ATC picks Airman of the Year Sergeant Maxwell earns ATC honors

the increased responsibility of an Air Force NCO earlier this month, but he also received word that he had been picked as the Air Training Command Airman of the Year at the same time.

Sergeant Maxwell will travel to ATC headquarters around the third week in April to attend an ATC awards banquet.

Sergeant Maxwell's success began last year. As an airman, he distinguished himself by winning his squadron's airman of the month honor three times. Towards the end of the first quarter in 1982 he earned a belowthe-zone promotion to senior airman. He culminated the year as the 64th Flying Training Wing Airman of the Year, 1982.

He was recognized for his achievements here Dec. 3, 1982, during the sixth annual Enlisted Awards Banquet.

"It gives me the distinct pleasure to represent the airmen of the Air Training Command," said Sergeant Maxwell. He continued, "I will try to reflect the dedication and professionalism of the ATC enlisted force when I am in Washington, D.C., competing for Air Force level honors."

Two personal principles have guided him to his success in the Air Force. They are:

"What your mind can conceive and believe, you can achieve."

And, he firmly believes in the three Ss: save, sacrifice and study.

Sergeant Maxwell feels that people should take control of their environments, instead of allowing their environment to control them. One person's apathy is no excuse for another person to feel that way, he said.

As a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., he has dealt with apathetic people, but he said "the people have to turn their hostilities to a more positive outlet." He recalled that at 13 years old, he made the decision "to be his own man. I grew up in a very rough neighborhood, and when I started directing my hostilities towards positive outlets things seemed to change."

Things changed so well that as a student at Murry Bergtraum High School, New York City, he graduated in the top 10 percent of his class.

A contracts NCO by day, Sergeant Maxwell is completing his bachelor's degree with Wayland Baptist University and his associate's degree with the Community College of the Air Force at night.

He admits he has considered Officers' Training School, but says that he definitely wants to remain in the contracts field. Enlisted or officer, he plans to obtain his master's degree.

His wife, A1C Cherry Maxwell, 1 med her feelings up. "Its an overwhelmin.ling; a feeling of success. Along with that stat the feeling of concern of others always being so attentive of Max and me. I mean the way we dress and present ourselves.

"Overall, I feel proud. He worked hard for it and, I think he deserves it."

Thefts are up. During this first week of March the number of thefts in the housing area have surpassed the total number of thefts which occurred during February. In all incidents, the property was left insecure.

As the days get warmer thefts will increase. Asking yourself, "what can I do to help?"

You as an individual will not stop crime. Even if you lock your bike or lawn mower up, all you're really doing is buying "time". A thief does like those odds. In most cases thieves look for "easy screet", where most property is not locked and left unattended. In fact, property is often left in plain view - advertising, "property for the taking".

If you or your dependents have bikes lock them up. If your neighbors have bikes, suggest to them to lock them up. Most bikes cost between $50 and $150 and more. A good lock and chain costs under $5. Don't stop after locking your bike, lock or chain up your lawn mower, barbeque grills and lawn chairs. Don't stop there. Reese will sponsor a "mobility Tuesday and, readiness day" most importantly, the uniform of the day will be fatigues. Mobility officers and team chiefs will get copies of the day's events and they should notify team members needing training to attend the appropriate class.

Tuesday classes include: explosives, ordinance and reconnaissance training at the theater at 8 a.m.

At 9:30 team equipment custodian training in Room 1, Building 250. This training is required for unit mobility officers, team chiefs and equipment custodians.

At 1 and 4:15 p.m. explosive, ordinance and reconnaissance training will be offered again. It is mandatory that all personnel assigned to mobility attend one of the three training sessions.

Also at 1, chemical warfare refresher training will be conducted in Building 75.

There will be individual training at the theater at 1:30.

At 2:15 a processing line will be established at the theater for training purposes.

At 3:30, unit mobility officer training at the theater.

Mobility readiness is important in an age where our responsibilities extend beyond our immediate areas. This training is designed to prepare both family and airman for what could happen at any time.

DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE ARTERS 64TH FLYING TRAINING WIN EESE AIR FORCE BASE, TX 79489 G (ATC)

18 March 1983

TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF REESE AIR FORCE BASE

As you know, we did extremely well on our recent ATC Stan/Eval. General Ryan was very pleased with the results and I recently received a letter complimenting all the people on Reese for this fine effort. Specifically he stated "Reese's record of sustained excellence proves that your people take pride in doing the job right and safely, that your supervisors are involved and dedicated, and that everyone is committed to quality student training ..., WELL DONE!"

I know all of you realize it is a team effort that achieves such fine results. It takes everyone on the base pulling together -- which Reese is noted for.

The ATC MEI will be coming 10 April and once again it will be our opportunity to prove that every organization on Reese is operating efficiently and effectively. So take a hard look at yourselves, your working area and how you are doing your job.

we'll want to show the MEI Team just how good an operation we have at

What can you pay?

by 2nd Lt. Bob Pullings

Drug/Alcohol Abuse Control Officer

In the past I have discussed the use of drugs from an Air Force standpoint and from the wing's position. I'm sure everyone at Reese is well aware that the use of illegal drugs will not be condoned. I have written articles from the standpoint of what drugs do to you and alternatives to drug use. Now, I want to get down to the basics, the nitty-gritty, and discuss drugs from the most practical of standpoints . . . money.

I am sure that you know what your financial status is, but just in case you don't; go and get your last Leave and Earning Statement, and see if you can afford some of the prices I am about to give you. By the way, these prices are current and valid for the Lubbock area. Ready?

Let's start with the most widely used illegal drug; marijuana. Marijuana is usually purchased by the ounce or "lid" for personal consumption. Being the social drug that it is, most marijuana smokers do not smoke alone. A minimum of 4 ounces provides for the entire month. Can your budget afford $360 for the purchase of 4 ounces of marijuana? No, you say? Well then you probably couldn't afford a monthly supply of Quaaludes, one per day, at $300, a month's supply of LSD at $200, 20 milligrams of Dilaudid at $250, or really going big time, one gram of cocaine for $125,000.

These are the facts. Illegal drugs will hurt your body, kill your career, cause more legal problems than you care to deal with, cause death of brain cells, cause possible chromosone damage, stagnate your life, disrupt your family life, retard your personal growth potential, and overall detract from the superior person that you know you are. And if that isn't enough, you will become very poor, very quick! Drugs: Can you really aford them?

by Capt. Edward C. Gorczyca FMS Commander

Recently, during the squadron NCO of the Month board, I asked an opinion question from a branch nominee; "What would you do to improve operations in your section if you were made the shop chief?" The sharp staff sergeant pondered for a few seconds and immediately exclaimed that he would produce a system that would avoid wasting time so that more work could be accomplished during his shift. To me, it was the best answer I'd heard all afternoon. It is a management area that doubtfully anyone has perfect control over.

Commanders have executive officers, administrative staffs, and technical experts to minimize wasted time on their part. Regretfully for most supervisors in maintenance, time consumption is an endless battle with little help from anyone. Complains about how there is never enough time in a day to get through the piles of paperwork, supervise worker productivity and quality, and control the countless meetings for gathering data from section, branch, squadron, directorate, or wing level is stifling. Most of us will find the time to do exactly what we want to daily; but is this what is best for the Air Force? Probably not.

Planning your day so that you control your activities rather than them dictating how much or how little else you will do makes sense to most productivity-minded people. Dennis Hensley, author of Staying Ahead of Time, capsulizes what we can do to make every minute count. He claims our most successful people all share the ability to organize. "They leave little to chance and are uncomfortable with 'winging it'. They like order, discipline and specific gameplanning. And all of them are perpetual list-makers." A calendar with the hours marked clearly in quarterly increments gives you the opportunity to set goals for the day, week, and month for yourself or section. Preparing this list the day before will give you a running start the next day. Organizing a plan to eliminate that "HOLD" basket systematically rather than when you get around to it can improve a mental attitude about your own capabilities. Don't constantly re-invent the wheel. We'll probably be unable to overcome crisis management when an event must be done this minute, but by listing, categorizing and prioritizing your other objectives for the day, you can override that annoyance.

R. James Steffen, author of How Outstanding People Manage Time during an interview with U.S. News and World Report related that success could be rated daily by examining and updating at the end of the day your priority list and asking, "Did I get the priorities done?"

The MEI team visit is less than a month away. Last minute panicking can be dangerous to the operation and morale of your section. Become an effective time manager today and heed Ben Franklin's words: "Dost thou love life? Then do not squandor time; for that's the stuff life is made of." Wasting time can become a part of your past. There's no need to become a clock watcher, but by re-examining the minutes used in any given day, you can get more done efficiently and effectively and at the same time become more successful.

packaging or in-spite of your efforts your child takes some type of poison; the following informaipecac for a child one year of age or older, plus at least one cup of water. NEVER SUBSTITUTE

Sunday through March 26 is Poison Prevention Week. During March, the pharmacy has been ,handing out poison prevention information to all interested persons. In addition the Pediatrics Clinic is supplying a bottle of ipecac to any family that has a child under 6 years of age and who does not have ipecac at home already.

The importance of this week is reflected in recent statistics from poison control centers regarding household products involved in serious injuries or illness among young children. Aspirin ingestions have declined 65 percent, lighter fluids by 74 percent, oven cleaners and other lye products by 66 percent, antifreeze solutions by 61 percent, and paint solvents by 55 percent. One of the key factors in these statics is the use of childresistant packaging. The programs and activities geared to making consumers aware of the abuse and misuse of household products have played a complementary role in this reduction.

If you fail to heed the use of child-resistant tion may help that child survive. Review it with all members of your family.

If you cannot get immediate help, the following safety measures may provide emergency relief.

In all cases except poisonous bites, the principles is GET THE POISON OUT or OFF or DILUTE it. Call Promptly for emergency help. Swallowed Poison

Dilute poison by giving water, one or two glassfuls.

Make patient vomit if so directed. But not if:

patient is unconscious of having seizures. swallowed poison was a strong corrosive (lye, strong acid, drain cleaner, etc.)

swallowed poison contains kerosene, gasoline, or other petroleum distillates (unless containing a dangerous pesticide or chemical which must be removed).

To induce vomiting:

Give one teaspoonful (1/2 ounce) of syrup of CARBONATED FLUIDS. If no vomiting occurs in 20 minutes, this does may be repeated only only. After vomiting has ceased, offer a slurry of activated charcoal (2-4 tablespoonfuls) in a glass of water.

If no ipecac syrup is available, try to induce vomiting by tickling back of throat with a spoon handle or other blunt object, after giving water.

Do not give salt or mustard to children.

Do not waste time waiting for vomiting, but transport patient promptly to a medical facility. Bring package or container with intact label.

Inhalation poisoning (gas, fumes, smoke)

Get into fresh clean air.

Loosen clothing.

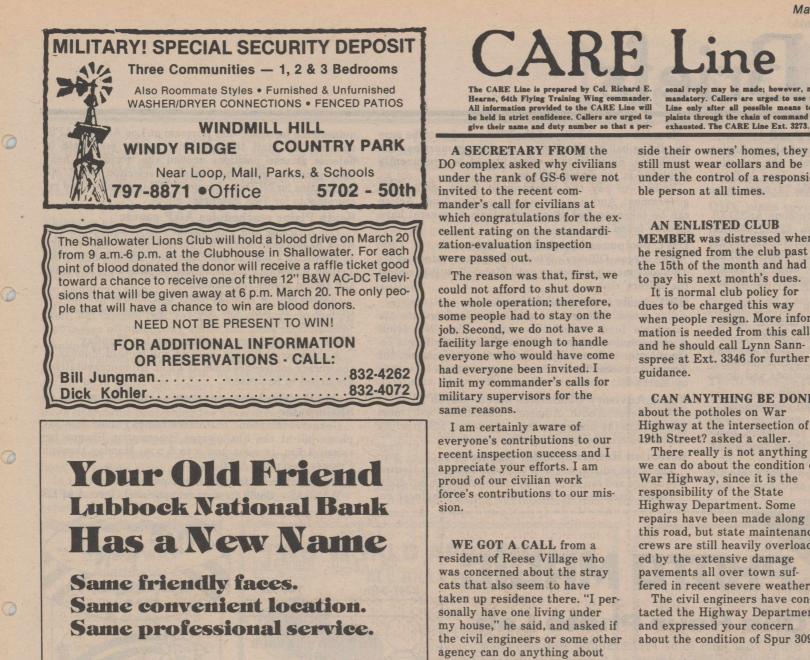

If not breathing, start artificial respiration promptly. Do not stop until breathing or help arrives.

Have someone else call for emergency help and transport to a medical facility promptly.

FINALLY, I'D LIKE TO pass on some comments from 1st Lt. Michael Baudhuin, who wrote to praise the hospital for the care he received during a recent stay there. He'd seen a lot of complaints in the paper about the hospital and wrote to "change the tone."

"I was surprised by the quality of care provided by the hospital, I did not expect the personnel to be so genuinely concerned with my well being. The nurses and technicians on all shifts were constantly checking in to adjust my medication or to see if they could make me more comfortable. If it looked as if I was sleeping, they left quietly without disturbing me.

"I was also surprised by the quality of the food, and was most impressed when the NCOIC of the kitchen, MSgt. (Ludwig J.) Bednar, stopped by to ensure that dinner was to my satisfaction. That type of personal pride shows in every meal served.

"If I should ever again find it necessary to stay in a hospital, I only hope that it will be in a facility where the personnel are as dedicated and as genuinely concerned as they are here at Reese. I would like to thank all of them for making my stay a little more pleasant.

What more can I add to that?

Several SRBs reduced, eliminated April 1

Air Force officials recently announced the reduction and elimination of the monies paid under the Selective Re-enlistment Bonus Program. Thirty-six Zone A, B and C career fields lost their bonus' while 14 more were reduced.

SRBs dropped from the program are Zone A: 251X0, 274X0, 302X0, 303X1, 423X0, 423X5, 427X1, 427X2, 427X4, 461X0, 542X1651, 651X0, 691X0, 751X2, 791X0; Zone B: 251X0, 274X0, 302X0, 313X1, 423X5, 431X0, 511X0, 545X1, 651X0, 733X1, 912X5; Zone C: 241X0, 274X0, 423X2, 427X5, 672X1, 672X2, 672X3, 691X0 and 733X1.

SRBs reduced are Zone A: 272X0, 304X1, 306X1, 324X0, 328X0, 423X4, 431X1, 554X0; Zone B: 328X0, 423X2, 423X4, 427X1; Zone C: 303X1 and 423X4.

If you are eligible to re-enlist and want to do so before March 31, contact Special Actions, Ext. 3823, immediately. Any questions about the SRB reductions and drops can be directed to the Special Actions Unit.

TDY orders make-up for dining hall surcharges

Several instances have surfaced recently where enlisted personnel on temporary duty have failed, some intentionally, to pay the surcharge for meals they ate in the Air Force dining halls.

That surcharge is re-imbursed in the per diem rate aid to the TDY member. Payment of the surcharge is also covered in the TDY orders.

It is the responsibility of the TDY member to be sure the dining hall cashier knows the member must pay the surcharge. Signs to that effect should be prominently displayed in the dining halls too.

Failure to pay the surcharge is fraud against the government. And, it is a waste of Air Force funds. Action can be taken against these individuals as several have already found out.

OWC postpones March 24 meeting

The Reese Officers' Wives' Club has postponed its Thursday morning meeting until March 31 at 9:30 a.m. at the officers' club.

OWC funds to be available soon

The Reese Officers' Wives' Club will distribute the charitable funds raised this year in May. Non-profit organizations may apply for the funds by writing a request letter to Laura Dockery, charitable treasurer, 101 Young, Lubbock, Texas 79416. Requests must be sent in by March 25.

Youth Advisory Committee meets March 28

The Reese Youth Advisory Committee will meet March 28 in the library conference room at 1:30 p.m. All committee members are urged to attend.

Retention Hotline open for business

The latest edition of the Worldwide Retention Hotline is recorded and can be heard by calling Autovon 487-3081. Topics discussed on the hotline concern engineer requirements for space test program at Los Angeles AFS; openings for staff through chief master sergeants in defense attache positions around the world; the next undergraduate pilot and navigator selection board; opportunities for NCOs to become PME instructors and requirements for T-38 instructor pilots.

ECON: everyone's business

Energy conservation should be on everyone's mind. Unfortunately, a lot of us are not as energy conscious as we should be. We have energy conservation goals that we must meet. It will take everyone's cooperation to meet these goals. One of the most obvious violations in our efforts to conserve energy can be seen in the housing area. Outdoor lights are being left on in some cases 24 hours a day. This can be easily corrected if housing residents would just make a check before bedtime to ensure their outdoor lights are turned off. Keeping the heat/air conditioning set at the proper levels will also save a lot of energy. On the base proper, these same two areas also need attention. Building custodians should make sure all nonessential lights are turned off prior to leaving. In addition, they should make sure thermostats are adjusted on weekends and holidays. All of us must become more energy conscious in everything we do. It's the little things that go a long way in saving energy. Be aware of them.

Take cover in place

by Disaster Preparedness

Tornadoes are serious business. Throughout the midwest and especially in the local area, tornadoes are common. So common that Reese is deeply inbedded in what has become affectionately known as "tornado alley."

Now and through mid-summer tornadoes will become a more noticeable threat than at any other time of the year. Reese has been lucky so far, but community members must not develop the attitude that "it'll never happen here.'

May 11, 1970, began as one of those typical West Texas days, but soon turned to a nightmare for the Lubbock area. The worst tornado to ever strike destroyed parts of Lubbock that even today bare the scars. The point, they strike more than once in a given area so you had better know where to go and what to do if one nears Reese.

Not worried? Several Reese airmen knew right where to go one spring evening last year when the area was under a tornado warning. They were so sure that they were beating on doors to get in to Building 930 at 10 p.m. No one was there to open the disaster had struck.

Tornado instructions: Take cover in place.

A tornado watch means conditions are favorable for a tornado to develop or tornado activity is expected.

A tornado warning means one has been sighted.

What you should do during a watch is monitor radios and TVs for weather updates. KFYO 790 reports official weather bureau information. TV stations will display a funnel cloud in the cor-doors. They might have died if | ner of the TV screen. If it is transparent there is a tornado watch; if darkened there is a tornado warning in effect.

> During a tornado warning stay inside your building. Your chances of injury or death are decreased. Listen to KFYO 790, tornado sightings and movements will be broadcast as they happen.

> If you hear a three to five minute siren it means a tornado has been sighted and Reese appears to be in its path. When you hear the siren, the roar of a tor cover in the strongest part of your residence or work area. Protect yourself from flying debris too.

Remember, avoid windows, get off the second floor of your building unless it is a three story barracks (Reese barracks must clear the third floor, but not the second) and take cover in the buildings center where the walls are strongest.

After the twister has passed stay calm, determine the extent of injuries and apply first aid if nado, or you see the funnel take possible. Always stay away from downed power lines, cooperate with first aid teams, security police and other damage assessement personnel. Do not leave your quarters until the security police announce that it is safe to do so.

The Reese Command Post will broadcast emergency information over the audio portion of private TV sets if they are on and connected to cable TV.

For more information about emergency tornado procedures contact Disaster Preparedness at Ext. 3703.

It's easy to see how the Lubbock community can affect the base and to feel the effects of Congress, but how can Reese be involved in the world affairs? The question can be directed to myself or any member of Reese's "flying team" because these people are directly involved with the International Training Office in the 64th Student Squadron. In the wider perspective, all personnel at Reese are in contact with members of other nations and have an important influence on their attitude about the U.S.

A common attitude by USAF members uninformed about security assistant is who really cares about the international students? Aren't they here for important U.S. training and as long as they get in what difference does their impression of the U.S. make? A very large one, indeed, it maybe the most important factor that the U.S. has going for it and, you make the difference. We should incorporate it within our military bearing. Why? What started this "good deal for foreigners"? To understand the "big picture" and how you fit in its imperative that we start from the top. The State Department develops the U.S. foreign policy in which the Security Assistance Program is a major instrument. The principal purpose is to further our own national security by assisting our allies and other friendly nations to develop and maintain the military capabilities required to defend themselves against external aggression and internal security threats. So far you have heard about programs that seem detached from your job and the Reese community. Well, Reese has an International Training Office which is a critical component to the successful accomplishment of the Security Assistance Program in general and the International Military Training Program in particular. The Reese community and you personally as a military or civilian member have a major opportunity to influence the student's perceptions and attitudes about America, its government, its people and our military. How you receive each international student and aid in his training, assist with problems, help him to adjust to cultural shock will form the basic frame of reference this individual will have about the U.S. and the military. Don't fool yourself by thinking we're the only trainers in the world. The USSR trains just as many as the U.S. does and your hospitality may make the difference on how these students' foreign governments decide on future political alignment or equipment acquisition.

Also remember the "human factor," these people may be culturally or religiously different, but they have the same feelings we do. Place yourself overseas, not on an American base, but in another country's facility learning to fly without using any English. Could you do it?

If you still don't think it "really matters" what these people think or how they are trained, let me finish by giving you a fact: out of the 600 military members of foreign countries that have gone through the Naval War College, 300 are now either major political or military leaders in their respective countries. These are the same people that are going through training today, so lets do it professionally as "Partners in Peace", Reese can affect world affairs.

sion at 11 a.m. or by appointment.

MONDAY: Evangelism training at 7 p.m.

TUESDAY: Protestant adult choir rehearsal, Catholic adult choir rehearsal and the Gospel Bible study all begin at 7 p.m.

WEDNESDAY: PYOC Bible study at 6:30 p.m. THURDSAY: Children's choir rehearsal at 4 p.m.

APRIL 19: The Reese Women of the Chapel have set their annual retreat date. The retreat will be in Slaton, Texas.

Carpools will form and leave from the base chapel at 9 a.m. Once in Slaton, participants will register for the retreat and be treated to refreshments.

Activities begin at 9:30 a.m. and end at 2:30 p.m. The Reese carpools will return around 3 p.m.

Child care arrangements will be provided for by the chapel fund, but reservations in advance are required. To sign up put your name on a special list at the chapel. For more information contact the chapel or Ann Fitzgerald.

The retreat is open to all women of the Reese community.

TONIGHT: At 7:30 see "I, the Jury" (R) starring Armand Assante and Barbara Carrera.

MARCH 30: Pen and ink class is back. The fourweek course starts tonight.

THROUGHOUT MARCH: All hardwoods sold at the center are marked 10 percent off and wood workers can buy unlimited use of the wood working shop for a $15 fee.

SHUTTLE CHANGES COMING: The shuttle bus that takes Reese community members to and from the South Plains Mall will change schedule April 1.

From April on, the shuttle service will no longer be provided on Tuesday evenings. Instead, the current Saturday schedule, leave at noon and return at 5:45 p.m., will be expanded to offer riders more options.

Since the bus will operate on Saturdays only, community members will be able to leave Reese at 10 a.m. Around 2 p.m. the bus will return to the base to pick up others wanting to go to the mall. Since the bus will return at 2 p.m., the new schedule will allow late Saturday sleepers to catch their zzz and still get to the mall. Early risers can go to the mall at 10 a.m. and return at 2 or 6 p.m.

Those choosing to return at 2 p.m. will have time to use other on-base recreation facilities before they close unlike what is offered under the current schedule.

The longer Saturday hours will allow more people to use the discount theater tickets sold at the recreation center.

DISCOUNT THEATER TICKETS: A major break through for movie goers here. The rec center has expanded its discount theater ticket service from the Mann Slide Road, UA and Fox theaters to include all Lubbock theaters. That means if you want to see a movie at Showplace Six or Winchester theaters discount tickets are now available.

TALENT SHOW TRYOUTS: The 1983 Reese Talent Show is just short of a week away. Tryouts for this year's show will be conducted Monday thgrough Wednesday. For more information contact the recreation center.

Now You Can Afford Second-Time Quality The First Time You Buy!

Many music lovers make the mistake of under-buying their first stereo system.

They make the mistake of shopping for 'discount' and 'specifications' instead of sound quality.

Later on, these music lovers often trade in their original purchase for world-famous Tandberg components.

This no longer has to happen!

Tandberg has recently reduced the price of their TR-3030 AM/FM stereo receiver. The Tandberg TR-3030 is an excellent performer, ideally suited to "first" systems. It sounds great, and offers styling, features, and quality construction not otherwise available in its price range.

At its original price, the Tandberg TR-3030 was an excellent value. At its new price, it's an even better value!

An Invitation . . .

Visit our store, and audition the Tandberg TR-3030. Listen to it on both records and FM stereo, and operate its straightforward controls.

Let us show you how Tandberg can help you make the right choice . . . the first time!

Reese sports in brief

Randolph earns 9th volleyball title

Randolph earned its ninth volleyball title in a row last week at Williams AFB, Ariz., host site of the 1983 ATC championships.

Of the three augmentees playing for Randolph, Reese's Tony Kuni and Larry Keene and Lackland's Ray Baker added to the nine-year champions firepower.

Baker and Keene were augmentees last year too. Keene said that Reese gave Randolph a better run for the money in the district championships here than did either of the other two district champions.

Keene did point out that as good as Reese is Randolph won the district and the command championships because they "are good."
