Cowboy star attends opening

It's almost over. The months of parking problems, dust clouds, the noise of machinery and the influx of heavy equipment will all pay off Wednesday at 10 a.m. when the new Reese base exchange opens its doors for the first time.

But BX officials have planned something a bit more elaborate for this occasion than just propping the doors open. Guests ranging Brig. Gen. Richard D. Murray, Army and Air Force Exchange Service deputy commander, to Robert Newhouse, Dallas Cowboy's running back, will be on hand for the event.

In keeping with the Flag Week opening date, the Reese honor guard will be on hand to post the colors. A giant walking shoe and the robot that made a big hit at open house will be available for the kids.

But for exchange patrons, the big event of the day will very likely be the grand opening sale. According to Dan Arias, exchange manager, 90 different items throughout the store have been tagged as grand opening specials. Sale items include clothing, cosmetics, stereo equipment and records and many others.

Following a short speech by General Murray, the formal ribbon cutting will be held at 10 a.m. and the doors will be open for business.

Robert Newhouse, the well-known number 44 in the Dallas lineup, will be on hand to sign autographs and promote a line of men's fashions throughout the day.

A number of concessions will be opening Wednesday morning in the new building also. A schedule for the concessions may be found on page five. The main store will be open Thursdays from 10 a.m. - 9 p.m. Sunday from 11 a.m. - 4 p.m., closed Monday and Open 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. all other days.

Only one shop will not be fully operable under the new roof. Although a limited supply of garden supplies will be available, the current garden shop/Toyland will close after Tuesday and Toyland will open at a later, currently undetermined, date in building 16, now known as Four Seasons.

Reese people are invited by Dan Arias and his staff to come to the grand opening and see if the waiting has been worthwhile.

Reese slates flag observance

Reese honor guard

Reese people will be joining a nation-wide observance beginning Sunday to honor the American flag and all it stands for.

Reese officials have asked that housing residents show their pride in their flag and country by flying the Stars and Stripes throughout the week. The base exchange is going to help by featuring a flag display and sale in the new store. Ten dollar American Flag kits will be on sale for $8.49 throughout the week.

One of the earliest of this nation's battle banners, used during the American Revolution, was the Bedford Flag carried by the Minutemen from Bedford, Mass., when they faced the British regulars on the Concord Green. It featured a steel-clad arm reaching from a cloud. In the hand is a sword, and surrounding the hand and sword on three sides is a golden scroll bearing the inscription Vince Aut Morire (Conquer or Die).

Over 200 years ago on June 28, 1776, a British fleet opened fire on American fortifications surrounding Charleston, S.C. During the engagement the first distinctive American flag to be displayed in the South appeared over the ramparts of Fort Moultrie on Sullivan's Island, which lies in the channel leading to Charleston, S.C. The design of this blue flag with a white crescent in the upper corner next to the staff was suggested by the blue uniforms of the garrison, and the silver crescents and words, "Liberty or Death," that the men wore on their caps.

The Stars and Stripes that we know today was authorized by the Continental Congress one year later in June of 1777. The resolution read in part: "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

Predecessor of the Stars and Stripes, the Grand Union Flag was raised by General George Washington in January 1776 at Cambridge, Mass. The standard of the Continental Army, it was also carried by the Marines when they made an expedition to the Bahamas Islands in March 1776. As the flag of the American Revolution, it was used on many occasions before June 1777, when the Continental Congress authorized the creation of the Stars and Stripes.

Chaplain bids farewell

by Chap. (Col.) Arnold G. Johnson

Leaving Reese for a new assignment, new challenges, new experiences, new faces is something we military folks know is sure to happen someday. That day is rushing toward me with the force and speed of a runaway locomotive. By that I mean, house yet to be sold, furniture to be sorted for shipping or storage, automobiles to be sold, and good-byes to be said to friends and neighbors.

I'm grateful to have the opportunity to say farewell to the folks at Reese by means of this column. No matter how hard I try, I know I'll miss seeing everyone I would like to, so this shall be it.

I've greeted countless hundreds, perhaps a few thousand people at Reese with "Welcome ... I'm Chaplain Gordy Johnson ... and I'm lucky enough to be the Base Chaplain at Reese AFB." I meant it each one of those times and I mean it now. Let me tell you why:

- 1 — A great mission ... flying!
- 2 — Outstanding people ... all over the base.
- 3 — Wonderful friends in the city of Lubbock and throughout the cities and villages that surround Reese.

There are a lot more reasons why this has been an excellent four years. Maybe you are one of these reasons. You may be one of the many people here at Reese who does an excellent job each day, who enjoys being here, who cares about others and does something to be helpful.

Thanks to all of you who have done more than your share! This base is a better place because of you!

As one of my favorite comedians says in closing ... "Good-bye, and God Bless!"

Health hazards

HEART explains risk factor

Editor's Note: The Dear HEART Column will appear here from time to time. It contains a representative sample of questions typically asked by readers.

Dear HEART:

I'm a 35 year old man and I recently read an article which concerned me. I know my cholesterol is higher than it should be. So is my blood pressure. I am 15 pounds too heavy. I don't have much time for exercise. I also smoke, though only a pack a day.

What would happen if I ignored these problems for a few years? I am going through a very busy period of my life, with two jobs, and I don't have time to think about reforming my life completely! I feel fine.

Dear Reader:

We don't know the actual readings for your blood pressure and cholesterol, but if these figures are considerably above average, the chance of your having a heart attack increases. All "risk factors" work upon each other to the detriment of your heart.

A high cholesterol reading probably means that the coronary arteries are partially obstructed by atherosclerosis deposits, a condition often found even in American men of 20. In the presence of atherosclerosis, such factors as smoking and overweight become that more dangerous.

Although your chance of a heart attack in the next six years is fairly slight, each year of your present way of living adds to the degree of atherosclerosis. However, you can stop the build up right now, and stay out of real danger.

Since your risk factors are closely

U.S. AIR FORCE

connected with each other, we urge you to tackle all of them at the same time. It's honestly easier for most people to do it this way than to deal with their problems piecemeal. Once you've quit smoking you'll find that the solutions to your other problems are closely interconnected. Attention to your food will go a long way towards solving all of them. If you cut down on eggs, liver, meat, fat, dairy fat, sugary foods and salt you may reduce your cholesterol, blood pressure and weight in one full swoop. Try to eat a little less of all foods and get regular exercise like 20 minutes of bicycle riding three times a week and you'll kill three birds with one stone. You'll lose weight, condition your heart and circulatory system, and help control blood pressure. Aim to lose your excess weight slowly but surely. It may take a year.

Pay particular attention to your blood pressure. If your doctor does not think it requires medication, you can probably bring it down to safer levels by reducing salt intake, losing weight and getting proper exercise.

Suggestion Program

Sales approach important to success

by Hal Corbin
Suggestion Program monitor

Selling a suggestion is much like selling anything else: Come up with a better product or a lower cost, and somebody will buy it.

Identifying the problem is the first step in making a suggestion idea into a reality. Establishing the problem is the key item in getting someone interested in a solution. The solution must be a change that will be of value to the Air Force in terms of dollars saved, better service, operations or safety.

Once the problem is identified, suggestors should strive to present as many solutions as possible. A first approach to a solution may be the best one, but a second could be 95 percent as effective at half the cost. For those who cannot decide which solution to a problem is best, simply submit both ideas and allow the implementing office to decide on the proper course of action.

Drawings, samples or mockups of ideas, submitted with as many facts as can be gathered, will help sell the idea. Many people hesitate to submit suggestions because they don't know how to compute the cost savings. Savings computations should only be attempted for the suggestor's particular office.

During May, thirteen Reese people received cash awards or certificates for their contributions to the Suggestion Program. They are: SSgt. Larry Johnson, $100; Marie Matthews, $50; K.D. Habbinga, $25; SSgt. Donald Locke, $50; Jack Hood, $95 and SSgt. Frederick Dart, $25.

Those who received certificates were: 2nd Lt. Chris Kelleher, SSgt. Gaston Ray, A1C William Fletcher, Franklin Owens, Johnnie Middleton, SSgt. Steve Smith and Jay Hart.

* THE EVENTFUL day arrives Wednesday—the grand opening of the new BX shopping mall. They've been stocking the new facility for several weeks now and I think you will be surprised at the large selection they will have to offer. And no more cramped facilities. The present BX facilities will close their doors for the last time Saturday night in order to complete the move. The grand opening ceremonies will begin at 1000 Wednesday. (See story on page one).

* JUNE 14-21 is Flag Week. This presents an opportunity for everyone to demonstrate their patriotism by flying the flag all week. This is especially true for Reese Village residents. Let's deck the base with "Old Glory" next week. (See story, also on page one).

* THE DEFENSE Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System (DEERS) registration period begins Wednesday at the Customer Service Unit of the Consolidated Base Personnel Office. Flyers were later arriving, but have now been distributed to squadron commanders. Stop by your orderly room for a copy, or pick one up at several locations around the base. (See story on page four).

* THE 1981 East Seal Camp got underway at Reese this week and will continue through next week. A lot of hard work has gone into preparing for this camp and I think that those who are participating are enjoying themselves. That's what it's all about. My thanks to all of you who are working with the camp. Let's all make our guests feel at home. Take the extra time to show these people around your organization if they should stop by. And if you get a chance, drop by the camp sometime next week and see the wonderful things we've got going on for these special people.

* I THINK that everyone who participated in the volksmarch last weekend had a good time. It surely was a long walk, but enjoyable. My thanks to the MWR folks who ran the event. A super job.

* A REMINDER to base personnel. Hot weather has arrived and with it the need to keep the grass watered. We've got a green base now—let's keep it that way. And don't forget to water the trees, especially the ones set out this spring. It's going to take a lot of care to keep them alive and we don't want to lose them this year.

* A CARE LINE caller has suggested placing more trash barrels around the base so there will not be the necessary to walk several blocks to the dumpsters. At the present time, the bulk of our trash is picked up by contractor personnel. Dumpsters have been strategically located throughout the base to enable easy access from virtually every area on the base. In addition to the dumpsters, all our parks, picnic areas and recreational areas are provided with trash receptacles, which are maintained by our MWR branch. Our BX, commissary and other related activities also provide trash and litter receptacles next to all of their stores as well. Services provide trash cans at dorms, VOQs, BOQs and laundry rooms. On special occasions, such as open house, our Civil Engineering Squadron provides trash containers throughout the base. These containers are used to help keep the base clean during special periods when many of our friends from downtown visit our base. As you can see, we do have a plan for the placement of trash and litter receptacles. If for some reason you don't find one as listed above, or if you feel that an additional dumpster is required at a specific location, please call one of the following phone numbers and we will be glad to assist you. MWR-Ext. 3412, BX-Ext. 4581, Services-Ext. 3800. For dumpster requests, call CE-Ext. 3171. Any request for an additional dumpster will be reviewed by our Engineering Section to determine the specific requirement and location. At that time, we will take the required steps to modify the contract.

For Saturday

CAP exercise set

Joining with Civil Air Patrol members from throughout Texas, Reese will participate in a special CAP search and rescue exercise Saturday.

The exercise, expected to draw approximately 30 Texas Wing aircraft and 100 CAP participants, is the first of its type to be held in Lubbock. Past exercises in the West Texas area have been held in Lamesa.

According to Maj. (AF reserve) Jim Fendley, public affairs officer for the Lubbock Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, Texas Wing, the exercise is scheduled to begin at 7 a.m. Saturday and will end at approximately 5 p.m.

Aircrews participating in the exercise will be directed to four search areas. These include target zones near Littlefield, Crosbyton, Post and Levelland.

A mock "crash" aircraft in one of these zones will transmit an electronic signal. Searchers will follow the electronic locator beeper to the crash.

In the other three zones, aircraft will fly a structured course back and forth across the search area. Flying at between 1,000 feet and 1,500 feet above the West Texas terrain, the aircrews will try and visually locate the target aircraft.

Reese's participation in the exercise will basically be limited to the disaster response force. Wreckage from a T-37 or T-38 will be set up in one of the four zones. CAP searchers will locate the wreckage and direct the Reese response team to the site.

Control of the exercise will be handled from the Lubbock CAP headquarters in the Weather Service facility at Lubbock International Airport.

Evaluating the Texas Wing of the CAP during the exercise will be a team from the Dallas CAP Liaison Region.

More than half of the Lubbock unit's membership is expected to participate in the exercise.

Reese officials stress the importance of the exercise, citing the need to develop a coordinated search and rescue net.

Minors require consent

by 2nd Lt. Christopher Kelleher

Children depend on their parents for a great many things: Food, clothing and shelter are just bare essentials. They also need love, attention, education and medical care.

Medical care is something military people tend to take for granted. However, in the haste of going for a night on the town or preparing for a trip, one thing parents should not forget is providing for medical treatment in case of injury or sickness of their children.

Babysitters, friends and even most relatives cannot okay medical treatment of a child under 18 without the proper paperwork. Parents who intend to be out of the area, even for a short time, should fill out ATC Form 1287, "Consent for Medical Care," appointing an adult friend or neighbor to act on their behalf should the children require care in their absence.

Children who are going away to camp or to visit relatives should carry with them a power of attorney granting the guardian the necessary power to approve medical treatment.

Under Texas law there are certain instances whereby a minor may consent to his or her own medical care. Specifics may be obtained from the legal office. Parents should remember, however, that in no instance will the hospital be appointed to act on behalf of the parent in their absence.

DEERS enrollment approaches

DEERS is not a new word meaning more than one deer. It is a new acronym that has entered the military language. DEERS (the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System) is a computerized system which will check the eligibility of persons seeking health care from all military medical facilities and reimbursement from CHAMPUS (Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services.)

Beginning Wednesday, an intensive three month enrollment period will start in Texas. Active duty military personnel and retirees entitled to retirement pay are automatically enrolled. However, it is their responsibility to enroll their dependents. Retirees and known survivors of deceased military personnel will receive letters from the Department of Defense explaining how to enroll.

At time of enrollment, proof of relationship to sponsor will be required.

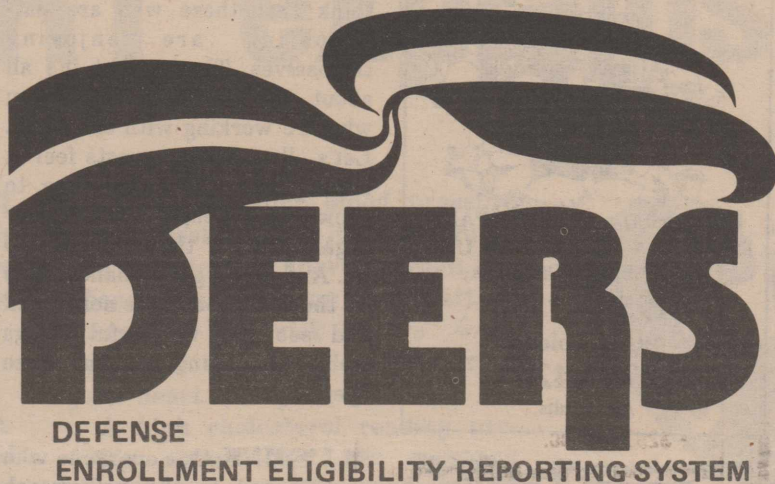

In the early stages of DEERS, no one will be refused health care as a result of their eligibility not being confirmed by DEERS. However, if a person later proves to be ineligible for military health care, administrative and/or legal action may be taken to require payment for medical services rendered.

Once enrolled on the computer data base, checking eligibility will normally take no more time than that currently required for credit card checks.

will make it less likely for ineligible people to receive these benefits. As a result, DEERS will help eliminate fraud, save tax dollars and improve the health care system through better management.

Base personnel will register by DEERS first went into operations in southeastern Virginia and northeastern North Carolina early in 1980. In time, the system will be expanded worldwide and will provide eligibility confirmation for nine to twelve million people.

Under DEERS, eligibility checks for military health care squadron. Air Base Group will lead off the registration from June 17-23 at the Customer Service Unit of the Consolidated Base Personnel Office. Dates for other unit registration will be announced later. For more information on the DEERS registration process, call the Customer Service Unit at 3276.

CHAMPUS changes requirement

The Office of Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services, announced a change which eliminates the requirement that an inpatient admission for alcohol detoxification immediately precede alcohol rehabilitation.

The change will be retroactive for services provided on or after June 1, 1977. CHAMPUS beneficiaries who believe they are affected by this change or who have had a claim denied because of the previous requirement, should resubmit their claim to the CHAMPUS Fiscal Intermediary currently responsible for processing claims for the area in which the care was received. The time limit for resubmitting these claims is December 31, 1982.

It is emphasized that the admission for treatment still requires physician referral and a diagnosis of alcoholism. In addition, the Fiscal Intermediary will review the claim to ensure that the following requirements are also met:

—Inpatient rehabilitative care not normally to exceed 21 days; (Limit of three episodes, lifetime maximum)

—Inpatient level of care must be medically necessary

Outpatient psychiatric treatment programs for alcoholism will continue to be covered, subject to the same review as other psychotherapy.

June heralds hot weather

by SrA. David Haines
weather squadron

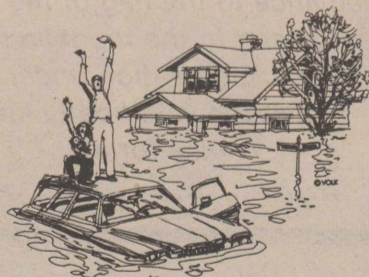

June marks the zenith of the year for sun-worshippers . . . the summer solstice, longest day of the year, falls on the 21st. The month also brings the year's hottest weather to the South Plains, making everyone forget all about those 21 inches of snow last November and 6-degree readings of February.

The average high temperature for June is 90 degrees, with a mean low of '65. The lowest ever recorded at Reese this month was 46, while are all-time high of 110 was set last year on the 28th, in the midst of that famous heat wave.

While not quite as numerous as during May, thunderstorms, continue to roam the South Plains in June, with an average of six occurrences during the month. These storms can be expected to drop 2.08 inches of rain, and the threat of severe activity, with large hail, high winds, flooding and tornadoes, is still with us.

Safety Wise

The spare tire in the trunk of an automobile has often been called a "life-saver" by motorists who suffer tire trouble on the highways. But the spare tire can literally live up to its nickname when it comes to rescuing drowning persons.

The annual crop of warm weather drownings reveals that many of the tragedies occurred because of the lack of life-saving equipment or the inability of an unskilled swimmer to save another, and yet, a first class life-saving tool was within easy reach in many cases—the spare tire in the car trunk.

Water rescue demonstrations by police and safety groups have shown that a properly inflated spare tire, wheel and all, can support up to six persons safely in the water. Even a person who cannot swim can easily push a tire out to a person struggling in the water. The rescuer can keep the tire between himself and the person in distress, preventing the drowning person from grabbing the rescuer.

Air Force expects phone bill increase by SMSgt. Robert A. Pike tower chief controller

The Air Force telephone bill increased dramatically on May 7. That was the day when American Telephone and Telegraph stopped giving its special low rates (called TELPAK) to large customers like the Air Force.

The special TELPAK rates applied to AT&T's leased long haul circuits. In the Air Force, these leased long haul circuits are used in many command and control systems, as well as AUTOVON and AUTODIN. The costs for Air Force leased long haul circuits will go up about $25 million per year due to the loss of TELPAK rates. Similar increases will also affect other department of defense and federal agencies.

The TELPAK rates were first offered by AT&T in February 1961 to attract large customers who otherwise might have set up their own private microwave systems. Under TELPAK, a large discount was given to customers who leased at least 60 circuits between two locations.

TELPAK rates were challenged in the courts often throughout their 20 year life. Small customers claimed that giving the TELPAK discount to large customers actually raised rates for small customers since AT&T was entitled to a set overall rate of return.

As part of its policy of encouraging competition, the Federal Communications Commission in 1977 directed AT&T to offer its TELPAK rates to the new specialized carriers. Faced with this situation, AT&T decided to discontinue its TELPAK rates.

The withdrawal was challenged in the federal court by large customers, including DOD. Nonetheless, after considerable litigation, the federal courts refused to overturn the decision. The Defense Department even requested the U.S. Supreme Court to review the issue but on April 20, the court denied the request. That was the last chance to save TELPAK rates.

Loss of TELPAK rates comes at a bad time for the Air Force because other rate increases are also taking effect. The FCC allowed AT&T to increase the rates on all interstate private line services (including most Air Force circuits) by 16 percent effective May 14, and the FCC is considering a request for a 16 percent across-the-board increase on top of that in July.

The Air Force is working closely with the Defense Communications Agency to find ways to reduce the impact of all these rate increases, but its clear that the Air Force telephone bill is going up sharply.

The organization responsible for telephone service, AUTOVON and AUTODIN on Reese is the 1958 Communications Squadron (AFCC). Commercial communications services are leased from General Telephone Company.

ROTC officials recommend newcomers register early

High school students who will be seniors next fall should begin to apply now for Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps four-year college scholarships, according to Capt. Adrienne Campbell, Texas Tech ROTC assistant professor of aerospace studies.

"Students' chances for selection increase by submitting their scholarship applications during the summer and early fall," said Captain Campbell.

Applications for freshman scholarships beginning in the 1982-83 academic year are now available at Tech's Holden Hall, room 35 and at the U.S. Air Force recruiting stations in Lubbock. Students may also write to the Office of Public Affairs, Air Force ROTC, Maxwell AFB, Ala. 36112.

An Air Force ROTC four-year scholarship provides for payment of full tuition, books and most fees, plus a $100 monthly stipend during each academic year. The scholarships can be used at any of 600 colleges or universities that offer Air Force ROTC.

Competition for these scholarships has been keen in past years, say ROTC officials. More than 15,000 scholarship applications were received for this fall, and only about 1,400 students were selected.

"With so many applications," said Captain Campbell, "the emphasis is on early application and high quality students."

Three selection boards meet each academic year: one in November, another in January and a final board in March. Approximately 50 percent of those qualified students considered by the November 1980 selection board were chosen to receive a scholarship. Percentages were considerably lower for the January and March boards.

Students who complete their degrees through the Air Force ROTC program are commissioned as second lieutenants with a minimum four-year active duty service obligation. For flying training candidates, the commitment is six years for pilots and five years for navigators after they receive their aeronautical rating.

Tidbits

Volunteers

A Volunteer can learn useful skills in health care such as taking vital signs and blood pressure and how to give CPR. The program is open at both the hospital and child care center and the Red Cross is looking for Volunteers ages 13-19. They also have openings in office type work such as filing and typing.

An orientation will be held June 22 from 10:30 a.m.-2 p.m. in the hospital classroom. Deadline for registration is June 18 and forms are available at the hospital.

Check Ride

Second Lt. Stephen A. Grimstead logged an outstanding rating in an instrument check ride last week.

Births

Sgt. and Mrs. John R. McCumber welcomed a new daughter June 5 at 8:55 p.m. She weighed nine pounds, four and one half ounces. Other new parents are A1C and Mrs. Anthony Robert Alicata. They have a new seven pound one and one half ounce son who was born at 8:15 a.m. June 2.

T-shirt sale

Over $3,000 worth of new merchandise has arrived at the arts and crafts center in the form of new styles of T-shirts in all colors and sizes, 100 new transfers and thousands of letters and numbers for customized orders. There will be a 20 percent sale on all these items from Wednesday through June 21.

MWR classes

Chalk technique class begins Thursday from 5:30-8:30 p.m. for three weeks. There is a $10 registration fee. Beginning macrame runs for five weeks beginning June 23 from 5:30-7:30 p.m. A new line of macrame supplies is available at the center. This class also carries a $10 registration fee.

Basic black and white photography is back. The class will begin June 25 and run for five weeks at a cost of $30 per student. The class will be limited to six people. Film developing, contact printing, use of enlargers and chemicals, layout, cropping, dodging and burning-in techniques will be taught Preregistration is necessary for all classes. Call Ext. 3141 for details.

Flea market

The arts and crafts department will be sponsoring a summer flea market at the Fourth of July picnic on base. Individuals and squadrons interested in selling craft items at the picnic should contact the center for table reservations. Each table will cost $5 and only craft items will be allowed. No garage sale type items.

Redecorating

All squadrons and organizations that expect incoming temporary duty personnel this summer should make billeting arrangements for them as soon as possible. A limited number of quarters will be available because of the redecoration project now underway.

Long lines

Breakdown of cash registers at the commissary has resulted long lines for shoppers, and the situation cannot be immediately corrected because of a shortage of parts and maintenance personnel. Shoppers should consider shopping during more slack periods (generally from 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.) to avoid the long lines.

Varsity women

The Reese varsity women's team is still looking for military women to play in the Air Training Command tournament in July. Anyone interested should contact Sandy Cullipher at Ext. 3432.

Retirement pay

Computation of retired pay of members retiring on the effective date of an active duty pay raise increase may use those rates in computing their retired pay, except for regular officers retiring on their mandatory retirement date, and officers who have less than 20 years and one month TAFMS. Officers in those two categories must compute their retired pay on the base pay rates in effect before the active duty raise. For more information contact Separations Unit at Ext. 3420.

And I know that's exactly what I get at Whataburger®. Without paying extra for the fixin's!

It's that special Whataburger flavor that keeps me coming back time after time. Because it's not just a hamburger, it's a...

Deadline approaches for crafts

Reese craftsmen will have a chance to show their skills in the 1981 Air Force designer craftsman contest. Entry deadline for the event is Wednesday.

The contest is open to all active duty military and their dependents, retirees and their dependents and DoD civilians and their dependents.

Three categories of crafts will be included in the competition. The fine arts category will encompass painting, drawing, sculpture, etc.; fine crafts will include pottery, jewelry, glass, wool, etc.; and the final category will be hobby crafts: handcrafted kits, molds, or patterns. Two groups will be judged in the contest: adults (18 and over) and youth (17 and younger).

Each participating base is allowed 18 entries which will be submitted to the command level contest in the form of color slides so the actual craft pieces will not leave the base.

This year's contest will vary from those in the past in that cash awards will be given in the form of U.S. Savings Bonds. Having the youth category is also a departure from past years. This is designed to enhance family participation in keeping with the morale, welfare and recreation theme of Year of the Family.

First place awards will be $100 bonds; $75 bonds for second place and third place winners will net $50 bonds. For further information on the contest, contact arts and crafts at Ext. 3141.

Reese expects small canines

TSgt. Doug Stanley
ATC public affairs office

(ATCNS)—As a result of a successful one-year test conducted at Laughlin AFB, Texas, small dogs will soon be joining the war against crime at Reese and four other Air Training Command bases.

It's not really such a novel idea, though. Smaller canines, such as beagles, terriers and dachshunds, have been used since the mid-1970s at overseas bases to search for and uncover illegal drug caches.

The test at Laughlin, which involved a 3-year-old beagle named Prince, was the first test of the small dog concept at an ATC base. Prince's one-year "tryout" ended in February, and ATC security police officials seem quite pleased with the experiment.

As a result, small dogs have been approved for use at Goodfellow and Reese AFBs, Texas; Columbus AFB, Miss.; Vance AFB, Okla.; and Williams AFB, Ariz. SP officials expect these additional dogs to be in place sometime in fiscal 1982.

"We've used larger dogs at our bigger ATC bases for years," said Lt. Col. Bob Marcan, programming division chief at ATC's security police office. "But the small dogs appear to be more cost effective for bases with limited populations."

Marcan explained that the larger dogs, most commonly German Shepherds, are trained for two primary roles: patrol duty and drug suppression. In some cases, they can even be trained to search for explosives.

Because of this multi-dimensional role, larger dogs require more intensive training before they're put to work. Smaller dogs, on the other hand, are used strictly as drug "sniffers" and are much cheaper and easier to train.

Another factor is purely an economic one. A kennel for two small dogs currently costs about $2,500. The kennel and supporting facilities for two big German Shepherds costs about ten times as much.

Small dogs also have one big advantage over their bigger cousins. They can search for drugs in places where a large dog can't go, such as tight compartments in aircraft or under cars or beds.

Even with these advantages, working with small dogs is no piece of cake, as Prince's handler, SrA. Robert Moody of the 47th Air Base Group security police division, will testify.

"Handling Prince requires endless patience on my part," said Moody, who attended the 18-week security police dog handler's course at Lackland AFB, Texas, before Prince arrived on station.

He added that the beagle's worth is measured not by the small amount of illegal drugs he actually uncovers, but by his general deterrent value.

"He has a reputation here at Laughlin of being pretty good at his job," Moody said.

OMS secures IM league lead

Organizational Maintenance Squadron picked up four wins last week to secure first place in the intramural slow-pitch softball league.

The four wins lifted OMS one-half game ahead of last week's co-leader, the 54th Flying Training Squadron. OMS stands at 10-1 on the year while the 54th sports a 9-1 mark.

OMS's victory harvest included a 25-22 win over the Student Squadron. OMS also scored wins over Supply, Field Maintenance Squadron and Resource Management.

Keeping in contact with the league leader, the 54th continued its title defense with the "game of the week" win over Resource Management.

Scoreless through four innings, the 54th fell behind 1-0 in the bottom of the fifth. Last year's champs came back to tie the game in the sixth. In the seventh, Dennis D'Angelo opened with a single and moved to second on an error at second. Jack Lambert ripped a clutch two-out single to score D'Angelo and give the 54th a 2-1 lead.

Continuing to play the strong defense that had held RMS to only four hits in the first six stanzas, the 54th sandwiched an infield fly between two routine fly balls to the outfield to shut the door on the 1980 runner-ups.

In other action around the league, FMS beat the 1958th Communications Squadron, 14-4; Air Base Group stopped the Security Police, 10-6; Supply defeated the 35th, 8-5; the Civil Engineers, league leaders two weeks ago, bested Sturon, 8-3; RMS blanked the SPs, 5-0; and Group stymied Comm., 4-1.

Rounding out loop play, the 54th dropped the Hospital, 12-3; Supply upset RMS, 14-8; the 54th pounded Comm., 16-1; CE out hit the Hospital 15-9; FMS handcuffed the SPs, 14-6; Group nailed down its fourth by beating the 35th, 17-6; FMS defeated the 35th, 11-3; and Supply shocked Sturon, 11-1. Two games were decided by forfeit with CE and Sturon picking up the wins.

Women's league

The Better Halves picked up a pair of wins last week to top the Reese women's slow-pitch league schedule.

The squad beat the Dusty Devils, 11-6 and the Blue Diamonds, 13-1. Cindy Vandennack keyed the win over the Dusty Devils. The Better Halves' slugger went three-for-four in the game, scored three runs and drove in five. She collected three RBIs with a fifth-inning RBI triple.

In other action, the Dusty Devils got home run help from Bobbie Powlett and Lorraine Sorrell to stop the Misfits, 20-6 and the Blue Diamonds drew a forfeit from the Misfits.
