

Reese plans Mini-Open House

Reese will celebrate Armed Forces Week, Sunday through May 21, with a Mini-Open House May 20.

The Mini-Open House is being sponsored in conjunction with the graduation of Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 83-05 in the base theater at 10 a.m. and Tactical Air Command Career Day at Reese. The pilot training graduation is open to the public, but seating in the base theater is limited and preference will be given to families and friends of the graduates.

About a dozen Tactical Air Command aircraft will be on static display on the Reese flightline and open for the general public to visit during the hours of 1-4 p.m.

The static display aircraft will include some of the Air Force's latest fighter aircraft such as the F-15 "Eagle", the F-16 "Fighting Falcon", and the A-10 "Thunderbolt", and some "old-timers" such as the A-7, the RF-4 and F-4 "Phantom". Also on display will be the F-111D, the O-2, OV-10, OA-37, the T-33, an AT-38 and Reese's own T-37 and T-38.

The Mini-Open House format was adopted by Reese oficials when the 1983 schedule for the Thunderbirds, the U.S. Air Force's crowd pleasing Aerial Demonstration Team was announced and Reese was not on the schedule. There will be no flying activities during the Mini-Open House, but visitors will be able to visit the static display aircraft up close.

Reese will sponsor a second Mini-Open House on September 30, 1983, in conjunction with Undergraduate Pilot Training Career Day. That event will also feature aircraft from the Tactical Air Command, but with the addition of as many as two dozen other multi-engine aircraft from the Military Airlift and Strategic Air Commands.

Although Reese Air Force Base, Texas, is not one of the bases scheduled to host a Thunderbird aerial demonstration, the Public Affairs Office has received many calls for information about their 1983 schedule.

This is the first year that the Thunderbirds will be flying the F-16, the Air Force's newest fighter aircraft. Due to the great interest in the Thunderbirds, the following schedule of performances within a day's drive of the Reese AFB-South Plains area is provided:

May 22, Randolph AFB, San Antonio, Texas

August 14, Bergstrom AFB, Austin, Texas

September 10, El Paso, Texas

September 11, El Paso, Texas

October 8, Kirtland AFB, Albuquerque, New Mexico

October 9, Tinker AFB, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

October 29, Holloman AFB, Alamogordo, New Mexico

the U.S. Army's Golden Knights parachute demonstration team will join the Thunderbirds during their October 29 show. In addition, the Golden Knights will perform at Dyess AFB, Abilene, Texas, May 21.

For more information about any of the dates or events listed above, contact the respective base public affairs office, or the El Paso Chamber of Commerce in the case of the September 10 and 11 shows.

For information about either of Reese's Mini-Open Houses or Thunderbird shows not listed here, contact the Reese Public Affairs Office at 806-885-3410.

AF Aid Society accepts applications for school

The Air Force Aid Society is accepting applications for guaranteed student loans for the 1983-84 academic year for undergraduate, graduate and advanced technical training. Application forms may be obtained from Air Force Aid Society Sections and Education offices here, or by contacting AFAS National Headquarters, 1735 N. Lynn St., #202, Arlington, VA 22209, (202) 696-5238. From military installations calls may be made to Autovon 226-5238.

The society sponsors Guaranteed Student Loans under 2 programs. The General George S. Brown Senior Student Loan Program is available to active duty members, retirees, reservists, spouses and selected categories of individuals working toward commissioning in the Air Force. The General Henry H. Arnold Student Loan Program is available to children of Air Force members. Each program offers loans to cover educational costs, including tuition and fees, room and board, books and supplies, personal needs and transportation.

The minimum loan under these programs is $500. The annual loan limits are:

- $1,250 for an undergraduate student who is attending less than full-time (Brown Program only).
- $2,500 for a full-time undergraduate student.
- $2,500 for a graduate student who is attending less than full-time, and
- $5,000 for a full-time graduate student.

Arnold applicants must be enrolled as full-time students and Brown applicants must be enrolled on at least a half-time basis. The institution must be approved by the U.S. Department of Education.

Aggregate or accumulated loan limits are $12,500 for an undergraduate student and $25,000 for a graduate student. The aggregate amount for graduate students includes outstanding amounts which the student borrowed as an undergraduate.

Loan repayment begins after a six-month grace period following the student's graduation or termination of studies. Interest on the loan is paid by the government on behalf of the student until loan repayment starts. Currently, the interest rate for all new borrowers is 9 percent. It is probable that this will drop to 8 percent in October 1983. Interest rates for those with prior loans remains the same as for their earlier loans. There is also a 5 percent origination fee that is deducted from the loan proceeds prior to the student's receipt of the loan check.

Under federal rules, eligibility is based on need. When the student's family has an adjusted gross income of less than $30,000, the student is automatically eligible for loans to cover the cost of education up to the annual loan limits. Where the family's adjusted gross income is greater than $30,000 an expected family contribution is calculated by the school financial aid officer; and the difference between the cost of education and the family contribution is the amount of the loan. AFAS officials encourage interested students—regardless of financial position—to apply and discuss their eligibility with the school's financial aid officer.

AFAS officials expect many applications and advise candidates to submit completed applications as soon as possible. Although the processing time varies, applicants should expect to wait at least 12-14 weeks from the date of application approval by AFAS headquarters to receipt of their first check.

CAPT. PIA L. CARUSO AND SrA. Mark A. McCubbins take a look at some literature pertinent to their jobs. Capt. Pia Caruso, chief of the Transportation Division here, was picked as the Outstanding Transportation Officer (Captain-Lieutenant Colonel) for Air Training Command; while Airman McCubbins, freight traffic specialist, was chosen ATC's Outstanding Transportation Airman. The names of both people will go forward for consideration in the Air Force-wide competition.

Commander supports AFA

General Ryan

by Gen. Thomas M. Ryan Jr.

Commander, Air Training Command

For more than 35 years, the Air Force Association has led the fight for a strong national defense and for a highly trained, well-equipped Air Force. In support of these goals, AFA has consistently spoken out for better pay, housing, medical care and other entitlements for Air Force members.

The AFA is currently sponsoring its membership drive throughout the Air Force, and AFA volunteers will be contacting many of you, asking for your membership. The decision to join or not to join, of course, is strictly voluntary.

I urge all ATC members to become familiar with the goals of your Air Force Association and to remember the benefits that have accrued to the Air Force and the nation because of AFA's strong support. Its ability to continue in turn depends on your support.

Capt. Edward Gorczyca

64th Field Maintenance Squadron Commander

An article written ten years ago by Capt. James Pool, a Quality Control officer at Lockbourne AFB, Ohio, has a message that is both humorous and serious toward all the maintenance people. It concerns MSEP, the Maintenance Standardization and Evaluation Program, that gives a maintenance manager a method to evaluate the quality of unit maintenance. The MSEP objective is to evaluate maintenance technician proficiency and the condition of unit equipment. The parable that follows is updated, but the message is as old as the B-52.

And it came to pass in those days that there was a great multitude of knucklebusters from the tribes of OMS and FMS and they suffered great tribulation and gnashing of teeth after doing battle with the sons of MSEP. But these men were mighty warriors with great pride. They could smite the boat tail with the opener. They could reveal untold secrets from the great white bird through magical inspection mirrors; verily, they became masters of the ancient phase deck puzzles. It became known in the land that the sons of FMS wielded great power to fix Red and send for the fine chariots of AGE. It is even written that the land of Propulsion was filled with bright shining engines of the family of spare, that even the sons of QC could not bring down.

But, lo, there came to the land of DCM a pestilent plague. Certain wise men made a great wailing that this plague would consume all the good works of the people of maintenance. This plague was named "hurry." The plague of Hurry was visited on the heads of the sons of the DCM, and on his sons' sons. It madeth the screw to not be turned, and causedeth the safety wire verily to be absent from its appointed component. Yea, and truly, a myriad of small works were signed off on the scroll of the 349 without their ordained completion. And the DCM came, and he spake to the assembled prayer meetings. "This Hurry is a plague unto my house; it is a blot upon my sons and their sons. This Hurry causeth my CMA to be like unto a joke, and my 349 to be like a riddle. I say unto you, laying up these pencil whippings shall cause great mourning and tearing of hair when the day comes. These poorly completed CMAs are like a skelton unto my closet, for surely they will be found by the sons of MSEP."

And the men of maintenance heard his words, and the sons of OMS and FMS harkened to his sayings. And they said one to another, "Surely the DCM speaketh the truth, for it is written, do it right the first time, and your reward shall be great, with much praise, and extra time to spend in the deep dark places which flow rivers of beer." Yet there were foolish ones who turned not their ears to the wise words of their DCM. And the plague visited them anew, and they Hurried yet more. Great was the whipping of their pencils upon the scroll of the 349, and many were the jobs left half-finished.

And it is told in song and story that the copies of 2416 were as many as the leaves in the autumn. And to those who did follow the sayings of the DCM and did use the data of the technical, there were many blessings showered, and their records did overflow with "Passed" ratings. And to those who had whipped with their pencils, and taken the easy way, there came great affliction, and they smote themselves, and dressed in sackcloth and ashes, because they were found out.

So I say unto you, though this is a parable which causeth a slight chuckle, think about it and be a maintenance professional.

Supervisors, can you pass?

by 2nd Lt. Bob Pullings
Chief, Social Actions

As a Social Actions officer, I have found that the most repeated questions I answer come from supervisors who want to know what to look for in their personnel concerning alcohol and drug abuse.

There is no specific signal that flashes like a neon light when drug or alcohol abuse is involved. We are all individuals who react differently to various stresses, pressures and daily occurrences. One person abusing a substance might deteriorate into a sub-standard performer who is constantly in trouble, while another person might show few if any indicators.

This is where your role as a supervisor becomes critical. You must know your people. Maintaining only a superficial relationship with your workers can affect you, your personnel and ultimately the mission itself.

The following quiz is provided for you to use as a general reference when you suspect alcohol or drug abuse. It is by no means to serve as the final authority for you to determine if a substance is involved or as a judgment against a worker. It is intended for you to use as a tool; a point at which you can start with some specific questions. Remember, too, that it doesn't include all indicators of a substance abuse problem. It would be impossible to list them all since we are all individuals and behave differently.

Circle the appropriate response to each statement.

If you answered yes to any of the questions it's time to sit down and have a talk with this person. The problem could be simple and easily solved in your discussion. It is your job to go forward and confront. Workers will not always come to you with their problems.

Or, it could be an indicator of a substance-abuse problem. If you feel this is the case discuss the matter with your supervisor or unit commander. They can help make the final determination if Social Actions should become involved.

If you answered no to all of the questions do not be fooled into thinking that all is well. These questions are a reference and not an all-inclusive list of what might indicate a substance abuse problem. Use your own knowledge of the situation and ask some of your own questions.

Finally, if you answered I don't know to any of the questions you should sit down and have a talk with yourself. You're definitely getting shortchanged . . . and so are those you supervise.

National Transportation Week begins Monday with BX display

National Transportation Week, Monday through May 20, the 64th Transportation Division will sponsor several events to make everyone more aware of the transportation mission.

The security police will pay close attention to each driver's record as they check their citations against those listed on each of the records at the base drivers' school to identify those individuals with bad driving records.

Other events planned during the week include a transportation display in the base exchange mall area with a transportation member there from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. daily.

On Wednesday and Thursday there will be transportation films shown in the officers' club reception room from noon-1 p.m. Also Wednesday the vehicle backing competition and the open hood vehicle inspection begin at the vehicle operations compound at 2 p.m.

Thursday there will be an "Easy Move" seminar in the deputy commander for operations conference room at 3:30 p.m.

In conjunction with the increased emphasis on transportation, the Traffic Management Office has provided the following PCS checklist to help those involved in a PCS move make it more easily.

□ Arrange an early appointment with your transportation office for a thorough counseling on rights, privileges, entitlements, and moving or storage requirements.

□ Go through the house from attic to basement—even the garage. Itemize needed items and those that can be discarded. Remember, you pay the packing and transportation costs of household goods in excess of your weight allowance.

□ Send out items for cleaning, e.g., rugs, carpets, draperies, and similar items. You might want to consider a contractor for general house-cleaning services.

□ Arrange to ship, take them with you, or dispose of pets, plants, and perishables. The household goods carrier will not ship these items.

□ Assemble valuables such as cash, jewelry, and items from safe deposit boxes. These should be carried along with personal records. Separate these from household goods so the packers will not accidentally pack them.

□ Obtain all family personal records such as medical, dental, school, birth, marriage, and other important documents that may be needed at the next duty station. Don't forget PCS orders, ticket reservations, travelers' checks, passports, and checkbooks. Packers have been known to pack these items, and it could be costly to you for the carrier to find them.

□ Call the local moving agent. Obtain the telephone number from the transportation office, and make arrangements for a premove survey prior to packing and pickup dates.

□ Complete change-of-address notices and mail them. Notify the local post office of your new address.

□ Close out local charge accounts, utilities, and other services.

□ On moving day, both member and spouse should be present during all phases of the move. If there are questions before, during, or after the move, see or call the transportation officer.

May 25-26 with a PCS date in October-December 1983.

The first week in September with a PCS date in January-March 1984.

The first week in December with a PCS date in April-June 1984.

The first week in March 1984 with a PCS date in July-September 1984.

The following block of aircraft are available for fiscal 1984 assignments: F-16 (21), F-15 (30), A-10 (17), F-4 (16), FB-111 (4), B-52 (9), KCC-135 (35), EC-135 (2), C-9 (7), C-141 (17), C-5 (55), C-140 (1), F-111 (1), EF-111 (5), RF-4 (15), E3A (8), Trainer (50), C-130 (41) and Helo (10).

All officers should be sure they have a current Air Force Form 90 that reflects their preferences. The updated AF form should be done at least 30 days prior to their board date.

Will you be able to re-enlist? Find out now

Unfilled retraining objectives in shortage skills and the anticipation that airmen with a fiscal 1983 date of separation currently on the waiting list will not be able to re-enlist in their present skills has led to temporary changes in retraining policy for first-term airmen in Career Job Reservation Waiting List Skills whose DOS is Sept. 30 or earlier say Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center officials at Randolph AFB, Texas.

There are approximately 350 shortage-skill technical school retraining seats yet to be filled for fiscal 1983. Retraining applications for those class seats will be filled on a first come, first served basis. Once the seats are filled retraining opportunity for these airmen will be over and it is highly probable that those without an approved retraining CJR will be separated.

This temporary change does not affect airmen with a DOS of Oct. 1, or later. For complete details contact SSGT Major Hall at Ext. 3168.

Girl Scouts plan Tuesday program at theater

The Girl Scouts will have their next program at the Simler theater Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

During the program a slide show depicting the various aspects of Girl Scouting will be shown. The meeting is open to all girls interested in scouting and all potential adult volunteers.

WAPS testing policy clarified

Individuals competing for promotion are scheduled for testing using the standard notification letter printed on Air Force Form 1566. Individuals must acknowledge receipt of the form and make the decision to test or decline.

Those who indicate they wish to test, but fail to show up for the testing appointment are reported to their unit commanders. A determination is then made regarding the validity of the no show.

The individual will then be rescheduled for the test or denied eligibility for promotion.

WAPS testing is considered a military formation and therefore, anyone testing must report in uniform.

Commissary cuts back on actual shopping hours

Due to an Air Force-wide shortage of operations and maintenance funds the Reese commissary has had to reduce operation hours by four hours per week. Beginning Tuesday, instead of opening at 9 a.m. Tuesday-Friday, the commissary will open at 10 a.m.

Service awards go to 11 Reese civilians

Civilian length of service awards, presented on a quarterly basis, were presented to 11 Reese individuals. The awards are given in honor of 10, 20 and 30 years of service.

Ten year awards went to Evangelin Anguiano, Richard M. Esparza, Kim R. Hoopes and Leonard D. Trotter.

Twenty year awards went to Clyde L. Hance, Jesse A. Madry and Marie Williams.

Thirty year awards went to Fidelis J. Fetsch, William Karon, Homer L. McKee and Joe D. Greer.

Base commander to conduct behind-the-lines tour

Reese dependent spouses can get a behind-the-scenes look at base facilities and operations they might otherwise never see May 23. Col. John R. Hullender, base commander, will conduct a tour, which begins at 9 a.m. in Room 204, Building 800, with a mission briefing.

The tour is scheduled to end around 3:30 p.m. Due to limited transportation, the tour will be limited to the first 60 people who sign up. In order to finalize tour arrangements, those planning to attend should call 885-3520 or 885-3655 by noon May 20 for reservations.

Parking will be available in the chapel parking lot and spouses with small children should make early reservations with the Child Care Center for child care.

Welcome home Colonel Hearne

There will be a western-style "welcome home" party for Wing Commander Col. Richard E. Hearne May 21 at the officers' club.

The party and dinner begin at 6:30 p.m. with cocktails and dinner a half hour later. Cost is $7.75 per person and everyone is invited to attend. Casual western dress will be appropriate, especially following dinner.

There will be a western music band playing for the Reese crowd to dance to. If you need a little help with western dancing, lessons will be available on the spot.

Deadline for making your reservations is noon May 20. To make reservations contact your division representative.

Dust Busters offer aviation excitement

The Reese Dust Busters Aero Club wants you—all military, retired military, dependents and DOD civilians—at their Wednesday afternoon meeting. The 2 p.m. meeting is slated to be held in the 35th Flying Training Squadron briefing room. All questions about the upcoming meeting or the aero club can be directed to Lt. Col. Virgil Kennedy at Ext. 3100.

Volunteer program seeks new applicants

Are you at least 14 years old? A dependent of an active duty or retired military member? Dependable? Anxious to learn? Courteous, neat, clean and pleasant? If you can say yes to these questions, then the Red Cross is looking for you.

Applications for Red Cross positions are available at the hospital's reception desk. The applications must be completed and returned to the hospital reception desk by May 27. Be sure that when you return the application your parent or legal guardian has signed it.

Orientation for the new positions is set for June 6 from 9 a.m. - noon at the hospital library. Questions may be directed to Nancy Johnson at 794-3620.

Camp Blue Yonder seeks volunteers for August

Approximately 10 counselors per session are needed for the 1983 Camp Blue Yonder sponsored by Reese. To become a volunteer counselor contact 2nd Lt. Greg Ball at Ext. 3953.

Camp Blue Yonder is a day camp for children from low socio-economic families. The boys will have their week-long camp August 1-5; the girls will spend their week at Reese August 8-12.

Lieutenant Ball explained that volunteer counselors must have their commander's backing because it is a permissive TDY. Lieutenant Ball added that he wants to know of all volunteers by the first week of June in order to pick which counselors are best for the job.

After his selections are made, each of the 1983 camp counselors will attend an orientation meeting in the training room of Supply, Building 250, June 15.

In July, counselors will prepare for the camp by attending training sessions on July 1, July 15 and a first aid class on July 22.

Rabies on the rise

The National Society for Medical Research Bulletin reports that documented animal rabies cases in the United States have more than doubled over the last three years with total cases in 1981 numbering 7,211. Since January alone, 12 animal rabies cases have been documented in the Midland, Texas area.

Domestic animals accounted for only 15 percent of the 1981 rabies cases; the remaining 85 percent were cases of rabies in wild animals, with bats and skunks accounting for more than half of the cases.

With the advent of spring and the closing of schools for summer vacation, more children will be coming in contact with tame and wild animals, especially smaller animals such as skunks, jackrabbits, prairie dogs and stray cats and dogs.

Children should be warned never to approach any wild or stray animal, no matter how "cute", especially one that is acting strangely — showing no fear of humans is often a symptom of animal rabies.

Defense health system works with new zip code zones

"Nobody likes driving so far to get medical care, but costs are terribly high these days, and I guess if we want to keep our health benefits intact, we're going to have to help out a bit."

The willing-to-help attitude of the military dependent who made that statement reflects one response of service families across the country to an important cost-saving change in their health benefits program. On Jan. 1, 1983, the health care zones around uniformed services hospital changed from a rough 40-mile radius, by air, to a computerized system of zip code zones. Military families who live within one of the zip codes which fall within the Reese area must get their non-emergency inpatient medical care at that facility—unless the care simply isn't available there.

When Reese hospital can't provide the needed care, it will issue a "nonavailability statement", and patients can then seek care from civilian sources. They may then file a claim with CHAMPUS for sharing of the cost of their care.

In some circumstances, Reese hospital may offer the patient air-evac (aeromedical evacuation) to another military hospital which can provide the required care.

Fast-rising health care costs in the civilian sector have forced the increased use of military medical facilities. Using military hospitals and clinics, instead of CHAMPUS, saves money for service families and for the government.

With the new zip code system, military health benefits advisors around the country report that active-duty families, and retirees and their families, are generally accepting the change with good spirits. They appear to recognize that this nationwide change is intended to help contain health care costs to try to avoid cutting medical benefits.

They will be playing in the City Championship to be held at the Eagles Lodge Sunday.

Eye safety first!

Some 40 million Americans now play racquet sports—tennis, racquetball, squash, paddleball. In some of these sports the ball can come hurtling toward the eye at 140 miles per hour. Not surprisingly, then, these sports result in an estimated 70,000 eye injuries annually. Your best bet: Wear some kind of protective goggles.

"Without these goggles, available at athletic shops, or impact-resistant eyeglasses mounted in a flexible sports frame, one is risking all kinds of eye injuries—even blindness," says professor of ophthalmology Ronald Burde at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis.

An ideal eye guard with strong, lightweight polycarbonate lenses is available, says Burde. It costs about $40 for a nonprescription lens. He cautions players to avoid the chaper eye guards that cover only part of the eye. If the ball strikes head on, it could squeeze through an opening and damage the eye.

An avid squash player, Burde proved the value of protective eye gear when he convinced his club to institute a mandatory eye-guard rule. Eye injuries fell from 150 a year to under five.

Odum builds future in muscle

Juan Odum—by day an administrative specialist for the Contracts Division. But, at leisure he becomes a massive hulk of human flesh striving to build his muscle tone and overall physique.

Juan Odum's four-day a week ritual of working out for an hour to an hour and a half recently paid its dividends in the form of making it to the finals in the South Plains Classic.

The South Plains Classic is only the second tournament he has entered; the first at Lackland AFB, Texas, in January where he finished fifth.

Odum says he started lifting weights about five years ago, but not on a regular schedule to stay out of trouble and get into "great shape." He explained that weightlifting helps clear the mind and it's not a bad way to let out your aggressive feelings.

Weightlifting took a turn for the more serious in September when he started thinking about competition. He went on to add that "you must have a good diet to make your training payoff." Living downtown he usually trains at Gold's Gym, but trains at Reese whenever possible.

Training for such a sport requires great concentration and that willingness to make certain sacrifices he said. Safety plays a big role too. Odum explained that when it is possible weightlifters need to have someone spotting when they lift heavy weights.

Odum recently turned down an invitation to the "Lone Star Classic" in Dallas because he wants to gain a little weight before competing again. He likes the idea of adding more strength to his already muscular body too.

And, while weightlifting competition and body building may be on the back burner, they are by no means forgotten. Odum plans to eventually make it to the Air Force powerlifting team. He has already set his sights on a return trip to San Antonio next year to compete in the Lackland Body-building Championships and return to Reese as the overall champion.

Reese's muscleman added that bodybuilding is not hard, "you just have to set realistic goals and then obtain them." For those considering bodybuilding or weightlifting Odum has two diet plans that he will help people adapt to their lives. His diets are for losing and gaining weight.

He has already helped establish diets for some of the people who have asked him to. If you have an interest in weightlifting or bodybuilding he indicated that the help is there, all you have to do is ask. His telephone number at work is Ext. 3177.
