

ATC wins top flying safety award

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (ATCNS)—Air Training command has been named winner of the Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois Memorial Award for outstanding achievement in flying safety during 1982.

The award, presented each year by the Daedalian foundation, honors the major command with the most effective flight safety program during the previous calendar year.

ATC was cited for achieving the lowest combined flight mishap rate in its history—.45 mishaps per 100,000 flying hours. Only three mishaps were reported in ATC during 1982 out of a command total of 665,308 flying hours.

Commenting on the command's selection in a message to field commanders, Gen. Thomas M. Ryan Jr., ATC commander, said, "Our 1982 flight safety record and strong safety emphasis throughout the command were major factors in winning the Air Force's top flying safety award.

Our selection recognizes the outstanding efforts of not only operators, but maintainers and support personnel alike. I'm extremely proud of our accomplishment."

The general went on urging all supervisors to pass along his congratulations and "a challenge to make 1983 another outstanding year for safe operations."

ATC last won the Foulios award in 1975. This year's presentation will be held June 11 at the Order of Daedalians National Convention in Seattle.

Navigator trades in wings

by Sgt. Rich Tillman
Public Affairs Specialist

Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 83-03 officially joined the ranks of Air Force pilots Feb. 25 as 36 of the once 60-member class accepted their aviators wings from Lt. Gen. Charles G. Cleveland, commander of the Air University, Maxwell AFB, Ala.

As is customary, a select few of the graduates were recognized for special achievements they made during the nearly year-long training program here.

Capt. Charles G. Duke, a former navigator and native of Fayetteville, N.C., rose above his pilot peers to accept the class' top honor, the Air Training Command Commander's trophy.

The class' top graduate walked the base theater stage four other times each to receive other awards. He was noted as a Distinguished Graduate, and he won the Section One Leadership Award, the Flying Training Award and the Academic Training Award.

After specialized aircraft training, he will be assigned to MacDill AFB, Fla., where he will fly the F-16 "Falcon". The fighter should not be much of an aircraft type change for the five-and-one-half year Air Force veteran. Prior to pilot training, he was a navigator aboard the F-111s assigned to Cannon AFB, N.M.

Five other Air Force junior officers also received special notice for their accomplishments in the past months.

Second Lieutenant Richard F. Gibbs II, a Satellite Beach, Fla., native, earned the Academic Training Award. He will go on to specialized aircraft training for the F-15 "Eagle" before reporting to Bittburg AB, West Germany, for his first operational assignment as a pilot.

A New Market, N.H., native, 2nd Lt. Alexander P. Brown, walked the stage to accept the Section Two Leadership Award. After his follow-on aircraft training is complete, he will sign in at Fairchild AFB, Wash., to fly B-52s.

Three Texans—2nd Lts. Alexander C. Strickland III, Tommy J. Williams and Richard W. Orr—each walked the stage to accept letters citing them as Distinguished Graduates.

Lieutenant Strickland, an El Paso native, will proceed to specialized training for the A-7. Afterwards, he will report to Kirtland AFB, N.M.

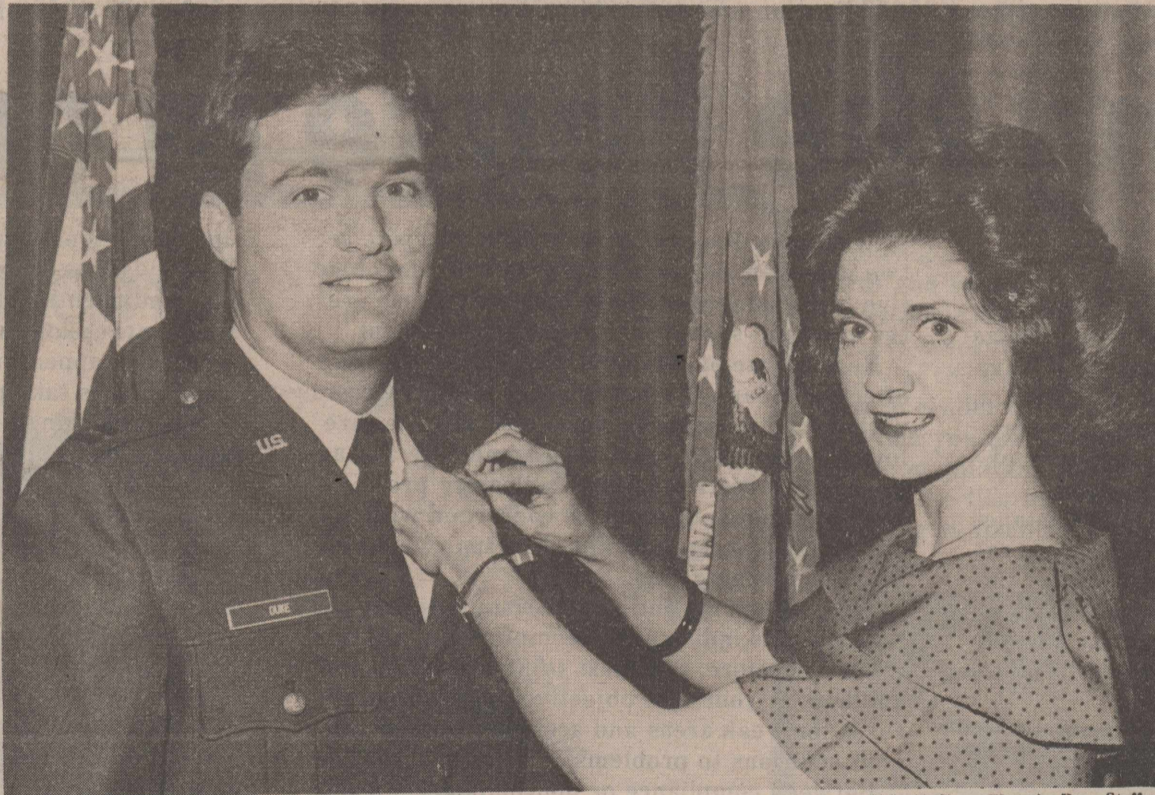

Lieutenant Williams, a Houston native, joins fellow pilot Lieutenant Gibbs in advanced training for the F-15 "Eagle" before reporting to Kadena AB, Japan.

Lieutenant Orr, a Dallas native, will go on to specialized training for the F-4 before signing in at Homestead AFB, Fla.

2nd Lt. Dan Sanders, a Lubbock native, made history for Lubbock Christian College as he accepted his wings. Lieutenant Sanders is the first L.C.C. graduate to become an Air Force pilot here.

Following the special presentations, a nearly packed house watched as the moment they had waited for arrived. The pilots rose and the wing presentations began. General Cleveland presented each pilot with wings and personal congratulations.

Gong Show plays Monday

The Reese-sponsored Gong Show will take place Monday at the base theater at 7 p.m. Members of the audience can make a $2 contribution for which they will receive a ticket to the show.

The purpose of the variety show is to entertain, but much more, it is to raise funds to buy a photo copier for the Ballenger School for the Handicapped in Lubbock. The school needs the copier to help keep and maintain accurate medical records on each of the children attending.

One of the attractions in Monday's show is the "Four Flats" quartet. Rumor has it, these four gentlemen are such renowned singers, their audition was waived for them to sing at the show.

Monday evening's performance promises a lot to the audience, and much more to the children of Ballenger School.

For ticket information contact Capt. Patricia Andrepoint at Ext. 3800, or 1st Lt. Jo Ann Darlington at Ext. 3562 or 2nd Lt. Greg Ball at Ext. 3221.

Runner-up in ATC contest

Social Actions among the best

Reese Social Actions Office is the runner-up for the Air Training Command Outstanding Class II Social Actions Office of the Year, 1982.

The command recognition represents the culmination of a year well spent by the base social actions staff. The ATC Social Actions Office picked Reese for the award based on several factors.

ATC officials inspected the overall Reese social actions unit to see how well they did their job of educating and counseling Reese personnel about everything from drug use to any possible personal problem.

In addition to how well social actions looked, ATC looked from the customers point of view to see how well Reese commanders and their personnel were supporting base level social actions programs.

After gaining both points of view, ATC representatives broke the Reese office into sections: Drug and Alcohol Abuse and the Equal Opportunity and Treatment and Human Relations Branches.

Capt. Charles B. Frost, Reese

social actions chief, pointed out that several things helped the base program win.

The continuous "support of the commanders around Reese" and the aggressiveness with which "our counselors strive to maintain their professional abilities and avoid becoming stagnant," Captain Frost explained "were key factors for us."

During 1982, the Reese Social Actions office developed the Commander's Handbook on Social Actions. The Reese Affir-

DOD chief explains pay cap

by Caspar Weinberger
Secretary of Defense

Recently, you may have read about the overwhelming budget deficits facing the government this year and next, and the President's decision that there will be no annual cost-of-living pay raise for all military and federal civilian employees in Fiscal 84.

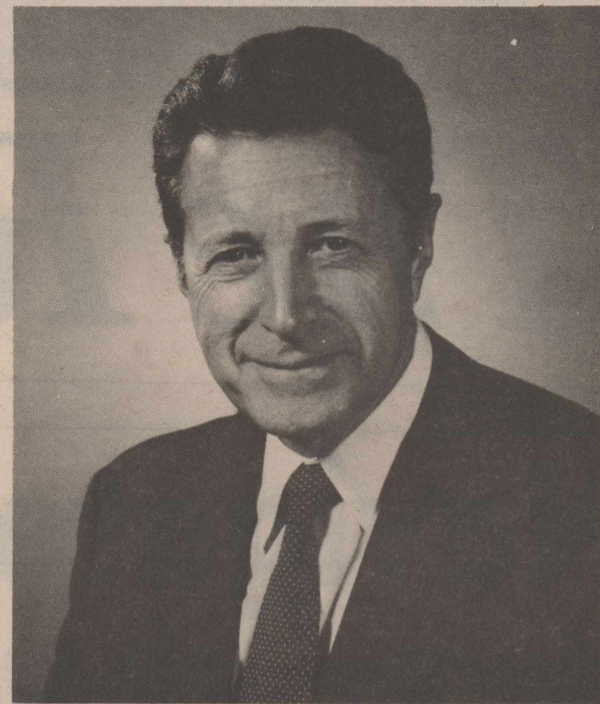

The deficits have made it necessary not only for all government employees, including everyone in the Department of Defense, but all beneficiaries of federal programs, including social security recipients, to give up some or all of the planned pay increases for next year. This is necessary to help reduce the deficit in an effort to restore our nation's economy to long-term real growth. Difficult decisions had to be made to achieve an $11 billion reduction in the defense budget without severe adverse impacts on our programs to restore the combat strength of U.S. military forces.

This decision was made very reluctantly by the President, and we all share his disappointment. Because this administration came into office committed to making military pay competitive with private sector pay. The Uniformed Services Pay Act of 1981 signed by President Reagan increasing military pay by 14.3 percent carried out that promise. For the first time in a decade, military pay was again competitive. Since then, the combination of greatly reduced inflation rates, the Fiscal 83 pay raise and income tax reductions have halted erosion to the value of military pay. The President and I have expressed particular regret that the government-wide pay cap for next year had to apply to the military, too. The President and I are well aware and deeply appreciative of your dedication and commitment to the defense of our nation.

The overwhelming Soviet threat does not permit us to slow the momentum in our efforts to provide you the necessary modern equipment, training and sustainability to be a viable, deterrent military force, no matter how many others may insist that the "defense budget must be cut regardless of the results." Our goal is to do everything we can to ensure that no American must make the ultimate sacrifice in the defense of our nation.

In my two years as secretary of defense, I have continuously admired the outstanding efforts you are making in the interest of national security. Your professionalism and dedication are exemplary. You are essential to the protection of this nation's freedoms and the security of the free world. You can be assured that I will continue to press for appropriate financial and moral recognition of your efforts, and that I will strongly urge that the 1985 budget provide for the full recovery of the pay cap in 1984.

Keeping the house in order

by Col. John R. Hullender
Base Commander

"By their fruits ye shall know them," says the Biblical injunction, and the fruits of the organization's efforts should be the final concern of any commander, manager or supervisor. Determining an organization's fruits requires measurement.

Measurement is accomplished in a variety of ways, but primarily through the inspection system, including self-inspection, staff-assistance visits, and Inspector General No-Notice General Inspections. The inspection system is one of the most universally maligned management tools of today's Air Force. It is an exception to the old bromide, "Ignore it, and it will go away." To ignore it is to court disaster.

Self-inspections and staff assistance visits are two management tools employed with the objective of Keeping the House in Order. These are the "pick and shovel" actions of management.

Regular use of self-inspection checklists is an effective means of identifying procedural errors within functional areas. Once discrepancies are found, supervisors must take immediate and aggressive corrective action. In clearing procedural errors, one must be concerned with making permanent fixes rather than spurious ones that keep coming back.

Self-inspections and staff-assistance visits are both used as indicators of compliance with directives. Therefore, you must think like an inspector and look at your unit objectively. Put aside excuses for weak areas and seek new and permanent solutions to problems.

Between compliance or noncompliance, inspectors will look for noncompliance. In addition, scout the opposition by periodically reviewing past inspection reports and examining the IG's checklist. Get the crosstalk going. Contact your counterpart at other bases. Learn from their mistakes and successes.

Overhaul your own checklists and conduct self-inspections. If possible, use personnel outside your division, who have an objective eye, to conduct your self-inspections. Make sure you document your findings and corrective actions. Don't forget to follow up your inspections to insure compliance.

Effective use of inspection checklists, competent supervisory methods, well-maintained facilities and equipment, and sensitivity to the motivational needs of personnel all contribute to Keeping the House in Order.

A division should not have to make panic preparations when the announcement is made that "the IG has arrived." They should be ready for inspection with only a little extra "sprucing up" on personal appearances and working areas. When visitors or inspectors come, a few simple, yet fundamental procedures should be used. First impressions are important and this is where the appearances of personnel, equipment and facilities take pre-eminence.

Sloppy looking personnel and untidy work areas tend to reflect inconsistent supervision, lackadaisical attitudes, low morale and overall ineffectiveness.

Be impressive. This is showtime. Have your people ready with haircuts, and shined shoes and take five or 10 minutes to clean up work areas before greeting the visitors. The reception of visitors is vital.

Division chiefs should have a definite plan of attack. Attack with a reception, a briefing and a tour of your division. Take the initiative and brief the inspector or visitor to be sure he learns your good points and accomplishments. Accompany the guests throughout your division or assign a qualified person this task and show them the commendable items.

Make sure each member can sensibly explain his or her job, how they do them and what directives and procedures they follow. Be positive, energetic, cooperative and honest. Answer questions, but do not volunteer information. Admit mistakes and avoid the urge of trying to cover up or give the visitors a "snow job."

Remember, we are all members of the Reese team and the training mission is our constant objective. So resist the temptation, if caught with your drawers down, to blame someone else or "knock" another division. Bear in mind that excellent ratings are not accidents. They are earned by effective management programs carried out by hard work, long hours and that little extra effort.

With these ideas in mind, I am sure we can Keep the House in Order.

A VOLLEYBALL PLAYER from Cannon AFB, N.M., who was at Reese for a recent tournament, wondered what happens to the money collected for tournaments entered.

The fees collected from teams in a tournament go to pay for awards, uniforms, and officials if there are any to be paid. Any money left over goes into the base non-appropriated funds account to help pay for future athletic events.

A PATRON OF THE Exchange Barber Shop was upset when one of the barbers began cutting his hair without asking what type of haircut he wanted. He further stated that the barber carried on a conversation with another barber while cutting his hair, making the entire process take longer than necessary.

The Exchange management has advised the barber shop contractor and the individual's supervisor about the incident. The employee was reminded that proper service must be provided to customers under any circumstances.

A MESSY RESTROOM at the auto hobby shop was the subject of a call from a woman who wondered whose responsibility it was to clean the women's room there.

It is the responsibility of the people on duty at the hobby shop to keep the restrooms clean. They have been instructed to inspect them periodically to make sure they are kept clean.

"I JUST WANT YOU TO KNOW that the condition of the showers at the base gym is appalling and in need of immediate attention," said a concerned caller about the gym's unsightliness.

The showers have been cleaned and procedures set up to help keep them that way. Thank you for bringing this to our attention.

ANOTHER CALLER HEARD THAT different squadrons sharing the same dormitory have different standards for room inspections. He said that a number of people from his squadron had received written counseling for dirty rooms while their roommates from other squadrons had no action taken against them. He asked for clarification of the policy.

Minimum standards are the same for all dorms and each squadron commander is responsible for inspecting his members' rooms. However, the type and degree of corrective action a commander wishes to take to maintain those standards is at his or her discretion.

LASTLY, SOMEONE CALLED to compliment the security police for doing their job. The caller ran a stop sign near the headquarters building and was stopped by a couple of alert policemen. The violator was let off with a verbal warning and was impressed with the cops' professionalism.

Thanks for a job well done.

Professionally speaking ...

The U.S. military establishment was founded on and is steeped in tradition, traditions that are often the foundations for customs, courtesies and protocol. They guide our military profession. In the spirit of tradition, Professionally speaking will inform and re-acquaint each of us with our military heritage.

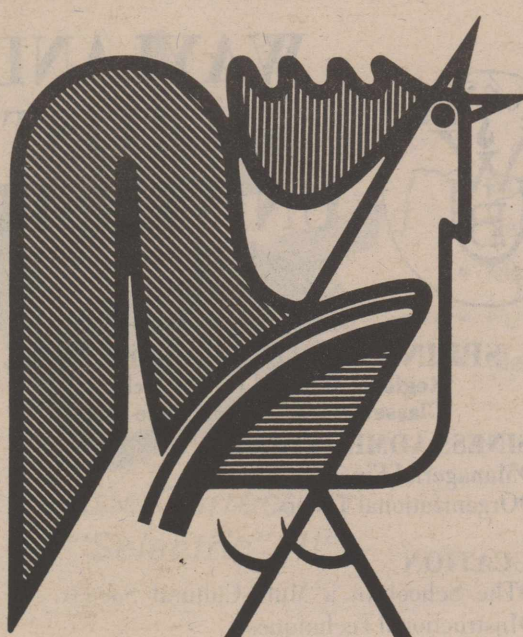

Last week respect to the flag was the topic. This week: how to render that respect.

When you are indoors at a public or military event, you render the flag its honors by standing at attention and facing the flag (if visible) or the music. In the event you cannot detect the flag or the origin of the music just face forward at your present position. You do not salute indoors unless you are bearing arms.

For an outdoor event, public or military, you salute when in uniform. In civilian clothes you salute by placing your right hand over your heart. Men wearing civilian clothes and a hat salute by removing the hat and holding it in such a manner that the right hand covers the heart.

Elections set in three states

Kentucky, Louisiana and Mississippi will each hold elections for various state government positions in 1983.

In Louisiana voters must be registered 30 days before the primaries, Oct. 22, and at least 24 days before the general election, Nov. 19.

In Kentucky and Mississippi, voters must be registered at least 30 days prior to the general elections. The Kentucky primary is May 24. In Mississippi the primary is Aug. 24. Both states will hold general elections Nov. 8.

For information about how you, residents of these three states, can vote contact your unit voting officer. If you need more help call Capt. Pia Caruso, wing voting officer, Ext. 3358.

Razz-ma-tazz comes to Reese

The Classical Sneakers Aerobics Revue is coming to Reese.

Razz-ma-tazz is an aerobics program designed with the women's body in mind. If you are interested in shaping up, having fun, and dancing away unwanted pounds, then the razz is your answer.

The program is two or three one-hour classes per week. Each class includes floor stretches, a warm-up dance, several aerobic dances, a cool down, situps and more stretches. The first class begins slowly and each successive class adds more dances as coordination and aerobic capacity increase.

No prior dance experience is necessary. For more information contact Susan Grossner, 885-4205, or the Youth Center after 3 p.m. at Ext. 3820.

Sales halt on Lawn-boy lawn mower

DALLAS, Texas—The Lawn-boy company has requested that its 21-inch self-propelled lawn mower, model 8240, be removed from exchanges until modifications can be made on the mower's blade brake clutch.

Lawn-boy discovered that the blade did not stop turning within three seconds of the blade brake being engaged. The three-second stop is required by new lawn mower safety regulations. The recall was initiated by Lawn-boy.

While the Army and Air Force Exchange Service has quit selling the model, patrons can take their machines to a local Lawn-boy repair center or return it to the base exchange for a full refund.

E.T. fair happens tomorrow

The public is invited to attend the Caprock Council-sponsored Girl Scout Extra Terrific Fair tomorrow at the Exhibit Hall of the Lubbock Civic Center from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

Approximately 100 troops from the 18 county council will share their skills, crafts, games, ceremonies and dramatics with their guests.

Computer buffs: A new club is coming

A new computer owners and users club will start here. The purpose of the new club is to get those interested in home computers together to share ideas and programs.

Persons interested in the club do not have to own their own machine. The base library will be getting an Apple II computer for public use. The library's computer however, can only be used on a reservation basis.

For more information contact Robert Fiano at Ext. 3207.

Comiso AB guide now on hand

The Public Affairs Office has received a copy of the recently published unofficial Comiso AB, Italy, base guide. Comiso is the home of the 487th Tactical Missile Wing.

Located in southern Italy, Comiso has just recently been re-activated to serve as a base for the ground-launched cruise missile.

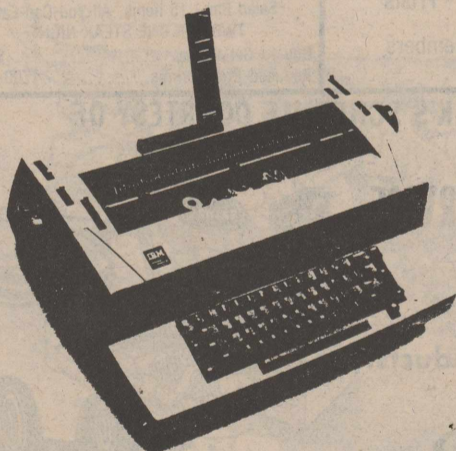

MAST seeks 20 new families

MAST is looking for 20 E-4s, and below and their families to join their activities program. The program brings families together, offers parties for children and aerobic classes.

If you would like to join, contact any of the volunteers at the MAST building, Bldg. 16. If a volunteer is not around, then sign the sign up sheet on the bulletin board. For more information, contact SSgt. Anne Mohrman at Ext. 3159.

LT. GEN. CHARLES G. CLEVELAND, Air University Commander; Dr. Don Williams, Academic Dean of Lubbock Christian College; 2nd Lt. Dan Sanders and wife, Shanna; John King, Director of College Relations at LCC and Col. Richard E. Hearne pose for a photo after undergraduate pilot training graduation ceremonies Feb. 25. Lieutenant Sanders was the center of attention for the Air Force and L.C.C., being the first LCC graduate to earn his wings at Reese.

Social Actions

ative Actions Program ran so well that the need for social actions involvement last year was nonexistent.

Other decisive points to the Reese units success story include their stress training program; the $40 worth of drug paraphernalia obtained free for training uses here; and their participation in the New Year's Eve Metro Base Program designed to cut down on drunk driving.

Their list of accomplishments in 1982 go on, but the one point Captain Frost stressed heavily as a winning factor was his staff's deep involvement with the base and the surrounding community.

In fact, the Pure Outreach Program developed by Reese's Social Actions Office to help airmen cope with peer pressure and deal with friends was so well received that ATC Social Actions officials are now studying it for possible use elsewhere.

Social Actions was the runner-up for the Air Force level award in 1978. This year however, as the ATC runner-up Reese will not compete at Air Force level. But, "I think we have practiced long enough for second," said Captain Frost. "Next year we should take first place in ATC and make a good showing at Air Force level."

Wayland classes begin March 14

by Sgt. Rich Tillman
Public Affairs Specialist

Registration for spring term, March 14 through June 4, Wayland Baptist University courses taught on base begins Tuesday.

Potential students can register for classes at the education office, Building 91, Tuesday from 4 to 7 p.m., Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon, Thursday from 4 to 7 p.m., or March 11 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Tuition assistance forms are available at the base education center, but students should get them filled out as soon as possible to ease registration.

Tuition assistance has changed for the better according to Bill Trafton, educational services officer. Not only will the government pick up 75 percent of the tuition costs, but they will also pay 75 percent of the fees for state-supported institutions.

For those taking classes in the Reese area that applies only to students attending South Plains College or Texas Tech University. Wayland is not a state-funded school.

Course loads are of particular interest now and students and supervisors alike should consider each aspect of the military member's duty before applying for or approving tuition assistance. Items to consider include duty obligations, possible TDYs and family responsibilities.

Tuition assistance is available for all military personnel wishing to attend class. Airman basics through sergeants (E-4) and commissioned officers can get the usual 75 percent tuition assistance. However, staff through chief master sergeants desiring to continue their education can get 90 percent of their tuition paid by the government.

An important note about the assistance is that while the enlisted member using it incurs no extra service commitment, officers using it incur a two-year service commitment.

As for the NCOs getting the 90 percent help, they can have no more than 14 years of past service.

Another educational medium available here is the College Level Examination Program tests, which are free to military personnel. CLEP tests can save students time in class by allowing them to demonstrate their knowledge for college credit.

CLEP covers a variety of subjects. Initially, there are five general tests to take each about a basic subject. After those, there are numerous other speciality tests

Those who decide to attempt the CLEP tests should contact the education office to be sure there is someone, qualified to administer the test, there when you are. The education office, Ext. 3436, pointed out that students wanting to take CLEP tests should check with their schools to be sure that if they score high enough the course will be credited to them.

Base aero club plans first meeting

Preparations for the Reese aero club are underway. An organizational meeting of potential club members is planned for March 16 at the 35th Flying Training Squadron briefing room at 2 p.m.

During this first meeting a temporary board of governors will be elected and the ground work for the club spelled out. The new club is the direct result of a survey the Morale, Welfare and Recreation Division here ran in July and August 1982.

Those planning to attend the first aero club meeting should fill out this questionnaire and turn it in at the meeting. For more information about the aero club, contact Lt. Col. Virgil C. Kennedy at Ext. 3100.

ENERGY

conservation checklist

At home

- Set water heaters at energy saving levels. Water does not need to scald.
- Use lower wattage bulbs where bright illumination is not a necessity.
- Keep light fixtures clean to get full benefit from wattage used.
- Turn off outside lights during daytime and lights in unoccupied areas.
- Use venetian blinds and awnings to control lighting and solar heat gain.
- Insulate around windows and doors, prime sources of heat and cooling loss.
- Use smallest element necessary on electric stoves.
- Keep heating and cooling filters clean for efficient air flow.
- Use dishwashers, washing machines and dryers only with full loads.
- Plan meals to avoid using oven for one item and take needed items from refrigerator in one trip.
- Don't leave appliances (radios, TVs, fans, etc.) going unless they are actually being used.

At work

- Report burned out fluorescent fixtures immediately. Ballast keeps going, even when bulb is out.
- Turn off typewriters, coffee pots and fans when not in use.

- Maintain building temperatures at prescribed limits.
- Observe no heat/no cool seasons.
- When heaters or air conditioners are on, insure that doors and windows are sealed and properly insulated.
- Do not use electric space heaters. They are extremely inefficient.

Automobiles

- The best way to save fuel is simple: Don't use an automobile unless absolutely necessary. Walk, ride a bike or share a ride whenever possible.
- If you are not currently carpooling, join or form one. It not only saves energy, it saves you money.
- Keep automobiles properly tuned and maintained.
- Consolidate trips. Make one trip for numerous errands whenever possible.
- Observe speed limits. Lower speeds use less fuel.
- Don't leave autos idling for more than one minute.
- Use air conditioners sparingly.

These tips are simply guidelines. There are literally hundreds of small things that can be done (or not done) each day to save energy. Discuss it with your friends and family to get other ideas on how to cut down on energy use.

EOC results win praise

Nine Reese airmen from supply, organizational and field maintenance and air base group have been recognized for their end-of-course examination scores upgrading their skill levels.

TSgt. Trinidad E. Valdez from supply scored 93 percent on his test and A1C George L. Bowen also from supply earned a 91 percent mark on his test.

In FMS, A1C Frank J. Leckner scored a 93 percent while his peers; SSgts. Jeff L. Bergstrasser and Ruben L. Pinedo each scored 92 percent.

SSgt. Jose E. Sanjuan from the air base group excelled scoring a 92 percent too.

Three OMS troops scored high: A1C Robert B. Campbell scored a 92 percent and his maintenance partners SSgt. Alan V. Curalto rated a 91 percent and SSgt. Paul M. Romel earned a 90 percent mark.

Each test earned praise from the wing commander. In a letter to each individual Col. Richard E. Hearne credited their outstanding efforts to the extra time they had to spend studying.

Colonel Hearn also pointed out that only one in five score 90 percent or higher.

Grounds inspections begin here this month

With spring just around the corner, the weekly inspections of Reese Village grounds has officially begun. However, actual inspections will not begin until Monday.

Village residents should be sure their yards are mowed, edged and raked for neat appearance. Shrubbery should be trimmed, flower beds and street gutters cleaned.

With the spring comes the dust. Due to the high spring winds trash from open dumpsters tends to blow out and around. Housing residents can save themselves a lot of trouble if they will keep the trash picked up and the dumpster lids closed tightly.

Looking neat will be a challenge this year. The contractors have left their mark, but there is fertilizer and grass seed available for your yards. Exact information regarding when and where the materials will be available had not been confirmed, but the information will be released as soon as possible.

EWC picks new president

The Reese Enlisted Wives' Club has elected a new president Mary Ann Winkle. Members wishing to congratulate her can reach her at 795-2690.

The club has something for all enlisted wives to get out and get involved with.

Honor Guard meets today

The Reese Honor Guard will have a mandatory meeting today at 1:30 p.m. at the base theater.

In addition to guard members, anyone else interested in becoming a member of the Reese Honor Guard are invited to attend.

Members who can not make the meeting should call TSgt. Thomas Sawyer Jr. at Ext. 3635 or SSgt. Lolita Dasher at Ext. 3163.

A1C MICHAEL GRUBER from the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron's J-85 Engine Shop accepts a blue certificate for a three-day pass from CMSgt. Claudell Jones, field maintenance superintendent. This Reese chief's program is designed to promote the appearance of Reese airmen by rewarding those who do more than just "conform." Chiefs throughout the base are authorized to issue the three-day passes when they see airmen whose appearance is noteworthy.

64th plans for motto contest

The 64th Flying Training Wing has a long and colorful history. Many pilots have earned their wings with the 64th and a great number of other personnel have supported this important training mission. Their efforts, including the hard work put forth by those who presently serve the wing, deserve great credit. For this reason, we seek a motto to serve as an expression of their efforts and as an inspirational guide to future members of the 64th.

Many Air Force wings and squadrons have mottos that relate their history or purpose. The 64th came to Reese on Oct. 1, 1972, to replace the 3500th Pilot Training Wing. Before that time the 64th's primary mission was military airlift. Initially activated on Dec. 4, 1940, the 64th began its service as the 64th Air Transport Group assigned to the Twelfth Air Force in England.

It was transferred to the Mediterranean theatre where it saw action in Sicily, Italy and southern France and in the China-Burma-India theatre.

In 1944 the unit received the Distinguished Unit Citation for its action in the China-Burma-India theatre. When the war in Europe ended the 64th was sent to Trinidad.

In 1952 it was renamed the 64th Troop Carrier Wing. Since that time the wing has had various responsibilities and undergone several periods of deactivation. During the years 1960-1963 the wing's primary responsibility was the re-supply of distant early warning sites.

In 1967 the 64th became the 64th Tactical Airlift Wing and assumed the responsibility of combat crew training in C-130 aircraft. The 64th became a flying training wing and part of the Air Training Command in 1972. It was then that the 64th came to Reese.

In recent years, the 64th has led ATC in many areas and received much recognition including a recent "excellent" rating by ATC Stan Eval. It is considered one of the best wings in ATC and does an outstanding job fulfilling its present mission—training Air Force pilots.

In light of the wing's colorful history, a motto contest has been organized. The wing will receive his or her choice of a $50 savings bond or a steak dinner for four. A runerup will also be selected to receive the remaining prize. Entries of any length may be submitted. Keep in mind that most mottos are no more than three or four words long. Each contestant may enter as many times as desired. In case of a tie, the earliest postmarked entry will be awarded the prize. To submit your entry, write to: 64th Motto, ABG/CCO, Stop 28, Reese AFB, TX 79489. Deadline for entry is April 1. Winners will be announced.

AFAF now in full swing

by Sgt. Rich Tillman
Public Affairs Specialist

The 1983 Air Force Assistance Fund officially kicked off here and throughout the Air Force Monday.

And, although the campaign still requires each Air Force member to continue their commitment to caring, this year's slogan is "We'll keep helping as long as you do." Campaign officials picked the slogan because it tells the story. Each contribution helps to bring aid to other Air Force family members. Members that they point out someday could include each contributor.

Here at Reese keyworkers and project officers can check out 16mm films about each of the activities supported by AFAF for viewing at commander's calls and group sessions.

One film, "Air Force Aid Society" interviews four Air Force Aid recipients and their stories. How each was helped dramatically demonstrates the urgency of the campaign.

"The Enlisted Widows and Dependents Home (Teresa Village)" tours the village on film and interviews some of the residents.

"Air Force Village" follows a young officer as she visits the village. The film answers several controversial questions about the village.

In the local campaign news, 1st Lt. Chris Kupko is the assistant campaign project officer and 1st Lt. Craig Seeber is now the campaign project officer.

Lieutenant Seeber made some important points about the organizations helped by the campaign. Obviously those persons receiving the financial help were Air Force members or still are.

"People do not have to be old to get into either village," said Lieutenant Seeber. He added that the campaign contributions are deductible from an individuals federal income tax return and that there are three ways to give.

The first two are really easy, write out a check or donate cash. Or, fill out the appropriate forms to start an allotment. Some prefer the allotment because it is taken from their check before they are paid. No matter which way you decide to contribute you will be helping Air Force family members.

In a recent message General Thomas M. Ryan Jr., commander of Air Training Command, wrote that "We Air Force members have a proud tradition of taking care of our own. One of the most visible signs of that caring is the support we give each year to the AFAF." The ATC commander went on to write that "this year's campaign has a targeted goal of 3.8 million. Our share of that within ATC is $459,023.

When an AFAF keyworker contacts you this month, please give generously. It's a matter of helping our own."

At Reese the major keyworkers and unit project officers for the 1983 AFAF campaign are:

For operations—Capt. Guy Morris and keyworkers Capt. Bruce Kuelz for the 54th FTS, 1st Lt. Harold Scripka for the 35th FTS and 1st Lt. Michael Baudhuin for the 64th Student Squadron.

For maintenance—Capt. John Nuebauer and keyworkers Capt. Rooney Mayton for FMS and 1st Lt. Pedro Colon for OMS.

For air base group—1st Lt. Donald McQuown and keyworkers 2nd Lt. Drew Hudel for CES and TSgt. Tom Hawotte for 3314 MES OLC.

For resources—Capt. Scott Duns.

For USAF Hospital Reese— Capt James Karlstrand.

For the weather detachment—TSgt. Jackie Smith.

And, for FTD 3751—TSgt. John Curl.

IG system explained

The Air Force has a good complaint system. You can get help quickly and fairly when you ask a question. You can make your complaint at any level and you don't have to worry about being intimidated when you ask for help. No one may take a wrong action against you just because you complained. If you think a wrong action has been taken against you just because you complained, you should tell an inspector.

The Inspector General complaint program is described in AFR 123-11. The regulation tells you how to make a complaint, and who you should talk to. You may go to an inspector or inspector general at any level but experience has shown that complaints can best be solved by commanders and supervisors. For this reason you are encouraged to discuss your problem with your boss or your commander.

Sports

Reese hopes for district win

The Air Training Command Central District Men's Volleyball tournament gets underway at the base gym today at 10 a.m.

Teams from central district bases Goodfellow, Lackland, Laughlin and Randolph will take on Reese in the two-day double round robin tournament.

The winner of this weekend's tourney will go on to Williams AFB, Ariz., where they will play in the ATC Volleyball Championships March 8 through 10.

The nine-man team from Reese will be vollying to improve Reese's standing overall from last year's third place. Only two Reese veterans are returning this season, player and coach Larry Keene and Joe Kanaeholo. However, "several key additions to the team and four months of playing together make this year's hopes brighter than ever," according to Keene.

No matter how bright things look, the test comes as Reese meets Randolph here. Randolph has held the ATC title for eight years running.

The Reese team has played in several local leagues and tournaments and after winning the Lubbock Parks and Recreation Tumbleweed Classic they have earned a berth in the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation regional tournament March 12 at Plainview.

Members of the 1983 season team are Dave Fraser, Kanaeholo, Keene, Tony Kuni, Corey Kylo, Jon Reilman, Mike Snider, Gary St. Cyr and Brent Yamauchi.

Each of the five teams attended the kick off breakfast at the Wing Dining Hall. The first round began at 10 this morning and tomorrow's play begins at 8 a.m.

Douthit plays in ATC championship

by Sgt. Rich Tillman
Public Affairs Specialist

Patricia Douthit, a driving force behind the Reese women's varsity basketball team, recently returned from Sheppard AFB, Texas, where she represented Reese in the Air Training Command women's basketball championships.

Douthit earned her position on the ATC Central Women's District all-star team at Goodfellow AFB, Texas, as she and teammates Kristi Allen, Brenda Hodges, Dora Dunlap, Evelyn Bailey and Sherri Cook pounded host Goodfellow, 58-36.

After Reese went rampant on the court with Goodfellow, the Randolph AFB, Texas, squad battled it out against them, winning 47-42. While Randolph won, "they were shocked to find us so tough" said Douthit.

But, tough was not good enough. Reese's squad fell to ATC Central District member Laughlin, AFB, Texas, 51-39, in Reese's third and final central district match.

When the tournament ended, Reese had earned fourth place overall and Tricia Douthit, a top Reese scorer throughout the tournament, had been picked to play with the Central District champions at Sheppard.

"I felt honored," Douthit said, because "both Allen and Hodges were considered for the all-star team. I just got lucky."

The Reese all-star had played basketball for some time before entering the Air Force. Douthit lettered in the sport throughout her Duncan, Okla., high school days.

However, hitting hoops is not the only thing she did well. As her days at Empire High School became numbered she began receiving scholarship offers. As the Empire High valedictorian graduated, she was offered a scholastic scholarship, an athletic scholarship and an Air Force ROTC scholarship.

The daughter of a career NCO, Douthit chose instead to join the Air Force like her father, MSgt. Melvin Douthit, senior master sergeant selected to be stationed at Oklahoma City.

The Duncan native arrived at Reese only to find that there were no sports involving women here. Since her arrival however, changes have been made. And, she's a woman who finishes what she starts.

Now on the women's varsity volleyball team she plans to be back on the roundball courts giving Reese all she's got next season.
