

Writing contest deadline nears

(ATCNS)—Persons who wish to compete in the third annual Ira C. Eaker Essay Competition have only a few weeks left to submit their entries.

June 1 is the entry deadline established earlier this year by the Air University Review, sponsor of the contest.

The competition, named after famed airpower pioneer and retired Air Force Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, is designed to foster a perception of military service as a calling.

Competition is open to all active members of the regular Air Force, Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, Air Force Academy and Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, Air Force Academy and Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps cadets, and Civil Air Patrol.

Entries must be original and specifically written for the contest. They should address such topics as professionalism, leadership, integrity, ethics and values, strategy and tactics, doctrine, esprit de corps, or any combination thereof.

The 2,000 to 4,000 word essays must be typewritten, double spaced and on standard size paper. A separate cover sheet should include the essay title, author's name, rank, and duty and home addresses and telephone numbers.

The author's name must not appear on the essay itself. The title should be repeated at the head of the first page of the essay.

Essays are submitted with the understanding that first publication rights belong to Air University.

First, second, and third-place medallions will be awarded, along with $2,000, $1,000 and $500 U.S. Savings Bonds. Distinguished Honorable Mention and Honorable Mention certificates will also be presented. Winning entries will be published in the Air University Review.

Entries should be sent to the Editor, Air University Review, Building 1211, Maxwell AFB, AL 36112.

Transportation Division sets Transportation Week; slates base-wide activities

by Capt. Pia Caruso
Transportation Division Chief

(Note: This is the first of three articles leading up to Transportation Week, May 16-20. Their purpose is to familiarize the base with local transportation support activities. The articles will deal with each of the three major functions of transportation: vehicle management, shipment of household goods and hold baggage, and mobility movements.)

The Vehicle Management and Maintenance complex offers a variety of services for base organizations. At Reese these services are effectively supplied by TECOM, Inc., a civilian contract firm.

The Vehicle Management section, managed by Jay Brock, offers base taxi services to all offices for both on-and off-base needs. Drivers assigned to this section make frequent trips to Cannon AFB, N.M., to pick up critically-needed parts delivered there through the LOGAIR system. Vehicle Management personnel also provide a U-Drive-It fleet that ranges from compact sedans and pickups to buses and tractor-trailers. It's available to all qualified drivers to supplement an organization's assigned fleet or to supply organizations that don't have vehicles assigned.

Vehicle Management also supports other missions; mobility contingency operations and MWR support, for example. We provide transportation for activities such as the Easter Seals Camp, Camp Blue Yonder, Girl and Boy Scouts, Vacation Bible School, honor guard activities and other functions to help promote Reese and the Air Force.

Another part of the Vehicle Management section, Driver Evaluations, screens and tests drivers prior to licensing on base.

The Vehicle Maintenance section, under Larry Lewis, provides maintenance support for all base vehicles. The section operates a Tire and Battery Shop, as well as minor maintenance facilities and a mobile maintenance truck, which both help provide for quick turnover of vehicles.

The major maintenance shops include General Purpose, Special Purpose, Refueling and Fire Truck Maintenance. These shops do the more complex maintenance jobs.

The Maintenance Control and Analysis section keeps organizations updated with information on vehicle status and other information for the management of individual fleets.

Two contests

During Transportation Week, the Transportation Division will sponsor two contests that all organizations are invited to participate in. Prizes will be awarded.

The first is an open-hood vehicles inspection to be judged by Col. John Hullender, base commander. Vehicle Control Officers should enter their best-looking vehicles in this competition. Judging will be held at 2 p.m. in the Vehicle Operations Yard.

The second competition will be a vehicle-backing contest using any of four different vehicles: ton-and-a-half truck, stake platform; multistop; 29-passenger bus; and 5-or 10-ton tractor trailer with 40-foot trailer.

Qualified drivers wishing to participate in this competition should complete an entry form on page 4 of this week's Roundup and send it to Vehicle Operations, Stop 22, Bldg. 461, by close-of-business May 16. Of course, in order to enter the competition driving a certain vehicle, drivers must be licensed to drive that vehicle.

Call me at Ext. 3358 for more information.

MERRY THOMAS repairs some damaged and built. Thomas is the daughter of SSgt. Donald and Merry Thomas of Reese.

Sixth-grader seeks state history honors with Indian village model

Merry L. Thomas, 12, daughter of SSgt. Donald and Merry Thomas, will leave before many Reese folks get up this morning to travel to Austin to compete for Texas honors in the National History Day events.

Things look bright for the sixth grader: She has already earned two ribbons and a medal for a project depicting an American Indian village she designed and built.

She won the first ribbon at Frenship Junior High School competing against members of the Junior Historians, students in the seventh and eighth grades (she had to get state-level permission to compete).

After Frenship she took the Regional History Fair to gain another ribbon for her hard work and research. In fact, several area residents and even some judges have urged her to place the display in the Texas Tech Museum of Natural Sciences after she meets the final competition.

She went to the Texas Junior Historian Convention in Fort Worth three weeks ago and returned with a first place medal for the individual category.

Part Cherokee Indian herself, Thomas had no difficulty picking her project. The choices were individual project, media representation or a research paper — she took the project.

Built of wire, wood, leather and various other materials she will set the project up tomorrow for National History Day judges. Her enthusiasm for the Indian culture goes beyond the required project; she has traced the movement of Indians over the last 10,000 years, designed teepees with real symbols on them, and written a research paper for additional project support. She also threw in that extra touch — a judges handbook that describes in pictures and words how she designed and built every part of her prize-winning Indian village.

If she wins in Austin, she will travel to national competition before retiring her project.

Very excited about her sixth grade project, Thomas is already looking to becoming a member of the Junior Historians and designing another project next year, but . . . "I plan to get started a lot earlier" next time, she said.

Commander urges AFA support

by Col. Richard E. Hearne
Wing Commander

For more than 35 years, the Air Force Association has led the fight for a strong national defense, and for a highly trained, well equipped Air Force. In support of these goals, AFA has consistently spoken out for better pay, housing, medical care and other entitlements for Air Force members.

Membership in AFA is open to all Air Force people. It is the only organization that represents the entire Air Force family—active duty, civilian, retired and reserve forces of all ranks and grades. The Association has long been regarded as the Air Force's professional society. Through its active Enlisted and Junior Officer Advisory Councils, AFA hears the needs of Air Force people, develops positions on those needs, and then fights for them.

Reese has a proud history of strong support for AFA during the annual membership drive. The decision to join or not to join is up to each individual. However, I would urge each person working here at Reese to find out more about AFA during the current membership drive. Then make your decision to join or not. To me, the monthly "Air Force Magazine" alone is worth the cost of an annual membership.

May prompts health awareness

by Col. Clint E. Chambers
Hospital Commander

May has been designated as Air Force Consumer Health Education Month. To help you, the consumer, be more aware, and better informed of ways in which to improve your health and overall physical being.

People in general are concerned with the way their bodies work and seek knowledge to maintain it in optimal condition. It may last you a hundred years or so with the advances in medical science.

The body itself has basic needs for exercise, nutrition and rest. These are factors which each of us must balance in our lives to make our bodies last longer and maintain our health at the highest possible level.

Exercise is beneficial to the entire body. Not only does it enhance the cardiovascular system, it tones up the muscles. If done properly, exercise will give you a brighter outlook on life and raise your energy level. Thought should be given to this aspect of health, it should be started slowly and increased gradually as your system adjusts. Nothing will bring a good exercise program to a screeching halt quicker than sore muscles.

Nutrition is a popular subject with many people. The dietary guidelines for Americans and suggestions for food choices include seven factors. Follow these instead of the fad diets which could ruin your health. These seven factors are:

Eat a variety of foods daily. Include fruits and vegetables, whole grain and enriched breads and cereals, milk and milk products, meats, fish, poultry and eggs, and dried peas and beans everyday.

Maintain your ideal weight: increase physical activity, reduce calories by eating fewer fatty foods and sweets, and avoid too much alcohol—lose weight gradually.

Avoid too much fat, saturated fat, and cholesterol. Choose low-fat protein sources such as lean meats, fish, poultry, dry peas and beans; use eggs and organ meats in moderation; limit intake of fats on and in foods; trim fats from meats; broil, bake or boil—don't fry; read food labels for fat contents.

Eat foods with adequate starch and fiber: Substitute starches for fats and sugars; select whole grain breads and cereals, fruits and vegetables, dried beans and peas, and nuts to increase fiber and starch intake.

Avoid too much sugar. Use less sugar, syrup, and honey, and cut down on sweets like candy, soft drinks and cookies. Select fresh fruits or fruits canned in light syrup or their own juices. Read food labels—sucrose, glucose, dextrose, maltose, lactose, fructose, syrups and honey are all sugars; eat sugar less often to reduce dental cares.

Avoid too much sodium: Reduce salt used in cooking and add little or no salt at the table. Cut back on salty foods like potato chips, pretzels, salted nuts; popcorn, condiments, cheese, pickled foods and cured meats. Read food labels for sodium or salt contents, especially in processed and snack foods.

Rest is important for both psychological and physiological health. Most people who exercise regularly and eat well balanced diets in reasonable amounts will also sleep better.

Preventive maintenance is just as important for your body as it is for your car. Regular health and dental checks and current immunizations will not only help you avoid a serious illness, but will contribute to your peace of mind and happiness.

CARE Line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. Richard E. Hearne, 64th Flying Training Wing commander. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line Ext. 3273.

WE HAD A NUMBER of calls about no hot water in Dormitory 230 during a weekend last month. A couple of the calls indicated a belief by some people that CE service call personnel "had no concern to get the hot water fixed and that it wasn't important" to them, judging from the CE weekend work schedule.

What happened was that the boiler failed on the Friday afternoon in question. The CE Service Call section was contacted and responded the same day. Service personnel tried to isolate the cause of the "flame failure" but found that, when they tried to cause another failure, the boiler worked properly every time.

On Saturday, shop personnel checked the boiler again and found another flame failure. This time, they replaced some of the parts, including the pilot light assembly, and the system was working again. They made several more checks throughout the day and adjusted the pilot light on Sunday. By the end of the week, no more problems had been reported.

The CE service number is Ext. 3647 and is in operation 24 hours a day, seven days a week. During normal working hours, calls to this number are received at Building 553, where the Service Call shop is located, and at the Fire Station during other than normal duty hours. The phone extension is the same in both cases.

During normal duty hours, on-duty CE personnel, respond to service calls. After normal duty hours, CE personnel who are on standby for emergencies respond to them. These standby personnel are not shift personnel but are people from each shop who work normal hours and then are assigned to standby as an additional duty. CE isn't manned to provide full crews 24 hours a day. This is why after-hours responses are usually limited to emergencies only.

I think that, judging by the description of the CE response to this situation, you can agree that CE personnel do care about the living conditions in the dormitories.

ANOTHER CALL CAME FROM someone concerned about the use of child restraint seats on base. She asked if the base couldn't enforce a mandatory-use rule for these seats.

We would if we could, but we can't. We can't make people use these seats unless we provide them free of charge or until state law requires their use.

Which isn't to say that we don't fully endorse and encourage their use by every driver with children. Consider these facts provided by the Wing Safety Office:

- In a sudden stop or crash, momentum can cause a 20-pound baby to weigh 400 pounds or more. No one can hold that much weight. And, if you're not belted in yourself, your momentum could crush the child against the dashboard.

- Car accidents are the leading cause of death for children under five years of age, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

A CALLER ASKED WHY military people need membership cards to enter the enlisted open mess.

Use of the club is restricted to the membership at times other than during essential meal times and during commander-designated official military functions. So it's not completely closed off to non-members. Persons eligible to join cannot, however, use the club as guests of other members. Enlisted people who haven't joined the club should consider the benefits to be gained from a $4 a month membership charge:

- First month's dues free;
- Check-cashing privileges;
- Charge privileges;
- Low-cost dining specials;
- Two-for-one steak night;
- Party facilities;
- Entertainment;
- A place to meet with your friends.

Four dollars is not a lot to pay for a person who wants to use the club. And the income generated by these dues goes a long way to support the club's activities.

A RESIDENT OF REESE VILLAGE complained that the tar used to seal cracks in the streets is "ruining everything" from "clothing to the linoleum and wood floors." He wondered if putting down a layer of gravel to cover the tar might help.

The caller is correct in that the asphalt crack sealant is sticky and messy. However, to get a good seal on the cracks, the sealant has to start out this way to allow for a curing process and to give the asphalt room to expand and contract. If we hadn't done this last fall, the streets in the Village would be in much worse shape than they are now because of the hard winter we experienced and the number of freeze-thaw cycles.

Putting gravel down wouldn't help much either, since you'd simply have pebbles coated with tar all over the place (just ask someone who was here last summer when all the parking lots were repaved).

Don't wipe noses on table cloth when eating at Enlisted Dining-in

In the hope of staging an event that will reflect creditably upon Reese and the Air Force as a whole, the NCO Academy Graduates Association, sponsors of the Enlisted Dining-In June 3, at the Enlisted Open Mess, provide the following rules of genteel decorum for such events.

Rules of the Mess

Members of the Mess should: Direct their respects to the Honored Guests on arrival; come neatly dressed, with coats and shoes; and not enter the room in a half-drunken condition;

Not, while at table, tilt up their chairs, or rock themselves therein, nor stretch their legs at full length;

Not drink at each mouthful, for if they do they get tipsy too soon; nor empty the goblet to the extent of more than one-half after each dish; and they should wipe their mouths and moustaches in a cleanly manner.

Neither are they to thrust their hands into the dishes, nor throw bones under the table;

Nor to lick their fingers, nor to expectorate in their plates, nor to wipe their noses on the tablecloth;

Nor to drink so beastly as to fall from their chairs and make themselves incapable of walking straight.

No drinks will be carried into the Mess except at the end of recess.

No smoking until the smoking lamp is lit.

Do not leave the Mess until permission is indicated by the President.

A member desiring to propose an informal toast will stand and state, "Mr. Vice, point of order!" Mr. Vice will then ask the member to propose the appropriate toast. Toasts will be to persons only, never to places or things. All toasts will be in good taste. Responses to all informal toasts will be "Hear, hear!"

Guests are not permitted to criticize the Mess, under penalty of arousing the enmity of members of the Mess.

Wine glasses will be "charged" prior to toasts being proposed.

Glasses of water will be provided at all place settings. These may be used for those not wishing to drink or toast with alcoholic beverages.

Everyone will stand when the Mess is reconvened and being formally closed.

In an atmosphere of good cheer and fellowship, all members are invited to enjoy themselves and to participate in all of the aforementioned festivities to the fullest.

Rules of the Grog Bowl

Persons being directed to the Grog Bowl will station themselves in front of the Bowl facing the Head Table.

Salute the Head Table (Brig. Gen. Thomas J. Hickey).

Select a full cup of Grog, execute about face, raise the cup and say, "To the Mess," and then drink. Turn the empty cup upside down over the head and brink the cup down.

Salute the Mess, execute about face, salute the head table and return to your seat.

Omission of any of the aforementioned steps will occasion a repetition of the entire procedure.

Reese OWC donates $8,485 to charities

Hard work and several fun fund-raising events have helped the Reese Officers' Wives' Club add almost $8,500 to several charity budgets during 1982-83.

"The total donations, $8,485, represents a record. Last year's donations amounted to $5,250," said Laura Dockery, OWC charitable treasurer.

Of the $8,485, better than $3,300 found its way to Reese organizations, three high school military dependents will be getting a $500 scholarship each, $1,000 will go to the Air Force Village and more than $2,500 will go to Lubbock charities and various organizations. The remaining funds have been donated to three military related charities.

The OWC executive board extended thanks to the general membership and especially the Reese community for all their help in making fund-raising events like the Christmas bazaar, art auction and Thrift Shop such a big success.

Consumer Health Education Month follows "Win with Wellness"

by Capt. Carolyn Jaskowiec
Health Education Coordinator

May 1983 has been designated Consumer Health Education Month by Lt. Gen. Max B. Brallair, Air Force surgeon general.

The slogan for this year's observance is "Win with Wellness," and a total effort toward people's changing their lifestyles to improve personal health is the goal.

Some of the activities planned for the Reese observance of Consumer Health Education Month are a walk-a-thon planned by the gym, and aerobics classes which are already in progress.

Food items that are low in fat, cholesterol, sodium and sugar will be identified in the commissary and clubs by "Healthy Heart" labels.

The base library will display books promoting health and fitness.

The gist of Consumer Health Education Month is that people with medical problems should be fully informed. When you know about your problem, you can become independent and in control of yourself much faster; you can limit side effects by knowing what to look out for and what to do; and you can set your own health goals.

Consumer health education helps you gain the knowledge and know-how to take responsibility for your own health and well-being.

The Air Force Consumer Health Education Program can help. Programs on such health topics as stopping smoking, obesity, high blood pressure, and diabetes are available.

Call me at Ext. 3242 for more information.

Drunk drivers

How do cops spot them?

(ATCNS) — How do law enforcement officers spot the intoxicated driver? It's easy when you know the cop's list of telltale signs.

Drunk drivers have difficulty controlling their vehicles. Even a little alcohol impairs motor skills and judgment.

As a result, cops watch for the following behavior:

- Turning in a wide radius.
- Straddling the center or lane marker.
- Weaving and swerving.

•Driving on an other-than-designated roadway.

•Slow speed (more than 10 mph below limit).

•Stopping without apparent cause in a traffic lane.

•Following too closely.

•Braking erratically.

•Signalling inconsistent with driving actions.

•Slow response to traffic signals.

•Rapid acceleration or deceleration.

•Driving with headlights off.

What are the odds you'll collide with a drunk? About 50-50, says the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. NHTSA statistics show that half of all Americans will be involved in an alcohol-related accident during their lifetime.

Here's another tip to trip the odds in your favor. Avoid driving on weekends between the hours of 7 p.m. and 3 a.m. One out of every 10 drivers on the road at that time is either legally impaired or drunk, according to statistics.

AN IRRATIONAL REASON TO BUY A VOLVO.

Over the years, Volvo has come to be known as one of the most sensible cars you can own.

But now we have a Volvo even for those to whom practicality takes second place.

The new Volvo GLT.

The GLT is available with a fuel-injected, overhead-cam, turbo-charged engine that can propel the car from 0-60 in 9.6 seconds. And its handling offers a feature even harder to find: predictability. It not only presents you with no surprises, it can actually improve your performance.

So before you purchase a performance car, stop in to test-drive the new Volvo GLT. The pure exhilaration you'll feel may have little to do with logic. But if your heart insists on a GLT, relax.

Your mind will be getting a Volvo.

VOLVO
A car you can believe in.
