements. The local tious in their statements. The local bishop, the Rev. Charles Valois of St. Jerome Diocese, called the affair "an exaggeration of the marvelous."

The pilgrimages began after Jean-Guy Beauregard, a railroad worker in Montreal, said his statue began weeping on Dec. 8 — the Feast of the Immaculate Conception.

When the phenomenon began to attract curious crowds, Beauregard's landlord asked him to move the statue. He took it to the home of Maurice and Claudette Girouard in Ste.-

In January, the Girouards told re-porters, the Virgin's tears began to mix with blood and many of the surrounding icons, crucifixes and statues also started weeping and

When television newscasts and the front pages of Montreal's newspa-pers showed the statue's creamy complexion splotched with bright-red stains, the mass pilgrimage to Ste.-Marthe began. Even tempera-tures of 15 below zero did not stop people from lining up for hours to view the icons and statues.

The bubble burst Wednesday with two developments:

— The French-language television network of the Canadian Broadcast Corp. borrowed an icon and took it to a laboratory, where scientists said they found it was coated with pork and beef fat that would naturally liquefy in droplets and run like tears once the room warmed slightly.

—It was discovered that Maurice

Girouard, who had become the spokesman for the miracle, had been convicted twice of illegally practicing medicine.

Dr. Augustin Roy, president of the Corporation of Quebec Physicians, said Girouard had been promising to cure various ills through hypnosis.

Neither the Girouards nor Beauregard, who had been living at their house recently, could be located for comment on Friday's edition of the Journal de Montreal, which said Beauregard told its reporters and lo-cal police he created the effects under Girouard's hypnosis, pricking his own finger to obtain drops of blood.

American copters collide

MARKTREDWITZ, West Germany (AP) — Two U.S. military helicopters from a regiment participating in next week's NATO winter maneuvers collided in the air Friday, killing one serviceman and injuring four others on board, a U.S. Army statement said.

West German police spokesman Ludwig Kraus said the collision took place at 2 p.m. near the northern Bavarian town of Marktredwitz, about 12 miles from the Czechoslovak border. The helicopters crashed at a relatively low altitude and fell to the ground," Kraus said. Both helicopters were destroyed and no one on the ground was injured, he said.

Three of the injured servicemen were hospitalized in Marktredwitz and the fourth American was flown by a West German emergency services helicopter to the larger city of Bayreuth, about 25 miles to the west.

Neither the police nor the U.S. Army had any immediate word on the condition of the injured. The identities of the soldiers were not

Truce talks collapse; New round of fighting begins in South Yemen

Associated Press

Soviet-sponsored truce talks collapsed and new tank battles began Friday in the five-day-old struggle between rival Marxist factions in South Yemen, the Kremlin's ally on the Arabian Peninsula, diplomatic sources reported.

They said heavily armed warriors from mutually hostile tribes were moving on Aden from nearby hills to join the battle that began Monday with a reported coup attempt against President Ali Nasser Moham-med, a Marxist who has been making overtures to Western-oriented Arab

The Arab and Western diplomats, based in the Persian Gulf area, said most tribesmen were from three of the six provinces that were merged into what became South Yemen on independence from Britain in 1967.

Britain's Foreign Office said in Britain's Foreign Office said in London that foreigners trapped by the fighting were being evacuateded Friday night from Aden, the embattled capital, by ships that included the British royal yacht Britannia. More than 200 Europeans were believed at risk in the fighting. The British, French, Italian, West German and Soviet governments had

Kindergarten students enjoy learning 'Writing to Read'

By KEN PELLIS

LUFKIN (AP) — Garrett Elementary School student Katie DeVries recently wrote the following

I can jump. I can ridabike.I can rubacat.I can petacatdog. I can Et

That doesn't sound like much unless you know she is in kindergarten and she is writing phonetically.

Katie is one of the stars of "Writing to Read," an IBM program that teaches kindergarten and first grade students to read and write with talking computers, typewriters and other enticements.

Four Lufkin schools have the program, and two more are expected to have it soon.

Jerry Campbell, assistant superintendent for curriculum, says the federal government picks up the cost in Lufkin's Chapter I schools — those classified as economically disadvantaged. These schools are Garrett, Coston, Herty, Redland and, starting this school year, Kurth and Slack. Some 400 students — about 95 percent of those in kindergarten and 12 percent of first graders at the four schools - spend an hour a day in the Writing to Read laboratory.

The program was created by John Henry Martin — a teacher, principal, superintendent and author. To be eligible, a Lufkin kindergarten student must have a mental age the equivalent of 5 years, 2 months or below, according to the Peabody Picture Vocabulary Test. A first grader must rank in the lower half in reading on the California Achieve-

A study of two groups of 54 kindergarten students shows that students in Lufkin's Chapter I schools improved an average 1.4 years while students in non-Chapter I schools improved 1.1 years during their kindergarten year.

In recent months, educators from Longview, Marshall, Waskom and schools in Louisiana have visited the program. Like children in other Lufkin schools, the students learn to read by phonetics — the use of word sounds.

According to an IBM brochure,
"The goal of Writing to Read is to lead students to the discovery that they can write anything they can say and read anything they can write...

"The first 'act of reading' encountered by early writers is reading back the words they have written on paper. Students soon understand that the words and sentences they see on paper is 'talk' written down. They then understand that reading has meaning.

Katie's Writing to Read teacher, Candace Faison, said most students on entering school will say they can't read, but that they can write, even if it's just scribbling.

The program tries to build on this confidence.

"We don't correct their spelling, and we don't correct their handwriting," says Ms. Faison. "Everything is supposed to be a positive atmosphere where they are encouraged to try.'

The process begins with a computer that shows a picture representation of a word to be learned, spells the word normally and phonetically, and issues speaking commands to the student. In learning the word "cat," for example, a student will repeat the three phonemes, or lettersound combinations, that make up the word: "cuh...ah...tuh.

After saying the word, the student types it as it's spelled phonetically. In the case of "cat," the phonetic and actual spellings are the same.

Learning is reinforced at the Work Journal Station, where the child listens to tapes and writes sound symbols and words.

Next is the Writing/Typing station. "Typewriters emphasize the details of writing such as spacing, punctuation and left-right progression," the brochure says. "Typewriters also enable students to produce letters that look like the print they see in books.

One boy, said Ms. Faison, has trouble writing with a pencil but can op-erate a typewriter. "He just doesn't have the coordination yet to do the pencil work, and he would feel like such a failure if we had told him to just write "rabbit."

At the Listening Library, students listen to recorded stories and follow the text, spelled normally, in a book. And at the Make Words station, students learn to combine the lettersound combinations to make new Doris Charlton, a kindergarten teacher at Garrett, says her students look forward to going to Ms. Faison's class. "When I say it's time to go to Writing to Read they get all excited," she says. "I think the machines have a lot to do with it. They really love the computers, and they love the typing too.

Mrs. Charlton also helps the children in the laboratory, along with a teacher aide.

Campbell predicted that "by the end of the year, many of the kindergarten students will be using punctuation rules, capitalization rules, and will have more than 50 percent of the words they use spelled correctly."

He said that if results of the pro-gram continue to be good, "this would be an incentive to try to expand that to the other campuses, but I don't know when that would be. I'd love to see every kindergarten in the district in the program.

The discovery of DNA — deoxyri-bonucleic acid — in the grape, blackberry and coontail seeds could enlarge the understanding of plant genetics and the history of agricul-

CNG: IS IT AMERICA'S ENERGY FUTURE?

* Compressed Natural Gas

- Is the use as a transportation fuel a possible "energy savior," as natural gas industry spokesman have proclaimed.?
- Will CNG become the long term answer for U.S. energy and economic problems, including foreign imports and the national deficit?
- Is it the revolutionary product that can revitalize America's domestic oil and gas industry?
- Can it free America totally from foreign imports?
- Can CNG become a viable alternative for gasoline? If so, in what time frame?
- How safe is it?
- How can oil and gas producers and entrepreneurs benefit from CNG?
- What is involved and what is the cost of marketing CNG?

These and many more questions concerning this new concept in natural gas marketing will be answered at this seminar. CONCERNED MEMBERS OF THE MIDLAND OIL AND GAS COMMUNITY ARE URGED TO ATTEND THIS FREE SEMINAR.

A FREE SEMINAR ON CNG

At 1:00 p.m., on January 22, 1986 in Midland Center, Energas, the Midland Reporter-Telegram and Permian Basin Petroleum Association will present an important free seminar on the feasibility and economics of CNG as a transportation fuel and its role in America's energy future.

NATION IN BRIEF

Was man actually lynched?

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) -Neighbors say they heard screams and people running at a transit station where a black homosexual was found hanging in what police called a sui-cide, according to documents filed with the FBI.

Now the agency is investigat-ing the possibility that the man was lynched.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asked for a federal investigation of the Nov. 2 death of Timothy Lee, noting "numerous reports of racial intolerance" in recent months in this residential city 35 miles east of San Francisco.

Friends and family members say they do not believe that Lee, 23, of Berkeley, took his own life. They say he had called for a ride home from the station and had given no clue of depression.

Concord police told the NAACP in a November letter that an FBI investigation would be "a waste of time" and that Lee's hanging was "not connected in any manner with race or sexual preference.

A statement released by the police department on Friday said officers had interviewed the residents who heard screaming. The statement said "physical evidence at the scene and commensurate interviews are consistent with suicide."

727 lands safely on its belly

WASHINGTON (AP) - An Eastern Airlines 727 jet landed with its landing gear up at Washington Dulles International Airport Friday evening, sliding 1,000 feet on its belly but injuring none of the 143 people on board.

Flight 974 from Miami was scheduled to land at National Airport, a smaller airfield in Arlington, Va., just outside of the capital.

But the plane was diverted to Dulles in suburban Chantilly, Va., about 20 miles from the capital, when cockpit instruments indicated that there was a problem with the landing gear, said Fred Farrar, spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration. Dulles has longer runways than National.

Molestation charges dropped

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Prosecutors citing insufficient evidence dropped charges Friday against five of the seven defendants in the McMartin Pre-School child molestation case, and some outraged parents called for the state to take over the case. "I would never get involved in any vigilante-type activity (but)...from what I hear other parents say, I wouldn't want to be one of those defendants walking the street," said Arvin Collins, who claimed two of his children were molested at the school.

"They'd be better off with the trial," said Robert Currie, a parent whose two children attended the now-closed McMartin school in suburban Manhattan Beach."Otherwise, I don't think they're going

Parents promised to appeal to the state attorney general's office to take over the case and prosecute all seven defendants, who originally had been charged with more than 300 counts of rape, sodomy and other abuse involving 41 children from 2 to 8 years old.

More remains to be returned

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) - A Foreign Ministry offical told a U.S. congressional delegation Friday that remains of up to 50 of the nearly 1,800 Americans still missing from the Vietnam War.

Deputy Foreign Minister Hoang Bich Son also repeatedly assured two senators and two congressmen there are "absolutely no" living Americans under Vietnamese control, said Sen. Frank

The lawmakers met Friday for more than three hours with Son on what Murkowski, chairman of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee, called a humanitarian mission to seek answers to the mystery of American MIAs.

After the meeting, Murkowski said in an interview that the Vietnamese appear committed to resolving the MIA issue in the two-year timetable they proposed earlier this month, when a highlevel Reagan administration team visited Hanoi.

Another Louisiana bank closed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The state closed the First Progressive Bank in Metairie on Friday, citing longstanding loan problems as the cause of the second bank failure in Louisiana in eight days and the fourth nationwide this year.

The bank will reopen Saturday under the name First Industrial Bank & Trust Co., said John Vella, closing supervisor for the southwestern region of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The state Commissioner of Financial Institutions, Kenneth Pickering, ordered First Progressive's closure at 2 p.m.

At a news conference at the Federal Reserve Building in New Orleans, Pickering attributed the closed bank's problems to the state's sluggish economy and to "loans that shouldn't have been made.

Pickering said the blame cannot be placed with any one management team. The bank has had three, he said, since it was chartered in the mid

Libya can subsidize students

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite a freeze on Libya's assets in the United States, the government of Col. Moammar Khadafy will be allowed to continue subsidizing its students at American colleges, U.S. officials said Friday.

And, they said, new students from the North African country will be permitted to come here. Of about 3,200 Libyans legally in the United States, some 1,200 are students — many of whom are supported by the Khadafy government through a U.S. bank account, said Treasury and State Department officials. They discussed the issue on condition they not be identified.

"We have decided to license their receipt of Libyan funds and to allow the students who are here to continue their education," an official said. 'It's a policy decision that's been taken by the executive branch."

Four escape Indiana prison

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) - Three killers and a burglar broke through six steel barriers blocking a steam pipe tunnel and storm sewer and escaped from the maximum-security Indiana State Prison, authorities said Friday.

Two of the inmates, convicted in a total of four slayings, were captured near Lafayette early Friday and returned, prison administrative assistant Charles W. Neary said.

The other two, including an inmate convicted in the murders of two Marion County sheriff's deputies in 1981, eluded a police manhunt, Neary said. "These people were able to defeat the system,"

Warden Jack R. Duckworth ordered all prisoners confined to their cells until new security barriers have been erected in the tunnels, Neary said. Authorities identified the captured inmates as Jimmy Gordon Deaton, 39, of Chavies, Ky., and Mikco Steven Ball, 33, of Jefferson County.

Deaton was serving a life sentence for murder and attempted robbery from Brown County. Ball was sentenced for the 1975 shotgun slayings of three Indianapolis men.

Still at large Friday afternoon were Sanford Ray Marshall, 45, convicted of murdering the two deputies during a store robbery and sentenced to 60 years; and Steven Douglas Bilyeu, 38, of Lafayette, convicted for theft and burglary and sentenced to

Woman goes after snatcher

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) - Joyce Neaville saw a purse snatcher grab a woman's handbag and got so angry she recovered the purse and got the name and address of the person accused of stealing it. Despite her success, however, she said she might not do it again, given the chance.

Mrs. Neaville, 38, said she was leaving a grocery store Thursday afternoon when she saw a young woman run up behind someone else, grab the purse and hop into a van which then drove away. On the way home, she said, she saw the van and gave chase

"I pulled my car over, so they couldn't go further and got out and made them give me the pocketbook," she said, adding the female thief was so scared she didn't know what to do." But she turned over the purse and also supplied her name and address.

"It surprised me later when I thought about it that they had turned it over to me," Mrs. Neaville said. "The only thing I was thinking at the time was that they could have all this old lady's money, papers and everything, and she wouldn't have anything left.' Police Chief Kermit Justice said the woman was arrested on a theft charge later in the day. The purse was returned to its owner.

Fuel economy rules stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing potential harm to auto workers and the car-buying public, a federal agency refused Friday to increase fuel economy requirements for 1987 and 1988 model cars, and said it may even lower these standards.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration agreed to consider easing the 1987-88 standards from 27.5 miles per gallon to as low as 26

Tutu won't go to King dinner

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Bishop Desmond Tutu canceled plans to attend a benefit dinner honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. on Friday amid protests by black leaders that they were excluded from planning the event.

"I don't know all the details," Tutu said at a Hartford, Conn. news conference. "I have been advised by my people that it would not be good to attend this event."

The Nobel Prize winner said he would come to California next week as scheduled, however.

California next week as scheduled, however.

Tutu's decision to skip the $125-a-plate fundraiser followed complaints from black leaders in the San Francisco Bay area that Roger Abelson, producer of a memorial concert on Saturday, was not open to their involvement.

Black leaders complained that the concert conflicted with the 7th Annual Martin Luther King Jr. Dinner sponsored by the Bay Area Black United Fund.
