Ties for second and third place in the annual Reese talent contest, held Feb. 28, resulted in a rather unique situation for the aspirants to the globetrotting "Tops in Blue" show.

First of all, a total of six people will be going on to command competition at Keesler AFB, Miss., March 16-22. This is a rather large number from a base the size of Reese.

Even more unusual is the fact that first place winner, Sgt. LeGene Brooks, also was part of a vocal group called L.E.C. that tied for second place.

Sergeant Brooks garnered first place honors for his rendition of the songs "Do Me" and "Turn Out the Lights." Singing "Tighten Up at the Disco" with A1C Eric Snell and A1C Calvin McCoy was what put Brooks into the second place category. Sharing follow-on honors was A1C Stephanie Dean who sang "I Honestly Love You."

Tying for third place were 2nd Lt. Gary Dyson, who sang "If You Could Read My Mind," and SrA Steve Walsh singing "After the Loving'."

Scouts from Tops in Blue will be on hand at the Keesler competition to begin selection of the touring show.

Dealing with stress is important!

by Lt. Col. (Dr.) Allen H. Moore Hospital commander

Almost all of us undergo stress. Stress is not necessarily good or bad, it simply is. Certainly we all face stressful or potentially stressful situations. In fact, at least for officers, our ability to manage stress is a rating block on the Officer Effectiveness Report.

I contend, however, that learning to manage stress is considerably more important than getting a good OER—it's a matter of physical and emotional health that applies equally to all personnel. Unmanaged stress is distress.

Dealing with stress

Now, simplistically there are three ways to deal with stress: (1) eliminate or avoid stressful situations; (2) minimize these situations; (3) cope with or manage the stress that is an outcome of these situations. Now unless you're going to resign from the human race the first option is not always available; so let's talk about the other two.

The most important thing to remember in minimizing stressful situations is identify them. Do suspenses create stress? Maybe you need to better organize your time and budget accordingly. Do you have an unpleasant task to perform? Don't procrastinate. Make that telephone call or conduct that counselling first thing in the morning. You will not only have it "nag" you all day (or all week) but it will give you a feeling of accomplishment—and that can't be all bad.

Now, as far as coping with stress, some turn to liquor or drugs. That's not coping, that's an effort to try to "fool" the body that the stress isn't there. However, the body is smarter than that. Has the problem gone away once we sober up? No, we find it was just put "on hold." What we need is to condition our body and mind so that the effects of stress can be minimized or avoided. For example, take a breather at work. Get away from your desk and telephone for 10 minutes. Sometimes getting away from the situation for a short period will help us be better able to face it.

Use leisure time

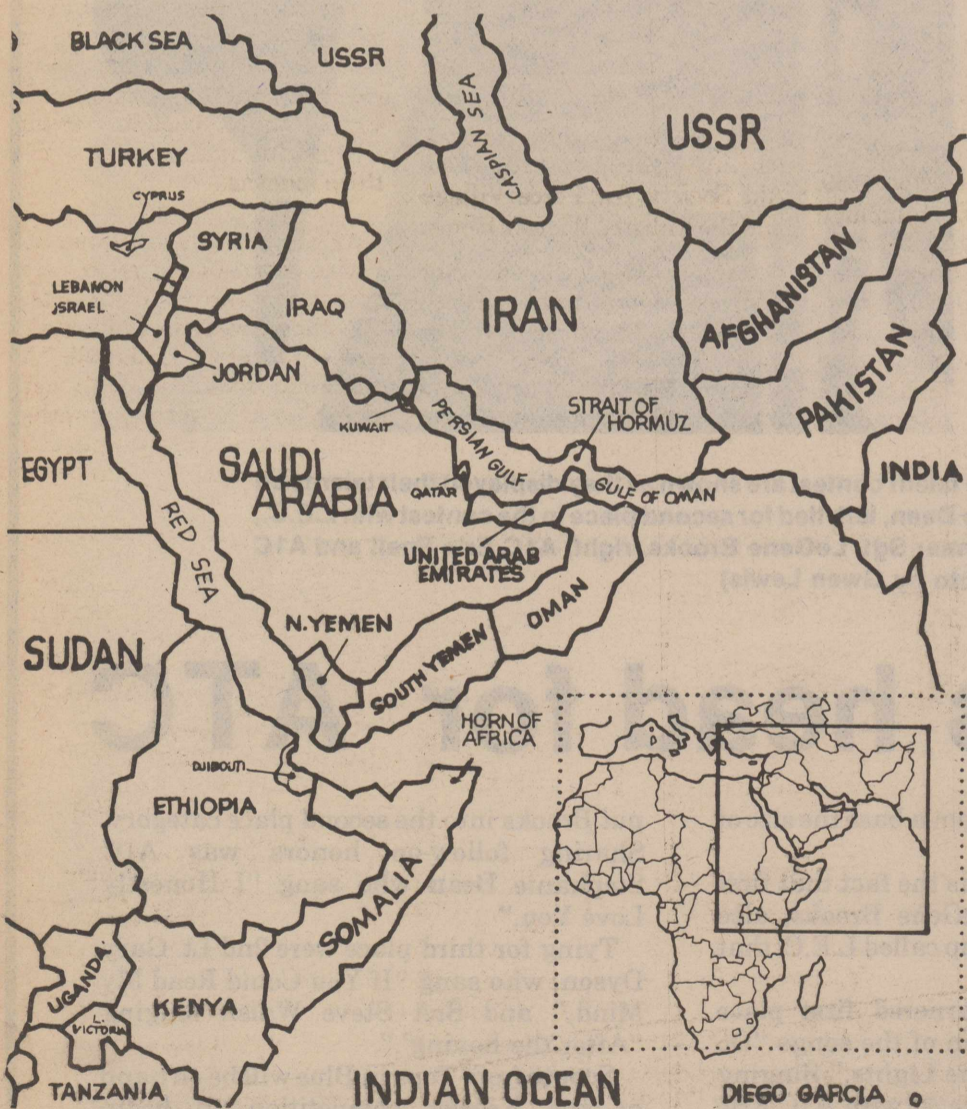

Use your leisure time well. Do those things which you enjoy. We need to work as hard at our leisure as we do on our job; and don't carry the job home. Exercise. This is particularly important for "desk jockeys" whose work involves mental gymnastics. We should remember that our body needs those gymnastics too. We need to balance our lives and not overwork any one part of that wonderful human machine.

Now certainly what I've said here is not complete — books and lengthy seminars are devoted to stress management. What each of you should be aware of is that stress is a natural consequence of living; it's how we manage it that makes the difference.

Colonel Moore

Can you find the Horn of Africa?

When Secretary of the Air Force Hans M. Mark gave the Air Force report to Congress in February, he spoke of "the pattern of Russian involvements around the world."

He said that "although they have apparent successes, they have also had failures as in Egypt and in Indonesia. Nonetheless, they have probably succeeded more than they have failed, and the situation today in the ring of nations surrounding the Persian Gulf is fraught with danger."

The secretary said that "the activities of the Russians in Ethiopia and the region called the 'Horn of Africa,' on the Arabian Peninsula, particularly in Yemen (South Yemen), and now in Afghanistan must give us pause. The latest move, which is the direct subjugation of a neighboring state (Afghanistan) by Russian troops, marks not something that is new and dangerous in Russian policy, but simply a return to something old and dangerous, something unsophisticated, something brutal."

Secretary Mark added: "Given the uncertainty of the future of the leadership in Iran, the move into Afghanistan is also most menacing to the interests of the United States and of its major Allies who depend upon the Persian Gulf nations, including Iran, for continued supplies of oil."

With the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, we find we can't talk about what it really means unless we mention distant and unfamiliar places. We're seeing names in the news like Oman, Yemen, Hormuz, Kenya and Somalia. They're pronounced: Oh-man; Yem-an; Hore-mooze; Ken-ya; and So-mahl-ia.

In your mind's eye, can you place them on a map?

Did you know that the Horn of Africa is in Somalia?

Where's Diego Garcia? If you don't know, take a look at the map on this page.

In the months ahead, these countries in Africa and the Persian Gulf are likely to become better known to everyone who keeps up with the news.

New base commander happy to be at Reese

(Editor's note: On his first day on the job as Reese's new base commander, Col. Richard E. Hearne granted an interview to the Roundup. Following are a selection of his comments and observations.)

"I am very pleased to be back in 'the real Air Force' after my tour of duty at the Pentagon. Although the Pentagon is very exciting and challenging, I like to deal with people . . . real people.

"I intend to visit each organization on base. This will give me a chance to look at everyone in the face and say hello. It will also give me a feel for the needs and problems of the people who work at Reese.

"One of the problems I feel very strongly about is drug abuse. I think the recent crackdown is fully justified. The rules are very clear and I think they should be enforced. With the penalties, I can't understand why people in the military use drugs. They don't have a place here and we're not going to have any mercy in prosecuting offenders.

"Another major concern is that of inflation, especially on our young airmen and junior officers. I think the local Married Airmen Sharing Together program is an excellent idea. I will support them in my capacity 100 percent. I will also be open to any other ideas on how to help our people at the local level."

In closing, Colonel Hearne took time to mention the Air Force Assistance Fund drive currently running at Reese. "It's important that we all support Air Force Assistance Fund. It does do great things in helping us to help our own. I strongly recommend that everybody give all they can."

1958th tops goal

AFAF campaign underway

The 1958th Communications Squadron has become the first Reese unit to top its assigned Air Force Assistance Fund goal.

According to Capt. Roger L. Hollowell, AFAF project officer, the tenant unit collected $280,139 percent of its campaign target.

Contributions from other units are continuing to flow in, noted Captain Hollowell. More than $2,830 had already been turned in as of Wednesday morning. That figure is approximately 30 percent of the Wing goal of $9,327.

"Judging from the early returns," said Captain Hollowell, "Reese should exceed its goal again this year."

The AFAF provides funding for three agencies: the Air Force Aid Society, Air Force Village and the Enlisted Widows Home.

Captain Hollowell noted that Aid Society loans are expected to increase by 33 percent this year. In 1979, Reese people received $20,000 in loans and another $2,500 in grants from the AFAS. Nearly $4,000 of that was for dependent dental care.

The AFAS also helps retired military members. Last year, a retiree living in the area received monthly assistance when administrative errors delayed his retirement pay for three months.

AFAF officials continue to advise people to use the payroll deduction plan to contribute. "It's the easiest way to donate," stressed Captain Hollowell. "A minimum deduction of $1 per month for at least three months is all it takes to use the payroll deduction plan."

Congress moves ahead on DOPMA legislation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is an update on the status of Department of Defense Legislative issues affecting Air Force quality of life.)

By 2nd Lt. Queenie Byars
ATC Office of Public Affairs

Remember DOPMA — the Defense Officer Personnel Management Act? The legislation developed to update and standardize officer personnel management among the military services is alive and kicking.

In late November, the Senate passed a version of the bill that contained an amendment that would authorize both basic allowance for subsistence and per diem for enlisted personnel performing temporary duty away from their home station.

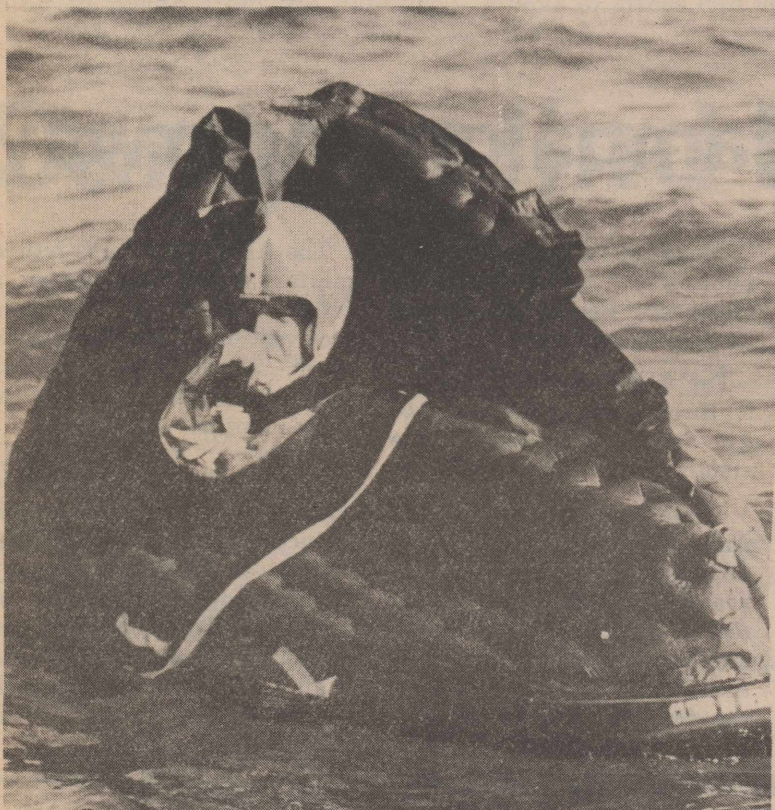

The Senate version also proposed to cut the officer grade tables 15 percent overall during a 10-year period. For the Air Force this could mean a 20 percent reduction in field grade authorizations, including a 27 percent cut in colonel slots, a 20 percent reduction in the number of lieutenant colonels and an 18 percent cut in major slots.

House action on DOPMA is pending with possible House subcommittee hearings on DOPMA anticipated for March. Afterward, a conference committee with Senate members to iron out differences between the two versions would be scheduled.

The early House version was similar to the one originally submitted by DOD. It called for permanent grade tables for majors, lieutenant colonels and colonels. The permanent grade tables are viewed as especially critical. Air Force officials are particularly concerned about the effect a drop in promotion opportunities could have on retention in the officer corps.

At present the Air Force is operating under the 1954 Officer Grade Limitation Act tables along with grade relief legislation. With previous grade relief, the Air Force has been able to prevent promotion cuts and demotions.

On February 4, the Senate passed an amended version of a House bill that would continue the field grade authorizations contained in Section 8202, Title 10, U.S. Code until September 30, 1980, unless superceded by earlier enactment of DOPMA.

Several get point of OSI warning

Special agent James T. Smith has a standing warning for anyone at Reese trafficking in illegal drugs:

"The next sale you make may be to one of your friends . . . or it may be to one of ours!"

More than 100 people got the message here last year as Detachment 1117 of the Air Force Office of Special Investigations, at the request of local command authorities, spearheaded a base-wide crackdown on drug abuse.

"We were working on a couple of cases early last year when we got a major break," recalled the OSI agent. "With the help of an airman working with us, we were able to bust a dealer cases for courts-martial. Like the OSI, the staff received some help from other command bases and six-day workweeks became common.

"As a result of the investigation seven people received courts-martial," confirmed Maj. David Sullivan, Reese staff judge advocate. "In addition, 37 other military people received Article 15s and 58 more got letters of reprimand. Seven civilian employees were admonished through miscellaneous administrative actions."

Both legal and OSI staffs praised the support they received from all levels of command. Smith made a point of the courage displayed by on base in May. Information gained from that arrest gave us leads to 32 other suspects."

" . . . your next sale may be to one of your friends . . . or to one of ours!"

Realizing that the two-man OSI detachment was on the verge of a major breakthrough, Smith and Dave Burt (then the detachment commander) called for help from area bases and the Air Force Reserve. In all, seven additional agents were brought in to help with the investigation.

As the questioning of suspects continued, several more names were added to the list. By the end of the investigation, 179 people had been implicated.

"During the investigation we worked with the Staff Judge Advocate to prepare cases for prosecution," explained Smith. "We conducted more than 70 searches, all with the suspects consent, and gathered physical evidence to support the testimony we had already received."

While the OSI, Security Police and local law enforcement agencies were conducting the investigation, the staff of the legal office was reviewing testimony and putting together maintenance commanders who pushed for a full investigation, despite the fact that it was taking people away from already undermanned work crews.

Although the nine-month-long investigation did not end the drug problem here, Major Sullivan said that the intensive drug crackdown has succeeded in getting the attention of drug abusers and that these people know that base officials are committed to ferreting them out.

Adding support to Major Sullivan's claim, Smith stressed the importance of community involvement. "We need base-wide support to stop drug abuse," said Smith. "Anyone with information about illegal drug activity should contact us at Ext. 3666 or 3414. After duty, people should call us through the Security Police desk, Ext. 3612."

Smith concluded by repeating his warning to drug abusers. "Those involved with drugs here are playing a form of Russian roulette. Sooner or later they'll make a mistake and sell dope to the wrong person . . . one of our friends!"

Drug abuse intolerable!

Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Lew Allen Jr. has advised commanders of major commands and separate operating agencies that "the use of illegal drugs hurts us — combat it with the priority and innovation it demands."

In his letter the Chief of Staff said: "I am concerned about the use of illegal drugs and the accompanying adverse effect on our mission. I know you understand the seriousness of this problem.

"All commanders and supervisors must understand that they cannot condone the use of illegal drugs, even though these drugs may be accepted tacitly in the civilian community. Commanders should convey a consistent, unequivocal and tough message that illegal involvement will not be tolerated; this message must be understood clearly by all in the Air Force. Officers and NCOs need to recognize the threat, set the example, enforce the rules, and work to change on- and off-duty conditions conducive to illegal drug use."

Airman of month

A1C Paul V.J. Drechsel of the 1958 Communications Squadron has been selected as the Wing Airman of the Month for February. He is shown here on the job as an Air Traffic Controller at the Ground Control Approach facility.

Gasoline hikes concern council

Rising gasoline prices and the problems they are causing Reese personnel dominated the February meeting of the Base Advisory Council.

BAC members aired the hardships that soaring gasoline prices are creating for base personnel. Col. Richard Ingram, wing commander and BAC chairman, formed a committee to look into the problem and come up with alternatives to the modes of transportation being used to get the workforce to and from Reese.

One suggestion being considered is a second attempt to set up a CITI-BUS route. Last summer base officials tried to start such a route but; Reese was unable to meet the required 100 paid in advance riders mandated by Lubbock transit officials. However, gasoline has almost doubled in price since that time and base officials feel the program may now receive enough response.

Help needed

While other solutions to the problem are being considered, a current program is in need of base help. The Shuttle Service offered by the Recreation Center needs volunteer drivers. Anyone that wants to drive the shuttle to the South Plains Mall should contact a member of the Recreation Center staff at Ext. 3722.

Other topics

Also covered at the meeting was the NCO Academy Graduates Association and Air Force Sergeants Association banquet on Monday. CMSgt. (ret.) Paul Airey, the first chief master sergeant of the Air Force will be the guest speaker.

Capt. Kelly Cartron, 1958th Communications Squadron commander, told the council that pay telephones will be installed in Dormitories 230, 320 and 420 within 45 days.

SrA David Anderson, Married Airmen Sharing Together president, announced that the new MAST facility, building 39, has opened its laundry room. Three washers and driers are available to MAST members for free.

Airey guest speaker for Monday banquet

CMSAF (ret.) Paul W. Airey, the first chief master sergeant of the Air Force, will be the featured speaker at an enlisted banquet scheduled for Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the officers club.

Chief Airey enlisted in the Air Force in November 1942 and originally served as a radio operator on a B-24 Liberator bomber. While flying a combat mission over Vienna, Austria, his plane was shot down and he became a prisoner of war.

Upon his return to the United States, Chief Airey entered the first sergeant career field, first at Scott and then at Keesler AFB, Miss. He served a third overseas tour in Japan as first sergeant of the 611th Aircraft Control and Warning Site.

When he once again returned to the States in 1960, he first served as non-commissioned officer in charge of the Airman Section, Directorate of Personnel, Grand Forks, AFB, N.D., and later as personnel sergeant major. Three more jobs as first sergeant followed before his appointment at chief master sergeant of the Air Force in 1967.

Co-sponsoring the banquet at which the chief will speak are the local chapters of the Air Force Sergeants Association and the Non-Commissioned Officers Association. Tickets are available to the public from association members or by contacting MSgt. Roy Johnson at Ext. 3218 or Sgt. Ron Craft at Ext. 3147. Today is the deadline for purchasing tickets.

Four IM teams stay unbeaten

With just one full week of intramural volleyball action completed only four teams remain unbeaten.

The 54th Flying Training Squadron, the Civil Engineers and the 64th Flying Training Squadron each sport 2-0 records while the surprising women's varsity stands at 1-0.

Sturon, seeking its second straight intramural volleyball title, drew a forfeit win from Organizational Maintenance and then received a forfeit in the first game against the 35th FTS. Sturon polished off the 35th with a second game 15-7 win.

Hoping to add the volleyball title to the basketball crown won last month, the 54th opened play with wins over the 1958th Communications Squadron, 15-2 and 15-5, and against the Hospital, 15-0 and 15-10.

CE's victories were over Resource Management, 15-2 and 15-8, and Supply, 13-15, 15-11 and 15-13.

The women's varsity, a late entry into the league, upset Resource Management, 15-12 and 15-12, to post only the second victory by a women's team over an intramural squad in two years.

In other action, the 35th FTS downed Comm., 15-5 and 15-2; Supply tripped Field Maintenance, 15-3, 4-15 and 15-12; the Hospital stopped OMS, 15-7 and 15-12; Supply edged Comm., 15-11 and 16-14; and FMS slipped past the 35th, 8-15, 17-15 and 15-12.
