Heavy Rains Halt Cotton Harvest In Haskell Area

C of C Directors Hear Reports On Airport, Civic Activities

Building of an airport or landing strip on the north outskirts of Haskell has been virtually assured, directors of the Chamber of Commerce were told at the monthly breakfast meeting Tuesday morning at the Highway Drive Inn.

Wilda Medford, member of a committee on the project, reported that his group met with the City Council recently to discuss the proposal, and that with the cooperation of the county the landing strip could be built. Site has been secured on the Hester farm. Some delay will be occasioned due to the cotton crop now on the land, but as soon as it is harvested work will begin, Medford reported.

Rains Raise Level In Lake Stamford To 1412 Elevation

Rainfall of almost seven inches was measured at WTU's Paint Creek power plant Monday and Tuesday, and the heavy downpours raised the level of Lake Stamford 2.1 feet, plant employees reported.

Prior to this week's rains, water level in the lake was at 1409.9 feet above sea level, and the lake held 41,000 acre feet of water.

At 8 a. m. Wednesday the lake level had risen to 1412.9 feet, elevation, with 50,000 acre feet of water impounded. The spillway level is 1414 feet.

Highest level recorded since the lake was built was 1412.9 feet on June 11, 1957, impounding 54,000 acre feet of water.

Total rainfall measured at the WTU plant Monday and Tuesday was 6.90 inches. Year's total to date is 26.70 inches.

Gathering of the Cotton Crop in the Haskell Area, Just Getting Off to a Good Start, Was Halted by Heavy Rains Which Fell During the Weekend and Continued Through Tuesday.

Clear skies and sunshine Wednesday gave farmers hopes that they could soon get back into soggy fields and resume gathering of their rapidly maturing cotton crop.

Heaviest downpour came early Monday, when slightly more than two inches fell before 3 a. m. Continued hard rains during the day boosted Monday's total to 3.80 inches. Rains during the night and early Tuesday pushed total precipitation to 4.06 inches at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Rainfall was general over a wide area, and in the Paint Creek community southeast of Haskell the downpour was of torrential proportions. Through Monday night, 6.40 inches of rainfall had been measured at Paint Creek.

The hard downpours provided considerable run-off, filling creeks and overflowing surface tanks. Water pouring into Lake Stamford from Paint Creek had raised the level of the lake one foot by Monday night, and the level was still rising.

As a result of the heavy rains and cloudy weather, gathering of cotton was brought to a standstill with the likelihood that several days of clear weather and sunshine would be necessary before pulling and picking could be resumed.

Some farmers expressed fears that the moisture may lower the grade of cotton with a consequent decline in price.

U. S.-Sponsored Science Library At Local School

Science will be emphasized, underscored and pointed up during the current year at Haskell High School.

Principal W. P. McCollum's application for participation in the Traveling High School Science Library Program has been accepted by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and 200 outstanding, evaluated, up-to-date "best seller" type books in the sciences and mathematics will circulate to the school library from Washington, D. C.

All branches of science will be covered and the reading level will range from books the brilliant junior-high students will find interesting to some that will give the outstanding high school senior a taste of advanced work. The collection lists for more than $1,000.

The idea for this experimental program, aimed at interesting more students in scientific and technical careers, originated with the National Science Foundation, an agency of the Federal Government established in 1950 "to promote the progress of science."

The AAAS was requested to administer the program. The AAAS was originated in 1848 and is the oldest national scientific society. It is a federation of 279 scientific and professional societies and has over 66,000 individual members. It accepted the NSF grant, and in 1955 selected and administered the first library of 160 books which circulated to 66 schools. From this modest beginning the program has expanded until during 1958-59 the library will go to about 1,400 schools in every state in the Union, Hawaii, Alaska, the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, the American Community School of Paris, France, and to U. S. Army dependents' schools in France, Germany, Italy and Okinawa.

The 200 books are circulated 50 at a time to four high schools in geographical proximity, the cases rotating every two months. In this way new titles with a fresh appeal to the eye and mind appear periodically. The books in their traveling cases are on display in the school library and representatives of P-T-A, civic groups, service organizations and interested individuals are invited to examine them.

Game Warden Is Guest Speaker At Rotary Club

A program of game management in keeping with the desires of the people of this section is available, District Game Warden Bert Iverson told members of the Rotary Club at their regular meeting and luncheon.

"Through the regulatory authority provisions of the State Game Commission, the people in a given area can virtually write their own ticket in regard to game management," the Warden said.

Recommendations of local land owners and sportsmen are considered by the Game Commission in setting up special regulations governing fishing and hunting seasons. He cited the Possum Kingdom area as an example of how the program works.

Federal and State funds are also available in carrying out game management and conservation projects, he explained.

Warden Iverson also discussed the hunting season and bag limits. On doves, hunters are allowed a daily limit of 10 doves, and not more than 20 in possession.

The limit on quail, when the approaching season opens, will be 12 per day and not more than 36 in one week, he explained.

In the business session of the meeting, Rotary President Tom Barfield and Ira Hester told briefly of the Information Institute they attended in Vernon on June 9. Announcement was also made of the pending visit of the District Governor on Oct. 8.

Mrs. Ruby Withers was pianist for the club sing-song, led by Tom Robertson. Out-of-town guests present in addition to the speaker, were Rotarians Roy Craig, Cleburne Huston and Alton King of Stamford, and Wm. Cockerell of Breckenridge.

Mattson Prepares Welcome For Homecoming Visitors

The Mattson community completed plans this week to welcome scores of visitors and ex-residents expected in attendance Saturday at the third Mattson School Homecoming.

Committees in charge of various phases of the Homecoming program reported all plans complete for the all-day gathering, which will be climaxed with a barbecue supper and a night football game between Mattson Mustangs and Paint Creek Pirates, and coronation of the 1958 Homecoming Queen.

Homecoming speaker will be State Senator George (Cotton) Moffett of Chillicothe. Master of ceremonies for the Homecoming program will be Don Timberlake of Abilene, a junior at Hardin-Simmons University.

Hundreds of invitations have been mailed to former students, teachers and patrons of the Mattson school. Advance reservations being received lower amount, sponsors of the project said.

The proposed multi-city reservoir would impound 25,000 acre feet of water, and this could be increased to 40,000 acre feet at a future date if needed.

The estimated cost of $3,800,000 includes purchase of lands for reservoir site and right-of-way for pipelines, pumping and filtering plant and distribution system serving the four towns.

Bonds issued by the Authority will be retired principally by revenues from the sale of water supplemented by an advalorem tax in the four towns which will gradually decrease.

At the outset, the ad valorem tax paid the water authority will be approximately the same-dollar for dollar—as the 1957 city tax levied in Haskell, directors of the water authority explained.

City Court Needed

A recent item in the "Haskell County History" column has prompted a suggestion from a reader which we believe merits consideration of our city officials.

The suggestion is that a City Court be established to handle local traffic violations and minor misdemeanor cases, with all revenue from fines and penalties going to the city. This would permit more effective enforcement of traffic regulations than is now possible, and would also provide additional revenue to the city and in effect, would make the police department a self-sustaining unit of the city government.

As now being handled, all traffic cases as well as other violations of a misdemeanor nature are filed in Justice Court, with all fines and fees going to the county and state. Because of the heavier fine involved in cases filed in Justice Court, the minimum penalty being $20.50, officers are sometimes reluctant to institute court action where only a minor traffic violation is involved.

A City Court, with lower and more reasonable penalties for minor infractions, would make possible a more effective enforcement program for traffic laws. Heavier penalties could be imposed where warranted, the same as in Justice Court.

Also, City Court would provide a means for enforcing any or all city ordinances relating to the health and welfare of the community. In a general sense enforcement of all city ordinances is vested in municipal court.

"Your Money"

The Portland Oregonian prints a letter from a reader which offers an interesting suggestion. He proposes that we stop the "silly practice" of referring to the financing of projects with "government money" or "Federal funds" as though it was "manna from heaven."

Instead, he thinks, we should start calling such financing by its right name—that is "your money" or "taxpayers' funds." There is a world of merit in this idea. A great many people, apparently, don't relate "Federal funds" or "government money" to the state of their own pocketbooks. They don't realize that every cent must be paid one way or another by the taxpayers of today and of generations to come. And that term "taxpayers" includes everyone in the country. Even people in so low an income bracket that they pay no direct taxes, must pay hidden taxes every time they buy an article or a service.

The widespread use of such a term as "your money" would be a tremendous help in correcting this sad situation. We'd think twice if we really understood that we must pay a part of the cost of everything government does—whereas now we only think once or don't think at all.

At any rate, keep it in mind next time you read about government spending. It's "your money"—billions upon billions upon billions of it, collected in taxes.

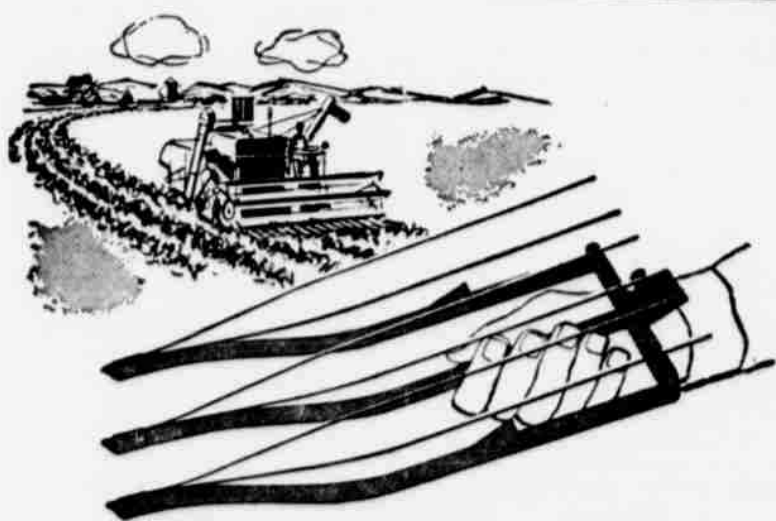

British Riots Prove A Point

(The Houston Chronicle)

The British, along with other Europeans, long have looked down their noses at America because there is an occasional outbreak of racial strife in this country. A year ago the occurrences in Little Rock evoked a great deal of comment abroad in which unthinking self-righteousness was mingled with criticism of the United States, particularly the South.

Now that British cities are accumulating good-size minorities of West Indians, Africans and other dark-skinned peoples, however, the British are learning to their dismay that serious friction is likely to develop when radically different people live in close contact and competition for jobs and housing developments.

Perhaps, now that Britain has had a touch of serious racial strife, Europeans will be somewhat less superior in their attitude toward a problem with which this country has lived for centuries and on which progress has been made.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

By A. PATE

Requests for "back copies" of a certain issue are routine in a newspaper office and in most instances these requests are filled and forgotten.

Because we have more than the average share of curiosity especially if they are from a distant point, us to wonder just what interest the person making the request has in that particular issue of The Free Press.

Occasionally the reason is given with the request, citing mention of a relative or friend in the paper.

About two years ago The Free Press ran a story concerning the purported existence of a mine owned by the Spaniards in the Brazos breaks in northwest Haskell County. It was an interesting yarn, based partly on verified facts furnished by people who are still living.

For several weeks afterwards, numerous requests came for copies of that issue.

Then, a few days ago, a letter from Richmond, Vermont, asked for a copy of the newspaper carrying the story about the old mine. Since the supply of that issue had been exhausted, the party was so advised.

But we can't help but wonder how a person in the northeastern tip, you might call it, of the United States ever heard of Haskell in the first place. Or The Free Press and a particular story in a certain issue.

A brief item in the 60 Years Ago column of the paper mentioning the first farmer to plant and raise cotton in Haskell County resulted in a request for a copy of that particular issue from a woman who had never been in Haskell.

A resident of Albuquerque, N. M., is a granddaughter of the late G. W. Cooke, the county's first cotton farmer. Although she'd never seen a copy of The Free Press, that single brief item in some manner reached her attention.

Speaking of cotton, some of the county's early-day farmers would be amazed at today's production of the staple, especially on some of the irrigated land. Two bales or better to the acre, compared to the "bumper" yield of half a bale in the early days of farming in this section.

Irrigation makes the difference, not only in cotton, but any other farm crop. A farmer with one or two good wells can produce any kind of crop he desires—cotton, feed, or vegetables.

In the opinion of Bob Sego, a man wouldn't necessarily have to confine himself to farm crops.

Telling of a Rochester man who has some of the best irrigation wells in the county, Bob declared: "That man can start his wells and soak his whole farm any time he likes. Why, he could even grow an acre or two of figs, he has that much water."

In a long letter to Hill Oates recently, Herbert Arbuckle of Corpus Christi recalled numerous incidents of 40-odd years ago when he lived in Haskell. However, "Buck" overlooked mentioning one escapade in which he had a part that had the towns talking for months and drew both censure and approval from the populace.

It was in the summer and two itinerate, long-haired, bare-footed characters came to town. Calling themselves "apostles" they held forth daily on the court house lawn, haranguing against all religious creeds except their own. After more than a week of the daily long-winded ranting the novelty wore off and people were commenting that "something should be done with those fellows."

"Buck" had an idea. He convinced a friend of his, Mark Whitman, that the two of them, both members of the volunteer fire department, needed practice manipulating the nozzle of the fire hose. And, they reasoned, in order not to waste water, they would practice on the courthouse lawn, giving the grass the benefit of any water used.

By coincidence, "Buck" and Mark's nozzle practice started about the same time the aforesaid characters began their daily routine. The two embryo firemen had a hectic time wrestling with the fire hose and ever so often the nozzle would be aimed, directly at the two characters, unintentionally of course, but on the target just the same.

After about 10 minutes to themselves, a similar practice planned the following day was never held. There were a few scoffers who said it was because the two long-haired characters had left town, but "Buck" and Mark maintained they were so proficient they didn't need further practice.

New Members of B&PW Club Inducted In Candlelighting Ceremony Tuesday

In an impressive candle-lighting ceremony new members were welcomed into the Haskell Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the Highway Drive In Cafe with the membership committee headed by Esther Helber directing the program. The Federation candle representing 3400 B&PW clubs throughout the nation was lighted by Ramia Lee Frazier, program coordination chairman. Each of the past presidents lighted their candles from their predecessor, after Artie Mae Burkett, first president of the club, had lighted her candle on the Federation one. Nettie McCollum 1958-59 president lighted each of her officers' candles and they in turn lighted the candles for the charter members, then those joining the club in its second and third years of organization. Finally the president lighted each new member's candles and welcomed them into the club.

This Business and Professional Women's Club is a member of the National Federation organized in 1919 and composed of clubs in every state in the United States, District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii, stated Reba Harrell as she gave statistics concerning the Federation. The purposes of the club were reviewed: To promote interest in business and professional women; to elevate the standards of business and professional women; to stimulate local and state organization.

The club pledge was repeated in unison and by joining hands a huge circle was formed in singing Bless Be the Tie That Binds.

Accomplishments of the Federation of B&PW Clubs were enumerated by Nettie McCollum, Blanche Long, in behalf of all new members expressed their reasons for becoming a member of the local club. Louise Greene explained the scroll, the wand, the torch, the ship of commerce and Nike, which make up the emblem of the club.

The report of the joint meeting of the Finance Public Affairs and Public Relations committee was given by Ozelle Frierson, outlining the activities for National Business Women's Week to be observed Oct. 5-12, Tuesday Oct. 7 "A Salad Circus" at Magazine Club House; Oct. 9, Distribution of Door Knob Tags; meeting at home of Artie Mae Burkett; Oct. 10, Breakfast at Texas Cafe; Oct. 12 Book Review by Mrs. L. Vocational Nurses Group Hears Talk By Dr. Middleton Licensed Vocational Nurses of Haskell County, District 39, met Tuesday evening on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Tom Stewart.

Dr. Middleton, speaker on the evening's program, discussed the value of Vocational Nurses in hospitals today. Because there are not enough Registered Nurses available, the Vocational Nurses are the backbone of the hospitals, he told the group. Registered Nurses are mostly supervisors and the bedside care is given by the Vocational Nurses.

The nursing school for Vocational Nurses here was started in 1961 under the direction of the State Board of Education. The first class graduated in June, 1962. They received licenses, pins, and caps. This class was taught by Mrs. Willie K. Coleman, R. N. A number of the graduates are still employees of the Haskell County Hospital.

A new Vocational Nurses class was started in April by Mrs. Anna Kimbrough, R. N. She is planning to start an inter-service class for the graduate LVN's now employed in the hospital.

The social hour was spent in viewing home movies and in games of 84. Refreshments of pie and coffee were served to guests and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and son, Ken.

More Nitrogen May Be Needed On Wheat Land

The heavy stubble from last year's crop is responsible for a situation which makes the use of nitrogen fertilizer more important for this year's crop. The situation, says W. F. Bennett, extension soil chemist, means that more of the soil nitrogen will be tied up in the process of decomposing the heavy stubble and a nitrogen shortage will exist.

This shortage would result in a reduced growth rate for this year's wheat crop during the fall and winter months, says Bennett. The nitrogen needs will vary depending upon the amount of stubble and present level of soil nitrogen. Nitrogen needs at planting time, believes Bennett, will generally vary from 20 to 50 pounds an acre. A soil test can be used to determine the amount.

Phosphorus and potash are found in good supply in some soils but in others these vital plant food elements may be deficient. Here again a soil test could prove most helpful.

Bennett says that in addition to the nitrogen applied at the time of planting, another application in late January or early February might prove profitable.

able if the supply of soil moisture is good or if the wheat is irrigated.

For information on soil testing, the chemist suggest a visit with the local county agent. Generally, he adds, about 10 days are required for making the laboratory determinations on the soil sample and for getting the results back to the farmer.

News From The County Agent

BY F. W. MARTIN
A New, Early Maturing Wheat For Texas

Crockett is a new variety of hard red winter wheat developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is an early maturing variety, has high test weight and produces high yields of grain of approved quality. While not immune to rusts, it has greater disease resistance than most commercial varieties now available. Crockett resulted from efforts over the past 15 years to combine both high disease resistance and good quality into a variety which has the early maturity of Wichita.

Crockett has an enviable yield record and test weight in Texas and regional trials during the past 6 years. It exceeds the yield of Wichita and other early varieties in most tests, averaging nearly 2 bushels more per acre than Wichita on the High Plains, 3.2 bushels per acre on the Rolling Plains and 4.1 bushels more per acre in North Central Texas. Its average test weight was equal to that of Wichita.

Crockett is very similar to Wichita in general appearance. It is a bearded wheat having white chaff with black stripes similar to other black hull type wheats. These black stripes do not develop under some conditions. The variety is slightly taller than Wichita and Triumph but is shorter than Comanche and Westar. Crockett produces kernels very similar to Comanche and they are somewhat longer and smoother than Wichita.

Crockett is 4 to 6 days later in heading than Early Blackhull and 1 to 3 days later in ripening. It is also slightly taller than Early Blackhull. Except for Quana, Crockett has greater resistance to rusts than any hard red winter wheat variety now available. While rusts are known which will attack Crockett, and will undoubtedly increase as the Crockett acreage increases, it has better resistance than present early varieties such as Wichita.

Crockett produces a grain of high quality for milling purposes. While approaching Comanche in quality, it probably is not quite equal to this variety which is considered the standard for comparison. It superior to Wichita in quality, and was developed to replace early maturing varieties such as Wichita and not later maturing varieties such as Comanche.

Some seed of this variety has been grown in Haskell County this past year and farmers who grew it say that where you had to sow 45 pounds per acre on other varieties of wheat, 30 pounds of Crockett will be enough seed to sow.

Cattle Receipts Moderate At Major Markets

BY TED GOULDY

Fort Worth—Fears expressed in the trade last week that excessive runs of cattle and calves might arrive at points around the major marketing circle proved unfounded Monday. The twelve major markets showed over 14,000 fewer cattle and calves, although Ft. Worth had nearly ten per cent more.

Trade developed along active lines on most cattle and calves at all points, although the feeder cattle trade was inclined to shy away from heavy-weight yearlings and feeder steers unless some concessions in price were accomplished. Stocker cattle and calves suitable for pasture purposes were in broad demand at all points. At Fort Worth the stocker trade was very active and again there were both large and small stockmen from all over the Southwest seeking replacement cattle and calves. Cattle and calves were active and fully steady with some sales on calves strong to 50 cents above the low close of last week. Fed steers and heifers were in small supply and sold at firm rates. Cows and bulls were active at strong prices throughout.

Good to choice slaughter steers and yearlings bulked at $24 to $26.50 and medium to lower grades cashed at $18 to $24. Fat cows sold mostly at $18 to $21, a few heiferish kinds higher. Canners and cutters sold for $13 to $18.

Good to choice slaughter calves cashed at $24 to $26.75 and a few to $27. Common and medium slaughter calves drew $18 to $23 and culls sold at $16 to $18. Medium and good stocker steer calves ranged from $28 to $33 and common to medium sorts cashed at $20 to $27. Stocker heifer calves ranged downward from $30. Stocker steer yearlings of medium to good grades sold from $20 to $25 and some lightweights drew $26 to $27. A few medium to fairly good stocker cows sold from $18 to $20.

Population of West Texas Now 3 1/2 Million

The population of West Texas has increased 45.4 per cent since 1900, a survey by one of the Southwest's leading population analysts reveals.

The survey was made by Dr. R. L. Skrabanek, a sociologist on the staff of Texas A&M College and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, was published in the current issue of West Texas Today, monthly magazine of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Skrabanek's survey, which covers the entire 132-county region served by the West Texas Chamber, shows that West Texas now has a population of nearly three and one-half million people compared with less than a million in 1940 and slightly more than two and one-third million in 1900.

Buick's New Styling Is Sleek And Low

Sleek and low describes Buick's new styling for 1936. The model shown is the luxurious two-door Electra hardtop which measures less than 55 inches in height yet retains approximately the same headroom as last year's Buick. The "delta-wing" styling of the rear fenders that flare out to a point, and twin headlights that are set on an angle give the new Buick a look that is light and jaunty. Compound windshields that curve back into the roof and eliminate wind noise are a feature on all 1936 Buicks. The Electra is powered by a 401-cubic inch V-8 engine with 10.5-to-1 compression ratio.
