Cotton Needs Help Quickly

You may convert a pessimist into an optimist,

How much worse can it get?

Cotton growers have had their acreage slashed drastically in five straight years of controls. Unless Congress does something this session, they face a further 20 per cent cut in 1959.

Agriculture Secretary Benson indicates he almost surely will be forced to cut allotments from their present 17.6 million acres has to about 14 million next year-if present farm law stands.

The result would be still more idle land, land planted to less profitable crops, and a further income cut for the farmer, whose income is already too low.

What's more, a small 1959 crop would aggravate the shortage of better quality U. S. cotton which is already forcing mills to use lower grades and encouraging substitution of rayon for cotton.

Cotton farmers need an acreage increase instead of a decrease. This means a lot to this area because when cotton is hard hit, we're all hard hit.

Congress is trying to make up its mind about the farm pro-Time for corrective action for cotton is short. Cotton growers sould express their concern. They should let their Senators and Representatives know their views-and right away.

Crime Is Crime

The FBI reports that last year juveniles under 18 accounted for an astounding 47.2 per cent of all the people arrested for such

This grim bit of information caused the Wall Street Journal to inquire in to the possible causes behind the soaring juvenile crime rate. One, it believes, lies in the increased assumption by the state of responsibility for children and the consequent lessening of parental sev. S. Lotes, Stone, Willie Herresponsibility—that is "the schools now undertake to teach things that ought to be taught at home." And the emphasis on the progressive theory of education has undoubtedly undermined self-discipline and respect for authority.

The Journal also points to another far-reaching change in our Hardy society: "Somehow we have allowed the age of a criminal to so tip Davis, the balance that a hideous crime by a person old enough to vote becomes the bewildered act of an unfortunate child if he is young enough to fit within the juvenile laws. Can it be that this attitude of softness is itself an invitation to juvenile crime?"

Society, in self-defense if for no other reason, will have to realize that crime is crime, no matter what the age of the offender, and act accordingly. To quote the Journal again, there will be small chance of improvement in this intolerable situation " . . . until youngsters are held more responsible for their crimes and until parents again become more responsible for their youngsters.'

Since this is not an election year insofar as State Senator is concerned, these remarks are not for political purposes

The Senator's nickname was appropriately applied early in his legislative career because of his staunch advocacy of measures to benefit the cotton producer. He has consistently urged that scien-tific research for new uses for cotton is the most logical solution of the cotton surplus problem, on a longe range basis.

No better choice of a commencement speaker could have been made, because Senator Moffett is a believer in better schools. As a lad in Hardeman County, he walked over two miles to school for seven years. Most of his classmates did, too. "It didn't hurt us," he says, "As we did not have so

Roundup Pageant To Depict Development Of 4-H in Texas

Fifty years of 4-H progress in exas will be presented as a pageant on the opening program of the annual State 4-H Club Roundup scheduled for June 10-12 at Texas A&M College.

From the first county agent or-canized boys corn club in 1908 has come the greatly expanded demonstration and character-building 4-H programs of today. Membership has grown from the original 25 corn club members in Jack County to more than 111,000 in Texas and demonstrations and activities now cover every phase of agriculture and homemaking. Throughout the 50-year period, the demonstration has remained the basis for conducting the youth of Agricultural Extension work, Today, 4-H members still learn to do by doing and their classrooms are the farms, ranches and homes of Texas.

In 1910 in Coleman County the beef calf club was organized the first statewide rally for club boys was held at the State Fair in Dallas. A feature of the rally was a parade of 1,500 boys, each carrying a stalk of corn, through the downtown secof the city.

In 1912, girls for the first time Growing tomatoes and canning were the major demonstrations.

Around 1911 the 4-H emblem was adopted nationally and a man who was later to serve as Exten-sion director in Texas, the late O. B. Martin, played a major role in this development. He was the first 4-H Chub leader of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

With the passage of the Smith-Lever Act by the U. S. Congress in 1914, the Agricultural Extension Service as known today came into being and 4-H development became more rapid and better ornized. A state 4-H leader. H. H. Williamson, was appointed in 1912 and by 1914 he had made considerable progress in getting 4-H going in the counties where agents had been employed.

Texas 4-H club members made their first out-of-state tour in 1920 when 125 of the State's outproducers made a 5,000 mile train trip that carried them through the Middle West, to Chicago, Detroit, Carter Canada, New York City, Washing. Weddi ion, D. C., the Southland and back to Texas. With the formation abut this same time, of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work and National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Texas 4-H Johnny Little of Dallas, in a ceremembers became Congress participants, and today, one of the most cherished of all 4-H awards el of the Methodist Church.

In the pioneer days of this city, when it was still known as Rice Springs, W. C. Ballard moved his family into the little village. At that time there were only sixteen buildings in the community.

Mr. Ballard was an elder in the Christian Church of his native State of Missouri. Since he was going to make this place his home, he was vitally interested in hav-ing a church here (Whose Only Creed Was the Bible) where his family and others might be taught "Gospel Plan of Salvation." For two years this desire was uppermost in his mind, and in the fall of 1887 he wrote to J. W. Mc-Garvey asking him to recommend some young preacher, who would come for a small salary, and who would be willing to "board around" with the members.

In 1888 Mr. Ballard agreed to pay all expenses, and arrangements were made for a meeting. The meeting was held in January 1888, in the old court house by Bro, J. B. Boen.

Brother Boen prepared and preached a series of sermons on 'First Principles," which he delivered with great power and en-

Wheat Farmers to Vote June 20 in Referendum

Texas wheat farmers will help make an important decision when they vote June 20 in the national wheat marketing quota referen-dum Searcy M. Ferguson, chair-man, State Agricultural Sabilization and Conservation committee said today.

If at least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve quotas for the 1959 Ferguson explained, the crop, Ferguson explanation of the control of the co acreage allotments, marketing quotas (with penalties on "ex-cess" wheat) and price supports at a minimum national average of $1.81 per bushel, or 75 per cent of parity.

If quotas are not approved by at least two-thirds of those voting, there will be no marketing quotas or penalties, but allotments will remain in effect as a means of deermining eligibility for price support. The price support rate would be about $1.20 per bushel, or 50 per cent of parity, as provided

Chairman Ferguson pointed out that wheat marketing quotas and acreage allotments operate only in commercial wheat Statesthose with allotments of more than 25,000 acres. Texas has an allotment of 4,099,094 acres for the 1959 wheat crop. Growers eligible to vote in the eferendum are those who will be affected by the wheat quotas if they become effective. Thus, farmers who will have 15 acres or less of wheat for harvest as grain in 1959 and those who are taking part in the 1958 feed wheat program are not eligible to cast ballots in the 1959 wheat quota referendum on June 20.

HERE FROM LUBBOCK

Judge T. R. Odell of Lubbock was a business visitor in Haskell Friday. The Lubbock attorney is a former resident of Haskell and Throckmorton, having practiced law here and in the neighboring county for a number of years.

members and local officers halted traffic until WTU linemen cleared the hazard.

At the the height of the storm, telephone operators and the staff of the Haskell Hospital were alerted against a possible tornado after a funnel had been sighted southeast of Rule and moving in the direction of Haskell. Check made by the Highway Patrol and members of the sheriff's department failed to reveal evidence that the tornado had hit the ground.

In downtown Haskell, portions of the glass front above the awning of the Roberson Building on the west side of the square were blown out by high winds.

The larger structure and that two applications have chairs, desks and counters will of another large tree were split off ture, with a capacity of 400,000 in opposite directions. Portions of Oil Company station adjoining the said. Boen place was hurled across the street west. Similar freakish damage by the storm was visible all over town. Heavy damage to grain crops was reported east of Mattson, where the storm reportedly wiped out wheat on the Andy Wilfong, Gentry Middleton, and C. C. Middleton farms.

In the Paint Creek area, grain was heavily damaged by hail which swept through a narrow belt extending from F-M Road 618 east to the take.

Just north of Haskell, a 30-acre field of wheat and oats on the John E. Robison farm was heavily damaged, with the wheat considered a total loss. Also on the Rob-ison farm, freakish winds twisted a 75-foot windmill tower out of the ground, along with heavy con-crete slabs in which the tower was moored.

In the county as a whole, damage to the grain crop from the storm is not expected to exceed 10 or possibly 15 per cent. Also as a result of the hail and hard rain, much of the young cotton which had just come to a stand will have to be replanted. This will involve considerable acreage, however, farmers have plenty of time to get in another crop, County Agent F. W. Martin said.

Two Large Grain Warehouses Being Completed Here

Completion of two new grain storage warehouses being built in this city by Market Poultry & Egg Company is scheduled this weekend. Combined capacity of the two warehouses will be 600,000 bushels of grain.

The two buildings will be leased by Haskell Warehouse Company and will be under management of A. T. Ballard.

Ballard sa Tuesday that completion of the warehouses is being rushed in order that the storage facilities may be available in handling this year's grain harvest led by the twisting finds, trees which is expected to get underway

The new buildings are located other debris covering sidewalks and streets after the storm.

Equipment will include the latest type loading and unloading facilities capable of handling 6,000 to the Hattox yard, while part facilities capable of handling 6,000 of the roof of a building at Reed bushels of grain per hour, Ballard In addition to the new structures being built here, the local concern is completing a new 300,000 bushel warehouse in Rule, Ballard said. Market Poultry & Egg Company also recently acquired the Alvis Elevator in Rochester.

Market Poultry & Egg Company recently purchased the In-ternational Harvester Company building in Sweetwater, one of the largest structures in that city. The building is being converted into a modern warehouse, Ballard said, and will have a maximum capacity for one million bushels

The new warehouses in Haskell and Rule will be used entirely in handling the grain crop in this area. Ballard said. The larger Sweetwater facility can be used as a central storage point to accomodate any excess grain received locally or in other areas served by his company, he added.

A brigade is susually composed of three regiments.
