Panelists agree oil news 'not all disaster'

By JOHN PAUL PITTS Business/Oil Editor

Members of Midland's oil and banking community, speaking Thursday as a panel at Leadership Midland Alumni Association's quarterly meeting, acknowledged definite problems ahead for the oil in dustry as a result of declining oil prices, but added that it is not a call

Most of the group agreed that reverses to the Permian Basin economy could and would be turned around within two to three years or possibly sooner. Tom Wageman. president of RepublicBank First Na tional Midland, cautioned that attitude would be important to recov ery: "We will be tomorrow what we anticipate today. If we look for the worst, we will probably get it. Jim Henry, president of Henry Pe troleum, said the industry is experiencing the price declines that most had anticipated, even though the rapid decline was not expected

'Oil prices have been declining for the past six years and economists have already warned the oil industry that we will have a troubled period from 1986 to 1990, followed by some comfort for the next two years and finally prosperity after 1992," said

Henry said the oil industry had reason to be optimistic to this point because the rate of return on invest ment had remained stable for the past four years despite fluctuations in oil prices. He listed a corresponding drop in drilling and completion costs, which paralleled declining oil prices as the reason.

Jim Henry: "We will have a troubled period from 1986 to 1990, followed by two years of comfort and prosperitv after 1992."

Collins sees $1.50 per Mcf of natural gas in the short term, but expects to see higher gas prices and operators drilling gas wells again within three years, as the two trillion cubic foot gas bubble gradually dissipates within that time frame.

Addressing natural gas prices, panelist Ted Collins, president of

HNG-InterNorth Exploration Co., echoed Henry as to the role of drilling costs in rate of return. "In recent years, drilling costs have gone up

five times, but in the same period

the price of natural gas has gone up

He sees the following factors contributing to the reduction of the natural gas surplus:

No significant additions to natural gas reserves in the past three years.

 A dramatic decrease in gas well completions in 1985.

Possible repeal of the Fuel Use Act, which prohibits the use of natural gas as a boiler fuel.

Expanded use of cogeneration. Collins says the election of two new commissioners favorable to the energy industry to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission could result in a freer market, which could result in increased consumption. He does not see Canadian bas as posing a serious threat to tue market.

"Canadian gas is now only 5 percent of the market, and probably never will go past 10 percent. Canada is very cautious about glutting the American market. Too, Canadian gas is limited by the number of pipelines to U.S. markets.

White, Bentsen seeking incentives

From Wire Reports

While Texas Gov Mark White Thursday urged Congress to preserve tax incentives for US oil and gas production, U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen expressed a related concern. He fears that recent plunges in price and failure to conserve will allow the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to regain control of the market.

White says he is monitoring almost hourly the plunge in spot market oil prices. He noted that while the Texas economy would suffer in a long-term price drop, national defense also is at

This week's price slide to as low as $18 a barrel only shows how volatile foreign oil supplies are and how quickly those prices can change. White said.

"Don't be fooled by the price today. We know the price can fly upward whimsically if we ever fall into the trap of becoming dependent once again on foreign imports," he

'It doesn't take long, once they get the noose around our necks, to tighten it. The way we can prevent that is to make certain we have adequate domestic reserves. We ought to increase incentives today

White said the United States today is risking a return to dependence on foreign oil that rivals the U.S. need before the 1973 Arab oil embargo

This further points out the need for the president of the United States and members of Congress to reconsider action taken on the socalled tax reform bill that would diminish the incentives for production of oil and gas in Texas," he said Bentsen, in Houston for an economic development conference. voiced similar concern Thursday

My deepest concern is that as they further go down, the people will go back to being wasteful like before 1973," he said. "No question, the oil glut is temporary. The question is How long?

What you want is some stability

Bentsen is proposing a floating fee on imported crude oil that would keep the price in the United States in the $22-$24 per barrel range.

If the actual price of oil dropped below that level, revenue gained by the fee could offset dollars lost be cause of recently approved balanced-budget legislation, he said.

Each $1-per-barrel fee annually would contribute $1 billion to the U.S. Treasury

'If you had a $5 tax, you'd have $5 billion of revenue," he said.

White wrote Sen. Robert Packwood, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, urging senators considering tax reform legislation to preserve tax incentives now enjoyed by oil and gas investors.

Plummeting oil prices precipitated by uncertainty in the world market underscores the risk associated with exploration and development of our essential energy supplies," White wrote.

During his weekly press conference. White noted that most Texas oil is sold under long-term contracts which aren't affected by this week's spot price plunge. Much of state government's revenue comes from a severence tax on oil and gas production.

"Right now, our state contract average price for oil is around $27 a barrel. So this decline you read about does not directly impact state revenues at this point," White said. But a long-term trend could be devastating, he said, with job losses piled on top of lower revenues. The oil price futures market has shown signs of settling at levels near $20 a barrel, following a week-long trading frenzy that left prices for crude at their lowest levels in six Prices have been driven downward since November as producing nations, determined to hang on to their share of the market, have

As sewage plant awaits parts, possibility of fines grows

By RAMONA NYE Staff Writer

The city utilities director has a parts problem.

Parts - 45-year-old parts - are partially to blame for a four-month violation of state discharge permits at the Midland Regional Airport sewage plant, according to John Lowe. From September to December the city has violated a Texas Water Comion discharge permit. An equipment breakdown in September and a difficulty in finding replacement parts has caused discharged sewage with a low in the water not to meet state standards, Lowe said

If the city's permit violations are found to be "significant," it could face fines of up to $10,000 a day, said Max Woodfin, environmental coordinator with the commission in Austin. About 100 gallons of treated sewage water per minute is discharged from the airport plant into an unnamed tributary of Monahans Draw.

The commission could also decide to waive the fines and work with Midland in getting discharged water up to permit standards, he said. The way it's written, significant noncompliance is very subjective," Woodfin said. A decision on whether or not the city will go before the commission in a hearing and face penalties will be made early next week, Woodfin said. December water reports are due in Austin Saturday.

If Midland is found to have "significantly" violated the permit, it is

Eight cities, including El Paso, Austin and San Marcos, have already faced fines ranging from $3,000 to $160,000, Woodfin said. There are many, many more citof fines," he said.

The water commission - reorganized under a law Sept. 1 - has the authority for the first time to fine permit violators who discharge water not up to state standards.

Meanwhile the city still hasn't received all the pieces required to get the airport sewage treatment plant back to full operation, Lowe said. Pieces required for the 45-year-old plant are no longer made and had to be fabricated. "It's not like calling up the friend-ies in the state who face a possibility ly hardware store and ordering a

"One problem was just finding someone who could build what we needed," Lowe said "After we get all these pieces to repair, it will then take us a week to 10 days to get the new equipment installed. That will help a great deal in the operation of the plant," he said. Lowe said he expects the remaining equipment to be shipped soon.

Water quality problems at the aging airport plant could be alleviated by a $7 million outfall line from the airport sewage treatment plant to the main plant on Interstate 20, Lowe said. The line would allow all sewage water to be treated at the modern main plant.

However, there are no immediate plans for building the outfall line, he

YARMOUTH, England (AP) — A Greek tanker loaded with crude oil collided with a Dutch fishing trawler and burst into flames in the stormy North Sea today, spilling burning oil within a few miles of gas rigs, British government spokesmen said. No deaths were reported.

All but three of 31 crewmen from the 76,000-ton Orleans abandoned ship and were plucked to safety from rafts by Royal Navy helicopters in an operation initially hampered by high winds and smoke, Defense Minstry spokesman Nigel Gillies said. The captain and two others stayed aboard but were in no

The Orleans was reported loaded with about 550,000 barrels of crude oil, but a Transport Department spokesman said, "Pollution at this stage does not seem to be a threat. The oil is being dispersed and is drifting away from the...coastline."

Gillies said the trawler, identified as the 295-ton Jan van Toon, was not badly damaged and no one aboard was hurt. The size of its crew was not immediately known.

Coast Guard officials said the burning tanker drifted until a Dutch tug secured a tow line to it as the fire died out.

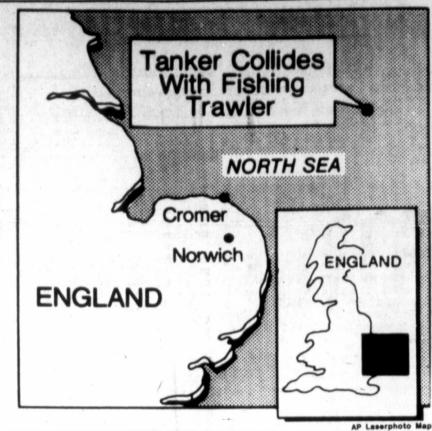

A Transport Department spokes-man who demanded anonymity said 60 men were taken from a gas rig five miles from the tanker, and 400 more were being evacuated from a platform farther away.

The Sea King helicopter first on the scene ordered the Orleans' crew to abandon ship because of the fire, Pickard said.

Helicopters and merchant ships sped to the site to help. High winds and flames and smoke from the vessel initially hampered the operation. Lloyd's said it picked up the first distress signals at about 7:15 a.m.

(2:15 a.m. EST). Officials said the accident occurred about 80 miles northeast of Cromer, a North Sea port 20 miles north of Norwich in southcentral England.

The British Broadcasting Corp. said one Sea King helicopter involved in the rescue effort got into trouble when its winch cable was blown into rotor blades, and the helicopter had to land on an oil rig.

Perry Bolger, president of Brazos Petroleum and the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, blamed much of the oil industry woes on the lack of a national energy policy and continued regulation of the industry, but added that the nation is following a trend of deregulation that may benefit many industries, including oil and gas. He said problems with FERC Rule 436, requiring pipelines to become common carriers, could result in deregulation of the natural gas industry this year, thereby enhancing the industry's economic outlook. Bolger said a tax on imported crude and petroleum products, which has been suggested by some as a measure to firm up falling oil prices, is still controversial within and without the oil industry. But if no relief from declining oil prices is seen within 18 months it may become a topic of discussion.

Said Bolger: "Personally, I think we will see average oil prices of $23 to $26 over the next two years. Also, I think the worst may be over for natural gas." He said he didn't think major oil company activity would be retarded much in the future, but it non-existent margins for the past might be harder on smaller independent oil companies which are depen-

He said wells that were profitable at $27 per barrel may not be profitable at $20 per barrel and may be shut-in, causing further shrinkage of activity within the Basin.

Wageman said that as the difficulties of the oil industry increase so will the difficulties of the banks in Texas, but there still will be an adequate supply of credit to accomplish necessary capital projects: "Our bank is not expecting a great year for loans this year because many of the 'nonsense' loans are not being requested. Mostly we are seeing requests for working capital and long term capital loan requests.'

He allayed concerns about the inability of Third World companies to pay on loans arranged by U.S. banks because of falling oil prices. "That's a problem that has to be fixed by government. It is so big and so complex, I can't help but think it won't

White begins campaign in schoolroom setting

By STEVE LEVINE Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

HOUSTON - Using a schoolroom setting to dramatize his No. campaign theme, Gov. Mark White today made clear what he has hinted at for almost a year: he will seek a second four-year term.

'We have kept the vision, courage and commitment we began with, but we still have more to do," White said at a news conference carried statewide via satelite, with a live audience of mock first grade students listening in.

The governor, speaking from the classroom where his late mother once taught first grade, said his opponents in both parties "have come out in favor of ignorance and superstition" and want to "chip away" at the educational reform package the Legislature passed in 1984.

"We must not retreat from the progress we have made in these three years, and I never will.' White, 45, promised.

Buoyed by his promise of a 24percent pay raise, teachers worked hard to boost White to his 1982 upset victory over then-Gov. Bill Clements. And despite two teachers groups' recent calls for his defeat, White Thursday said Texas teachers remain his allies.

After the governor suggested last week that he would support drug testing of state employees including teachers — suspected to be working while intoxicated, leaders of the Association of Texas Professional Educators and the Texas Classroom Teachers Association said their members should not support White this year.

"I doubt that their membership supports the position that they've taken," White said at his weekly news conference Thursday. "I believe that the overwhelming majority of teachers in Texas totally support the position that there should never be a teacher in the classroom that's under the influence of narcotics."

The governor went on to criticize the leaders of one of the groups - he would not specify which one - for their opposition to House Bill 72, the massive school reforms the Legislature enacted during a special session

"They have rejected every ma-jor reform in House Bill 72," he said. "They jumped off the whole approach to improving quality education in Texas because of a very narrow issue...They've done a terrible disservice to the teachers. Doug Rogers, a spokesman for ATPE, said his group opposed the bill because they did not want competency tests and a poorly funded form of merit bonuses for teachers. He disputed White's contention that they also opposed smaller classes and the other benefits that the governor intends to tout as reasons Texans should award him with another four years in office.

'We're in favor of most of the reforms that affect education and children, but we're not exactly excited about some of the negative aspects," Rogers said. "There's indications here that this thing is perfect and it's not."

The governor has called a 10 a.m. press conference today at Briargrove Elementary School in Houston. Emphasizing what he calls the major accomplishment of his administration, White will stand behind a teacher's desk - a special desk — in a teacher's classroom — a special classroom when he kicks off his re-elec-

He will launch his campaign from the room where his mother Sarah Elizabeth Wells White, taught first graders. Mrs. White was a teacher in the Houston Independent School District for 36 years. Two years ago, the gover-nor brought his mother's old desk to the Capitol rotunda, sitting at it as he signed the school reform bill that will become a major portion of his 1986 platform.

White Thursday defended his call for a drug-free workplace.

"Our teachers are the leaders and should be the leaders in our fight against narcotics and in educating our students about the evils and the horrors of narcotics and I think you'll find that only in the rarest of exception you'll find that not to be the case," he said.

Also upset with White, two other education groups plan to get involved in the 1986 gubernato-rial race. The Texas High School Coaches Association has criticized White for his strong support of the controversial no-pass, no-play rule, while the Texas Association of Secondary School Principals complains that the school reforms stripped teachers and principals of the discipline tools they need to control their classrooms.

ODESSA - A public meeting to acquire input on the second draft of the Pastoral Letter on Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy was held in Odessa Thursday night.

Thirty-five to 40 people heard Bishop Michael D. Pfeifer of the Diocese of San Angelo, explain the basic thrust of the lengthy document. "Our pastoral letter is being written," the bishop said, "first to provide guidance for Catholics and then to contribute to the public discussion about economic policies." Pfiefer said the bishops of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, who are preparing the Pastoral Letter, with a final draft due in November, "do not pretend to have all the answers to the complex problems that are facing our economy." "As regards the solution to these issues, these problems, that face us, we frankly and humbly say, yes, we need help and that this does require the wisdom, the insight, the dedication and the expertise of business people, laborers, politicians, teachers, eoconomists, of all people, as well as church leaders," said the bishop.

In analyzing the U.S. economy, he said, "The bishops see four specific issues or problems that should be addressed. Number one, employment or unemployment, two, poverty, three, food and agriculture, and four, the U.S. economy and its link to the world economy and especially the impact it has on third world countries. Midland businessman John Ingram, a layman in the church, one of three panelists for the public meeting, said the pastoral letter "asks for consensus and communication, commitment, operation, a lack of breakdown in dialogue," and said it addresses these things very clearly.

"This is a time to really wipe away all the cobwebs of rhetoric, of disdain for political philosophy, of concern for acceptance and work toward a mutual commitment to the dissolution of problems that face mankind forever," said Ingram.

Lugar to lead observers of Philippine election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has decided to lead American observers of the Feb. 7 Philippine presidential election to emphasize U.S. hopes for a fair contest, a source says.

Lugar's decision is based on judgments that Mrs. Corazon Aquino is being given a fair shake in her campaign to oust President Ferdinand Marcos after 20 years of rule, the source said Thursday.

Lugar was expected to announce today he will make the trip. His announcement was to be followed by a statement from President Reagan announcing the delegation.

But Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, joined a growing list of lawmakers who said they would not go.

"I don't plan to go; I don't think there should be any congressional group from here because of the questions about the fairness of the election," Fascell said.

Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., chairman of the House subcommittee on Asian and Pacific affairs, earlier said he would refuse to go. Several senators on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Thurday they did not think a congressional delegation was warranted.

Administration officials and many members of congress are concerned that the Marcos-controlled election machinery will keep Mrs. Aquino from winning no matter how many votes she gets. And nobody thinks the observers themselves actually can help ensure a fair outcome.

The White House had been pressuring both Lugar and Fascell to jointly head an official delegation made up of about 40 members - to include members of Congress, prominent Americans from universities and the private sector and government officials.

But in recent days, it became clear that if both Lugar and Fascell declined to go, there would not be an official delegation. With Fascell refusing, it increased the pressure on

At a hearing before his committee Thursday, Lugar cited "my misgivings about what we have seen thus far during the election campaign."

Attorney says Marcos' wife attended real estate meetings

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House panel, investigating whether Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos owns expensive New York City real estate, was told that Marcos' wife attended three 1984 meetings concerning multi-million dollar Manhattan real estate deals.

Barry Knox, an attorney, said Thursday that he attended the meetings and was told by two other participants that Imelda Marcos owned at least one of the four New York buildings in question.

Knox said he has no independent evidence of who owns the four office and retail buildings, said to be worth $350 million.

But Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., said Mrs. Marcos' atten-dance at the three meetings in a Manhattan townhouse casts doubt on statements by the Marcos family that they own no U.S. real estate.

Solarz is chairman of the House subcommittee on Asian and Pacific affairs, which is probing allegations that Marcos and his wife have amassed a large and secret

Head of VA resigning

WASHING-TON (AP) — Harry N. Walters is leaving as head of the Veterans Administration as the agency faces a period of reducing many benefits to the nation's 30 million military veterans.

Walters, 49, a former West Point football star credited with improving morale in the government's largest independent agency, was expected to leave the agency by the end of the month to return to business.

His successor was expected to be Thomas K. Turnage, 62, a retired Army major general who is director of the Selective Service system.

The successor will follow a VA chief who was well liked by House and Senate veterans committee members and the service agencies. He will face a job that many close to the VA system say is difficult in a time of budget cuts.

"The next administrator is going to be faced with a lot of pressure from the Office of Management and Budget to reduce the budget for veterans," said Ron Duchin, Veterans of Foreign Wars spokesman.

"The VFW is very concerned the VA is going to be in a position of cutting back benefits," he said. "We're going to be looking very closely at Harry Walters' successor to see whether he's going to be a friend of veterans."

The VA has a $27 billion budget. Cuts in it, as in other government agencies, will be required by the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget act passed last month by Congress.

The Gramm-Rudman law exempted VA pension and disability benefits from cuts, and provided limits on the amount of cuts that can come in the VA hospital system.

"We haven't been hurt as much as it could be," said House Veterans Affairs Committee chairman G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss. Still, VA advocates say the agency's hospitals — the nation's largest medical system - are in fact being hurt by the lack of budget increases. And the Reagan administration has proposed restricting care only to poor veterans, in most cases.

Moreover, Duchin said, proposals have circulated in the administration to essentially do away with much of the VA hospital system. And congressional sources, insisting on anonymity, say President Reagan's budget for fiscal 1987, due next month, is expected to cancel the new GI bill, a package of education aid and other benefits for veterans.

"The VA is going to face really tough times," said Butch Joeckel, head of the Disabled American Veterans.

Walters, whose resignation has not yet been officially announced, declined to comment directly Thursday.

But he said: "For the last six months to a year it's been no secret that I intended to step down as administrator of the VA. I'm looking to leave government."

VA advocates described Walters as walking a tightrope between promoting the cause of veterans' benefits and carrying out the policies of an administration that wanted to cut spending. For example, he presented the administration's proposal to sharply increase fees for VA mortgages - but did not defend it

Asked why he took his job, Walters once told an interviewer that the best answer came from Omar Bradley, the World War II general who also headed the VA. Bradley said, "I don't think there is any job in the country that I'd sooner not have and any job in the world that I'd like to do better.

Turnage, who served during World War II and the Korean War and later in the National Guard, declined comment through a spokesman Thursday. But Montgomery said he was informed by the White House that Turnage would be nominated for the post, which requires Senate confirmation.

"He's an excellent choice," Montgomery said.

Gorbachev, Reagan may address joint session of Congress

Other White House aides also said the idea was news to them.

Byrd said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill's only reservation about his plan was that the meeting should not come too late in the year, when it might influence the congressional elections.

Speakes said no decision has been made on the timing of the summit. U.S. officials had floated the idea of a June meeting, but the Soviets have indicated they would prefer September.

Byrd said he hoped the invitation to Gorbachev would "help draw back the heavy curtain which has snuffed out real communication for so many years" between the Soviet Union and the United States.

In a letter to Reagan, Byrd wrote: The development of a more positive relationship with the Soviet Union will, of course, take time, but it is clear that the dialogue which you began with Mr. Gorbachev in Geneva has led to a better over-all atmosphere in which to try to resolve our outstanding differences with the Soviet Union.

Child sees self on TV show on missing persons

BESSEMER, Ala. (AP) - A 5-yearold boy who saw himself on a TV show about missing persons and told his babysitter about it could be reunited today with the mother he had been told was dead.

Benjamin Studer Jr. was taken to a shelter Thursday and his father, Benjamin Sr., was arrested on federal kidnapping charges in this Birmingham suburb where they had lived since the boy was taken from his mother in Kentucky a year ago.

"I saw myself on TV and I told Pam," the boy said. "People were missing on TV...I didn't run away." Babysitter Pam Robinson said she "nearly dropped dead."

Benjamin said it "has been a long, long time" since he had seen his mother, and had been told that she was dead, Mrs. Robinson said.

Mrs. Robinson called the police after Benjamin told her he had seen himself on the NBC-TV show, which aired Wednesday night.

"That child got up and tried to hide behind my couch. He was scar-ed," she said. "Me and my husband Gene tried to get his mind off it, saying 'It wasn't you, it was somebody like you,' to keep him from being so nervous while I was calling."

The boy's mother, Jennifer Studer, 30, who had last seen him Jan. 5, 1985, was also watching.

"I watched the show because I knew he was going to be on there,' she said Thursday. "You just pray something will happen. The Coving-ton police came riding up to the house and said They found your son.' I started screaming.

'Without Benji, it's been hell. But I knew eventually I'd see him."

Mrs. Studer and her ex-husband were to meet again today in Jefferson County Family Court at a custoday night at a church-operated shelter, where he was placed by the state welfare agency.

Judge Charles M. Nice said he would not let the boy see his mother until the hearing. Mrs. Studer traveled to the area Thursday night.

Studer was being held at the Bes-semer City Jail on federal charges of unlawful flight to avoid a charge of custodial interference and on a kidnapping warrant in Covington.

Covington police said Mrs. Studer was given custody of her three children when she and he were

In an interview at the jail Thursday, Studer said he took his son because he was not satisfied with the child's treatment and thought his exwife might leave Kentucky with the

Uranus' radio waves probed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Voyager 2 raced toward "the crescendo of discovery" today as its 81/2-year journey to the outer reaches of the solar system carried it ever closer to the stormy cloud tops of Uranus, the farthest planet ever visited by a Voyager's sweep about 50,600 miles from the seventh planet, with the closest approach scheduled at nine seconds before 9:59 a.m. today, was being hailed as the latest mile-stone since the probe was launched Aug. 20, 1977.

"We've been waiting 4½ years for this," said Ed Stone, Voyager project scientist at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which runs America's unmanned space exploration program for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Stone announced Thursday that Voyager 2 discovered Uranus emits weak radio signals, almost certainly caused by electrons spiraling out along magnetic field lines. The existence of a magnetic field could reveal the length of a day on the planet and whether it has a molten, rocky core or liquid oceans.

"If you want to know how long a day is on Uranus, you have to measure the magnetic field," he said. "It's the way we will know how rapidly the planet is rotating."

Movements of wind-blown clouds detected by Voyager suggests a Uranian day lasts 15 to 17 Earth hours. Voyager explored Jupiter in 1979 and Saturn in 1981.

It's not too late to 'get the dirt' on fertilizer needs

It's not too late to collect soil samples for testing to determine fertilizer needs for this year's crops. Collecting samples now and getting them tested can help farmers get a jump on the spring rush at the soil testing lab.

Once fertilizer needs are determined, farmers can place their orders. Again, by ordering early, they can avoid the spring rush. Also, fertilizers usually cost more in the spring when demand is greater and supplies tighter. With fertilizer at hand, farmers can begin application when field conditions permit. This minimizes spring planting delays because of tight dealer schedules and reduces the potential for moisture loss just prior to planting.

For more information concerning soil testing, please call your County Extension Office.

Mechanical brush control methods such as rootplowing, grubbing, and chaining should work well this winter due to good moisture conditions. Rootplowing is an effective method of controlling brush, but is more efficient when soil moisture is sufficient to allow the blade to pass through the soil with reduced resistance. Seeding of forage species is often necessary and desirable following rootplanting.

Because rootplowing is expensive, it should be used on sites with high production potential. Root plows with fins usually provide the best brush control, but they also destroy existing turf. A thin-bladed root plow without fins will minimize turf damage, but may result in reduced brush control.

Chaining involves dragging a heavy anchor chain over brush; this uproots or breaks off brush species. Chaining of live brush species provides only temporary control because of resprouting. However, more live plants are uprooted when soil moisture is high. Chaining can provide temporary brush control that will allow sufficient grass growth so that prescribed burning can be used as a follow-up treatment. Chaining is used effectively to retreat areas that have been treated with herbicide. For example, mescondemned to die in the gas chamber 17 years ago, there was no doubt he had killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in a crowded Los Angeles hotel June 5, 1968. Numerous witnesses saw the assassin pull the trigger and he was apprehended with the smoking murder weapon in his hand.

The Jordanian immigrant's death sentence was delayed by several legal maneuvers and, through a quirk in the law, was reduced to life in prison in 1972, when the California Supreme Court declared capital punishment unconstitutional. Since then, the state Board of Prison Terms has rejected seven appeals - the most recent being last June — that Sirhan has made for release from Soledad State Prison. Now he's asking again to be paroled.

The forthcoming review stems from a recent California Supreme Court ruling, which says that, when the parole board postpones a new hearing for two years as it did for Sirhan seven months ago, board members

> It's likely that once again Sirhan's lawyer will contend that his client is being singled out for special punishment because of his victim's national prominence. Of course, he is. But this man is the convicted murderer of a candidate for the highest political office in this land. And while that life isn't any more valuable than any other individual life, society should not encourage such vicious crimes through coddling criminals. Simply through the progression of time and the change in society's view on the death penalty, he already has been able to avoid the punishment he should have received.

Sirhan Sirhan should stay behind bars to pay for his crime against Sen. Kennedy and the American people.

Rome used as center to plan terror

ASHINGTON — Iranian diplomatic facilities in Rome are the principal center for planning the Ayatollah Khomeini's terrorist operations throughout Western Europe.

Our intellisources now believe that the Iranian colony in Rome assisted in the Christmas time gun and grenade attacks at the Rome and Vienna airports. The head of Italy's military intelligence service reported earlier that the airport terrorists had been trained in Iran.

While Libya has been fingered as the main culprit in the airport attacks, and there is close cooperation among Libya, Iran and Syria in terrorist activities, it is the Iranians who have been responsible for the killing and kidnapping of more Americans than any other terrorist sponsor. The grisly "body count" of Americans killed by Iranian-inspired violence is 50 times that of Libyanbacked assassins.

Rome became the headquarters for Iran's Western European terror-ist operations in early 1984, following the French government's expulsion of many Khomeini supporters from Paris. Brussels is the secondary center for the violent exportation of Khomeini's Islamic revolution.

The Iranian terrorist nest in Rome is directed by Ayatollah Khosrow-Shahi, Khomeini's ambassador to the Vatican. The son of a carpenter, Khosrow-Shahi had been imprisoned by the late shah for subversive activities. After the shah's ouster, Khosrow-Shahi became Khomeini's chauffeur, bodyguard and trusted aide. He was second-in-command of the student revolutionaries who seized the American Embassy in Tehran and held its personnel hostage for 444 days. He was rewarded in 1981 with the ambassadorial ap-pointment to the Vatican.

At least twice, Italian police have monitored Rome meetings arranged by Khosrow-Shahi of top officials in the Iranian and Syrian secret

Much of the plotting goes on at the Islamic European Cultural Center at 361-63 Via Nomentana, a large complex purchased at the time of Khosrow-Shahi's arrival. He and his depualso have an apartment at 56 Colli de la Farnsina, but most of the work is done in the 60-room Islamic Center The Italians use long-range cameras to keep watch on the center, but surveillance is made difficult by hidden exits to two nearby streets and at least one underground passage to the Libyan Embassy next door.

Trunks suspected of containing arms and explosives have been delivered to the center - immune from search under diplomatic seal. Hundreds of young, bearded Iranians have come and gone over the past five years, including one lot of three dozen flown into Rome ostensibly for medical treatment - although the center has no medical facilities.

One reason the Italians are so concerned about these young Iranians is the secret minutes of a high-level conference held in Tehran on May 26, 1984. Ayatollah Mohammed Khatami, Khomeini's minister of Islamic guidance, ordered Iranian officials to produce 1,500 to 2,000 men for suicide missions. They were to be under 30, preferably unmarried and "completely committed to martyrdom," according to the minutes.

CIA Director William Casey's comments to a small group of academics last April are worth considering. He said: "Probably more blood has been shed by Iranian-sponsored terrorists during the last few years than by all other terrorists combined. Tehran uses terrorism as a major element of its ongoing campaign to export the Iranian revolution throughout the Moslem world and to reduce Western influence - especially that of the United States - in the Middle East. ... Libya's (Col. Moammar) Khadafy is not in the Ayatollah Khomeini's league.'

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: Kemal Ataturk, the libertine dictator who brought Turkey into the modern world by forcibly Westernizing it, must be whirling in his grave. State Department sources report that signs of Islamic fundamentalism are popping up in Turkey, evidently imported from neighboring Iran. More women are seen wearing chuddars, the long black robes that are common in Iran but have been a rarity in Turkey. The Koran is a best-seller.

Cuomo, other candidates need to be heard

ASHINGTON - The presidential election of 1988 will be the first in 20 years with no president on the ballot, which may help explain why there is now so much speculation here so soon about Ronald Reagan's successor. It does not explain. however. why much of this speculation is so nega-You might think, there's listening to the returning Congress, that something fatally wrong with all the potential candidates.

On the Republican side, it's said that Vice President George Bush is too liberal to lead a conservative party; Bob Dole of Kansas, the Senate majority leader, too busy to campaign effectively; Rep. Jack Kemp of New York too identified with an economic policy that has produced such spectacular deficits; and former Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee too far out of the communications center of

James Reston

Similarly, on the Democratic side, we are told that Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado is too misty; Sen. Alan Cranston of California too old; Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri too young; and, the latest potential blackball, that Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York is too identified with ethnic and Roman Catholic voters. It's a little early for such mean politics, but not too early to condemn the practice and those who engage in it. It was thought after the election of a Catholic in 1960 and of a Southerner in 1976 that we had put aside regional, ethnic and religious bias, but here it is again, and fortunately Cuomo has nailed it early.

He was wrong to single out the columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak for raising the issue. They were merely reporting that politicians were discussing it as a handicap to whatever presidential ambitions the governor may have.

But he was right to attack the issue if not the writers. One unnamed politician was quoted as saving 'there aren't many Marios in the South." Cuomo quoted another columnist, not Messrs. Evans or Novak, as saying that he looked "like a guy from 'The Godfather. Why was it right for the governor to dramatize this issue so early in the campaign? First, because he resented these slurs against his heritage and his faith. Second, because he's an experienced politician and knows that these whispered underground theories develop a life of their own, and could corrupt the whole campaign to his disadvantage.

Accordingly, he did precisely what Jack Kennedy did in the 1960 campaign when, facing the same prob-lem, he confronted it in a meeting with Protestant Texas preachers.

Cuomo went to Texas too, and made a speech to an audience half Anglo and half Mexican-American. "I don't think the view of America from South Jamaica in Queens," he said, "is much different from San Antonio's West Side. There was the same aching to belong in both places

"I think I know how hard that must have been (for Rep. Henry Gongalez of San Antonio) at first, as a boy going to school where the language was not the language of his home, where the words sounded hardedged and tight compared to the rolling, rounded rhythms of his mother and father's tongue.

"I think I know because the words sounded so different for me from the world of the Italian blocks of South Jamaica, where passion and pride and powerlessness all lived together and people talked with their hands and their hearts."

This was the theme of his speech at the San Francisco nominating convention of 1984 - not the politics of region, race and religion but the politics of "inclusion," and by all accounts he not only identified himself as a fighter but set a standard for his campaign, now reaching out far beyond the boundaries of New York.

Will this also set a higher standard for the campaign in general? Much will depend on whether the other candidates of both sides get out into the country and whether the press listens to what they say rather than what's said about them. Most of them are strangers to the national audience, but considering the candidates of the last few presidential elections, they shape up fairly well, and shouldn't be judged by unfair

Gephardt is not too young; he'll be 45 at the end of the month, older than Jack Kennedy, who 25 years ago this week delivered his first inaugural address, probably the best since the days of Woodrow Wilson.

Likewise, Cranston is younger than Ronald Reagan; Bush has more experience than any of them; Dole on the Republican side and Hart on the Democratic side of the Senate are regarded by their colleagues as serious presidential candidates.

What they need is a chance to be heard honestly and fairly in the coming three years without being diminished even before the campaign

Gorbachev proposal child molester's tactic

ikhail Gorbachev's arms control proposal is the equivalent of a child molester offering candy to a little girl to get her into a car. The outstretched hand and smile mask a mind intent on rape and murder.

change for the Soviets agreeing to negotiate reductions. Keep in mind that the Soviets have been negotiating with West Europeans for reductions in conven-tional forces for over a decade without results. To the Soviets, negotiations are just another form of Naturally the childish among us esponded to Gorbachev's ploy. William Colby, a former CIA director, nizations last week to hail Gorbachev's proposal as if he were Santa Claus announcing a second Christmas.

Colby even said we should be "grateful" that Gorbachev only asked us to stop testing and abandon ABM research. Colby holds the title of worst CIA director ever and, believe me, the competition for that title is keen.

In addition to the spook with bad judgement, there were the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, Physicians for Social Responsibility, Center for Defense Information, and the president of Machinists and Aerospace Workers Union, William Winpinsinger. The record of all these is Winpinsinger is one of those persons who can honestly say he never met a person from the political cen-ter to the right that he liked. To Winpy, even Sen. George McGovern is a bit hawkish.

I've appeared on panels with representatives of Sane and what they know about strategic weapons would fill a textbook — for kindergartners. Physicians for Social Responsibility did not come out against nuclear war until they discovered that after one, there would not be enough doctors. In other words, until they discovered that most of them would get

I've always said the nuclear weapon is the greatest populist invention in history. Rich, comfortable people like the good doctors, faced with the prospects of joining the peasants on the casualty lists, have become passionate pacifists. It apparently has never occurred to the doctors that no country, smitten by even conventional war, ever has enough doctors to treat the wounded.

The Center for Defense Information is an anti-defense organization which masquerades behind a few retired military officers. Nearly 2,000 retired military officers once paid for a full-page advertisement in the New York Times to repudiate this

The Center for Defense Information uses the yes-but strategy. Yes, we're for defense, but not for the weapons system. It turns out, of course, whatever the military needs and is available, they're against. This tactic, which is a favorite of the antidefense crowd in Congress, is quite effective. The Air Force asked for the B-1 bomber in 1969. The first pro-duction model didn't get built until 1965. The MX missile has been debated for 12 years. In the meantime, the Soviets modernize and deploy their

You should note, too, that these folks who call press conferences to hail a Soviet arms control proposal never call press conferences to hail a U.S. arms control proposal. Nor do they call press conferences to denounce the Soviets when they walk out of arms control talks or get caught cheating on past treaties.

You should always pay more atten-tion to behavior than to words and to patterns than to isolated instances. When people over a period of time consistently criticize us and consistently praise, remain silent or make excuses for Soviet behavior, then I stop paying attention to them. They are either hopelessly foolish or insincere.

The record of the Soviet Union is not a matter of opinion or Cold War rhetoric. It sits there in the history books for all to see. It is a record of aggression, repression, duplicity, de-ception, brutality and hostility. No literate American with access to even a small town library has any excuse for being ignorant of the true nature of the Soviet Union. The world is not threatened by nuclear arms. It is threatened by the evil nature of the men who control the Soviet Empire.

NATION IN BRIEF

Growth of deficit slows

WASHINGTON (AP) - The imbalance between what the government earned and what it spent narrowed sharply in December but the deficit for the current fiscal year is still well ahead of 1985, the Treasury Depart-

The deficit totaled $14.66 billion last month, a drop of 56 percent from the $33.39 billion in red ink recorded in November.

For October, November and December, the first three months of the fiscal year, the deficit totals $75.13 billion, 5 percent ahead of the pace a year ago, the department said

The new report supported predic-tions made last week by the administration and the Congressional Bud-get Office that the deficit for the entire fiscal year will hit $220 billion unless spending is curbed.

This projection triggered a process that will lead to $11.7 billion in budget cuts in 1986 under the new Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing

While these cuts will still leave this year's deficit above $200 billion, the deficit target in the law for 1987 is a much smaller $144 billion.

Bradley tests disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Army intentionally avoided doing any serious damage to the Bradley fighting vehicle in the latest round of tests of the controversial weapon, according to a Pentagon report.

Instead, the service conducted the tests in such a way that damage to the 25-ton vehicle would be minimized, said the report prepared by Air Force Col. James G. Burton.

Burton's report was released Thursday by Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., a chief congressional supporter of requiring realistic tests before weapons are purchased.

The report does not state why the Army would avoid damaging the vehicle during the tests. But Pryor and other critics have contended that by not damaging the weapons, they were made to appear to be more reliable, a charge the Army has

Trial won't be dismissed

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - A judge's refusal to dismiss the sanctuary alien-smuggling conspiracy trial because of government misconduct has provoked accusations from a defense lawyer and some defendants of "a judicial cover-up." U.S. District Judge Earl H. Carroll denied a defense motion Thursday, saying failure of a government agent to tell him or the prosecutor about a 1985 alien-smuggling investigation was "not so patently egregious as to warrant dismissal."

Carroll refused to allow defense lawyers to question U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service case agent James Rayburn.

He also at first denied them additional time to get more information about a 1985 alien-smuggling investigation that informant and government witness Jesus Cruz was involved in with Salvadoran Jose Rene Argueta, which Rayburn knew about but had failed to disclose.

Grand jury calls juror

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The only juror who voted repeatedly to convict Gov. Edwin Edwards went before a federal grand jury Thursday, presumably to say again that one of his union's officials asked him to acquit the governor of racketeering and fraud charges.

Juror Clifford West, 32, would not answer reporters' questions as he en-tered the federal courthouse about 4 p.m. and he used a private elevator to secretly leave the building about an hour later.

West sat alone in a hallway outside the grand jury room until about 4:35 p.m., when he was invited inside by Assistant U.S. Attorney Lance

As West prepared to go before the grand jury, prosecutors in the case were filing written arguments at the courthouse aimed at making sure Edwards is tried again on the charges. Last week, attorneys for the Edwards brothers, Gus Mijalis, James Wyllie Jr. and Ronald Falgout asked a federal judge to end the possibility of a second lengthy trial by declaring the men. The defense requests said there was no evidence to support prosecution claims that the men illegally profited in a $10 million hospital investment scheme. Lawyers noted that no more than three jurors wanted to convict any of the defendants on any charge when the first trial ended in a mistrial on Dec. 18. On many charges, the votes for acquittal

From Staff and Wire Reports

Cool temperatures and sunny skies are in the forecast for Saturday, ac-cording to the National Weather Ser-vice at Midland Regional Airport with the high expected to be in the upper 50s.

Tonight, under fair skies, the low is predicted to be in the mid-30s. Winds will be out of the north tonight at 10 to 15 mph and will shift to the northeast at 10 to 15 on Saturday.

Thursday's high of 66 was 16 degrees below the record high set in 1950. The record low for this date was 13 set in 1950 and was 23 degrees colder than this morning's low.

Dense fog reduced visibility to near zero early today in South Texas as moisture poured into the state from the Gulf of Mexico. Forecasts called for a chance of showers in Northeast Texas tonight and in Southeast and Northeast Texas Saturday. Temperatures were to be cooler in South Texas Saturday. Skies were to be mostly clear tonight except in Northeast Texas and Southeast Texas. Lows tonight will be in the 20s in Northwest Texas and the 30s and 40s over the rest of the state except in South Texas where readings will be near 60.

Skies are to be clear to partly cloudy over most of the state Saturday. Highs will be in the 50s and 60s except in Southwest Texas where readings will be near 70.

Early morning temperatures were in the 40s and 50s today. Extremes ranged from 36 at El Paso to 58 at Brownsville.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 45 at Amarillo, 44 at Wichita Falls, 50 at Fort Worth, 52 at Waco and Austin, 56 at San Antonio, 44 at Houston, 55 at Corpus Christi, 53 at San Angelo and 39 at Lubbock and Midland

Rebs hoping to claw Bobcats in grudge match

Ron Jasp Reporter-Telegram

Elvin Mackey of MHS looks for an opening against Lee's Anthony Dickens in Tuesday's showdown. Lee won that game, 70-65, but both teams resume the drive for the 4-5A title tonight.

MHS after quick fix against Steers

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Assistant Sports Editor

Midland Lee's 70-65 win over Midland High Tuesday created some high-powered excitement in the District 4-5A basketball league, but the Rebels can't enjoy that success much longer.

The Rebels travel to San Angelo tonight to take on the San Angelo Bobcats. And it was the Bobcats who dealt Lee its only black eye of the season back on the league's opening night. And that black eye vas a real dandy, 81-66.

Lee has since won six league games in a row to tie the cross town Bulldogs for the 4-5A lead. The two teams own a full game lead over the rest of the pack.

Meanwhile, the Bulldogs are hoping that Big Spring is a cure for a one-game losing streak. The way MHS has played this year, a one-game losing streak is a long one, especially when the Dogs lost a chance to take a full two-game. a chance to take a full two-game lead over their pursuers.

BIG SPRING will march into Chaparral Center at 8 p.m. today with hopes of catching the BullBASKETA dogs in a "we're-still-crying" mood. MHS buried Big Spring by a 90-76 margin in their first meeting this year, but then again, the Bulldogs didn't shoot at a 35 per-cent clip like they did Tuesday against Lee.

But the key matchup in the league has to be the Lee-San Angelo outing in view of what happened the first time the two teams met

San Angelo came out of the blocks strong before stumbling into a three-game losing streak. The Bobcats are now 43, still in the race and hoping to repeat

It's a fact that didn't escape Lee coach Paul Stueckler, even after an important win over Midland High.

"We tried to keep the Midland
High game as low key as possible," noted Stueckler. "We didn't even have an announcement about the game over the P.A. system at school. The thing you wor-ry about in a big game is that you over stimulate the kids. They re-sponded to the challenge without a lot of prodding.

"AND WE'RE not kidding ourselves about San Angelo. They kicked us good the first time and that was in Midland. We've got to go down there and play now. You can say a lot of things about Paul Stueckler, but you can't say the guy is overconfident."

MHS coach Jack Stephenson is taking his kids back to the gym in an effort to get the Bulldog scor-ing machine back in motion. The Bulldogs were averaging over 80 points a game in district play go-ing into the Lee game and came up with only 65.

Please see 4-5A, Page 2B

Lee not ready to claim title

By ERIC SCHURER Sports Writer

The way the Midland Lee girls team is playing, the rest of District 4-5A might be saying "How's the weather up there?" to the first place Rebels.

By rolling to a 9-0 district record, coach Shirley Stephenson and the Rebels enjoy a two-game lead over second place Midland High and Abilene High. And with three of five remaining district games at home, the Rebeis might be thinking of turning on the cruise control and getting ready for the playoffs. "Oh no, we can't take anything for granted. We had some games earlier in the year that we lost thay maybe we should've won and we learned from that never to take anything for granted," Stephenson

"Maybe in three or four more games I'll feel more comfortable. Right now we're just keeping our fingers crossed and hoping we can get past the next few games.

LEE WILL return to action tonight when they host San Angelo, 54, 13-11, in an 8 p.m. game at the Lee Gym. MHS travels to Big Spring with hopes of returning to the win column after falling for the night. Other district games have Abilene High hosting Odessa Permian and Abilene Cooper at Odessa

The Rebels took care of business in the first half of the season against the Bobcats, pounding out a 60-41 decision on San Angelo's home floor. Stephenson doesn't expect things to be quite that easy this time

We did a lot of things right when we were down there, and a lot of things went our way," Stephenson said. "We played a very, very good game down there and I don't think it will be that easy this time. We survived it down there, now we have to survive it up

Because Lee doesn't boast a single scorer with a double-digit average, winning has been a result of depth and defense. The Rebels have given up an average of 41.9 points per game while scoring nearly 20 more, 61.7 per game.

"Our kids don't just do one thing well like shoot the ball. They all have a lot of skills and they play good defense," Stephenson said. "That's been the secret to our success this season. We do give up a lot of free throws, but when you play a man-defense like we do you tend to play harder than you do in a zone and you're more prone to foul — at least that's the way (the referees) call it."

WITH A crucial game against Abilene High com-ing up on Monday, MHS must be careful to avoid a letdown in its game tonight at Big Spring. If both teams can come up with wins tonight, Monday's match up will go a long way to deciding the playoff picture in 45A.

"I think we'll have to wait on that," said MHS coach Jane Young. "I feel like we'll have to win our next five games to make the playoffs. We haven't even talked about anything past the Big Spring

The first contest was a 58-39 rout in the Tall City Tournament. The second was much closer. In the first round of district play, MHS edged Big Spring 50-46 as the Steers tossed in 20 points in free throws.

"We'll have to play much cleaner defense this time," Young said. "They score a lot of points from the free throw line. I noticed where they scored about 25 points on free throws against Lee so we have to be careful on defense.'

Lee Banquet remembers 1985 playoff season

By BOB BRUNDAGE Sports Writer

Midland Lee celebrated the 1985 football season and honored the participating Rebels in the annual Football Banquet Thursday night at Midland Civic Center.

The Rebeis and their fans had help at the program from a misplaced comedian in Jerry Larned, the Superintendent of Schools in Monahans. Larned gave an enjoyable speech that was not only funny, but held an underlying message.

"I came here tonight to talk to you about how to become a winner, a winner in the game of life. The title of my speech is 'Five Characteristics of a Winner,'" said

The five were: Spiritual soundness, goal setter, have courage, a burning desire to excel and respect. In the Rome Olympics in 1960, U.S. competitor Rafer Johnson and a Russian were in a close battle for the gold medal going into the final event, the javelin throw, an event Johnson was rated a heavy underdog. Larned said, "Rafer Johnson took the javelin and on his final throw in the decathlon, walked out with the javelin, stuck it in the ground and knelt down and prayed in front of 100,000 people. He got up, threw the javelin 230 feet, farther than he'd ever thrown it before, and won the gold medal." Larned hit closer to home on "goal setting," using Midlander Aubrey Schulz as an example Baylor football coach Grant Teaff "had the kids write down three goals," said Larned. "One kid wrote, Goal 1: All Southwest Conference center. Goal 2: All-American Center. Goal 3: Lead Baylor to the Southwest Conference championship.

"The kid was Aubrey Schulz. Teaff called the kid and said, 'Aubrey, you can't play center, play guard. Guard next to center. You guard. Too small to play center."

As it turned out, Schulz ended up as a fourth string center and ended up getting the chance at the starting role when the first three centers were lost to injuries. In 1974, he was named All-SWC center, All-Amercian center and "led Baylor to its first SWC championship in

50 years," said Larned. "So, what is an unrealistic goal?" About courage, Larned said, "Don't misunderstand what courage is. It's not running into a brick wall, that's stupidity. Courage is living up to your convictions, whatever they might be. Live up to your principals, have the courage to say no despite peer pressure. Have the courage to be a patriot." Larned's best statement about "burning desire to excel," was "If you're a C student and that's the best you can be, be proud. If you're a C student but capable of making A's, you're a bum.'

And, about respect, he said, "take care of your body, don't ever put anything in your body that might hurt it. Prepare. Don't wait until next year to prepare. Prepare now because you know Mojo is preparing."

Larned concluded by saying, "If I've insulted any-body with these characteristics, I don't care. I firmly believe in them."

AFTER LARNED concluded his speech, the individual honors were awarded to the players and some

Chaps recover, roll Plainsmen

From Staff Reports

SNYDER - Second ranked Midland College returned to form on Thursday night in 99-81 rout over Western Texas in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference win.

All five starters in coach Jerry Stone's line up hit double figures as MC corralled a second half burst into a laugher, and after Monday's close shave against Odessa College, they needed it. Ricky Grace led the scoring with 19 points and backcourt mate Mookie Blaylock added 18. Lincoln Minor, Eddie Frazier and Tony Wright each tossed in 13 points for

The win ups MC's season record to 21-0 while its WJCAC record moves to 7-0. The Chaps are all alone in first place in the conference.

The Chaparrals also got strong scoring from their bench as several starters got in early foul trouble. Todd Duncan led the bench charge with 10 points, giving MC six players in double figures.

THE CHAPS took an early 14-8 lead, but the Plainsmen came back and made a 16-5 run to go ahead 24-19 with about 8:50 remaining in the first half. The Chaps fought to pull even and take the lead on a three point play by Wright at 7:22. Western Texas wouldn't quit however, and the teams traded baskets until a pair of baskets by Grace and a fall-away jumper by Duncan gave MC a 47-42 halftime lead.

MC came out smoking in the sec-ond half as Blaylock, Frazier and Wright led a charge that saw the Chaps run off 18 points in the first five minutes while holding the ainsmen to just a pair of field als. MC led 65-46 and never trailed goals. MC led 65-45 an

Silent Knight would rather be fishing after OT win

His Indiana Hoosiers had just beat-en bitter Big Ten rival Purdue by a point in overtime, and all Coach Bob Knight would tell was a fish story.
"What an unbelievable (warm) day we got for January. I sat on this lake fishing and I thought how insignificant basketball really is," said Knight, who refused to answer any questions following Indiana's 71-70 victory Thursday night over the 15th-ranked Boilermakers.

"I hate to leave you, but I think I'm going to go plan my fishing trip to-morrow," said Knight, who frequently crosses swords with the media. And that had to stand as the Indi-anything, either.

Alford's presence was felt at both ends of the court, however. He scored 13 of his foul-plagued team's last 17 points, made the only field goal of overtime and stole the ball to

Ken Norman, who scored a gamehigh 27 points, and Bruce Douglas hit two free throws each in the final 23 seconds as Illinois edged Ohio State 67-65 in the Big Ten. Todd Alexander grabbed his own rebound and scored with one second left to give Minnesota a 67-65 victory over Wisconsin. Also in the Big Ten, Iowa routed Northwestern 76-43.

Two free throws by Alvin Robinson — his only points of the game — with seven seconds left lifted Virgin-ia Commonwealth over Jacksonville 81-80 in double overtime in the Sun Belt Conference. Old Dominion topped South Florida 47-43 in another Sunbelt game.

Elsewhere in the South, North Carolina State got 20 points from Charles Shackleford to beat Maryland 67-55 in the only Atlantic Coact Conference game, and Linwood Moye sank two free throws with eight seconds remaining as South Carolina edeged rival Clemson 65-64. Craig McMillan picked up a loose ball and sank a layup at the buzzer as Arizona beat Oregon State 63-62 in overtime. In other Pacific 10 games, it was Arizona State 76, Oregon 58; and Stanford 76, UCLA 70.

And he doesn't make headlines. Reporters flock to Chicago Bears' quarterback Jim McMahon for outrageous remarks. They are frustrated by New England Patriots quarterback Tony Eason, who speaks politely but in a low voice.

"Despite his quiet nature, Tony's got leadership qualities," said Patriots' quarterback coach Les Steckel. "People like him because of

"He got to step back from it all," Grogan said. "Sometimes when you're in the heat of battle, you don't think of all the things you can do but when you step back you can get the whole picture. That's good for a young quarterback."

"HE IS an extremely dedicated football man who puts a lot of thought into it," New England Coach Raymond Berry said of Eason. "The last five or six weeks he has operated our offense nearly flawlessly in ways of throwing the ball." When Grogan was hurt in the 12th game, Eason came back seemingly more mature, although he says it was the Patriots' offense - not just

IT SHOULD be no surprise that Lee and MHS are tied for the league lead considering the fact that the two schools have six of the top eight scorers in 45A. Lee's Eddie Riley ranks ninth at 14.4.

College Basketball Scores Green regains touch; 63 takes Phoenix lead a time, "back in the 70s, when I was a much younger player, I could work the ball both ways," pretty much make the goif ball do what he wanted it to do, Hubert Green said.

"Then, for five or six years, I lost it. I couldn't do it," said Green, now 39, who scored his 19th career victory last season in the PGA national championship. But it's coming back.

"I'm close to doing it the way I want to," Green said Thursday after he had scattered nine birdies across his card in an 8-under-par 63 that provided him with the first-round lead in the $500,000 Phoenix Open. "It was a fun round of golf" and was much closer to the standards he sets for himself, Green said.

"It's better to the extent that I'm more relaxed standing up there. It's better to the extent I'm not hitting those oh-my-gosh-not-over-there shots now

"IT'S STILL not there," Green said. Then he smiled. "But I can hear the footsteps. Sometime this year, it's going to show up."

But Green was not alone in the scoring heroics on the friendly little Phoenix Country Club course that yielded subpar scores to more than half the 144-man field. Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson were not among them, however. Each struggled to a 72 in his opening round of the season, and each faces the need for improvement today in rounds Saturday and Sunday "A marvelous day. It seemed like I couldn't do anything wrong," said Calvin Peete, the defending title-holder and a runaway winner a couple of weeks ago in the Tournament of Champions.

HE WAS among the quartet that was tied at 64, a single stroke off the pace. Also at that figure were former PGA champ Hal Sutton, Larry Mize and Australian Greg Norman.

The weather was gorgeous (warm and sunny with a slight breeze) and the golf course was set up extremely well. It enabled you to play right down the flagsticks and I was just able to take advantage of it," Nor-

Marbury bust reported

DALLAS (AP) - Two Texas A&M University basketball players have been arrested on misdemeanor charges of possession of marijuana, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

The charges were filed on Jan. 16 after police at Calvert in Central Texas stopped an automobile occupied by guards Don Marbury and Todd Holloway for a traffic violation, the newspaper reported.

Marbury, a senior is the leading scorer in the Southwest Conference with a 22.7 average for the Aggies, who lead the SWC with a 5-1 record. Holloway, a junior, is averaging 10.4 points per game and is the team's leading playmaker. Justice of the Peace John C. Woods said he released the two after they posted personal recognizance bonds. He had set bond at $1,000

ed to less than two ounces each, making the offense a Class B misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 and or a jail term of not more than 180 days.

Texas A&M coach Shelby Metcalf first told the newspaper Thursday that he knew nothing about the incident. Metcalf later told the Times Herald he met with Marbury and Holloway after practice and then met with A&M Campus Police Chief Elmer Schneider.

Whatever they told me will have to be confidential," Metcalf told the newspaper. "I have to look into it. I have a lot of questions. I just can't say anymore about it right now

The coach said he has not disciplined the players and both are still active members of the team. The two have played in two games since the

PUBLIC NOTICE

TEXAS UTILITIES ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby publishes NOTICE that, pursuant to the provisions of the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Public Utility Commission's Substantive Rule 23.23(b)(2), it filed an application on January 14, 1986, with the Public Utility Commission of Texas seeking authority to refund to its customers a prior over-recovery under its fixed fuel factors (base rate fuel component) in the amount of $78,002,807 as of November 30, 1985, including applicable interest, and to reduce its current fixed fuel factors.

Texas Utilities Electric Company has proposed that the refund be made and its fixed fuel factors be reduced effective with customers usage beginning with the billing month of March 1986. The proposed change in fixed fuel factors is expected to result in a $233,413,145, or 11.88%, decrease in fuel revenues for the twelve months ended September 30, 1985, adjusted only for customer growth. All customers and classes of customers whose electric service rates include charges for fuel cost pursuant to Texas Utilities Electric Company's Rider FC, entitled "Base Rate Fuel Component," and all territories in which Texas Utilities Electric Company provides electric service through its Dallas Power & Light Company, Texas Electric Service Company and Texas Power & Light Company divisions will be affected if the application is granted.

A complete copy of said application is on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Public Utility Commission of Texas as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512)458-0223 or (512)458-0227, or (512)458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

The bidding: East North West South Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: King of .

Good technique demands that you make some plays as a matter of course. If it turns out that they were unnecessary, nothing has been lost. But if they were vital ...

South's balancing bid of two hearts showed about the equivalent of an opening bid with at least a six-card heart suit. Any time you hold three aces and partner has entered the bidding, you have a good hand, so North lost no time in getting to game.

West cashed three spade tricks and then shifted to the king of diamonds. A careless declarer would win the ace and cash two high hearts. When he then discovered that trumps were 4-1, it would be too late to do anything about it. Declarer would eventually have to concede a trick to the jack of hearts for down one. Unfortunate.

Correct technique is to win the ace of diamonds and immediately ruff a diamond in hand. Next. declarer cashes the king and ace, of trumps. If both defenders follow.

minor-suit card from the board. Declarer has the Q-9 of trumps poised over East's J-6, and he scores the last two tricks via a ond trump, however, declarer is trump coup regardless of what East elects to do.

Pioneer rockers roll into hall of fame

NEW YORK (AP) — A whole lot of shaking was going on in the usually more sedate art deco ball-room of the Waldorf-Astoria as the world of rock music inducted its pioneers into the Rock and Roll

"Dy-no-mite," responded Chuck Berry, 59, who slid across the stage on his knees to the tune of his "Roll Over Beethoven" before the Rolling Stones' Keith Richards presented him with one of 15 such awards Thursday night.

Berry, Elvis Presley, Jerry Lee Lewis, James
Brown, Fats Domino, Ray Charles, Sam Cooke and Buddy Holly were among those honored as a crowd of 1,000 clapped and howled delightedly with the sounds of rock punctuating the black-tie dinner.

"I've lifted every lick he ever played. He's the gentleman that started it all, as far as I'm concerned," Richards said of Berry.

The balconies were festooned with giant photos of the music idols and the stage was decorated with old-style Wurlitzer jukeboxes lighted in tutti-fruiti colors. A giant video screen was suspended above the stage to show film clips of the stars' great musical moments.

Little Richard, who was recuperating from a car accident, sent his thanks via videotape. The presenter of his award, singer Roberta Flack, noted that all of the recipients were men, saying, "Maybe next year will be the year of the women." The Everly

Brothers also were among those honored.

Three of rock's "forefathers," Mississippi delta blues singer Robert Johnson, country and western singer Jimmie Rodgers and blues pianist Jimmy Yancey were also inducted.

Two non-performers who played key roles in the birth of rock 'n' roll joined the list: Sun Records founder Sam Phillips and the late broadcaster Alan Freed. Producer and talent scout John Hammond received a special lifetime achievement award.

FAIRWAY, Kan. (AP) - Reports of Duke's death apparently are not exaggerated.

The funeral is next week," said Lee Salem, spokesman for Universal Press, which syndicates Doonesbury" the Garry Trudeau comic strip that features among its characters the hard-drinking, recreational drug expert Duke.

"It appears that he's really dead," Salem said. "There will be eulogies given by friends, by assorted

In Wednesday's panel, Duke was found lifeless by his woman companion, Honey, who exclaims he is "looking more inert than usual."

Duke, who has been running the Baby Doc School of Medicine, has no pulse, pallid complexion and dilated pupils, Honey discovers. "Medically speaking, I'd say you were...dead," Honey says. Advance strips through Feb. 1 do not show Duke coming back to life, Salem said. Salem said Universal Press has received many calls from newspaper subscribers and fans of Doonsebury, but no one seems particularly upset about the death of Duke, a character believed to be modeled after gonzo journalist Hunter Thompson.

NEW YORK (AP) - Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca's autobiography is the third-most successful general-interest book ever published, after "Gone With The Wind" and "Jonathon Livingston Seagull," Bantam Books

"I never thought the day would come when they'd be com-paring me to Rhett Butler," Iacocca said Thursday. Books like the Bible, dictio-

Iacocca more copies, but Bantam spokesman Stuart Applebaum said they are listed as reference rather than general-interest publications.

Rock 'n' roll singers Chuck Berry, left, and Jerry Lee Lewis embrace Thursday at a New York reception honoring them and other inductees into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame.

The hardcover edition of "Iacocca: An Autobiography" entered its 51st printing this week, 15 months after it went on sale, and set a publishing record, with 2,610,000 copies in print, the publisher said.

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Entertainer Marie Osmond says she's hurt deeply by supermarket tabloids that portray her as a "wayward black sheep" who cares little for the principles of her Mormon faith.

Ms. Osmond, 25, delivered the keynote speech

Thursday at a women's health conference sponsored by the Utah Valley Regional Medical Center and Brigham Young University Health Services.

She told about 1,500 women that sensational stories "hurt me deeply, especially when they attack my motherhood, womanhood and beliefs.

Ms. Osmond was divorced last October from her husband of three years, former BYU basketball player Steve Craig, and was granted custody of their son, 2-year-old Stephen Craig.

MIAMI (AP) - Fresh from filming a fourth-anniversary show on board the plane that brought them to town, cast members of "Late Night with David Letterman" descended on Miami.

"Miami's a great place. Sun, good weather, the hotel's perfect. 'Miami Vice'...sexy crime, that's us all right," Letterman said after his arrival Thursday. He and his entourage filmed a

Ranger coach House borrows Soviet 'secret'

FORT WORTH (AP) - Call it "detente" at work in its purest form, if you will, but Texas Rangers pitchers may throw harder in 1986 because of an idea Texas pitching coach Tom House has borrowed from the House, whose revolutionary ideas about pitching have sometimes brought him wary glances from old-line baseball people, has ventured into track and field for this latest brainstorm that he believes already has helped some Rangers pitchers.

What House hopes to incorporate into the Rangers' pitching staff are the same ideas that have made competitors from the Soviet Union and the Eastern bloc nations the finest javelin throwers in the world.

"What they (the Russians) have found biomechanically," House said from his home in San Diego, Calif., "is if you treat your head like the hub of a wheel and get that hub as far out over your landing leg as you can, then the levers in your arm get more on the javelin, impart more force, and you can throw it farther."

So what does javelin throwing have to do with pitching?

"We're thinking of applying that to pitchers, getting them to throw their head out over and above that landing leg, beyond the knee," House explained. "That way, they release the ball closer to home plate."

HOUSE EVEN provides a home demonstration with his theory.

"You can experiment yourself," House said. "Firmly plant your feet, like you're going to be throwing at a wall. See how far you can reach. Now, move your head out six inches in front of your knee and it extends your reach another eight inches. It enables a guy to be, quote, 'sneaky

House said the idea of using the javelin theory for baseball was developed in conversations with former big league pitcher Don Rowe, a traveling pitching coach in the San Francisco organization last season. Rowe is also a baseball coach at Orange Coast College in Huntington Beach, Calif.

"He has access to a Russian translator," House said. "There's a lot of information floating around from the Eastern bloc nations about what they're doing over there. The Russian and Eastern bloc javelin throwers are the standard by which others try to measure themselves."

HOUSE BEGAN incorporating the javelin idea with some of the young Rangers pitchers last season.

"I've been using the ideas, the basics, for going on three years,' House said. "What I don't want to do is put in Bobby's (manager Bobby Valentine) mind that I'm doing something witch-doctorish. This is proven stuff, and I refined the approach of teaching it at the San Die-go School of Baseball.

"It all breaks down to throwing, which involves some absolutes, whether it's throwing javelins, baseballs, or rocks at your little sister. The basics are there, no matter what is involved in the throwing motion. All I'm doing is borrowing what amounts to a more efficient approach to throwing mechanics and applying them to pitching a

House's theory may be at least par-tially responsible for Matt Williams, the 26-year-old righthander obtained from Toronto in the Cliff Johnson trade, regaining his fastball after coming to Texas.

"MATT WILLIAMS brought his own fastball back," House said. "He took the information and made it work for him. It wasn't a fact that Matt had lost his fastball because of physical things, but because of me-chanical things. He had the most results the quickest (of any of the Rangers pitchers). But there were other things involved, including a conditioning program.

Williams was the Blue Jays' No. 1 draft choice out of Rice in 1981, a righthander who somehow lost the zip off his fastball during five years in the Toronto minor league system. That's why he was available when the Rangers put Johnson on the

"Matt was down in the low-80s (mph), and he had a tender shoulder because he'd been throwing wrong,' House said. "He wasn't hurt, but he wasn't quite right. The whole combination (of House's javelin theory, conditioning work, etc.) helped him regain his fastball. They had him on the gun in Seattle 88-91 (mph) late in the season, and he's been consistently in the upper 80s in winter ball."

BUT HOUSE doesn't want to take credit for Williams' turnaround. "All I was was a conduit for the information," House said. "He took it and made it work for him."

House is concerned that Valentine and Rangers general manager Tom Grieve will get nervous about his theories because they don't necessarily agree with more conservative approaches to teaching pitching.

"I'm not being the mad professor."

"I'm not being the mad professor," House said. "What I'm doing is trying to put state-of-the-art informa-tion with my experience as a pitching coach.

"I don't have all the answers,"
House said, "but what I'm willing to do is bust my tail to come up with good information and then teach my tail off to the pitchers I have."

Rockets wave wand, trip Kings for 22nd win at home

Associated Press

It takes more than injuries and ejections to keep the Houston Rockets from winning at home.

"When teams come in here now, it starts with the skycaps at the airport telling them how the Rockets are going to whip them," Robert Reid said after he came off the bench to lead Houston to a 124-107 NBA victory over Sacramento, the Rockets' 22nd victory in 23 home games this

Starting forward Rodney McCray played only two minutes because of a bruised leg and Ralph Sampson was ejected in the third period when he was whistled for his second technical foul. The first followed a brief scuffle with the Kings' Otis Thorpe and the second came when Sampson argued an official's call.

The Rockets won 43 games and lost 119 in the two seasons that ended in 1984, but their near-invincibility at home has left them with the league's third-best record overall

"In the old days, teams would say, 'chalk up a victory, we're going to Houston," said Reid, who had 23 points on 11-for-17 shooting and 10 rebounds. "Now we say, 'thank you for showing up, the victory will be

Akeem Olajuwon, who scored 22 points, also avoided disqualification for the Rockets, playing the whole fourth quarter with four fouls. Sampson had 12 points and five rebounds in the first half, leading Houston to a 59-53 advantage. Despite his ejection, the Rockets extended the margin to 98-85 at the end of the third period and pushed their advantage to 105-87 in the fourth Bibliotheque Nationale items to be on tour in U.S.

Hearst News Service

France's Bibliotheque Nationale which contains everything from Celtic burial treasure to letters from the Marquis de Sade — is one of the world's least known cultural trea-

For centuries only scholars have been allowed to see the works stored there but, according to an article in the January issue of Connoisseur, the B.N. is starting to go public and is even planning a 1968 tour that will include four American cities.

The tour will boast only a fraction of the B.N.'s 100,000 manuscripts, 12 million books and 15 million prints and drawings.

The B.N. dates back to 1367 or 1368 when Charles V began a manuscript collection. It was enhanced in the 15th century by Louis XI.
In 1573 a law was enacted — which remains in effect - obliging all French printers and publishers to donate a copy of everything they produce to the Bibliotheque. The Bibliotheque's collection more than doubled after the French Revolution of 1789, enriched by the contents of rich abbeys and aristocrats' houses.

Among the B.N.'s treasures are the manuscripts of Beethoven's "Appassionata" and Proust's "A La Recher-che du Temps Perdu," two of the surviving Gutenberg Bibles, works

The B.N. has collections of everything from ancient maps to botanical engravings, from Celtic burial treasure to Greek coins, from comic books to century-old proclamations.

The treasures to go on tour include Marie Antoinette's luxury copy of the U.S. Constitution, Mozart's autograph score of "Don Giovanni" written without a single correction, Beethoven's scrawled and revised "Appassionata," Proust's manuscripts, letters of the Marquis de Sade and books bound for royalty in velvet, ivory and precious mosaic.

Only visitors armed with letters from recognized scholars or impressive personal introductions can gain access to the B.N.'s treasures. Roger Pierrot, the head of its manuscripts

The B.N. wants more people to know of its treasures, Michael Peppiatt said, but it is not about to fling open its doors.

"The Bibliotheque Nationale is a research facility," said its general ad-ministrator, Andre Miquel. "It will never be for the man on the street who wants to come in and read a mystery thriller. Dollar declines

LONDON (AP) - The U.S. dollar was declining against Europe's major currencies today after slumping to a seven-year low against the Japanese yen in Tokyo. Gold prices were higher.

Foreign exchange dealers said their markets were influenced by the remarks of Japan's finance minister, Noboru Takeshita, that the dollar could fall to about 190

The dealers said that dollars were being sold speculatively because a weaker dollar is expected over the next few days following Wednesday's announcement of a lower-than-expected growth rate in the U.S. economy in the last quarter of 1985.

Other Friday morning rates for the dollar compared with Thurday's late rates:

-2.4300 West German marks, down from 2.4485 -2.05825 Swiss francs, down from 2.0755

-7.4645 French francs, down from 7.5300

-2.7375 Dutch guilders, down from 2.7620 -1,659.50 Italian lire, down from 1,670.75 -1.40805 Canadian dollars, up from 1.40415

Gold bullion dealers said their metal was rising in steady trading, citing early professional buying and the weaker dollar. One London dealer said, "We might see the market a bit higher later today." He predicted gold would range today between $350 and $360 a troy ounce.

Gold was quoted late Thursday in New York at a bid of $350.75 compared with $350.50 there late Wednesday.

Gold opened in London today at $353.75, moved up to $355.25 and was fixed at that price midmorning by the five major London dealers. London gold closed Thursday at $350.50.

In Zurich, gold opened at $355.00 and was being traded later at $355.50 against Thursday's late $350.50.

MARKETS Oil prices 'shieked' up again

Slide again for sixth straight day

By JOHN C. GIVEN

AP Business Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices have slipped again, shaken by a Sau-di warning of possible world economic chaos, but stronger prices for futures contracts indicated that some stability remained in the Unconfirmed reports that oil from the Soviet Union was not being sold because of customer dissatisfaction with higher proposed Soviet prices helped bolster the market Thursday, analysts said.

When trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange stopped Thursday, contracts for March delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, stood at $19.82 a barrel, while prices of all other monthly contracts through August as Intermediate was down from Wednesday's $20.39 close, but its opening price on the exchange was sharply lower — $18.75.

That price reflected turmoil in the London market, where trading had been conducted for several hours. When it ended, Brent North Sea crude for delivery in February was selling at $18.30 a barrel, up from a morning low of $17.70 but down from Wednesday's late price of $19.90 a barrel.

The turbulence began when Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi Arabian oil minister, told an interviewer that Britain and other non-OPEC producing nations must cooperate with the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in limiting production to control prices.

Otherwise, "There will be no limitation to the downward price spiral which may bring crude prices to less than $15 a barrel, with adverse and dangerous consequences for the whole world economy," he was quoted as telling OPEC's official news agency

In New York later, prices generally strengthened throughout the day but still closed lower than Wednesday's prices. February contract prices for gasoline and heating oil were down sharply.

Futures contracts for April through August delivery of West Texas Intermediate settled between $19.88 and $20.50 a barrel, indicating that the market is not yet betting on a fall beyond present levels.

What the day tells us is, yes, in fact, there may be a floor to this whole thing," said Peter Beutel, an analyst with Rudolf Wolff Futures Inc., "People just said, 'Maybe we've gone too far too fast in the last eight Hands go up at the New York Mercantile Exchange Thursday as traders signal their bids in the oil trading area. Prices slid for the sixth straight day, plunging sharply after the Saudi oil minister warned that the recent fall of prices could lead to world economic chaos.

Coke gets 'juiced' for one up on Seven-Up

By SKIP WOLLENBERG AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Coca-Cola's introduction of a new line of juice-added soft drinks is an effort to capitalize on the trend recognized by industry analysts who say consumers want something nutritious from their sodas and like to feel virtuous sipping them.

The nation's biggest soft drink maker is following the lead of No. 2 Pepsi-Cola with its entry into the juice-added category, announced

PepsiCo Inc. has been selling the juice-added lemon-lime drink Slice for about a year and introduced Mandarin Orange Slice, an orangeflavored drink, this week. Both contain 10 percent fruit juice and feature the slogan, "We Got the Juice!"

Coca-Cola Co. is taking the concept a step further, introducing orange and lemon-lime soft drinks that contain not only added fruit juice but extra vitamins, such as Vitamin C, that are naturally found in juice.

The 10 percent juice sodas will go on sale next month under Coca Cola's Minute Maid brand in both regular and diet versions.

Coca-Cola isn't emphasizing the extra vitamins in its advertisements, although it will be noted on the can. 'Minute Maid Soda is simply an additional source of these vitamins and will not be marketed as a dietary substitute for other nutritional beverages," said Brian G. Dyson, presi-

Oil price cuts may be slow to hit gas pumps

By MELLA McEWEN Business/Oil Writer

While oil analysts say sliding oil prices could be a shot in the arm to the economy, create almost a million new jobs and save consumers $70 a year in gasoline, local refiners and gasoline distributors aren't so sure.

"I'm sure the lower prices will be passed on, I'm just not sure all of the price will be passed on," said Wally Whittington, refinery manager at the Cosden refinery in Big Spring.

Consumers shouldn't expect to see dramatically lower prices at the pump immediately, one local distributor commented. "The forces of the market don't allow oil and gasoline prices to run on the same track. You have to take into account the costs of getting the crude out of the ground, to the refinery to the gas pump. The value of the inventory doesn't allow gas prices to move overnight."

Another reason for the lag is that refiners have had such low profitability, and had to dramatically cut their margins, that the slide in crude prices is a chance for them to improve their profits. Rich Hansen, a spokesman for Shell Oil Co. in Houston, said "There was a time, under price controls, when the rule of thumb was that a dollar change in crude oil prices was equal to a two or three cent change at the pump. A lot of people continue to use that ratio, and it's almost worthless. The law said every change in supply cost had to be passed on." He continued to say that, since deregulation, the cost of crude oil is no longer a major factor in gasoline prices at the pump. "It does have an important impact, but competition determines the price change, not necessarily crude oil prices. The most important factor is competition in the streets, between refiners and gasoline dealers."

"Gasoline is a very competitive market, and it's a mature, flat market. Five years ago the market was growing," Hansen commented. "Now, it's no longer growing, and the only way to grow is to take away from your competitor, and the price is a sure way to do that."

Local distributors agreed that their prices have been steadily slipping, and Hansen noted that a drop in crude prices was anticipated and some of the change was already discounted in the price of gasoline. "But poone expected the price to drop that far that fast

Although analysts say the lower prices could help improve the balance of trade, creating new jobs and putting more money in the hands of consumers, the drop in crude prices is also bad news. Bad news for countries like Mexico and Brazil, dependent on oil to help pay their mountainous debt, and the banks that lent these countries the money, and the banks that have heavy energy loans, and states like Texas who get most of their revenues from the oil and gas industry, who are all keeping a close on oil prices. As Ralph Arrell with Eddins Walcher warned, "If consumers are excited about $.50 a gallon gasoline, they'd better think about the other side. If crude oil drops far enough, gasoline might be $.50, but noone will have jobs to pay for the gas.

Wal-Mart plans wholesale club near Deauville Mall

From Staff Reports

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. will build a Sam's Wholesale Club in Midland, to be located at Loop 250 at State Highway 191, a part of the development near the proposed Deauville Mall.

The 106,000 square foot warehouse, which should begin construction this spring, will employ approximately 115 full and part-time employees when it opens, according to Stacey Duncan, coordinator of corporate and public affairs for Wal-Mart. Completion is projected for early 1987.

The warehouse club sells top quality, name-brand merchandise, on a cash-and-carry basis, to members only, including owners and operators of small businesses and selected employment groups. This concept depends on high volume to compensate for very narrow profit margins, resulting in extremely low prices to

Permian Basin firm sues Exxon for $110 million

HOUSTON (AP) - A New Mexico oil company has sued Exxon USA for $110 million, alleging it attempted to exclude competition and monopolize production at a field in southwestern Wyoming.

In the lawsuit, Yates Petroleum Corp. claims Exxon has tried to monopolize the production and sale of methane, carbon dioxide, helium, sulphur and other products separated from the raw gas produced at the Madison Formation.

The suit, filed Wednesday in federal court, said Exxon developed the project as part of a scheme to eliminate Yates and other minority working interest owners from competing with Exxon. working interest owners from competing with Exxon.

Yates is seeking $60 million in actual damages, $50 million in exemplary damages and asking that it be restored to the percentage of ownership to which it is entitled.

Exxon spokesman Les Rogers said he had not seen the lawsuit and had no comment.

EXPLORATION HIGHLIGHTS Lea reentry nets 78 barrel strike

From Staff Reports

A Lea County re-entry has yielded a Wolfcamp discovery, immediately north and slightly west of the Mescalero West field.

DWIGHT A. TIPTON completed the No. 1 State "DX" to pump 78 barrels of crude, 150 Mcfd and 30 barrels of water from perforations 8,752 to 8,768 ft.

Scheduled as an 8,250 ft. plugback operation, Tipton re-entered and cleaned out the well to the original depth of 11,334 ft., and plugged it backto 8,968 ft.

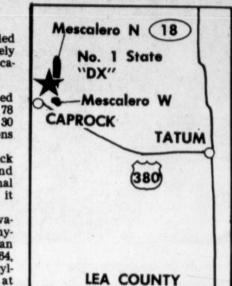

Formation tops, on ground elevation of 4,343 ft., include the Anhydrite at 1,470 ft., Yates at 2,193, San Andres at 3,460, Glorieta at 4,864, Tubb at 6,320, Abo at 7,110, Pennsylvanian at 8,310, Mississippian at 10,794, and the Devonian at 11,318 ft. Pay was topped at 8,752 ft.

Location is 1,979.5 ft. from north and 1.990 ft. from west lines of Section 33, T10s, R32e.

Lea producer tests to flow 494 barrels

YATES PETROLEUM CORP. added a strong Strawn producer to the Northeast Lovington field of Lea County with completion of the No. 1 Hummingbird "ADM" State.

On potential test, the well flowed 494 barrels of 44 gravity crude, 744 Mcfd and no water on a 16/64 inch choke with a flowing tubing pressure of 940 psi. The well is flowing from perforations 11,524 to 11,566 ft., which had acidized with 3,000 gal-

South Corbin field aets 370 barrel well

The South Corbin field of Lea County gained a strong Wolfcamp producer when SOUTHLAND ROY-ALTY CO. completed the No. 1 Huber "17" Federal.

The well completed to flow 370 barrels of 48.2 gravity crude and 20 barrels of water on a 14/64 inch choke with a flowing tubing pressure of 420 psi. Production is from perforations 10,870 to 10,910 ft., with no treatment reported.

Drilled to 11,440 ft., where 5 1/2 inch casing was set, the well was plugged back to 11,000 ft.

The well topped the Yates at 3,636 ft. and Delaware at 5,125 ft. on ground elevation of 3,849.4 ft. Pay was topped at 10,870 ft.

Location is 660 ft. from south and west lines of Section 17, T18s, R33e.

Bone Spring producer flows 257 barrels oil

To the northeast of the Southland Royalty completion, EL PASO EX-PLORATION CO. completed the No. 1 Caviness, a strong Bone Spring producer in the Mescalero Escarpe

On potential test, the well flowed 257 barrels of 39 gravity crude, 334 Mcfd and no water on a one inch choke with a flowing tubing pressure of 70 psi. Production is from perforations 8,706 to 8,700 ft., natural.

The well reached a total depth of Formation tops, on ground eleva-tion of 4,000 ft., include the Rustler 4,256, Grayburg at 4,692, San Andres at 5,026, Bone Springs at 6,680, First Springs at 8,258, and the Second Bone Spring at 8,883 ft. Pay was topped at 8,706 ft.

Location is 1,980 ft. from south and west lines of Section 11, T18s, R33e.

Union Texas potentials third Glasscock well

UNION TEXAS PETROLEUM CORP., Midland, added a third Strawn producer to the 10 month-old R.W.P. field of Glasscock County with completion of the No. 2 Glass.

On potential test, the well flowed 40 barrels of 39.3 gravity crude, 208 Mcfd and two barrels of water on a 19/64 inch choke with a flowing tubing pressure of 90 psi. Production is from perforations 9,366 to 9,380 ft., which had been acidized with 2,000 gallons 15 percent acid and fractured with 30,000 gallons frac and

Drilled to 9,500 ft., where 5 1/2 inch casing was set, the well was plugged back to 9,455 ft.

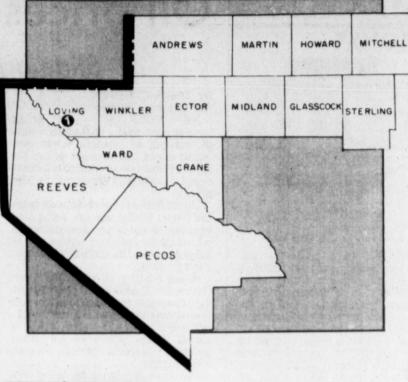

Formation tops, on ground eleva-tion of 2,718 ft., include the Yates at 1,650 ft., Clearfork at 3,640, Spra-berry at 5,450, Dean at 6,800, Wolfcamp at 8,610, and the Strawn at 9,360 ft. Pay was topped at 9,360 ft. Location is 660 ft. from north and

1,240 ft. from east lines of Section 10. Block 33, T-5-S, T&P survey, 10 miles southeast of Garden City

Union Texas completed the discovery well, the No. 1 TXL "3", on Feb. 19, 1985 to flow 50 barrels of 42 gravity crude, 73 Mcfd and five barrels of water from perforations 9,339 to 8,920 ft., where 5 1/2 inch casing was set, and plugged back to 8,885 ft.

Railroad Commission extends 100 percent oil allowable

PD 2,300.

AUSTIN (AP) - The Railroad Commission on Monday extended the 100 percent statewide oil allowable through February.

Field was held to 86 percent of production capacity to prevent possible waste of crude oil in the large field. Setting the allowable at 100 percent has become routine. It has been at that level, with the exception of a few months years ago, since April Major buyers of Texas crude submitted oil nominations totaling 2,252,995 barrels a day next month, a decrease of 21,086 barrels a day from

Chairman Buddy Temple noted in announcing the allowable that crude oil and petroleum imports imported into the United States averaged 5,573,000 barrels per day for the four weeks ending Dec. 27, an increase of 879,000 barrels per day from the same period last year.

Here are the major purchasers'

nominations for February, in barrels per day, with any changes from January in parentheses

Amoco 164,000 (down 2,000) Chevron 138,500 Conoco 71,000 Exxon 290,000 (down 2,100) Mobil 160,500 (up 300) Phillips 83,000 Shell 111,700 (down 1,000) Texaco 91,100

Union of California 25,500 The next statewide oil allowable hearing has been scheduled for Feb. 10 in Austin.

Sun discovery pumps 3700 barrels

DALLAS (SWN) A 3,700-barrel-per-day discovery on the Point Sal Unit, Santa Maria Basin, Offshore California, was announced by Sun Exploration and Production Co., managing general partner of Sun Energy Partners. OCS-P-0422 No. 1, a new fault block discovery, adjoins blocks OCS-P-0415 and OCS-P-0416 on which three other exploration successes previously were announced.

The discovery well reached a total depth of 8,300 feet and recovered oil from three tests in the Monterey and Lower Sisquoc formations. The tests were in an interval between 4,800 and 6,150 feet at a consolidated flow rate of 3,687 barrels per day with gravities between 11 degrees and

As operator of the Point Sal Unit (formerly known as the Tricia Area), Sun has a 19.75 percent participating interest. Other interest owners included Ladd Petroleum Corporation (17.09 percent); Frontier Fuels, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Primary Fuels, Inc. (14.18 percent); Texas Eastern Petroleum Company (10.43 percent); Celeron Oil and Gas Company, a subsidiary of The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company (10.14 percent); Samedan Oil Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of Noble Affiliates, inc., (8.45 percent); New England Energy, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of New England Electric Systems (8.45 percent); Reading and Bates Petroleum Company (7.32 percent); Sabine Corporation (3.44 percent); and Ogle Petroleum, Inc. (0.75 percent).

Charter reaches agreement to sell its Houston refinery

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) - The Charter Co. says it will sell its Houston refinery to Hill Petroleum Co. for $30 million in cash.

The sale to Hill, a subsidiary of Philbro-Salomon Inc. of New York, is subject to approval of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Jacksonville. Charter filed for protection in the court

Charter previously had agreed in principle to sell the refinery to Channel Refinery Inc. of New York. The period for reaching a definitive agreement expired while negotiations were still in progress, said Jo-anne Stone, a spokeswoman for Charter. In another sale of a Charter property, Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, which lost in its bid for Charter's Northeast Petroleum Corp. to an 11th-hour bidder on Jan. 17, has asked U.S. Banksuptcy Judge

George L. Proctor to reopen bidding for the Boston-based wholesale heating oil-marketing subsidiary.

Proctor ruled last week that the $13.25 million bid for Northeast's plan and equipment by Atlantic Petroleum Corp. of Philadelphia was the highest and best offer.

Cargill had submitted a bid of $10.95 million on Dec. 16. Attorneys for Cargill contend that Atlantic's bid was not properly sub-mitted and was not filed by the Jan.

Proctor has scheduled a hearing next week to consider Cargill's request. No hearing date has been set on the refinery sale. The agreement with Hill, based in Krotz Springs, La., on the refinery sale calls for a $30 million cash payment. The earlier Channel offer was payment in cash and notes.

INVESTOR'S GUIDE

'REITs' are closed-end investments

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I am interested in investing in real estate investment trusts paying higher returns than corporate bonds. It is my understanding that some of these "REITs" are not closed-end and are involved in commercial renting enterprises. How can I obtain information about them?

A. First off, your understanding is wrong. All REITs are closed-end investment companies.

Mutual funds are open-end investment companies because they stand ready to redeem their shares on any business day. Most mutual funds also continuously offer new shares for sale.

Closed-end investment companies, on the other hand, neither redeem old shares nor continuously sell new shares. As is the case with all investor owned closed-end investment companies, shares of REITs can be bought and sold in the open market. Some REIT stocks are listed on stock exchanges. Most are traded in the over-the-counter market. Different REITs make various types of real es tate investments. Some concentrate on owning property, some on lending. Still others do both. Although there are exceptions, most REITs hold many different investments. That diversification is aimed at reducing risk.

As is the case with most investment companies, REITs collect income from their investments and, after deducting their operating expenses, pass that money along to shareholders as dividends. The average dividend yield from REITs for 1985 was 9.8 percent. That's was lower than the average interest yield from high-grade corporate bonds. However, the market prices of many REIT stocks rose smartly last year — giving REIT investors a high "total return" in dividend yield, plus market value increase.

You can obtain information about individual REITs from many brokerage firms or by writing the National Association of Real Estate Investment Trusts, 1101 17th Street, N.W., Suite 700, Washington, DC 20036.

Just remember that, like all types of stocks, REIT share values can fall from time to time. Investors with reasonably long memories recall the 1970s, when many REITs went bankrupt and virtually all REIT stocks plunged.

Q. In 1981, I invested in an oil and gas drilling fund as a tax shelter. In 1982, I was assessed an additional $2,500 in this limited partnership, making my total investment $12,500. This has been an exceptionally poor investment, from which I have received no income.

I asked both the brokerage firm that sold this to me and the company for a letter stating my investment is worthless, so that I will be able to take a tax loss. Neither would provide it. How can such a letter?

A. You can't, at least not yet. The oil and gas drilling fund you named in your letter is still in business. Your limited partnership isn't worthless. You receive a Form K-1 after the close of each year, providing information to report on your tax

If the general partner goes bankrupt, you'll be notified by a court-appointed trustee. Even then, your limited partnership might not have lost all its

Q. I have $20,000 in a no-load mutual fund that holds U.S. government securities. This is my life's savings. Is there any possibility at all I could lose even part of my money? If so, I will take my money out and put it in a CD.

A. The values of fixed-income securities, includng those issued by our federal government, go in the opposite direction of interest rates. The same applies to shares of mutual funds holding fixedncome securities.

So, if interest rates go up, the value of your nutual fund will fall. On the other hand, if interest ates go down, the value of your investment will ise. And, if interest rates stay steady, so will your nvestment's value.

If you are adamant about avoiding all risk, your money should be in certificates of deposit at a ederally insured bank or savings and loan

Mexico may be unable to pay debt because of oil prices

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico could be forced to halt interest payments on its $96.4 billion foreign debt or seek emergency aid from the United States and international bankers if oil prices tumble to $20 a barrel and stay there, some private analysts say.

The fall in oil prices in recent days has raised new concerns about the ability of Mexico, the second largest debtor in the developing world after Brazil, to maintain payments on its debts and shore up its sagging

"It puts Mexico back in its financial position, the recovery of the economy and its standing with creditors," said Javier Murcio, economist at the private forecasting firm of Data Resources Inc. in Lexington,

Robert Pastor, Fulbright professor at the Colegio de Mexico in Mexico City, said, "The further decline of oil prices could really set back every-thing the country has been trying to do for the last couple of years."
"It would be a disaster," he said,

"if prices continued to fall, particularly if they fell below $20 a barrel."

Ignacio Trigueros, director of economic research at the Mexican Autonomous Institute of Technology, said, "It's a very unfortunate situa-tion because of the foreign exchange that the country loses. Mexico depends heavily on oil sales to bring in revenues to make interest and principal payments on the debt and to buy imports of raw materials, spare parts and other needed goods. The drop in oil prices affects the Latin American debtor nations differently. Like Mexico, oil-producers Venezuela and Ecuador will see the expected earnings needed to help pay their debts shrink. Their debts, however, are considerably smaller at $35 billion and $7 billion respectively.

Such oil importers as Brazil, which has a $100-billion debt, will benefit from the decline.

Mexico earned about $15 billion from oil in 1985, and a one-dollar drop in oil prices translates into a loss to Mexico of $1.5 million daily, or about $550 million a year. Mexico is scheduled to pay $2.6 billion to creditors this quarter, according to local press reports.

In recent days prices in the world petroleum market have slipped, in some cases below $20 a barrel for the

Mexico is the world's fourth largest producer of crude and the single biggest supplier to the United States. It is not a member of the oil cartel, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The government oil monopoly, Petroleos Mexicanos, or Pemex, does not sell on the spot market, supplying its crude only under contract. Its export prices differ by geographical area. The cost to the United States is $26.25 a barrel for light Isthmus crude and $22.00 for the heavy Maya brand, which makes up about 60 percent of its sales.

Its export target is 1.5 million barrels a day.

The government anticipated weakness in the market when drafting financial plans for 1986. Analysts say it assumed a $3 decline in oil prices to the low 20s in its budget and its request for an additional $4.8 billion from international bankers and financial organizations. But the new decline in oil prices raises the possibility that Mexico will have to ask for more Murcio said that if oil prices averaged $20 for the year, Mexico would need an additional $2 billion to $2.5 billion from creditors in 1986.

In Washington, a U.S. Treasury of-ficial said Mexico may need up to $6.5 billion this year if the oil price goes down further, but added that at the present level of about $20 a bar-Mexico's situation is containable.

David C. Mulford, assistant secretary of the Treasury for international affairs, provided the estimate during testimony to a subcommittee or the Joint Economic Committee. He had said earlier that nations like Nigeria and Peru will get fewer new loans unless they keep up payments on their old ones.

Jonathan Heath, senior economist at Wharton Econometrics' Mexico forecasting project in Philadelphia, said that if prices plummeted below $20, Mexico would be forced "to consider not paying interest payments for the year or even calling a default on amortization payments.

"It's too much of an amount to adjust for unless the United States and the international financial community come up with an extraordinary package to rescue Mexico," Heath

Fix-up grant received

The city of Midland has received a $650,000 grant for tenant property rehabilitation on the east and south sides, according to Nancy Vickrey, manager of the Eastside Economic Announcing the details at the task force's meeting last night, she said that $325.00 will be used by landlords to rehabilitate their rental property, and the other $325,000 will be used as a voucher system for the tenants. She added that the county will match, dollar for dollar, up to $5,000 what the property owner invests in rehabilitation. "We've got to get people to invest in property that needs investment," she said.

Also at the meeting, Virgina Connor reported that the city has donated some property at Orchard and Highway 80 for a landscaping project, working in conjunction with the Clean Midland organization.

Richard Hennessy, with the city's Planning and Zoning Commission, discussed extending Lamesa north of Loop 250 through south of Interstate 20. "Commercial development demands good access. Also, if you want retail development, you need an intersection of two major streets, and there's not any on the east side. The closest is Big Spring and Scharbauer," he noted.

He said the commission has completed plans for an extension of Lamesa, but that the city has no plans to carry out the plans, which would require substantial acquisition right of way. He advised task force members to get the city to put the project on the capital improvements list.

Vickrey, who was named manager on Jan. 6, made a report on various prgrams to aid in economic development, such as small business incuba tors and the Small Business Institute, which works with colleges and universities, using students to help small businesses with their problems. "There's all kinds of programs out there for economic development, and the more we know about them, the more we can accomplish," she added.

In other business, the group agreed to look into incorporating as a non-profit organization to facilitate working with the city. The only controversy, and a mild one, was where to establish a checking account. Vickrey suggested Community National Bank, but other members recommended RepublicBank First National because of its support for the task force. The bank donated the group's offices in the Paragon Building. Also, an accounting was made of the group's two grants, for $15,000 and $35,000 made to assist in their efforts to gather information and come up with a plan for development of the east side.

Jesse Meyers, who publishes Beverage Digest, an industry newsletter, said he expects the industry will offer more drinks with added juice and vitamins.

"It used to be that you sold soft drinks on the basis of taste and refreshment," he said. "Now it is taste, refreshment and image enhancement. If your perception of the drink is that it is good for you, then the drink category will grow."
Atlanta-based Coca-Cola currently is the leading soft-drink concern with about 39 percent of the market, followed by PepsiCo at 28 percent and Seven-Up with 7 percent, according to Meyers. One percentage point equals about $100 million in

Midlander sentenced to 40 years in prison

By MARK LEWIS Staff Writer

A 24-year-old Midland man was sentenced to 40 years in prison Thursday after being convicted of breaking into a house to attack his ex-girlfriend with a machete.

Lenn Charles Lee, who still faces a murder indictment in Fort Worth, thanked the 142nd District Court jurors as they filed out of the

Prosecutors had asked the sevenwoman, five-man jury for a 99-year

Brenda Alexander had testified Tuesday that Lee kicked in the door of her aunt's home at 110 E. Cedar in the early morning hours of Sept. 25, 1984, and hacked her with a machete. According to Ms. Alexander, Lee had beaten her earlier that

Lee testified he "might have slap-ped" Ms. Alexander during an argument, but claimed he was waiting at the Trailways Station for a bus to Denver when the later attack

Ms. Alexander's doctor testified she will never regain full use of the last two fingers on her left hand, which were slashed to the bone during the attack.

Also slashed that night was her cousin Kenneth Alexander, who identified Lee as his assailant.

While Midland law-enforcement officers were seeking Lee for the Sept. 24, 1984, incident, they learned he had threatened the life of another Midland woman, according to a Midland sheriff's investigator.

The woman, Rosslyn Sowels, was then in Fort Worth. On Feb. 14, 1985, officers received information that Lee had gone there to kill her, said the investigator, who spoke on the condition he not be named.

The investigator immediately tried to alert the Fort Worth Police Department, "But it was just too late," he said.

While he was on the phone, the Fort Worth officer put him on hold, then came back to tell him Ms. Sowels had just been stabbed to

"I didn't sleep for a long time after that," the investigator said.

Lee was arrested in Fort Worth and charged with her murder and the attempted murder of Harvel Sowels, according to Janice Pullam of the Tarrant County District Clerk's Office. Those charges are still pending, but Lee was brought back to Midland on a bench warrant issued by 142nd District Judge Pat Baskin to face charges here.

He was convicted Wednesday of burglary of a habitation with intent to commit aggravated assault, a firstdegree felony with a penalty range of five to 99 years or life in prison. Though some jurors reportedly favored a 99-year sentence, another juror was reportedly holding out for 15 years, and the panel eventually settled on 40.

"As far as the punishment went, I was pleased," said Jeffrey Hinkley, Lee's court-appointed attorney.

The jury had been told of Lee's 1979 conviction for second-degree murder in Los Angeles. Certified as an adult at 17 and sentenced to eight years after pleading guilty to that crime, he was paroled in December 1982 and put on a plane to Midland, where he had been born and reared

The jurors did not know of the Fort Worth indictments, or that he faces four other indictments in Midland County: two for aggravated as-sault against Ms. Alexander and her cousin, one for allegedly punching Ms. Alexander's 12-year-old son in the stomach, and one for felony criminal mischief.

The criminal-mischief indictment accuses Lee of breaking nine car windows belonging to Ms. Sowels, an incident which also occurred on

Midland District Attorney Al Schorre said Thursday he had not decided whether to try Lee on the lesser indictments or ship him directly back to Fort Worth to face the murder and attempted-murder

The four remaining Midland in-dictments against Lee are all thirddegree felonies with a maximum sentence of 10 years. The aggravated-assault charges result from the same incident for which Lee was just convicted.

Because he used a deadly weapon, Lee must serve at least one-third of his 40-year sentence.

Assistant district attorneys David Rosado and Chuck Roades handled the prosecution during the trial, which began Tuesday.

Catheterization lab's opening expected to draw at least 500

By RON GILMORE Staff Writer

More than 500 to 600 people are expected to attend an opening recep-tion Saturday for Physicians and Surgeons Hospital's new $1 million catheterization laboratory, said a spokesman.

'The response has been real good," said Julie Faubel of ClayDesta Corp. The company is one-third own-er of P&S. "There will be a short ribbon-cutting ceremony at the lab itself and then most of the people will meet in the Atrium at ClayDesta

The ribbon-cutting will be held at 4 p.m. The reception at 5 p.m. will include hors d'oeuvres and cocktails.

Clayton Williams, head of Clay-Desta Corp., will address the crowd in opening statements before intro-ducing internationally-known cardi-ac surgeon Dr. Donald L. Bricker, the affair's key speaker.

Bricker is director of the Hemodynamics Lab at St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock, president of the Heart Institute of the Southwest at Methodist Hospital, clinical professor of sur-gery at Texas Tech University School of Medicine and has his own practice, Southwestern Cardiovascular Surgical Associates.

He has studied jointly for seven years with Drs. Michael E. DeBakey and Denton A. Cooley, was past di-rector of both the Michael E. DeBakey International Cardiovascular Surgical Society and the Denton A. Cooley International Cardiovascular Surgical Society.

The new catheterization lab, headed by Dr. P.V. Patel, a local cardiologist, will introduce new services pre-viously unavailable in the Midland

According to Patel, patients will now be able to undergo diagnostic procedures which will allow him to determine if bypass or valve surgery

Using a plastic catheter inserted into the patient's groin and threaded into the heart's arteries, Patel will inject an iodine dye which will reveal blockages and other problems. A film of the procedure can be viewed by Patel following the catheterization.

The process is done while the patient "is wide awake." takes about 30 to 45 minutes and will cost, on the average, about $2,000 to $3,000, according to Patel.

The new facility will save patients and doctors the drive to Odessa, where the nearest cath lab was

"I've been very frustrated," said Patel on Tuesday. "Before we had the...lab, patients had to go to Medical Center Hospital for what I consider to be a relatively minor procedure."

The new lab is part of the first phase of renovations planned by P&S, which is giving the former Parkview Hospital a facelift. Plans call for the upgrading of the 22-yearold hospital, which will serve as an interim facility until a newer $22 million hospital is constructed in the vicinity of ClayDesta Plaza.

P&S is owned by a group of local physicians and ClayDesta Corp. It was purchased from Hospital Corporation of America, a Nashville, Tenn., firm, in December following lengthy negotiations and investigations by the Federal Trade Commission.

The new lab, according to Patel, already is in use with several patients receiving treatment there.

The announcement was made Thursday at the association's first 1986 quarterly luncheon meeting at Midland Petroleum Club.

In presenting the first Trimble Service Award, the recipient was described as a man who not only is known throughout the community but who has brought national recognition to the Christmas in April program and to Midland. In 1981, he received the Governor's Award for Outstanding Volunteer Work and in 1982, in ceremonies at the White House, was present-

Trimble devotes much of his time throughout the year to promoting and planning the annual program to repair homes of those who cannot afford to do it themselves. He was credited with being responsible for success of the program, which has grown to include about 3,000 volunteers who, with a $100,000 budget, will make needed repairs to about 150 homes of low-income Midland residents this year.

Robert Rendall said, "Without Trimble there probably never would have been a Christmas in April....You don't have to look far in Midland to see the imprint of Bobby Trimble's handiwork. He has spent his life doing what he loves and hundreds have benefited from his generous use of time and talent.

Odessa's Medical Center Hospital installs $656,000 phone system

By RON GILMORE Staff Writer

ODESSA - Calls to Medical Center Hospital in Odessa will now be easier with today's installation of a $656,000 telephone system.

"At 10 p.m., MCH switched over to the Northern Telecom system installed by Communications Corporation of America," said Lynn Randall, telecommunications manager. "It replaces an obsolete system installed in 1977 and will give the caller the ability to dial directly to the frequently called hospital departments and patient rooms without the hospital's operators' assistance."

To call a patient's room directly until 9 p.m., you will dial 335-1 plus the patient's room number." she said. "An example is to call a patient in Room 325, you would dial 335-

Callers who do not know the telephone number of the department they need or a patient's room number can still call 333-7111 for

According to Ms. Randall, MCH receives about 40,000 calls a week.

The system that was replaced was obsolete, having gone out of production in 1979 and parts are very difficult to locate," she said. "Servicing difficulties, deregulated costs and the lack of time and/or money saving features are the reasons it has become necessary to replace the system at this time.

Ms. Randall stated that serious problems in February caused MCH to take a look at installing a new

"Our system went down for 36 hours," she said. "We were completely without phone service. That prompted us to fly in people from Kansas City and Denver who advised us on the new system."

Ms. Randall estimated that the new system will save the hospital approximately $150,00 per year.

"Northern Telecom is the second largest manufacturer of telecommunications equipment in North America and the SL-1 (the new system) is considered the workhorse of the telecommunications industry with a proven track record," she "The system is designed to avoid obsolescence.

Costs will be reduced, said Ms. Randall because CCA (the largest vendor other than AT&T) has lower rates than other services.

Rates were raised from 10 to 15 percent once the telephone industry was deregulated, she said.

The new phone system is modular in design which makes upgrades and updates easier, according to Ms. Randall. The SL-1 will be remotely checked from Dallas every 24 hours and any diagnosed problems will be automatically dispatched to a service

While Midland Memorial Hospital does not have Direct Inward Dialing for the patient rooms themselves, a spokesman said it had the capability of someday offering the service.

"MMH has a Dimension 2000 telephone system which allows more than 2,000 extensions to be added if necessary," said Sandra Moore-Dyr-enforth, PBX supervisor for MMH.

"Currently DID is reserved for adminstration, business office and nurses stations. I'm hoping one day we'll be able to have DID for the

some sort of system for billing the patient," she said. "As it stands right now, we have complete control. We ask the patient where the call is going and we bill them. If people were calling directly to the rooms, they could be calling collect long distance and there could be problems in billing.

Ms. Randall said there is no billing problem with MCH's new system.

"We're set up much like a hotel phone," she said. "They can call locally but if they call long distance their room is charged. If someone tries to call collect to the patient's room, the telephone company will intervene."

Ms. Moore-Dyrenforth adds that the phone systems at MCH and MMH are comparable in quality.

'Ours is definitely state-of-theart," she said. "It cost $250,000 to install in August 1984. The SL1 has the same amount of expansion capability as ours."

Nurses, volunteers ready for KMID's blood drive

From Staff Reports

Nurses and volunteers are gearing up for the third annual KMID Blood Drive, according to a spokesman.

"Because of the crowds last year, donation sites will be set up at Big 2 (air terminal) and at blood banks at both Midland Memorial Hospital and Medical Center Hospital in Midland," said Cynthia Brust, public relations director for MMH.

"A telethon will run from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the television station in conjunction with the blood drive. Both presidents - Sam Glenney of MCH and Ray Branson of MMH will kick off the drive."

The blood drive will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and KMID's live action camera will be filming the drive at all three locations. All blood donated will be divided equally between the two hospitals.

"The community is encouraged to donate blood and help us exceed last year's number of units of 265," said Ms. Brust. "We would like to reach more than 300 units this year."

Ms. Brust added a word of consolation to donors who are fearful of contracting the disease AIDS through giving blood.

"There is absolutely no way that you can get AIDS by donating blood," she said. "They will screen for AIDS and do all the normal testing of blood. All of the equipment is sterilized and only one needle per person is used." Ms. Brust stated that the annual blood drive began as a dual project to build up blood supplies and to promote a sense of unity between the two cities.

The idea originated in 1984, according to Mike Barker, managing editor of the news department at KMID, as "a project that would be as beneficial as possible and something that we could do with the two cities

The first year's donations amounted to 274 units, while last year's Interested donors must meet certain requirements. They must be between the ages of 18 and 65; minors can donate blood at age 17 if they have parental permission. Donors must weigh no less than 110 pounds and have had no major surgery with-in the last six weeks and must have been over a cold for at least 48 hours.

No one who has had a tattoo, skin grafts, acupuncture or ear piercing within the last six months may qualify nor will anyone who has given blood within the last eight weeks.

All donors must have been off certain medications for the last 12 to 24 hours and no one with heart trouble, cancer, hepatitis (yellow jaundice), diabetes or rheumatoid arthritis may donate blood.

While there are eight categories of blood, some are more in demand than others.

"It depends on what you are short of at the time," said a spokesman last year. "But we're usually short on O+, the most common, because of the great demand for it."

"A+ is another common blood type," she said. "But O minus is in great demand because anyone can take it. It's known as the universal donor.

Other blood types include A minus, AB+ and minus and B+ and

The blood bank goes through about 300 pints of blood in a month, according to the spokesman. "But it depends on what we do with the donation as to how far it goes. We can make plasma, platelets or red blood

Odessa trucking supervisor will run for Perkins' seat

By FRANK TROMBLEY Staff Writer

ODESSA - A 29-year-old trucking company inventory supervisor, saying he's slightly dissatisfied with present representation, Thursday formally announced his candidacy for the southside City Council seat now occupied by Place 1 Councilman Thomas Perkins.

Residential burglary reported

From Staff Reports

A $300 videocassette recorder was among several items reported stolen to police in the Wednesday burglary of a home at 1214 E. Estes, according to police reports.

Among other items reported missing by Charles Wayne Eadon were two pistols worth $100 each. The total value of the missing property was about $552, reports said.

In other reports, Jesus Rodriguez of the Unique Paint and Body Shop. 401 N. Terrell, reported the loss of a $200 sander and a $169 spray-paint machine in a Thursday burglary at

The incumbent, Democrat Jim Hightower, is using the agriculture commissioner's seat only as a stepping stone to a higher office. "When they wrote the Farm Bill he should have been there helping on it. Instead, he supported the Populist Farm Bill which is trying to get more government into farming.

Trompler said his background as a farmer will provide one of the most important qualities in today's leaders, common sense. And it fulfills one of the requirements of that position. That rule reads: "The commisioner must be an experienced and practical farmer and have knowledge of agriculture, manufacturing and general industry.

Although many farmers are suf-fering financially, Trompler said the future is bright if the United States can get itself into a position to be prepared when the Third World countries initiate more development and need to buy grain and meat. We need to be ready to sell our products," he said.

Trompler made his announcement during a four-city tour that also in-cluded Amarillo, Lubbock and Austin. He and his wife, Janice, and sons, Cory, 10, and Jody, 7, live on a 1,000 acre farm near Hillsboro.

Grievance procedures for state to be drafted

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White asked directors of the 14 largest state agencies Thursday to join with him in drafting standards for a state employee grievance procedure.

"Employees' morale and productivity improve when they can be assured that their concerns will be treated fairly and objectively," White said. "We owe this to our state employees."

Officials think man's kidnapping, death linked to damage settlement

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Investiga-tors say they believe the shooting death of an 18-year-old man, found buried in a shallow grave officers had watched for days, may be linked to a multimillion-dollar damage set-tlement the victim's family has Bexar County sheriff's deputies staked out the gravesite for more than two days before abandoning their vigil early Wednesday.

They returned about 12 hours later and found the body of John Cruz buried in the hole. Officers said he had been shot in the head at close Sheriff's Sgt. Dalton Baker said authorities are convinced Cruz was killed at the gravesite. He said officers also believe the grave was prepared for Cruz.

"We all feel pretty comfortable that he did know who this person was," Baker said. The investigator said officers think at least two people were involved in the killing.

Cruz apparently was kidnapped early Wednesday after he left his job at a convenience store, officers said. His family received two calls demanding ransoms of $26,000 and $30,000, said Lt. Albert Ortiz. They were told to wait for a third call to arrange a money drop. The call never came. Sheriff's officers said they did not learn of the kidnapping until after they found the body.

Attorney Pat Maloney Jr. said
Cruz and his family had begun receiving payments on a $2.4 million damage settlement from a lawsuit. The suit was filed against a tire manufacturing company after an al-

Man convicted of making terroristic threats to frighten off black tenants ment landlord has been convicted of making terroristic threats by having rat snakes released in his building to frighten off tenants.

A jury of four men and two women took 45 minutes Thursday to convict Jerry Redfearn of Whitehouse.

The jury then took 15 minutes to decide on a six-month suspended sentence and a $1,000 fine. Redfearn could have been sentenced to as much as a year in jail and a $2,000 be appealed.

Lawyers retained in Tech tenure dispute

Association said Thursday it has hired attorneys to represent the faculty at Texas Tech University in their tenure dispute with the Tech administration and regents.

The Legal Association's immediate goal is to try to bring the university administration into discussions about the policy, but failing that the association has every intention of seeking redress in the courts," Kenneth Margerison, association president, told a news conference. Margerison said the association also would furnish financial aid to the Texas Tech Faculty Legal Action been in effect since 1967

Margerison said the dispute results from a Tech tenure policy that was put into effect in September 1984 without submission to or approval of the Tech faculty. Prosecutors attack theory coach's killing drug-related

LIVINGSTON (AP) — Prosecutors have tried to discredit a defense attorney's theory that a junior high school football coach was murdered by underworld assassins and not the school principal charged in the

Hurley Fontenot, 48, former principal at Hull-Daisetta Woodson Junior High School, is on trial for the April 12 shooting of Billy Mac Fleming, 36, who coached and taught math and science at the school.

Both had dated and wanted to marry Laura Nugent, the 38-year-old school secretary, prosecutors Fleming's body was found 10 days later off an old logging road near this tiny East Texas community. He had been shot twice in the back of the head with a .22-caliber gun. Defense attorney Dick DeGuerin suggested that Fleming's death might be drug related. DeGuerin noted the coach was found without tor Jimmy Belt had testified he had heard of such a practice but had no first-hand knowledge.

However, Belt said investigators had found a white powder believed to be cocaine in Fleming's apart-ment. Belt also acknowledged he had heard that Fleming might have been involved with a man identified as a drug dealer.

But Montgomery County Attorney Jim Dozier told the 10-woman, twoman jury Thursday that he had never heard that leaving a victim with-out shoes and socks is a style or trademark of a drug-related killing. Dozier, a former U.S. Customs Ser-

rice officer who worked as an undercover narcotics agent, testified as an expert witness for the DeGuerin tried to keep Dozier from testifying, noting he was not on the prosecution's list of potential witnesses and was a former co-worker of prosecutor Peter Speers.

Dozier said he just happened to be in the Polk County courthouse and shoes and socks, "a curious similarity in such dope-related executions."

Liberty County sheriff's investiga-Speers asked him about the shoes-and-socks controversy.

Romanian defector's kin may join him in U.S.

AUSTIN (AP) — The family of a Romanian seaman who jumped ship in Houston could join him within 1½ or 2 years, according to the seaman's lawyer, who recently returned from a hush-hush trip to Romania.

Edward Roush Jr. said Romanian Christians used methods other than "normal mail and telephone" to make Paul Firica's family aware of Roush's trip earlier this month. Firica, 44, was granted political asylum Nov. 14.

Roush told a news conference Thursday he met with Firica's wife and older daughter, Gabriella, at night after taking a taxi to a prearranged location and walking 10 blocks on "streets of ice and mud." He said he used a map that he had memorized and destroyed prior to his trip. Later he visited the Firica home at Lumina.

Roush said he arranged the trip to see Firica's family "face to face, to know that they were alive and well," because of reports that Firica's house had been confiscated by the government, that the family had endured lengthy interrogations and that Gabriella had been fired from her job, which was the family's sole means of support.
"None of those facts are true," said

Roush.

Asked if he felt what he saw "was for real," Roush said the U.S. Embassy had informed him that the Romanian government "knew of my presence in the country, but I was not impeded in any way. I think (Secretary of State) George Schultz's recent visit there, coupled with the extensive publicity concerning his (Firica's) case has done nothing but help in protecting his family.'

He said according to the embassy and people in Firica's village, "the government has done everything they can to keep their hands off of Paul Firica's family.

He said the family's only contact with the "secret police" was when they "stopped by and asked for Paul's ID card." The family told the police Firica had his card, Roush

Roush said he obtained certified copies of birth certificates and the Firica marriage license, which will be sent to the Immigration and Naturalization Service in San Antonio. He said he was "very optimistic" that Firica's wife and two daughters, ages 17 and 23, could join him in Austin within 1½ to 2 years of the date he was granted asylum. The average time for reunification is 5 to 7 years, Roush said.

Roush said Firica was working as a laborer on the construction of a building at the Central Assembly of God Church and was living rent-free in an apartment owned by a local businessman.

Once he learns English better, and he starts classes Monday at the Uni-versity of Texas, Firica "plans to get a better job," said Roush. He said Firica is trained as a mechanic and engineer.

'Goddess rights' not limited to one firm, director says

AUSTIN (AP) - Sculptors who complained about one company's plan to produce and sell miniature replicas of the Goddess of Liberty statue could do the same thing if they accept the same guidelines, offi-

George Bristol, executive director of the Capitol Committee which is raising funds for Capitol restoration, said Thursday there was nothing improper in the contract with Barvo Walker, a sculptor and friend of House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort

Bristol said Walker "came to us to see if we would accept the gift. No other sculptor has approached us. "But any other group that met (the required) criteria - and if they want to put up the front money and do the work and get out and hustle - you bet I would (approve it)," he said.

Earlier this week, it was announced that Barvo Creations Inc. operated by Walker and Washington University Technology Associates, the state's Goddess of Liberty consultant — would be selling 21-inch repli-cas of the statue for $1,836 each.

The real Goddess, which stood atop the Capitol dome for 97 years, is being replaced with an exact duplicate. From each sale of a miniature replica, $642 is to be donated for Capitol restoration.

Other sculptors complained this week to several newspapers that the project could net a profit of $500,000 if all 1,000 miniatures are sold. They said they would like to have had a chance to bid on the project.

Bristol, saying Walker's friendship with Lewis had nothing to do with the deal, explained that Barvo Creations Inc. assumes all risks connected with the miniature Goddess

"The only position that the Capitol Committee took was that we get a fair share of the profits, approximately a third. I would point out that most of the royalties for Sesquicentennial-related products are from 6 to 10 percent. I cut a pretty good deal," Bristol said.

The only other major position that we took was that we had right of approval to make sure it was artistically accurate."

struction worker was about two minutes from death after a city sewer trench caved in and trapped him beneath muddy clay and rubble, officials said. Firefigther Robert Camplen said the 18-year-old man was without air for about four minutes and was "within two minutes" of death when rescuers cleared away enough dirt to uncover the man's head and revive him with an oxygen mask.

"It makes me feel pretty good when you save one like that," said firefighter Robert Verver, one of the first rescuers to reach the worker from a fire station about a block away. A hospital spokeswoman at Methodist Medical Center identified the man as Estaben Yenten and said he was in good condition. But a spokeswoman for Holt and Son Contracters, the man's employers, identified him as Estaben Tiscarino.

Officials said the man was trapped in the 15-foot pit shortly after 8 a.m. as he retrieved a shovel from the hole where the company had been contracted to replace an 8-inch sanitary sewer. "The kid dropped his shovel and jumped in to get it," said po-lice Cpl. Dick Hickman. "As he was coming out, the wall started to come down.

Rescuers had to use shovels and their bare hands because backhoes could not be safely used, Camplen said.

"All the big shovels wouldn't help us," said Camplen, whose knuckles were bloody from digging. "We had to get down there with hands and fingers."

White says he'll debate Democratic opponents before primary

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - Contrary to earlier reports from his campaign team, Gov. Mark White Thursday promised to debate his Democratic opponents before the May 3 primary.

White's campaign chairman John Fainter declined an offer from the Texas League of Women Voters for opponents in a televised debate. Fainter, White's former secretary of state, wrote the League Monday, 'Gov. White's state schedule is particularly heavy throughout the primary period, and we do not feel a debate during these months would be a productive commitment of the

Another campaign aide said the governor might consider debates after the primary.

fused the League of Women Voters debate only because the League set too early a deadline. He said he would welcome other debates.

"We'd be pleased to debate (our challengers)," he said. "We will continue to engage those who would raise issues of significance." Hours earlier, Dallas businessmen

Andrew C. Briscoe, one of White's Democratic foes, criticized the governor for breaking an earlier promcratic or Republican." He compared that broken promise to similar unfulfilled pledges concerning state taxes, a 24-percent pay raise for teachers and lower utility bills.

Comparing his underdog challenge of White to the biblical tale of David and Goliath, Briscoe said, "At least Goliath had the guts to come out and face his opponent.' Briscoe said he has 22 issues, topped by economics and education, on which he wants to challenge White. "I'll guarantee that Texans aren't as proud of Mark White's record as he is," he said.

The governor outlined one issue he would raise against another primary challenger, Dallas attorney A. Don Crowder. When he announced his candidacy Wednesday, Crowder said the state should consider a corporate income tax, a lottery or legalized gambling on horse racing to help pay its bills.

I'm opposed to it, would veto it and would urge a constitutional amendment to make certain we don't have an income tax, corporate or personal, in Texas," White responded Thursday. "As far as I'm concerned, that debate's over."

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Protestant politicians sought a massive voter rejection of November's British-Irish agreement on Northern Ireland in ballot counting that begins today in 15 parliamentary elections. However, Belfast radio station re-ported that the turnout would be lower than expected, and predicted that would deprive the Protestants of the 500,000-vote margin they had sought. A half-million votes is more than half of the total Northern Ireland electorate.

Final results were expected late

The Protestants resigned from Parliament to protest the 10-weekold agreement and force the election, which they regard as a referendum on the agreement.

The accord gives the government of the overwhelmingly Roman Cath-olic Irish Republic an formal consultative role in the running of Northern Ireland, a move intended to improve the lives of the Catholic minority in the province.

But Protestants see the concession as weakening their union with Britain and giving intolerable powers to the Irish Republic over the predomi-nantly Protestant province.

The independent Downtown Radio said the turnout appeared to be more than 80 percent in hotly con-tested constituencies close to the tested constituencies close to the Irish border, but could be as low as 60 percent in populous East Belfast, suggesting "a considerable drop" in the overall turnout from the 72.8

percent who voted in the 1983 parliamentary election.

No opinion polls or projections were published, but Protestant candidates were assured of victory in 11 of the 15 by-elections where they face no Catholic opponent.

The outcome was less certain in the border constituencies of South

the border constituencies of South Down, Fermanagh-South Tyrone, Newry-Armagh and Mid-Ulster, where the Catholic Sinn Fein and Social Democratic and Labor Party also fielded candidates.

Voting at a Belfast polling station, lawyer Frank Irvine said he support-ed the agreement and the moderate Catholic Social Democratic and Labor Party because he believed Protestants and Catholics had to learn to respect each other's traditions.

Thatcher's office knew letter would be leaked

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Thursday her office knew of plans by her embattled trade secretary to leak a letter damaging to the defense secretary, his rival in the Cabinet.

Opposition leader Neil Kinnock said Mrs. Thatcher's Conservative government was "rotten from the core," couldn't be believed and should resign so an election can be held. Mrs. Thatcher does not have to call an election until June 1988.

A majority of rank-and-file Conservatives who met Thursday night demanded the resignation of Trade and Industry Secretary Leon Brittan. They said unless he quit, they would not support Mrs. Thatcher in a debate on the affair Monday in the House of Commons.

Mrs. Thatcher told the House she had not personally been consulted before the letter was made public, but conceded: "It should have been done...by a more correct method." Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine resigned two weeks ago after charging Mrs. Thatcher had stifled his support for a European bid to rescue the financially alling West-land PLC helicopter company.

The prime minister, who has staunchly supported Brittan, made a statement Thursday in Parliament on the inquiry into the publication on the inquiry into the publication of parts of a letter that Solicitor General Patrick Mayhew wrote to Heseltine on Jan. 6.

Mayhew wrote that Heseltine had given inaccurate information in a letter to Lloyds Merchant Bank about an American-led rescue bid

Mrs. Thatcher, to sarcastic laughter from opposition benches, said Thursday that Brittan felt it was important to get on record that Heseltine's letter was inaccurate.

She said Brittan's office had consulted her office before deciding to have one of his aides pass sections of Mayhew's letter to Press Association, the domestic news agency.

Though her aides did not consult her, she said, "they considered — and they were right — that I should agree with (Brittan) that the fact that the then defense secretary's letter of Jan. 6 was thought by the solicitor general to contain material inaccuracies which needed to be corrected, should become public knowledge as soon as possible..." Under sharp questioning, Mrs. Thatcher said she had made a full report of an inquiry by top civil servants into the leak. She rejected accusations that the probe was a charade since Brittan knew how the letter had been made public.

"The full facts were not known to me" before the inquiry, she said.

Kinnock, leader of the Labor Party, decried the affair as "a squalid story" about subterfuge and conniving in the Thatcher Cabinet, and described her statement as "contrived

The furor began when Heseltine wrote to Lloyds Merchant Bank and said Britain's only helicopter company might have difficulty entering joint European projects if the U.S. Sikorsky company and its Italian partner, Fiat, bought 30 percent of Westland.

At least 350 foreigners feared trapped by South Yemen clash

ABOARD HMS JUPITER, Gulf of Aden (AP) — Rescue ships plucked hundreds of foreigners off the coast of war-torn South Yemen, where diplomats said "vicious fighting" persisted between rival Marxist factions vying for power.

At least 350 foreigners were still feared trapped in South Yemen by the clashes, which broke out Jan. 13 when hardline Marxists apparently tried to oust Ali Nasser Mohammed, president of the pro-Soviet nation, following his overtures to pro-Western Arab countries.

Arab diplomatic sources estimate 12,000 people have been killed and 20,000 people wounded in the 11-dayold struggle for power in the nation on the Arabian Peninsula's southwestern tip.

Nearly 5,000 foreigners have been taken out of the country by a multinational rescue flotilla since the combats began. Most have been taken to Djibouti, a nation on the Horn of Africa 150 miles across the Gulf of Aden.

On Thursday, nearly 300 people most of them French, were reported taken off the beaches at Mukallah, 290 miles east of South Yemen's capital of Aden, and at Ash Shihr, 40 miles farther on.

The British royal yacht Britannia slipped into Aden port and picked up 439 refugees. But a Soviet officer on board went back for a lone Briton stranded on a jetty.

Other ships, including French and Soviet freighters, picked up about 200 people near Aden. The Britannia was afforded some protection by its diplomatic status and familiarity to the combatants over many days of rescue efforts. But entering Aden's port was riskier for other vessels.

Cmdr. Richard Bridges, the skip-per of the British Royal Navy frigate Jupiter, told reporters aboard Thursday that the Britannia had made its last rescue run. It has taken out 1,150 people, including the last load. Bridges said that shortly before

UT possesses rare book collection

Perot pays $15 million for Pforzheimer Library

AUSTIN (AP) - Getting the Pforzheimer Library of more than 1,000 of the earliest English-language books is a rare coup that could never be duplicated, University of Texas officials say.

"This was truly a once-in-a-life-time opportunity," said Jess Hay, chairman of the UT regents.

The collection includes a copy of the first book printed in English, along with rare works of poetry, prose, drama and essays by Chaucer, Shakespeare, Bacon, Donne, Locke and others.

University officials described the 1,100 books and 250 manuscript groups - which span the years 1475 to 1700 - as being so rare it would be impossible to assemble them today.

The Pforzheimer Library is the last major collection of works representing the foundation of English culture remaining in private hands. A similar collection could not be gathered today since these books and documents...are simply not available," Cunning-

Instrumental in the acquisition was Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot, who paid $15 million for the books. The university will raise funds to repay Perot.

Perot said he received an unso-licited phone call offering him the library, adding that earlier contact between the University of Texas and the Pforzheimer family helped clinch the deal. In 1978, UT purchased an original Gutenberg Bible from the New York Pforzheimer Foundation.

"They were very, very sensitive about who the books went to. Just money wouldn't get these books," Perot said.

"My role is that of an intermediary. We wanted to get these books at the university," Perot said. "We want the greatest university in the world here in our state. We are in the process of building it.'

Decherd Turner, director of UT's Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center where the books will be housed, said the library is quartos, the earliest forms in which the playwright's works appeared in print, saying, "Exceed-ingly rare, each literally is worth its weight in gold - and then Perot said he bought the books for UT so scholars could have access to them and so inexpensive facsimiles could be produced for widespread study.

"These books were under lock and key. These books from this point forward will be available to scholars," Perot said.

"One of my dreams - and a dream the university tells me is realistic - is that we can duplicate these books and have inexpensive paperback versions of these books available to every little liberal arts college in the country," Perot said.

Cunningham said the Pforzheimer Library will add luster to UT's reputation.

"The presence of the collection will attract scholars in the humanities from around the world and will serve as a catalyst for attracting pre-eminent faculty members in the liberal arts," Cun-

Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot, above, holds a copy of the first book printed in the English language - Raul Le Fevre's "Recuyell of the Historyes of Troye," 1745. The book is part of the Pforzheimer Library collection of which Perot obtained for the University of Texas. Another book in the collection is a volume of William Shakespeare's comedies, histories and tragedies, left, which was published in London in brightest students, the ultimate value of this collection is incalculable," he said.

Page getting insight into work of government

Richfield High School junior Sam Allison learned a lot about government this school year in the best civics classroom of all - the United States

Although the life of a page is no bed of roses - school classes begin at 6:45 a.m. with Allison due at the House at 10 a.m. - it does provide insights into the workings of American democracy that are not attainable elsewhere.

"I've really come to understand (government) more, especially things like parliamentary procedure," he said during an interview on a home

Working with congressmen has provided him a different prespective on life as a politician, so much so that Allison is considering a career in politics.

'Like any large group of people, you have good ones and bad ones," he said. "On the whole, they really

Allison applied last May to be a page through the offices of Reps. Charles Willson, D-Lufkin, and Marvin Leath, D-Waco, and to his surprise was selected as one of the Democratic pages.

The House's 60 pages, split between Democrats and Republicans, form a pool from which representatives can draw to run messages, man phone banks or call House members to session, Allison said. Although he has been a "runner"— one who delivers messages he said the favored position is docu-mentarian, a page who rings the bells calling members to vote.

But being a runner also has its interesting moments, such as when Allison had to deliver 439 jars of peanut butter to legislators during discussion on a recent farm bill.

There was some interesting lobbying done," he said. Page duties are not always that unique, however. Many times the pages sit around, waiting for a call, and their hours in the House are usually 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., unless Congress extends its deliberation, he said.

But Allison said the routine of being a page is not an easy one, since pages must also attend classes.

Those classes, held in the Library of Congress building, start at 6:45 a.m. weekdays and continue until House discussion begins at 10 a.m. Subjects include algebra, chemistry, world literature and government.

"They try to make (page classes) like regular school classes as much as possible because everything else is so different," Allison said. "I'm not sure it's any harder, but there's a lot less time to do our homework.

Changes in the House page system, enacted in 1983 after two House members were censured for improper conduct with two pages, brought about the creation of a page board to oversee the program's operation.

Two floors of an office building also were converted to dormitory space for House pages and both male and female pages must be in their rooms by 10 p.m.

Pages represent all parts of the nation, but they find a common bond in their duties and experiences despite their diversity.

"We're really close, like one big clique," Allison siad. "It's really hard to make friends outside (of the

Allison plans to return to Richfield full time next fall, after his term as a page ends in June.

East Texas woodcarvers whittle as they work

GLADEWATER, Texas (AP) - At the age of 12, Virgil Miller would sit under the trees where hobos gathered near his home in El Dorado, Ark., and attempt to copy their whittling talents.

Today, Miller is a semi-retired owner of a roofing company — and still whittling and carving. Miller is one of the members of the East Texas Woodcarvers Club in Gladewater. His pieces generally revolve around a theme involving frontiers people, Indians or animals. Miller will sculpt his piece in clay, and then carve the sculpture into wood. He prefers catalpa, basswood or mahogany because of their textures and grains.

He said the clay model could be used to make a bronze casting, but he considers the wood carvings to be more valuable than bronze pieces. "Usually there are 25 or 30 pieces made when they cast bronze, but

Miller, whose works show fine detail with the grain carefully integrated to accentuate details, prices his works between $200 and $18,000. The most he has ever been paid for a

The piece shows a captured U.S. Army soldier, stripped of clothing and obviously cold, sitting with his legs crossed some distance from a campfire. Meanwhile his Indian captors sit around the campfire, dressed in his clothing, waiting for hom to freeze to death.

Jim Nelson, a Longview electrician, became interested in carving about six months ago, and has since practiced to the point where he has learned the skills of the art of working with wood.

He approached Miller and said he wanted to learn carving, and Miller "said he would teach me half of what he knows. Then he carved half of a face into a piece of wood and told me to bring it back when I had finished the other half," Nelson said.

"I have got a $700 Johnny Appleseed that I don't want to sell. But if someone comes along and wants to pay me $700, maybe it's worth more to him than it is to piece is $2,200.

One day my wife brought home a knife and a book by Harold Enlow, a well-know caricature carver. She thought she was helping me, but she never realized she was creating a monster," laughed Winstead, who is now trim and whittling caricatures so well that he goes to several shows a year and last year spent two week

Raymon North, a Dallas lawyer, said he had started carving as a youngster in the Boy Scouts, but had more or less dropped the habit until seven or eight years ago when he started again as a challenge. His brother-in-law, he said, was bragging about an expensive, antique duck decoy and "I said I could make one better than that."

Choosing best college Students, parents shopping around for bargains

Los Angeles Times Washington Post News Service

WASHINGTON - Yale. Harvard. Stanford. Princeton. They're the top names in higher education — titans of tradition, quality and prestige. Serious students and their parents would give their life's savings for those acceptance letters.

Or would they?

With a grade average of 3.92, Beth Barr ranks sixth of 439 at Bethesda-Chevy Chase (B-CC) High School, a suburban Maryland public school that annually sends about 8 percent of its graduating class to Ivy League and Seven Sisters colleges. Barr, 17, is smart, attractive, a hard worker. She fits the elite college admissions profile in every way — except one: Her first choice among colleges is the University of New Hampshire. Like a growing number of high school seniors nationwide, Barr's bottom line in choosing a college is, alas, the bottom line — the price tag. While campus location and quality of education are factors, Barr, who also applied to the universities of Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin, Bucknell and Dartmouth, says today's high cost of college education is most likely to sway her final "I was really interested in the University of Vermont, but its tuition is says Barr, who describes her family income as upper-middle. "At New Hampshire, it's about (half as much). I really wanted to make sure I had money in college for other

IF MADISON AVENUE marketed college education like beer, the operative slogan this year would be "Less Great! Tastes Filling!" Top-notch institutions offering high quality for a high price continue to attract 15 or more applicants per freshman vacancy. But, according to some education experts, never before has attention been more intently fixed on the lesser known and even "no-name" schools now flexing credentials as "the best of the rest. Unable to confer Ivy pedigrees, they provide instead simply good degree programs at affordable prices. In other words, a good deal "Viable alternatives" is how B-CC career information specialist Judy Hunt describes them. Hunt matches seniors such as Beth Barr with colleges. There are indications, Hunt says, that families of college-bound students are scrutinizing, more than before, the Best Deal schools, Although the B-CC class of '85 collected 36 Ivy League and Seven Sisters acceptances, it also received 33 invitations from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, nine from the University of Vermont, Burlington, six from the University of California, Berkeley, and five from both the University of Virginia and the University of Colorado, Boulder, all among state universities that some experts claim are gaining ground on the Ivys in quality if not prestige.

"Students here are still very name conscious, unfortunately," says Hunt. "They still think you get hired after college graduation because of the name of your school. But there is an increased awareness of what's 'cost effective' — among parents more than the students."

more than the students." A SMALL MICHIGAN prep school recently ran head-on into the phenomenon, according to Richard Moll, dean of admissions at the University of California, Santa Cruz, and author of The Public Ivys (Viking, $18.95). In a letter sent to college admission officers, the prep school advised that "One notable difference in this year's college placements was due almost entirely to economics and may call for a new category on our placement list: Accepted at first choice college (usually private or more selective) but attending another that costs less.

The message is clear, contends Moll: "Even parents with ready cash are wondering if 'Olde Ivy' is worth two or three times the price of a thoroughly respectable public institution.

The emergence of good-deal academia is motivated by several converging changes in the U.S. economy and higher education — not higher costs alone.

"With the cost of college continuing to go up at double the rate of CPI (consumer price index)," says New York Times education editor Edward Fiske, whose new guide, The Best Buys in College Education (Times Books, $9.95), is about to go into a second printing after six weeks on book stands, "more and more people are saying it's not worth that additional debt and strain on the family to get into a name college that will be recognized by the neighbors."

Fiske, whose book claims to identify 221 colleges "that offer high quali-ty education at reasonable cost," harangues about the crippling cost of education with some chilling statistics: The price tag for four years of education at a public university rose by nearly 12 percent a year between 1979 and 1984. The nation's most prestigious and selective universities have already topped $15,000 a year for tuition, room and board. Stu-dents in the Class of 2000 can expect to pay $45,000 for four years at a public institution and $140,000 at a private one.

HE SAYS WHEN YOU add to that the Reagan administration's accelerated efforts to cut federal funding for students with financial need the pocketbook principle is increasingly applied.

Another influence: The drop in college-age population through the 1990s, explains Moll, is bound to affect enrollments and revenues and therefore costs and competition - at a time when parents seem to be less willing to sacrifice, as their par-ents did, for the next generation's expensive college education.

The bargain-shopper mentality has barged in the front door of college admissions offices. Consider tiny Hendrix College. Undergraduate en-rollment: 990. Fiske trumpeted the rollment: 990. Fiske trumpeted the obscure liberal-arts school in Conway, Ark., in his guide: "For those who have discovered it at the foot of the Ozarks, Hendrix provides top-quality liberal-arts education for little more than the price of a state university ... students pay for about half of what they get, and since what they get is first-rate facilities, good professors, and the most innovative professors, and the most innovative curriculum in several states, any way you look at it Hendrix looks good."

Hendrix's vice president for enrollment Rudy Pollan takes pains not to exaggerate the recent surge in inquiries and requests for application forms: "Healthy-moderate is too mild a word." The school's current "higher visibility" is attracting more out-of-state interest, Pollan says, and is luring top Arkansas students who previously looked East to the Ivys.

THE OTHER SIDE of the coin is that college bargain-shopping has motivated some oft-overlooked or otherwise academically marginal institutions to repair public images with shored up programs and publicity. The University of Florida's August issue of its official quarterly alumni magazine, for instance, announced it had been elected to the Association of American Universi-ties (AAU), a "highly selective" orga-nization of only 53 other colleges, including Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Duke and MIT — not bad company for a school that Fiske says has been better known for football and partying.
"This admits the University of Florida to the inner circle of academic excellence," Florida Gov. Bob Graham said at a news conference in Tallahassee. The university's president, Marshall Criser added, "The citizens of Florida have long waited for the recognition of one of their universities as being among the best of the public and private institutions in this country."

In his Best Buys guide, Fiske says the UF is "steadily gaining an academic reputation to match its size." He calls it "the most improved state university in the country." Moll, who calls himself "a specialist in altering institutional images," didn't include UF in his guide to Public Ivys, but says, "It's my under-standing that Florida is deserving of a better image," adding, "I think tioning by a lot of colleges."

The upshot, claim Moll and Fiske: There's a reshuffling under way of the traditional pecking order of American colleges and universities. Moll focuses on an emerging alternative elite among public universities and contends that, at their best, they compete toe to toe with widely her-alded private colleges.

'The best' now includes 'Public Ivys'

Los Angeles Times Washington Post News Service

If traditional college rankings are changing, how do you recog-nize the best colleges and univer-sities? Richard Moll, dean of admissions at the University of California, Santa Cruz, and au-thor of "The Public Ivys," says the "halo effect" of an Ivy League education comes from years of admissions selectivity; a quality undergraduate experience and importance accorded to the liberal arts; funding to assemble personal, academic and physical strength — and the resourcefulness to manage it wisely; and the ness to manage it wisely; and the prestige, mythology and visibility that enhance the place and name.

There's a new Ivy League out there now, colleges that are also se-lective, prestigious and worthwhile but that charge around $40,000 less for a degree than the old Ivy League.

Artificial conception questioned

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Now I've seen everything. "Still Shaking," the retired parents of a 35-year-old "lovely, unmarried, highly respected, professional woman," were called by their daughter to inform them that she is pregnant and thrilled. It seems that she has always wanted a child, and since her biological clock was running out and she had no man in her life, she had herself artificially

The parents were stunned and asked you what they should tell people. Your advice, "Tell them the truth," was correct. But what does the unmarried daughter tell her child when confronted with the question: "Who is my father?"

Couples and/or singles who are having children by artificial insemination, surrogate parenting and the like give little consideration to the psychological effect of these procedures on the offspring so produced.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) Amazon witch doctors performed rituals over a noted Brazilian naturalist Thursday and rubbed him with a root potion, trying to cure a fatal liver disease he attributes to touching a poisonous toad 10 years ago.

They walked around Augusto Ruschi's bed, blowing cigar smoke toward him and making voodoo-like passes over his stomach with their hands, Ruschi's friend Rogerio Medeiros said in a telephone interview. A relative said Ruschi felt much better afterward, and "remains confident that they will cure him." One of the Indian witch doctors, Chief Raoni of the Txukarramae tribe, told President Jose Sarney earlier that, by touching the poisonous animal, "Ruschi has become a toad himself." He had asked Sarney's permission to intervene. The government flew the two witch doctors to Rio on Wednesday. Raoni, who like many chiefs wears an ornamental wooden disk that distends his lower lip, told the president he had a dream in which he saw Ruschi struggling to stay afloat in a lagoon full of toads. He added, however: "That could be a good sign. He can still escape from the lagoon and live on land as a normal person.'

Ruschi, 70, is a defender of Brazilian wildlife and has catalogued 80 percent of this country's known species of hummingbirds. He declared in a recent newspaper interview: "When I die i want hummingbirds to carry me to God's kingdom."

He lay on a bed in his father-inlaw's apartment Thursday as Raoni and Sapaim, another witch doctor from the tribe, moved over him for an hour, rested and then started again, Medeiros said. Journalists were not allowed into the apartment.

The potion, made by boiling a jungle root called atorokon, was applied during a repeat of the ritual in the

The witch doctors will continue their ritual until Saturday in the Rio apartment and then, if necessary, 'for several more days or weeks" at Ruschi's home in Espirito Santo state, 300 miles northeast of here, Medeiros said.

Chief Raoni heard of Ruschi's ailment and on Tuesday sought out President Sarney in Brasilia, the nation's inland capital, to volunteer his and Sapaim's services in trying to save the naturalist. The approximately 4,000 Txukarramae live in the state of Mato Grosso, about 1,400 miles northwest of Rio.

Ruschi grew up in largely rural Espirito Santo and has spent most of his life in Brazil's remote areas. He said he was aware that the toad was a poisonous species known as dendrobata and he was "careless" in getting too close to it.

Lebanese army prepared for fighting

By JUAN-CARLOS GUMUCIO

SOUK EL-GHARB, Lebanon (AP) The Lebanese army soldiers who hold this strategic mountaintop base overlooking Beirut come under fire day and night from Druse militiamen using everything from Soviet-made rockets to sticks of dynamite taped to stones.

Faced with the prospect of another full-fledged outbreak of fighting in Lebanon's 11-year-old civil war, the soldiers loyal to President Amin Gemayel say they are prepared for a decisive battle. If it comes, military men believe Gemayel's survival could depend on whether the 1,700 men of the 5th Brigade can hold Souk el-Gharb and keep the Syrian-backed militiamen from Gemayel's palace in the eastern suburb of Baabda. "If they took this position they could hardly miss the palace or the Defense Ministry with artillery from here," a 5th Brigade officer said. Soldiers and right-wing Phalange militiamen loyal to the Maronite Catholic president are defending the homeland of Lebanon's 1.6 million Christians from Syrian-backed forces pressing in from three sides. At their backs is the Mediterranean

Souk el-Gharb has changed hands several times in Lebanon's civil war. The army consolidated its current position following the September 1983 Chouf Mountains struggle between the Druse and Christians after Israel withdrew from the mountains. For the last 21/2 years, the soldiers at Souk el-Gharb have fought off almost daily attacks from the Druse militiamen of Walid Jumblatt's Progressive Socialist Party militia.

Souk el-Gharb is the only base the army has in the ridge facing the Chouf, the stronghold of the Druse, a mystical offshoot of Islam whose fighters may be the toughest among Lebanon's militias.

The Reagan administration has given the Soviet leader "appropriate assurances" that it would not exploit the situation in Afghanistan to Moscow's detriment, the official said. In fact, he said, the administration is prepared to offer guarantees.

WORLD IN BRIEF

British photographer shot in San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) A McDonald's security guard shot a British photographer outside the fast-food restaurant Thursday night when he was trying to take pictures, witnesses said. Simon Fisher, 29, a photographer for the British photo agency Rex Features, was treated for a rifle bullet wound in the right leg and was in stable condition, said hospital offi-cials who spoke on condition they not be identified.

At the Polyclinic Hospital, Fisher told reporters he was taking photo-graphs when a guard told him to stop, but he continued taking pic-tures and the guard shot him. Witnesses supported his story. There was no explanation from police.

There are three McDonald's in the capital, all of them with armed, private security guards. The restaurants have been the targets of attacks by leftist guerrillas waging a six-year-old war against the U.S.backed government.

Pondos have moved north from the black Xhosa homeland of Transkei, where jobs are scarce, to the Natal region on the fringes of Durban, an Indian Ocean port. Zulus accuse the Pondos of squatting illegally in the already overcrowded KwaZulu homeland districts.

Marcos 'ignores' report

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - President Ferdinand E. Marcos, whose war record has been a major asset in his long political career, says he will ignore reports that a U.S. Army investigator found his World War II guerrilla group to be "fraudulent."

"My opponents now say that Marcos is not a genuine guerrilla, that he did not really fight," Marcos said in a campaign speech Thursday.

"I don't know where they get such foolishness. You who...fought under me, you be the ones to answer these crazy individuals, especially the foreign press," he told the crowd, which included many World War II veterans.
