Shuttle explodes shortly after liftoff

The shuttle Challenger exploded as it carried its seven-member crew into space today and it appears there are no survivors. Those on board were, front row from left, pilot Michael J. Smith, Francis R. Scobee and Ronald McNair; and back row from left, Ellison S. Onizuka, teacher Sharon Christa McAuliffe, Gregory Jarvis and Judith A. Resnik. Please see related story and photo, Page 2A.

All crew members apparently killed

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Space shuttle Challenger exploded into a gigantic fireball moments after liftoff today, apparently killing all seven crew members, including school-teacher Christa McAuliffe.

There was no announcement of the fate of the crew but it appeared there was no way they could survive. The $1.2 billion spacecraft appeared to be destroyed.

It was the first in-the-air disaster in 56 U.S. man-in-space missions, although three astronauts were killed in a 1967 launch pad explosion during the Apollo program.

After a series of weather and technical delays, the shuttle rose spectacularly off the launch pad at 11:38 a.m. EST and was climbing smoothly trailing a 700-geyser of fire when suddenly it erupted in a huge fireball and shot out of control.

A voice at Mission Control said, "We are checking with recovery forces to see what can be done at this point. Contingency procedures are in effect."

The voice said, "Vehicle has exploded.... We are awaiting word from any recovery forces downrange."

The explosion was a devastating setback for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration after successfully carrying out 24 space shuttle missions in slightly less than five years.

There were seven crew members aboard, including Mrs. McAuliffe, a 37-year-old New Hampshire teacher selected as America's first citizen in space.

Mission Control said debris from the shuttle fell several miles out in the Atlantic and that recovery forces were speeding in that direction.

The other crew members were commander Francis R. Scobee, 46, pilot Michael J. Smith, 40, Judith Resnik, 36; Ronald E. McNair, 35; Ellison S. Onizuka, 39; and Gregory B. Jarvis, 41.

Mission Control said parts of the spacecraft fell at 28.64 north latitude and 80.28 degrees west longitude, just a few miles off Cape Canaveral. Ships and helicopters raced to the area and the control center said paramedics had leaped into the water.

There was no indication how much of the shuttle was intact.

The shocking spectacle of the explosion was seen by millions of people around the country who were watching the launch on television.

All 1,200 students at Mrs. McAuliffe's Concord High School were cheering the televised launch when a teacher yelled for them to be silent because something appeared to be wrong.

As it became clear there was an explosion, stunned students murmured "This can't be real.... We can't be watching this."

Strong gains noted in prices for crude oil, refined products

By JOHN C. GIVEN
AP Business Writer

For the first time in nearly two weeks, prices for crude oil and refined products have made strong gains.

Word of weekend delays in Soviet oil shipments to Europe, reports of oil production cutbacks by Iran and Egypt and technical factors in the market all helped the turnaround Monday, analysts said.

Over seven trading days ending

Friday, crude prices plunged by about 23 percent, panicking world markets.

But at the close of trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange on Monday March contracts for West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, stood at $20.83 a barrel, up from Friday's $19.50. In other trading, Brent North Sea oil sold at $19.45 a barrel for delivery in February, up from $18.65.

Futures prices of West Texas Intermediate also closed between $20 and $21 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange, and gasoline and heating oil prices were up sharply.

Monday's closing prices were still significantly lower than late November, however, when a barrel of West Texas Intermediate sold for nearly $32.

In early December, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries announced it would stop trying to control production to support prices amid a growing world glut of oil.

By Jan. 15, a barrel of West Texas Intermediate, which sold for $31.70 on Nov. 20, stood at $25.15. It plunged to $19.50, an overall drop of 39 percent. After Monday's trading, the price was still down 34 percent from November.

On Monday, Brent North Sea oil opened higher in London after reports that deliveries to Europe from the Soviet Union had been sporadic, analysts said. Last week, the Soviet Union reportedly was holding back oil.

Monday's early trading also was bolstered by reports that Iran had said over the weekend it would cut crude production by half to help prop up oil prices.

Under a 1983 OPEC mandate, Iran's production quota was 2.4 million barrels a day. Iran never publishes production figures, but unofficial estimates put its current exports at about 1.6 million barrels a day. Also on Monday, Egyptian Oil Ministry sources said Egypt would cut its production — about 870,000 barrels — in two stages, to 770,000 barrels this week and to 720,000 next week, and would cut prices retroactively by up to $3 a barrel.

Analysts estimate OPEC's current combined daily production has been 17.5 million to 18 million barrels — about 2 million more than OPEC's quota, aggravating the glut.

ARCO will move 150 families to Midland

By JOHN PAUL PITTS
Business/Oil Editor

In an effort that further consolidates its operations, Atlantic Richfield Co. officials told the Reporter-Telegram today that it will move approximately 150 new families to Midland.

"We will begin the move of the personnel immediately and hope to have it completed within six to eight weeks as soon as logistics for the attainment of office space and telephones are complete. We intend to be very sensitive and work with the knowledge that many families will be adversely affected by this move," said Marvin Pringle, vice president and general manager of the new ARCO Central District. Pringle said ARCO was now negotiating with several firms for office space in the area and hoped to have arrangements completed soon.

It had been rumored for weeks that the Permian District might leave Midland and move to Denver, but the announcement Tuesday that the reverse was the case brought a sigh of relief to many in the community. "I think we will be in the Permian Basin for years to come," said Pringle.

The personnel windfall to Midland is the result of a consolidation of two ARCO districts, the Mid-Continent District, headquartered in Denver, and the Permian Basin District, headquartered in Midland. The two districts will be consolidated into a new Central District, headquartered in Midland.

About half of the 300 ARCO employees in the Mid-Continent District will be transferred to Midland, with a small number remaining in Denver to coordinate divestiture of properties, according to Buddy Beck, ARCO director of communications. Sources had speculated the total number of ARCO employees moving to Midland could go even higher, if employees from other consolidated operations are moved to Midland, but Pringle said he didn't see that as a possibility. Anchorage, Alaska, will also have a net increase of employees as many of the support services provided out of Dallas are moved to ARCO Alaska Inc. But Dallas, where 1,000 employees will be laid off, will be one of the hardest hit areas in the consolidation program.

Pringle said special severance and retirement programs were being offered to affected employees. In an earlier restructuring move last summer, 204 ARCO employees in the Permian Basin elected to take early retirement. "These will not be voluntary," he added.

Panel tackles Eastside development

By RAMONA NYE
Staff Writer

For economic development to be a success, it must come from within a city, said the new director of Midland's Eastside Economic Development Task Force.

"The more that we can improve on the business community that is there, the more successful we will be," said Nancy Vickrey, who was appointed director of the task force this month.

The task force was set up by the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce last spring to improve the economically depressed eastside of the city.

About $50,000 in Community Development Block Grant funds from the city are being used by the task force to develop an area roughly bounded by Lamesa Road on the west, East Highway 80 on the south, Fairgrounds Road on the east and Wadley Avenue on the north. About $15,000 is being used to conduct a study on the programs and grants available for developing the area. The remaining $35,000 is used for operation of the task force, said Chairman Manuel Carrasco.

Federal grants will be solicited and outside businesses will be encouraged to locate on Midland's eastside, but the federal money won't be relied on, Ms. Vickrey said.

"We would like to see local investment, participation and involvement before we apply for federal grants," said the 35-year-old planner from Dallas.

"We have to get community leaders to look at that area as an opportunity — not as a problem," she said.

Encouraging Midland businesses to relocate on the eastside is one key to development of that area, she said. Providing successful eastside businesses with the means to expand and encouraging young eastside entrepreneurs are other strategies used by the task force.

Businesses provide jobs and services in the area that will lead to economic development, Carrasco said.

'One monster of a storm' sweeps through Northeast, Deep South

Associated Press

A killer freeze threatened Florida citrus groves and Georgia onions today after "one monster of a storm" delivered heavy snow and freezing rain that blacked out more than 100,000 people from the Northeast to the Deep South.

The storm was blamed for at least nine deaths from New York to Alabama on Monday, when the weather forced schools to close in at least 12 states and sent dozens of homeless people to Alabama shelters.

While much of the East shivered, parts of the West — and even New England — basked in record high temperatures. The temperature early today at Lewistown, Mont., was 48 degrees, warmer than the 42 recorded in Miami. The 33-degree reading in Portland, Maine, topped the 30 degrees in Orlando, Fla.

'Power-crazed' Reagan denounced

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Col. Moammar Khadafy denounced President Reagan as power-crazed and told thousands of Libyans and Eastern Europeans in a fiery speech that his countrymen are "stronger than the Sixth Fleet."

The Libyan leader, wearing a green jumpsuit over a plainly visible bullet-proof vest, claimed Monday in the speech at People's Hall in Tripoli that the Reagan administration was plotting to assassinate him, and that the United States was "trying to take away our freedom as they tried in Vietnam, Palestine, Lebanon, Syria and Nicaragua."

He offered no evidence for either claim.

Drawing cheers from the 3,000 Libyans and East Europeans, Khadafy said Reagan is "filthy...maddened with power and nuclear weapons."

"All people in all countries are supporting Libya against the imperialists. The Libyan people are stronger than the Sixth Fleet," he said to the wild applause of the audience.

Units of the U.S. Sixth Fleet, led by the aircraft carriers Coral Sea and Saratoga, began conducting maneuvers last week in the Mediterranean Sea off the Libyan coast.

Khadafy frequently interrupted his speech to lead the crowd in anti-American chants.

"Down, down, U.S.A.!" he shouted, brandishing his fist over his head at every word. "Down, down, Reagan!"

The United States has been at odds with Khadafy's Libya for years, but the dispute has worsened since the Dec. 27 terrorist attacks at airports in Rome and Vienna.

Twenty people, including five Americans and four terrorists, died in the attacks, which Reagan said were conducted by Palestinians trained in Libya terrorist camps and financed by the Libyan government.

Reagan ordered the estimated 1,500 Americans in Libya, most of whom work for oil companies and their subsidiaries, to leave by Feb. 1.

Only a few Western Europeans and Americans were seen at Khadafy's rally on Monday.

Several Americans refused to give their names to a reporter and said they came out of curiosity. One oil worker who said he was from California was asked if he would leave Libya by Feb. 1 as ordered by Reagan.

The man he replied, "It's illegal to stay, isn't it?"

In an interview on French television late Monday, Khadafy again denied any link with the airport attacks and said, "I challenge the United States to prove that those who carried them out started from Libya or were trained in Libya."

"There are no training camps in our country, the camps that you call terrorist camps," he replied. "Palestinian camps are not terrorist camps because it's a people which defends its freedom."

"But if the Palestinian people asked Libya to open training camps, we would say yes, because the cause is legitimate," he said.

Earlier, Foreign Minister Ali Abdussalam Treiki told a news conference in Tripoli that Khadafy's government wants a direct dialogue with the United States to resolve the dispute.

Monday, Treiki sent a letter to U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar asking that measures be taken against U.S. "provocations" near the Libyan coast.

The letter, dated Jan. 24 and released Monday at the United Nations, said the U.S. Navy maneuvers were "merely a new link in the chain of American provocations and aggression" against Libya and constituted "state terrorism."

In Washington, Deputy Secretary of State John C. Whitehead said U.S. economic pressure might make Khadafy nervous enough about his economy to turn away from terrorism.

Khadafy is "crazy like a fox, and he will do what he needs to do to keep himself in power. If he sees his country's economy crumbling, his country's position being isolated, he will then take action to change his conduct."

Whitehead recently made a tour of American allies seeking, with little success, support for the administration's sanctions against Libya, which included freezing about $12 billion in Libyan government assets in American banks and overseas branches.

The shuttle Challenger explodes shortly after liftoff this morning, leaving a trail of smoke in the sky over Kennedy Space Center, Fla.

Reagan 'stunned' by shuttle blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today stood in "stunned silence" as he watched a television replay of the space shuttle explosion.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said Vice President George Bush and his national security adviser, Adm. John Poindexter, interrupted a meeting of Reagan and senior aides to tell him of the explosion.

"The president is concerned, he is saddened; he is anxious to have more information," Speakes told reporters at a briefing.

The spokesman added that "quite frankly, the president stood there in almost stunned silence as he watched the television."

Told of the blast, Reagan had gone immediately to his small study to watch developments on television.

Speakes said he did not anticipate any change in Reagan's plan to deliver his State of the Union speech to Congress tonight.

"I'm sure the president will feel compelled to mention this," Speakes added.

Asked if the president said anything about Christa McAuliffe, the teacher on board the flight, Speakes said, "It was something that was on all of our minds, that it had the first teacher in space, the first civilian" on board.

As for the impact of the explosion on the future of the space program, including future civilian participation in flights, Speakes said such questions were "premature."

"I'm sure it will not affect the United States' determination to continue the exploration of space," he added.

"The United States has met adversity many times before in the space program," the spokesman said.

On Capitol Hill, the House of Representatives convened at noon and met for a minute of silent prayer, then adjourned for two hours.

Sen. Jake Garn, the Utah Republican who was the first senator to fly on the shuttle, headed to the Senate floor, where he was expected to make a statement.

SHUTTLE

Students, who were gathered in the auditorium, were ordered back to their rooms. Many of the youths went reluctantly, protesting that they wanted to be allowed to continue watching.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said President Reagan was "concerned" and "saddened" at the accident but had no immediate details. "We don't have any more information than what is being provided the public on television."

Challenger was one of four shuttles in NASA's fleet.

The flight was the second of a record 15 shuttle flights that NASA had planned this year.

It probably will be months now before another shuttle can be launched, while engineers try to determine what went wrong.

NASA said the explosion occurred about 60 seconds into the mission, at a point when the astronauts were beginning to throttle their engines up to maximum thrust after they throttled them down to a 60 percent level at 35 seconds in order to reduce the forces of gravity during liftoff.

The explosion also occurred about the time Challenger was to enter a period of maximum aerodynamic pressure.

'Killer freeze' threatens several crops

Records broken

MIAMI (AP) — The icy fist of arctic air that swept through the Sunshine State today shattered at least three record-low temperatures but apparently didn't deliver the feared knockout blow to citrus farmers still struggling from killer freezes the past two winters.

"We've been praying that we don't get the freeze," said Billy Bass, a state extension agent in Blades County on the western edge of Lake Okechobee.

Prayers were answered in most of the citrus belt, which spans the state from Ocala to the fringes of the Everglades, Ernie Neff, spokesman for the Lakeland-based Florida Citrus Mutual, said today.

"We did not have what we consider a major freeze," he said. "We did have a freeze that probably did some fruit damage in many areas of the citrus belt. But we don't think we had any significant tree damage."

The state's $1 billion-a-year wholesale citrus crop would be destroyed if temperatures stayed below 28 degrees for four to six hours, said Doug Bournique, head of the Indian River Citrus League in central Florida. "Every degree and every hour is critical," he said.

Temperatures in the central part of the citrus belt hovered around 28 degrees this morning for about four hours — flirting with the threshold of damage, Neff said.

At 7 a.m., the arctic air mass plunged temperatures to 37 in Miami, 31 in West Palm Beach — tying a low record set in 1941 — and below 28 degrees in many Central Florida cities.

Orlando reported 26 degrees at 7 a.m., breaking a 1971 record low of 33 degrees. In North Florida, Jacksonville's low of 17 broke its 1940 record of 21 degrees.

Throughout the state, growers had flooded citrus groves in hopes the standing water would capture enough heat to protect the trees. Others piled on hay for insulation or planted oil-burning heaters between citrus trees. Piles of earth were stacked against the trunks of vulnerable young trees and Neff said it paid off.

"I even got out there with some old newspapers, weaving it between the plants," said grower Fred Spear in Pompano Beach. "It may only change the temperature by one degree, but that can make all the difference."

Forecasters had painted a gloomy picture, saying the freeze could be as damaging as the killer freezes of December 1963 and January 1965. Most citrus growers in the northern parts of the belt were wiped out by those freezes, which caused some $3 billion in damages to crops and trees, Neff said.

Miami did not experience its coldest day in 45 years, as forecasters had feared, which would have ruined South Florida's tomato crop had temperatures hit the low side of Tuesday predictions for the upper 20s to 30-degree mark. About one-fourth of the state's $350 million-a-year tomato crop comes from Dade County.

STUDY

"It's kind of a forgotten area — part of a barrio — the poor area of town therefore left to be dilapidated," Carrasco said.

"The area has a bad image, but we have to come in with the attitude that it has potential," Ms. Vickrey said.

The task force is emphasizing the area's positive characteristics, such as its location on a major thoroughfare — Highway 80 — to overcome its image problem.

The eastside is also teeming with manpower and money, Ms. Vickrey said. About $47 million per year is Peter Wengryn peeks through his snow- and ice-covered face mask Monday morning after clearing the eight inches of snow that fell overnight from the driveway of his Brookpark, Ohio, home.

OIL

A cutback of 800,000 barrels daily in Iranian production thus would be significant, if it took place. But some analysts said they did not believe it.

"I have trouble seeing a government that is engaged in a war, as Iran is with Iraq, deliberately cutting back on its major source of income," said Peter Beutel, an analyst with Rudolf Wolff Futures Inc.

Madison Galbraith, senior energy specialist at Merrill Lynch Energy Futures, said he believed the main reason for Monday's turnaround was short-covering by traders.

In a short sale, an investor sells borrowed oil in the hopes that its market price will fall before the trader has to buy oil to complete the deal. When the price rises, traders buy oil to limit losses or lock in profits.

Prices of refined products also rose Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

leaving the eastside to other areas of town for services, she said.

"People go outside of this area to shop."

"It's an opportunity for those from the outside to come in and capitalize on it," she said.

In 1984, the area had an average household size of 3.7 people with an income of $16,900. The population is about 10,150 with 49 percent Hispanic, 41 percent black and 10 percent miscellaneous.

"Cities have always been concerned about their poorest areas simply because blight in any cities hurt the cities as a whole."

"Most cities recognize that, and that they have to make a priority to take care of these areas," she said. "We feel if we improve that area, we improve Midland," Carrasco said.

President to make traditional address

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President Reagan goes before Congress and a national television audience tonight to deliver his fifth address on the State of the Union and, in the words of one aide, "to redefine the role of the government for the next decade and into the next century."

The traditional speech to a joint session of the House and Senate will be broadcast live by the major radio and television networks beginning at 9 p.m. EST.

The address, fulfilling the Constitution's mandate that the president "shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the union," will be shorter and more visionary than Reagan's previous four, White House officials say.

But it will be followed by three days of campaign-style speech-making to press his theme that the federal budget must bow to the family budget.

Because it is aimed more at the television audience than the officials who will hear him in person, Reagan will keep it short and simple, said a source who asked not to be identified by name.

As drafted, the speech takes about 20 minutes to read and officials are allowing an additional 10 minutes for applause, hoping it will take only about a half-hour from the evening's prime-time television schedule.

Reagan, who came to Washington five years ago committed to shrinking the size and reach of the federal government, is expected to renew that struggle, arguing that people are better off making their own financial decisions than paying taxes to a government that decides what to do with their money.

It is, one aide said privately, an effort "to redefine the role of the government for the next decade and into the next century."

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes called the speech "visionary" and said it will "deal more with themes and ideas and goals of the president... than the specifics and nit-picky of the legislative process."

With a formal signing ceremony, the president will send a more detailed written message to Capitol Hill on Wednesday setting out his specific goals for this session of Congress. He then will tour federal agencies and address the bureaucracy on key elements of his program.

On Thursday, Reagan goes to a high school in the Virginia suburbs outside Washington to speak to students specializing in high technology, and that night he addresses conservatives at an annual dinner of the Conservative Political Action Committee.

On Friday, he returns to Capitol Hill for a speech to House Republicans.

One official said the State of the Union address would explain to the public why Reagan and the Congress believe future government efforts must be devoted to cutting the federal deficit. Next week, Reagan submits his first budget within the constraints of the Gramm-Rudman law that requires the Congress and the administration to balance the federal budget by 1991.

But the source, who asked not to be identified, said the president would not take "a gloom and doom approach" telling people they should expect to sacrifice the benefits of federal programs.

ARCO

The consolidation of districts is part of a restructuring program that consolidates Arco's exploration and production operations in the lower 48 into a single organizational entity to be named ARCO Oil & Gas Co., resulting in further staff reductions.

J.A. Middleton has been named president of the New ARCO Oil and Gas Co., with H.C. Heinze continuing as president of ARCO Alaska Inc. S.C. Mut, formerly president ARCO Exploration and Technology has elected to take early retirement.

Mut joined Atlantic Richfield Co. in 1948 as assistant physicist in the Research and Development Department in Dallas and served in a number of senior positions before assuming his present position.

In addition, the company is accelerating its program to sell lower profit and geographically remote production in the lower 48 states. Properties amounting to approximately four percent of the company's domestic reserves, excluding Alaskan North Slope gas, have been identified as candidates for sale. The company said that it eventually expected to sell substantially all these property interests in order to streamline its operations, but the timing would depend on crude oil market conditions and offering price for the properties.

"We will be selling some production scattered throughout the Permian Basin, but it will be less than 10 percent of our reserves in the Basin," said Pringle. He said ARCO would soon put together some packages of remote and lower profit wells to present to the market, and depending on what the market did, would prepare other packages. "We certainly don't intend to do anything that doesn't make economical sense," he added.

Pringle stated that the reason for the sale of production was to get the firm's production portfolio as strong and as flexible as possible to withstand possible future oil cuts.

Buddy Beck, ARCO spokesman, said that, to the best of its ability to estimate, the one time cost of the program would approximately offset in 1986 by anticipated operations and overhead cost savings, and any gain on property sales.

"The new ARCO Oil and Gas Co.

will be an efficient and competitive company," said Robert E. Wycoff, president and chief operating officer. "Our income from production will be concentrated in fewer but high quality fields. The small percentage decrease in cash income from production will be offset by reduced overhead."

Wycoff said the company's exploration program would be designed to be profitable and sustainable in even the most adverse environment for the oil and gas industry.

He said ARCO would continue to emphasize its strengths in technology and exploration, but would concentrate its attention on higher grade producing properties and exploration prospects.

ARCO spokesmen pointed out that the latest consolidation and restructuring of the company was not a reaction to oil price declines, but was in the planning stage weeks before the rapid price declines started.

For 1985 ARCO showed a loss of $202 million or 94 cents per share, compared to earnings of $567 million or $5.36 per share in 1984. This was attributed to a one-time write-off of as a result of the firm's massive restructuring last summer.

Texas Army celebrating sesquicentennial in London

LONDON (AP) — Members of the Texas Army, dressed in buckskins and coonskin caps, on Monday launched the 150th anniversary celebration of the Texas Republic with a ceremony at the site of its 19th-century London consulate.

About two dozen generals and colonels — there are only officers in the Texas Army — unfurled a Texas flag in honor of the 29 British and Irish men who died at the Alamo fighting for Texas' independence from Mexico.

In a colorful courtyard gathering in London's fashionable Piccadilly district, there was also a bagpipe lament for a Scottish hero of the Alamo, Sgt. John McGregor, who played the bagpipes throughout the 13-day siege by the Mexican army.

The 120-strong Texas Army — a holdover from the days of the independent republic — is an official ceremonial body that promotes the traditions, culture and history of old Texas.

Gen. Carroll A. Lewis, head of the delegation, said

Texas decided to open its year of anniversary celebrations in Britain because "of the great contribution that Great Britain gave towards the people of Texas."

Britain was one of the first countries to recognize the new republic after it won independence from Mexico in 1836 and the vast majority of the early settlers in Texas were British.

The ceremony took place at the 3 St. James's St., home of the Texas consulate from 1842 until 1845, when the republic joined the United States. Today, the building is the premises of a wine and spirit merchant.

The Army also presented a silver gunpowder flask and 150 Texas dollars — one for every year of independence — to John Rudd, a descendant of the consulate's landlord.

"It was back rent, 150 replica Republic of Texas dollars, with 10 dollars interest," said Lewis, a retired real estate developer from Houston.

"We also gave Berry Green, another of the landlord's descendants, two bottles of Texas wild grape wine made from grapes picked from the campsite where the Texas Army camped just before the Battle of San Jacinto," Lewis said.

San Jacinto was where the Texans finally defeated the Mexican army, capturing president and military leader Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna.

The visiting Texans, including doctors, lawyers and businessmen, were welcomed by the Lord Mayor of Westminster, Roger Bramble, and presented him with a plaque from the city of Houston.

To mark the anniversary, the Texas Army will refurbish the bust of Lord Palmerston, the British foreign secretary who signed the treaty recognizing Texas as an independent republic. The bust, now broken and covered in mold and mildew, is in the courtyard behind the old consulate.

Lewis said the men of the Texas Army, along with their wives in pioneer dress, will remain in their period costumes throughout their stay in London this week. "We want to give the people of London a glimpse of what people looked like in Texas 150 years ago."

"Sure, we've had some weird looks, especially when we landed at the airport with our bagpipes playing, but it seems that here anything goes anyhow," he said.

Next month Prince Charles will visit Texas during the observance of the 150th anniversary. The heir to the British throne will visit Dallas and other Texas cities during the Feb. 17-21 trip.

Doctors 'shocked' mauled boy alive

Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

DALLAS — Wounds covered his body and transfusions have replaced his blood seven times over. But Stephen Fiengo's eyes are clear and active, giving hope to his family and the doctors laboring to save his life.

"We're shocked that he's survived," said Dr. Michael Foreman, a surgeon at Parkland Memorial Hospital, where the 6-year-old boy was rushed after being mauled by dogs near his East Texas home Wednesday night.

Doctors say they still cannot be sure the slight, brown-haired boy will live, but Monday the talk in the pediatric trauma ward was of his remarkable stamina and the exhausting ordeal he has endured.

"He's a tough little guy," said his father, Stephen Fiengo Sr., a ballbondsman from Longview. "He keeps hanging in there."

Swathed in bandages from his chest to his feet, Stephen has undergone four extensive surgical procedures that have taken 130 pints of blood and plasma.

In the next days and months, he faces more operations to try to save his mauled legs and right arm. Already, his doctors say, he has rallied three times after his vital signs became perilously weak.

The boy suffered more than 100 bites in the attack, which occurred while he was playing alone in a field on the outskirts of Longview.

When he arrived at Parkland, the boy was not breathing and his pulse was faint, Foreman said. For four hours, doctors labored to revive him, and then began emergency surgery.

Over the weekend, the boy underwent a series of operations to stop the hemorrhaging, including 7½ hours of surgery Sunday.

"Nobody has seen wounds like that since the war," Foreman said. "He's been dead already, and he's beaten the odds."

Meanwhile, Gregg County authorities rounded up and destroyed the eight wild dogs they believe attacked the boy.

Friends and well-wishers have begun collecting money to help pay for the boy's treatment, which has already totalled $110,000; his parents' health insurance expired after his father switched jobs three months ago. A trust fund has been established at Peoples State Bank in Dallas.

Program aims at promoting beef consumption

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A new $1

check-off program aimed at promoting the troubled beef industry won't be a cure-all, the president of the National Cattlemen's Association says.

"The new program is not perfect," said Jo Ann Smith. "It won't guarantee a profit for everyone. But right now it's the only game in town. It gives us a vehicle to do something meaningful about demand."

The $1-per-head check-off, enacted in the 1985 Farm Bill, is expected to go into effect sometime this fall.

Under the program, every time a head of cattle changes hands, $1 goes into a pot.

The estimated $60 million to $70 million in revenue will be used for research to develop new beef products more palatable to the consumer, for education and promotion.

Mrs. Smith, who farms and ranches with her husband in Micanopy, Fla., said Monday at the National Cattlemen's Association meeting the new program should go a long way toward promoting beef consumption.

"With the new check-off program we have an opportunity to do something really significant about demand for beef," she said.

Currently, 38 states have individual check-off programs generating an estimated $18 million.

A referendum on the effectiveness of the check-off is scheduled 22 months after its implementation.

Many cattlemen, Mrs. Smith said, have been forced out of business by "devastating financial circumstances."

Inevitably, she said, beef supplies will diminish and hopefully, higher beef prices will follow.

"Many of us who have been able to survive so far are getting tired of waiting and hoping for our business salvation simply through a decrease in cattle numbers," Mrs. Smith said. "It's time to get more competitive, to do more on the demand side of our business equation," she said.

"It's time to adjust to changes in lifestyles; time to develop new and better products; time to sell beef on its positive values; time to get out front and make some real noise about our product," she said.

"Beef still is eaten regularly in 90 percent of American homes; beef still commands more consumer meat dollars than pork and poultry combined," she said. "Yes, we're still No.

1. So let's begin to think and act like it."

Mrs. Smith reminded the audience of the growing importance of the food safety issue, including the recent antibiotic/resistance issue.

NCA members, she said, should "develop and carry out our own safety assurance programs."

"You and I know that the beef we produce is safe and without harmful residues. But statements alone won't cut it anymore," she said. "We must have industry programs that, in effect, guarantee that beef is free of harmful chemical or drug residues."

The NCA represents about 230,000 professional cattlemen throughout the nation.

NCA officials claim the beef cattle industry is the largest segment of American agriculture. Annual sales of cattle and calves in 1984 totaled $30.6 billion.

STATE IN BRIEF

Man shoots policeman he mistakes for burglar

HOUSTON (AP) — A policeman was in critical condition Monday after being shot by a man who thought the officer was a burglar, investigators said.

Officer Michael O. Covington, 27, was taken by helicopter to Hermann Hospital, where he underwent surgery, police said. Covington, who had been on the force for about 18 months, was shot once in the abdomen with a 12-gauge shotgun.

According to Lt. I.O. Franks, the home of Joe Thomas, 57, was burglarized Sunday morning while the family was at church. Fearing the burglars might return, the man decided to stay home Sunday night when his family went to evening services, Franks said.

Franks said the man's wife tried to call her husband. When he did not answer, she called police and the officer accompanied the family home, Franks said. As they entered the house, the man apparently thought they were burglars and fired at the officer, Franks said.

No charges had been filed, but the matter will be referred to a grand jury, Franks said.

Forest Service issues alert

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The Texas Forest Service on Monday issued a "high fire danger" alert throughout the state for the next several days.

Forest Service spokesman Sam Logan said the alert stops short of a full moratorium on outside burning, but he urged extreme caution due to low humidity and gusty winds.

Logan said a total of 79 fires burned more than 1,600 acres in East Texas during the period Friday through Sunday, with most of them on Sunday, when 57 fires burned 1,209 acres.

"You can see how the situation builds up," he said. "We have crews scattered in about 50 counties in East Texas assisting volunteer fire departments," Logan said.

The National Weather Service forecasts that current conditions will continue through the next several days with gusty winds and humidity around 20 percent, Logan said.

Man gets probation in rape

ABILENE (AP) — A 10-year probation sentence was ordered Monday for an Abilene man convicted of raping his estranged wife.

A state district court jury also decided that Ike B. Brooks Jr. should serve a concurrent five-year probation term on a felony retaliation charge.

Brooks, 32, had faced a possible life sentence on the aggravated rape conviction and up to 10 years on the retaliation conviction.

On Friday, the jury convicted Brooks of raping his 28-year-old wife, who had filed for divorce only one day before, on March 27, 1984. He also was convicted of assaulting her on April 17 in an attempt to force her to drop the rape charge.

Brooks is the first Taylor County resident to be prosecuted under the state law which makes it a crime to force one's spouse to have sex during a legal separation, pending a divorce.

A prosecutor had asked that Brooks be sentenced to "at least 50 years" for the rape conviction.

Ex-broker convicted

HOUSTON (AP) — A former real estate broker convicted of stealing $51,000 from the Hermann Hospital Estate was sentenced Monday to four years in prison.

Susan Menke, 34, was sentenced by State District Judge Joseph Guarino.

Ms. Menke was convicted last year of splitting unauthorized real estate commissions with William Ryan Jr., the estate's former general manager.

Failing players banned from banquet

DALLAS (AP) — Highland Park school officials say five varsity football players who failed a class during the last six-weeks grading period have been barred by the Texas Education Agency from attending a banquet honoring the team.

School officials said they were informed by education agency officials Monday that the school's football banquet is an extracurricular activity covered by the state's no pass, no play rule.

If the banquet were open to everyone, it would be considered a social event not subject to the regulation, the agency said, but attendance because the school district has no facilities to accommodate a dinner for more than about 200 people.

Walter King, president of the Highland Park Sports Club, which is sponsoring the banquet, called the decision "judicious."

Angolan rebel leader to appeal for U.S. aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angola's rebel leader Jonas Savimbi, whose fight against communism in his homeland has won him impassioned support among conservative Americans, intends to make a direct appeal for U.S. assistance during his visit here.

The issue of whether the United States should aid Savimbi's forces has been hotly debated since Congress last year overturned an amendment prohibiting U.S. support for any of the factions in Angola. The rebel leader arrives today.

With conservative groups competing for his attention, Savimbi will spend 10 days here, making his case for U.S. assistance in meetings with President Reagan, members of Congress, private groups and the press. Seldom has an African leader generated so much attention in the capital.

He comes, however, at a time when key congressional leaders are questioning the type of aid the United States should provide to the rebels.

The chairmen of the Senate and House intelligence committees have said they will oppose covert aid to Savimbi and want the administration to prove to Congress that overt assistance is warranted.

In comments published in Tuesday's editions of the Washington Post, Sen. David F. Durenberger, R-Minn., chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, said he felt "fairly strongly" that aid should be overt. And Rep. Lee H. Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House Select Committee on Intelligence, said, "...You ought to make the request to Congress and have an open debate."

After a Wednesday meeting with Secretary of State George P. Shultz, Savimbi will visit Thursday with Reagan, who has praised the burly, charismatic guerrilla leader as a "freedom fighter."

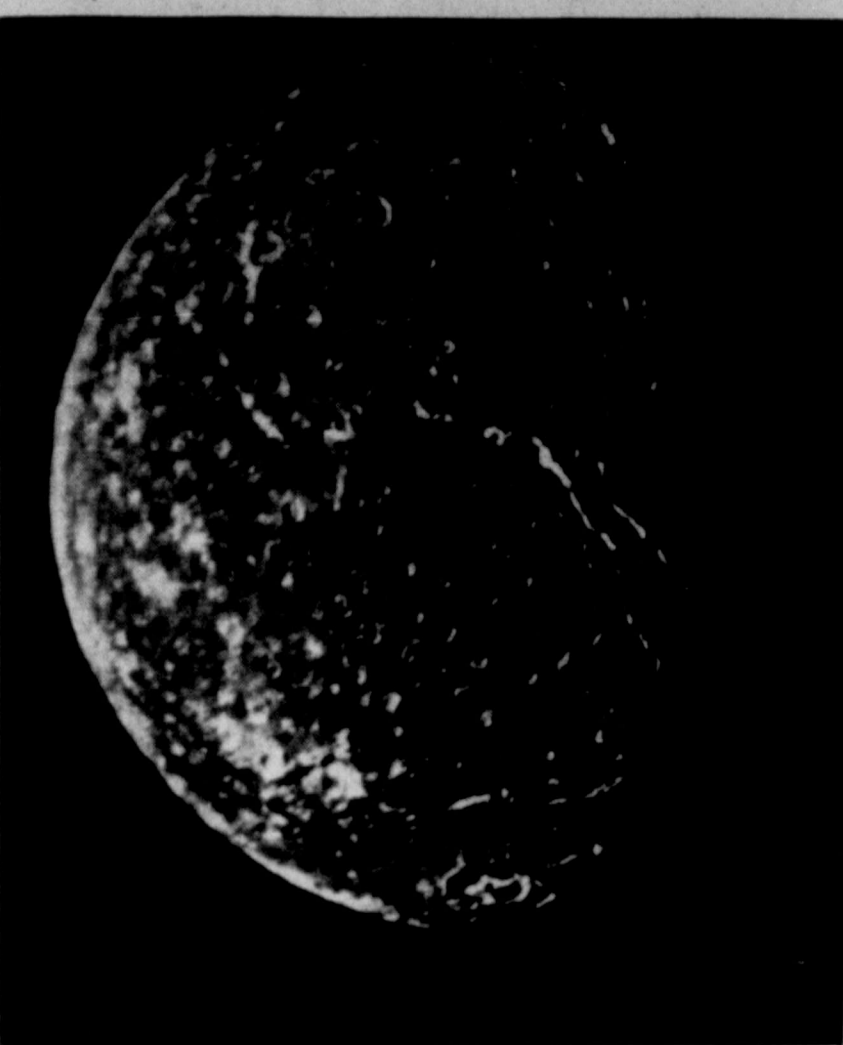

The administration's public position on the aid question has been filled with ambiguity, reflecting its desire to "roll back communism" in southern Africa without impairing its efforts to achieve a regional peace settlement.

Critics of aid to Savimbi's forces, known as UNITA, maintain that by assisting him, the United States would damage its credibility throughout Africa because his principal backer has been South Africa.

They also question his democratic credentials and say an assistance program would prolong rather than shorten Angola's civil war, which had raged inconclusively ever since the country achieved independence from Portugal 11 years ago.

They also contend that such assistance would deal a possibly fatal blow to the negotiating effort led for the past five years by Assistant Secretary Chester Crocker.

Scientists 'happily bewildered' by Uranus data

This picture is a composite of two images of the Uranian moon Titania taken Friday by Voyager 2 when it was about 369,000 miles from the moon. Titania is the largest satellite of Uranus, with a diameter of a little more than 1,000 miles. Its most prominent features are fault valleys, shown in the photo, which are up to 1,000 miles long and as much as 45 miles wide.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Voyager 2 peered back at icy Uranus as it headed for a 1989 rendezvous with Neptune, adding to the storehouse of knowledge that "happily bewildered" scientists are finding themselves hard-pressed to explain.

Some of the findings included three-foot chunks in the outermost of 10 known rings encircling Uranus; wide dust bands between the narrow, black-tinted rings; and surprisingly similar stratospheric temperatures 350 degrees below zero at the planet's equator and poles.

The probe also discovered strange flows in valleys on the moon Ariel and a mysteriously inactive lunar geology on Umbriel, which is surrounded by moons with terrain that reveals internal shifting.

Tired after a busy week exploring a planet 1.8 billion miles away, researchers geared for a final news briefing today on preliminary conclusions — called "the best of instant science" by Dick Laeser, Voyager project manager at Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Voyager imaging team leader Brad Smith said scientists are torn between the excitement of discovery and "feeling like complete idiots" when they can't explain something.

Researchers were still looking at Voyager's snapshots Monday for more so-called shepherd moons, whose gravitational forces are believed to herd Uranus' rings into their narrow shapes.

Two of the 10 moons discovered by Voyager shepherd the outermost and largest epsilon ring. Uranus' other 13 moons, including the five major satellites discovered by telescope from Earth, are not shepherd moons.

"We're happily bewildered," Voyager project scientist Ed Stone said after a stunning picture revealed bands of microscopic particles among Uranus' rings when they were backlit by the sun. "We learn the most when we see things we can't explain."

This picture, taken when Voyager 2 was about 147,000 miles from Uranus, reveals a continuous distribution of small particles throughout the ring system of Uranus.

By watching how the epsilon ring scattered radio waves, Voyager revealed it contains numerous chunks of unknown material mostly larger than three feet across, with very few of the smaller particles like those found in Saturn's rings, said Leonard Tyler of Stanford University.

"It's just an indication that the Uranian system is totally different than anything we've ever seen before," Stone said.

Viewed from behind the planet, the backlit rings and dust bands look like the grooves on a phonograph record, except the grooves have various widths and shades of gray and black.

By late tonight, Voyager 2 will be nearly 3 1/2 million miles from Uranus, still playing back taped pictures and data from its closest approaches to the planet, its moons and rings last Friday. Uranus was the third planet visited by Voyager 2.

Catastrophic-care plan in the works

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will ask Congress this year to expand Medicare to cover the expense of catastrophic illness among America's elderly, with the first call for congressional action possible tonight.

Reagan delivers his State of the Union address to a joint session of Congress beginning at 8 p.m. CST, and a senior official of the Health and Human Services Department says "hopefully" the catastrophic care program — covering long-term hospital stays — will be part of his message.

But whether the proposal emerges during the nationally televised address, the official said, legislation proposing the catastrophic illness coverage, financed by increased premiums, will go to Congress shortly.

"We will have a catastrophic care proposal," said Lawrence J. DeNardis, assistant HHS secretary for legislation. "...The president hopefully will mention it" in his State of the Union address, "and we will have a full-dress proposal within a few weeks thereafter."

Three years ago, the Reagan administration also proposed catastrophic care coverage to cover lengthy hospitalizations. Under present Medicare law, patients are on their own financially after 150 days in the hospital.

The administration's bill went nowhere in Congress. But it approached the problem in a way that found little support among lawmakers.

The 1983 proposal would have required all hospitalized Medicare beneficiaries to pay 5 percent to 8 percent of their bill during the first two months in the hospital in return for full coverage thereafter. Except for the first day, those bills now are fully paid by the government.

A new approach has since been drafted by HHS Secretary Otis R. Bowen, which Bowen "has been able to convey successfully to the president," DeNardis said.

Bowen's approach would not require Medicare beneficiaries to pick up more of their early hospital tab. But it would almost double the Medicare optional "Part B" premium, from $15.50 a month to about $27.50 a month.

FBI doesn't want defectors, officials say

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI officials don't want to take over responsibility from the CIA for handling and resettling foreign defectors, a move which is under study at the White House to avoid a repetition of the Vitaly Yurchenko affair.

Two Justice Department officials explained the FBI's view Monday on condition that they not be identified by name. Neither CIA, FBI nor Justice spokesmen would comment on the proposal.

"It's a bucket of worms," said one Justice source while describing the task of resettling defecting officials, most of whom come from Communist countries and who may not speak fluent English but need new jobs, homes and, sometimes, even new identities.

U.S. officials believe that dissatisfaction with the way the CIA handled this process contributed to the decision by Yurchenko, a KGB general-designate, to return to the Soviets last fall, just three months after he defected to this country.

At the White House, the National Security Council staff is studying the Yurchenko affair and has received a recommendation from the James-town Foundation, a private group set up to work with top-level defectors, that the duties be shifted to the FBI, which participates in interrogating all defectors.

Jameson Director William Geimer said most defectors found their CIA handlers insensitive and untrained while the FBI agents were seen as friendly, unpretentious and more sensitive. Geimer said the work apparently is viewed at CIA as low-level and unlikely to lead to promotions.

One Justice official laid out two reasons for the FBI's lack of interest: "First, we feel we've got good relations with the CIA and we want it to stay that way."

"Second, the bureau's got enough to do. This is not strictly their area; it would be a new field for them."

One knowledgeable observer said CIA Director William Casey does not want to give up the responsibility, though CIA sources said only that a presidential executive order laying out the duties of the two agencies posed some legal problems for such a shift.

The bureau, meantime, like all federal agencies, is not looking for extra work at a time when the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law threatens to force cuts in its budget.

HUD tells cities urban-grant funds won't be spent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal housing officials are notifying cities and towns that the Reagan administration has decided not to spend $200 million in urban development grants Congress had approved for 1986.

Edwin Dale, spokesman for the White House Office of Management and Budget, said Monday that such cuts are "part of a whole package of deferrals and rescissions that will go to Congress with the budget" next Tuesday.

In letters sent Monday, Alfred C. Moran, the Department of Housing and Urban Development's assistant secretary for community planning and development, told local HUD officials, "your staff should immediately return any new proposals received during January for the March 1986 small-cities round" of grants.

Moran said the order was given in response to directions from OMB deferring the spending of money already appropriated by Congress.

Unless overturned by Congress, the deferrals can stop the awarding of the popular Urban Development Action Grants until the end of the fiscal year on Sept. 30. If the administration wanted to stop the spending beyond then it would have to ask Congress to not appropriate any money for the program and cancel its previous appropriations.

The decision met with criticism from an official representing some of the nation's municipalities.

Randy Arndt, spokesman for the National League of Cities, said the move is intended to cancel the program.

"This is not a deferral with the intention to spend next year. This is a deferral with the intention to cancel next year," he said. "Even before the question of (fiscal) 1987, we are seeing the 1986 budget being torn apart — and by a method that flies in the face of actions of Congress."

A formal deferral message, explaining the decision, will be sent to Congress next week. HUD has already started getting the word out to the nation's municipalities.

"There's no sense to having the communities finish up their applications" if HUD knows it is not going to process them, said HUD spokesman Jack Flynn.

"It's quite normal for the deferral to start before the message goes to Congress," OMB's Dale said.

Congress authorized $390 million in new UDAGs for 1986. HUD announced $41.5 million in grants for small cities in December and will announce another $80 to $90 million in funds for large cities before the end of January, Moran said. Those grants are not affected by the order, Moran emphasized.

Witnesses say police shot, killed black girl

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police reported finding the bodies of seven blacks killed in ethnic disputes and political unrest, and witnesses said police who broke up a student debate on a boycott of black schools shot and killed a black girl. The new school year begins today in South Africa's black schools. Organizers of sporadic boycotts during the past two years have called on the youths to go back to school and work for change from within. However, there were doubts whether the attendance would return to normal. Witnesses in a black township west of Johannesburg said Monday that a police riot squad moved in to break up a meeting on whether the students should return to classes, and that the police shot and killed a 15-year-old black girl. Police did not confirm the report. Authorities said they had found the bodies of six men who had been burned to death in Amahlungwa township, near Port Shepstone on the Indian Ocean south of Durban. They said the men apparently had been killed in fighting between the Zulu and Pondo ethnic groups. A land-rights dispute between the two groups has taken about 110 lives since November, including 30 last week. The 6 million Zulus, black South Africa's largest ethnic group, traditionally live in the Durban area where jobs are more plentiful. Pondos traditionally live in the Transkei homeland. J.D. Moshoeshoe, a representative of the Transkei homeland, said the Pondos would begin negotiations with the Zulus Wednesday in an effort to end the violence. Police also reported that they found the charred body of a black woman in a shallow grave in the Cape province community of Molteno. She apparently was a victim of political unrest, police said. About 1,000 people have died in the past 17 months of protests against apartheid, under which South Africa's 5 million whites control the government and economy and deny the right to vote to 24 million blacks. Most of those slain have been killed by police and soldiers, but others have been killed in violence between black groups. In London Monday the human rights group Amnesty International called for the abolition of South Africa's pass laws. Every black 16 years of age or older must carry a pass stating where he or she is permitted to live and work. Any black found without a pass or in an unauthorized area may be arrested.

Israeli leader seeks talks with 'new Germany'

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres began a series of meetings with West German officials today to discuss the Middle East, trade issues, and relations between the two countries that still are clouded by the Nazi Holocaust. Peres, who made an emotional visit to the Nazis' Bergen-Belsen concentration camp Monday, arrived amid a new controversy over Germans' attitudes toward Jews. The Israeli prime minister met early today with President Richard von Weizsaecker, who invited Israel's President Chaim Herzog to visit West Germany. A Bonn government spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the two leaders agreed that Herzog's visit, the first by an Israeli head of state, would take place soon. Peres also was scheduled to meet with Economics Minister Martin Bangemann, Defense Minister Manfred Woerner and other top ranking Bonn officials, and later hold three hours of talks with Chancellor Helmut Kohl. The Middle East situation, trade, and relations between Israel and West Germany were expected to be major points of discussion. Monday a West German news-magazine published a story quoting Kohl as saying a majority of Germans still harbor anti-Semitic feelings. But chief government spokesman Friedhelm Ost strongly denied that Kohl had made the statements quoted in the left-leaning Der Spiegel. An Israeli official did not rule out that the issue would come up in two hours of talks scheduled today. Kohl welcomed Peres with military honors at the chancellery Monday afternoon.

AP Laserphoto

Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres stands next to the Jewish memorial at the Nazi concentration camp of Bergen-Belsen in Germany Monday. Fifty thousand people, most of them Jews, died at Bergen-Belsen before the British Army liberated the camp on April 15, 1945.

In meetings today with Kohl and other West German officials, Peres was expected to urge more West German investment in Israel and speak out against promised West German arms sales to Saudi Arabia. Israeli officials quashed speculation Peres would meet with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, who plans to visit Bonn Thursday, the day after Peres leaves for Berlin. Peres arrived in Bonn Sunday night and joined German Jewish leaders in paying an emotional visit

Monday to the former Nazi concentration camp at Bergen-Belsen where 50,000, including 30,000 Jews, died of hunger and disease during World War II. They were among the estimated 6 million Jews who died at the hands of the Nazis in 1933-1945. After the visit, Peres told reporters, "I came here (West Germany) to develop dialogue without forgetting the past." In a speech in Hanover, Peres quoted David Ben-Gurion, Israel's founding father, as saying a new Germany had risen from the ashes of the Holocaust. "It is to that Germany that we are looking today," he said. But the Der Spiegel story and other recent controversies in West Germany point to the difficulty in attaining such a German-Jewish dialogue. Der Spiegel said Kohl made the remark that most Germans are still anti-Semitic while commenting on a recent statement by Hermann Fellner, a conservative Bavarian politician. Earlier this month, Fellner said recent Jewish calls for financial restitution for labor they were forced to perform for German companies during the Nazi years "give rise the impression that Jews will always answer when money is jingling in German cashboxes." Fellner apologized in front of the Bonn parliament, but not before angry German Jewish leaders criticized the West German government's tardy response in condemning the remark. "According to Kohl, the overwhelming majority of Germans think like Fellner," Der Spiegel said in its Monday editions. The magazine paraphrased remarks it said were made by Kohl during an informal chat with journalists. In another incident, Jewish protests forced the cancellation of a play's premiere in Frankfurt last November. The play, "Garbage, City and Death," by the late Rainer Werner Fassbinder, portrayed Jews in an unflattering light by spotlighting the unscrupulous activities of a Jewish land speculator. Bad feelings also arose in Israel last spring when West Germany invited President Reagan to lay a wreath at the Bitburg cemetery.

Ethiopian government, relief group at odds over relocation

New York Times News Service NEW YORK — The Ethiopian government and a private relief group are at odds over a report by the group that says more Ethiopians are dying as a result of the policies of their government than as a result of famine. The charge, by the Paris-based group known as Doctors Without Borders, is in a recent study of a program of Ethiopia's Marxist government to resettle 1.5 million famine victims. The report, titled "Mass Deportations in Ethiopia," says that as many as 300,000 people are likely to die in the process, a death rate of 20 percent. Ethiopian officials denied the assertion Monday. Doctors Without Borders, in contending that the resettlement program "is today a more important cause of mortality than the famine itself," says the information came largely from accounts by relief workers and Ethiopian refugees in the Sudan. The report says thousands of people have been resettled "at gunpoint," that families have been separated, that food and blankets donated from abroad have been "used as bait" and that conditions during transport and in the resettlement areas have led to widespread disease and death.

Doctors Without Borders was expelled from Ethiopia Dec. 2 after having worked there since 1984. The ouster came after members of the group made public estimates that as many as 100,000 people had already died in the resettlement program. The report calls the program "one of the most massive violations of human rights we have seen" and notes that it is "being carried out with funds and gifts from international aid."

Girma Amare, charge d'affaires at the Ethiopian Embassy in Washington, said the charges were "without foundation" and he noted that the United Nations Office for Emergency Operations in Africa had disputed the estimates. A spokesman for the United Nations office, Salim Lone, while not denying that there had been deaths as a result of the resettlement program, said the United Nations "would categorically deny that death rates have occurred on anywhere near that scale." M. Peter McPherson, head of the United States Agency for International Development, reached in Minneapolis by telephone, said: "Our judgment is that there have been large numbers of deaths. It is clear that this is a major disaster. The only question is the magnitude. Everyone should take these charges seriously. What we need is an opportunity for independent verification."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Honduran leader to fight poverty, restructure debt

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Newly inaugurated President Jose Azcona Hoyo began his term with a vow to fight the desperate poverty of his Central American nation and to seek new terms from lenders on repayment of its foreign debt. Standing in a chilling wind Monday before 40,000 spectators in the national stadium, Azcona Hoyo, 56, donned the blue and white presidential sash to become the first freely elected president to succeed another in Honduras since 1929. Vice President George Bush, who led the U.S. delegation, hailed the inauguration as a triumph for democracy and said it was "an occasion for celebration." The United States has encouraged democracy in Central America and U.S. officials have said continuation of current levels of U.S. assistance to Honduras — more than $750 million since 1981 — would be tied to a smooth, democratic transfer of power.

Three die in Haiti protest

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Police fired automatic weapons and tear gas to smash an anti-government demonstration Monday in the port city of Cap-Haitien, killing three people and wounding at least 30, a hospital spokesman reported. The spokesman at the Justilien Hospital in Cap-Haitien said the bodies of a man he identified as a local

Ugandan rebels in control

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Stores reopened and newspapers resumed publication in the Ugandan capital today, and commanders of the rebel National Resistance Army said they had solidified their control of the country by taking its second-largest city. Kampala, the capital, fell to the guerrillas Saturday after an eight-day blitz, and rebel commanders said the eastern city of Jinja, where many of the ousted military regime's troops had fled, was taken Monday. Jinja is 50 miles east of Kampala. Reports of the fall of Jinja were confirmed by Western diplomatic sources. The guerrilla commander, Yoweri Museveni, told diplomats and journalists Monday that he planned to form a non-aligned government committed to protecting human rights. He also appealed for international help to rebuild Uganda, which has been ravaged by two decades of coups, massacres and tribal conflict. He denied speculation that he would impose a Marxist government, saying instead that he favors a mixed economy.

tailor and two children were brought to the hospital. He said 30 injured people were admitted, 10 of whom suffered bullet wounds.

It was the second straight day of student-led protests in the northern city, but the government of President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier made no comment on the violence. Witnesses said police and soldiers lobbed tear gas canisters into the city's Roman Catholic cathedral to drive out students who had taken refuge there.

Carter aids African farmers

LONDON (LAT) — Jimmy Carter's goals are more modest nowadays, but as he talked here Monday of his new plan to help small farmers in Africa grow more food, the echoes of the determination that won him the U.S. presidency in 1976 sounded again. "Our goal is to be very careful not

Deserved honors

Two outstanding Midlanders were presented awards last week for their civic contributions and service to the people of the community.

The two honorees were Bobby J. Trimble, who received the Leadership Midland Alumni Association's first volunteer service award, which will now bear his name, and Amy Stewart, president of Olsten/Energy Plus Temporary Services, who received the National Association of Community Leadership Organization Award.

Anyone familiar with Midland's renowned volunteer housing repair project, Christmas in April, is also familiar with Trimble because for nearly all of the program's 13-year existence, he has been in the forefront of the project.

In fact to many, Trimble is the embodiment of Christmas in April. He is the driving force behind the annual program. He is the first person present on the jobsite when an elderly or handicapped person's home is in need of repair and the last to leave.

Over his years of service, Trimble's contributions have been acknowledged far and wide. In 1981, he received the Governor's Award for Outstanding Volunteer Work and in 1982, he was honored in ceremonies at the White House where he was presented with the Presidential Award for Outstanding Volunteer Work.

The impact of Trimble's efforts in the interest of making the homes of elderly and handicapped Midlanders safe and comfortable dwellings has been felt by literally thousands of this community's residents. He has made a great difference in the quality of their lives.

To say that Trimble has been important to the development of the program would be to downplay his role. During the early first years when Christmas in April was little more than a dream, Bobby Trimble kept the program alive — often working only by himself on houses that needed repair. In recent years, when volunteers have been plentiful and the program has grown, Trimble has expanded his efforts to make the program grow, by traveling to various communities around the state and nation to encourage efforts to start similar housing repair projects.

Presenting the Leadership Midland award, Robert Rendall said, "Without Trimble there probably never would have been a Christmas in April." Fortunately for all Midlanders, there is a Bobby Trimble.

In recognizing Ms. Stewart, the Leadership Midland Alumni Association cited a woman who has made important and lasting contributions to the civic life of the city. A Midlander since 1971, she serves on a number of boards. The award places her in national competition sponsored by the National Association of Leadership Community Organization.

We join in congratulating Trimble and Ms. Stewart for their awards. They have made Midland a greater community in which to live.

Nicaraguan officials tried bluff

WASHINGTON — When we found out the Sandinistas were terrorizing Nicaraguan employees of the U.S. Embassy in Managua, they responded with a brazen lie and a colossal bluff. Now we've called their bluff.

Last month, we reported that State Department cables from the U.S. Embassy in Managua said that several local employees had been hauled in for interrogation by the Sandinista security police. They were threatened with death if they continued to work for the Americans.

Jack Anderson

Women were asked for intimate details of their sex lives, and at least one was humiliated by being forced to stand naked while being questioned. All the employees were subjected to long interrogation and solitary confinement — for as long as 13 hours.

The Nicaraguan Embassy in Washington responded with a vehemently written denial. In a letter to us, the embassy press attache, Miriam Hooker, contradicted our report on every point: No one was threatened or stripped, she said, and the questioning lasted no more than an hour. Besides, she said, the employees were supporters of the late dictator Anastasio Somoza.

Then Hooker pulled her big bluff. She informed us that an American diplomat, Bradley Johnson, could confirm the truth of her claims. As a vice consul at the Managua embassy, she explained, Johnson had accompanied the Nicaraguan employees to the state security headquarters and waited while they were interrogated.

Unfortunately, Johnson was on home leave in the United States, she added, but if we could find him, he would tell us that the State Department was lying and the Sandinistas were telling the truth.

It seemed unlikely that the U.S. Embassy would have falsified its confidential reports to the State Department. On the other hand, the Nicaraguans wouldn't make up a story that could be so conclusively checked out. Or would they?

The Sandinistas were correct about one point: Johnson was indeed on home leave. In fact, he was off skiing somewhere, and the State Department didn't know where. Evidently the Nicaraguans figured we'd drop the matter after reporting their denial.

We didn't. Our associate Lucette Lagnado eventually got hold of Johnson. He was tanned and rested, and his memory was clear.

"They're lying," Johnson said. "What the Sandinistas said is absolutely false." He said he had never accompanied any of the embassy employees to their interrogations.

As a matter of fact, Johnson told us, he had talked with several of the embassy employees who were interrogated, and was told that all of them had been detained for more than six hours.

Diplomatically, Johnson suggested that perhaps the Sandinistas had been confused because the Nicaraguan woman he was dating had been summoned for questioning, and he had accompanied her to the security police building.

His friend, a 22-year-old student who had nothing to do with the U.S. Embassy, was questioned from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., Johnson said. She "was told that if she saw me she would spend years in prison," Johnson said. The police interrogators accused her of being a traitor and spy for the Americans, he said.

Johnson was able to get his friend out of the country. He said that incident was probably what led the Nicaraguan Embassy to give his name.

Footnote: An American Embassy official in Managua, reached by phone, said that since it had protested the harassment of its employees, there have been no further incidents.

WATCH ON WASTE: The new Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law has had some impact on the Occupational Safety and Health Administration — on paper, anyhow. On Jan. 14, the agency's acting chief, Patrick Tyson, issued an edict to all employees, ordering a cutback in travel expenses to comply with mandatory budget cuts under Gramm-Rudman. But on Feb. 13, Tyson will fly to sunny San Juan, Puerto Rico, for a two-day meeting with safety officials from 23 states and two territories. About 40 people in all will attend, at an estimated cost of about $1,000 each (Tyson anticipates he will spend $647). In deference to Gramm-Rudman, Tyson is leaving behind two aides who were scheduled to go.

FERAL FERRARO?: Former Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro nurses a fierce loathing for the press, according to friends. At a recent party gathering, they said, she could talk of little else but the inaccuracies and unfairness she has perceived in the media.

MINI-EDITORIAL: We think it admirable that Vice President George Bush is such a civic-minded soul that he wishes to take on the demanding task of running the country. We find it distasteful, however, when he pants and slavers in his lust for the job. He has courted the extra-chromosomal conservatives who think Dwight Eisenhower, Gerald Ford and Henry Kissinger were closet liberals. And recently, the vice president's image team borrowed a trick from Richard Nixon when they tried to arrange a cameo appearance for Bush on the popular television show "Miami Vice." Nixon, you may recall, exploited the hit show of 1968, "Laugh-in," when he appeared and uttered the memorable line, "Sock it to me."

CHARLEY REESE Consumers dictate products

The Reagan Administration wants to ease up federal fuel economy standards and despite the screams of a consumer lobby, it should do just that lest the American car manufacturers be kicked in the groin just as they are getting on their feet again.

Of course, the federal government should never have set fuel economy standards in the first place. This was one of several wrong-headed responses to the so-called energy crisis in the 1970s caused by the oil producers' cartel.

Charley Reese

It is a good example of what happens when socialist thinking goes into legislation.

The idea was that in order to conserve energy, the federal government would dictate to the private automobile industry how many miles per gallon of gasoline its automobiles would have to get. These standards were set in the form of corporate averages. In other words, all the different cars produced by General Motors must average a certain mileage. If not fines would be levied.

Now, what's wrong with that? First, it is based on the false assumption that without federal government compulsion, car manufacturers would not produce fuel-efficient cars. Socialists, you see, have this weird idea that producers dictate to consumers rather than the other way around. You can easily see why nearly all socialists are writers, academics, politicians, preachers, and bureaucrats. No one with even minimum experience in the real world of business would believe such a demonstrably false proposition.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors have no army, no police force, and no power to legislate. As big as General Motors is, it cannot compel even the most timid American consumer to buy one of its products. The only possible way car manufacturers can sell a car is to persuade someone to buy it voluntarily. That's how consumers dictate to manufacturers. The manufacturer either gives the consumer what the consumer wants or the consumer, by not buying, put the manufacturer out of business.

Car manufacturers knew they would have to produce fuel-efficient cars just as soon as the price of gasoline began to go up. They did not need a bunch of demagogues in Washington to tell them that. You cannot, however, stop making a big car with a V-8 engine on Monday and start making a small car with a four-cylinder engine on Tuesday. There are many unavoidable months involved in going from a new design to production of a new model. While this is being done, unless you just want to shut down your operations, you continue to produce the old models.

The bottom line is that a bunch of demagogues put one over on the American public. They pretended they were forcing industry to produce fuel-efficient cars when they knew full well that industry was responding as fast as it could to a change in consumer demands.

That's the case today. As gasoline prices have eased and as the economy has perked up, more American consumers are demanding bigger cars. The government fuel standards are now out of sync with the marketplace. Should the government by force of law prevent American industry from responding to this demand, then consumers will just switch to foreign-made cars which satisfy it. The result will be a loss of American jobs.

The big break for Japanese car manufacturers came because, since they were already making small cars, they could jump in to fill the consumer's demands while American industry was re-tooling. That's what gave them the big toehold in the market.

A responsible, free-market oriented, American-oriented Congress would have given American industry temporary protection during that re-tooling period. Of course, a socialist-oriented, internationalist-oriented and irresponsible Congress did exactly the opposite. The result: Hundreds of thousands of Americans were out of work and the deficit problem was aggravated.

As for the Center for Auto Safety which is threatening to sue to stop Reagan from easing the standards, this outfit represents only a few ideologues. The auto industry is answerable to the consumers. The Center for Auto Safety is not. That tells you who is responding to consumers and who is responding to ideology.

LETTERS

Bravo for support

Bravo to Charlie and Florence McGowan for coming to the defense of J. Gordon Lunn. Those two characters who wrote the letters on Jan. 12 and 19 must really be something. What's so great about the lowering of the Times Square Ball, or the Big Apple? It is over in 2 seconds.

As far as musical talent is concerned, J. Gordon can play the guitar and sing. I doubt that either one of them can. It just so happens that I am a singer of country-western songs and a musician, so, I think I know a little something about talent.

As far as Elvis is concerned, many have tried to imitate him. No one can or will ever be able to sing or act like he did, so, they can try if they want to, but brother, it takes 'guts'. If these two people were so upset why didn't they turn on another channel? No one forced them to watch Channel 2.

Those people at Channel 2 give a lot of their time and talent to charitable organizations. And as far as the personnel at Channel 2 are concerned, I, for one, am interested in what they do.

My hat is off to Channel 2 for taking an interest in its people. Must be nice to work for a company like that.

Keep up the good work, J. Gordon. Just keep in mind that there are always those jealous-hearted people around who can't stand to see someone doing something they can't! I know.

MISD policy needs study

I am writing in regard to MISD's present policy concerning the selection of the valedictorian and the salutatorian in our high schools.

I understand that presently the grade point average and a special two-day test have equal value in deciding who shall win these honors. Although much of the time this may prove a fair method of selection, I understand it has not always been so.

It seems that the diligence of maintaining the two highest grade point averages throughout their high school years should have more emphasis than a two-day test. I realize that the possibility of a tie must be considered, in which case there should be another consideration. SAT scores could be a deciding factor or even another similar consideration.

I am not writing this because this has affected my family personally. However I believe our young people should know that there is a reward for continued diligence in school and throughout life.

I hope the school board will consider a more consistently fair method of selecting these two "once in a lifetime" honors.

RUSSELL BAKER

Forward — to good old days!

NEW YORK — In the old days — and the old days nowadays can be just a year or two ago, or even just a small number of days ago, because when there is no sense of history left nobody can tell precisely how long ago the past occurred ...

But that's another subject ...

In the old days everything was new in the United States, and — come to think of it — in the new days, which is where we are now, everything is old. People — the population, I mean: Old and getting older. The president is old, the airplanes are old and, worse, the airplane engines are old. The New York subway is old, the ad man's favorite slogan — "new and improved" — is old.

Of course, you might challenge this by saying the paradox is merely linguistic sleight-of-hand — though you might say "linguistic sleight-of-hand," I suppose, when you can easily display a little wit by saying "linguistic sleight-of-tongue," though I don't recommend that either, because the instant you get witty, saying things like "sleight-of-tongue," instead of "sleight-of-hand," everybody will conclude that you're a frivolous lightweight, therefore unworthy of attention when challenging paradoxes. Rule One if you want to be taken seriously is: Always speak in cliches.

In 1915, the Coast Guard was created by an act of Congress.

In 1916, Louis D. Brandeis was appointed to the U.S. Supreme Court. He was the court's first Jewish member.

member.

Ten years ago: The Senate voted to broaden the U.S. fishing jurisdiction to 200 miles off the coasts. The action took effect in July 1977.

Five years ago: In a White House ceremony, President Reagan welcomed home the 52 former American hostages of Iran, and promised "swift and effective" retribution for attacks on American government employees in foreign lands.

One year ago: Several Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee joined the call in Congress for President Reagan to reduce his military spending proposal.

Today's birthdays: Author Susan Sontag is 53. Actor Alan Alda is 50. Actress Susan Howard is 43. Actress and singer Barbi Benton is 36.

Thought for today: "Habit is habit, and not to be flung out the window by any man, but coaxed downstairs a step at a time." — Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), American writer (1835-1910).

WEATHER SUMMARY

Conditions forecast for 7 a.m. Wednesday

TEMPERATURES:

PRECIPITATION:

FRONTS:

Sunny skies, warm weather in forecast

From Staff and Wire Reports

Winter will remain on the back burner for at least one more day as the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport is calling for sunny skies and a high in the mid-70s for Wednesday.

Clear skies with a low in the mid-30s is predicted for tonight with winds out of the southwest at five to 10 mph. On Wednesday the winds will shift to the west at five to 15 mph.

The record high set for Jan. 27 was set in 1960 and was 20 degrees above Monday's high of 60. This morning's low of 32 was 22 degrees warmer than the record low set in 1948.

STATE

Skies were cloudless over much of Texas this morning as high pressure continued as the primary weather factor.

Temperatures were in the upper 20s over extreme East Texas and west of the Pecos River. Elsewhere, readings were generally in the 30s except for deep South Texas and the Edwards Plateau, where readings in the low to mid 40s were common. Overnight temperatures varied from 27 at El Paso to 49 at Brownsville.

Light west winds were reported over the South Plains and Panhandle. South winds of 5 to 15 mph were common across the rest of the state with the exception of far West Texas, where light and variable breezes prevailed.

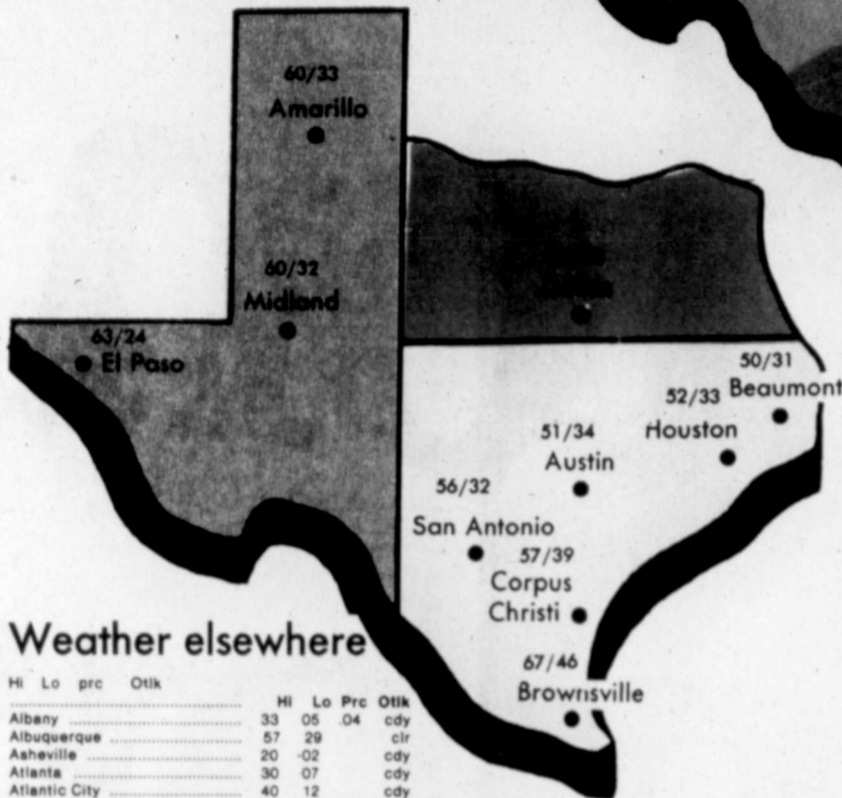

The National Weather Service said skies should remain generally fair statewide through Wednesday. Lows tonight should vary from the middle 20s in the mountains of far West Texas to near 60 in the Rio Grande Valley.

NATION

Maine was colder than Florida as cold air swept out of the nation's midsection and into the Southeast and Atlantic Coast region, giving the West a break from cold today but chilling the East.

Unseasonably low temperatures dominated the eastern half of the nation and above-normal temperatures prevail across the western half, the National Weather Service said, as a mild air mass replaced cold air in the Plains.

Temperatures were in the teens in sections of northern Florida at 2 a.m. and wind chills were near zero across northeastern Florida. Central Florida had temperatures in the 20s and southern Florida in the upper 20s to low 30s.

Chaps within two games of win streak mark

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Midland College in the opening 20 minutes shot like a team that was in mourning after taking the 11 points and New England Patriots in Sunday's Super Bowl. However, in the last half the Chaparrals were the same old Green Monsters of Midland in blowing away Clarendon College, 95-59, at Langford Chaparral Center Monday night.

For the 22-0, No. 2 ranked Chaps, it made them 8-0 in Western Junior College Conference play and kept them on track for a couple of consecutive win-streak records. MC is within two of tying the school's single season consecutive win streak. And beyond that lies the 29 in a row over a two-year period. Clarendon left Midland 3-5 in WJAC and 8-10 overall. Although MC was only 16-of-44 the first half, it was never a contest. The Chaps took a 38-20 lead into the dressing room.

"Sunday we worked out against a zone defense. And that isn't what we saw tonight. It threw us off for a while." Assistant Coach Reggie Franklin explained. "When we came down court we were hesitant on our shots. At half, we told them to just relax and shoot."

HOW BAD was MC in the first half? If you weren't there, you won't believe it. Lincoln Minor missed his first seven shots. Tony Wright was 0-for-7 in the first half. Ricky Grace went 0-for-4 for before sinking a basket. But Todd Duncan's figures in the first half really show how off the Chaps were. The Lubbock freshman was 2-for-7. That's more misses than he has had all year.

Even so, MC was ahead 23-10 with six minutes left in half, although showing only a 9-for-31 mark from the floor.

Maybe it's a good thing MC got this one out of its system. The Chaps can't afford a night like this when they play South Plains College Thursday. The Plainsmen rolled to another win Monday, beating Western Texas College, 76-71, at Snyder to remain hot on the Chaps' heels with a 7-1 record.

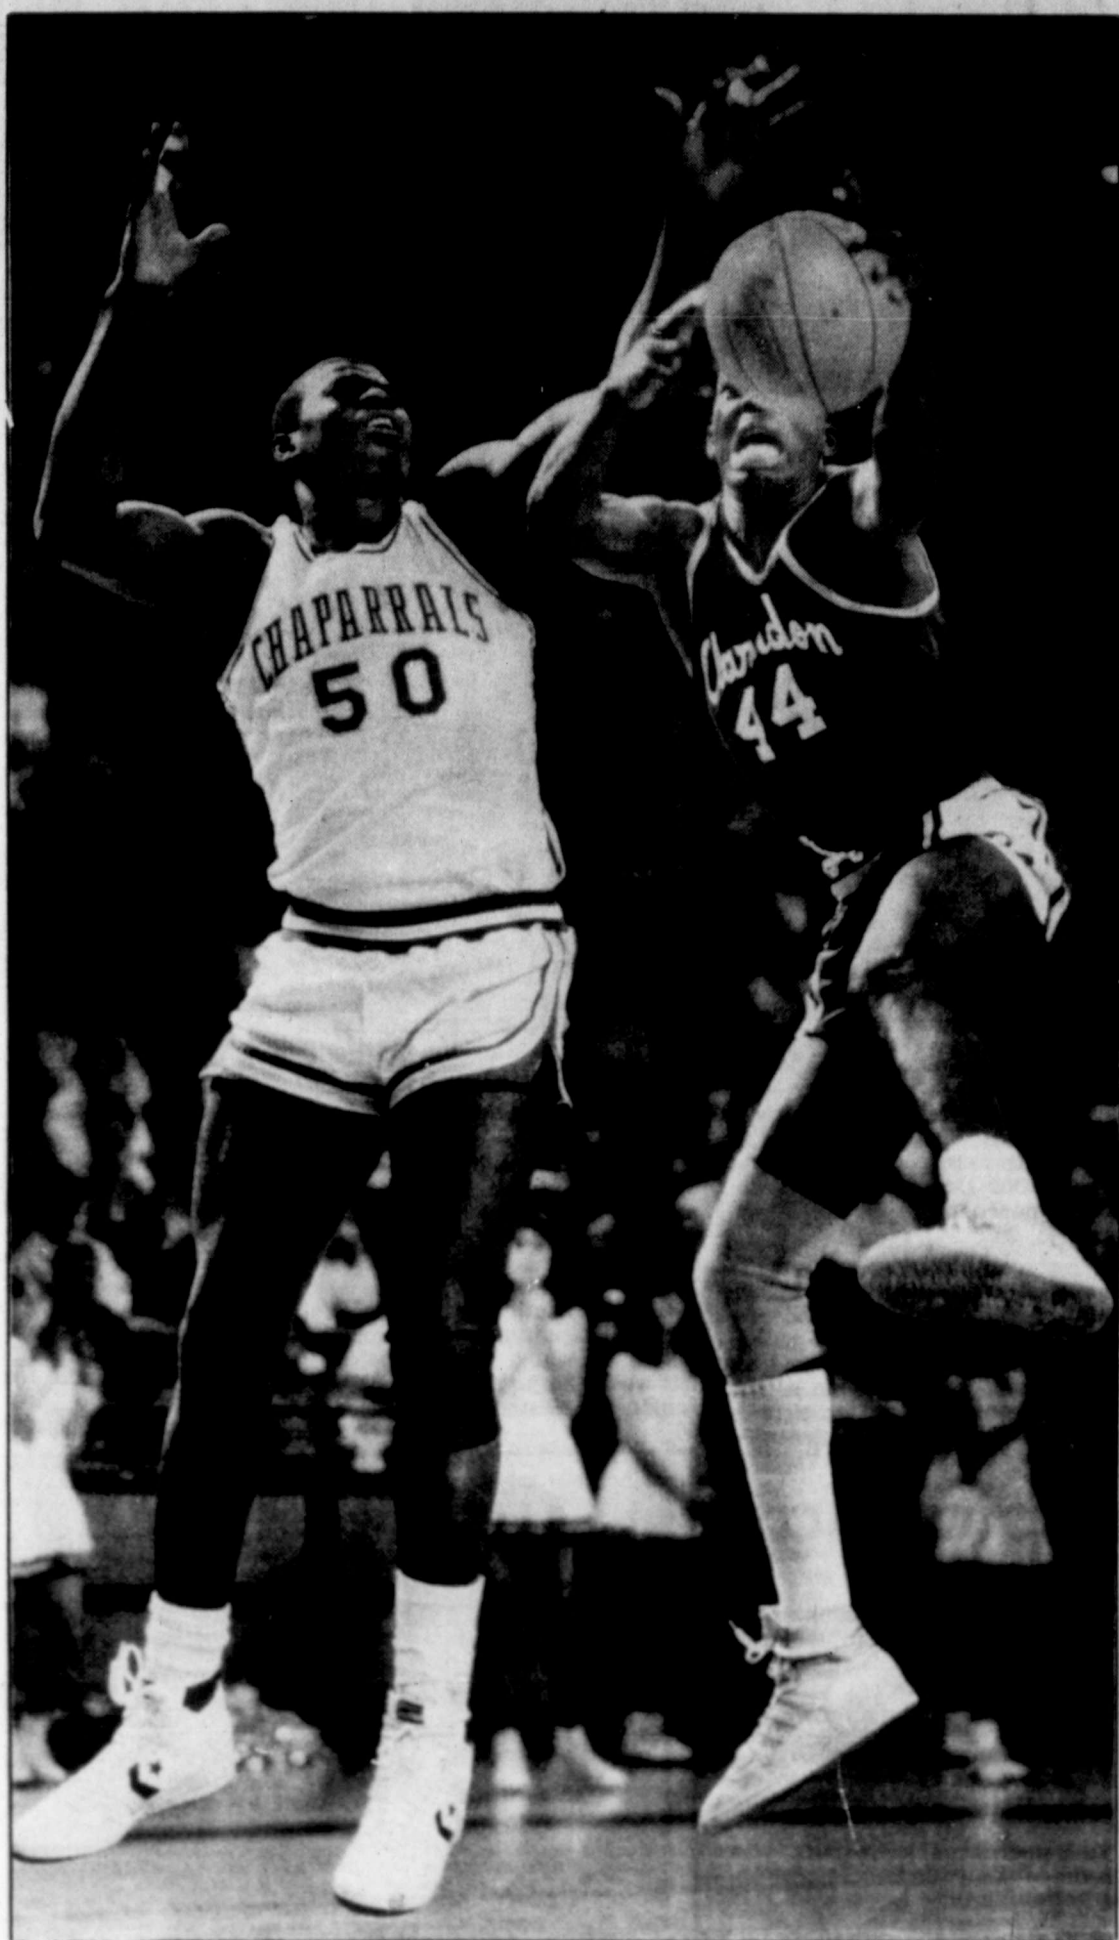

"We weren't exactly pumped up for this game," admitted Coach Jerry Stone, "And we knew we wouldn't be. So we emphasized solid defense and that's what we got, good solid man-to-man defense. As a result, I'm very satisfied with the way we played."

AS FOR the misfiring offense, Stone added, "You are going to have those nights. Every team does. Only this team hasn't had them very often. That's when you'd better be able to play defense."

As "bad" as the Chaps were in the first half, they were that good in the second half, 27-of-34 from the field. Minor, after seven bricks, hit 12 of his next 16 to wind up with 24 points, the game high, for the night.

Lady Bulldogs toppled by AHS

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland's quest to land four high school teams in the state basketball playoffs in the same year, which would be a Tall City and District 4-5A first, took a step backward at the Midland High gym Monday night as Abilene High skinned the noses of the Lady Bulldogs, 58-57.

The loss by the Midland High girls put them in third place in the 4-5A cage race with an 8-3 loop record while Abilene High's Lady Eagles took over sole possession of second place with a 9-2 mark. The top two teams in the district earn a playoff spot.

The Midland Lee girls, a 61-45 winner over Abilene Cooper, ran to a perfect 11-0 record and insured themselves of at least a second place tie in another key 4-5A outing Monday. The MHS and Lee boys are both tied for the 4-5A lead in the other race and both have a good shot at making the playoffs.

BUT NOW the MHS girls are the ones who need a little help down the last three-game district stretch run. The Lady Bulldogs would appear now to need three straight victories over Odessa High, San Angelo and Cooper and at least a loss by Abilene High to get back in the hunt.

The thing in favor of the Lady Bulldogs at this point is the fact Abilene High still has to face Lee, a fact that was not lost on AHS coach Carlos Ratliff.

"This is a bigger win for us than it would have been for Midland High since we still have to play Lee and the way they are playing, it will be tough to beat them. But we do have front running Lee at our place and we are in second now," said Ratliff.

THE BULLDOGS enjoyed the ecstasy of a nine-point lead in the first quarter and the skid of a 10-point deficit in the space of 32 minutes. But the real agony was tasted as the clock wound down.

Sebrenia Finch took an open shot from 10-feet out on the baseline with three seconds left, but missed. Amanda Hendrickson came up with the rebound underneath, but was unable to get a shot off before time expired.

"I thought we had a chance to win at the end. Sebrenia had a good shot to take. It just didn't go for us," said MHS coach Jane Young. "It looks like Lee will have to beat Abilene and we have to win our last three to force a playoff with Abilene for the second playoff berth. I sure hope we get another chance to play Abilene." The Bulldogs rolled to a 6-0 and 14-5 start against the Eagles in the first period as Amy Cumings hit eight of her game high 22 points, but AHS outscored the Bulldogs by a 24-8 margin in the second period to take a 32-22 halftime lead.

The Bulldogs chipped away at that margin for the rest of the game until Cumings hit two free throws with 5:41 left to play to give MHS the lead at 43-42. From there, Abilene got the lead three times and Midland twice. With 58 seconds left, Abilene's Regina Jackson hit two charity tosses for a 56-53 advantage and that was the margin the Bulldogs could never completely erase.

THE LADY Bulldogs did hold the high scoring Trena Jackson to 13 points and you figure you have a chance to beat Abilene when that happens. Jackson fouled out with 1:08 left to play, but the Bulldogs neutralized the advantage by losing Cumings to fouls with 58 seconds left.

With Jackson not at her best, sophomore Jody Anderson took up the slack with 14 points for the Eagles while junior Vicki Dean had 11 and freshman Julie Rodriguez nine.

Midland's Nadine Hill, who scored 17 points, helped key the Bulldog comeback in the third and fourth periods, but did have one 0-for-10 shooting streak.

One factor that kept Midland in the game was the free throw shooting of the Eagles. AHS hit only 12 of 30 attempts while MHS was connecting on 11 of 14. However, the Bulldogs never got to the line in the first half.

"Jane Young did a heck'va job coaching," said Ratliff. "They played a smart game and almost beat us. She's done a lot with what she has to work with."

Young said, "Abilene played very well. They killed us in the second quarter. Sometimes losing seems worse than dying. When you lose, you have to wake up the next morning."

The MHS junior varsity had better luck. The Bullpups scored 10 points in the final 50 seconds of play to erase a five-point deficit and take a 31-26 victory. Terri Cecil led the way with 11 points, the only player in double figures for either team.

MHS, Lee control own destinies

'Dogs, Rebs can all but clinch playoffs this week

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

If Midland High and Midland Lee can survive this week's District 4-5A boys basketball schedule unscathed, then the race for the two playoff berths would be all but over. Both are 7-1 in league play and are threatening to leave the rest of the pack behind.

Tonight, the Rebels host Abilene Cooper at Chaparral Center at 8 p.m. while the Bulldogs are at Abilene High. Neither Abilene school is having much of a year. The Cougars are 2-6 while the Eagles are 3-5.

The Rebels will be playing in the league's key game of the week on Friday when they travel to Odessa to take on Permian. The Panthers are currently in third place at 6-2 and appear to be the only real threat either Midland team has outside Tall City limits.

If MHS and Lee can stay unbeaten this week, they will have identical 9-1 records with four games to play while Permian could be no better than 7-3. While a two-game lead wouldn't be a lock, it would probably give MHS coach Jack Stephenson and Lee coach Paul Stueckler more restful nights.

A Permian victory Friday or MHS and Lee losses in the other three games and there would be a two or three-team run to the finish line.

THE REBELS have been playing sound basketball since their district-opening loss to San Angelo, 81-66. Not only have they avenged that loss with a 73-62 victory Friday, they also avenged an early-season "on court" loss to Midland High with a 70-65 win.

The earlier loss was in the Tall City Tournament title game, 53-51, but it turned into a victory when MHS forfeited three games because of playing an ineligible player.

Since the start of district play, Lee is averaging 65.1 points per game, compared to 61.2 on the season. Defensively, they've allowed only 55 per game in league outings.

Individually, Lee has two players near the top of the 4-5A scoring list in Lee Dixon and Anthony Dickens. Dixon is fourth at 20.0 while Dickens is fifth at 19.3. Also, Eddie Riley is No. 11 on the list at 13.6 per game.

For the year, Dixon (18.8), Dickens (14.6) and Riley (14.0) are one-two-three for the Rebels, who have compiled a league-best overall record of 19-6.

They need a law about Bears

Let's face it, the Super Bowl isn't what it once was.

What happened to those exciting games of yesteryear...you remember, probably longingly, San Francisco 38, Miami 16...Green Bay 33, Kansas City 10...Dallas 23, Miami 3...Oakland 32, Minnesota 14...Dallas 27, Denver 10...Los Angeles 38, Washington 9...

Fans must have nostalgically recalled those earlier nail-biters as they watched Chicago's Bears browbeat New England, 46-10, in this Super Bowl for the Ages.

The Patriots, who had never played in one of these things before, battled their way through three playoff games and arrived in New Orleans thinking they were something special. Well, I suppose they were...the Designated Victim.

Chicago team was relatively well-behaved.

You can imagine the Ban-Football type of reaction if that 1940s game against the Washington Redskins had been screened in your living room. The Bears won 73-0 and even on radio it sounded pretty sadistic.

One fan called in Monday morning and wondered why something wasn't done about the Bears.

"They had the other team whipped," he complained. "All that business in the end zone...what's happened to sportsmanship anyway? That Jim McMahon doesn't have any class at all."

The Bears even ran 300-pound defensive lineman William Perry, better known as the "Fridge" or "Frig," depending on which side of the line you are on, on a pass-sweep option.

Using Perry in the offensive backfield as a passer-runner, blocker and touchdown-scoring fullback may have seemed to many like the final indignity, but Coach Mike Ditka undoubtedly was trying to supply a little levity to an otherwise grim scene.

Patriot fans might feel Ditka's sense of humor bordered on the distorted, but then he strikes one as coming from the same coaching mold as Vince Lombardi.

THE BEARS are an illustration of football's perpetual merry-go-round, the struggle between offense and defense.

In recent years, we've heard about how the leniency in pass blocking rules and the shackles put on the defensive backs, one lousy bump and then hands off, had given the offenses the upper hand.

Defenses, it was feared, were going out of style. "How you gonna play defense in handcuffs...no more head swipe, permissible holding, no beating up on the quarterback...what are they turning this game into?"

Well, the Bears found an answer, Buddy Ryan's 46 defense. It has quarterbacks looking for a place to fall as soon as they take the center snap.

Next year, when everybody starts using Buddy's 46, it will be the turn of the offenses to beat about the dominance of defenses and how the rules are going to have to be changed to even things up.

But that still doesn't solve the problem of the Bears. What's to be done? Let 'em into a championship game and it's 73-0, 46-10. Either bar them from future participation or make them wear muzzles and a leash. It's the only way to keep this thing on TV, family TV, at least.

Tigers teach Hokies a lesson, 83-61

Associated Press

In a much-heralded battle of Top Twenty powers, Memphis State's basketball team showed Virginia Tech who was boss. In fact, the Tigers pressed the point home.

"I told our guys in practice that they couldn't handle our press and to keep after them," said Memphis State Coach Dana Kirk after Monday night's 83-61 rout of the Hokies in a big Metro Conference game. "All in all, I think we played as well in one 15-minute streak (in the second half) as we have played this year."

The Tigers, just boosted to No. 2 in the national rankings, had problems getting started against the No. 16 Hokies, falling behind 8-0. But it was a different story after that, as Memphis State rolled to its 20th straight victory this season.

Baskerville Holmes scored 19 points to power Memphis State. Holmes, who had two points in the first half before coming alive in the second, also chipped in with nine rebounds for the Tigers while center William Bedford added 12 points and 11 rebounds.

After a cool first half, the Tigers came back hot after intermission, moving to a 21-point lead, 53-32, with 12:47 to play. Holmes scored 12 points during that flurry, which saw the Tigers stage unanswered runs of eight and 10 points.

Virginia Tech Coach Charles Moir said his Hokies were just out-pressed.

"The second half, we turned it over against the press. We had too many turnovers, 22, and that is normal to lose a game with that," Moir said.

No. 5 Duke 89, Harvard 52
David Henderson scored 14 points and reserve Billy King was 5-for-5 from the field for 12 points to lead Duke over Harvard.

The Blue Devils, 18-2, started sluggishly, scoring five points in the first six minutes. But with the Crimson shooting 21 percent for the first half, Duke slowly pulled away behind the shooting of Henderson and Johnny Dawkins to take a 40-19 halftime lead.

Duke wound up with a 54.5 shooting percentage from the field while Harvard could only manage 37 percent. Keith Webster led the Crimson with 11 points.

"We played very lethargic in the first half," said Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski. "I thought our second half was excellent. The second half was good because we executed almost every time downcourt. We moved the ball around well and I thought we really worked hard defensively."

No. 12 Georgetown 69, Providence 54

David Wingate had a game-high 20 points as Georgetown coasted past Providence. The Hoyas, 16-3, took only 19 shots in the first half, but made 13 of them for 68 percent and were up 35-25 at the break. Reggie Williams got 11 of his 13 points in the first half and Wingate contributed 10.

Georgetown's zone defense limited the Friars to one field goal in the final seven minutes of the first half and to only one in the first five minutes of the second. The Hoyas' zone defense forced Providence to take several long shots and they were successful on only 36 percent from the floor, 10 percent below their season average.

Providence Coach Rick Pitano said the Friars have problems in the front court. "If (Bill) Donovan doesn't have a great game, we're going to struggle. We're playing as hard as humanly possible but teams are adjusting to us now. We are looking to go inside, but both our big men (Steve Wright and Jacek Duda) got in foul trouble. That's the fear we have."

Arkansas needs overtime to defeat Baylor, 81-76

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas hit all 10 of its free throws in overtime Monday night to pull away from Baylor and post an 81-76 victory over the Bears in a Southwest Conference on Monday night.

It was Arkansas' first victory at Barnhill Arena since a Dec. 5 win over Samford and the first SWC win at home for a Razorback team under first-year Coach Nolan Richardson. Baylor's Robert McLemore, who had missed his first four free throws, nailed a pair with two seconds left to send the contest into overtime, deadlocked at 65.

It was still even at 67 when Kevin Rehl drilled a 15-foot jumper and Andrew Lang stole a Baylor pass and was fouled. Lang swished both free throws and the Razorbacks never led by less than 4 again.

Lang, starting for the first time since breaking a bone in his hand against Texas Tech two weeks ago, led the Razorbacks with 17 points, 13 rebounds and five blocked shots. Mike Ratliff added 16 points, Byron Irvin 15, Allie Freeman and Rehl, 10.

Michael Williams had 21 points for the Bears before fouling out. McLemore and Dave Reichert had 12 points each and Mark Buchanan added 10.

Four Bears fouled out in overtime. Arkansas led 65-59 with 48 seconds remaining after Rehl drilled two free throws. But Williams hit two jumpers around a missed free throw by Ratliff to cut it to 65-63 with 26 seconds left.

Ratliff returned to the foul line with 12 seconds left and missed again but William Mills rebounded for the Razorbacks. He misfired on an off-balanced jumper, allowing the Bears to get a final shot. Williams missed but McLemore was fouled on the rebound.

The victory lifted Arkansas' record to 10-8, including 2-5 in the SWC. Baylor fell to 9-10, including 1-7 in the league.

"We should have never been in an overtime, but we won the ball game," Richardson said. "We got the monkey off our back over here. It wasn't a beautiful sight, but you gotta be happy you won a ballgame in Barnhill Arena."

"The big fellow, Lang, played a magnificent ball game," Richardson said of the 6-foot-11 center from Pine Bluff, La. "I said earlier 'He's hungry now, he's through being timid.' We visited during the time he was off. Sometime, the greatest thing can happen to a guy, and maybe that was one of the things that needed to happen. Tonight, he came to play."

Would-be Bear not celebrating

CHICAGO (AP) — Defensive end Al Harris, a cornerstone of the Chicago Bears 1984 defense and holdout for more money in 1985, says he never expected team management to call his bluff.

For that reason, the Bears 46-10 Super Bowl victory over the New England Patriots was bittersweet for Harris, who, despite his salary demands, would have liked to have been a part of the team's smashing 1985 success.

"I watched (the game) on TV," Harris said in a telephone interview from his suburban home. "Of course, you'd like to be there ..."

The 6-foot-5, 250-pounder, along with safety Todd Bell, were season-long holdouts, but as for whether he ever thought the Bears would refuse to meet his demands, Harris said, "No, I didn't think so."

On Monday, most of the Bears celebrated their first national title in 22 years in a downtown "ticker-tape" parade cheered by 500,000 euphoric fans.

Troubled Gophers to keep playing

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Three Minnesota basketball players charged with sexual assault have been ordered to appear at a preliminary hearing in circuit court here Feb. 6. In Minneapolis, meanwhile, the university has decided to resume the sport after a one-game hiatus over the scandal.

Judith Hawley, assistant Dane County district attorney, told a court hearing Monday that Jim Dutcher, who resigned Saturday as Minnesota coach, apparently was unaware of his players' whereabouts after a basketball game.

"With all due respect to Mr. Dutcher, he apparently wasn't keeping particularly good tabs," she said. An 18-year-old Madison Area Technical College student says she was subjected to various sexual acts early Friday at the Madison hotel where the Minnesota team was staying after a Thursday game against the University of Wisconsin.

Minnesota suspended the sport for one game Sunday, but university President Kenneth Keller said Monday that after much agonizing, he had decided to reinstate basketball. At the same time, Keller named former assistant Jimmy Williams the new coach.

"My personal reaction is horror, and disgust and some amount of despair that we, as an academic institution, have created the environment in which that can happen," Keller said.

However, he said, it was not fair to penalize the remaining players on the team by discontinuing the sport.

"The other eight have been traumatized by that offense. They appear not to have been involved in it," Keller said. "They appear, perhaps at this point, less likely than any other group of young people in the country to get themselves into difficulty in the next several weeks."

Mitchell Lee, 20, of Carol City, Fla., who was acquitted three weeks ago in Minneapolis of sexually assaulting a young woman in a dormitory, was charged Monday by the Dane County district attorney's office with first-degree sexual assault. Kevin Smith, 21, of Lansing, Mich., also was charged with first-degree sexual assault.

George Williams Jr., 19, of Oakland, Calif., was charged with second-degree sexual assault.

Lee also was charged with two counts of second-degree sexual assault and Smith with one count of second-degree.

First-degree sexual assault is defined under state statute as sexual assault with a weapon or other force, and second-degree as sex without a person's consent.

The maximum penalty for first-degree is 20 years in prison. Second-degree carries a maximum penalty of $10,000 and 10 years in prison.

The preliminary hearing was scheduled before Circuit Judge Robert Pekowsky.

The players were jailed Friday after police halted the team's airplane as it was about to leave from an airport for Minneapolis.

On Monday, County Court Commissioner Todd Meurer set cash bail at $5,500 for Lee, $4,000 for Smith, and $1,000 for Williams. Lee and Williams posted bail and were released, officials said.

Ms. Hawley had sought $5,000 bail each. Meurer rejected defense requests that the players be released on their own recognizance.

Dutcher was in Meurer's courtroom, saying he wanted "to be of assistance to the young men and their families, if I can be of assistance."

Tarkenton, Hornung gain Hall of Fame

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Fran Tarkenton and Paul Hornung, two National Football League greats edged out of the running in last year's balloting, were among five former players named today to the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Others making the 1986 list of inductees were defensive back Ken Houston, linebacker Willie Lanier and running back Doak Walker.

Len Dawson, the Most Valuable Player in Super Bowl IV while quarterbacking the Kansas City Chiefs, and Don Maynard, a star receiver for the New York Jets, failed to make the final cut after being among the seven finalists.

The selection committee is made up of one media representative from each National Football League city plus a 29th member from the Pro Football Writers Association.

Ground rules call for the election of four to seven new members to the hall each year. To be elected, a player must receive support from approximately 82 percent of those voting.

Hornung, a running back and kicker, became the 10th member of the 1961 Green Bay Packers to be inducted into the hall. The others were Herb Adderley, Willie Davis, Forrest Gregg, Ray Nitschke, Jim Ringo, Bart Starr, Jim Taylor, and their coach, Vince Lombardi.

Hornung, a Heisman Trophy winner at Notre Dame, was a two-time NFL MVP. He led the NFL in scoring for three consecutive seasons from 1959-61, setting a record in 1960 with 176 points.

Tarkenton, a quarterback, became the first player who spent considerable time with the Minnesota Vikings to gain entry into the hall.

Tarkenton, who played 246 games for the Vikings and New York Giants, led the Vikings to three Super Bowls in the '70s but never managed to win.

Over his 18-season career, he amassed NFL career-record passing totals of 6,467 attempts and 3,686 completions for 47,003 yards and 342 touchdowns.

Because Tarkenton and Hornung were among the last seven to be considered before the five-man 1985 class was named, they were automatically included in the final 15 for 1986 consideration.

Over the weekend, both Tarkenton and Hornung survived the cut to seven finalists as balloting was tabulated on the eve of Super Bowl XX.

Walker, who played six seasons with the Detroit Lions in the 1950s, made the initial list of candidates as a nominee of the Old-Timers Committee, which studied players with qualifications dating back primarily before 1961. He had 1,520 yards rushing and 2,539 yards receiving.

Houston won in his first year of eligibility for the hall, becoming the eighth defensive back from the modern era to be so honored.

A former player for the Houston Oilers and Washington Redskins, Houston also becomes the fifth safety to win induction. The others were Larry Wilson, Yale Lary, Jack Christiansen and Emlen Tunnell.

In 14 seasons, Houston had 49 interceptions and established an NFL record by running nine back for touchdowns. He was named to 10 Pro Bowl teams.

Lanier was the second Kansas City Chiefs player — after Bobby Bell — to make it to the hall and the eighth linebacker from the modern era.

In 11 seasons with the Chiefs, he intercepted 27 passes for 440 yards and two touchdowns. He was a starter from the fourth game of the 1967 season till the last three weeks of his career.

Lady Rebs bury Cooper, keep perfect record intact

From Staff Reports

ABILENE — Midland Lee's Lady Rebs clinched at least a second place tie in the District 4-5A basketball race here Monday night with a 61-45 victory over Abilene Cooper.

Lee ran its loop record to a perfect 11-0 and there are only three games left in the league race. Lee has a full two-game lead over second place Abilene High, a 58-57 winner over Midland High Monday, and a three game lead over MHS.

The Lady Rebs can clinch a state playoff berth Friday when they meet Odessa Permian at the Lee gym.

Lee got off to a sluggish start against Cooper, a team that has yet to win a district outing. The Rebs held a narrow 9-7 lead at the end of the first quarter, but ended the drama with a 23-13 advantage in the second period. That was the big spurt for Lee as the Rebs only outscored Cooper four points in the second half.

Again the Rebels got double figures from a different pair of performers. Regina Calicut led the way with 12 points while Lavette Wallace scored 11.

Cooper's Dana Davis and Lana Steward shared the game's high point honors with 13 points each. In other District 4-5A action Monday, Odessa Permian (5-6) nipped Big Spring (2-9) by a 52-50 margin and (6-5) San Angelo won a 63-53 decision over (3-8) Odessa High.

Midland Lee (61): Regina Calicut, 6-0-12; Fonda Franks, 2-0-4; Roz Eaden, 1-3-5; Louise Brown, 0-2-2; Vicki Smith, 3-0-6; Lavette Wallace, 4-3-11; Tina Benney, 3-2-8; Candace Morney, 2-0-4; Melissa Hart, 4-1-9. Totals: 25-11-61.

For the Cougars, it's been a long haul since the start of district play after a 12-5 pre-district start. At 2-6 in 4-5A action, the Cougars are only one game ahead of cellar-dweller Odessa High, 1-7.

Terrance Bell has been Cooper's leading scorer in district play with a 11.6 average, tied for 15th place on the stat sheet. Jay Estes is 22nd on the sheet at 10.3. Nobody else for Cooper is averaging double-digits.

FOR THE Bulldogs, Abilene High has been a slightly tougher opponent in league play than Cooper with a 3-5 record. Overall, it's been a long year for the Eagles at 9-15.

Midland High's Elvin Mackey is holding onto second place in league scoring with a 21.4 average, but is losing ground to Big Spring's Brian Mayfield at 24.6.

Like the Rebels, the Bulldogs also have a strong three-man attack led by Mackey, Anthony Deande and Matt Sears. Deande is sixth in the league at 18.3 while Sears is seventh at 17.4.

For the year, Sears still holds the team's highest average, 20.1 while

Texas to gain $178 million from Exxon penalty

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' share of the more than $2 billion that Exxon Corp. must repay consumers nationwide for overcharging on oil from the Hawkins field will be about $178 million, state Attorney General Jim Mattox said.

After a U.S. Supreme Court ruling Monday, Mattox said the money "is being held in escrow, and it's as good as in the bank."

"The court ordered this money distributed to consumers in five energy-related programs," Mattox said. "We may seek a modification of the judge's ruling in order to broaden the scope of how the states may use the money."

The court, without comment, let stand a ruling that the money be distributed to the states and spent on programs to help the needy and energy consumers.

The penalty against Exxon is the largest monetary judgment in American history to be upheld on appeal.

Last November, a state district court jury in Texas ordered Texaco to pay $10.53 billion to Pennzoil for improperly interfering with that company's acquisition of Getty Oil Co. Appeals in the case are pending.

The judgment against Exxon, ordered by a federal judge in 1983, was upheld last July by a special federal appeals court in Washington.

Exxon, the nation's largest corporation, was found to have overpriced oil from the Hawkins field near Tyler, Texas, between 1975 and 1981.

The corporation, in a Supreme Court appeal supported by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said it was the victim of confusing federal regulations. Exxon lawyers said the corporation was penalized for expanding production at a time of heightened national concern over energy shortages.

The Supreme Court also was urged by the airline industry, other oil companies, a utility company, a trucking firm, a taxicab company and a motorist to review the case and order redistribution of the money. They said they should be reimbursed for buying overpriced oil from Exxon.

Exxon was found to have made illegal profits of $895.5 million by classifying so-called "old" oil as "new" oil, and thus selling it at nearly twice the price.

The federal controls that created the two-tier pricing system were removed by President Reagan immediately after he took office in 1981.

The balance of the judgment against Exxon is in interest charges of approximately $500,000 a day.

C.C. Garvin Jr., chairman of Exxon, said "We are extremely disappointed with the U.S. Supreme Court's decision not to review the major crude oil price case involving the Hawkins field. We had hoped, after a review of the case, that the U.S. Supreme Court would find the District Court judgement contained major inequities and Exxon and others should be allowed to present their complete case in court."

However, the Supreme Court decision not to review the case continues a trend of judicial rulings unfavorable to the oil industry, which have involved a myriad of legal issues arising from complex regulations promulgated during the period of federal price controls. Exxon and others were continually faced with interpreting and applying these rules on short notice, although the government's interpretation was often based on retroactive interpretations and applications, as was the case in the Hawkins litigation.

It has always been Exxon's policy to abide with government rules and regulations even though there have been questions in the language of the rules, and they have sought to interpret these regulations in consultation with government officials in a manner consistent with the government's stated purposes and intentions.

The corporation continues to have strong internal cash flow, and premier financial position and this will not be affected by the Hawkins judgement."

Exxon was ordered to pay the $2 billion to the federal government for redistribution to the states based on their energy consumption during the period of overpricing.

The states must spend the money on energy conservation, such as weatherizing buildings and reducing consumption by schools and hospitals, and to aid the poor with home utility bills.

Exxon operates the Hawkins oil field and owned two-thirds of it. In the mid 1970s, the company began to enhance the recovery of dwindling crude oil production there by spending some $220 million to pump in inert gas to create additional pressure for forcing out the oil.

The improvements will yield approximately 70 million barrels of additional crude, Exxon said.

As part of the enhancement program, the other leaseholders in the field no longer get the specific production of their individual wells. Instead, they are paid a percentage of the field's production.

The dispute over what is old oil and what is new involves exactly what that accounting changeover took place.

Judge sets back building of All American Pipeline

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission must set new water pollution rules before considering a proposal to build an oil pipeline across the Edwards Aquifer, a state judge has ruled.

Opponents of All American Pipeline's proposal called the Monday ruling a victory.

"It's a victory in that everyone will now know what the rules of the game are before we start the game," said Austin lawyer Roy Rutland, who represents Concerned Citizens to Protect the Edwards Aquifer.

District Judge Joe Dibrell of Austin said in a Monday opinion the Railroad Commission is "without lawful authority" to review All American's application until the commission complies with a 1985 legislative mandate to set new water pollution rules.

Colorado Sen. Gary Hart smiles as he participates in a symposium in Dallas Monday at the Infomart. The program featured leaders in government and industry.

All American, a Goodyear subsidiary, wants to build a 30-inch heated pipeline to carry Alaskan crude from California to Houston-area refineries. Concerned Citizens to Protect the Edwards Aquifer claims the pipeline could be an environmental threat to the aquifer, a major underground source of water for Central Texas.

Commission officials and attorneys for All American were unavailable for comment late Monday afternoon.

Dibrell directed lawyers in the case to prepare an order for him to sign. Rutland said that order would include an injunction barring further action on the pipeline request until the new rules are set.

Also Monday, Hays County commissioners voted to join neighboring Travis County in battling the pipeline proposal. The unanimous vote came after a request from Travis County Judge Mike Renfro.

"It's time for us to broaden our attack on this monster," said Renfro, whose county has decided to go to court to oppose the pipeline.

Renfro told the Hays County commissioners that he would direct Travis County Attorney Ken Oden to "do anything short of shooting down the (Goodyear) blimp" to stop the pipeline.

"This is my fight, but it is also your fight," Renfro told the commissioners. "It is the fight of everyone who values their property and wants to save it from the arrogant, abusive and destructive grasp of the Goodyear All American Pipeline Co."

Hart calls $10-per-barrel oil import fee 'weapon'

HOUSTON (AP) — A $10-per-barrel oil import tax would produce badly needed revenue and prevent the country from once again becoming dependent upon foreign oil, U.S. Sen. Gary Hart says.

"A $10-per-barrel fee in imported oil would be a powerful weapon against that crisis of vulnerability and dependency," Hart said. "It would do more to answer the challenge of energy security than any other measure available to us in the near term."

The Colorado Democrat, speaking Monday evening before a group attending the Cambridge Energy Research Associates conference, said the tax on oil also would lift a depression that is settling within the U.S. drilling industry.

He said reliance on foreign supplies has increased dangerously because of the lack of an energy policy the past several years.

"As a result, since 1981, we have again used more oil each year than we discovered at home. We had 4,100 drilling rigs four years ago, and we have only 1,800 now. We are already back to relying on imports for 30 percent of the oil we need every day."

Hart, a 1984 Democratic presidential candidate, said the oil tax would reverse the dependency on foreign crude and give incentives for domestic production.

Earlier Monday, Hart spoke to about 170 people at an economic symposium in Dallas and said the nation could learn a valuable lesson from Texas' attempt to recover from ailing energy and electronics industries.

"The challenges being faced in Texas are being faced by others," Hart said. "Texas' success (in diversification) can set a model for Pittsburgh with its steel industry, Detroit with the automotive plants and the farm economy of Iowa."

Hart said the Reagan administration is hurting economic revitalization.

"We can't have a president in office saying the government is our enemy," Hart told reporters. "No other nation on the earth thinks this way."

Attorneys say Texaco's large bond unnecessary

By JIM WARREN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Contrary to many recent published reports, state law does not require Texaco Inc. to post a $12 billion bond to appeal its case against Pennzoil Corp., attorneys said Monday.

A Houston jury decided in December that Texaco interfered in a merger agreement between Pennzoil and Getty Oil Co. and must pay $10.53 billion in damages, the largest judgment ever awarded. That figure has risen since the trial because of interest and now hovers near $12 billion.

Texaco argued that Texas state law required it to post a bond equal to that $12 billion judgment — an amount greater than the total value of its outstanding stock — before it could appeal the verdict. Texaco then turned to a federal court in New York, which ruled the company should post a $1 billion bond.

However, under Texas law, Texaco could have posted as little as $5,000 to appeal the verdict, attorneys say.

Texas law requires a bond equal to the judgment only when the bond is to keep the winning party from taking the losing party's assets before an appeal. A losing party could post a small "cost" bond of several thousand dollars — reflecting court costs — but the winning party could seize the loser's assets to carry out the judgment.

But if an appeals court overturns the decision and the original winner had already seized the loser's assets, the loser could not only force the winner to return the assets, but could also force the winner to pay interest and any lost profits.

James Felker, a Houston attorney who teaches and specializes in civil bonds, said, "If Pennzoil is allowed, in a timely fashion, to execute, and then sold it, then they'd have to give it back."

But Pennzoil cannot execute the judgment (seize Texaco's assets) now, Felker said, because the judge has not ruled on Texaco's motion for a new trial. "When the judgment becomes final, in the sense that the court is out of jurisdiction, then they can execute — unless they (Texaco) file a supersedeas bond," he said.

A supersedeas bond prevents the winner from executing a judgment against the loser until both sides exhaust their appeals, Felker said. A supersedeas bond usually equals the judgment — in Texaco's case about $12 billion.

Pennzoil could take its judgment from Texaco if the loser doesn't post a supersedeas bond. But Tom Davis, an Austin civil attorney, said Pennzoil could be leary of executing against Texaco, fearing an appeals court may overturn the trial court. In that case, Pennzoil would be liable for all of Texaco's assets that they took over, plus interest, lost profits and damages for wrongful execution.

As Austin attorney Chrys Dougherty put it, "If I win, in a judgment, your car, and execute the judgment, then I lose on appeal, I'd have to at least give your car back."

Global Marine files Chapter 11

HOUSTON (AP) — Global Marine Inc., an international offshore drilling rig contractor, announced Monday that it filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code.

The company has made no payments since July on about $1.1 billion in debt, said C. Russell Luigs, chairman and chief executive officer of Global Marine.

The main creditors are approximately 37 institutions, including banks, insurance companies and government agencies, said Luigs. He said the creditors did not pressure Global Marine to file for Chapter 11, which protects a company from creditors' demands while it reorganizes.

"We intend to remain a major participant in the future of the offshore drilling industry, and continue to serve the interests of those with a stake in the company's success," Luigs said.

The bankruptcy filing also covered 11 subsidiaries.

Global Marine reported a 1985 net loss of $220 million, or $7.27 per share, on revenues of $379 million. This compares with a net loss of $91 million on sales of $407 million in 1984. For the fourth quarter Global had a $112 million loss on revenues of $84 million.

Sales of existing homes increases strongly in 1985

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of existing homes surged 12.1 percent last year, hitting their highest level since 1979, and housing industry analysts predicted that 1986 will be an even better year.

The National Association of Realtors reported Monday that 3.22 million existing single-family homes were sold last year, the first 3-million-plus sales year since 1979.

Analysts credited the big upturn in sales to falling mortgage rates and a big pool of homeowners seeking to trade up to larger homes. With mortgage rates expected to continue falling this year, many economists predicted 1986 would be another good year for sales.

"The time is right to buy a house," said Clark E. Wallace, president of the Realtors group. "Interest rates are down to six-year lows and home prices are rising only modestly."

The survey showed that the median sales price for an existing home climbed to $74,800 in December, up

3.7 percent from December 1984. This advance was in line with the 3.8 percent rise in consumer prices last year.

The big increase in sales last year followed a 5.5 percent rise in 1984, when 2.87 million existing homes were sold. It was the best showing since 3.83 million homes were sold in 1979.

Most of the increase was attributed to steady declines in mortgage rates as both fixed-rate and adjustable rate mortgages have fallen by 1.5 percentage points over the past year.

David Wyss, an economist with Data Resources Inc., said fixed-rate mortgages now average about 10.75 percent. He predicted they would fall to 10.25 percent by summer, with scattered areas of the country enjoying rates in single digits once again.

These declines will power further sales gains, economists said. The Realtors group predicting sales of existing homes would climb by 8.8 percent in the coming year.

Western Co. loss totals $67 million

DALLAS (AP) — Western Co. of America Monday said a three-year slump in sales continued in 1985, causing a net loss for the year of $67.3 million.

That loss brings the oil industry service company's three-year cumulative loss to $106.2 million.

For the fourth quarter, Western reported a $10.2 million loss, compared with a $1.8 million net loss for the same quarter of 1984.

"Demand for onshore pressure pumping service remained weak during the 1985 fourth quarter, as the market for those services continued to contract," said Western chairman H.E. "Eddie" Chiles. "Accordingly, onshore revenues declined from the previous quarter."

"However, we remain committed to our program to reduce price discounts for such services, which began in the third quarter," Chiles said.

Court upholds Tribe's veto of reserivation oil and gas project

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Blackfoot Tribe's veto of a private company's oil and gas development project on the tribe's reservation in Montana was upheld last week by a federal appeals court.

A three-member panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled unanimously that an Indian tribe has the right under federal law to withdraw its prior approval of a mineral development project at any time before the project gains final approval from the secretary of the interior.

Quantum Exploration Inc. had proposed exploration and drilling for oil and gas on about 40,000 acres of the Blackfoot reservation near Glacier National Park in northwestern Montana.

The tribal council again approved the project in March 1984 and submitted it to the Interior Department. But after consulting with the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, the tribal council withdrew its approval in August 1984, while the project was still pending before then-Interior Secretary William Clark.

Quantum sued, contending that the tribe had no power to withdraw its approval after submitting the project to Clark and that the Bureau of Indian Affairs had no authority to advise the tribe on the matter. Both arguments were rejected by the appeals court, which upheld a lower-court ruling dismissing the suit.

INVESTOR'S GUIDE Investing in CDs Market Gains will leave retirees in good shape

By BILL DOYLE

Q. Last year, my wife and I put $65,000 in a five-year, $65,000 certificate of deposit, at 11.25 percent interest, compounded daily. Our goal is to accumulate enough money to invest in something that will pay us $1,000 per month to supplement my $1,800 monthly pension.

We own our home outright and are both employed but expect to completely retire at the time the CD matures, when I will be 62. Are we on the right financial track? And what do you suggest we invest in at the end of the CD's term?

A. You're on a straight and safe financial track. Whether or not you'll meet your investment goal depends on what interest rates will be available when your CD matures.

With an 11.25 percent stated interest rate, your CD's daily compounding feature results in an effective annual yield of approximately 11.91 percent. That's the beauty of compound interest. By leaving all the interest in the CD until maturity, your $65,000 will grow to about $114,000.

I had to use those hedging words "about" and "approximately," because there can be variations in the formulas different banks and loan associations use to calculate compound interest.

Come retirement time, you'll have to invest $114,000 at 10.53 percent to get $1,000 monthly income. No one can tell you what interest rates will prevail that far down the road. My crystal ball shatters at the thought of such a prediction.

However, even if you won't be able to invest at 10.53 percent, you'll be in good financial shape. With your pension, investment income and assuming you'll be eligible for Social Security benefits, you'll be better off than most retirees.

There's one kicker you should keep in mind. Once the accumulated interest on your CD lifts its total value past $100,000 the amount above that will not be covered by federal deposit insurance.

When that time comes, you might want to transfer enough accrued interest out of the CD to keep your nest egg fully insured.

Q. I am a divorced woman, 52 and self-supporting. I own my own home and earn $16,000 a year. I will soon have $10,000 to invest. I need interest to supplement my income. What do you suggest?

A. The sensible place to put that $10,000 is a certificate of deposit at a federally insured bank, savings and loan association or credit union. You can't afford to take any risk.

My suggestion is to get a CD with a maturity no longer than 30 months. Then, if interest rates go up sometime in the future, your money won't be "locked in" for a long term at a low rate.

Make sure to shop around for the insured institution paying a high rate. These days, it's possible to get 9 percent or a bit more on some 30-month CDs. Because you need income, you can arrange to withdraw interest monthly from a CD. At 9 percent, you'll get $900 a year — $75 a month.

Q. The credit union to which I belong is not a member of the National Credit Union Administration and does not provide National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund coverage. My money in the CU is insured by a private insurance company.

Please answer simply "yes" or "no." Is my money as safe as it would be with federal insurance?

A. No. But this answer, which will make some people unhappy, isn't all that simple. More often than not, CU deposit coverage by insurance companies has been rock-solid. At last count, approximately $15.5 billion in CU deposits were not federally insured. That's about 17 percent of all CU deposits.

Just the same, I have to stand by my negative reply. For absolute safety sake, there is no substitute for federal insurance, which protects each depositor up to $100,000.

This isn't meant to scare you. But, in your shoes, I'd urge the officers of your CU to take action to obtain NCUA membership and provide CU members with NCUA coverage. As a member of that CU, you're entitled to make your feelings known.

Midlander has beautiful memories 'Out of Africa'

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Assistant City Editor

"I once had a farm in Africa," wrote Karen Blixen as the opening line in the recently released movie, "Out of Africa."
Deborah Dannelley of Midland could write, "I once lived in Africa" not far from the area where the movie was filmed in Kenya. She worked there at an American school from 1979-81 and returned at Christmas to visit her mother and brother.
As Ms. Blixen, using the pen name of Isak Dinesen, wrote of her love for Africa and the people long after she had left, so can Ms. Dannelley identify with those feelings.
For the past four years Ms. Dannelley has worked as special education coordinator with Region 18 Education Service Center, a job she found after coming back to the United States. But those memories of Kenya have never faded. The release of "Out of Africa" starring Meryl Streep and Robert Redford recalled for Ms. Dannelley the country's wide expanses, varied geography, bright colors, exotic animals and its tribal people.

THE MOVIE also showed the early 1900s when English colonialism was the way of life. Even though the country now is independent and is coming into the modern world, it hasn't reached the 1980s yet. It still is split between the centuries-old traditions of the tribes and efforts to forget the past and become part of the high-tech world of today.
"I felt like I was in a time warp, going back to the 1950s," she said. In addition to wringer washers and clotheslines, the people had in their homes the same pictures that could have been seen in the United States 30 years ago.
"It is a beautiful country to travel," she said of Kenya, which is about the size of Texas. Kenya's coastline with its beautiful beaches is considered the Bahamas of the European set. Nairobi is located in the south-central part of the country where vegetation is lush. North of that is the desert. And there is an area that used to be an active volcano; today it's covered with black lava.

Nairobi is a modern city, said Ms. Dannelley, with tourist shops, a Woolworth's and the western style of dress. But outside Nairobi is a different story as many tribal people cling to their customs, despite the government's efforts to force change.
The movie shows three of the tribes: Masai, Kikuyu and Turkana. The Turkana tribe lives in the desert area. "They look the way they've looked forever. Nothing has changed in their traditions," she said.
The Kikuyu, which lived and worked on Karen Blixen's farm, are the agriculture people of Kenya. "If there's a spot beside the road, they'll plant something. They're a very industrious people," said Ms.

Dannelley.
THE MASAI TRIBE is a warring people. They are refusing to change their traditional customs and "people are afraid of them." Still holding to the philosophy that they should be the only ones to have cattle, they fight other people for theirs. In the movie, it was a Masai tribe which ran past Miss Streep (playing Karen Blixen) and the Kikuyu assistants on their trek to take supplies to the Englishmen during World War I.
And many tribes still subscribe to the theory that men should have more than one wife and many children because they need people to work the farm. "Most men work in the city but own land in the country" where the wives and children live.
The tall man that served as Redford's assistant in the early part of the movie was a Masai, she said. These people also have a distinctive trait of making large holes in their ear with corks, and the hole enlarges over the years. "Some of the men will loop the hole over the top of their ear," Ms. Dannelley said with a laugh.

In "Out of Africa," a Somali woman had been living with Redford's assistant until his death. According to Ms. Dannelley, this woman was a typical Somalian. "All Somali women are beautiful. They're all tall and graceful and look like they have had ballet training."
The movie was filmed about 15 miles outside Nairobi in a place called Ngong Hills and also at the community of Karen, named after Karen Blixen and the site of her farm.
Ms. Dannelley said her brother Jay has adopted two Turkana girls and the family often went out to watch the filming. He never saw Redford, but Miss Streep one day spent some time talking with one of his daughters.

Officers from the Midland Sheriff's Office Narcotics Division raided a house near Fairview Cemetery Monday afternoon and seized about $800 worth of suspected heroin.

Midlander arrested for possession

From Staff Reports

A 48-year-old Midland man suspected of being a heroin dealer was arrested Monday afternoon by Midland Sheriff's Office Narcotics Division officers acting on a tip from Crime Stoppers, according to Sheriff's Sgt. David Cobos.

"He is to be charged today with possession of heroin with intent to deliver," Cobos said this morning.

About 0.80 percent of a gram of suspected heroin worth about $800 was seized at 1301-B Pecos St. in the raid, Cobos said. Another man arrested at the scene was later released.

In other reports, about $500 worth of beer was reported stolen early this morning from Taylor Petroleum, 2500 W. Front St., according to reports from Midland police.

The value of the lost coins was somewhere between $400 and $600, reports said. Cothrun gave sheriff's deputies the name of a suspect, and the investigation continues.

Survey shows seat belt usage below predicted figure

By RON GILMORE
Staff Writer

While the number of Midlanders complying with the new mandatory seat belt law has increased by 34 percent since it went into effect, an independent survey has revealed that usage is still below the predicted 65 percent — a figure that could affect insurance rates.

"The most recent data from the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS) indicates that while there has been a dramatic increase in seat belt usage since the law went into effect, compliance in nine major and smaller cities has fallen far short of the 65 percent prediction upon which recent auto rate reductions were based," said Charles Wirth, chairman of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office (TAISO).

IIHS is an independent, non-profit, research and communications organization that identifies and develops ways to reduce motor vehicle crash losses. The firm used observational surveys of front seat drivers and passengers made in December.

Wirth was referring to a 5.1 percent average statewide rate reduction for automobile insurance which was approved by the State Board of Insurance October 1. Rates, which were to have reflected the predicted 65 percent compliance rate are effective February 1.

"Since this was the first year of the new law, the board had to make an educated guess about how much effect it would have on reducing deaths and injuries," said Wirth. "From now on, however, the statistics derived from experience will be incorporated into the rate-making process."

According to the survey, which monitored subjects in July prior to the new law and in December shortly after the law went into effect, Midland ranks fairly high in the number of seat belt wearers, but still falls short of the expected rate.

In July, said the survey, 18 percent of Midlanders (drivers and front seat passengers in vehicles up to 4-ton trucks) were buckling up. In December, 52 percent of the targeted population were doing the same — an increase of 34 percent.

Other cities surveyed included Dallas (18 to 64 percent), Houston (18 to 57 percent), San Antonio (11 to 50 percent), Amarillo (6 to 47 percent), Lubbock (11 to 48 percent) and El Paso (6 to 42 percent).

Among the smaller cities surveyed (including Midland) were San Angelo (14 to 47 percent) and Victoria (15 to 52 percent).

A survey of intercity travelers also was taken which showed an increase from 28 to 65 percent.

Commissioners OK funds for Culver

Round-the-clock supervision to be provided for youth home

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

Midland County will invest some $25,000 per year to provide around-the-clock supervision at Culver Youth Home, a minimum security detention facility for juveniles.

Midland County Commissioners voted Monday to hire an additional full-time intake officer to supervise programs and other activities at the facility in response to a federal law which prohibits the incarceration of juveniles in city and county jails without a court order.

According to Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Lorraine Miles, the action could save the county "thousands of dollars" in part-time wages formerly spent to hire off-duty law enforcement officers to provide similar services.

The home, which opened in December 1968, is equipped to house 10 children in its two dormitory wings. But residents often were transferred to the Midland City Jail to alleviate overcrowded conditions.

Under the new law — effective Dec. 8, 1985 — local police departments may not house juveniles in city jails without a court order and "court orders are not easy to get on the spur of the moment," Ms. Miles said.

Without the additional space provided by the city, the county would have to hire around-the-clock supervision at the home, she added.

According to Ms. Miles, the center serves as home for juvenile run-aways and others who have problems with the law. Funding for the facility is provided totally by the county and operates under the direction of the county's chief juvenile probation officer.

She added that the county will consider expanding the home, therefore, providing further accommodations to juveniles. In addition, the county hopes to contract with other counties that do not have juvenile detention facilities once the new expansion project is complete.

"If you foresee a problem and you head it off before it arises, you save the county a whole lot of money," Ms. Mile said.

"We have the facilities, but not the people," she added. "Minimum security does not provide maximum security for those who need maximum security."

In other business, commissioners: • Heard a report on county roads by Albert Stewart, superintendent of the county's road and bridge department.

• Deferred bids for landscape maintenance and long-distance telephone service.

Hale's Hot Oil testimony begins

From Staff Reports

Testimony began Monday in a trial involving an Odessa hot oil service company being charged with the overcharging of almost $500,000.

Hale's Hot Oil Service Co. is being charged with a second degree felony for the alleged overcharging of $454,967 to Gulf Oil Company over a 38-month period.

The company is being charged for alleged overbillings of propane from November 1980 to December 1983, said prosecutor Dan Mills with the Attorney General's office.

On Monday the prosecution said Hale Oil purchased $192,954 worth of propane, but charged Gulf for $647,922 worth of propane.

Propane is used by hot oil service companies to heat oil pumped into production wells. Heated oil keeps wells unclogged by melting paraffin, a natural, waxy byproduct of the oil pumped out of the ground.

If convicted David Hale, owner of Hale Oil, could face 2 to 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Life takes strange turns as we search for our niche

I spent this past Saturday at Lee High School, my alma mater, judging a speech contest.

As I wandered down the halls, it seemed impossible to me that I had once been a student there, that I had once spent 27 months of my life — seven hours a day, five days a week, from September to May, from 1973 to 1976 in this building.

It was a strange feeling. I guess 10 years have put some distance between that high school student and this writer. I was rudely reminded of that milestone one Saturday morning not too long ago when Lisa, a former classmate, called me, updating her list for the upcoming reunion. I know thousands — nay, millions, of people survive their 10-year class reunion. One co-worker did, and another is also marking her 10-year reunion this year. But it's still something I view with mixed emotions. At least my mother can laugh about it. But then, she's always laughed at the strangest things.

The funny thing is that not too long after Lisa called me, I got another call from a long-lost classmate, this one from my college days.

It was a Tuesday. I was on vacation, and was to go back to work the next day. I was home, enjoying the all-too-few final hours of vacation when Tanya called. You could have knocked me over with a feather. Out of the blue, after seven and a half years, she decided to find me and see what had become of me. Dependability was never one of Tanya's strong suits, but she fascinated me anyway. She was so grown up, so worldly, so...experienced. I was a child who happened to be of legal age.

We didn't talk too long, but it was long enough to discover how life can take some really funny turns. Tanya is still living in San Angelo, has been married for almost seven years, and has a little girl. When I first knew her, she wanted to be a singer, although she did admit she couldn't face an audience.

When she knew me, I was going to be an actress — the ultimate movie star, hailed as the greatest talent ever. It all seems a little silly now. I wanted to be in the movies as long as I could remember. And I was always drawn to California. Maybe because I was very young, and wanted to go meet the characters that came into my living room every night. Anyway, that was my dream. I even tried to go to UCLA, and became a fervent Bruins fan, and cheered on the Rams. (After the Cowboys, of course.) I've felt, sometimes, that I was secretly a Californian in a Texan's body.

As you may have already guessed, I never left this area. Nor will I, for any length of time. This is home to me, and while I'll always love visiting California, I wouldn't want to live there. I've discovered a number of things as I've journeyed through life. One is, although I believe I'm a very talented performer, talented performers are a dime a dozen. Secondly, writing has become as important to me as acting once was. And my typewriter works just as well on Permian Basin electricity as it would on Los Angeles power.

So, last Saturday, as I again walked the halls I once roamed, I tried to find that girl who so fervently heard California calling, heard the roar of applause. I couldn't. Which, of course, I would never have thought would happen 10 years ago. Life really does take some strange turns.

Just ask my friend Tanya, the singer, and now a wife and mother. And my friend Barron, who ate and drank and breathed music, must have lived in the Lee choir room, and now sells computers in Dallas. Or my friend Pam, who was determined to be a doctor but got scared of the years of schooling ahead, and now works for Anderson's New Locations. Or my friend Steven, the would-be actor who's now a hairdresser.

Or me, the would-be movie star, now a reporter. Because another thing I've learned is that, despite Robert Frost's road not taken, the road we choose is almost always the one we were supposed to take.

Cancer patient rejects chemotherapy for vitamins

ABILENE (AP) — It was predictable Brad Busby would find the prognosis unacceptable.

Pessimistic doctors at Houston's M.D. Anderson Hospital agreed the best way to treat the malignant tumor — the one located in the cranial area beneath the brain, the one that was inoperable and destined to grow — was with large doses of radiation. They offered him some time but no hope.

That was in 1980 when Busby, 26, was known as a gifted guitarist and lead singer. He had formed such rock bands as "Floodtide," "Magnum," and "Nebuchadnezzar," and later he was lead singer in a New York-area band called "Vision."

Today, in spite of being listed as a terminal cancer patient, he is a superbly conditioned, creative, radio-electronics communications man. The guy who designed the sound system at the Abilene Civic Center, not to mention some recording studios, and maybe even your own stereo. He does work for Bunkley Sound System as well.

Busby earned a degree from Chicago's DeVry Institute in radio-electronics communications by taking a correspondence course. It was a typical route for this largely self-educated, pleasant, but natural-born non-conformist.

Not surprisingly, then, he rejected the radiation treatments the doctors suggested that day, instead embarking on his own controversial fight for survival.

To him, M.D. Anderson was cold and impersonal. A place where seriously ill people go to have their bodies destroyed by radiation and chemotherapy. A place where people are robbed of their dignity in their final days. There are plenty of examples that show otherwise, but to Busby such treatments are "cut and burn" barbarism.

"I can't believe they still use that stuff," he says. Some doctors find it just as unbelievable that nutritional therapy can actually have an effect on a malignant tumor.

His own physician, Dr. Austin King, is supportive of Busby's efforts, but not because he believes in the therapy.

"It's been my experience that people with good, tough mental outlooks have a better quality of life, and in terms of length too," he said, adding that he does believe a positive outlook can have an effect on the body's immune system.

But King remains unconvinced about Busby's choice of treatment.

"I'm sure the therapy has given him hope and made him feel better. As to the progress of the tumor, I'm not sure it has affected that part." Despite doctors' skepticism, Busby's tumor has not spread appreciably, and unlike most people who experience excruciating pain with such tumors, King notes that Busby has no pain.

When he returned from Houston that day in 1980, the first thing he did was empty his kitchen shelves and fill them with enough vitamins and supplements to make his house look like a health store. He also began reading every book he could find on nutritional therapy and cancer.

It was Busby's way of launching his own very personal fight to preserve his own very personal life. If he was going to die, he'd die his own way, i.e. with his dignity intact.

"Then again, I may outlive everybody," he says, expressing the optimism he considers essential to his success. "I've met a lot of cancer patients who have been cured by natural means, by changing their diets."

Once a year since 1980 local physicians, either King or W. R. Sibley, have ordered brain scan tests. Each year the same tumor shows up. Same malignancy. Same inoperable location. It just seems to sit there like an uninvited guest.

"According to the doctors I should have been gone by now," he says. "They told me it was a small tumor mass that would develop and get larger, that it would spread much faster and farther than it has. I'm alive and I still have the original tumor. It has remained stable in a totally inaccessible area."

Busby realizes some will criticize him for encouraging others, who might be saved with more orthodox methods, to choose his unproven strategy instead. But Busby is a 31-year-old health crusader, a man who defines life in terms of quality, and who offers himself as testament to that quality.

The black patch which covers his right eye is the only physical evidence of his condition. Because of the tumor the eye had no motility and gradually closed when muscles atrophied.

Otherwise, he presents the image of a man in remarkable physical condition. His heart rate is 60 beats a minute. His overall body fat measure is less than 10 percent. That's roughly the same as Roger Staubach carried in the years he was taking the Dallas Cowboys to Super Bowls. He works out regularly, bench pressing 250-pounds. That's a lot for someone who is 6-foot-1 and weighs only 150 pounds. Except for his arms which are more muscular, he looks similar to a marathon runner.

"Studies have shown the average person could live to be 120 years old if he had the knowledge of how to take care of his body," he says, referring to research compiled in a book by John A. Mann on the "Secrets of Life Extension."

Since that day in Houston he has forgone all beef products. No chicken or fish has been consumed, either. Pork, he claims, is unfit for human consumption. Even dairy products have been discarded.

BELT

Wirth added that Dallas' high compliance rate "may be the result of its aggressive enforcement of the new law which includes pulling people over solely for seat belt violations."

Locally, a Midland Police Department spokesman stated that while officers are not "pulling people over specifically for seat belt violations," he still expected the usage rate to be higher.

"I would have said it would be higher," said Lt. Dale Carlton. "I would have thought it was more like 70 percent."

Carlton said that Midland police had not been stopping people specifically for seat belt violations.

"If we stop them for something else — speeding, for example — then we may give them a verbal warning," he said. "A lot of times the officer may pull up to an intersection and notice a car next to them where the driver isn't buckled up. Usually the officer will just point at the driver and he hurries to put his belt on."

Both the MPD and the Department of Public Safety have issued seatbelt violations (MPD had given 29 tickets in December; DPS, 99) but both indicate they prefer that drivers and passengers comply voluntarily.

"We're striving for voluntary compliance," said DPS Sgt. Andy Eubanks in a recent interview. Eubanks estimated that 75 percent of local drivers were obeying the law.

Similarly, Capt. Jim Colburn stated that the MPD had "good voluntary compliance" and estimated that three out of four drivers were wearing their belts.

Although in all cases, the increase was substantial, Wirth believes the figures are misleading.

"The period of greatest compliance with seat belt laws is immediately after the effective date," he said. "What we have seen in other states is that the more time passes, the lower those compliance rates become."

An earlier survey conducted by the IHA in New York — the first state to pass the seat belt law — revealed a similar response.

"During the first month, New York's seat belt law was enforced, compliance ranged from 43 to 81 percent in the 10 cities observed," said Wirth. "However, nine months later, belt use in these same cities had declined to a range between 39 and 47 percent compliance. Likewise, on intercity thoroughfares, belt use fell from 76 to 68 percent over the nine month period."

"Regrettably, we may have already seen the highest compliance rate in Texas seat belt use," he said.

Wirth added that future insurance rate adjustments could reflect the low compliance level.

"Since this was the first year of the new law, the Board had to make an educated guess about how much effect it would have on reducing deaths and injuries. From now on...the statistics derived from experience will be incorporated into the ratemaking process," he said.

While compliance with the new law may not be what the insurance industry expected, a reduction in traffic fatalities has been reported by the DPS.

DPS Director Colonel Jim Adams recently reported at an Austin meeting held by the Texas Coalition for Safety Belts in December, that the state had seen "a 27 percent reduction overall in fatalities in passenger cars and light trucks in September (the first month of the law).

"This means that 82 percent fewer lives were lost. And when we looked at front seat occupants of cars and light trucks, we found there was a 32 percent reduction in fatalities for the month."

AFRICA

THE HOUSE used as Miss Blixen's home was larger than the one she actually lived in, said Ms. Dannelley. And the town scenes with the train arriving were fabricated. Denys Finch Hatton (portrayed by Redford), Miss Blixen's English lover, was a legend in Kenya and typified the image of the Great White Hunter.

The ease with which Hatton and other Anglos were accepted by the tribes puzzled Ms. Dannelley. "I still don't understand why Africa let the whites come in and take over."

One answer to her own question might be the missionaries, she said. "They went into Kenya, established schools and hospitals and have done a lot for the people."

She has seen firsthand the work accomplished through missionaries. Her father, a Baptist minister, took the family to Africa for a six-month sabbatical in 1972. He died 10 years later and her mother still refers to that time as the happiest six months of their lives. "He had so much love for those people, and they returned it," said Ms. Dannelley.

Her mother returned to Africa where she now is living in Botswana and working with the Bible Way program of the Southern Baptist Convention.

IT WAS MS. DANDELLEY'S sister, Bekah, who found jobs for Deborah and Jay in Kenya. Both sisters now are in the United States, but Jay remained. He works with the Masai tribe for the Mennonite Central Committee, one of the few whites accepted by that tribe.

"The Masai are being forced to change and they're losing some of their nomadic qualities," said Ms. Dannelley. "He (Jay) is probably one of the best experts on the Masai. He's studied them and has been invited to their initiation rites. He's a photographer and wants to make movies and videos as the culture changes to show the kids how it used to be."

There is an abstract element about Kenya that keeps pulling the people back. Just as Karen Blixen spoke wistfully of her farm in Africa, Ms. Dannelley wants to continue returning to the country.

"When I was there it was a care-free life...no house payment, no car payment and someone cleaned your house."

"Kenya is so pretty you do want to go back...a lot."

Destroyed Jeep information sought

This week Crime Stoppers is seeking information about the Jan. 5 theft and destruction by fire of a four-wheel-drive vehicle in Odessa.

About 5 p.m. on that date, Jeff Falk parked his 1985 Jeep Cherokee Wagon in the driveway of his home located at 1920 W. 17th St. By 7:30 p.m. it had been stolen.

At 8:20 p.m., Falk was notified by the Ector County Sheriff's Office that his vehicle had been found in a field near Route 86 about two miles south of West University. The videocassette recorder and stereo equipment which had been in the Jeep was missing, and the vehicle had been set on fire and destroyed.

MC late registration continues

From Staff Reports

More than 3,000 students have enrolled for spring semester classes at Midland College with seven more days of late registration remaining, MC registrar Dee Windsor reported.

Between 3,200 and 3,400 students are expected to sign up for credit courses by the time late registration concludes, Windsor said. The 1985 spring semester count for credit course students was a record 3,457. In 1984, 3,227 students signed up for spring semester courses.

"We can't emphasize too strongly the need for students to register as soon as possible. We're going into our second week of instruction and the late-registering students may find it difficult in some courses to catch up with the lectures and assignments already made," Windsor said. "Some classes already have reached their enrollment limits."

Persons wishing to take up to three classes may register through Feb. 4. Late registration is handled in the Student Services Office located in the MC Administration Building. Hours are from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

Spring credit course bulletins are available at the Student Services Office, Midland banks, Midland County Library, and Midland Chamber of Commerce. Information about the courses may be obtained by calling 685-4501.

1986 benefit rocks-and-rolls to 1950s 'Heartbeat'

By DAVID L. FORREST
Lifestyle Editor

"Help me, Rhonda,
"Help me get her out of my heart..."

It looked much like a typical homecoming dance.

The band played a Beach Boys tune about losing one's heart, guys in letter jackets danced with girls wearing ponytails, crepe paper streamers hung from the high ceiling and the cinderblock walls were festooned with hand-lettered signs saying "Heart Beat High Champs" and "Go-Fight-Win."

At this Saturday night pep rally, however, the big game was against heart disease, the home team was the Midland County Division of the American Heart Association and the "gym" was Midland Center.

The second annual Heartbeat '86 fund-raiser featured a 1950s theme with music performed by Austin's retro-rock band, Johnny Dee & The Rocket 88s.

"We have a request for some Elvis Presley music. Sorry, he's in Big Spring tonight, so I'll have to do," lead singer Dee announced early in the evening.

Among their other antics, the band also offered a Diana Ross impersonator and brought Buddy Holly back from his Lubbock grave to sing, ironically, "That'll be the day that I die."

Bouffant hairdos and bobby socks made a comeback among the approximately 750 costumed guests who paid $75 per couple to attend. The evening also undoubtedly brought together the greatest collection of poodle skirts Midland has seen under one roof in decades.

Patty Wallace won the award for best female '50s costume with her drum majorette outfit. Jim Richmond won in the male division for his nerd ensemble.

Participants elected a King and Queen of the event by donating $1 per vote to the AHA. After their coronation, King Mark Thornsbury and Queen Susan Lucas were seated atop their porcelain "thrones" and given plunger scepters.

The '50s dance contest was won by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Koziol, while the limbo competition was won by the agile Marsha Pickering.

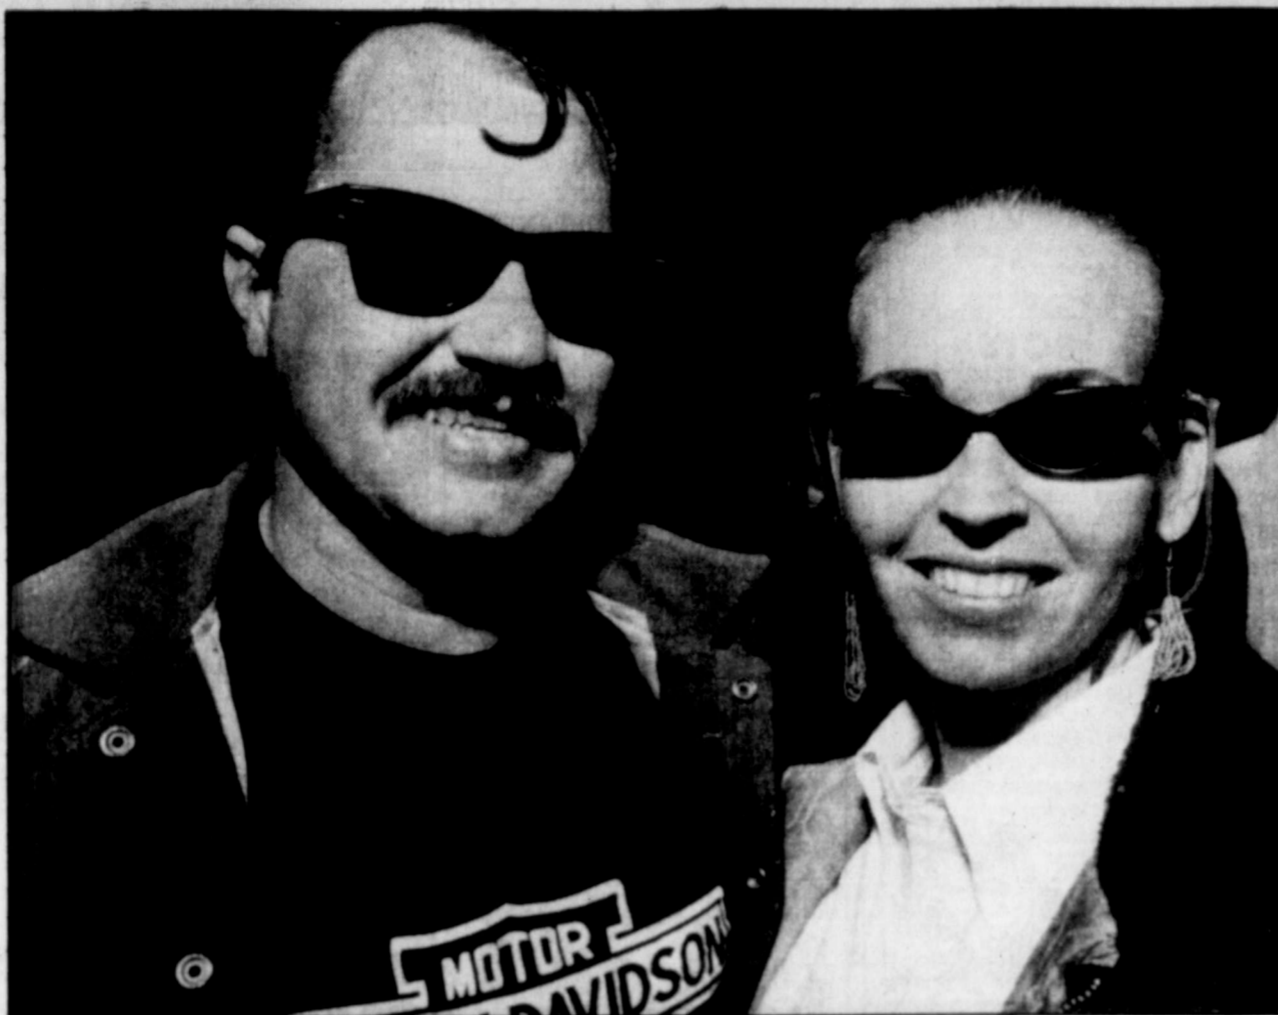

A heated game of musical chairs, with a classic jukebox as the prize, was won by Kay Baker.

Those who didn't win anything were able to take out their frustrations by using handy sledgehammers to bash an old automobile, provided by Arc Truck & Auto Body, parked in one corner. The compact car became much more compact as the party progressed. Toward the end of the evening, the roof was smashed below the steering wheel and the hood laid three feet away from the rest of the vehicle.

The guests dined on such fondly-remembered — although somewhat high-cholesterol — '50s foods as hamburgers, hot dogs, french fries and banana splits.

"Shake it up, Baby,
"Twist and shout ...
"Work it out ..."

The enthusiastic dancers certainly received healthy cardiovascular workouts while doing the Twist, the Stroll, the Swim and even joining a few wild Conga lines.

"Let's do the Hop for the Heart Association!" Dee exhorted the crowd.

Dressed in basic beatnik black topped by a pair of Mouseketeer ears, Skeet Doss, chairman of the event, added fuel to the '50s fire by handing out hula hoops at the beginning of the band's second set.

The '50s theme originated, Doss said, because "It seemed we had enough events in town that you had to dress up in a tuxedo and go to."

"We were just trying to hit on something different."

Heartbeat '86 is expected to net approximately $60,000, according to Rita Nell Diffie, director of the Midland County Division of the AHA, which would be an increase of roughly $15,000 more than last year's event.

"All of our funds we raise go to the state affiliate," said Ms. Diffie. She explained that out of every dollar contributed:

- 36¢ goes directly to research,
- 28¢ is spent on public education,
- 14¢ finances further fund-raising efforts,
- 8¢ is spent on community service,
- 7¢ is used for professional education, and
- 7¢ goes to management and general administration costs.

Major underwriters of Heartbeat '86 were Mr. and Mrs. Mark Thornsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Craig Jr., the Beal Foundation and the Fasken Foundation.

There were 17 other contributors who paid $500 or more and an additional 165 other sponsors, Doss said.

Swartz contributed a fur coat that was raffled off and Golding's donated an Oxford suit which was given away in a special sponsor drawing.

The Disney Channel, Times Mirror Cable TV Of Midland and Southwest Airlines donated a trip for four to Disneyland as another prize.

Building and Homebuilders Supply supplied most of the supplies used for decorations, Doss said.

Chairmen for the event were Bridgette Gossett, decorations; Jeri McCaslin and Anita Patton, invitations; Julia Vaughan, food; William Kerr Jr. and Janet Norwood, entertainment; Bill Decker, construction; Les McLaughlin, clean up, and Guy Hall, grip.

"I'd call it a wonderful success," Doss said. "It exceeded all our expectations."

"I'm going out West away from the coast,
"Where the Midland, Texas, girls are really the most."

Hats faltered in 1960

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1960, when soon-to-be President John F. Kennedy appeared in public without a hat, the hat industry suffered a severe head cold after his fellow countrymen doffed their headgear too.

But today the hat is making a robust comeback, according to Gentlemen's Quarterly. Among a few favorites is an old standby, the trilby, a milder version of the classic snap-brim fedora favored by fictional Indiana Jones.

"Like the fedora, the trilby can be creased and shaped to your preference," GQ says. "With its lower crown and narrower brim, the look is uniquely trim and tapered."

Most persons attending the Midland County Division of the American Heart Association's Heartbeat '86 fund-raiser, such as Mitch and Arleen Ritter, top left, wore 1950s attire.

Heart Association board member Becky Hardy, lower left, helped keep tabs on balloting for the event's King and Queen. Votes were $1 each with the proceeds going to the AHA.

DEAR ABBY

Perseverance marks triumphs over adversity

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: Yesterday's column was filled with names (submitted by my readers) of those who managed to succeed against the odds. Today's is a continuation of that list:

Have a thalidomide child born with a dwarfed, twisted body without arms, and you have a Terry Wiles, who, with the aid of mechanical devices, learned to play the electric organ, steer a motorboat and paint.

Amputate the cancer-ridden leg of a handsome young Canadian, and you have a Terry Fox, who vowed to run on one leg across the whole of Canada to raise a million dollars for cancer research. (Terry was forced to quit halfway when cancer invaded his lungs, but managed to raise about $20 million.)

Let a British fighter pilot who lost both legs in an air crash fly again with the RAF, and you have a Douglas Bader, who, with two artificial limbs, was captured by the Germans three times during World War II — and escaped three times!

Blind him and you have a Ray Charles, George Shearing, Stevie Wonder, Tom Sullivan, Alec Templeton or Hal Krents.

Label him "too stupid to learn," and you have a Thomas Edison.

Make him a "hopeless" alcoholic, and you have a Bill Wilson, founder of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Tell her she's too old to start painting at 80, and you have a Grandma Moses.

Afflict him with periods of depression so severe that he cuts off his own ear, and you have a Vincent Van Gogh.

Your list would not be complete without a smiling Max Cleland, who lost both legs and an arm in Vietnam and formerly headed the Veterans Administration in Washington, D.C.

Don't forget Patricia Neal, the fine actress who suffered a severe stroke, but rehabilitated herself against overwhelming odds.

Blind him at age 44, and you have John Milton, who, 16 years later, wrote "Paradise Lost."

Call him dull and hopeless and flunk him in the sixth grade, and you have a Winston Churchill.

Make him a homosexual, and you have a Michaelangelo and a million other talented people.

Pit her against sexual discrimination, and you have a Madame Curie.

Tell a young boy who loved to sketch and draw that he has no talent, and you have a Walt Disney.

Take a crippled child whose only home he ever knew was an orphanage, and you have a James E. West, who became the first chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

Not all disabilities are physical and visible. And not all who have won against the odds are well-known celebrities.

Every family has its own heroes and heroines for whom there is no medal distinguished enough to reward them for their accomplishments.

It is to you, whose names do not appear here but deserve to, that I dedicate this column.

Springsteen takes home three trophies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American Music Awards honored "We Are the World" and pop music's year of charity as "Born in the USA" rocker Bruce Springsteen took three trophies and nine artists or groups won two honors apiece.

The three-hour, nationally televised awards show Monday ended with host Diana Ross asking as many of the 46 original "We Are the World" performers as were present to join her onstage for a first anniversary rendition of the song.

Michael Jackson, Lionel Richie, Harry Belafonte, Kim Carnes, Stevie Wonder and others who created the song Jan. 28, 1985, sang the finale along with Miss Ross and Elizabeth Taylor.

Hundreds of people in the celebrity audience stood and clapped in unison with the song that has raised $44 million to feed the hungry in the United States and Africa.

The show, broadcast by ABC and produced by Dick Clark Productions, honored nominees in 27 categories of pop-rock, country and soul-rhythm-and-blues.

Springsteen won favorite male vocalist, album and male video artist in the pop-rock category for music and videos from his "Born in the USA" album. The awards capped his year-long success with a world tour that helped boost the 18-month-old LP's sales to nearly 12 million domestically.

Country singer Willie Nelson won two awards as a solo artist and another two as a member of the country supergroup, Highwayman, which includes Nelson, Kris Kristofferson, Waylon Jennings and Johnny Cash.

Also winning two awards each were sexy-voiced newcomer Whitney Houston, hard-rocking Huey Lewis and the News, soul queen Aretha Franklin, country singer Crystal Gayle, veteran country group Alabama, funk group Kool and the Gang, and Wonder.

Special awards of appreciation were given to Belafonte, Irish rocker Bob Geldof and Nelson, who organized USA for Africa, Live Aid-Band Aid and Farm Aid, respectively.

Jackson, Quincy Jones, promoter Ken Kragen and Richie each received a special award for their role in creating "We Are the World."

Besides the "We Are the World" tribute, the show's highlights included a solo performance by wheelchair-bound soul singer Teddy Pendergrass and a tribute to Riek Nelson by his twin sons, Matthew and Gunnar Nelson.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon was reported in good condition today in a Florida hospital, being treated for a viral infection which interrupted a vacation in the Bahamas.

"He's having a good night," Larry Morrison, a nursing supervisor at the Miami Heart Institute, said this morning. "He's satisfactory."

Nixon, 73, was hospitalized Monday afternoon after contracting a mild case of the flu while vacationing at the exclusive Cat Cay retreat of his friend, Charles "Bebe" Rebozo, said internist Dr. Louis Elias.

Patricia Nixon was staying with her husband, hospital officials said.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The first female recipient of an artificial heart is "in good spirits" and ready for the transplant of a human heart, according to doctors who have put out a nationwide call for a donor heart. "We believe that now is the optimal time for her to receive a heart," Dr. Frederick Gobel of Abbott Northwestern Hospital told a news conference Monday. "We think that prolonging the time for transplantation will increase the risk of her developing serious infections or blood clots."

Mary Lund, 40, received a smaller version of the Jarvik-7 heart on Dec. 18 after what doctors believe was a rare virus destroyed her own heart.

Gobel said there is no sign of infection, that the artificial heart continues to work well and that her previous low blood platelet count is under control. Doctors, however, have become aware in the past two weeks that Mrs. Lund has certain antibodies in her Type O positive blood that may cause the rejection of a transplanted heart, Gobel said.

Because of this, Mrs. Lund's blood and the donor's blood would have to be compatible, he said.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A technician on strike against a suburban cable television company has been charged with cutting cables during the Super Bowl, causing thousands of viewers to miss the second half of the game.

George H. Fallows, 34, was released Monday on $1,000 bond after being charged with five counts of criminal mischief for allegedly slicing Rollins Cable-Visions lines in five locations.

Fallows is among 75 technicians represented by Teamsters Local 326 who have been striking since October 1984 over management's rights to make decisions on issues not covered by the contract, said David Mercenson, Rollins manager.

About 15,000 Rollins customers lost service Sunday — the company's second Super Bowl in a row interrupted by cable failure. Last year cold weather caused the problem.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Philip Michael Thomas, co-star of NBC-TV's hit "Miami Vice" cop series, unveiled his flashy line of Machiavelli sports cars atop the Beverly Hills Gun Club.

"No, it's not bulletproof," Thomas said in an interview Saturday. The gun club roof "gave us a chance to be outdoors in the open, to show it off." The club isn't in Beverly Hills.

"I love the car," said Thomas, who owns a white one and a purple one. "It looks just like a $130,000 Ferrari, like the one on the show, but it costs only about $30,000."

The made-in-Miami T-top V-8 consists of a Fiberglas body atop a Pontiac Firebird chassis. Thomas and partner-designer Bob Henderson plan to sell the car through franchises nationwide.

NEW YORK (AP) — Whoopi Goldberg's movie debut in "The Color Purple" earned her a top actress award from the National Board of Review, while William Hurt and Raul Julia shared best acting honors for their roles in "Kiss of the Spider Woman."

"The Color Purple" also took best picture honors Monday as the group presented annual awards named for filmmaker D.W. Griffith. The Japanese epic "Ran," which tells a story based on Shakespeare's "King Lear," was named best foreign film; its director, Akira Kurosawa, 75, was named best director.

Anjelica Huston, who played a Mafia princess in "Prizzi's Honor," and Klaus Maria Brandauer, who played a Danish writer's philandering husband in "Out of Africa," got best supporting acting awards. Orson Welles, director of "Citizen Kane" and other movies, received a Career Achievement Award. He died last year at the age of 70.

DoRite Business Systems helps put old records in their place

DoRite Business Systems, Inc., located at 2500 Warehouse Road, specializes in records handling. Business in the 80's demands that a great deal of information be kept on hand, yet storing the information in an office and be excessively expensive when you consider the fact that office space costs as much as $30 per square foot. Dan Macklem, owner of DoRite Business Systems, is an expert at helping companies organize their records and make the most of their storage space.

Macklem explains that there are two ways to condense required storage space. One way is to install condensed storage units or movable shelves which make the most of every square foot and allow you to keep the hard copy on site.

Another alternative is to put non-active files on microfiche and store the archival records off site (where you can expect to pay about $8 per square foot instead of $30).

Now, DoRite Business Systems is featuring the System 6100 which makes this second alternative exceptionally feasible. The System 6100 is the smallest, easiest to operate, easiest to maintain, self-contained archival quality microfiche system available today. And its available for under $12,000 including the camera, processor, inserter, reader printer and training.

Macklem points out that the information that once filled fifty boxes can be stored in a nice, neat cubic foot of microfiche and accessed at any time.

In one step the System 6100 photographs documents and produces fully developed, archival quality microfilm strips. The finished film strips are then ready to be inserted into jackets to create microfiche. The microfiche can then be labeled and stored exactly like the paper files they replace. No disruption of current operations, no retraining people on how to file and find records.

So while archival records are stored off site, the information is always available and a hard copy can be generated at any time on the reader/printer. Moreover, additional strips can be added to the jackets when needed and, with the jacket inserter/verifier, even a single frame can be added.

If you call Macklem at 694-6662 or 563-3508 by February 14 and mention this article you can enjoy an additional 15 percent discount on the film processor.

DoRite is glad to offer this efficient system, but this is not all they offer companies make a change to microfiche storage. Macklem explains that they can also help companies set up their new microfiche filing system and cross reference archival records. He has special corrugated storage boxes and the expertise to make the move go smoothly.

Macklem recommends this system for many companies that have a great number of inactive files which must be accessed occasionally. However, Macklem says, "We're not a one solution company because everybody's solution is not the same just like everybody's product is not the same."

DoRite Business Systems is equipped to help offices take care of records from the time of their production to the time they may need to be destroyed. Processors, reader-printers, readers, rotary cameras, film, protection files, computer and word processing furniture, Lektriers, record storage and material handling equipment, storage areas and shredders are all part of the offerings of DoRite Business Systems, Inc. In addition, you'll be surprised how many supplies they keep in stock.

Macklem is expecting a new reader/printer for microfiche, which will be priced under $500, to arrive soon. This will be quite a break through.

Perhaps, one of the most important things to consider is that DoRite Business Systems, Inc. services everything it sells.

Call DoRite, 694-6662, for all your records handling needs.

Dan Macklem, owner of DoRite Business Systems Inc., is excited to be able to offer the System 6100 which enables companies to put archival records on microfiche for easy reference and condensed storage. Call 694-6662 to find out how better records storage can save your company money.

Midland Minor Emergency offers quality care, convenient hours

Midland Minor Emergency is equipped with x-ray equipment, as well as a full service lab, to best meet their patients' needs. Both the facility at 2310 W. Ohio (across from hospital emergency room) and the Westwood location at 4334 W. Illinois are open seven days a week.

Midland Minor Emergency Center, located at 2310 W. Ohio and in Westwood at 4334 W. Illinois, offers quality medical care seven days a week at both convenient locations. Dr. Charles Chalfant of the Ohio location says, "We are concerned about our patients. We want them to be happy with the care they get here."

Dr. Chalfant and Dr. Bob Gross, both of the Ohio location, along with Dr. Jim Nash at the Westwood location go to extra lengths to make sure that their patients get the quality care they need.

The center has a full service lab and x-ray equipment on-site to assure patients of quality, timely treatment. Even minor fractures can be handled at the center.

The center specializes in handling minor medical emergencies. Pre-employment and insurance physicals can be easily taken care of at either location. Dr. Chalfant explains that they don't hesitate to call in proper specialists when necessary.

Minor medical emergencies don't always occur during regular doctor's office hours, so Midland Minor Emergency is open seven days a week for your convenience. The friendly staff at the center on Ohio, just across from the hospital emergency room, is ready to serve you each day from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. The Westwood location has just expanded its hours to 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week.

No appointment is required at either location, and waiting time is usually 20 minutes or less according to Chalfant. This helps individuals get the medical care they and their children need, without unnecessarily having to miss many hours of work.

The pleasant office professionals at both locations will gladly handle your workman's compensation claims and medical insurance claims (once your deductible has been met). MasterCard and Visa are acceptable forms of payment.

Midland Minor Emergency Center strives to offer their patients the best possible care on a convenient schedule and in a pleasant atmosphere.

Tall City Uniforms has great things in store for 1986

Tall City Uniform, 1220 N. Midkiff, has great things in store for their customers in 1986. New styles, give aways, trips and rebates are all in the line up for Tall City customers.

Already the new spring styles are arriving daily. A huge selection of uniforms and shoes for nurses, doctors, industrial personnel, chefs, postal employees, band students, security staffs, restaurant employees and career individuals are on display at Tall City Uniform. New styles from White Swan and Crest will continue to come in through April.

One of the greatest things Tall City Uniform has in store for 1986 is a newly-designed Nurse Mate shoe. The Restabout. This incredibly comfortable, water- and skid-resistant shoe is built with restaurant personnel in mind. Before designing the shoe, Nurse Mate interviewed restaurant employees to find out what they wanted in a shoe. When the shoe arrives in the fall it will be available in black, brown and white. Tall City Uniform is to be the only retailer in the area with this new shoe, which comes with a $5 rebate.

In August a new men's nursing shoe will arrive.

Many new styles of Nurse Mate shoes are coming in now. And, when you buy one of the new styles of Nurse Mates, you get a nice umbrella free.

Tall City's competitive pricing means you can get any pair of Nurse Mate shoes for under $45.

Tall City Uniform, which stocks band shoes year around, is expecting a new tennis shoe for band students in the fall. The leather shoe will come in slims, mediums and wides for a good fit.

Your business can be featured on the Business and Industry pages

The Business and Industry pages give your business an opportunity to be featured in the Midland Reporter-Telegram. Call the retail advertising department at 682-5311 to get your ad on the pages.

Every business has a story to tell and the Business and Industry pages in the Midland Reporter-Telegram are the place to tell it.

The Business and Industry pages, which run each Tuesday, offer advertisers a unique format. The articles and pictures on the pages let readers know what various businesses have to offer.

The pages are not just for one type of business. In fact, the pages feature consumer businesses, as well as commercially-oriented companies. There are furniture stores, travel agencies, restaurants, temporary services, film processing centers, remodeling experts, chimney sweeps and more that take advantage of this format.

Both advertisers who offer services and those who are selling a product have been very satisfied with the response they have received by advertising on the Business and Industry pages.

What's really amazing is that your business can be on these pages for as little as $22 per week.

All it takes to begin advertising on the Business and Industry pages is a call to the retail advertising department at 682-5311. Ads on this page are set up on a contract basis. The number of articles and pictures an advertiser gets is determined by the size of the ad that is run each week on the pages. The advertiser pays only for the ad, thereby spreading the cost out over a 13 or 26 week period.

Advertisers do not have to worry about writing the articles or taking the pictures themselves. The Midland Reporter-Telegram's advertising feature writer Julie Wiseman will take care of that. When possible Julie will coordinate the articles with special events, such as grand openings and seasonal sales at the advertiser's business.

To tell your story on the Business and Industry pages just call 682-5311 and ask for Julie or an account representative.

Scientology officials report founder's death

Hubbard

LOS ANGELES (AP) — L. Ron Hubbard, a science fiction writer whose often-battled Church of Scientology has grown to at least 2 million members during its three decades, has died at age 74, Scientology officials say.

Hubbard, who had not been seen in public since 1980, died of a stroke Friday at his ranch near San Luis Obispo, Heber Jentsch, president of the Church of Scientology International, said Monday night.

Hubbard's ashes were scattered at a Sunday, after his body was examined by the San Luis Obispo County coroner's office, Scientology officials said.

Associated Press calls to the coroner's office late Monday were answered by a tape recording.

Hubbard's eldest son, Ronald E. DeWolf, in a lawsuit filed in 1982, had claimed that Hubbard was either dead or mentally incompetent, but a judge ruled Hubbard was alive.

Hubbard and his third and surviving wife, Mary Sue Hubbard, founded the Church of Scientology in 1954. Its philosophy is based on Hubbard's 1948 book "Dianetics: The Modern Science of Mental Health," which has sold millions of copies.

Through use of a so-called E-meter, somewhat like a lie detector, church members undergo exercises and counseling to eliminate negative mental images and achieve a "clear state."

"It's mental technology to improve communication, intelligence, and give people the ability to be happy human beings," Ken Hoden, president of the Church of Scientology of Los Angeles, said last year.

The group has claimed up to 6 million members worldwide since the height of the movement in the 1970s. Defectors, however, have put the number at closer to 2 million. At its peak, it reportedly earned $100 million a year.

Hubbard, who was born in Tilden, Neb., and was raised in Helena, Mont., and Bremerton, Wash., did not control the organization and its corporations for the past few years, said Jentsch.

Scientology literature boasted that Hubbard was, "at various times, top sergeant in the Marines, radio crooner, newspaper reporter, gold miner in the West Indies and a movie director-explorer, having led a motion picture expedition into the South Seas aboard an ancient windjammer."

DeWolf, who had changed his name from L. Ron Hubbard Jr., derided those claims in 1982, saying "99 percent of what my father wrote about his past life was false."

From 1968 to 1975, Hubbard reportedly lived chiefly aboard a huge yacht, the Apollo, drifting around the Mediterranean with a crew made up of members of the church's elite corps, "Sea Org."

He also lived in Dunedin, Fla., and in California, on ranches near La Quinta and Hemet and at the resort of Gilman Hot Springs, according to court papers filed by DeWolf.

Jentsch said Hubbard had been a "very healthy man" in his final years, writing and composing music and pursuing photography.

Court documents in a civil suit against the church revealed that the organization secretly teaches that Earth was called Tegeegach 75 million years ago and was among 90 planets ruled by Xemu, who spread his evil by thermonuclear bombs.

Xemu, attempting to solve overpopulation, destroyed selected inhabitants of the planets and implanted seeds of aberrant behavior to affect future generations of mankind.

Jentsch said in November, when the documents were revealed, that news accounts of them were distorted.

The organization generated controversy as far back as the early 1960s by criticizing psychiatric techniques, Hoden said. It contended that "lobotomies, electroshock and excessive druggings" turned "people into mindless robots."

In 1973, a criminal court in France sentenced Hubbard in absentia to four years in prison for fraudulent business practices.

CBN newscasts will focus on 'system of values'

FRED ROTHENBERG

NEW YORK (AP) — It was an unconventional promotion for an opening-night newscast that was quite different, as promised.

"We appreciate your prayers," "CBN News Tonight" anchor Bob Hughes told a woman on the "700 Club" religious program just before the newscast went on the air. "Blessings on you," she replied.

Founded by the Rev. Pat Robertson, a possible Republican candidate for president, cable television's Christian Broadcasting Network joined the nightly news wars Monday night with a live, 30-minute national newscast. It was not evangelical, but its coverage struck an ideological tone that wasn't on the "CBS Evening News."

The "CBS Evening News" has been labeled liberal-leaning by several conservative groups, including Fairness in Media, the organization that backs Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Monday night, half the CBN newscast's air time was devoted to one "Focus" story: how the United States is selling technology to the Soviet Union, the threat that poses to national security, and "what can be done about it." The report said the technology could be used to "coordinate a military strike against the U.S. or her allies."

After seven minutes on the subject, which was much longer than any item on the "CBS Evening News" Monday, Hughes conducted a live, five-minute, follow-up interview with Juliana Pilon of the Heritage Foundation, a conservative research organization. She reiterated the dangers of the sales.

The "CBS Evening News" covered more stories, taking a harder, more pointed edge in several of them. Michael Robinson, a media analyst from George Washington University, said in a recent interview that the major network newscasts are "remarkably fair and balanced."

"The agenda for network evening news is not ideological, it's sensational," Robinson said.

Hughes, explaining the CBN approach in his unusual lead-in promotion, said "CBN News Tonight" was not competing per se with the major networks; it was bringing truth, as CBN sees it, to CBN's regular viewers who are partial to Robertson's "700 Club" and CBN's wholesome family entertainment. CBN is available in 28 million homes, one-third the reach of the major networks.

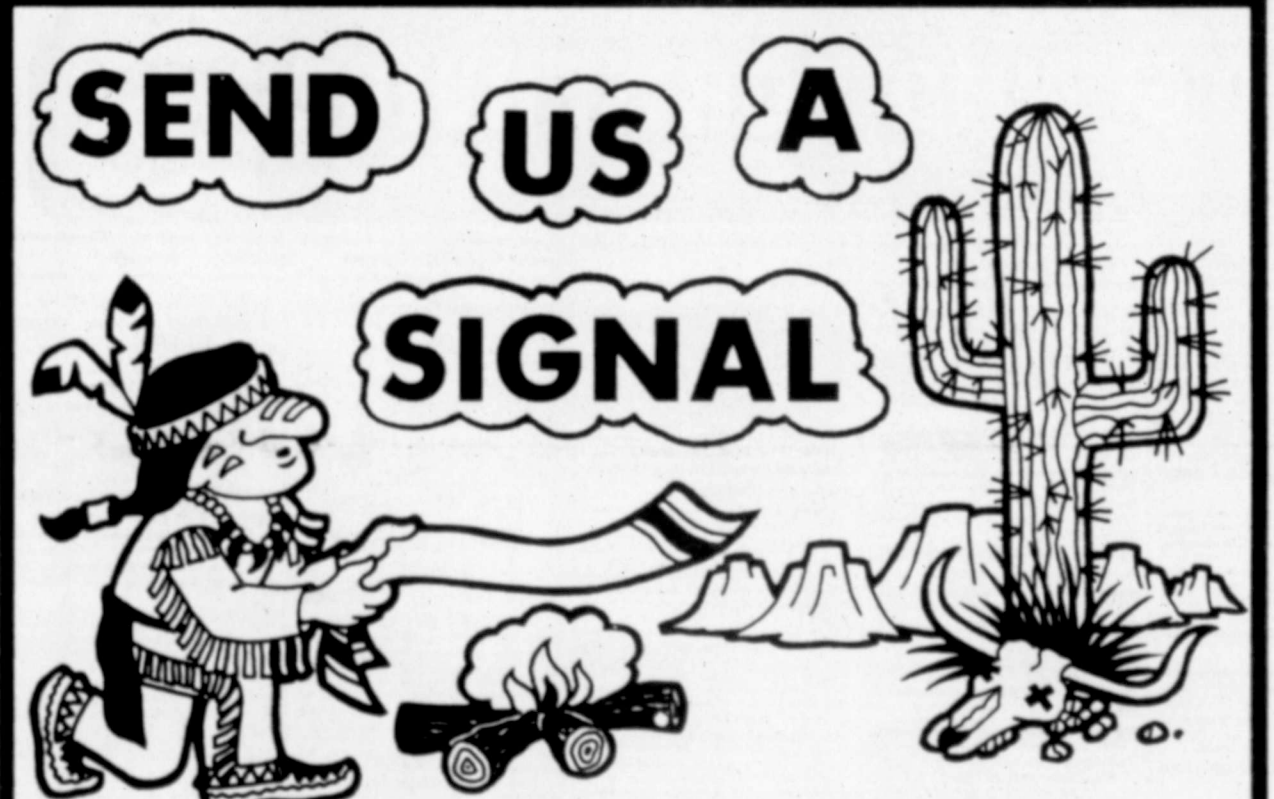

James R. Whelan, executive director of "CBN News Tonight," said that ABC, CBS and NBC give a liberal slant to the news; CBN would not do that. He said CBN "would strive for a kind of fairness," if CBN did a special on abortion, it would begin with a statement that abortion is morally wrong.

"We are going to say that we, in our labors, will bring to you a system of values," Whelan said. "That system of values is the word of God as conveyed to us through the scriptures."

A comparison with Dan Rather's "CBS Evening News," which was on three hours earlier, illustrated decidedly different slants on several stories, although none of the day's reported major events appeared to be ideologically divisive issues, such as abortion or school prayer.

The lead stories, which traditional TV journalism assigns as the day's most significant news, struck immediately strong contrasts. Rather led with the shuttle delay, introducing the report, somewhat cynically, by calling NASA's continuing space problems "high-tech, low-comedy."

CBN placed the shuttle delay near the end of its newscast

NATION in brief

MOVE survivors face each other in courtroom

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The only known survivors of the May 13 fire at the MOVE headquarters faced each other in court with 14-year-old Michael Ward testifying he never saw Ramona Africa with a gun that day.

The reunion of two of the residents of the fortified row house bombed by police took place Monday afternoon in the trial of Ms. Africa on assault and conspiracy charges.

Ms. Africa, who is acting as her own attorney, questioned Ward, once known as Birdie Africa, in a courtroom cleared of spectators and reporters, who watched on closed-circuit television in another courtroom.

Ward also testified as he has before a special commission that police shot at him and Ms. Africa as they ran from the burning house. The fire killed 11 people inside the compound and destroyed 61 houses.

Ms. Africa, 30, is charged with aggravated and simple assault because police officers were injured in the showdown, and with criminal conspiracy and making terrorist threats.

Ferraro offers to serve

NEW YORK (AP) — Former vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro has offered to serve as Queens borough president temporarily should Donald Manes step aside because of a bribery scandal.

Mayor Edward Koch, who recently called Manes a "crook" and called for his resignation, said Monday he would be satisfied if Manes took a leave of absence while bribery allegations involving the awarding of city contracts are resolved.

First Deputy Mayor Stanley Breznoff, speaking while the mayor was in California, said he believed Koch and other officials would accept Deputy Borough President Claire Shulman as acting borough president.

However, Ferraro on Monday told City Council Majority Leader Peter Vallone that she would step in as an interim borough president without pay should the post become vacant.

Ferraro told The New York Daily News her offer was in the interest of "party unity." She did not rule out the possibility of running for the job permanently in November if Manes resigns, saying that although she didn't want the job past Dec. 31 "my thinking could change on that."

"His response was to thank her for the offer," Vallone's spokesman, Joseph Fitzpatrick, told The New York Times. "But he thought it was premature to have any more detailed discussions since there is no opening."

Regents to review fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution said Monday it may sell its $10.6 million investment in an international mutual fund if the fund's foreign companies are doing business with South Africa in violation of the Smithsonian's anti-apartheid guidelines.

Robert McCormick Adams, secretary of the Smithsonian, said the governing board of regents which met Monday ordered a review of the fund's holdings in businesses which are concentrated in Britain, Australia, Canada and Japan, to make sure those companies subscribe to the Sullivan Principles.
