

Congress passes Nunn-Warner

The Senate and House have passed the Officer Grade Limitation Act, including the Nunn-Warner Amendment. The next step is for the President to sign it into law.

The Act provides for:

Authorizing a 25 percent increase in flight pay for officers and enlisted crew members.

Establishes a CONUS variable housing allowance system based on the difference between the average monthly housing costs and 115 percent of BAQ. Secretary of Defense would have discretionary authority to determine the amounts payable in Fiscal 1981.

The services and Office of Secretary of Defense staffs will jointly review the results of the ongoing VHA housing costs survey, assist in developing the appropriate geographical groupings for establishing the average housing costs in a given area and assist in the development of the precise payment formulas which will be used during the first year.

Since the VHA is discretionary for 1981 and the precise costs will not be determined until the results of the survey are completed, it is uncertain at this time if members in high cost areas will receive a VHA equivalent to the difference between average housing costs and 115 percent of average BAQ.

However, the conferees expressed their unanimous desire and intent that VHA be implemented effective no later than October 1980 and that funds be provided at generally the same level as would be required if VHA were an entitlement. The VHA will become statutory entitlement payable by grade effective 30 Sep 1981. The VHA provisions would also apply to dependents who remain in the CONUS when the member is stationed overseas.

Repealing the 10 cents-per-mile reimbursement limitation on permanent change of station moves. Reimbursement would be at 18.5 cents per mile. Although the statutory limit for dependent travel would also be

OMS/FMS cop Air Force award

Winning worker

Amn. Brian Wilkerson, 64th Field Maintenance Squadron Flightline Support, smiles while he works on a T-38 jet engine. Airman Wilkerson and approximately 1,000 coworkers in FMS and Organizational Maintenance were recently notified of the award of the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Reese maintenance squadrons named 'outstanding units'

by Sgt. Steven D. Holmes

Maintenance complex personnel here have just cause to celebrate this week; both Field Maintenance and Organizational Maintenance Squadrons have been selected to receive the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

With a flat 25 percent increase in student load, both squadrons were faced with greatly increased maintenance workload to meet the higher sortie rate. Even though manning was not increased during the period of the award, the challenge was met and surpassed with a jump in average fleet time for T-38s from 125 hours per aircraft to 166 hours.

OMS was called upon to participate in 18 different Time Compliance Technical Orders. These TCTOs included lengthy tests on T-38 wings, rebuilding of T-38 landing gear, inspections of T-37 and T-38 egress systems, and the replacement of all hydraulic lines in T-37s.

During two command wide readiness exercises, OMS officials commented, "Advance planning and a vigorously administered mobility program enabled us to exceed the most optimistic expectations."

One major project that drew command attention was the preparation of six T-38s for transfer to Turkey. This project was completed with no delays or flaws.

In addition to problems encountered by the increased work load, OMS witnessed a great increase in the addition to the higher sortie rate, but no mission degradation resulted.

FMS faced many similar problems, especially with the increased sortie rate. During the period Jan. 1, 1979-April 30, 1980, FMS supported 63,718 training missions.

A low inventory of key aircraft parts also presented a major problem for maintenance personnel. Added to this was a command directed phase inspection conversion which required many hours of overtime from all of maintenance. The conversion entailed changing T-38 phase inspections from every 200 hours to every 300 hours. During this period, FMS also assisted in eliminating a backlog of 20 aircraft awaiting phase inspections.

Above and beyond maintenance problems generated locally, support was also given to the Accelerated Copilot Enrichment program. FMS provides temporary duty maintenance specialists to support the 15 deployed T-38 bases.

These achievements are only the tip of the iceberg when compared to the many hours of service maintenance has put in during the last difficult year-and-a-half, but they go to prove the dedication and pride that make the 64th Field Maintenance and Organization Maintenance Squadrons truly "outstanding."

THE ROUNDUP is an unofficial newspaper published weekly in the interest of personnel at Reese Air Force Base of Air Training Command. It is published by Barron Publications, Inc., a private concern which is in no way connected with the department of the Air Force. Opinions expressed by pub-

People are most important

by CMSgt. Coy Martin
Senior Enlisted Advisor

Our success here at Reese is dependent upon many resources.

Our single most important resource is people. It is quite common to hear commanders and supervisors complain about the lack of experienced people. I agree, we do not have enough experienced people and they will not materialize out of thin air. We will have to grow our own. How do we do that? Through retention.

Retaining trained, experienced personnel will provide stability to our bank of on-the-job "know how." Easy to say isn't it. But becoming more and more difficult to achieve.

Retention of our best people is not a "maybe" or "I'll try," it is a "must." There is not a magic formula for retaining our good people. I do believe that commanders and supervisors are the only keys to the retention effort in the Air Force. Motivation of all supervisors and their active involvement are necessary ingredients if we are to succeed.

I challenge each of you to get involved with your people. Get to know them — their troubles, personalities, touch points and pet prides — know why they tick and what motives stir them. Real concern for people and their well being will go a long way toward improving retention of our best.

HEART offers dining advice

With a little reason and control, a dinner out with friends need not be a pitfall of high calories and high cholesterol. Just keep in mind a few helpful hints:

If you can, order first. This way, you cannot be influenced by others at the table.

If you're at a familiar restaurant, don't even open the menu. This will help you avoid temptation. Better yet, patronize restaurants that have a wide variety of dishes conforming to HEART-rated diet standards.

When you order, make sure you specify you wish your fish, meat or poultry broiled (instead of fried) and ask for no sauce.

Fish (even shellfish) is preferable to meat, as long as you specify that you wish it poached, baked or broiled, and without sauce. If you order meat, select plain varieties, not those breaded or in a sauce. Canadian bacon, lean ham, roast round of beef, roast veal, tenderloin or sirloin steak, chicken and turkey are good selections. Trim the fat, or ask to have it trimmed when possible.

Choose the smallest servings of the entree you order that is available in the restaurant. If you are served more than you know it is healthful for you to eat, cut part of the portion off and set it aside.

As appetizers, a fruit cup, fruit juice, or a clear consomme are your best choices.

Salads are also good choices, but you must be careful to limit your use of salad dressing. Use French, mayonnaise, oil and vinegar dressings, and avoid cream, cheese, or sour cream varieties. Also, if you are ordering a chef's salad, try to avoid eating the cheese and the egg.

As far as bread goes, plain sliced bread and hard rolls are usually acceptable, but try to avoid quick breads, sweet rolls, and muffins. Always ask for margarine (you may find it a good idea to bring your own), and substitute honey, jelly or jam if margarine is not available.

Select baked or broiled potato and any vegetable prepared without sauce or butter. Use lemon, pepper, or vinegar instead as seasonings.

Dessert offers a wide variety of prudent choices: for example, fresh fruits, sherbet, gelatin, or angel food cake.

Watch out for 'get rich quick' schemes

Many Air Force personnel are being victimized by 'get rich' schemes.

A variation of the old 'pyramid club' fraud, these schemes seek to induct people to invest money in some company in order to become a 'distributor' or salesman of the company's product. But, the real riches come when the prospective distributor finds others who will sell for him at an overriding commission. As each level of distributor finds salesmen to invest in the scheme, the original investor's money is repaid several times.

Substantial Profits?

Substantial sums of money have been made by those on the ground floor. What the gullible do not recognize is that any such scheme depends on finding others as gullible as they — which eventually will become impossible. The fact that such a level may have been reached already is evidenced by thousands of investors who have nothing for their money but a canceled check.

By putting on a big front, promoters convince the 'sucker' to borrow large sums of money for investment. Usually this is done at an "opportunity" meeting where people are exhorted to bring their friends and neighbors into the deal. Investors are told to live high, buy a fancy car, assure everyone you're making a fortune and advise their friends to get in fast because only a few places are left.

Lucrative Promotion

As an example of how lucrative this can be for the promoters, a New York court ordered a defendant to cease his fraudulent activities and to make restitution of more than $3,800,000 to over 1,600 investors. The Federal Trade Commission is currently bringing actions against dozens of these schemes and State Attorneys General of over half the states are trying to get the schemes outlawed or regulated in some way.

Any Air Force member contacted by promoters of these schemes should carefully examine the contract — preferably with his legal assistance officer — prior to investing any money. Sadly enough, the individual who can least afford to lose is the one who usually gets taken.

New system streamlines promotion notifications

A new program to streamline the enlisted promotion notification system is working well at Reese, according to TSgt. Richard J. Henderson, NCOIC of Promotion and Testing.

Under the change, a special selectee notification package is loaded into computer and forwarded to local personnel offices. The information is immediately released to unit commanders to notify their selectees. This cuts out the time-consuming step of waiting for verification from command headquarters.

Other promotion data, such as non-select and ineligible promotion lists and non-select scores, arrive at local personnel offices several hours later.

The new system allows commanders to publicly announce promotions. It also cuts anxiety of eligible people who formerly had to wait days for notification.

Sergeant Henderson says the new program has been used for the last four promotion cycles at Reese, with only one error. He expects the system to be error-free once commanders get used to it.

He stressed that notification will be only that. Scores and line numbers will not be available until a few days after notification.

In every case, promotions are tentative until the data used in the selection process has been verified.

Safe storage

Reese gained a great deal of attention last week as representatives from the local media came to cover the story of DDT being stored here. Although the substance has been in storage for almost 10 years, the matter recently came to light during public hearings on how to dispose of the approximately 2,000 tons stored throughout Texas. James Truelock, Material Storage and Distribution Officer, makes a regular check of the dry chemical to be sure all seals are secure. (U.S. Air Force Photo)

Reese AFB outlaws sexual harrassment

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Office of Personnel Management have published interim guidelines on sexual harassment which is recognized as a discriminatory practice under Title VII.

Sexual harassment can be defined as a deliberate or repeated unsolicited verbal comments, gestures, or physical contact of a sexual nature which are unwelcomed. Specifically, the policy of the EEOC is to prohibit the use of implicit or explicit coercive sexual behavior to control, influence, or affect the career, salary, or job of an employee.

The following measures to combat potential sexual harassment at Reese are in effect.

— Sexual harassment cannot and will not be tolerated at this installation. The EEO Staff has been instructed to immediately publish and distribute an Affirmative Action Plan clearly defining the policy of the Federal Government as an employer with regard to sexual harassment.

— This policy will be made a part of the new employee orientation covering the merit principles and the code of conduct.

— Through the discrimination complaints procedures, each employee will be made aware of their avenues for seeking redress, and the actions that will be taken against employees violating this policy.

— Training programs will be conducted for supervisor/personnel with regard to sexual harassment. This training will emphasize awareness of the problem as the most important means of preventing it.

Personnel data
 The Personnel Data System contains several items of information pertaining to dependents, marriage status, addresses and duty information of Air Force members. The accuracy of this information is the responsibility of the Personnel Office as well as the Air Force member to keep personnel records accurate.

Any change in status should be reported to the CBPO at 3276.

Promotions
 Airman selected for promotion to grade E-7, E-8 or E-9 must withdraw any existing retirement application within 10 workdays after official selection notification.

Housing Guide
 Washington (AFNS) — Air Force legal offices will provide service members assistance in selling, purchasing and leasing homes.

A book, titled a "Guide to Local Real Estate Law and Procedures," has been prepared by the Office of the Judge Advocate General. The guide will be used by legal assistance officers to advise clients of legal requirements for buying, selling or leasing a home. It can also be used as a reference in preparing documents for such transactions. The guide contains a section for each state where major installations are located.

Catholic CCD
 Catholic CCD registration will be held Aug. 31 and Sept. 7 after both Masses on Sundays at the Chapel. We will be registering children from ages four through high school. CCD classes will begin Sept. 14 at 11 a.m. in the Chapel classrooms. For further information call Mary Damico at 885-2191.

AFIT faculty
 WRIGHT-PATERSON AFB, Ohio (AFNS) — Officers are sought for duty as faculty members at the Air Force Institute of Technology's School of Systems and Logistics here. Applications should be submitted before Nov. 1, 1980.

Lieutenants through majors in specialty codes 267X, 271X, 31XX, 40XX, 55XX, 60XX, 64XX, 66XX and 67XX may apply.

Air Force Manual 50-5, Volume 1, Chapter 4, outlines procedures to apply. Interested individuals can contact either Maj. John Folkson, Autovon 785-5023, or Maj. Russ Lloyd, Autovon 785-4549.

Hometown merger
 KELLY AFB, Texas (AFNS) — The Army and Air Force have merged their hometown news program to form an Army/Air Force Hometown News Directorate as part of the Air Force Service Information and News Center here.

Merging the programs will save about 35 positions. The consolidated directorate is expected to produce approximately 120,000 print media releases, 10,000 photo releases, 150 radio/television tapes and 600 feature releases on individual airmen and soliders monthly.

Educational incentives included in defense bill

(ATCNS)—Limited increases in educational incentive programs were agreed to by committee members during House/Senate Conference action on the 1981 Department of Defense Authorization Bill.

The committee agreed to establish a one year test program which would begin Oct. 1 and authorized $75 million to support it. The program would benefit primarily enlistees and reenlistees in critical skill areas.

One plan, essentially a new era GI Bill, provides authority for service secretaries to offer incentives to attract enlistees into hard to fill critical skills. It would be limited to 1,000 participants.

Under the plan, a selected member would be provided one academic year of educational assistance for each year of initial enlistment to a maximum of four years. The member would receive up to $1,200 per academic year for educational expenses plus $300 per month for nine months as a subsistence allowance.

Should the member reenlist, there are options for the member to retain the entitlement, receive a lump sum payment of 60 percent of the educational entitlement, or to transfer the entitlement to another family member.

Another plan under the same program is an expansion of the current Veteran's Educational Assistance Program. It recommends that DoD significantly increase the level of government VEAP contributions and shorten the enlistment terms needed to qualify for new payments. Also, the secretary of Defense would be authorized to pay VEAP contributions for selected enlistees and reenlistees in critical skills. These contributions would then qualify individuals for matching government funds.

The plan contains provision for the Defense secretary to transfer payments from the member's VEAP account to a spouse or children.

It also contains a loan forgiveness program and authorizes DoD to designate service components and specialties eligible for the program.

Selected members would have their outstanding federal student loans reduced by $1,500 or by one-third, whichever is greater, for each year of completed active duty service.

Reserve members would have their loans reduced by $500 or 15 percent for Reserve component service.

The full Congress, which returned from recess on Aug. 18, now must consider the 1981 DoD Authorization Bill.

Congress increases benefits

(Continued from page 1) repealed, the rates would remain the same at present — 7 cents per mile for adults and 3.5 cents for children aged 2 through 11 years.

Increasing separate rations allowance by 10 percent for officers and enlisted people.

Revising save pay provisions for enlisted people and Warrant Officers who accept commissions. This ensures officers would receive the same increases in basic pay, BAS, BAQ and longevity they would have received as enlisted members or Warrant Officers.

Increasing sea-pay rates by 15 percent.

Extending the Officer Grade Limitations Act tables to Sept. 30, 1982. This provides the Air Force with grade relief until Sept. 30, 1983.

Extending disability retirement and separations provisions for those with less than eight years of service until Sept. 30, 1982.

Permitting reserve enlisted members to receive retirement pay prior to age 60 if they complete at least 20 years of active duty service.

OMS racquetballers dominate qualifier

Organizational Maintenance Squadron placed three racquetball players into the second round of the Air Training Command qualifying tournament here last week.

Dick Lau beat Sturon's Eric Snell, 21-4 and 21-2; Louis Daniels bested Field Maintenance's Charles Von Beck, 21-17 and 21-5; and Edward Norman topped the 54th's P.J. Lozano, 21-10, 17-21 and 21-10.

Two other OMS players entered the tournament. They were Chad Chambers and Reinaldo Ortiz, first-round losers to the Hospital's Phillip Pixley and the 35th's Keith Heise.

Rounding out first-round play, Jessie Garces, 1958th Communication Squadron, stopped Supply's Merced Burnias, 21-10 and 21-10; the Hospital's Tom Hearn outlasted Sturon's Dennis Hugo, 21-17, 15-21 and 21-7; and Sturon's Joe Marquardt beat Emilio Rosales, 54th FTS, 21-5 and 21-6.

The top two seeds in the tournament, Ben Summerlin and Gary Rutherford, were scheduled to open tourney play Tuesday night.

The top two open players and the top two senior players, 35-years-old and older, will advance to the Air Training Command championships in September.

Garnett heads military team

Reese is well represented on the 1980 Interservice championship slow pitch softball team, not by players, but by their coach.

Melvin Garnett, who also coached the Air Force team in the Interservice competition, was named to coach the All-Armed Service men's team in the Amateur Softball Association Class "A" National tournaments in Jacksonville, Fla. The competition began Thursday and will wind up Monday.

The women's Armed Service team will also compete in the amateur tournament, but no representatives from Reese are on the squad.

In winning the Interservice crown, the women's team went undefeated while the men's team suffered only one defeat in six games.

Sports in brief

Golf tourney

A two-man best-ball golf tournament sponsored by the Officers' Club will be held Saturday and Sunday at the base golf course.

Following Sunday's round, a meal will be served at the golf course recreation and picnic area. Tickets are $5 per person and beer is free. Those interested should contact the golf course today.

Run cancelled

Because of the lack of participation, the Labor Day run has been cancelled. It will be rescheduled later this fall.
