For Armed Forces Week

Reese slates special observances

Armed Forces Week observances here begin Monday and continue through May 17 with most of the activities centered at the South Plains Mall.

According to Armed Forces Week project officers Capt. Douglas Knutsen and 2nd Lt. Daniel Caulkins, the theme of this year's observance is, "The U.S. Armed Forces — Strong and Ready."

Illustrating that theme will be a number of Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine exhibits in the South Plains Mall. Included in the exhibits, which will be on display all week, is a cut away of a j-85 jet engine, the powerplant used to drive Reese's T-38 Talon trainers.

Base units participating in the mall display include the Fire Department, Security Police, the 35th and 54th Flying Training Squadrons, the 64th Student Squadron and Disaster Preparedness. Other units are the Hospital, Field and Organizational Maintenance Squadrons and the Weather Squadron.

A special highlight planned for the observance is a scheduled flyover by a B-52 Stratofortress from Dyess AFB, Texas. Captain Knutsen said that present plans call for two low-level approaches at Reese at approximately 12:30 p.m. Wednesday. The workhorse bomber is also scheduled to fly over Lubbock on its way to and from Reese. Captain Knutsen added that the aircraft may make a low-level pass at the Lubbock International Airport.

"Returning for this year's observance is the intra-service speaking team that was very popular with local groups last year," added the project officer.

The team, comprised of members of the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force, is available to high school and civic groups in the area. The team gives mission briefing and shows films on each of the military services.

Special tours of Reese are also planned throughout the week. People interested in the tours or in the intra-service speaking team should contact Captain Knutsen or Lieutenant Caulkins at Ext. 3354.

Up and away!!

Five Army Helicopters take off from Reese after refueling last weekend. The helicopters, on their way to the Lincoln National Forest, N.M., from Ft. Hood, Texas, were the first wave to land here. The helicopters are participating in a routine training and deployment exercise. In all, more than 30 helicopters were refueled by Reese's fuels personnel, taking on approximately 2,000 gallons of JP-4 fuel. (U.S. Air Force photo)

Buy Savings Bonds

by Col. Gobel James deputy commander for Resources

This year's U.S. Savings Bond campaign is underway and will continue through May 31. Now is the time to start a sound savings program or increase one already underway.

It is easy to save with the payroll savings plan or the military bond allotment plan. All you have to do is decide how much you want to save every payday. Then, once the authorization is signed, you are saving regularly, payday after payday.

Remember, every dollar that goes into Savings Bonds is guaranteed safe, protected by Uncle Sam's promise to replace lost, stolen or destroyed bonds as of the date of issue so that there's never any loss on principal-or interest!

Other good reasons for buying U.S. Savings Bonds are:

- Interest rates are guaranteed to maturity. Interest may be increased, but not decreased. Now, when you hold Savings Bonds at least five years, you earn an average rate of 6½ percent interest (4½ percent the first year). And that full 6½ percent is guaranteed for an additional six years.

- Savings Bonds are friends in time of need. They are liquid assets which may be cashed after a minimal six-month holding period.

- Tax benefits - Interest on Savings Bonds is exempt from all state or local income or personal property taxes, except estate, inheritance or gift taxes. Interest is subject to federal income tax, but the tax on EE Savings Bond interest may be deferred until they are cashed or reach final maturity.

- Prudence and patriotism - Buying Savings Bonds helps the government manage the national debt in a noninflationary manner and helps finance programs and projects vital to our individual and collective well-being.

- So sign up for U.S. Savings Bonds today. Or, if you are already signed up, take this opportunity to increase your rate of saving.

Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made, however, neither are mandatory. ### Base exchange

I want to know why the people over at the Base Exchange won't put up a sign by the window for cashing checks stating that any check over a certain amount has to be taken to the bank. This would eliminate people having to stand in line for 10 minutes and then being told they won't cash a check.

This is the second time it has happened although it was not a very large check. Standing in line is a waste of my time and their time.

Dear Waiting In Line

The use of AAFES funds for check cashing service is restricted to the availability of funds on a daily basis. Checks are cashed from a working fund. When these funds are exhausted, pickups are made from all registers, so that AAFES can continue cashing checks. Therefore on occasions check cashing limitations must be imposed because of a shortage of funds.

Thanks for your suggestion. In order to serve the BX customer better, a sign and sign holder will be procured, the sign will indicate the amount of check being accepted for cashing. As amounts increase/decrease, depending on availability of funds, the sign will be changed.

Despite medical advances

Prevention still key to health care

by Lt. Col. (Dr.) Phillip Pixley
Reese Hospital commander

Colonel Pixley

Monday through May 17, National Hospital Week, provides an opportunity to reflect on the progress of health care in the United States over the last century.

A 100 years ago, most babies were delivered at home, by a general practitioner. Infant mortality and death from childhood diseases were extremely high. Today, with specialized hospital services, highly trained medical specialists, immunizations, and other medications, this trend has been drastically reversed.

Since the turn of the century our life expectancy has almost doubled. Medical science has been quite successful in finding cures or eliminating some diseases entirely. I'm sure many of us remember the devastating effects of polio. Yet today polio is largely just that—a memory.

In spite of the progress made, however, we still have many problems. In 1900 the leading cause of death was pneumonia. Today it is heart disease or circulatory problems. High blood pressure alone affects 24 million Americans. Future progress to control or cure illness and disease is carrying an increasingly larger price tag, both in terms of time and expenditures. Yet we do know enough that many of our problems can be attacked on a personal level; by the individual himself.

In order to prevent one disease from replacing another we must all take a part in illness prevention.

During National Hospital Week the base hospital will be promoting this concept. Hospital personnel will be on hand in the Main Exchange each weekday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. to provide blood pressure screening for hypertension. Additionally the hospital offers classes and information on areas of particular interest such as diabetes, prenatal care, cardiovascular disease, pulmonary problems, drug and alcohol problems, as well as diet counselling. For more information on these areas contact Capt. Roger Emmick at Ext. 3285.

In addition, on May 17 and 31 the hospital will perform summer camp physicals. Starting Monday, appointments for the Saturday physicals may be made by calling Ext. 3488. Parents are reminded to bring the physical forms required by the camps their children will be attending so that the forms can be completed by medical personnel during the physicals.

I urge all of you to take the time during this week to assess your own state of health, look at unhealthy lifestyles, and then take positive actions for improvement.

Series EE savings bonds provide new way to save

by Capt. E.A. Wertz
 Savings Bond project officer

Reese's annual U.S. Savings Bond campaign is being conducted this month. This year the Treasury Department introduced the Series EE bond.

The new bonds are:

- Available in $50, $75, $100, $200, $500 and $1,000 denominations through payroll deductions.
- Purchasable at 50 percent of the face value.
- Dated from the month that at least half of the purchase price is accumulated, beginning with the $75 bond.
- Negotiable six months after the date of the bond and reach maturity in 11 years.

Bonds have several advantages that are often overlooked. They are an absolutely secure form of investment-bonds that are lost, stolen or destroyed will be replaced upon receipt and adjudication of a valid claim. Locations for purchasing and redeeming bonds are readily accessible throughout the country.

The return on Savings Bonds is guaranteed. The interest is exempt from all state and local taxes except inheritance, estate or gift taxes. The reporting of interest on bonds can be deferred, for federal income tax purposes, until they reach final maturity, are redeemed, or are otherwise disposed of.

Anyone wanting to purchase Savings Bonds should contact: Air Base Group-Maj. Gary Taylor, 3377; 54th Flying Training Squadron-1st Lt. Jean Huggins, 3544; 35th FTS-Capt. Olin Heikkola, 3857; 64th Student Squadron-1st Lt. Bill Hall, 3740; Organizational Maintenance Squadron-1st Lt. Travis Plumley, 3300; Field Maintenance Squadron-2nd Lt. # Plague Feared killer lives

One of the great horrors throughout history was the Black Death, or plague, that swept medieval Europe. Thanks to modern medical advances and sanitation technics, this curse has largely been wiped out.

Small pockets of the disease do still exist, however, and are most common on this continent in the western United States, particularly northern New Mexico from Albuquerque and Gallup to the Colorado line. Plague in rodents is also common in much of Colorado, Arizona and California as well.

The disease, which symptoms include fever, headache and swollen lymph nodes, is carried by rodents, particularly the rock squirrel, golden mantled squirrel and the chipmunk. Flea bites from infected animals can transmit the disease to humans or their pets.

While dogs are fairly resistant to the disease and so are more important as carriers, cats can develop severe, often fatal cases.

The best way for campers to avoid exposure is to use insect repellent on clothing and skin, avoid picking up dead or sick animals and avoid sleeping on the ground or camping near rodent burrows.

Pets should not be allowed to roam uncontrolled and should be dusted with flea powder. Sick or dead rodents should be reported to the authorities.

Although the incidence of plague is not high, its serious, sometimes fatal course and high communicability make it a disease to guard against.

AF honors raid victims

An airman who was injured in the attempt to release U.S. hostages in Iran is back home with his family as a result of a presidential request.

A1C William V. Tootle was one of five servicemen hospitalized in the San Antonio area after the rescue mission which left eight of his comrades, five of them Air Force members, dead.

Asked by President Carter if there was anything he could do for him, Airman Tootle said he wanted to go home to his wife and daughter "as soon as possible."

The next day, Airman Tootle was on his way to Hurlburt Field, Fla., in an Air Force C-140 Jetstar. His escort was assistant Secretary of the Air Force (Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Installations) Joseph C. Zengerle.

The next day, Airman Tootle was on his way to Hurlburt Field, Fla., in an Air Force C-140 Jetstar. His escort was assistant Secretary of the Air Force (Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Installations) Joseph C. Zengerle.

Meanwhile, Tactile Air Command people held simultaneous chapel services throughout the command on April 30 in memory of the five Air Force members and three marines who died in the effort to free the hostages. Air Force Secretary Hans M. Mark and General W.L. Creech, TAC commander, participated in the services at Hurlburt Field.

Airman Tootle

"We gather here today to pay honor and reverent homage to five Air Force comrades, five uncommonly brave men, and to their wives and children... Their deeds are now and will forever be enshrined in the hearts of their fellow airmen," said General Creech.

"These men were special in the very best sense of that word. As proud members of the Air Force's Elite Special Operations Wing, they have special qualifications, special virtues and special opportunities to serve their country. They knew that. They wanted that. They were very proud of that."

"...Their sacrifice, and that of their families, honors us all—and sets the noble standard for all who share their vision of a proud, freedom-loving and stalwart United States of America. May God be with them, now and forever more," General Creech concluded.

Service center opens at Reese

Following a successful four-month test of civilian customer service centers at three Air Training Command bases, Reese is scheduled to open its own service center on Thursday.

After evaluations, ATC officials said the centers located in the civilian personnel offices at Mather AFB, Calif.; Keesler AFB, Miss.; and Chanute AFB, Ill., provided faster answers to general personnel questions and helped save time for civilian personnel managers.

As a result of the successful test, this new system will be adopted shortly at all but one ATC base. Vance AFB, Okla., will not have a civilian personnel customer center because of the small Air Force civilian work force. Most Vance employees work for civilian companies under contract to the Air Force.

Managing the center here will be Melba Lytal. The center will be located in building 75. The customer service center telephone number is Ext. 3801.

In general, the service center for civilian employees will operate in the same manner as those for military personnel at the consolidated base personnel office. The civilian customer service center staff will provide answers to basic questions and help direct employees to the proper CPO officials for answers to specific questions and problems.

"These new centers are being established to better serve our customers and help improve the image of the civilian personnel office," explained Juanita C. Alcocer, chief, Evaluation and Resource Management in the ATC Civilian Personnel Directorate. "Recent surveys have indicated a need to better serve our managers, employees and potential workers. This new central point will handle about 60 percent of the inquiries at a personnel office and allow personnel professionals time to handle more complex problems."

Davis views command future

(Editor's note: April marked the beginning of Gen. B.L. Davis' second year as Air Training Command commander. Bob Reed, ATC Public Affairs, talked with General Davis about how he views the next year. This is the final installment of a three-part series.)

• How is the long-standing planning for a Euro-NATO Joint Jet Pilot training program coming along, general?

We're on schedule, Bob. The reason it's taken such a long time to set up is that so many different countries are involved, making it infinitely complicated. But now it's here—will start in October '81. Just where the training will be conducted will be announced in a couple of months.

• Now over to my bailiwick, general. Is the freeze on civilian hiring going to affect the command?

Sure it will, both here in the headquarters and in individual units, with some organizations affected more than others, of course. But if we can fill vacant slots from within the Department of Defense, the order to hire only one person for each two slots vacated doesn't hold. That's only if we hire from the outside.

• Have you any idea as to when the freeze will end?

Not really. As a guess, I'd think it could be lifted by September or October.

• General, where do we stand in acquiring the needed replacement for the T-37?

We're on track there too, Bob. The Air Force has looked over the candidates and is now deciding which one it wants. Funding's going to be difficult, but that should be taken care of by FY '82, and we should be flying the replacements by FY '86.

• Are we going to wait for it before going ahead with the Specialized UPT program?

No. That concept, which we expect the Chief to approve shortly, transcends the acquisition of any one aircraft. How fast we can get going depends on an important "pacing item": Finding a suitable new TTB (tanker-transport-bomber) aircraft. We're working with MAC and SAC on that right now. In summary, I'm convinced we'll have dual track training in being by FY '86.

• Our first women pilots and navigators graduated two-and-a-half years ago. What reports do get on them?

That their performance is outstanding. I haven't been particularly surprised, because our initial screening of the women selected for the first class was unusually stringent. But the important thing I'm waiting for is to see what will happen in their fifth and sixth years of active duty flying—what their retention rates will be.

• General, I've heard rumors that airmen with civil law infractions in their backgrounds are serving on active duty. Is this so?

It certainly isn't according to policy, Bob. When we know prospective enlistees have been involved in even the most minor offenses, we check them out very carefully. Now I'm not naive; I'm aware some could slip through. But if unknown pre-service offenses surface later, commanders thoroughly evaluate them, and then decide what action is called for. If the enlistees lied deliberately and the infraction was serious enough, they're out. It's in the best interests of all concerned to handle these quickly, by the way. The sooner we do so, the more money we save.

• Any final thoughts you'd like me to pass on the members of the command, general?

Only that I'm proud of all of them, military and civilian—particularly of the junior officers and airmen who have re-upped in spite of the financial inequities of which I've spoken. Without their experience and know-how, the Air Force could find itself in trouble, because we are the First Command. We supply the lifeblood of the Air Force, train the flying Crews and technicians that keep the Air Force flying.

In return, I assure every member of ATC that I'll continue doing everything within my power, speaking out forcibly wherever and whenever I can, to improve their lot, while together we enhance the way we do our mission.

Sergeant Stevens was cited by his squadron commander for his "outstanding degree of efficiency in performance of duties . . . willingness to go beyond normal responsibilities . . . and management abilities."

May weather often includes tornadoes

May marks the height of thunderstorm and tornado activity in the South Plains, according to Capt. John K. Sanders, commander of Detachment 11, 24th Weather Squadron.

It was 10 years ago this Sunday that a killer tornado swept through Lubbock leaving 26 dead, 1,500 injured and causing property damage totalling $125 million.

An average of six thunderstorm days can be expected in May, according to National Weather Service statistics. Most of these storms will occur during the afternoon and evening hours, with rapid buildups common. This can result in severe storms with heavy rain, large hail and possible tornado activity.

Because of necessary communication with the National Weather Service, Emergency Broadcasting System and local weather watchers, base Weather people need all the telephone lines available during periods of severe weather. For this reason, Reese people are asked to tune to KFYO, AM 790, for information.

Television stations will also be broadcasting pertinent information and tracking storms and tornado sightings. A thunderstorm or tornado watch will be issued when conditions indicate the possibility of a buildup and a warning will be given when an actual sighting has been made. Viewers should watch the lower left corner of their screens for one of the symbols below to determine the latest condition.

A recent change in tornado procedures has recently been made by the National Weather Service, according to meteorologist Alan Johnson. Because of further research into high wind damage and injury, storm victims are now advised not to attempt to open windows, but to seek shelter immediately.

0-4 gets court-martial for dereliction of duty

Only one court martial was included among legal actions at Reese during April.

A major, accused of willful disobedience and two counts of dereliction of duty, was dismissed from the service as a result of a general court-martial. A dismissal is equivalent to the dishonorable discharge of an enlisted person.

A dozen Article 15s were handed out during the month. Three airmen charged with being disorderly on station (one was also charged with assault) received penalties totalling $450 in forfeitures, 35 days extra duty and two suspended reductions in grade.

Willfully disobeying a lawful order cost two airmen a stripe each and forfeitures totalling $450 (although the bulk of the forfeitures was suspended). One of them, also charged with going from his place of duty, was restricted to base for 60 days.

For violating a lawful general regulation, an airman first class received seven days extra duty and was ordered to forfeit $150, although $75 was suspended.

Being drunk and disorderly caused an airman to receive a suspended reduction to airman basic, 14 days extra duty and a $400 forfeiture. Extra duty also figured in the punishment of an airman charged with failure to obey. He received seven days and a forfeiture of $150, $75 of which was suspended.

A staff sergeant received a suspended reduction in grade for failure to go and for being disrespectful in language, while an airman who unlawfully struck a person also received a suspended reduction in grade and was ordered to forfeit $75.

The penalty for a senior airman charged with failure to go and intent to deceive was a little stiffer. Fourteen days extra duty, reduction in grade and an order to forfeit $300, $200 of which was suspended, was his punishment.

April's final item was an airman charged with possession of marijuana who received 14 days extra duty, a suspended reduction in grade and was ordered to forfeit $200, half of which was suspended.

These legal actions are compiled monthly by the staff judge advocate and published in the interest of deterring those who may be considering an illegal act. It is part of an ongoing program of preventive law.

F-15, A-10 show draws big crowd

Spectators jammed the Reese flightline last week to watch the A-10 and F-15 aerial demonstrations put on as Part of TAC Day here.

TAC Day, designed to give Reese Personnel an insight into the aircraft and mission of the Tactical Air Command, included the flying demonstrations, static displays of several TAC aircraft, and mission briefings.

The crowd watching the A-10 perform (top left) barely notices the F-15 Eagle as it waits for its turn to fly. The TAC Day activities took a "family" atmosphere as wives and dependent children took advantage of the show to look at the various TAC aircraft on display. (U.S. Air Force photos)

New settling lagoon cuts maintenance cost

A joint effort by nearly all sections of the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron recently resulted in a new settling lagoon that will double as an irrigation reservoir for the base golf course.

Four weeks of work went into the digging and assembling of equipment to put the new system into operation. The old sewage lake was plagued by maintenance problems, particularly the clogging of the intake system with trash, tumbleweeds and algae.

According to project officer 2nd Lt. Jim Meyer, "An ingenious and economical inlet pipe system was designed, fabricated and installed" in the new lagoon.

Shops which worked on the project included Electrical, Heavy Equipment, Sheet Metal, Carpentry, Water and Waste, Grounds, Planning and Site Development. Over 20,000 square yards of earth were moved to relocate the millions of gallons of water.

At the conclusion of the project, Lieutenant Meyer said, "There were loud cheers and proud grins all around as the first trickle of water poured in. It's dedication and cooperation like this that make Reese's CE squadron the best in the command."

Bible School opens June 9 at Reese

June 9-20 the Reese Chapel will open its doors to the children of the community for the "God's Happy People" Vacation Bible School.

Approximately 150 children are expected to enroll in the program which will include games, puzzles, songs, projects and Bible Stories for ages three through grade eight.

Families may take an active part by teaching or helping with music, art, recreation, refreshments or Bible studies. A workers meeting is scheduled for May 19 at 1 p.m. Nursery care is provided at Chapel expense, but volunteers are requested to make their own reservations.

Parents who wish to enroll their children may do so between May 11 and June 1. Parents are asked to provide two dozen cookies per child to help with refreshments. Call Ext. 3237 for more information.

Reserve board meets

A selection board will meet at Randolph AFB, Texas in August to consider Reserve line officers with dates of separation in fiscal year 1982 for retention beyond 20 years of active service.

Lieutenant colonels and below will be considered. Officers selected will be given a two-year extension to their dates of separation.

The continuation program is designed to offset projected officer shortages.

Emerson's blast lifts Rattlers to first win

Roy Emerson smashed a two-run homer in the fifth inning to lift the Rattler fast-pitch softball team to a 6-5 season opening win over the University Book Center.

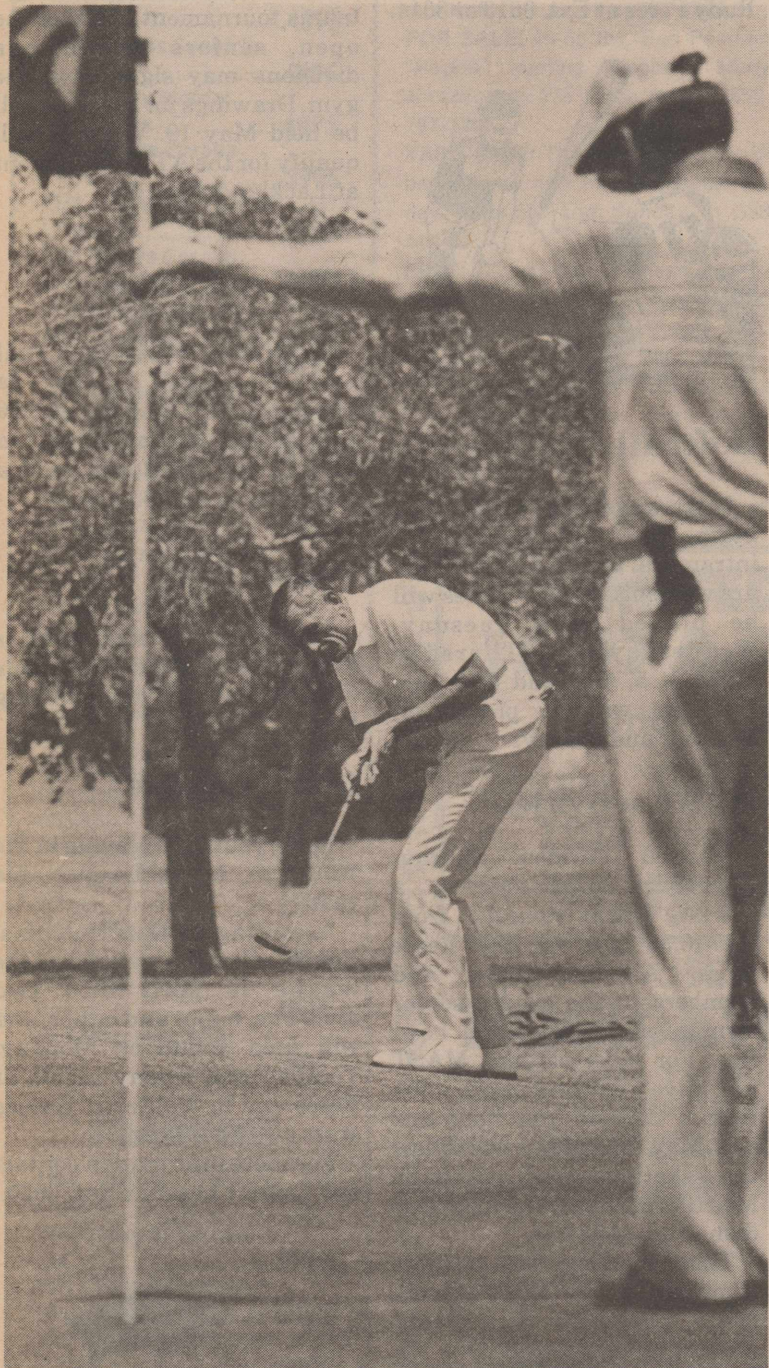

Emerson's blast, which came with two outs, drove in two runs and brought Reese back from a 5-4 deficit. In the first inning, Emerson posted Reese's first run of the season with an RBI triple.

Head coach A. G. Johnson praised Emerson's offense efforts but had more to say about his sterling defensive play. "Roy kept us in the game early," said Johnson, "He cut down two base runners that were in scoring position. He showed a real good arm in left field."

Johnson also cited pitcher Roy Johnson, who hurled a three hitter enroute to the win. Steve Russell called a sound game behind the plate and speedy Ron Benevites drove in a pair of runs on a sharp single to left and an infield hit. B.J. Jackson also delivered a key hit with two outs in the fourth.

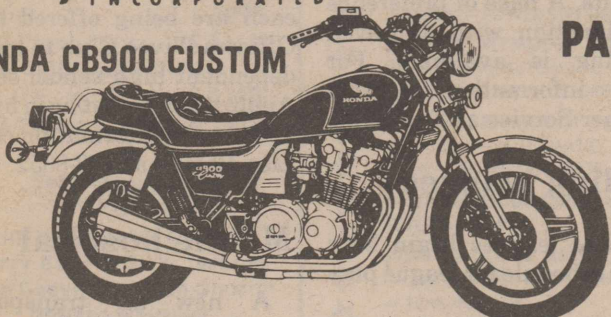

The Rattlers will be in action Wednesday at 9:30 p.m. at Stubbs Field.

Par putt

Bill McMillan holds the flag for B.L. Davis as he strokes a par putt attempt during Monday's Broken Putter Tournament between Reese and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. Reese won the team tourney by 13 strokes. Coy Martin and Jack Alderson tied for individual low gross honors with 18-hole rounds of 74. Low net went to Richard Hearne who carded a 12-handicap 66. READY TO "TRADE" THOSE WINGS?

The Air Force is similar in many ways to athletics . . . you never know when you'll need a new "trade". If you're looking for a "trade" to help you once you leave the Air Force, Lubbock Christian College may have just the "trade" for you.

Consider these five "trades" offered to students of Lubbock Christian College's Industrial Technologies Division:

- * Automotive Technology
- * Drafting Technology
- * Electronics Technology
- * Machine Trades
- * Welding Technology

The goal of the Industrial Technologies Division is to provide entry level skills for those seeking a "trade". Open entry, open exit classes are available for drafting, machine trades and welding every Monday for both men and women. Plus, an Associate of Occupational Science Degree, a two-year course, is available in all fields.

Night classes in electronics and auto mechanics are also available.
 Tuition assistance is available to all Air Force personnel.
