

Comm NCO wins advisor award

by 1st Lt. Stephen H. Gladstone
1958 Comm Sq. PA

SMSgt. William C. Schwartz of the 1958th Communications Squadron, was cited as being the best Unit Career Advisor for 1980. The sergeant received this award during the 64th Flying Training Wing yearly awards banquet on Tuesday.

Sergeant Schwartz was cited for continually keeping abreast with and insuring that all squadron members were briefed on all policies and programs that affected the U.S.

Air Force Retention Program. His efforts in promoting the Air Force as a career and his strong retention program resulted in significantly improved reenlistment rates over the previous year.

A native of Charleston, W.V., Sergeant Schwartz is assigned to the Air Traffic Control Section.

During 1980, he played a key role in many aspects of both the 64th FTW and the 1958 CS operations. In July, he was primarily responsible for orchestrating the "Fly-in" for the Confederate Air Force and general aviation visitors which amassed more than 800 air operations during the Wing Open House. His work with air traffic control procedures has enabled the Wing to make more effective use of their daily flying requirements.

When Sergeant Schwartz is not involved in flying operations, he is responsible for administering the 1958 CS On the Job Training program. The professional teamwork with all duty sections which Sergeant Schwartz has established through his OJT duties aided him in being a highly successful career advisor.

Debbie Barham, child care center employee, waits to catch one of her charges as they try out new equipment on the playground. The next major step in updating the facility begins Jan. 20 when Jerry Galey Construction begins work on a $165,791 addition. The 28 feet by 85 feet structure will be added on the west of the existing L-shaped structure. Completion is expected in mid-May. (U.S. Air Force Photo)

Former Ops chief returns, becomes DCM

Col. John D. Herbert will arrive here Feb. 9 to assume duties as deputy commander for maintenance. He will replace Lt. Col. Tommy L. Richardson, who has filled the position since the departure of Col. John D. Rushfeldt.

Colonel Herbert currently works on the Inspector General team at Randolph AFB, Texas, and once served at Reese as chief of the Operations Division.

The West Hyattsville, Md. native attended high school at McKinley High School in Washington, D.C. and entered Maryland University at College, where he received his bachelor of science degree in sociology.

He received his commission through ROTC in 1954 and entered the Air Force. His flying assignments have taken him through several tours around the world. He now holds the aeronautical rating of command pilot.

Colonel Herbert married the former Nancy E. Gills of West Hyattsville, Md. The Herberts have three children; Sharon, David and Robert.

OB/Gyn celebrates first birthday

by Col. Lloyd A. McLaughlin Jr.
Hospital Commander

Jan. 4 marked the first anniversary of the reopening of the obstetric and gynecologic service at USAF Hospital Reese.

The program is conducted by the OB/GYN Department at Texas Tech Medical School as a satellite to their resident training program. This "pilot" program is financed by CHAMPUS through a contractual agreement between themselves and Texas Tech. It has been in fact, enthusiastically accepted by those beneficiaries who use the hospital for these specialized services.

The obstetric and gynecology clinics and most obstetrical deliveries are conducted at USAF Hospital Reese. Some high risk pregnancies which require the service of a perinatologist or a neonatologist are transferred to the Texas Tech medical center, some for prenatal care and delivery and others for just the delivery.

As previously stated, this program has been gratifying and many happy parent groups have welcomed their new heir into the world on the obstetrical ward at our hospital. Patients receive excellent prenatal and postnatal care in the OB Clinics. Many is the letter of praise we have received from satisfied parents relative to the care they received in the delivery unit. Gynecologic procedures which develop in association with deliveries or those not related to pregnancy are expeditiously and expertly managed by the same Texas Tech OB/GYN staff and resident corps.

Because of the opening of OB and GYN services, additional physicians and ancillary personnel have been assigned to our staff. We now have a family practice, internal medicine, pediatric, and surgical services as a result of the reinstatement of the obstetric services.

To date, since the reopening of the OB service, 175 infants have been delivered at this hospital. We plan a small celebration on 28 January 1981 at 10 a.m. and invite parents and babies delivered during this year period to come help us celebrate. We ask this to vividly show your physical support for the program and to emphasize the positive influence it has had on morale and family happiness on the base. Invitations will be mailed but should you not get an invitation, please call me at extension 3542 and advise us you are coming so we will know how many to expect.

Col. Lloyd McLaughlin

Water they doin'?

In the base housing area, the water was shut off and it was not published in the base paper or bulletin, and I would like to know why the contractor just shuts things off and doesn't say anything. Whenever they shut off the power, they publish it in the bulletin. They mention it at meetings so they can tell the people that it is going to be shut off. And, CE doesn't even know about it. I feel there should be some coordination with this.

We are very sorry for the inconvenience caused by the shutting off of the water in the village. Usually when the water is turned off it is due to an emergency situation and there is no time to notify occupants. In this instance, there was a bad leak underneath a duplex in your area. The contractor could not locate the shut-off valve to the unit making it necessary to shut off the main water valve.

Had we taken time to notify the occupants before repairing the leak, damage would have been extensive.

Theft prevention requires vigilance

by Maj. James N. Potuk
Staff Judge Advocate

Thefts of personal property continue to occur in dormitories. All dorm residents are vulnerable but here are a few basic precautions you can take to deter a potential thief.

The goal is to protect your property and make theft more difficult. In other words, make it hard on the thief and not on yourself.

The most basic precaution sounds worn out, but it's still the best: lock your doors and windows. Lock them if you'll be out of the room for only a few minutes and when you go to sleep at night. A few minutes while you're in the latrine or the sight of you sleeping soundly are all a thief needs to relieve you of your valuables.

Another precaution is not to talk about large amounts of cash or valuable items you have in your room. Telling people about your good fortune is the same as an invitation to rip you off. In addition to not talking, secure your cash and high-value, easy-to-carry-off items under lock and key if you have to keep them in your room.

By taking these precautions, you'll be deterring theft and helping yourself. But you should not stop there. You can help create a sense of security for your whole dormitory with a little vigilance and effort.

First, to prevent thieves from getting in your dorm, be sure that all outside fire escape doors are closed and locked. Even if you're in a hurry, take that extra minute and don't go in and out of the fire escape door.

And, if you see the coat hanger trick being used to keep a fire escape door open, remove it. You could save yourself or dorm mates from an expensive lesson in security.

Second, check out strangers in the dormitory. Asking what a stranger's business in the dorm is or who he or she is looking for only takes a few seconds, but it makes people looking for an easy rip-off aware that someone knows they were there.

If you get doubtful answers, remember the person's appearance and copy down their car's license number if you are able to see it. Above all, don't hesitate to notify Crime Stop at extension 3400, or the Security Police desk at extension 3332 of any suspicions you might have.

Finally, you may be a theft victim despite your best efforts. To help recover your property and punish the thief, you should engrave your driver's license number on your personal property. This visible sign of your precautions will sometimes deter a potential thief. An electric engraver may be borrowed from the security police by calling extension 3613.

Again, dormitory thefts are an unfortunate reality. Don't make your property an easy target. Take the precautions mentioned and you can be sure you've made it a lot harder on the thief and a lot more likely that you'll keep what's yours.

GROWING WITH THE GREAT SOUTHWEST

Civil rights leader would be 52

Yesterday marked the 52nd anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther King, Jr. He was an American leader of nonviolent resistance in the fight to achieve civil rights. He received the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize for his work.

A Baptist minister, King began his civil rights crusade in 1955, when he led a boycott of buses in Montgomery, Ala., to protest discrimination against black passengers. When the boycott succeeded, it convinced many people that nonviolent protest could win civil rights.

In 1957 he helped establish and became the first president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

King continued his work, leading marches and sit-ins in Birmingham, Selma and Montgomery, Ala.; and St. Augustine, Fla. He was jailed several times for his actions.

His program's high point came on Aug. 28, 1963, when King led more than 200,000 people in a march into Washington, D.C. It was there he said, "I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal'."

Congress passed the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965 partly as a result of his efforts.

Though King preached non-violence he was often the target of violence. He was stabbed in New York City and stoned in Chicago. His home in Montgomery, Ala. was bombed. On April 4, 1968, an assassin shot and killed him in Memphis, Tenn.

Martin Luther King is buried in Atlanta, with a tombstone carved with a phrase from a spiritual: "Free at last, free at last, thank God Almighty, I'm free at last."

Trainer status changes

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AFB, Ohio, Jan. 6, 1981—The Next Generation Trainer effort has been elevated to system program office status and transferred to the Deputy for Airlift and Trainer Systems, Lt. Gen. Lawrence A. Skantze, commander, Aeronautical Systems Division, announced yesterday. It had been directed by ASD's Deputy for Development Planning, Stanley A. Tremaine, during the conceptual development phase.

The move puts the trainer program under operational control of Brig. Gen. Elbert E. Harbour. General Harbour's organization will prepare for the full-scale development phase of the program aimed at replacing the aging T-37 primary undergraduate pilot trainer. Requests for proposals to industry are expected to be issued by ASD this year.

ASD had issued RFPs in February 1980 for concept exploration studies for either development of a primary trainer or modernization of the T-37B now in use by Air Training Command. In June, ASD's Development Planning NGT SPO Cadre awarded contracts to five aerospace companies including Cessna Aircraft Co., Wallace Division, Wichita, Kan.; Fairchild Republic Co., Farmingdale, N.Y.; General Dynamics, Fort Worth, Texas; Rockwell International, North American Aviation Division, Los Angeles; and Vought Corp., Dallas.

Contractors looked at various alternative systems to T-37B to determine the optimum lowest life cycle costs, low operating and support costs, long service lifetime, fuel economy, performance for ATC training missions and compatibility with present simulator systems.

The new trainer will be in the 5,000 to 6,000-pound weight class. It will have twin engines with side by side seating and will compare in size with the T-37B. Requirements for the NGT are for either development of a new trainer, modernization of the T-37B, or the use of other existing or off-the-shelf foreign or domestic aircraft.

In making the transfer, General Skantze lauded the centralized corps of technical personnel within the Deputy for Development Planning who are present at the birth of new aerospace systems, nurture the ideas during their infancy, and guide the program through the conceptual development period.

Carter signs legislation

(AFNS)—President Jimmy Carter has signed the House and Senate compromise version of the fiscal 1981 Department of Defense Appropriations bill. The bill provides more than $160 billion in federal funds to run DOD.

Provisions

—Full funding for all new entitlements contained in the Military Personnel and Compensation Amendments of 1980 and the 1981 DOD Authorization Act except the rated officer continuation bonus. The compensation improvements include the variable housing allowance, 25-percent increase in aviation career incentive pay and enlisted flight pay, Zone C re-enlistment bonus and increases in family separation allowances and basic allowance for subsistence and eliminates the 7.4-cent-per-mile restriction on reimbursement for shipping of a house trailer or mobile home.

—Full funding for the 11.7 percent pay raise.

—Funding for increases in selective re-enlistment bonuses.

—Deletion of funding for overseas single and unaccompanied service members' cost-of-living allowance when the service member is required to live in government quarters and use government dining facilities.

—Funding for increased military per-diem rates.

—Funding for a DOD educational incentive test. The test is limited to service members who enlist or re-enlist between Oct. 1, 1980 and Sept. 30, 1981.

—Funding increases for off-duty tuition assistance payments from 75 percent to 90 percent for enlisted service members who are E-5 or higher with less than 14 years of service.

—Funding for the expansion of the Civilian Health and Medical program for the Uniformed Services coverage for service members. This includes funding for handicapped family members and well-baby care.

—Provisions for special incentive pay for Air Force physicians.

—Additional funds to help accelerate implementation of the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System.

—Restores funds for senior executive bonuses for 50 percent of Air Force eligible personnel.

The bill removes the restriction requiring service members to be on active duty to be eligible for cash awards for suggestions, inventions or scientific achievement.

Prohibition

The bill also prohibits:

—The commissioning of physician assistants except those individuals currently under the contract or in training.

—The use of funds for abortions "except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term, or except for such medical procedures necessary for the victims of rape or incest, when such rape has, within 72 hours, been reported to a law enforcement agency or public health service; nor are payments prohibited for drugs or devices to prevent implantation of the fertilized ovum, or for medical procedures necessary for the termination of an ectopic pregnancy; provided however, that the several states are and shall remain free not to fund abortions to the extent that they in their sole discretion deem appropriate."

Fair benefits

President Carter also signed the Fair Benefits Package into law. The benefits became effective Jan. 1.

Package benefits include:

—Provisions for service members E-7 and above, without family members, to elect basic allowance for quarters in lieu of government quarters. The previous entitlement existed for O-4s and above.

—Special pay of $50 a month for enlisted service members in stateside-overseas imbalanced skills who agree to extend overseas for at least one year. They also have the option of taking 30 days' rest and recuperation without leave; or 15 days' rest and recuperation without leave charged and round-trip transportation stateside.

—Authorization for service members on long deployments to accrue up to 90 days' leave, which can then be used in the year following their deployment.

—Substantial increases in sea pay, submarine pay and nuclear officer pay.

CE slates exercise

The 64th Civil Engineering Squadron will be conducting a field training exercise at Terry County Auxiliary Airfield beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The training will include instruction in air base defense techniques, and will include the use of blank ammunition, ground burst simulators and possibly some smoke generators. The exercise will continue into the evening and conclude at approximately 2 a.m. Sunday.

This exercise will provide essential training in air base defense techniques for our Civil Engineering Mobility Teams. This training is required once a year.

Watch next weeks Roundup for a look at the exercise.

MWR plans Year of Family

1981 has been declared Year of the Family for morale, welfare and recreation programs, Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center officials announced at Randolph AFB, Texas.

The Year of the Family is designed to give all MWR program managers an opportunity to add family-oriented programs to their current activities, according to Col. Irv R. Gerrow, director of the MWR directorate at AFMPC.

According to Erna Boggess, chief of recreation at Reese, a wide range of activities is planned for 1981. The following is a synopsis of the major programs planned so far.

Globalmarch I—June 6. The first volksmarch to be conducted worldwide (perhaps a Guinness World Book record) is scheduled to begin from the base gym. The concept entails starting the march at sunrise at the first base east of the International Date Line with succeeding eastern bases also starting at sunrise until the globe is encircled.

Volksmarching is a non-competitive outdoor event where a participant follows a marked route at his own pace, stopping at designated points for a control stamp punch, refreshments and rest. The route follows a circle from the start and back to the same point. The literal translation from the German is "people's walk."

The sport was created in 1968 by the countries of Austria, West Germany, Liechtenstein and Switzerland as a union of non-profit sports organizations to promote volkssport events: bicycling, cross-country skiing, swimming and walking. Today, the organization numbers about 4,000 clubs representing 16-member nations, including the American Volkssport Association which was formed in the United States in June of 1979. There are about 60 active volkssport clubs in the USA which conduct over 100 events annually.

Family Talent Contest. The first worldwide Air Force Family Talent Contest involves each base conducting its own family talent show. The bases will make audio-video tapes of the winners and forward to Air Force for worldwide level judging. Winners at the Air Force level will receive specially designed awards.

Designer Craftsman Contest. Each arts and crafts director may submit up to 18 winning entries in the form of 35mm slides to Air Force competition. A panel of professional judges will select winners from the slide entries and present 36 awards. Family participation will be enhanced by establishing separate categories for youth and adults, with three major media groups under which contestants can enter their work. Entries will be accepted in any media of fine arts, fine crafts and hobby crafts, with the exception of photograph.

Open Mess Program. Musical Magic will be the theme when the clubs sponsor a nationally recognized singing group in conjunction with Year of the Family activities. Plans are still being finalized. Watch the Roundup for dates and further information.

Family Showcase. The Air Force Entertainment Branch will be presenting family oriented touring shows in recreation centers throughout the world. No admission will be charged for these special shows, and schedules will be announced.

Air Force Library Program. Fare for the Family is the theme chosen to celebrate the special year by the library. Programs to stimulate family reading and family use of the library will be presented throughout the year.

Summer reading programs and promotional Year of the Family posters, T-shirt transfers and book bags will be used to lead up to a worldwide storytelling competition in December.

Family Puppet Workshops. The Amazing Andrettis will visit the Youth Center sometime during the year to hold a workshop that will include instruction on making puppets, building stages and performing plays that will include parents and children participating.

"The Air Force has, in recent years, recognized the very important role members' families are playing in their outlook of the Air Force as a career and a way of life," explained Colonel Gerrow.

"Family separations such as temporary duty assignments, remote tours and alert duties put considerable strain on our service people and their families," he added. "That's why we in the MWR business have designed and are implementing a series of new programs and activities specifically designed to get all Air Force families involved in our programs and recreating together as a family unit."

Street Talk

Welcome to the first Street Talk of 1981. The fertile imaginations of the folks who assemble this column are running short of ideas. If you have a topic you would like to see addressed in Street Talk, please give us a call. Our number is Ext. 3410/3169, and believe me, your idea couldn't be any worse than some we've come up with.

This week's topic is one of primary interest to everybody, though. The new administration's primary concern in the military, it says, is retention. So we went to the streets and asked people what they think could be done to retain our trained, quality people.

TSgt. Kenneth Zielinski, base career advisor, stated, "The Air Force is definitely striving toward better retention. This can be seen in the enactment of the Variable Housing Allowance and the proposed return of a GI Bill-type education program. We still need to strive toward reaching parity with the civilian sector to retain our quality, experienced personnel. Our leadership on all levels is actively speaking out on this issue."

Sergeant Zielinski's thoughts were echoed by a number of Street People when we asked the question, "What do you think the Air Force could do to improve retention?"

CMSgt. Jerry C. Jarvis
Air Base Group

I think that the programs we have for retention are made because we've known for a long time that we've got problems, and we haven't taken positive steps to correct them. We've let pay slip by for years, we haven't concerned ourselves with the problems of family members moving from one place to another, we haven't realized that people don't want to go overseas because it costs too much.

Hopefully with the new administration, we'll take some positive steps to keep people in uniform

Sgt. Joel Birdsong
Supply

Pay more money, we definitely need more money and I feel like we're qualified. If they give us more money, I think more people would stay in. We need to get a raise to where we would be equal to the people on the outside. We have to deal with the economy just like they do. About 15 percent would bring us up to par. I like the Air Force, I really do. We just need to make more money.

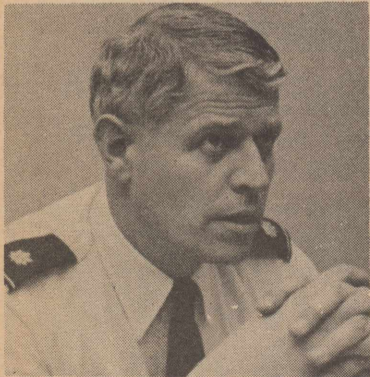

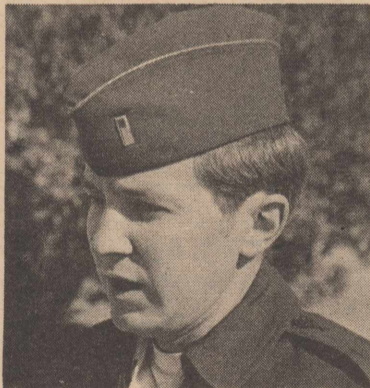

Sgt. Linda K. Price
Field Maintenance

I don't really know how it could be better. I'm completely satisfied.

2nd Lt. Paul D. Boyd
Student Squadron

Talking from the pilot's standpoint, an increase in flight pay and more flying hours would definitely help. As far as the rest of the Air Force, especially the enlisted force, starting up the GI Bill again. I was enlisted and used the GI Bill to get my degree and I know how valuable it was.

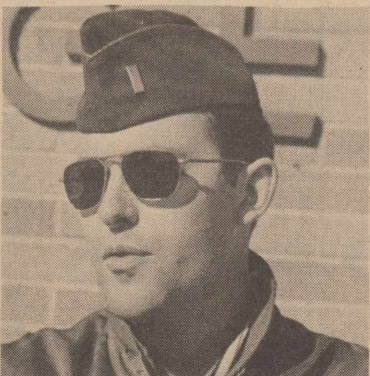

Maj. Carl D. Alberchinski
Chief of Supply

It is my opinion that the Air Force is doing everything that is within the scope of their authority to improve retention. All of our senior leadership is pushing for better pay and benefits. I feel extremely comfortable with that; that they're doing everything they can.

It's the first time in recent years that you've heard, for example, Chief Walker at the awards ceremony, speak out and say "Our people are operating below the average income level and our people are on food stamps" and their saying it publicly.

1st Lt. Gary Dyson
Student Squadron

Pay and benefits is a big one with me. Pay is pretty good for officers but I think they should increase it a little more for enlisted people. Plus medical care for dependents is kind of hard to get, especially dental care.

Surgeon general notes dual-benefits mission

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—“We have both a wartime mission and a peacetime mission that require our maximum attention,” said Lt. Gen. Paul W. Myers, the Air Force surgeon general.

“The Air Force Medical Service is focusing in on the need to address, through legislation, our dual-benefits mission. Dual-benefits mission means our responsibilities to the people we care for during peacetime and our responsibilities during wartime,” said General Myers. “We need to spell out both missions and then identify the resources to accomplish both of them.”

Peacetimes

“For instance, funding the peacetime mission should specifically, by law, include the retiree and retiree dependent. We treat a tremendous number of these folks. The resources to do that should be addressed up front where they have not been in the past.”

Wartime

“Right now we are not legally obligated to care for retirees and their family members. We do it on a moral basis. Consequently we are not adequately funded to handle the total Air Force population we serve. I would hope to see that retirees and their family members become included as full partners in the beneficiary responsibilities we have,” he said.

“One of the major goals I have during 1981 is to convince the Department of Defense and Congress that there have been enough studies done to indicate we can deliver health care more economically to the entire Air Force family, active and reserve, if we are given the proper funding to do the job,” General Myers said.

He added, “The wartime mission should be looked at as well. We are doing a good job in this regard. Our wartime requirements are being worked very hard. We are planning in great detail those needs, and we have made some giant strides in accomplishing the goals we have set for ourselves.”

The general indicated that Medical Red Flag exercises that stress operating in a wartime environment have been a key part in medical readiness plans. “We have very few medical folks who have had any experience with wartime casualties. Red Flag exercises are a way to focus the attention of our medical staff on what it will be like to work in the field under some very tough conditions.”

“We’ve trained over 500 medical officers in three exercises, and we have three more programmed for 1981.”

“In addition to Red Flag we have some other programs that are extremely important in addressing readiness,” General Myers said.

“The medical service intends to train all medical service members in basic first-aid measures. We are also involved with the Army and Navy in holding battlefield-medicine, combat-casualty-care courses.”

On another wartime-related situation, General Myers said we are committed to training in the chemical-warfare arena. Committed not only to the development of the proper equipment, but also to ensuring that the people who have to wear that equipment can wear it with reasonable tolerance. In line with this, we want to upgrade the suit and mask, and to train our people to work under chemical-warfare conditions.

Resources

On the question of resources, General Myers said, “Fifty percent of our facilities are 20 years old or older. We could use $100 million a year for the next 25 years to bring them up to acceptable standards.”

“One of our biggest problems is that many of our facilities are so ancient we haven’t been able to keep up with changing fire and safety codes. There is awareness on the part of our senior air staff, but I am a realist. The facts are that we are in competition for limited funds. To present our side of this situation, we are working on a complete package of our needs.”

Family Practice

Commenting on the family practice program, the Air Force’s top medical officer said, “We are committed to the family practice method of caring for our people. Family practice has become a recognized medical specialty which has as its primary purpose the care of the whole person and the family. We have 65 stateside bases, some 40 of these have family practice. By 1986 we hope to have family practice clinics at all stateside bases. After that we will do it overseas.”

Retention

On the subject of retention of medical and dental personnel, General Myers said Project KEEP (Keep Each Eligible Person) has paid off. “We have had a good experience with our dental officers. We have been fortunate enough to keep a significant number of highly qualified dental specialists with us as well.”

“As you are aware,” he continued, “we have had significant problems in keeping medical doctors for the last few years. But I think we have begun to turn the corner with this problem. The Recruiting Service has done an outstanding job in getting good people for us. That coupled with the new pay bill, scholarship programs and the output from the Uniformed Services Medical School have all contributed to reduce our shortage by 75 percent. We aren’t well yet, but we are on the road to recovery,” he said.

The Air Force’s top doctor said, “Retaining support personnel is another priority with us. You just can’t run a medical service without these skilled people. So we are by no means out of the woods in the retention battle and we have to keep putting wood to the fire to insure we continue to make progress in this critical area.”

Food stamps increase

KELLY AFB, Texas (AFNS)—Food-stamp use in Air Force commissaries increased sharply in fiscal 1980, Air Force Commissary Service officials reported here.

According to figures released by the Department of Agriculture, $8,360,890 worth of food stamps was redeemed in Air Force commissaries last fiscal year. That's a 75-percent increase over the fiscal 1979 total of $4,771,872.

“This increase indicates that eligible patrons realize there's no stigma in using food stamps,” said Maj. Gen. Charles E. Woods, AF-COMS commander. “We welcome Air Force customers who use them in our stores.”

Managers seek suggestions

by Harold M. Corbin
Suggestion Program Manager

Top managers recognize that the best supervisors are those that encourage suggestions. The good supervisors foster and maintain an environment in which imagination, creativity and innovations may flourish and recognize individuals who improve operations.

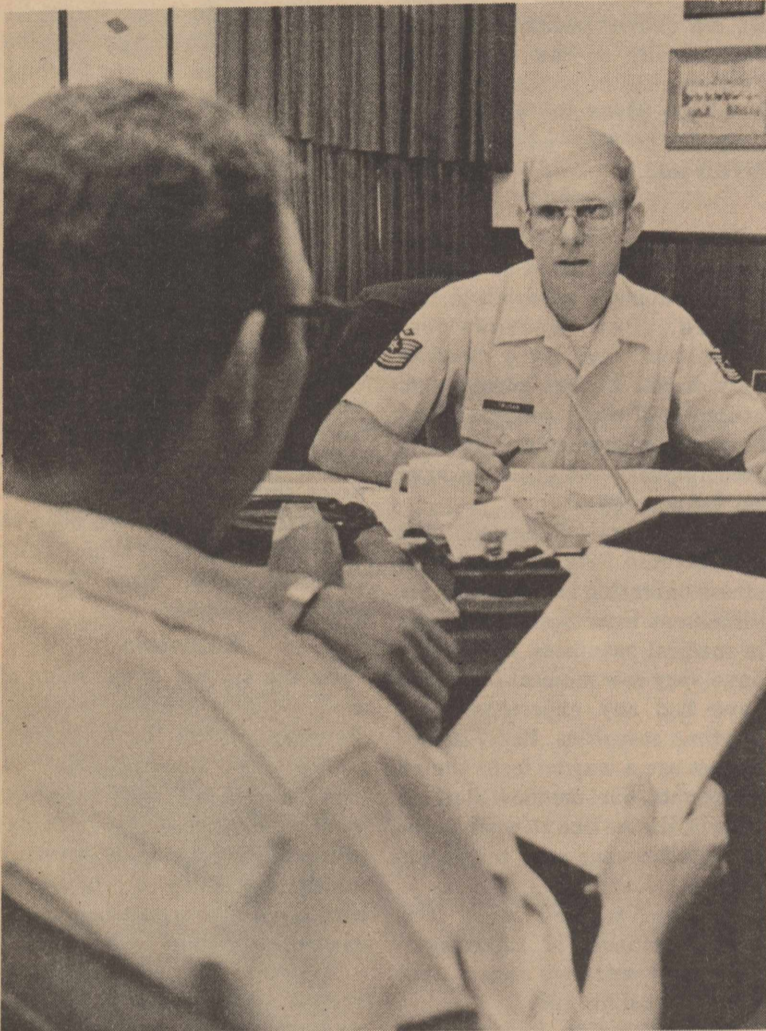

Supervisors also sustain interest in the suggestion program by continuously promoting participation. Employees who realize the impact of their jobs in relation to the total mission take greater pride in their work and constantly look for better ways to improve operations.

Supervisors who encourage ideas, generally have the confidence of their employees and help in problem solving, improving methods, saving time, increasing operations, eliminating safety hazards, etc. In submitting ideas and receiving valid answers, whether ideas are use or rejected, employees perceive factors that management must consider and this serves as a communication channel to broaden the employee's knowledge. The supervisor can thus gain an insight into the depth of the employees knowledge and is able to determine areas needing additional training.

Many times, those whose ideas are adopted can see their ideas transformed into reality, this strengthens their spirit and improves morale. The end result is that the involved manager improves operations and ultimately receives credit for the improved management.

Top managers can be readily measured by the activities of employees under their supervision. The quality of those activities can be greatly enhanced by the support of a well planned suggestion program. Much can and should be done to give the suggestion program the visibility it deserves. Staff meetings, commanders call, bulletins and special interest items, all offer an excellent means of publicizing this program.

Storewide Clearance SALE

Now In Progress!

Tidbits

Dining Hall

Due to change fund limitations, it is requested that all separate rations customers pay for their meals with bills of five dollars or less. This will insure that there is adequate change for all customers.

Cable TV

South Plains Cable Television will be taking subscriptions for cable, Home Box Office, or both on Jan. 21 and 22 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Services Division office, building 124. Installation, prices, and programming will be explained by the representative from the company. All dormitory and Reese Village personnel are invited to come by and sign up.

Volunteers sought

Representatives from Big Brothers and Sisters of Lubbock have been soliciting volunteers from Reese for this program that provides friendship and understanding for individual children, seven to 14 years old, from single parent homes. Any and all military or civilian personnel interested in sharing three hours a week with a child in need of a friend should call Danny McWhorter, executive director Big Brothers And Sisters of Lubbock, at 763-5618 or stop by the office at 1203 University Avenue, Suite 205.

Talent Show

Deadline for Talent Show sign ups is February 28.

All Personnel

When reporting to CBPO for issue or reissue of dependent ID cards bring the documentation establishing dependency; marriage certificates, birth certificates, adoption decree, etc. It will also be necessary to provide documentation on all other dependents eligible for medical care although they will not be issued ID cards. Bring the proper documentation to avoid delays in processing the application.

Women of the Chapel

On Tuesday, Jan. 20, at 9:30 a.m., we will meet at the chapel social room. Betty Bailey, representing a local book store, will be the guest speaker. All ladies are invited.

Outstanding CDC graduate

Amn. Steven Watts of 3500th Resource Management Squadron was an outstanding graduate of the Accounting and Finance career development course. This requires a score of 90 or better.

SUNDAY BRUNCH

This Sunday the Offices' Open Mess will be open to all Reese personnel for brunch from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Cost is $3.75 per person. The following will be served; scrambled eggs, turkey ala king, sausage, bacon, fruit salad, hash browns, orange juice, coffee and tea.

The Officer's Club will feature the brunch every third Sunday of the month.

Departing Personnel

Make sure before you leave PCS that you report to Military Pay Section NLT 30 days prior to departure. This is important. If you fail to do so, your finance records may end up being mailed to your new permanent duty station.

W-2's

W-2's will not be received until the end of Jan. 1981. Tape from AFAFC, Denver are due to arrive sometime after Jan. 20. Please hold inquiries until after Feb. 1.

SSAN

Those individuals whose SSAN begins with 239-82- through 330-58-, who contributed to CFC this year, your monthly deduction will not begin until End of Month Payday, due to transmission problems to the Accounting and Finance Center.

Civilians net awards

About NOW Accounts and Interest Checking?

Effective January 1, 1981, banks and savings & loans are permitted to offer NOW Accounts which allow up to 5 1/4 % interest on checking-type accounts. These are similar to Credit Union Share Draft accounts which have been available for some time, but there are some substantial differences. Before opening an account of this type you should compare:

- HOW MUCH IS REQUIRED ON DEPOSIT TO RECEIVE THE MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE INTEREST ON CHECKING ACCOUNTS OR NOW ACCOUNTS?
- WHAT MINIMUM BALANCE IS REQUIRED TO AVOID INCURRING A SERVICE CHARGE?
- HOW MUCH IS THE MONTHLY SERVICE CHARGE? ARE THERE OTHER SERVICE CHARGES, SUCH AS A COST-PER-CHECK CHARGE?
- ARE YOU PERMITTED TO HAVE OVERDRAFT PROTECTION BY AN AUTOMATIC TRANSFER FROM A SAVINGS ACCOUNT?

Compare the NOW Accounts and Interest Checking to Reese AFB Federal Credit Union share draft accounts:

 Only $100.00 is required on deposit to earn our 5 1/2 % dividends compounded monthly*.

 There's no monthly service charge, regardless of your balance, and there's no limit to the number of share drafts you can write!

 Overdraft Protection is available to all share draft customers upon request!

(* Notice: Effective yield may be less than the rate stated depending upon account activity or the actual amount of shares upon which dividends will be paid. Dividends are based on the credit union's earnings at the end of a dividend period and cannot be guaranteed.)

Emissions standards met

DALLAS—General Motors has informed the Army and Air Force Exchange Service that 1981 GM automobiles equipped to meet 1981 federal emission standards can now be delivered to Exchange customers overseas, the cars will meet Environmental Protection Agency standards for return to conus.

Last June, GM announced that only cars designed to run on leaded gas would be sold for delivery overseas; since those cars don't meet EPA standards for the United States, they would not be allowed back into the U.S., without expensive conversions.

According to GM, original fears of operational or driveability problems from the use of leaded gas with the computer command emission control system have been eliminated. For overseas operation with the 81 model, GM advises the removal of the catalytic converter, or its pellets, since leaded fuel will cause damage to the converter. Upon return to CONUS, the converter or pellets, along with a new exhaust oxygen sensor (costing approximately $50), must be installed. Warranty provisions will not be affected in any way by the use of leaded fuel overseas.

Certain 1981 models of Ford, Mercury, Lincoln, Chrysler or AMC continue to be available for use with unleaded gas only. These are the early 1981 Ford and Mercury models with the 2.3 and 4.2 or 5.0 liter engines, the Lincoln with the 5.8 engine, the Chrysler Imperial and AMC Models equipped with California emissions controls.

Further information can be obtained from local automobile sales representatives.

Policy prohibits group study

RALDOLPH AFB, TEXAS (AFNS)—Studying for the Weighted Airman Promotion System's tests — the Specialty Knowledge Test and Promotion Fitness Examination — is an individual effort, Emphasis is on the world "individual" says the Airman Promotion Division and Personnel Testing Branch at the Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center here.

"Articles have appeared periodically in local Air Force newspapers suggesting group study for the specific purpose of sharing knowledge in order to increase promotion test scores," stated Maj. John R. Welsh, chief, Military Testing Section, AFM-PC. "That's contrary to established Air Force policy."

WAPS was established more than 10 years ago as an objective and visible promotion system. Individual merit and effort assure the continued viability of the system,' according to Maj. Welsh.

"The air Force policy prohibiting 'group study' simply reflects the continued emphasis on individual effort and initiative," continued Major Welsh. "Additionally, the policy against group study has the benefit of reducing the opportunity for test compromise — either direct and intention, or inadvertent."

According to Major Welsh, inadvertent compromise is most likely when some members of a study group have already taken an SKT or PFE. Whether or not they mean to, some test material could be passed to members who haven't taken the test. Such compromises must be investigated and handled the same as deliberate attempts to compromise test material.

"The policy is designed to protect the individual as well as protect the credibility of the entire promotion system," concluded Major Welsh. "SKTS and PFES should always reflect the efforts and study of the individual, not the combined wisdom — or lack of wisdom — of the contemporaries he or she happens to study with during a specific promotion cycle."

March brings new BTZ test

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)—A modified senior airman below-the-zone promotion test program will start with the March 1981 cycle, according to Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center officials here.

The one-year test of four BTZ cycles will permit commanders of large units to make below-the-zone promotions to the senior airman grade.

The program will be evaluated in terms of promotions made and the comments/recommendations from eligible airmen and commanders before deciding whether or not to permanently change the program.

The modification provides for a dual selection process—one for large units with 20 or more BTZ eligibles, and another for small units with fewer than 20 BTZ eligibles.

Large units will be given a promotion quota based on the number of assigned eligibles and will select and promote at squadron or equivalent level. Small units will continue to nominate airmen to the central base BTZ board, but at a 15-percent rate compared to the current 10-percent rate.

There will be no change in promotion opportunity, number of cycles, quota reservation procedures or quota distribution.

Historically, 80 percent of the BTZ eligibles have been assigned to large units. The new program will give commanders of large units a direct and positive input into the promotion process. Consequently, most airmen will compete with their unit peers.

OMS shocks Group; Supply secures lead

Supply Squadron parlayed a 24 point victory with losses by the squad's two top contenders last week to take undisputed command of the intramural basketball race.

James Wilkerson poured in a game high 25 points and Cristobal Stephenson added 19 as the league's only unbeaten team blew Organizational Maintenance off the court, 68-44. The win raised Supply's record to 7-0 and placed the squad a full game ahead of Field Maintenance (6-1) and a game and a half up on Air Base Group (5-1).

Group upset

Group was shocked by OMS when Rodney Pate swished a long-range jumper at the buzzer for a come-from-behind 51-50 upset win. It was the only basket of the game for Pate, who was mobbed by an ecstatic OMS team after his shot ripped the net.

Group had a six point lead with just over one minute to play, but; turnovers by the taller Group team let OMS back into the game. The critical turnover came in the final three seconds when Group, in possession and trying to run out the clock, had a pass intercepted near midcourt. OMS called time out and set up the winning play to Pate.

Robert Warren paced the winners with a game-high 22 points. Julius Guerra topped Group with 18 points.

Group rebounded later in the week with a 49-41 win that dropped Field Maintenance from the unbeaten ranks.

Sturon-1 moves up

Sturon-1 continued its assault on the leader board, notching a pair of wins last week. Sturon-1 routed Sturon-2, 62-64 and then dropped the struggling 35th Flying Training Squadron, 49-47. The 35th has filed a protest over the officiating of that game. Robert Millman led the Sturon-1 attack in both games, netting 26 against Sturon-2 and 21 against the 35th.

And the 54th FTS, last year's intramural champs, got back on track by beating Resource Management, 43-33 and the Civil Engineers, 47-41. The victories put the 54th over the 500 mark for the first time this season.

In other loop action, FMS gained its sixth win of the year by beating the 35th FTS, 42-31, and the Hospital handed Sturon-2 its eighth straight loss, 41-33.

The standings in the intramural basketball league, as of Sunday, were:

Team	W	L
Supply	7	0
FMS	6	1
ABGp	5	1
Sturon-1	5	2
OMS	4	2
54th	5	4
Hospital	3	3
CE	2	4
35th	2	6
RMS	0	8
Sturon-2	0	8

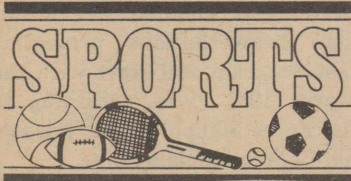

Recreation center schedules ski trip

Helping to kick off Reese's "Year of the Family" Morale Welfare and Recreation programming is a ski trip to Ruidoso, N.M. Feb. 6-8.

The trip, which is open to all active duty, DoD civilians, retired military and their dependents, costs $65 per person. The fee, which must be paid in full by Jan. 23, covers transportation and lodging.

Meals, ski rental and lift tickets are the responsibility of each skier. Ski rental costs $15 for two days. Lift tickets are $12 per day at Eagle Creek (novice and intermediate slopes) and $16 per day at Sierra Blanca (advanced slopes).

For complete details on the trip, contact a member of the recreation center staff at Ext. 3787.

Abused children are helpless. Unless you help.

Rattlers hit hardwood

Reese's varsity men's basketball team, the Rattlers, will play Holloman AFB, N.M., here this weekend.

The Reese cagers are scheduled to play Holloman at 7 p.m. Saturday and at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Reese dropped a touch 87-83 decision last Saturday at White Sands, N.M. and then forfeited the second game of the series in a mixup over the starting time of the game. The losses dropped Reese to 6-9 on the year.

Council meets

The Reese Athletic Council is scheduled to meet at 1 p.m. in the Mathis Recreation Center Jan. 20.

Varsity Action

Any military women wanting to play on the varsity women's basketball team should contact the base gym staff at Ext. 3783. Reese will be the host base for the 1981 Air Training Command Central Region Basketball Tournament on Jan. 30 and 31.

Officials needed

Personnel interested in officiating any intramural or varsity sport should contact the gym staff at Ext. 3783.
